BRADY'S OPPORTUNITY

TOURIST LOOP HIGHWAY MEETING AUGUST 13.

A Turn in the Tide of Affairs—Good Roads Arteries for Flow of Business Activity.

The annual meeting of the Puget Sound to the Gulf Highway association will be held at Brady, one week from next Friday, August 13th.

As in the affairs of men, there comes a tide in the affairs of a town, which taken at its flow leads on to success, so on the success of this meeting much of the future success of Brady depends. The meeting Friday week is a good roads convention; good roads are the arteries through which flow the life blood of business and every business man, citizen and farmer in this section should attend and take part.

As a demonstration of the fact that one of the best towns in Texas, as well as a health resort, exists along the route of the highway, more than twenty-five of the best business men of San Antonio have pledged to attend the Brady meeting. So, let Brady prepare to entertain when she entertains, for the benefits of the establishment of this great tourist route will equal if not exceed the advent of a new railroad.

At least five days will be required and 450 miles covered by the delegates to the Brady meeting in making this trip, the purpose of which will be an inspection of the "Big Loop" highway, with a view of learning the best road, so they can recommend it to winter tourists this season.

The San Antonio party will leave for Brady on Thursday, Aug. 12, stopping at Boerne, Waring, Fredericksburg and Mason enroute, arriving in Brady at 1 p. m. Friday, Aug. 13.

During the afternoon the annual meeting of the Puget Sound to Gulf Highway association will be held and an all night stop made by the party. Following is the itinerary of the trip:

Thursday, Aug. 12—Leave San Antonio 8:00 a. m., arriving at Boerne 10:00 a. m. Arrive at Waring 11:40. At 12:30 the party will attend a picnic dinner on the Guadalupe river, arriving at Fredericksburg at 5:30 p. m., where an all night stop will be made.

Friday, Aug. 13—Leave Fredericksburg 7 a. m., arriving in Mason at 10:00 a. m. Leave Mason at 11 a. m., arriving in Brady 1:00 p. m., where an all night stop will be made.

Saturday, Aug. 14—The party will leave Brady at 8:00 a. m. for Paint Rock, where they will arrive at 12:00 noon, arriving at Merita at 3:30 in the afternoon. Saturday night and Sunday will be spent at San Angelo.

Monday, Aug. 16—Arrive at Sherwood at 10:00 a. m.; Merton 11:30 and Ozona at 5:30, where an all night stop will be made.

Tuesday, Aug. 17—Arrive at Comstock at 2:30 p. m. with the night spent at Del Rio.

Wednesday, Aug. 18—A trip of 60 miles will be made to Eagle Pass, arriving at 11 a. m., where the Southern National convention will be held.

Thursday, Aug. 19—Arrive at Eagle Pass 3:30 p. m. with night stop at La Pryor.

Friday, Aug. 20—Arrive at Uvalde 9:30 a. m.; Sabinal 12:00 noon; D'Hanis 2:00 p. m.; Hondo 3:30 p. m.; Castroville 5:30 and San Antonio at 9:00 p. m.

This trip is being made for the purpose of establishing a loop of about 425 miles out of San Antonio, that the winter tourists can use and enjoy all winter while visiting here, and our local people will enjoy it during the summer months, making two tourist crops per annum that the people along the route will harvest. Provided, of course the roads are put in good condition.

Two speakers of national reputation and one government, and several business men and their families are in the party coming, also a press reporter and photographer. Their object is to be of as much assistance as possible to all the communities along the route, holding good roads meetings in every town scheduled.

ROUSING MEETING

YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE BUSINESS LEAGUE.

Eighty-One Members Enrolled Last Night—Membership Committee at Work.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the young business men of Brady at the Airdome last night it was definitely decided to form a Young Men's Business League to succeed the defunct Brady Commercial club, which untimely demise occurred some two months ago. The meeting was characterized by a spirit of unity and fraternity which was good to see and portends one of the most successful commercial organizations in this section of the state, and the young men promoting the work are most sanguine of their success in the undertaking.

The meeting was called to order by Sam McCollum, and the following temporary officers chosen: Sam McCollum, chairman; S. M. Richardson, secretary, after which rousing talks were made by Rev. T. P. Grant, former secretary of the Brady Commercial club, W. D. Crothers, D. F. Savage, Judge Joe A. Adkins and others, in which the necessity of a commercial organization was forcibly presented. Each of the speakers emphasized the fact that there never was a time in the history of Brady when the need of a commercial club was so apparent as at present, and each pledged himself unreservedly to the moral and financial support of the new organization.

The next speaker called upon was Secretary E. E. Kirkpatrick of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, who came over by special invitation for the meeting, bringing with him three other of Brownwood's liveliest wires—President F. W. Greber of the Chamber of Commerce, District Attorney Walter Early and Attorney Mark McGee. At the outset, Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that a feeling of genuine regret had been experienced by the entire membership of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce when they learned a few months ago, of the demise of the local club, for the reason that when a commercial club within a radius of 100 miles of Brownwood ceased to exist that that much territory was dead territory for their organization. In a clear and concise manner he presented the imperative need of a commercial body for Brady if she hoped to thrive in the future as in the past, and paid the town a pretty compliment when he said that in a number of instances in the past Brownwood had been forced to put forth her best efforts to beat Brady to some coveted prize which both were seeking. In closing his talk Mr. Kirkpatrick called for questions from any one in the audience on any phase of commercial club work.

Following Mr. Kirkpatrick, Attorney Mark McGee made a short talk along the line of commercial club activities in Brownwood, telling of some of the many good things which had been accomplished there, and the possibilities for good that confronted the local club. He interspersed his remarks with some humorous reference to the other members of the Brownwood party and kept the big crowd in an uproar from the start.

The next speaker on the program was District Attorney Early, who began his talk by "getting even" with Mr. McGee and then some, and wound up by telling the crowd of some of the good things that could be accomplished by a local club composed of the citizens and business men, headed by the young and enthusiastic class of young business men such as was to be found in Brady.

The speechmaking was concluded by a talk by Mr. Greber, who gave some excellent advice pertaining to commercial work, and assured those present that any assistance which could be rendered by the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce in furthering the interests of the local organization would be cheerfully given.

A motion to go into permanent organization was then put before the house and unanimously carried, after which a committee composed of C. A. Trigg, M. S. Sellers and S. M. Richardson was appointed to enroll the names of all those present who wished to identify themselves with the club as charter members. A total enrollment of eighty-one names was reported by the committee.

A membership committee composed of Messrs. B. L. Malone, Howard Broad, A. Reissner, Duke Mann and M. S. Sellers was appointed by Chairman McCollum to canvas the town today for additional members. It is thought that this committee will be able to bring the list to a total of 200 or more within the next day or so, after which a meeting will be called for the purpose of selecting a board of directors, and steps taken to secure a competent secretary.

Before adjournment a rising vote of thanks was extended to Messrs. Kirkpatrick, Greber, Early and McGee for their as-

HELPING ONE ANOTHER.

The small town or city that affords a desirable market for crops, livestock, fruit and vegetables has solved the problem of keeping money at home. It is only necessary then to keep staple trademarked, advertised goods that sell at the least cost, the prices of which are practically the same everywhere.

Farmers can not trade till they sell their products for cash, they can not employ legal services, patronize the business men of town, unless the town wants the trade of farmers bad enough to buy the food products raised at home and sell as cheap as business men of other towns and cities. Business men who buy canned fruits, butter, eggs, etc., from other and distant markets when farmers near by have an abundance have no claim on local trade.

Why not get together. Farmers are in business, producing and selling food products, merchants and other business men are in business to supply farmers what they do not produce. To patronize each other is of mutual benefit; to refuse when each sells at market prices means an economic loss.

Every dollar made on the farm is a dollar more for legitimate business, every dollar's worth of goods sold in the town is a dollar more for products which farmers raise. Every dollar sent from home injures both. Cooperation builds both town and country. Lack of it may injure your own and build up other localities.—Ex.

DISABUSE YOUR MIND.

The London, England, Times, which is very close to the English cabinet and throne, suggests a splendid solution of the cotton problem. It says England should keep cotton out of her opponents' territory and at the same time hold up prices to the American cotton growers, by buying outright this fall and storing in the South until the war is over the full amount of cotton other nations ordinarily take in times of peace, and then declare cotton contraband. Ill feeling has gradually been growing toward England owing to her bulldozing American marine efforts, killing United States coastwise trade through the Panama canal, and her late attitude toward cotton, the effect of which is reflected in the injury of business men, farmers and laborers alike until it is felt another knot in John Bull's tail might be a fitting adornment. Past history amply proves that England has outwitted and made a by-word of American diplomacy, that her most sincere profession of concern for America contains a subtle joker venomous in the extreme to our commerce, and that where she concedes a penny she exacts a pound. The Times suggestion is a virtual acknowledgment that England has and is maintaining a commercial war against America and the formal declaration is the embargo on cotton. At first flush many thoughtlessly attribute the Times suggestion to a desire to befriend the American farmer. This is most arrant tommyrot. The facts are that for six months before the war Germany outwitted the world by making immense imports of raw munitions in the shape of cotton from this country. For out of this cotton all of the available horses in Canada have been sent across the water. When peace is declared a great number of horses will be required for her farms. Australia has sent practically all of her available horses to the war. In England nearly one-half of the farm horses have been taken for war. France was very short of horses at the beginning of the war, as Germany canvassed both France and Belgium before they suspected anything. Russia, according to the latest reports, is reaching the limit of her great home supply. Germany and Austria, we are told, are suffering more for horses than any other countries at the present time. Many of their famous cavalry regiments have been changed to infantry. This great war has destroyed horses to an extent that the average mind cannot comprehend. Horses have died like flies. South America has been canvassed for war horses. Practically every section of the world where horses are produced to any extent has helped to furnish cannon-fodder. Army officers are now buying range horses in great quantities. A bright future certainly awaits like any user. Certain brands he ruminates with very little relish, but it wouldn't be fair to the manufacturers to tell those brands.

THE CROSS.

God laid upon my back a grievous load,
A heavy cross to bear along the road.

I staggered on, and lo! one weary day,
An angry lion sprang across my way.
I prayed to God, and swift at His command
The cross became a weapon in my hand.

It slew my raging enemy, and then Became a cross upon my back again.

I reached a desert. O'er the burning track
I persevered, the cross upon my back.
No shadow was there, and in the cruel sun
I sank at last, and thought my days were done.

But lo! the Lord works many a blest surprise—
The cross became a tree before my eyes!

I slept; I woke, to feel the strength of ten.
I found the cross upon my back again.

And thus through all my days, from that to this,
The cross, my burden, has become my bliss;
Nor ever shall I lay the burden down,
For God some day will make the cross a crown!

Germany has been enabled to manufacture ammunition to last it for years, when without it that country would have been left to only a supply for eight months. Not until the shipments from various ports of the South doubled in a month; not until it was discovered that Germany was paying big premiums for cotton shipments, not until it was seen that feverish haste was being employed to stock the country with American cotton was the British parliament and the London Times awakened. This, not philanthropy, initiated the above plan. And while it matters little whose gold purchases the cotton, should the plan fail, England will once more have earned the ill will of the business men, farmers and laborers of the South. An embargo on cotton is commercial war on a neutral nation. Removal of the embargo means open ports, high prices and good business in the South.

WORLD'S HORSE SHORTAGE.

Better Time Never Existed for Horse Breeders.

From all appearances we do not believe a time ever existed when there was a better prospect for horse breeders than now. Breeding operations in Mexico have been at a standstill for several years. Canada has been and is buying our horses by the carload. Since the war practically

The lumber industry in the South represents many millions of dollars in the business of the States in which the lumber plants are situated.

Materials which were formerly regarded as waste are utilized for making many things of importance to the people of this country.

Paper, boxes, shingles, staves and other articles have been added to the products of the mill which formerly produced only planks, etc.

In the organization of this vast industry every available means for reducing waste has been studied with great care. It is natural to find that the largest lumber plants in these States with the most complete organization are using

WOULDN'T CHARGE FOR BED

Place to Sleep Must Be Furnished Free, Was the Code of the Lumberjack.

Difficult as the life of a lumberjack in the backwoods may be, it is partially free from certain onerous and irksome customs peculiar to civilization proper.

"I boarded at the house of a fellow lumberjack during my brief experience of three weeks in the backwoods," said an ex-lumberjack. "It was an informal arrangement, to say the least. I did not even know the price I was to pay for the living accommodations in this isolated household, and something in the very atmosphere forbade me to ask. I took it for granted that I would get a square deal.

"When the time came for my departure I asked the host for my bill. 'How many meals have you eaten here?' he asked.

"I should say that I ate about three meals per day for three weeks," I replied.

"Miss any?" he demanded. "Possibly two or three," I ventured. "Our charge is 15 cents per meal," he said. "My wife keeps tab on all the meals et, so I will ask her."

"On consulting his wife's accounts, which were kept by means of a very good memory, it developed that I had consumed a few meals less in the aggregate than the total daily quota for three weeks. I paid for them.

"Now, what do I owe for sleeping accommodations?" I asked. "I have occupied a bed and room for three weeks, you know."

"My host stared in amazement and demanded:

"Do you mean it?"

"Of course I mean it," I replied. "In the eastern country where I come from a man's lodgings usually cost about the same as his meals. I presume it is the same here."

"I should say not!" he retorted sharply. "Nobody in this part of the country is mean enough to charge any body for a place to sleep!"

BONAPARTE AS A CENSOR

French Emperor Suppressed Almanach de Gotha, Which Mentioned Deposed Princes.

The German Almanach de Gotha published two editions in 1808, and the first of these, which was suppressed by order of Napoleon, is now worth considerably more than its weight in gold. The suppression, says the Pall Mall Gazette, took place because the editor had included in the section devoted to reigning sovereigns a number of German princes deposed by the French emperor. From that year until 1814 the proofs had to be submitted to the French authorities before publication.

The revised edition of 1808 contains a curious collection of portraits. Napoleon figures on the frontispiece with the inscription:

Il a recu pour nous quand de ciel le forma
Le bras de Romulus et l'esprit de Numa.

The subjects of the other portraits are Murat, then grand duke of Berg ("l'Allemande le voit avec plaisir au nombre de ses souverains"), Nelson and Pitt. Concerning the last two the editor writes: "Time and death have extinguished the feelings of enmity they once inspired."

Holidays in America.

The question of whether or not there are too few distinctively American holidays may be debatable, but there is a distinctly American holiday in February—Washington's birthday—and February is the shortest month in the year. Moreover it is only a few weeks distant from the universal holidays of Christmas and New Year's, while Christmas is separated by barely a month from Thanksgiving. Nobody can say too much in honor of Lincoln; but Lincoln was born on the 12th of February, a month pre-empted for the father of his country, so far as holidays are concerned. Lincoln was a thorough American, and no doubt if the proposition of a second holiday in February had been put before him for consideration he would have rejected it without hesitation, on the purely practical ground that one holiday in February is enough.—Exchange.

His "Sea Serpent."

A member of the Big Stove club of Bath, Me., told the following experience with a sea serpent. He was at the wheel of his little fishing schooner in Long Island sound when he heard a swishing sound behind his vessel. Peering behind he could just make out the long, sinuous body of a sea serpent with an enormous head and a pair of flashing eyes. The serpent, however, kept his distance. The next morning the sailor found that a rope from the schooner had become entangled in a lobster trap and had towed it up the sound.

Marry the Mature Man.

The girl who marries a man older than herself is often happier than the crepe hangers foretell. She has the advantage of all those years during which he has gained in understanding, mental balance and experience. An older man is settled in his actions; he is not likely to change. He expects less of a woman than a younger man, because he is not so idealistic. He has ceased to look upon woman as on a pedestal, and he sees her with her feet upon the ground. And after all, the human attitude is best.—Exchange.

Cow Ticks Cause Much Loss.

"If tick eradication merely meant the absence of the parasite, and nothing else, the great campaign entailing the expenditure of many thousands of dollars would not have been in vain" said J. A. Kiernan, at the State Farmers Institute, last week. "The increased weight of the cattle alone pays for all the time and money spent. The increase in milk production without any other factor would have justified the undertaking.

"In a practical demonstration conducted by the bureau at Anthony, Florida, it was found that cows carrying ticks did not feed up so well in milk flow as those kept free of ticks and did not increase their flow of milk when feed was increased, as did the tick-free cows.

"At the close of the experiment the cows lightly infested with ticks were producing 18.6 per cent less milk than the cows kept free from ticks—practically one pint and a half less per cow per day.

"At the end of the experiment the cows heavily infested with ticks were producing 42.4 per cent less milk than the tick-free cows—or nearly one-half gallon less per head per day.

"During the experimental period of one of the tests, which included twenty cows, the heavily infested cows lost an average of 9.3 pounds in weight, while the tick-free cows gained an average of 44.2 pounds, although both were fed alike. Cows which had previously been infested with ticks, and were supposed to be immune, suffered from tick fever and one cow actually died from the effects of the tick."

About 11:30 Sunday morning the fire alarm sounded and the grass about the Catholic church was found to be on fire, endangering the residence of the priest, as well as the church.

Many men were soon assembled and beat the fire out with brush just as it had extended to within a few feet of the barn. It is believed the fire started by boys barbecuing meat in the lot of the priest. Not much damage was done.

NICKNAME STUCK TO SENATOR

Frontiersman Responsible for Sobriquet by Which Missouri Statesman Was Always Known.

Senator Barton, one of the two first Missouri senators, was known as "Little Red." He got the name when he delivered a speech which made him famous throughout the country.

The senate chamber was crowded. Barton had taken side against the Jackson policies. His arraignment and condemnation of the administration for years ranked as one of the greatest speeches ever heard in the senate. The audience became intensely excited. At the close, while people were crowding out of the gallery, there came a mighty shout: "Hurrah for the little red!"

This was repeated again and again in the corridors of the capitol by the Missouri frontiersman who had been a lieutenant. When the man became calm enough to explain he said the original "little red" was a game rooster he owned which could whip any fighting cock matched against him. When he heard Senator Barton "putting his heels" in the Jackson crowd and "bringing them down every flutter" he couldn't help thinking of the victories of his "little red." The newspapers took up the story and Barton went by the sobriquet of "Little Red."

Even Crabs Have Instinct.

Everyone has heard of the homing instinct of birds and of insects, but it is rather a surprise to be told that animals as low in the scale of nature as crabs have a similar instinct. The experiment has been tried in England of capturing crabs, marking them for identification, and releasing them long distances from their homes. The most interesting example was that of a male and female captured together in a trap and carefully marked, and then taken long distances away into another county and released at different places far apart from each other. Later the two were caught together again in a trap in their original home, showing that they had not only returned to their home, but had found each other and had again mated. The homing instinct had enabled them to go from the county of Lincolnshire back to their original home in Yorkshire.

Indoor Gardens.

Rooms without growing plants are never really perfectly satisfactory in spite of the change of furniture from one place to another, its readjustment with fresh color from time to time. There must always be moments when the inanimate room bores or stifles one, but never a time when a plant lifting up its branches for the blossoming time will not win your response, your desire to aid it, your joy in its triumph.

Indeed, a very cold, bare and plain room can be made cozy and inviting by the introduction of a few blossoming plants. In the summer time they connect you with the garden, in the winter they shut you away from chill and frost, with color and fragrance they welcome your friends.—The Craftsman.

Use New Words.

The words we use every day make up our vocabulary, and it is a very good thing that our vocabulary should be as large as we can possibly make it. The best way to accomplish that is to use as many new words as possible as often as we can. Then we get accustomed to them and they are part of our vocabulary. But we must be sure that we understand their meaning, and that we use them in the right place. It is better to choose short words rather than long ones.

Painfully Injured.

Billie, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Roddie, was quite painfully injured when he fell from the second story of the barn yesterday morning while at play with a number of other children.

The accident occurred when the child stepped backward through the stair opening on the second floor. He fell a distance of about ten feet to the first floor, alighting squarely upon his back, rendering him unconscious for a short time.

Medical aid was hastily summoned, and at last reports the child was doing as well as could be expected. No bones were broken in the fall.

A FIREMAN'S STORY.

Pathetic Tale That Contains Two Good Lessons.

It has been the privilege of The Standard, to sometimes throw interesting sidelights on the lives of persons out of the ordinary walks of life and the theatrical profession is rich in emotions of this kind. Due to lack of touch on the part of the public, and natural reticence of the actors, who usually are too refined to tolerate or vaunt their own charities, kindness or heroism, if told at all these stories must be learned a little at a time and told in a discreet manner. "Caught by the Hand," a comedy, with a two reel feature, known that while here Oscar Graham and his wife spent more than they received in "under the rose" visits to the needy. But it's a fact. Baird & Wilson's people, at Christmas, made a turkey shower for the poor in a distant city. These things were never told, even in a whisper, intended to be published, simply because the "movie notoriety" which seems to delight the soul of America's greatest detective would be offensive to them at any price.

Brady has recently had the pleasure of being entertained by a brother and sister, the former of whom gave his life, if the climate of Colorado does not restore him, to save a woman's life. A trained singer of rich compass and high salary, a father, he was also a fireman in Spokane, Wash. One day it became his to choose between driving his engine into a street car, killing a woman who had just alighted, or smashing into the curbing with a sudden swerve. His life in the balance, he spared the woman and took to the curb. The impact with the curb shot him from his seat like a shot from a catapult, and he landed fairly onto a hydrant, a crushed subject for the hospital for her dear sake, and she an unknown. Convalescing, his lungs were affected and, today, a hero unhonored and unsung, he is on his return to Colorado, smiling, singing to the sweet strains of his sister's violin to entertain audiences who little dream of the tragedy that lurks in the smiles that greet them.

His sister, his aid in the hour of his trouble, it has been his misfortune to listen to a tirade from a rostrum against women of the stage, and he will be pardoned if this has embittered his lot; still he smiles, and sings.

Aside from its interest there are two lessons in this story. It has been found necessary to warn the public to give the fire boys the right of way. Heed it! Heroism is costly. There are heroes in the local department, should necessity arise—but who wants to put them to the test? The other lesson is to distinguish between ladies of the legitimate stage and the creatures who exhibit lack of refinement; for "by their fruits ye shall know them!"
