been experiencing great difficulty in getting Buicks enough to go 'round; in fact, they are always behind their orders because of inability to get cars. Last week Mr. Hallum found a way to get cars—he went to Lampasas, and there took charge of a whole carload, driving two of the cars to Brady that night. Both were Buick Sixes, and one was delivered immediately to Mrs. Tom Russell at Menard. Mr. Hallum left Monday night for Lampasas to secure the remainder of the carload.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE.

At St. Paul's Episcopal Church April 6, 1917.

The Christian people are cordially invited to join in the Three Hour Service from 12 m. to 3 p. m. During these hours the Christ hung on the Cross and darkness was over the land. The service consists of prayer, hymns and meditations on the seven words from the Cross. It is not expected that all will remain throughout the services, but all are invited to come when they can and go away when they must. None need feel embarrassed on this account.

ACCUSED MAN IS EXONERATED

August Bruns of Roosevelt, who was arrested and charged with complicity in the killing of Dan Felps of Viejo at Menard Tuesday night, March 13th, was given an examining trial before Judge Scruggs, County Judge of Menard county, Friday and Saturday of last week. Judge Clarence Martin of Fredericksburg, assisted the County Attorney in the prosecution, and Hon. M. E. Blackburn and Judge J. B. Randolph of this place were attorneys for the defense.

Only the state witnesses were used and as a result of the testimony given, Bruns was released without bail and it is not thought likely that he will be billed by the Grand Jury.

From the evidence brought out at the trial it appears that Felps, who was killed, attacked Wes Leifeste with a knife; that Leifeste warned him to stop, then as Felps kept advancing, Leifeste picked up a piece of timber and struck him on the head. It was not thought that he was seriously hurt and Bruns made down a bed nearby and with the assistance of other men carried Felps to his bed and slept with him throughout the night. Not until next morning, when medical aid was summoned, was it discovered that the wound was serious. Dr. Guyton of the Brady Sanitarium testified that to the casual observer the wound would appear to be of little or no consequence—Junction Citizen-Light.

Road Overseers Subject to Fine.

In his first charge to a grand jury in this county since he was elected district judge, Judge J. O. Woodward sounded a warning to road overseers who are not complying with the law governing the proper marking and posting of sign posts along public highways. "The law requires road overseers to put up mile posts," said the judge, "and road overseers who fail to do this are subject to a heavy fine of not less than $100.00." The county pays the bill for posting roads, and there is no sane reason why every public road in this county does not show where it leads to and at the same time tell the number of miles it is to the place it leads the traveler. A stranger traveling through this county must do so on a guess.—Ballinger Banner-Ledger.

Ask the driver to bring you an ice book

Ice books are time savers. They save yours by always being handy to the ice man and you do not have to stop your work and make change which is sometimes hard to do.

They save the ice man's time by being handy where he can get the amount for the ice he delivers and go on and maybe make another delivery while he would be waiting for change. Then they get your ice to you more promptly. Take your own case for example. It is not one time out of a dozen that you do not want your ice before noon. Nearly everybody in Brady perhaps want their ice before noon too. If it takes each driver twice as long to make a delivery as it should, somebody will likely be late getting ice in spite of everything we can do.

ORIENT TO BUILD TO SHERWOOD

Crews from the engineering department of the Kansas City Mexico & Orient Railroad company have been surveying a line from a point on the railroad opposite Sherwood to the latter town, preparatory to the early connection of the Irion county seat with the rest of the world by rail. The work has been going on for several weeks, according to information received here from Mertzion and Sherwood people.

Since the Orient extended its tracks west of San Angelo and the flourishing town of Mertzion sprang into existence, the citizens of Sherwood, less than two miles away, have expanded every effort to force the company to build its line to the county seat. A case pending in the local courts for several years, and after being decided against the railroad was carried to the higher courts, and was upheld and an appeal was taken to the supreme court of the United States where the lower courts were sustained.

Sherwood is to get its railroad. When, no one seems to definitely know. Spring Creek separates the present main line and Sherwood and the construction of a steel bridge with considerable trestle work will be necessary before rails can be laid. The distance, however, will be but little more than a mile. It is not expected that the main line will be changed, but that a shuttle train will be operated between Sherwood and the main line.

Construction work will probably not be gotten under way before summer. — San Angelo Standard.

FAMILY AVOIDS SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Theford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whitaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble.

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Theford's Black-Draught, which I did, and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

Theford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people. Your druggist sells and recommends Black-Draught only 25c. Get a package to-day. M. C. 128

PENROD

Copyright, 1914, by Doubleday, Page & Company

CHAPTER VII. Fidelity of a Little Dog.

THE returning students that afternoon observed that Penrod's desk was vacant, and nothing could have been more impressive than that sinister mere emptiness. The accepted theory was that Penrod had been arrested. How breath taking then the sensation when at the beginning of the second hour he strolled in with intemperate carelessness and, rubbing his eyes, somewhat noticeably in the manner of one who has snatched an hour of much needed sleep, took his place as if nothing in particular had happened.

This at first supposed to be a superhuman exhibition of sheer audacity, became both the more dumfounding when Miss Spence, looking from her desk, greeted him with a pleasant little nod. Even after school Penrod gave numerous maddened investigators no relief. All he would consent to say was: "Oh, I just talked to her."

A mystification not entirely unconnected with the one thus produced was manifested at his own family dinner table the following evening. Aunt Clara had been out rather late and came to the table after the rest were seated. She wore a puzzled expression.

"Do you ever see Mary Spence nowadays?" she inquired, as she unfolded her napkin, addressing Mrs. Schofield. Penrod abruptly set down his spoon and gazed at his aunt with flapping attention.

"Yes, sometimes," said Mrs. Schofield. "She's Penrod's teacher."

"Is she?" said Mrs. Farry. "Do you?"—She paused. "Do people think her a little—queer these days?" "Why, no!" returned her sister. "What makes you say that?"

"She has acquired a very odd manner," said Mrs. Farry decidedly. "At least, she seemed odd to me. I met her at the corner just before I got to the house a few minutes ago, and after we'd said howdy do to each other she kept hold of my hand and looked as though she was going to cry. She seemed to be trying to say something and choking."

"But I don't think that's so very queer, Clara. She knew you in school, didn't she?" "Yes, but—"

"And she hadn't seen you for so many years I think it's perfectly natural she"—

"Wait! She stood there squeezing my hand and struggling to get her voice, and then finally she said in a kind of tearful whisper: 'Be of good cheer. This trial will pass.'"

"How queer!" exclaimed Margaret. Penrod sighed and returned somewhat absently to his soup.

"Well, I don't know," said Mrs. Schofield thoughtfully. "Of course she's heard about the outbreak of measles in Dayton, since they had to close the schools, and she knows you live there."

"But doesn't it seem a very exaggerated way," suggested Margaret, "to talk about measles?"

"Wait!" begged Aunt Clara. "After she said that she said something even queerer and then put her handkerchief to her eyes and hurried away."

Penrod laid down his spoon again and moved his chair slightly back from the table. A spirit of prophecy was upon him. He knew that some one was going to ask a question which he felt might better remain unspoken.

"What was the other thing she said?" Mr. Schofield inquired, thus immediately fulfilling his son's premonition.

"She said," returned Mrs. Farry slowly, looking about the table; "she said, 'I know that Penrod is a great, great comfort to you.'"

There was a general exclamation of surprise. It was a singular thing, and in no manner may it be considered complimentary to Penrod that this speech of Miss Spence's should have immediately confirmed Mrs. Farry's doubts about her in the minds of all his family.

"Wait! She stood there squeezing my hand and struggling to get her voice."

den thought, gathered the glances of the adults of the table by a significant movement of the head, and, by another, conveyed an admonition to drop the subject until later. Miss Spence was Penrod's teacher. It was better, for many reasons, not to discuss the subject of her queerness before him. This was Mrs. Schofield's thought at the time. Later she had another, and it kept her awake.

The next afternoon Mr. Schofield, returning at 5 o'clock from the cares of the day, found the house deserted and sat down to read his evening paper in what appeared to be an uninhabited apartment known to its own world as the "drawing room." A sneeze, unexpected both to him and the owner, informed him of the presence of another person.

"Where are you, Penrod?" the parent asked, looking about.

"Here," said Penrod meekly. "Steeping. Mr. Schofield discovered his son squatting under the piano, near an open window—his wistful Duke lying beside him.

"What are you doing there?" "Me?"

"Why under the piano?" "Well," the boy returned with grave sweetness, "I was just kind of sitting here—thinking."

"All right," Mr. Schofield, rather touched, returned to the digestion of a murder, his back once more to the piano, and Penrod silently drew from beneath his jacket (where he had slipped it simultaneously with the sneeze) a paper backed volume entitled, "Slimsy, the Sioux City Squealer; or, 'Not Guilty, Your Honor.'"

In this manner the reading club continued in peace, absorbed, contented, the world well forgot—until a sudden, violently irritated slam bang of the front door startled the members, and Mrs. Schofield burst into the room and threw herself into a chair moaning.

"What's the matter, mamma?" asked her husband, laying aside his paper. "Henry Passloe Schofield," returned the lady, "I don't know what it is to be done with that boy; I do not!"

"You mean Penrod?"

"Who else could I mean?" She sat up, exasperated, to stare at him. "Henry Passloe Schofield, you've got to take this matter in your hands. It's beyond me!"

"Well, what has he?"

"Last night I got to thinking," she began rapidly, "about what Clara told us—thank heaven she and Margaret and little Clara have gone to tea at Cousin Charlotte's—but they'll be home soon—about what she said about Miss Spence?"

"You mean about Penrod's being a comfort?"

"Yes, and I kept thinking and thinking and thinking about it till I couldn't stand it any more."

"By George!" shouted Mr. Schofield startlingly, stooping to look under the piano. A statement that he had suddenly remembered his son's presence would be lacking in accuracy, for the highly sensitized Penrod was, in fact, no longer present. No more was Duke, his faithful dog.

"What's the matter?" "Nothing," he returned, striding to the open window and looking out. "Go on."

"Oh!" she moaned. "It must be kept from Clara. And I'll never hold up my head again if John Farry ever hears of it!"

"Hears of what?" "Well, I just couldn't stand it, I got so curious. And I thought, of course, if Miss Spence had become a little unbalanced it was my duty to know it as Penrod's mother and she his teacher. So I thought I would just call on her at her apartment after school and have a chat and see. And I did, and—oh—"

"Well?"

"I've just come from there, and she told me—she told me! Oh, I've never known anything like this!"

"What did she tell you?" Mrs. Schofield, making a great effort, managed to assume a temporary appearance of calm. "Henry," she said solemnly, "bear this in mind, whatever you do to Penrod it must be done in some place when Clara won't hear it. But the first thing to do is to find him."

Within view of the window from which Mr. Schofield was gazing was the closed door of the storeroom in the stable, and just outside this door Duke was performing a most engaging trick.

His young master had taught Duke to "sit up and beg" when he wanted anything, and if that didn't get it to "speak," Duke was facing the closed door and sitting up and begging, and now he also spoke—in a loud, clear bark.

There was an open transom over the door, and from this descended—buried by an unseen agency—a can half filled with old paint.

It caught the small besieger of the door on his thoroughly surprised right ear, encouraged him to some remarkable acrobatics and turned large portions of him a dull blue. Allowing only a moment to perplexity and deciding after a single and evidently unappetizing experiment not to cleanse himself of paint, the loyal animal resumed his quaint, upright posture.

Mr. Schofield seated himself on the window sill, whence he could keep in view that pathetic picture of unrequited love.

"Go on with your story, mamma," he said. "I think I can find Penrod when we want him."

And a few minutes later he added, "And I think I know the place to do it in."

Again the faithful voice of Duke was heard pleading outside the bolted door.

Penrod entered the schoolroom Monday morning picturesquely leaning upon a man's cane, shortened to support a cripple approaching the age of twelve. He arrived about twenty minutes late, limping deeply, his brave young mouth drawn with pain, and the sensation he created must have been a solace to him, the only possible criticism of this entrance being that it was just a shade too heroic. Perhaps for that reason it failed to stagger Miss Spence, a woman so saturated with suspicion that she penalized Penrod for tardiness as promptly and as coldly as if he had been a mere, ordinary, untroubled boy. Nor would she entertain any discussion of the justice of her ruling. It seemed almost that she feared to argue with him.

However, the distinction of cane and limp remained to him, consolations which he protracted far into the week—until Thursday evening, in fact, when Mr. Schofield, observing from a window his son's pursuit of Duke round and round the back yard, confuted the cane, with the promise, that it should not remain idle if he saw Penrod limping again. Thus, succeeding a depressing Friday, another Saturday brought the necessity for new inventions.

It was a scented morning in apple blossom time. At about ten of the clock Penrod emerged hastily from the kitchen door. His pockets bulged abnormally, so did his cheeks, and he swallowed with difficulty. A threatening man, wielded by a cooklike arm in a checkered sleeve, followed him through the doorway, and he was preceded by a small, hurried, wistful dog with a warm doughnut in his mouth. The kitchen door slammed petulantly, including the sore voice of Della, whereupon Penrod and Duke seated themselves upon the pleasant sward and immediately consumed the spoils of their raid.

From the cross street which formed the side boundary of the Schofields' ample yard came a jingle of harness and the cadenced clatter of a pair of trotting horses, and Penrod, looking up, beheld the passing of a fat acquaintance, torpid amid the conservative splendors of a rather old fashioned victoria. This was Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., a fellow sufferer at the Friday afternoon dancing class, but otherwise not often a companion, a home sheltered lad, tutored privately and preserved against the coarsening influences of rude comradeship and miscellaneous information. Heavily overgrown in all physical dimensions, virtuous and placid, this cloistered nut was wholly uninteresting to Penrod Schofield. Nevertheless, Roderick Magsworth Bitts, Jr., was a personage on account of the importance of the Magsworth Bitts family, and it was Penrod's destiny to increase Roderick's celebrity far, far beyond its present aristocratic limitations.

The Magsworth Bittses were important because they were impressive. There was no other reason. And they were impressive because they believed themselves important. The adults of the family were impressively formal. They dressed with reticent elegance and wore the same nose and the same expression—an expression which indicated that they knew something exquisite and sacred which other people could never know. Other people in their presence were apt to feel mysteriously ignoble and to become secretly uneasy about ancestors, gloves and pronunciation. The Magsworth Bitts manner was withholding and reserved, though sometimes gracious, granting small smiles as great favors and giving off a chilling kind of precociousness. Naturally when any citizen of the community did anything unconventional or improper or made a mistake or had a relative who went wrong that citizen's first and worst fear was that the Magsworth Bittses would hear of it. In fact, this painful family had for years terrorized the community, though the community had never realized that it was terrorized and invariably spoke of the family as the "most charming circle in town." By common consent Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts officiated as the supreme model as well as critic in chief of morals and deportment for all the unlucky people prosperous enough to be elevated to her acquaintance.

Magsworth was the important part of the name. Mrs. Roderick Magsworth Bitts was a Magsworth born herself, and the Magsworth crest decorated not only Mrs. Magsworth Bitts' note paper, but was on the china, on the table linen, on the chimney pieces, on the opaque glass of the front door, on the victoria and on the harness, though omitted from the garden hose and the lawn mower." Naturally no sensible person dreamed of connecting that illustrious crest with the unfortunate and notorious Rena Magsworth, whose name had grown weak by week into larger and larger type upon the front pages of newspapers owing to the gradually increasing public and official belief that she had poisoned a family of eight. However, the statement that no sensible person could have connected the Magsworth Bitts family with the arse-nical Rena takes no account of Penrod Schofield.

WHAT IS LAX-FOS

LAX-FOS IS AN IMPROVED CASCARA A DIGESTIVE LAXATIVE CATHARTIC AND LIVER TONIC LAX-FOS is not a Secret or Patent Medicine but is composed of the following old-fashioned roots and herbs: CASCARA BARK BLUE FLAG ROOT RHUBARB ROOT BLACK ROOT MAY APPLE ROOT SENNA LEAVES AND PEPSIN

In LAX-FOS the CASCARA is improved by the addition of these digestive ingredients making it better than ordinary CASCARA, and thus the combination acts not only as a stimulating laxative and cathartic but also as a digestive and liver tonic. Syrup laxatives are weak, but LAX-FOS combines strength with palatable, aromatic taste and does not grip or disturb the stomach. One bottle will prove LAX-FOS is invaluable for Constipation, Indigestion or Torpid Liver. Price 50c.

EVERY NIGHT IS FEATURE NIGHT

Every night is now feature night at the Lyric opera house, and the plan is to give city shows for less money. The result is apparent in the greatly increased attendance, and as the excellence of the pictures becomes generally known, packed houses will be the order of things.

Here are some of the good things in store for theatre-goers:

Friday night, Brady's favorite, Wm. Hart, will be seen in "The Apostle of Vengeance." Perhaps no actor is more true to life than is Hart, and perhaps that is why he is so popular everywhere. Also Fatty Arbuckle will appear in his usual side-splitting comedy act of two reels.

For next Tuesday night, the 10th, that greatest of great pictures, "The Spoilers," will be presented. Perhaps you have read this story of the Alaska Ad fields. Perhaps you have not. In either event you will want to see this great picture, and see portrayed the story that has become famous all over the country.

There are other good ones coming: "Where Are My Children," on Friday night, the 13th, also "Little Shoes," on Wednesday night, the 18th, featuring Henry Walthall, who starred in the play "Birth of a Nation," in role of the "Little Colonel."

On April 20th, the big feature, "Idle Wives," a play which tears away the curtain that hides the glass houses of society. A picture that all will appreciate and enjoy.

STOMACH ACTS FINE! NO INDIGESTION, GAS, HEARTBURN, ACIDITY

"Pape's Diapepsin" fixes sick, sour, upset stomachs in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain, un-failing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them, if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

FEW VIOLATIONS.

Compulsory School Attendance Law Generally Observed.

County Superintendent, E. L. White reports the general observance of the Compulsory School Attendance law in McCulloch county as having been excellent; in fact, since it went into effect, but three violations of the law have been reported—one at Calf Creek, one at Corn Creek and one at Rochelle schools. This is a splendid record, and shows more plainly than words the fact that patrons are co-operating to the fullest extent with the school authorities.

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

L. Ballou Hopes to Attend at Washington, D. C., This Year.

At the invitation of the members of the G. A. R. the ex-Confederate veterans will hold their annual reunion in Washington, D. C., this year, the great event taking place on the 4th, 5th and 6th of June. Quite naturally every veteran has a hankering in his heart to meet once more with the "boys," and L. Ballou, of this city, has adopted a rather unique plan to assure his attendance. Mr. Ballou is sending subscriptions to the "Confederate Veteran," the official publication of the veterans, and should he be successful in sending in the required number, he will be entitled to a trip to Washington, and the reunion, free of all charges. Quite naturally he is very enthusiastic about the matter, and his comrades and friends are assisting him in every way. Last week he sent in his first club of ten subscribers. It is to be hoped that all who can do so, will assist Mr. Ballou in his endeavor, as it is likely that this will be the last great reunion held for the veterans.

"CLEAN UP" IS THE SLOGAN IN BRADY BRADY YOUNG LADY IS CLEVER ARTIST

EVERYONE IS URGED TO MAKE AWAY WITH WINTER'S ACCUMULATION OF RUBBISH AND TRASH.

The "Clean Up" slogan has once more been adopted in Brady. With the advent of Spring, it is imperative that everyone's premises be made immaculate in appearance, and in fact, the winter's accumulation of trash and rubbish should be gathered in convenient piles; all cans and germ-shelters should be gotten rid of. This is imperative for public health; for your own health. To neglect this duty is to endanger your health and that of your family and neighbors. With the increasing warm weather, typhoid may become rampant; for in every bit of rubbish and in every empty can there lurks the germs of this terrible scourge.

Not only is the "Clean Up" program advocated by city officials, by the business men and leading citizens of Brady, but the ladies of the city have joined in the movement, and will leave no stone unturned to accomplish universal and co-operative action.

Don't wait for the sanitary officers to make complaint against you; begin today to get your property in perfect order. Where citizens are financially unable to have the rubbish haul-

MISS ZULA MEERS HAS NATURAL TALENT—SKETCHES AROUSE MUCH ADMIRATION AND COMMENT.

There is a clever young lady in Brady whose natural talent as an artist has aroused great interest among her friends, as well as of her teachers. She is Miss Zula Meers, a student in the Brady high school. It is no painstaking task for Miss Meers to reproduce any picture which she fancies—her nimble pencil flits over the sheet of paper, and almost in the twinkling of an eye you have before you a reproduction that is an exact duplicate of the original.

WOODROW WILSON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The above picture is a pencil sketch of the President of the United States, drawn by Miss Meers, who is an ardent admirer of President Wilson, and whose loyalty to him and to the flag inspired the drawing. It is a reproduction of a picture of the president sent out at the time of his first inauguration by the Dallas News. All who have compared the sketch with the original are struck with the fact that the drawing is almost an exact duplicate, yet it was made free hand and in the course of a few minutes by Miss Meers.

Miss Meers makes no boast of her talent; on the contrary, she is rather disinclined to publicity, and the sketch was first obtained and placed in the hands of the editor without her knowledge. The fact that she has never taken a lesson in art, makes her achievement all the more notable, and should the talent be developed, it is certain that at some future date, Brady may have reason to be proud of her accomplishments.

The Standard is pleased to reproduce the picture of President Wilson, not only because it so well portrays Miss Meers' ability, but for the further reason that it is a splendid likeness, and now that the United States is on the verge of war, this picture should adorn every home. In fact, the Fort Worth Record of recent date, advocated that every patriotic citizen secure a picture of our president for his home.

CATTLE KILLED EAT OAK BUDS

Prominent cattlemen of this county have requested the Chamber of Commerce to call attention of all owners of cattle to the danger this year of the stock eating young buds from liveoak, and Spanish oak trees. Last year hundreds of head of fine cattle died in Brown county from this cause.

Cattlemen who have observed closely state that the feeding of cake causes the cattle to eat the young buds much more readily than they would otherwise. It is suggested that all cattle be taken off the cake feed for a time before the young buds begin to come and that this will decrease the death loss.

The tannic acid contained in the buds and sprouts from the trees causes the death of the stock eating them. Stockmen fear that on account of the late spring and short grass this year it will be difficult to keep the cattle from feeding on the buds. —Brownwood News.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

ALL CHILDREN LOVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

MOST EFFECTIVE REMEDY MOTHER HAD EVER USED

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
Relieves Baby When Other Medicines Failed.

There is nothing so necessary to a child's health and comfort as regularity of the bowels. All children are especially susceptible to stomach trouble and any overstrain of the sensitive organs has a tendency to obstruct elimination. This condition is responsible for much of the illness of childhood.

To relieve constipation a mild laxative should be employed. Cathartics and purgatives are violent in their action and should be avoided. Mrs. Alfred DuBois, Mt. Holly, N. J., says Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is without doubt the most effective remedy for constipation she has ever used and that it is the only remedy she could find for her baby. Little Earl was badly constipated during his first year and nothing she tried seemed to help him until she got a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Now he is a fine, strong, healthy boy, and she thanks Dr. Caldwell for it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple lax-active herbs with pepsin, free from opiates or narcotic drugs; it acts gently without griping or other discomfort, and appeals to children because of its pleasant taste. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle, and every mother should have it in the house for use whenever occasion arises.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes always be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

They Draw a Salary.

A Buffalo man stopped a newsboy in New York, saying: "See here, son, I want to find Blank National Bank, I'll give you a half a dollar if you will direct me to it." With a grin the boy replied, "All right; come along," and he led the man to a building half a block away.

The man paid the promised fee grudgingly. "That was a half dollar easily earned," he growled. "Sure," responded the lad. "But you must not forget that bank directors is paid high in Noo Yawk."

It Was News to Him.

While touring the back country in the Tennessee mountains one summer, a New York author in search of "color" came upon an old native, who began to ask him all sorts of questions. It seemed that the fellow was ten or more years behind on the news.

"Why don't you subscribe to some paper and keep yourself posted?" asked the visitor. "Wall," drawled the old man, "when paw died, he left me a stack of newspapers 'bout two feet high. I ain't got 'em half read yet. What's th' good o' buyin' more?"

ENDORSE OUR REPRESENTATIVE

The Standard is in receipt of a communication from the Jeff Bland Lumber Co. of Houston, Texas, expressing their high appreciation of the services of our representative, Hon. T. J. Beasley, in defeating a bill inimical to public welfare, and congratulating the citizens of this district upon having so able and discerning a representative.

Their letter reads as follows: "At the session of the legislature just closed, the railroads introduced a bill known as Senate Bill No 328, which would have permitted the change, relocating and abandonment of main line railroad tracks in this state with the consent of the Railroad Commission. This was a very dangerous bill as it placed every shipper in the state at the complete mercy of the railroad and the railroad commission, which is a very unnecessary and dangerous thing to do. The bill could not possibly work to the benefit of the people of this state, but to their detriment and to the advantage of the railroads. Your representative, Mr. T. J. Beasley was opposed to the bill and helped to defeat it. Mr. Beasley showed very clearly that he has the interests of the people of the state, and of his district at heart, and will oppose any law that is not to the best interests of the people, who elected him and whom he represents. He deserves great credit for helping defeat this dangerous bill, and we want to congratulate the people of his district on sending him to the legislature. He is a capable representative and an honest man."

The Quinine That Does Not Affect The Head

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati Authority Tells How to Dry up a Corn or Callus so it Lifts Off with Fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, as a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus.

This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It is fine stuff and acts like a charm every time.
