WOODS PLEADS GUILTY.

Fort Worth Banker Will Be Sentenced in March.

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 26.—M. L. Woods pleaded guilty to five counts of false entry and misapplication in connection with the disappearance of $165,000 from the State National bank when his trial was resumed in the Federal court Tuesday morning.

The first count was dismissed on motion of United States District Attorney Wilson. A motion to quash the fifth count was sustained by Judge Meek at the Monday afternoon session.

In the meantime Woods will be allowed his liberty under the bond made, now in effect. After reading the indictment, to which Woods answered "guilty," Judge Meek formally continued the case until the first day of the March term. The illness of Woods' daughter, Miss Josephine, in a California sanitarium, was said to have been one of the reasons the agreement was hurriedly reached.

The defendant has agreed to make a truthful statement to the officers of the State National bank regarding the transactions alleged in this indictment and also to explain in detail the plan by which they were made to the special government accountants who have been unable to solve the methods of the deals. There are many mysterious things in connection with the case the government is interested to know.

The defendant has agreed also to be at the demand of the government to go before any grand jury to make a full and complete statement of the accounts in time for the formal plea of guilty to be made at the March term.

Representative Tarver of Corsicana, member of the defense counsel, suggested the court take cognizance of the fact that Woods has surrendered property worth approximately $70,000 to the State National bank. "This includes his homestead and everything else he possessed," Tarver explained.

Buy's Blacksmith Business.

Louis Baker has purchased the interest of C. R. Alexander in the blacksmith shop and will take charge of the same on next Monday, continuing the business at the same stand. The business is one of the oldest and best established in town, and is sure to prove a profitable investment for Mr. Baker. John Mayse, who has been Mr. Alexander's right-hand man for the past several years, will continue as assistant to Mr. Baker.

Mr. Baker will move his household effects here from Eden next week, and he and his family will again take up their permanent residence among us.

Mr. Alexander has not yet decided upon his future course, but will remain in Brady indefinitely. He has been engaged in the blacksmithing business in the same place for over eleven years, and during all that time it was a rare occurrence for him to go farther than five miles from the shop. Consequently he is sure to enjoy his earned rest.

WIN FROM BROWNWOOD.

Brady Basket Ball Team Wins Thanksgiving Game Handily.

The Thanksgiving basket ball game between the Brady and Brownwood high school teams resulted in Brady's favor, the girls winning easily by a score of 45 to 25.

The game was a hard-fought one throughout, but the Brady girls showed superior form over their opponents at all points, and almost from the first it was Brady's game. In team work the Brady girls excelled most noticeably, and their playing reflected credit upon the training of their coach, Miss Bess Whitehead.

At the end of the first half the score stood 18 to 11 in Brady's favor, and the end of the second half showed Brady leading with 45 scores to Brownwood's 25, Brady having scored eighteen times from the field and nine times from the foul line during the game, while Brownwood scored eleven times from the field and three times from the foul line.

What Is Woman's Beauty But Health

And the Basis of Her Health and Vigor Lies in the Careful Regulation of the Bowels.

If woman's beauty depended upon cosmetics, every woman would be a picture of loveliness. But beauty lies deeper than that. It lies in health. In the majority of cases the basis of health, and the cause of sickness can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headaches, the lassitude, the sallow skin and the lustreless eyes are usually due to constipation. So many things that women do habitually conduce to this trouble. They do not eat carefully, they eat indigestible foods because the foods are served daintily and they do not exercise enough. But whatever the particular cause may be it is important that the condition should be corrected.

An ideal remedy for women, and one especially suited to their delicate requirements, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of women endorse highly, among them Mrs. C. S. Vance of 511 S. Ray St., New Castle, Pa. At times she had spells of indigestion so severe that she thought she would die. Syrup Pepsin regulated her stomach and bowels, and she attributes her excellent health today to this remedy.

All the family can use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for thousands of mothers give it to babies and children. It is also admirably suited to the requirements of elderly people, in fact to all who by reason of age or infirmity cannot stand harsh salts, cathartics, pills or purgatives. These should always be avoided, for at best their effect is only for that day, while a genuine remedy like Syrup Pepsin acts mildly but permanently.

It can be conveniently obtained at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. You will find it gentle in action, pleasant in taste and free from griping, and its tonic properties have a distinct value to women. It is the most widely used laxative tonic in America today and thousands of families are never without it.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Editor's Note—During the past several weeks a number of correspondents have requested information regarding the standing of each in the contest. We fully intended to comply with these requests, but rush of business prevented. Now that the contest is so near to a close, we believe it best to wait until the last week before printing the standings. Let every correspondent express their preference in their next letter among the writers during November.

In order to refresh the memories of all in regard to the rules of the contest, we reprint them herewith: "Contest will start with first issue in February, and for every letter sent the correspondent will be credited with five points. At the end of each month, and in the first letter for the following month the correspondents will cast their vote for the best letters of the preceding month, each vote to count an additional five points. The contest will close Friday, December 19th, and prizes will be sent as Christmas gifts as follows: First prize, for the largest number of points, $2.50; second prize, for the second largest number of points, $1.50; third prize, for the third largest number of points, $1.00."

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles. Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

LOST CREEK ECHOES.

Voca, Texas, November 24th. Editor Brady Standard:

The warm springlike weather of the past two or three weeks is causing the rescue grass and winter weeds to get a good start. Stock is grazing just like spring of the year. It looks now as if stock will winter with very little feed.

Owing to the big rain the first of the week Messrs. E. L. White, county superintendent, Mr. Nance, organizer of farm institutes, and the county demonstrator failed to reach Lost Creek Friday night, as was announced. However, they did visit the school Friday and made some good talks to the school and the demonstrator succeeded in organizing a Boys' Corn Club, with some eight or ten boys. They made very flattering compliments on the school, saying the Lost Creek school was the best school they had yet visited. There is a reason—and that is that teachers and patrons all work in harmony for the advancement of education.

How to Use Peruna for Coughs and Colds

If Peruna were used at the beginning of every cold, coughs would generally be prevented.

After the cough begins Peruna will generally stop it just as quickly as it ought to be stopped. To stop a cough before all of the expectation has been removed is to do great injury. After the expectation has been properly removed the cough will stop itself. That is the only proper way to stop a cough.

Occasionally a cough depends upon an irritable condition of the larynx or bronchial tubes in which there is little or no expectation.

The problem of stopping such a cough is a slightly different one. Even in those cases Peruna ought to be taken, but sometimes it is necessary that local treatment be added.

Every one who has a troublesome cough or a lingering cold should write the Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free copy of the "I'lls of Life." There is no free pamphlet distributed to-day of more real value to the sick and afflicted than the new "I'lls of Life." It is filled from cover to cover with actual cases of cough, colds and other climatic diseases in all stages and complications. You could scarcely fail to find your case exactly described in this book.

To neglect to do everything possible to get rid of a stubborn cold or chronic cough is very unwise indeed. Peruna has enjoyed a great reputation as a remedy in such cases for thirty or forty years. As a rule, a person who uses one bottle of it is always afterwards an enthusiastic advocate of Peruna. Peruna itself is a means of selling more Peruna than all advertisements put together.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

AFTER SICKNESS OR OPERATION

It is a pathetic mistake to accept drugs or alcoholic mixtures when nature craves nourishment to repair the wasted body and restore the vigor of health.

Says the Memphis Commercial Appeal: "The postmaster of a Virginia town has resigned his job because his receipts amount to only two cents a day and his pay is fixed on the volume of business." It has been our desire to scourge every Republican out of the postoffice temples, but it may be best to prove generous in victory. Albert, suppose we turn this office over to them.

Every few weeks some man breaks into his plans by taking bichloride of mercury tablets through mistake. It always has been difficult to keep babies from filling up on carpet tacks, rat poison, pins and such things as will so easily upset the digestion of a young child, but when a man develops a tendency to shove everything he gets hold of into his mouth he had best tie his hands behind him and let somebody feed him such stuff as he usually needs. One of the greatest faults of humanity is putting things into the mouth that do not belong there, and letting things out that should have been kept on the inside.

Dear Readers of The Standard:

It has been quite a while since I wrote you from this remote quarter of the globe.

The open season for killing deer is over and I am glad of it, although it is very nice to have a nice venison to eat, yet when we come to consider what it costs each year in sacrifice of men's lives I would be glad if they would stop hunting for game entirely. Three of my neighbors have been shot. One of them died and the other two will be crippled for life.

About four years ago it is claimed that thirty-two men in the state of Oregon were shot for deer and bear. So long as it was called an accident people passed it by. But it got to be so common that some mistrusted it was unintentional in some instances, and our legislature made it manslaughter to shoot a man for a deer. But still they keep doing it.

The open season for killing closed November 1st, and on the last Sunday in October four young men from town were out here hunting, and only a few miles from here, and one of them shot at a deer and the ball crossed a deep canyon and struck his cousin, who was sitting on a rock resting, and shattered his leg just above the knee. He was a young merchant of Gran't Pass named Herman Schmidt. His cousin was a clerk in the grocery store. Last year three men were sitting in a yard talking when all at once the man of the house tumbled over in the yard. The other two picked him up and found that he had been struck on the side of the head by a spent bullet. The party who did the shooting was so far away that none of the men heard the report and it was never known who did the shooting. He was evidently on the opposite side of the mountain and more than a mile away.

These two instances are purely accidental, but when a man shoots at the glimpse of a man in the brush it is pure carelessness.

The last week in October one man in an adjoining county only a few miles from us, shot and killed his brother, mistaking him for a deer. Only a few years ago our nearest neighbor's son was the victim of a careless partner in a hunt and was killed. Also a man with a black coat on, while climbing over a big log, was mistaken for a black bear and shot off the log, and as he rolled down the steep mountain side the fellow fired three more shots, every one of them taking effect, literally riddling his body.

I am actually afraid to go into the hills to look for stock for fear some careless fool takes me for a deer or a bear.

In conclusion, if any of The Standard readers desire I will take pleasure in sending you any natural curiosity or product of this remote region if you will furnish the postage. Yours for a joyous Thanksgiving.
O. I. C. U. R. RIGHT.

Pain in the Back and Rheumatism.

Torment thousands of people daily. Don't be one of these sufferers when for so little cost you can get well rid of the cause. Foley Kidney Pills begin their good work from the very first dose. They exert so direct an action on the kidneys and bladder that the pain and torment of backache and rheumatism and kidney trouble is soon dispelled. Jones Drug Co.

"If a man could only fall like a cat and land on his feet every time, this world would be a happier place." "No doubt; but if a man wouldn't take so many more chances than a cat does he wouldn't fall so often."

Johnny White believes the first and most important duty of a new brother-in-law is to read The Brady Standard—and accordingly sends the paper to F. R. Wulff at San Francisco.

Purple Patches.

BOOSTERS.

Says A. B. Reagan: "If the citizens of McCulloch county would only boost one particle as much as do the folks of South Texas they would have immigration coming this way instead of going that way."

And Mr. Reagan has been there; has been one of the boosters; and KNOWS.

If you will take a moment to study you will have to agree that the South Texas folks are boosters—wonderful boosters. The daily papers are continually flooded with reports of the early fruit and vegetables of SOUTH TEXAS, of the progress, growth and development of SOUTH TEXAS communities. Rarely do they contain booster articles on WEST TEXAS. That's where the South Texas enterprise scores a point.

The postmaster at Brady—any McCulloch county postmaster—will tell you of the flood of advertising circulars that come to the office—that's SOUTH TEXAS advertising.

Let the folks of CENTRAL WEST TEXAS arise and join hands in a boosting campaign. Let's sing the praises of our home land. Get rid of that grouch; lend a hand. We want boosters, for boosters are builders and builders are needed in Bradyland.

NO SABB.

The Brady Standard tells us: "You will always find Brady citizens in the lead." This is not always a mark of enviable distinction. They might be leading a retreat.—Cracks Callan.

No doubt a typographical error. Callan meant to infer that the Brady citizens "might be leading a retreat." Or did he mean to a "re-treat." Printers most always make us say something else than what we intended.

Engravers to Their Majesties—The People

HERE IS A LESSON.

McCulloch county and the town of Brady have jointly purchased a rock crusher and have under consideration the purchase of a road roller to be used in road grading in the county. McCulloch county is setting an example that other ambitious counties might well take notice of—Coleman Voice.

Ballinger has the crusher and the roller, and every day it stands idle is just that much time lost. With the unlimited supply of road building material roads in this county could be built at a cost so low that it is folly to delay.—Ballinger Banner-Ledger.

The Banner-Ledger reads a lesson worth heeding. Of what use can valuable machinery be so long as it is permitted to lie idle, to rust and fall to pieces from disuse. The man who would buy an expensive machine and allow it to stand idle would be considered foolish indeed—such policy would be business suicide. Should not the same be true of a city or county?

Let's get our road drags out and make them look slick and shiny from hard use, and when we get the rock crusher let us see how many hours of labor we can crowd into each day and how many days into each year—that's what makes the dividends on the investment.

Boost with us on Trades Day—we're going to boost some.

The latest entry in the gubernatorial sweepstake is Ferguson, a chestnut sorrel from Temple. He is a banker, and in the good old days would stand for a husky overdraft. This ought to make his candidacy popular.—Del Rio Herald.

ABOLITION.

Let's abolish the unsightly, unsanitary and "backwoods" hitching place about the square and make it a beauty spot and a joy to behold.—Brady Standard.

By all means abolish the hitch racks from Brady's front yard. There is never as much objection from the country people to "cleaning up the public square" as some timid town folks expect. The country people are reasonable in this as in most other matters. They wouldn't appreciate the town folks coming out to their houses and hitching horses under their noses day after day. Provide a convenient hitching place away from the square, then restrict the latter to its proper uses. Nobody will object to the inhibition of the live stock, unless it is someone who is like the man who was raised in a barn and always got homesick when he saw a horse-fly.—Dallas News.

By all means are we not only going to rid the square of the hitching racks, but by granny we are going to have that square lifted clean or should we say clear) out of the mud.

SOME PRINTING OFFICE ETIQUETTE.

Few people know it, nevertheless it is a fact that in printers' etiquette it is considered ill manners for visitors to loaf in the mechanical department of a printing office, or to talk loud and boisterously while you have business in the office. There is hardly any business connected with a printing office that cannot be transacted in the front office, but if you must see an employe then call for him and have him come up to the front. If you insist on going back into the mechanical department then call to one side the individual you have business with, transact the business as quickly as possible and retire. Don't prowl around the shop, prying into the work of the printers, reading their manuscript and querying into the details of their work. The work of the printers is private until it appears in the paper outside the office, and besides that, printers are very often engaged in doing special or personal work which the owners desire kept intact and for many other reasons everybody ought to post themselves on print shop etiquette.—Hamilton Record.

BROTHER TOM'S WIFE

By BELLE MANIATES.

My brother Tom has a most beautiful country place, a charming little wife, and my young nephew, Edgar, I simply adore; yet for one reason, and one reason only, I am averse to visiting them. My sister-in-law has a match-making mania, and she is disconsolate over the fact that, in spite of her strenuous efforts and house parties in my behalf, I am still "unspoken for."

She makes her motive so very apparent to the luckless victim and to the onlookers, that from very shame I must needs be coldly aloof, and discourage any attentions.

But today when I read her letter urging me to come to Homewild for the month of August, I muttered, for there was the inevitable postscript: "Oh, Allene, Tom has invited the dearest man in the world—next to himself—to spend the month with us! We met him when we went west last winter, although Tom used to know him long ago in college. He's just your sort of a man."

My sort of a man, indeed; I don't know, myself, what sort that may be. I sat down in a white heat of anger, and laid bare my pent-up feelings to Nan.

I received in reply such a dear little note from Nan. She was so sorry, and she would not match-make any more. She and Tom had reconciled themselves to the idea that I was heart-whole and fancy-free, and would probably remain so, so I telegraphed that I would start tonight.

When I reached the little station near Homewild, my heart failed me at beholding, in waiting with Nan and Edgar, a man, big and brown. He was introduced to me in a careless way by Nan as Mr. Saltern. I was reassured when she bade Edgar occupy the front seat of the touring car with him, and she and I took the back seat.

"Who is he?" I asked, in a forbidding way.

"Only Edgar's tutor," she replied. "The lad got so behind in his studies last year when he went with us, that Tom engaged this man to coach him."

We had a lovely evening. There was a soft misty rain—what Edgar called a "drizzle-drazzle," and we all spent the evening within. Mr. Saltern seems to be quite an amiable fellow. He is such a strapping, manly fellow, I shouldn't think tutoring would be his line.

I never had such a delightful week at Homewild. Such a quiet, restful time. I am studying Spanish with Mr. Saltern and Edgar. We three go on excursions together. Edgar explores the woods and the river while his tutor and I sit on a fallen log, and he reads Spanish.

Tomorrow is my last day at Homewild in peace and comfort, for Nan has invited some people down. I shall continue to devote most of my time to Spanish, however, as I am making such progress, and enjoy the study so much, but it won't be quite the same with curious people about. We are going for our last row on the river tonight.

We went far up the river last night, and drifted back. He didn't have to row. The light from a moon of pale orange shone deep down in the river, and somewhere off in the wooded shores, a man's rich tenor voice was ringing forth, the notes falling with caressing cadence. We were talking seriously about life, and the end of my visit, and then, I don't remember how he told me, but the orange moon, the lights in the river, the soft lapping of the water against the boat, the distant song and what he whispered to me were all blended into one beautiful whole.

After awhile he talked seriously again, this time about himself and his—I mean our—prospects. It seems he has a big business, but it has come to a standstill pending the issue of a lawsuit, and in the meantime he is tutoring Edgar. In the fall he will be in position to go on with his business, and at Christmas I am going to his home with him.

I told Nan this morning while he had gone to the station with Tom to bring back the guests. To my surprise she was greatly pleased. Then she looked a little frightened.

"Oh, Allene, I don't know how to tell you, but he isn't Mr. Saltern. He isn't Edgar's tutor—don't look so stern, dear, but he is—"

"Jim Wilde, Tom's friend," I replied, calmly.

"Oh, Allene, how did you know? He told me he hadn't confessed yet."

"Tell me first why he is here in cognito."

"He was here when your awful letter came, and I didn't know what to do. I read it to Tom, and he just roared, and handed it to Jim, and they fixed up this scheme. It wasn't my plan. I felt guilty, but you were having such a good time, I couldn't spoil it."

And so, after all, I had a match made for me by my sister-in-law.

Thanksgiving Observed.

Thanksgiving day was more universally observed in Brady than ever before, practically every store in town closing for the day, and the streets and town taking on a Sunday appearance. Even The Brady Standard force, which heretofore has never known a holiday excepting Christmas closed. This will serve as an excuse for the lateness of this issue. Union services were had at the Baptist church in the morning.

The boys started for the Johnny White ranch Saturday afternoon in the former's car, intent upon bagging a brace of turkeys apiece. The farther out they got the muddier they found the roads and when, at last, they reached the ranch a slow, steady rain set in with no appearance of a letup for a week. Seeing their plans set at naught they determined to return, and so started out on the road to Menard, the automobile splashing through mud and along roads that looked like small rivers. Despite all handicaps they made it almost into Menard, when a nail punctured a tire and caused them to spend about an hour changing the tire. The appearance of the car as it came splashing through the mud into Menard created somewhat of a commotion, and the boys had a time making the natives believe they had actually negotiated the trip. Leaving the car in Menard until fairer weather, they returned via the Frisco passenger.

Near-Accident.

Horace Winstead happened to a near-accident Wednesday shortly after dinner that very near had serious results. Just after he had crossed the railroad tracks on the Coleman road enroute home one of the horses driven to his buggy became frightened and in lunging forward broke the single tree. This permitted the tongue to drop into the mud, breaking it off, the broken end threatening to overturn the buggy with every lunge of the team. With clear presence of mind Mr. Winstead held onto the lines and succeeded in calming the horses. In the buggy with him were his daughter and two neighbor girls, and their escape from serious injury may be considered almost miraculous.

Snaky!

This is a story of snakes! In other words a snake story. It concerns chiefly Rev. D. R. Hardison who, with a party of Bradyites, spent Thanksgiving day at Callan. While out looking for rabbits, Rev. Hardison stumbled upon a diamond rattler, which he neatly dispatched with a shot from his gun. As he stooped to examine the prize he heard the whir-r-r of another which he served in like manner. After killing four of the reptiles, he decided the woods were too snaky for him and going back to the house notified the rest of the party, who accompanied him to the spot. Then followed the slaughter. Twelve rattlesnakes ranging from seven to sixteen rattles were the total result of the warfare—and the rattles are on exhibition in Bro. Hardison's pocket for the benefit of the skeptically inclined. The largest of the rattlers was about the size of the calf of a man's leg—excepting the very biggest, which—like the fish—got away. This last monster was estimated to have fully twenty-five rattles. The cartridges had given out and in attempting to kill it with a stick, Rev. Hardison fell sprawling. It was hard to tell which was the more scared—the snake or the man. The former slid into its hole with the rapidity of greased lightning, and the latter backed off with more haste than grace.

GIRLS! THICKEN AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.

Bring Back Its Gloss, Lustre, Charm and Get Rid of Dandruff.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair, but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

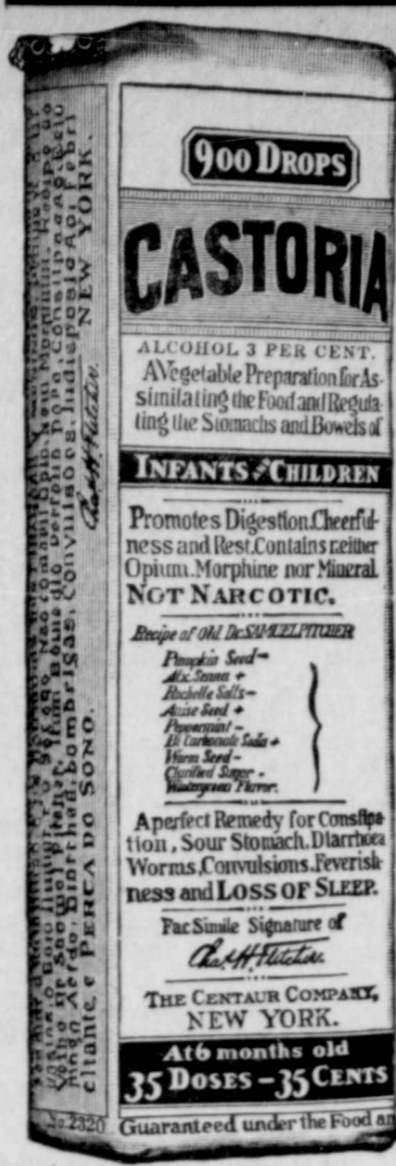

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

He is contemplating rounding them into A1 shape with corn during the next week or so. Oats out his way are growing wonderfully, but they will hardly have time to make, and in the meantime it is too wet to pasture.

Miss Lucile Yantis arrived Wednesday from Waco where she is attending Baylor university, and will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wulff, who visited in Brady several days incident to attending the wedding of their son, F. R. Wulff, to Miss Laura Lee White, returned Wednesday night to their present home at El Paso.

W. R. Rice leaves tonight for Fort Worth and Dallas, from where he expects to go to Elkhart, Ind., on a business trip in connection with the Crow-Elkhart car for which Mr. Rice now has the local agency.

Mrs. Mary Robeson and little daughter, Mary Wood, after a visit of the past month with the former's cousin, Mrs. W. H. Balou, have gone to Corpus Christi to make their home. They will stop in Temple for a visit of a few days while enroute.

Walter McKee, who was so badly injured a week ago by a seventeen foot fall from the S. A. Conley home, is reported mending very slowly. His right leg and his back are still paining him considerably, and it is thought it will be several weeks yet before he will be able to be out.

Messrs. M. L. Bailey and W. M. Campbell were here this morning enroute home to Waldrip, having just returned from Fort Worth where they were on good behavior during the stock show. The reason of their good behavior is accounted for by their having had W. D. Walker along as chaperone. Just because they stood for it we are going to put their names in this issue.

Sandwiches and Coffee.

Will be served by the ladies of the Catholic church on next Trades Day, Monday, December 1st.

More Rain.

Wednesday afternoon we had more rain.

Last night we had more rain.

We are having sunshine today, but we may have more rain.

This isn't a prediction; this is a surmise.

It beats everything how the rain keeps up—falling slowly and gently, but falling nevertheless. Above Brady a heavy cloudburst was had and this morning Brady creek is on a big rampage, the rise amounting to about thirteen feet and covering the flats above town and the Dutton grove as well.

A CASE OF SUSPICION

By ELLIOT WALKER.

When the serpent of suspicion struck its poisonous fangs deep in the ingenuous heart of William Darley, he lost no time.

Few men were better known or more thoroughly respected in Hardhaven, than William Darley. He was pleasant, appreciable, simple of speech and manner, despite his large means.

His placid, light blue eyes held a contented twinkle; his fair beard and hair set off the rosiest of his round face; his comfortable figure invited a pat on the arm or back from his intimates. Strangers smiled at him, involuntarily.

He liked a joke; even an outrageous pun made him laugh. No one envied his money, his position in society, or the lovely golden-haired wife whose cheeks and eyes outshone his own in sparkle and love of fun.

It was Lucy Darley who introduced Reginald Wand to Hardhaven. "The brother of an old schoolmate," she explained.

That was sufficient for Hardhaven, including William Darley. His wife might have introduced the devil himself without a question from her dotting husband.

However, there was nothing Mephistophelian in the appearance of Reginald Wand, unless it was his extreme darkness of complexion, hair and eye, and the blackness of his beauty only heightened his attractiveness.

Wand was a handsome youth, full of high spirits, gallant to perfection, with a low, thrilling voice, and a form of remarkable shapeliness, albeit he was barely of medium height.

William Darley, who dealt in real estate and securities welcomed the boy cordially, and forgot him. He was a little too youthful for William. His wife, with a motherly air, apparently much amused over the anxiety of this arrival to meet the best charming young woman of her set, led him about as though he were a prize dog to be admired and petted, which he presently was.

Reginald Wand took the best bachelor apartments at the best hotel. His habits were excellent. An occasional cigarette, a glass of wine cautiously sipped, were his only departures from strict propriety. He mingled little with the men, but treated them all most courteously.

The women raved over him. He was full of engagements, flirting harmlessly, and having a new admiration every week.

Yet he called dutifully at the Darleys almost every day, in the early afternoons. He had much to recount to Lucia Darley of his doings. She laughingly retailed the most amusing of them to William.

Lucia Darley alone showed some relief at his going. Of late she had been very quiet, and more than ever devoted to her husband. A month later she confided a secret to William, at which he was overjoyed, for the stork had so far passed them by. It proved to be a boy.

When the gratified man saw the child, he glanced at the weak form on the bed, and went softly out of the chamber.

In his agonized ears the remark of the nurse rang mockingly. "Such a head of hair, and so black."

With awful deliberation William Darley set to work. He had but one thought. His brain with lightning clearness traced back the months. The address of Reginald Wand? Yes—it was the city of B—in the state of New York. He remembered even the street number.

In his library he unlocked a desk drawer, took out a revolver, and put it in his pocket. It was made for work, this heavy weapon; not play. He gnawed down the impulse to laugh loudly, and touched a button on his desk.

"One of the nurses, Abe," he said, steadily, as the butler stood smiling. "Yes, sah! Congratulations, sah."

"Thanks!"

The tidy professional nurse came promptly.

"How is she, Miss Laird?"

"Very weak, sir."

"Any danger?"

"No, that is she must be carefully tended, see no one at present, hear nothing exciting for a few days. Her heart isn't as strong as it should be."

"Then I can go away on business?"

"As well as not, Mr. Darley," returned the woman, cheerily.

Darley pressed a hand over his working mouth as the woman left the room.

"Lucia, too," he gloated. "I shall confront them at the eternal bar of justice. We three! Ha! The shock will surely kill her."

He felt curiously strong and settled now. It would be a mysterious murder, a suicide, and a sudden death. So he chuckled, deep in his throat, this simple, gentle natured man, transformed by the despair into another being.

A quiet departure, a mechanical journey, the arrival at his destination, all accomplished stolidly, even as a convict is transferred to his place of execution, with no hope in mind save to meet without flinching a horrible, but inexorable issue.

Darley ate, smoked, read the papers with slight comprehension of their contents, even took a hand at whist with three strangers, and played accurately. A dull, numb sleep came to him at midnight. He awoke, less weary in body, with his resolution more clearly determined.

And when, at last, he stood before the house of his seeking, an uncanny calmness entered into the man. He felt sure of himself and his victim. A dazzled glance at the door plate, half readable in the morning sunshine, assured him further. It was the house.

Darley rang three times, waiting patiently in the intervals, his card in his hand.

Arranging his revolver handily; the moment Reginald Wand appeared that moment should be his last. Darley waited.

A window on the floor above flew open. A head and part of a body craned over the sill.

William Darley looked up and saw. He saw the face of Reginald Wand and—something else. Half disclosed by the careless drapery showed a smooth, rounded neck, and below a glimpse of that which no man has ever displayed.

He heard, dimly, a low shriek, half frightened, half laughter.

"Oh, Mr. Darley. Don't look! I thought it was a telegraph messenger."

The shutters slammed, but the familiar voice kept on.

"Tell me, quick! Is it about dear Lucia? Has she—"

"Yes," uttered Darley, in a thick, vacant grunt, like a drunken person trying to find words. "A little boy."

"Do wait until I'm dressed. Where are the servants?"

"Don't know! Can't wait!" ejaculated Darley in the same tone. "Business trip. Train. Gotter run."

He staggered down the steps, jamming at his hat.

"Run!" Violet Rand, the madcap girl, who had won her expensive bet that she could masquerade for two months as a man, without detection, peered after him. "Run! Why! he is scarcely able to walk. I suppose William had to celebrate. Bless him! To think of his coming to tell me at this hour in that condition. Well, I'm glad it's over."

And she went back to bed.

Darley's mother-in-law embraced him vigorously as he entered his domicile. He seemed very nervous and impatient, although he hugged the old lady and laughed, almost dancing.

"I came as soon as I could," she said. "My dear, he is the image of his grandfather. He was a very dark man, you remember."

"I don't recollect much of anything," quoth William Darley. "I want to see my wife."

"You can't."

"My baby, then."

"Of course. Come along!"

"Such a tender-hearted man!" whispered Miss Laird to the other nurses, as Darley moved away from the bassonette. "He simply couldn't keep from coming right home. Why, he shook like a leaf when he kissed the baby, and I declare, the foolish creature was considerably over the verge of tears."

"Considerably," agreed her assistant. "That man wouldn't harm a kitten."

Served 'Em Right.

Norman Haggood, the editor-reformer of New York, was talking about a political mutineer.

"Such fellows," said Mr. Haggood, "ought to be served as Dr. Steenthly served his congregation."

"Dr. Steenthly, on a sultry September morning, preached with sincerity and vigor a sermon that he had prepared with great pains.

"But, for all the force of his argument and delivery, the good doctor was much vexed to see that a large part of his congregation slept. Several of his leading parishioners even snored."

"Dr. Steenthly, at the end of his discourse, pounded on the lectern, and, when all were at last awake, he said, very frankly and mildly:

"My friends, this sermon cost me a great deal of trouble, and I don't think you have paid it the attention it deserves. I shall therefore repeat it. My text I take from—"

"And for a second time Dr. Steenthly preached his sermon from beginning to end."

The Way We Live.

Mrs. Hannah Greensides, who on her ninety-ninth birthday calculated that she had slept 365,000 hours of her life away, indulged in a higher proportion of sleep than was allowed by Sydney Smith when he made a similar calculation. His son-in-law, Sir Henry Holland, notes in his recollections that "Sydney Smith, addressing a young lady, said: 'Do you ever reflect how you pass your life? If you live to seventy-two, which I hope you may, your life is passed in the following manner: An hour a day is three years. This makes twenty-seven years sleeping, nine years dressing, nine years at table, six years playing with children, nine years walking, drawing and visiting, six years shopping and three years quarreling. I have heard him similarly estimate for himself the portion of life he had spent in shaving, always a long occupation with him.'"—London Chronicle.

Joked With Christian Names.

Some parents seem unable to resist the temptation to make a joke with the Christian names of their children. The Somerset House (London) registers testify to the existence of a Mineral Waters, a Frosty Winter and an Alfred Day Weeks. There is something to be said in favor of naming children in the order of their arrival—Primus, Secundus, etc.—but it is unfortunate for a well-known Canadian named Cumber that it should have fallen to his lot to be Quintus. His name is always appearing in the papers as Mr. Q. Cumber.

Miss Esther Reed of Pear Valley is now making her home in San Angelo and orders her Standard changed to the new address.

This May Be the Reason. "Why is it that so many people keep on getting caught in mining swindles?" "I think it must be because there is always somebody around who is willing to accept money from others who think the more apparent a swindle is the less likely it is to prove what it seems."

Tatum Gressett, who is now living in Comanche county, sends in his renewal just to let us know he can't get along without the paper.

J. H. Huey has ordered The Standard sent to Miss Mattie Huey, who is teaching music at Millersview this year.

Well Answered. When he once asked a London class of girls, added Dr. Macnamara, what they would say if he told them he saw the sun rise in the west, he got the reply that it was impossible. "But," he persevered, "supposing I still declared I had seen the sun rise in the west?" "Well," one of the girls at length replied, "I should think you must have got up rather late."

H. A. Martin knows just how to make us happy. You ought to learn his secret.

For Miss White.

One of the most brilliant social functions of the season was that at the home of Mrs. S. S. The Graham home was beautiful in decorations of white and yellow chrysanthemums, and the afternoon sped all too quickly for the assembled guests. Games of "500" and "42" furnished the diversion of the afternoon. Miss Chase Crothers receiving the prize in the former, while Mrs. John Wall made high score in "42." As a remembrance Miss White was presented with a silver sandwich plate by the members of the club.

Refreshments consisted of a salad course.

Thanksgiving at Callan.

Quite a number of Bradyites spent Thanksgiving day at Callan, where they were guests of Una Hardison. The afternoon was spent in hunting and various other forms of amusements, the party returning on the night Frisco.

Included in the party were Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Hardison, Messrs. and Mesdames G. C. Kirk, S. A. Benham, Blaylock; Mrs. John Wall; Misses Pearl Davenport, Clara Wilhelm, Louise Hardison; Messrs. W. B. McKenzie, John Mayse, Marrion Hardison, Howard Campbell, Clarence Snider, Julius Rasmussen, Una Hardison.

Complimenting Miss White.

Miss Laura Lee White was honoree at a beautiful party tendered her on last Saturday night by Miss Chase Crothers, the pretty Crothers home being made even more attractive for the occasion by decorations of chrysanthemums and roses.

A series of "500" furnished pleasurable excitement for several hours, Miss Gillie Macy receiving high score in the games.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS.

Brady Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Brady citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney illness, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Brady citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit? C. V. Globber, Brady, Texas, says: "For many years I was troubled by a dull ache in my back and across my kidneys. I consulted a doctor and he pronounced the trouble lumbago. He gave me a prescription, but it brought no relief and I tried other remedies without help. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and procured a box. Before long I noticed that the trouble was beginning to leave me and after taking two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was cured. I haven't lost a day from work since."

and being awarded a picture as prize. Mr. Chas. White received gentleman's prize, a necktie. The guest of honor was favored with a cut glass vase.

Refreshments consisted of croquets, beaten biscuits, ice and pickles.

Numbered among the guests were Messrs. and Mesdames B. Simpson, Chas. White, Johnny White; Misses Gillie Macy, Ida Mae Souther, Harriet Cook, Elizabeth Souther, Addie Conner, Haydie Willoughby, Esther Anderson, Nan Fisher of Shelbyville, Ill., Anna Roby of Coleman and the honor guest; Messrs. Duke Mann, H. W. Lindley, Walter Caldwell, Wiley Walker, Jamie Brook, Broady Ogden, Harry Schwenker, Max Scharff, Alfred Reissner.

White-Wulff Nuptials.

(Contributed.)

One of the most beautiful weddings ever witnessed in Brady was that of Miss Laura Lee White to Mr. Frederic Roderic Wulff on Tuesday evening of this week.

At 5:30 o'clock the spacious drawing room of the White home was filled with guests. At 6:00 o'clock our ears were greeted with the sweet strains of Schumann's "Traumeri," played by Miss Anna Roby of Coleman. She drifted from this into the beautiful accompaniment of "I Love You So," sung with such sweetness and feeling by Mrs. H. K. McCully of Fort Worth.

The bridal party was then heralded by the majestic strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride came down the broad stairway on the arm of her brother, G. R. White. She was gowned in an exquisite embroidered chiffon en traine, draped in point de Venice lace with trimmings of pearls and orange blossoms. The veil was of maline with cap and flowing cape of point de Venice with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses, with a shower of lilies of the valley.

They were met at the altar by the bridegroom, attended by J. E. White. The wedding party stood under a graceful arch built of trailing smilax, ferns and chrysanthemums.

Rev. D. R. Hardison of the Christian church officiated, using the beautiful ring ceremony of the Episcopal church.

The happy couple was congratulated by more than one hundred guests.

On going away the bride wore a traveling suit of blue broadcloth. Before leaving for the station she ascended the stairway and threw her bouquet into a bevy of charming young ladies. It was caught by Miss Ida Mae Souther. The bachelor's present then decided they would like to know who among them was to be the next benedict, so the bridegroom threw the bouquet to them. Mr. Si Colton was the fortunate man.

During the evening a two-course buffet luncheon was served in the dining room. The reception hall, dining room and living room were elaborately decorated in yellow chrysanthemums.

The presents were displayed in the living room. It would be impossible to name or describe them, they seem so numerous and beautiful. Silver, cut glass and miscellaneous, all handsome and useful. A bride could not have received a better selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Wulff left on the 8:00 o'clock train for Los Angeles, Del Monte and other resorts on the Pacific coast. They will be at home after January 1st at The Kensington, San Francisco, Cal.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Wulff of Torreon, Mex., Miss Anna Roby of Coleman, Mrs. H. K. McCully of Fort Worth, Miss Nanna Fisher of Illinois.

Shooting at Lost Creek.

Quite a deplorable occurrence took place Tuesday night in the Lost Creek community near Voca, when I. W. Worsham shot at Joe Woods, the charge of buckshot tearing one finger away, knocking out one tooth and otherwise injuring the latter. From accounts of the affair it seems that Woods, who is a son-in-law of Worsham, had been for some time making himself objectionable around the latter's place, and his actions finally led to the occurrence above mentioned.

Nervous and Sick Headaches.

Torpid liver, constipated bowels and disordered stomach are the causes of these headaches. Take Dr. King's New Life Pills, you will be surprised how quickly you will get relief. The greatest advantage a steel range ever had over other stoves, was its quick baking. But the enemy to the life of a steel range was rust. HEADACHY, COSTIVE BILIOUS—"CASCARETS."

Liver and Bowels Are Clogged—Clean Them Tonight! Feel Bully!

Get a 10 cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10 cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

GENERAL FARMING TRAIN.

Interesting Information Regarding Santa Fe Special.

Concerning the general farming train which will be here next Tuesday, December 2nd from 11:40 a. m. to 1:40 p. m., the following letter from R. J. Kennedy, colonization agent, will be of interest to Standard readers:

"We want to make every effort possible to give this train publicity and to convey this information to the farmers and in fact to everyone who might be interested in obtaining better results from the farm. We are sending out posters and circulars, and fliers are being distributed in each of the towns where train will stop, in addition to letters to real estate men, merchants, commercial clubs and others interested.

"The train will contain about eight or nine cars, six of which will be used for exhibit purposes. There will be two cars of model silos and silo equipment, such as feed cutters, silo fillers, etc. One car will contain dairy cows and dairy equipment, such as separator, milk tester, churns, milk coolers, cans, pails, milk record sheets. The cows will be led out on a flat car for demonstration purposes. A large baggage car will contain a great many different varieties of chickens, ducks, turkeys and geese, and also a display of poultry equipment, incubator, brooder, drinking fountains, feed hoppers, egg testers, egg cartons and samples of feed. There will also be a domestic science car, with lectures to tell the ladies and girls about home canning and preserving and home management.

"Mr. J. D. Tinsley, Santa Fe Agricultural Demonstrator, with headquarters at Brownwood, who has had considerable experience with silos and dairying, will lecture on that subject. Mr. H. M. Bainer, who is in charge of the demonstration work for Santa Fe in Northwest Texas, will talk on "Better Tillage Methods and Seed Selection," and Mr. L. L. Johnson of Amarillo, an experienced poultry man, will talk on poultry and the best methods. The domestic science car will be in charge of Misses Amanda Stoltzfus and Frances Lowen, of the Division of Home Welfare of the University of Texas, and they will give lectures to the ladies and girls on home canning and preserving, and home management.

"The train will stop about two hours at each station and time will be allowed for the people to see the exhibits before the lectures begin.

"As our interests and the interests of the farmers, merchants and in fact everyone tributary to our line, are mutual, we wish to have as large crowds as possible at these meetings in the hope that they may derive some benefit from modern methods and ideas of farming and all incidentals thereto, and I will appreciate it very much if you could give us some assistance through your paper by giving some of the above details to your readers in a story of the train."

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines.

If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia, use cough medicines that contain opium, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. It cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative. Wet Weather Happenin

The excessive rainfall past few days worked a number of peculiar occurrences. One of the freaks was the rain apparently at least, of Sunday. During the downpour the cereals walks about to ally covered with doubt the worms fly to their homes leg making their flig dryer ground.

The wet weather springs are again coursing down Blackburn street, and the same phenomena is noticed in several other places about town.

At Bluff Pens, about three miles west of town, the moisture caused the railroad cut to cave in a number of times. Monday morning the Santa Fe train was delayed by a huge boulder which blocked the right-of-way. It was found necessary to hitch a cable from the engine to the rock and drag it off. Monday night's Frisco was similarly delayed, a rock about the size of a small house covering both tracks. The cavein was serious enough to delay the train from 7:50 p. m. until 2:10 this morning in arriving at Brady. A number of Brady passengers aboard walked the distance to town.

WHY NOT GET A GUARANTEE?

Every Article of Merit That I Sold These Days is Guaranteed—No Guarantee Often Means Poor Quality.

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been "stung" on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, but today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatisfactory.

An excellent example of this kind of fair dealing is shown by the clean-cut guarantee that Jones Drug Co. gives on Dodson's Liver Tone.

These people tell us that any person who pays 50c for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and does not find it a gentle and most pleasant liver tonic, harmless, but a sure reliever of constipation and a perfect substitute for calomel, can get his money back just as quick as they can get it out of the money drawer.

Dodson's Liver Tone has practically taken the place of calomel. It is absolutely harmless, sure in its action and causes no restriction of habit or diet. No wonder the drug people are glad to guarantee it, while other remedies that imitate the claims of Dodson's Liver Tone are not guaranteed at all.

T. Smith came all the way from Lohn recently just to let me get him from a perfectly dollar.

There will be services at the Baptist church Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock and Sunday night at 7:15 by the missionary, Rev. C. R. Joyner. Everybody invited to attend these services.

W. H. Dial is spending several days in Brady meeting old friends and admiring old McCulloch county. Mr. Dial came down from Sterling City to San Angelo and Brownsville on business, and could not get by the opportunity to come to Brady. He states that it was raining when he left Sterling City and continued to rain all along the way to Brady. He states that the old settlers in his country report that country in better shape than it has been for six or seven years. Grass and stock are both fine.

LIVE LOCAL LINEUPS IN RUSTLING ROCHELLE

From the Record.

A. Oliver and family moved last Monday to the Carroll Colony west of Brady. We regret very much to lose this excellent family from our community.

The Frisco construction crew is quartered at this place this week doing some bridge and general repair work on the road between Rochelle and Hundley.

Measurements were taken Wednesday with a view to having a new roof to replace the present one on the school house. The contract for the work was let to O. D. Mann & Sons of Brady.

To date the Williamson gin has ginned 908 bales, and this, with the 841 ginned by the Stone gin prior to their closing down some three weeks ago, makes a total of 1,749 bales thus far for the season. The ginning season is nearly over here for this year.

J. C. Renfro, a live wire of Rochelle, recently sold the telephone exchange at Lohn and Stacy to a Mr. Bowie of Eldorado. This exchange belonged to Messrs. Jones and Hall, and was valued at $17,500. The deal consisted in a trade for land and livestock near Eldorado. Mr. Bowie took charge immediately upon the trade going into effect.

GALLAN CONCOCTIONS FOR MAGNIFICENT MENARD

From the Messenger.

Oscar Westbrook was over from Brady Sunday.

Dick Marsden was over from Brady the last of the week.

Paris Williams was a Brady visitor in Menard Saturday.

Dr. McKnight was over from Brady Monday taking in trades day.

About 3000 people from the surrounding country met on our streets last Monday and helped make Menard's first Trades Day a success.

A good barrel stave, a hand saw and several cords of wood, backed by parents might keep that boy from loafing on the streets, smoking cigarets and making slang remark to their elders.

Marriage license have been reduced to 50 cents in San Angelo for thirty days. It appears to us that folks who can't pay the full price had better let them alone until they can at least rake up enough money to pay for the ceremony. It would stop a lot of divorces if the price was raised to ten dollars so some people could never marry.

A Painless Headache.

SAN SABA SAYINGS

From the Star.

San Saba is becoming one of the most important turkey markets in the state. W. O. McCully, our enterprising produce dealer, bought between 1800 and 2000 fine turkeys the past week. The amount paid out for them was $2500.

Hon. James L. Slayden will be a candidate for re-election to congress from this district, and, notwithstanding the fact that one or more have announced as candidates against him, Mr. Slayden will be returned to the national capitol. He is one of the ablest and most conscientious men in the United States congress, and the people of this district will continue to elect him so long as he offers for the place.—Lometa Reporter.

From the News.

Mrs. Joe Hamrick was here from McCulloch county Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Mitch Johnson.

The government statistics for cotton ginned in San Saba county as compiled by the government agent, Alex Miller, to November 1st shows a total of 8,534 bales for 1913 against a total of 8,582 for the same period of 1912.

Ranchmen say they never saw the grass as fine and growing as nicely so late in the fall of the year. People who had no grass at all during the dry summer months now have ample and that which is fine. The pasture are all green and the bottom rescue grass is great. San Saba is coming to the front in more ways than one.

A deal was closed Tuesday by which W. C. McBride sold his moving picture business to Jas. F. Dofflemyer and S. L. Kirk, and the new managers took charge immediately. Mr. McBride has been in the business in San Saba for the past year and has built up a nice business. He likes San Saba better than any town in which he has ever lived and has not decided yet what he will do, but it is certain he does not want to make a move. The new managers of the moving picture opera house are popular young men of the town, they are energetic business men and the high standard of the show is assured.
