Rochelle Man to Rogers.

H. E. Jones, formerly one of Rochelle's leading merchants, announces that he has decided to locate in Rogers, Bell county, Texas, where he will shortly engage in the general merchandising business. Mr. Jones and a brother have incorporated with $15,000 capital and have secured one of the most desirable business buildings in Rogers. They expect to be ready for business some time next month. Rogers is in a good crop district, and has already marketed some 2,000 bales of cotton.

Mr. Jones, for a long number of years, was manager of the business at Rochelle conducted under the firm name of G. W. Jones & Son. Their store and stock of merchandise were entirely destroyed by fire something over a year ago.

Messrs. W. W. Jordan and Sam McCollum Monday closed a deal whereby they take over the abstract business of W. T. Mr. Jordan has taken active charge of the new business, which will be continued for the present in the offices with the Melton Land Co.

After the first of the year the firm will engage offices for themselves and extend the business considerably. Both members of the firm are live wires and hustlers, and are sure to succeed in the business. Mr. Jordan has been connected with Melton & Co. for a number of years and is thoroughly familiar with every detail of the abstracting business, while Mr. McCollum is gaining prominence as an attorney, and will be in position to care for the legal end of the business.

COMBINE OFFICES.

U. S. and Wells Fargo to Have Joint Agent.

G. A. McAfee, local agent for the United States Express Co., last week sent in his resignation to take effect September 1st. The company, however, was very loath to dispense with Mr. McAfee's services and prevailed upon him to continue as agent until the middle of September, when it is thought they will be able to send another man to take the place.

It is persistently rumored that the U. S. and Wells Fargo express offices are to be consolidated, the joint office being in charge of one agent. This plan is known to be agreeable to the officials of both companies and it is thought the change will become effective the latter part of September. Just who will have charge of the joint office has not yet been intimated.

The plan of operating a joint office is to route all out-going express by the shortest route, unless otherwise specified by the party making the shipment. City deliveries will also be an appreciated innovation under the joint service.

Mr. McAfee states that he has been offered the position as joint agent, but is of the opinion that the work will be too heavy for him, especially now that he has engaged in the confectionery business, and he prefers to continue in the latter business.

SEE AUNT JANE.

Aunt Jane will be ready for business Monday, September 1st and when you see the doors standing wide open, remember it is an invitation for you to call. Come and see what we have to offer in fall hats.

WATCH YOUR BABY THESE SUMMER DAYS.

Little Stomachs Get Out of Order Easily in Hot Weather.

During the hot months mothers should look very carefully to the condition of the bowels of babies and young children, and, for that matter, it is very important in the lives of people at all ages. Care should be taken that the water is pure, the milk wholesome and the fruit ripe (though not over-ripe), and that not too much of anything is eaten.

When trouble results it is usually in the form of constipation or of diarrhoea. If the child loses appetite, is fretful or languid, and complains of headache, you may look for constipation. Give it a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and by morning this pleasant laxative will have acted and the child will be its normal self again.

At the first sign of a summer cold also give Syrup Pepsin, as the cleaning out of the bowels will usually be sufficient to break the cold. Summer diarrhoea can be stopped in the same way by ridding the bowels of the poisons and germs that cause the trouble. This opinion of the value of Syrup Pepsin is shared by thousands of people like Mrs. Ella Denzel, 124

Mothers, Have Your Children Worms?
 Are they feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy or constipated? Do they continually pick their nose or grind their teeth? Have they cramping pains, irregular and ravenous appetite? These are all signs of worms.
 Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt its mind and growth.
 Give Kickapoo Worm Killer at once.
 It kills and removes the worms, im-symptoms disappear and your child is made happy, as nature intended.

 Brady, Texas, August 26.
 Editor Brady Standard:
 Good morning to all this morning!
 How are the rest of you? It has been trying to rain here this week. It rained a good rain in West Brady, but barely sprinkled here Thursday.
 It rained a tolerably good rain here
 Friday, but not enough to say grace over.

The McMillan family is just getting along fine. They all have missed their fever but one of the little

 They have a nurse now, and she is about to pull them through. She is a Mrs. Perkins of Brownwood.
 Miss Artie Dyer and sister, Bessie, berlain of south of town were visiting seems to think there will be good cotton made out that way.

 news that their little granddaughter, Edna Maud Miller, was just doing fine as could be expected. She drank a teacupful of gasoline.

FREDERICKSBURG R. R.
PROMOTERS OF ROAD LOOK-ING BRADYWARD.

Three Routes Being Considered for Extension of New Road to North Says Pres. Love.

When the Fredericksburg railroad is completed as far as Fredericksburg the question of the proposed northern extension of the line will be immediately considered, and no time will be lost in putting the additional mileage on the ground. Such is a report from what is considered reliable authority.

R. A. Love, president of the San Antonio, Fredericksburg & Northern Railroad, has returned from a business trip East. He found awaiting him at the Gunter hotel, his headquarters, a mass of correspondence concerning the proposed extension. But what he intends to do Mr. Love wouldn't say, calling attention to his custom heretofore of not talking for publication until all his plans were completed.

He declared, however, that he completed satisfactory financial arrangements while away and that when the time comes he will be able to complete the extension without delay caused through financial difficulties. In what direction the new road will go Mr. Love says he does not know. It is known that he is considering three extensions.
 The first is northeast to Dallas and Fort Worth by way of Llano, the second is north by the way of Mason to Brady and Coleman to connect with the Santa Fe and Frisco lines and the third is northwest to San Angelo. The mileage in each instance will be approximately the same.

It is believed that in a few weeks preliminary surveys of each of the proposed routes will be made.

Work on the construction of the Fredericksburg road, he said is progressing in a most satisfactory manner, and no time is being lost. He anticipates no delays and expects to see trains running between this city and the Gillespie county seat by the middle of September. With the completion of this line into Fredericksburg no time will be lost in constructing the depots and terminals in that city.

The first annual meeting of the directors of the San Antonio, Fredericksburg & Northern Railroad will be held at the Gunter hotel Thursday and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Mr. Love is preparing to make San Antonio his permanent home, and in a short time Mrs.
 Love and daughter will move here from Kansas City—San Antonio Express.

BRADY, TEXAS, Aug. 29, 1913

ON THE BORDER.

R. A. Rutherford, Jr., who is making his home at Brownsville, on the Mexican border line, where he is engaged in the lumber business, sends us a copy of the Brownsville Daily Sentinel which contains the following editorial anent the situation along the border:

"It goes against the grain of an American citizen to hear of a refugee, seeking safety under the folds of Old Glory, speak disparagingly of that flag and yet prudence whispers that it is better under present conditions to pass such intemperate utterances by, not even dignifying them with so much as a local item. Superwise humanity may sneer, people with interests to serve may consider the local situation one to think of lightly, but calm reflection must lead to the conclusion that Brownsville is sleeping over a dangerous situation. There is not a city along the border with so small a force of United States soldiers, and at the same time there is not a place in the state which troops could not reach with greater despatch than Brownsville, and yet a mistaken policy of the war department decrees that all requests for aid shall be ignored.

It does not necessarily follow that providing against a possible emergency means a faint heart, neither does it mean that our officials are cowards when they demand protection promised them as a portion of the sovereign state of the Union. We believe the people of this city are in better position to judge of its needs than any transient army official, regardless of his experience and ability. The duly constituted authorities of this city and county, men in whom the people have confidence, have appealed repeatedly for additional troops, and they have been answered, if answered, with frivolous excuses. With Congressman Garner it may be said, "it is criminal negligence to keep troops away from Brownsville." No one is alarmed; no one is staying awake over the situation, but at the same time the people have a right to demand protection against any emergency which could possibly arise."

The town of Granbury in Hood county has evolved a splendid plan for making that the leading cotton market of the section, and one that should prove highly successful. The merchants and business men are offering $750 in cash prizes distributed in various sums to the farmers growing the largest number of bales upon different size tracts, the tracts ranging from ten acres to one hundred acres. Prizes also are offered for the largest number of bales marketed by farmers living within a radius of fifteen miles and a radius of thirty miles. The stipulations for winning the prize are that the cotton must be marketed in Granbury. In addition to raising the $750 for premiums, the business men have raised $250 for advertising the plan. Do you doubt its complete success?

The citizens of Coleman and Coleman county are making extensive preparations for their county fair to be held in Coleman on October 3rd and 4th. While they will have all the usual classes of displays, such as livestock, agriculture, art, education, culinary and home products they have in contemplation some really sensational attractions which they expect to be able to announce soon.

BROWNWOOD HOSPITAL.

Brownwood is to have a modernly-equipped, 12-room hospital if present plans are carried out, and there is every likelihood of this being done. The lot has already been purchased and plans for the building are being drawn. A staff of trained nurses is to be employed and a training school for nurses will probably be established.

The establishment of a hospital in our neighbor city recalls to mind that a hospital in Brady has been advocated at various and sundry times, but that little interest was aroused among the citizens and, if anything, some opposition was encountered. A record of the number of cases taken to Temple for treatment just during the present year would present some startling figures and would reveal the necessity for such an institution in Brady. been scarcely a week but what one or more patients have gone to Temple for treatment, and it has been facetiously remarked that the doctors there would feel lonely without someone from McCulloch county in the hospital.

The local physicians have shown their interest in the matter, and we feel sure they would co-operate for the establishment of a hospital in Brady if they could but be assured of the support of the citizens.

OUR HORN A TRUMPET.

Not a single city or county prisoner is in the jail. The doors stand wide open and the locks grow rusty from non-use. Come to Brady, the most peaceful city in West Texas—and to McCulloch county, the most peaceful county in the state.—Brady Standard.

A condition that the people of McCulloch county have cause to be proud of, and The Standard will be excused for strutting around and blowing its horn.—Fort Worth Record.

TRADES DAY.

Because of the inability of the committees appointed by the Commercial club to do the work planned for them, both the Trades Day feature for next Monday and the Merchants Trade Excursion have been postponed to some future date. This matter is to be sincerely regretted, both projects being of vital importance to the business interests of the city. There has been much interest among both the citizens and the merchants in the establishment of a regular Trades Day, and with the excellent beginning made on Dollar Day the plan could easily have been carried on in the establishment of a regular First Monday Trades Day.

The Trades Excursion is another feature that should have enlisted hearty co-operation from the start. The merchants of Brady should not wait for some individual or group of individuals to start the ball rolling and come to each and every one, hat in hand and with a bow and a scrape to solicit their co-operation. Let every merchant constitute himself a live-wire for the advancement of Brady's interests and results will not be lacking.

A Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our profound thanks to the good people of Brady for the many acts of kindness to our wife and mother during the severe ordeal through which she has passed. And we feel especially grateful to Drs. Anderson, McCall and McKnight, who so skillfully and successfully performed the operation, from which she is recovering, and for their very moderate charge therefor.

THANKS, AWFULLY.

Harry Schwenker, editor of The Brady Standard, was here for the fair last week and after showing him over the town, was surprised to know that there was a better town in Texas than Brady—though he would not acknowledge it. Harry is not only a newspaper man, but a winning ways attract the most like the sweet-scented does the honey bee, and he believe he would prefer to remain in Brady. He is the Menard Messenger.—Sen Saba Star.

Them's as nice sentiments, Cowan, as we ever hope to hear expressed, and denote that you recognize the truth at long range as well as upon close scrutiny. We did have a chance to marry once—a widow with five children—but we didn't fancy the names of the aforesaid children. Then again, we would rather have the naming of the children ourself, anyway.

A LAUDABLE ENTERPRISE.

Lee McShan to Form Retail Merchants' Association.

Lee McShan is engaged upon a laudable enterprise this week—the forming of a retail merchants credit association. The business will be known as the McShan Mercantile Agency, and in addition to furnishing the business men with a rating of the citizens of Brady and the Brady trade territory Mr. McShan will do a general adjustment and collection business. In the business Mr. McShan will be assisted by his brother, J. C. McShan.

The Retail Merchants Credit association is a much needed enterprise in Brady, and Mr. McShan has already been assured the hearty co-operation of a majority of the business men of the city. The plan has been operated with the greatest of success in Brownwood for the past year or longer and the merchants of that city are highly enthusiastic over it. In fact, Mr. McShan has received the strongest kind of endorsements of the plan from every member of the association in Brownwood.
The Retail Merchants Credit

association performs the same function for the local merchants that the Dun or Bradstreet agency performs for the merchants in the large city, viz: The compilation of statistics as to the responsibility and financial standing of every patron of the local merchants. In so doing it performs a valuable function not only to the merchant, but to the citizen who is entitled to special consideration from the merchants.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.
When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mr. G. Stengele, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "Over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

The Christian's Platform.

Christians are only temporarily, if at all, interested in the various political platforms. These platforms change from year to year, from generation to generation—here today and there tomorrow—no stability about them. Don't you want to become interested in a "platform" that was given to the world not by or from the wisdom of this world, but a platform of spiritual truths and principles, the obedience of which will give you a right to the tree of life beyond this vale of sorrow, sin and strife.

The platform of the Christian—what is it?

Do you want to know more about it? If you do, then come out and hear a faithful presentation of God's eternal truths by Evangelist A. J. McCarty beginning on Friday night, September 12th.

Come out and hear him—it will do you good.

WORKING THE BEES.

A New Wrinkle in the Making of Honey.

E. F. Seale, living three miles west of McGregor, was in town Wednesday and showed The Mirror force a jar of honey which was sent him from Bangs, Brown county, by his brother-in-law, W. V. Dunmire. The novelty about the honey was the manner in which it had been placed in the jar. It was deposited in the jar by the bees and came to Mr. Seale in this shape. Mr. Seale explains that the honey raisers are now arranging the bee hives so that the bees make their honey combs in the jars and all that is necessary is to seal the jars and the honey is ready to be shipped. A dozen jars are placed upside down inside the hive and the bees gain admission through a small hole which opens into the mouth of the jar. The bee deposits his supply of honey in the jar and goes after another load, and so on until the jar is filled. This is what we call working the bees in several different ways and somebody may say it is a lazy man's way of having his honey packed ready for market.—Mc-

Melvin Meeting Closed.

Our meeting closed Wednesday, the 20th. We had a great meeting; the Lord was with us in great power. We had twenty-nine conversions and forty-five additions to the church. I had the privilege last Sunday of leading twenty-four people down into the water and burying them with our Lord in baptism. Also Wednesday I baptized several more and have one awaiting baptism. Bro. H. P. Wilsford did the preaching, Bro. W. A. Middleton and wife conducted the singing. Our church is now on a higher plane and is ready to do great things of the Lord.

Polly's Pancakes

By Dorothy Blackmore

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Literary Press)

"It does seem too bad that some nice man doesn't find Polly," remarked Mrs. Earlington.

"She is destined for an old maid, my dear; I told you that long ago," her husband answered consolingly. "And the sooner she accepts the inevitable and stops struggling, the better."

"You're absolutely heartless, Frank, and Polly is the best friend either you or I have in the world, and you know it."

Mrs. Earlington's eyes filled with tears as she bent over her crocheting. She was a sympathetic little woman, and every time she thought of the difficult and lonely life of her dearest friend, Pauline Bates, her heart overflowed with compassion for the girl.

Pauline—Polly, they called her—did tutoring in and about the small village of Glenville, and most of her income was sent back home to support her widowed mother and two younger sisters. She was a wholesome, womanly, attractive girl, well out of her teens, and although every one, men and women, liked her, no man who was worth while seemed to have fallen in love with her. And yet there was not a girl in the little circle of young people in Glenville who would have made so admirable a wife.

Mrs. Earlington had known her for years, and the cozy home of the Earlingtons was always open to Pauline. In fact, as Mrs. Earlington frequently remarked, she didn't know how they could keep house without Pauline to call on. If the nurse were out, or ill, Pauline always managed to be on hand to help with the children. If the cook left, Pauline never failed to drop in to help prepare the meals. If Frank had to be out of town, Pauline came to stay with Mrs. Earlington. If the Earlingtons entertained, Pauline was the ever ready helper, for she played the piano, made a chafing dish supper, or did mere parlor tricks better than either the host or hostess.

"Frank, I want you to listen to me," began Mrs. Earlington, opening the subject again.

Her husband looked up from his rural journal. He was deep in the mysteries of how to prune fruit trees, but he suppressed a sigh and looked across the reading table toward his wife.

"I'm serious about Polly—we must find a husband for her."

"Did she say so?" asked the man, blandly.

Mrs. Earlington withered him with a look. "Does Pauline ever say anything foolish?" she asked.

"Not often enough—that's one of her faults."

"Her principal fault, so far as I can see, is being entirely too good and conscientious and capable for any mere man. No one appreciates her," retorted Mrs. Earlington.

Her husband rolled his precious magazine into a tube and frowned. "Well? What can we do? I can't go around the world dragging men out here to meet her and extolling her virtues. You know how a man takes to the sort of girl you have to do that for."

"Of course not—but there must be subtle ways of getting at it," Mrs. Earlington said vaguely.

"You'll have to do anything subtle that's done in our family, dear. I'm as far from being subtle as—as a blow on the head."

His wife did not hear him; she was thinking. Suddenly a smile flashed across her face.

"Polly is a grand cook!" she said. "But who knows it?" asked Frank.

"No one but you and me, and—her family, perhaps. Most of Polly's charms—if cooking may be called a charm—are hidden under the proverbial bushel," sighed Mrs. Earlington.

Her husband agreed with her.

"And I think—oh, Frank, couldn't you invite the boys and men of the choir of St. Paul's to a—we'll say, a pancake supper, and we'll have Polly make the pancakes?" Mrs. Earlington's eyes fairly danced at the prospect.

"I—could," Frank said, half-heartedly.

"You could very well. As a member of the vestry, it would be only natural that you show a little attention to the choir—especially before Christmas, when they are doing such good work."

"Very well, dear—it's your party. I'm willing. And what then?"

"You goose—Polly will make such delicious pancakes—it's one of her very best stunts—that the men will—well, you know a man when something appeals to his inner self."

"Yes—it isn't every wife who can make good pancakes or teach her cook to do likewise," admitted the man. "And I'm to ask the choir to a pancake supper—here—to eat Polly's pancakes?" he asked.

"Not at all—say nothing about Polly. That would spoil it all. Merely ask them to a pancake supper next Wednesday night."

In due form the choir of St. Paul's was invited to the Earlington home to eat pancakes and almost in a body it accepted. The small boys and the men were always glad of an opportunity to spend an evening in this hospitable little home.

Mrs. Earlington and Pauline were busy preparing the batter for the feast and a pile of hot plates was already on the top of the great range when the telephone bell rang long and loudly.

"Won't you answer, Polly, dear?" asked Mrs. Earlington.

Polly rushed to the phone, a glad light in her eyes. Her heart beat quickly as she took up the receiver. "Could it be he?" she asked herself, over and over.

For a few minutes she talked earnestly over the wire and when she returned to the kitchen a bright spot of red burned in each cheek. Mrs. Earlington thought she had never seen the girl so pretty. To herself, she commented that the combination of Polly's pancakes and her beauty ought to bring some one of the half-dozen unmarried men in the house to her feet tonight.

"I took the liberty of asking an old friend who has just come to town from back home—here tonight," Polly said.

Mrs. Earlington looked at her earnestly. "Why, of course, dear. Who is it?"

"Arthur Fisher—a boy I used to play with when I was little and—"

"And what, Polly? Why do you hesitate?"

"Well, when we were—oh, dreadfully young—I quarreled with him because he wanted me to marry him and settle down in that little town and keep house. I was ambitious and wanted to do something else in the world—then, I told him I couldn't keep house and wouldn't cook and—"

"And you blush because he's going to find you baking pancakes for a whole regiment of hungry men now? Oh, Polly, why didn't you tell me of this Arthur before?"

"I thought he had forgotten me until I had a letter from him the other day saying he would be in this neighborhood tonight. I wrote him that I would be here tonight and that if he came he might call me up. It would seem so good to see some one from home," she ended lamely.

"I think he's more than 'some one,'" Polly," said Mrs. Earlington, pointedly.

"Perhaps—but we must get these pancakes on the table. Isn't that enough to start on? I don't know how they are—I did not try them and I mixed the batter hastily," Polly said as she hurried into the dining-room with a platter full of round, hot griddle cakes.

She placed them before Mr. Earlington, whose wife had just supplied him with a pile of hot plates, and then—the doorbell rang.

Without ceremony, Polly rushed to answer it herself.

"You found the way?" was all Mrs. Earlington heard, and then, for a long minute there was silence.

Mrs. Earlington hurried to the kitchen, where she and the cook kept the griddle hot and tried to make pancakes enough to supply the hungry men.

Presently Polly returned to the kitchen—she had stopped to introduce Mr. Fisher to her host.

"Did—you need me?" asked Polly, innocently.

"Oh, no," Mrs. Earlington said, "the pancakes are of no consequence now," she said, with a meaning that was discernible only to herself.

Clean Paint and Good Health.
Great care should always be taken in the cleaning of paintwork and baths, especially as this is often neglected on account of the trouble and danger of discoloration and wearing of the paint which is caused by the use of strong soaps and unnecessarily hard scrubbing. There is an excellent cleaner now on the market specially made for saving labor, which at the same time preserves the paint, and should prove to be a great boon to a woman whose greatest aim in life is to see her house clean and the paint always spotless. It is also highly efficient for cleaning silver and plated ware, and answers a double use, and should always be in the store-cupboard.

Making a Guess.
Hard Looking Customer (slinking into pawnshop)—Say, how much can I get on this gold watch?

Plain Clothes Policeman (suddenly appearing)—Let me see it. It's—my friend, I think you'll get about a year on that.

Smaller Tips.
First Waiter—This paper says the wrist contains eight bones, the palm five and the fingers fourteen.

Second Waiter—Well, I never found five 'bones' in my palm."

OFF THE TRACK.

To add to Bunkerton's discomfiture in losing his way, he has now been brought to a standstill by the absolute impassability of the highway, and his temper, already sorely tried, finally gave way.

"What kind of people are you up here in this rotten old state?" he cried, addressing an old countryman who stood close by, inspecting his stranded car with curious eyes.

"I dunno," said the old man. "About the same ez most folks, I cal'late."

"Do you call this blankety blank scar on the face of nature a road?" roared Bunkerton.

"Not ez I knows on," returned the old man. "This here hain't the pike; it's Mose Whibley's traout stream run dry. I wondered what ye was drivin' up it for."—Harper's Weekly.

Not Reciprocated.

"How many children have you?"

"Three. Two grown up daughters and a son in college."

"How proud you must be of them."

"I am, but somehow or other I don't seem to be able to act so they can bring themselves to feel proud of me."

A CHEERING EFFECT.

Dinks—Hot weather doesn't appear to affect the doctor as in former years.

Winks—No, his uncle died and left him stock in the ice trust.

A Rare Bird.

There lives a man in our town whose like you seldom meet: The bright remarks his children make He never does repeat.

In a Department Store.
"See here, my wife had a rib broken at your bargain counter just now."

"We will reset it, of course, in our surgical department," said the polite floorwalker. "And if you are contemplating any other operations, now is the time to take advantage of summer rates. We remove the appendix, for instance, for $19.99."

Marvelous.

"Quick! I want to show you something remarkable. Do you see that little woman across the lawn—the one with the pink gown?"

"Yes."

"Take a good look at her."

"She doesn't impress me as being remarkable in any way."

"Wait till I tell you about her. She isn't afraid that she has a cancer."

Talking for the Lungs.
Bill—The capacity of the normal and unrestricted lungs is said to be about 27.3 per cent. more than those which have been compressed by the corset.

Jill—That's strange, when you think how much more a woman gets out of her lungs than does a man.

Plenty of Poetry.

"There should be poetry in life."

"Well, we get it in street cars, on billboards, on soap wrappers, and on the breakfast food. What do you want?"

SURE THING.

She (quoting)—Death loves a shining mark.

He—The doctor loves an easy mark.

The Grouch.

"Tis now the grouch with sneering air Decies the day because it's fair; And snarling at the cooling blast, Growls 'neath his breath, 'T cannot last!"

Not Satisfied.

"I am afraid your friend will not care for a glass of water here."

"Why not, since he is thirsty?"

"Because this is soft water, and I understand he is a hard drinker."

A Preference.

"Mrs. Stoughtone says she always sleeps on her front porch."

"Does she? I prefer my right side."

Dear Sir:—

Your letter of inquiry in regard to the listing of cotton in the Southern States Cotton Corporation received. Yes, I listed my cotton with the above corporation last year; have received 12 cents for last year's crop and they still owe script up to 15 cents. I had sold all of my cotton except about 40 bales before they began to buy. I let them have all I had left. Have contracted 500 bales this year; expect to contract more, or in other words all I make. I think it is the only thing in sight at present to keep the cotton gamblers from robbing us in the future as they have in the past.

Yours very truly,

Miss Mary Lee Mays delightfully entertained the Stitch and Chatter club with an all-day picnic at her home Wednesday, August 27th. Each girl furnished a part of the 12 o'clock spread. After a morning spent in rest and chatter on the shady banks of the creek, Miss Mays sent the girls to care for the horses saying she, with the aid of Miss Edith Morris, would have dinner ready when they returned.

This was some surprise, as they are not usually so eager to do all the work, but when they returned, sat down to the table and turned up their plates preparatory to eating, a card met their eyes announcing the marriage of Miss Nellie Jackson and Mr. Porter Cooke, September 22, 1913.

Congratulations and expressions of good will, together with the dinner, were next in order. Later in the afternoon bathing, boat rides and kodaking occupied all parties until time to return home.

City Marshal Jim Anderson returned yesterday morning from Brownwood where he had gone to bring back Misses May Moore and Eunice Wood, two Brady young girls who left home Monday and were out to see the world and have a good time. The girls picked cotton along the route and secured sufficient funds to board the Frisco train at Winchell for Brownwood, where they were enjoying themselves to their hearts' content when apprehended by the officers.

DAMAGING FIRE.

Fire, Smoke and Water Causes Loss in Brownwood.

A fire in the rear of the City Art store, corner Lee street and Center avenue, shortly after six o'clock Monday afternoon resulted in a fire and water damage of about $1500 to the City Art store, the Underwood Typewriter Co., the Miss McHutchon millinery store and the Greenwood Printing Co. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

The greater part of the damage from the fire was caused by the inability of the fire department to see where the fire was, on account of the dense smoke, which poured from the three buildings. There is no fire wall between the buildings, and after the firemen had cut a hole thru the roof of the art store and began throwing water there, the water ran back over the other two buildings, and through the ceiling on the stocks below. The blaze was soon extinguished without a great damage to the building.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Baby Beef.

Coleman, Texas, August 27.—The first Baby Beef club ever organized was set in motion by J. E. Boog-Scoot at the little town of Burkett in Coleman county. Now they are preparing to go one better by bringing together the largest array of Baby Beef ever shown at a county fair and possibly the largest ever shown anywhere.

There are seventy-five boys in the county feeding calves for the show under the instructions of the state department of agriculture. Others not affiliated with the state organization will probably enter the county contest.

In this class the Coleman county fair, Oct. 3rd and 4th, is offering premiums aggregating $317, divided into twenty-four premiums, besides ribbons and honors.

ACTS ON THE LIVER.

Dodson's Liver Tone Lives Up to the Liver—Is More Than a Mere Laxative.

Calomel was for years the only known medicine that would stimulate the liver. But calomel is often dangerous, and people are not to be blamed for being afraid of it.

Within the last few years many medicines have been put out to be used instead of calomel, but their effect is on the bowels—not on the liver. Jones Drug Co. says that the only real liver medicine to actually take the place of calomel is Dodson's Liver Tone, a mild, harmless, vegetable liquid that Jones Drug Co. recommended to take the place of calomel and which gives prompt relief in cases of constipation, biliousness and sluggish liver.

So confident are Jones Drug Co. that they give their personal guarantee with every fifty cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. You can be sure that you are getting Dodson's by asking at this store if they are giving you the medicine they personally guarantee to refund money on if unsatisfactory.

Rally at Howard Payne.

Howard Payne college at Brownwood is in the midst of a big rally at present. The rally is an idea evolved by the new president of Howard Payne, J. M. Carroll, the plan being to invite the attendance of four representatives, including the pastor, from each Baptist church within a radius of 150 miles, all expenses of the representatives being paid by Howard Payne. An elaborate program for the two days of the rally has been prepared, and the visitors will be shown the excellencies of the Howard Payne equipment and facilities.

Representatives from Brady Baptist church are Rev. W. G. Caperton, pastor; Tom King, representing the church; Mrs. J. C. Koerth, representing the Sunday school; Mrs. S. W. Hughes, representing the Ladies Aid. Miss Lucile Yantis accompanied the party, which left on by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear, or the perfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. This case out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure, used for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. EXTRA AT AIRDOME.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Remarkable Feats in Hypnotism, Legerdemain, Etc.

Brady show-goers last night witnessed one of the most remarkable performances ever seen here in the presentation of a series of illusions, sleight-of-hand performances, card tricks that were amusing, mystifying and inexplicable. Such tricks as producing an egg from an empty basket, marking a named card rise out of a glass at command, and a number of others. That crowning feat of Kellar, the great magician, whereby a lady is suspended in mid-air, her only support being a slender rod placed under one elbow, was duplicated to the astonishment of the audience. The Crystal Palace mystery was, however, the most wonderful of all. After building an air-tight glass case before the eyes of the audience and showing it to be perfectly empty, the case was placed under a cover for but an instant, and when the cover was removed there reposed within the case a charming young lady.

If you have any solution to offer for these mysteries come out tonight and tomorrow night and let the audience hear them, and incidentally enjoy a clever show and some extra good moving pictures.

Engine Derailed.

The Frisco morning passenger was about three hours late Tuesday, owing to a derailment near Stephenville. The accident occurred just as passenger train No. 6, north bound, pulled into Stephenville. No one was injured and but little damage was done, the train going at slow speed at the time of the accident. A wrecking crew was sent out of Brownwood and the damage was soon repaired.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

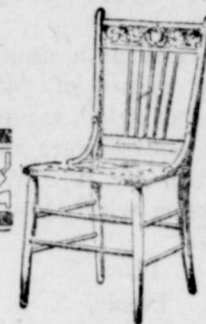

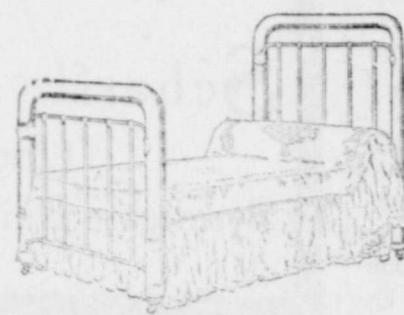

When Will Brady People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first; But if you find 'tis from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles may follow; That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end. You will be glad to know the following experience.

'Tis the honest statement of a resident of this locality. Mrs. Nannie Berry, Coleman, Texas, says: "I was bothered by kidney trouble for several years. When I got so bad that I could hardly move, I had a touch of rheumatic pains and my feet often swelled. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and I have never found any other medicine that gave me so much relief. I am rarely troubled now, and never so bad that a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills won't bring relief. I take pleasure in telling my neighbors of this medicine."

DOES YOUR SON PLAY FOOTBALL ?

Think what a poor chance he would have if his frame work was so recklessly put together as some of your furniture. It is hard now-a-days to keep the standard of furniture.

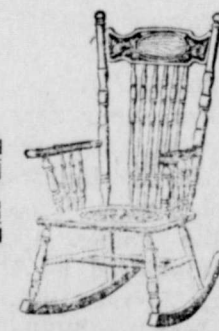

The cost of living is so high that we naturally try to save in every possible way, and nearly all of us have to content ourselves with lower priced furniture than we would like to buy.

Furniture manufacturers who make good, substantial furniture are not common. Yet, we make it our business to get in touch with the few uncommon ones, and that's why all furniture from this store is distinctive—in good taste and built to last. We have just gotten in two cars of this furniture. One car of iron beds alone and the biggest car we ever saw of chairs, dressers, tables and other kinds of furniture, and we are here to deliver the goods both in quality, quantity and PRICE.

We can deliver the goods, and furniture that is not only well built and serviceable but handsome in appearance, and best of all, reasonable in prices.

Iron beds that we used to sell for $12.50 we now sell for $9.00. Dressers that sold for $15.00 now sell for $12.50. Rockers that sold for $4.00 now sell $3.50. Rugs we used to sell for $12.50 we now get $10.00 for; and everything else in proportion.

If you are in need of anything in our lines, we would be pleased to have you call. It don't make any difference if you don't buy, we are glad to show you.
