BRADY AUTO COMPANY TO REBUILD GARAGE BUILDING—CONTRACT LET

MODERN PLATE GLASS AND BRICK FRONT, ALSO BRICK WALLS ON NORTH AND SOUTH SIDES, MODERN FILLING STATION AND SHOW ROOM INCLUDED.

The Brady Auto Company has mapped out plans for the remodeling and improving of their garage which virtually amount to the complete rebuilding of their home, and its conversion into one of the most modern and attractive garages in this section of the state. Contract for the work of improvement has been let to A. D. Wright, and the cost will run close around $20,000, according to B. A. Hallum, manager. Practically all the material for the improvement has already been ordered, and part is expected on the ground within the next few weeks. Work is to begin at the earliest possible moment and will be completed without delay.

Among improvements to be made is the building of a modern plate glass and brick front on Bridge street, with permanent walls of brick on both the north and south sides; a double drive-in filling station; modern show and sales room, with accessories room in connection. The filling station will be located on the southwest corner of the building enabling driving in from either Bridge or North 1st streets, the double drive-way enabling attending to customers without delay or hindrance. The office will front this station, so as to assure personal supervision of this part of the work. The show and sales room will be built in the middle of the building, fronting Bridge street, the large plate glass windows enabling the display of cars to excellent advantage. But one entrance will be provided from Bridge street, with exit at the rear side of the building, this arrangement adding to the storage room. The new plans also contemplate the inclusion of the present quarters of the Brady fire department in the garage proper, thereby adding greatly to the available floor space. Manager Hallum is very enthusiastic about the plans and feels that in their materialization he will at last have realized the model garage for which he has always had a longing. No expense is to be spared to make the improvements complete to the last detail. The expenditure of this immense sum merely demonstrates the stability of the Brady Auto Company, as well as their faith in Brady and its future.

POSTMASTER REAGAN IN BROWNWOOD—TELLS OF INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK

A. B. Reagan, postmaster at Brady, is spending a day or two in Brownwood the guest of his old time friend, Postmaster McChristy of this city. Mr. McChristy, Mr. Reagan and Burdette Reagan, who is now postmaster at Big Springs, were boys together in the vicinity of Brownwood where the families of the men lived in the earlier days. Mr. Reagan although from being old, as he laughingly says, recalls many an incident that took place before the time of some of the folks here who call themselves old timers. Mr. Reagan says Brady is growing right along. The oil field eleven miles north of the town known as the Hall-Dutton oil area is being developed. One well is now producing about 25 barrels of fuel oil per day and this production is being used in putting down other wells in the immediate vicinity. A number of new industries are in contemplation and Brady is enjoying a period of prosperity and progress. — Brownwood Bulletin.

MRS. R. B. McCARTY IM-PROVING AFTER SERIOUS OPERATION AT TEMPLE

Mrs. J. S. Abernathy returned Sunday from Temple, where she and Mrs. Abernathy had gone to be in attendance upon the latter's daughter, Mrs. R. B. McCarty, of Mercury, who was at the sanitarium there and who underwent a very serious operation last Friday. Mrs. Abernathy reports Mrs. McCarty as having been on the operating table for one hour and 45 minutes. In spite of the terrible ordeal, the patient is making a much better recovery than was anticipated, and it is thought she will soon be restored to complete health.

NEW SHALLOW TEST ON TRACT ADJOINING TUCKER WELLS NOW BEING DRILLED

James A. Liggett, managing director of the McCulloch Development Co., was here the first of the week from Fort Worth looking after the drilling operations of the company in the Lohn field. The company has purchased a tract adjoining the Tucker oil field and is drilling the first of a series of test wells, the location being 300 yards east from the original producing wells, and on the J. K. Shelton land. The new test was spudded in Saturday, April 10th, by Leroy Jobe, and the well has been drilled to a depth of 100 feet. Mr. Liggett is enthusiastic about the McCulloch field and is planning to extensively exploit this section of Texas oil fields.

MANDALAY BEST IN WINTER

Burmese Capital Known to All Whites in India as an Ideal Cold Weather Resort.

Doubtless it will surprise a great many persons to learn that Mandalay, famed of song and story, is little more than a half century old. It was built in 1856 by King Mindon, who made it the capital of what was then independent Burmah.

Something more than 300 feet above the level of the sea, Mandalay sits tightly upon a stretch of tableland just in front of the Shan hills. The city proper extends over about five square miles, but the military district of Mandalay covers a more extensive area.

With the British soldier, Mandalay has taken on a great deal of the character of a vacation resort. In the torrid months of the Burmese summer the heat becomes very great, sometimes making the thermometer rise to 119 degrees in the shade; but relief is easily found in the adjacent hills. The British sanitary officers have succeeded in exterminating all the fevers and other diseases with which the climate was once infested.

In winter—or as near to winter as it gets—Mandalay becomes a semiparadise, for the temperature stays at about 50 degrees. Happy the British soldier who is assigned to this garrison.

Like as not he sits of afternoons underneath the shadow of the Moulmein pagoda gazing dreamily at the flutillas on the Irrawaddy.

"Can't you hear their paddles chinking in from Rangoon to Mandalay?"

Or perhaps he looks at the distant mountains, fabled to be so rich in alabaster and rubies. And very often the whole picture as drawn by Kipling is complete, even to the temple bells and the Burmese maiden.

RANG OUT ALARM OF FIRE

As Late as Civil War Days New York Employed Bells to Warn Citizens of Danger.

Not longer ago than Civil war days fire alarms were rung in the city on great bells hung in towers erected for the purpose about the town. The bells indicated the district in which the fire was and sometimes a good deal of ground was covered in looking for a fire. The First district, for instance, in Civil war days extended from Twenty-second street north to Yorkville and from the East river to the North.

The bell ringers were constantly on duty in the towers watching for signs of a fire. An inventory of the contents of the old Marion street bell tower in 1865 shows the equipment then in use. It is as follows: "One bell, weight 11,000 pounds; one striking apparatus, one stove, table, clock, one spyglass, one field glass, one slate and book."

The fire bells of the old city could be heard all over the town unless a gale of wind was blowing. The largest bell was in the City hall tower. Its weight was 23,000 pounds.—New York Times.

Amusing Trick Is Simple.

One of the most amusing tricks in fireworks is the serpent's egg trick, where a little pellet when lighted turns into a horrible snake, many, many times the size of the pellet. How awe-inspiring it is to the youngster! Most people have no idea what in the world causes the snake to appear. The explanation is simple. Mercury sulpho-cyanid burns with a voluminous ash. The little pellet is nothing more than some mercury sulpho-cyanid. The heat causes the ash to move off so quickly from the burning pellet that it writhes and distorts itself into the shape of a miniature snake.

Daylight Saving.

Ben Franklin thought of saving daylight a long time ago. In the year 1784 he wrote from England to a friend in America:

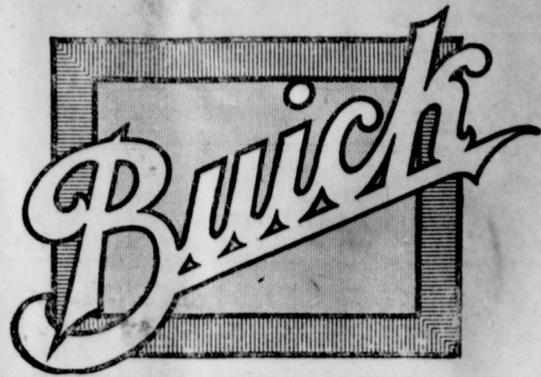

"In a walk through the Strand and Fleet Street one morning at 7 o'clock I observed that there was not one shop open, although it had been daylight and the sun up about three hours; the inhabitants of London choosing voluntarily to live by candlelight and sleep by sunshine; and yet often complaining a little absurdly of the duty on candles and the high price of tallow."

Old English Names.

It would be interesting to know how certain places on the edge of St. Louis and Franklin counties got their names, such as St. Albans, Melrose, Chesterfield, Manchester and so on, all good old English names, while the majority of the names on the letter boxes on the Manchester and Melrose roads are German and undoubtedly many of the people of this part of the state are of German descent, although among the most loyal of the Americans of the present day. But who was responsible for the English names of the settlements?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Wars That Made History.

The Civil war in America was followed—in 1866—by the Prusso-Austrian campaign in Bohemia, which may be said to have lasted only seven weeks, since Austria was completely brought to terms by her first crushing defeat at Koniggratz. The logical sequel to the Prussian war of 1866 with Austria was the German one of 1870 with France, though, indeed, it may be said to have been practically decided in less than one month—at Sedan—the rest of the time being but a protracted agony of fighting despair on the part of the vanquished.

Confidence

Even in these days when the motor car field offers such wide selection—the public still finds Buick demands exceeding Buick production.

Thus it easy to recognize how steadily, each season, the Buick Valve-in-head motor car has become an essential part in the lives of men and women—as well as in the progress of commercial and professional activities.

It's superior quality—service—economy and dependability are causing thousands of persons to place their orders for car delivery months in advance—thus protecting themselves and assuring their ownership of this world-wide preferred motor car.

AID OF WAITRESS

By IRA E. ROGERS.

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

While Barbara waited for her order she glanced shyly at the young man in khaki sitting opposite her at the table, and her blue eyes beamed approval. She had never seen a more kindly or intelligent face, she told herself, and she knew he would be brave, too, when the occasion should arise. She began to wish she knew him.

The waitress had been bustling about the table, and Barbara, looking down suddenly, noted to her surprise that a plate containing two orders of rolls had been set directly between her place and that of the young man. When the full significance of this struck her she became horrified. It was evident that the waitress thought that they had come in together. Oh, if she could only catch her eye! But the busy little waitress seemed to look at everyone but her. Why hadn't she gone to the place where she usually went at night and not ventured into this restaurant? The young man was absorbed in a paper and apparently had not noticed the waitress' mistake.

When hours had passed, according to Barbara's feelings, the two orders were brought in and placed before the young man. He looked up with a start; but it was only a fraction of a minute that surprise mastered him. Then he started in to serve Barbara as if it were an every-day occurrence. "It's best to pretend we came together," he said in a low voice, after the waitress had hurried away to other patrons.

Barbara acquiesced shyly. After a few moments her diffidence wore away and she suddenly found herself chatting with the young soldier in the most unconventional way. She felt a twinge of regret when the dinner was over and they had to go their separate ways. He had taken no advantage of their strange meeting, and they parted as they had met, strangers.

In the days that followed Barbara thought much about the young man in khaki. His kindly dark eyes seemed to follow her wherever she went, and she often caught herself scrutinizing a crowd with a hope that she might see him again. She had not entered the restaurant where they had met since that night. Although she had passed it many times she did not have the courage to enter.

One evening, about a month later, Barbara decided to go to see Grace Lincoln, a girl acquaintance, who lived out of town. In the course of the evening she related her strange experience, and when she had finished Grace laughed immoderately, a great deal more than the occasion would seem to warrant.

Before Barbara took her leave her friend said, with a twinkle in her eye, "I want you to come out next Tuesday night. My cousin from Wilton is coming to visit us for two or three days, and I would like to have you meet him. I'm sure you'll like him. You'll come, won't you?"

Barbara promised that she would come. Ordinarily she would have gone home delighted, but now she did not feel pleased at the prospect of meeting Grace's cousin. What did she care about seeing him?

When Tuesday evening came she took a train for her friend's house, and it was a little before eight when she arrived there. Grace came to the door in answer to her ring, meeting her with a burst of delight. "He's come, Barbara; and I know you'll like him."

Barbara smiled unconcernedly. As they entered the living room a tall figure in khaki who had been sitting before the open fire rose and came forward. The girl could hardly believe her own eyes. She was ashamed of herself, for she was blushing furiously as Grace introduced her to her cousin; but Richard Young soon put her at her ease and it was not long before she was chatting with him as she had at the restaurant. He did not once allude to their former meeting, and for this she was very grateful. Just before she left Grace drew her aside a moment.

"Richard has been trying to find you ever since that night," she said. "He told me all about it—he and I have always been like brother and sister. I never had an idea that you were the girl until last week when you were out. I said you would like him," she added, with a roguish glance, "and by the way things look I guess—"

"He's very pleasant," broke in Barbara, her face burning with blushes. Grace said nothing more but smiled knowingly.

Barbara was pleased when Richard Young offered to see her to the train, and as they walked along together she felt as if she had always known him.

"I'm going to call on you tomorrow evening," he announced boldly as the train rumbled into the station. "Provided, of course, that you want me to come."

"Yes—I want you to come," Barbara shyly answered him.

The next evening Richard told her that he had been called, and that he expected to go away the following week.

"When I come back I want someone I know to be waiting for me. Do you think she will, Barbara?"

And Barbara answered softly, "I know she will, Richard."

The United States senate meets on an average of less than 200 days in a year and it costs about $9,000 for each meeting day.

BETTER CHURCH BUILDINGS PLANNED FOR RURAL DISTRICTS BY BAPTISTS

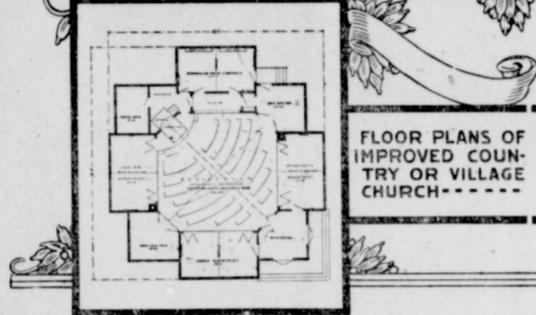

PART OF PROCEEDS OF 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN WILL BE EMPLOYED IN ERECTING BETTER HOUSES OF WORSHIP AND OTHERWISE HELPING DEVELOP WEAK CONGREGATIONS, IT IS ANNOUNCED.

TYPICAL RURAL CHURCH BUILDING OF TODAY----

EXTERIOR OF IMPROVED RURAL CHURCH

FLOOR PLANS OF IMPROVED COUNTRY OR VILLAGE CHURCH-----

Several outstanding results of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign will be noted in the larger development of the rural churches. This development will take the form of a more efficient church and Sunday School life and in better houses of worship around which the church and Sunday School activities will center.

Through the enlistment department of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta, Ga., weak, struggling churches will be aided in development to the point where they can become self-supporting and employ a competent pastor for much more of his time than has been given these churches before, while plans for the betterment of the rural Sunday Schools through a series of institutes for the training of teachers in all the Southern states this summer will be carried out by the Baptist Sunday School Board.

Best Plans Are Recommended. Plans have been perfected by the architectural department of the Baptist Sunday School Board at Nashville, Tenn., in co-operation with the Church Building and Loan Department of the Home Mission Board, whereby local building committees can procure detailed plans of the best modern church buildings for either large or small congregations. These plans have been so drawn as to take care of every phase of church activity, the Sunday School and other departments being so provided for as to enable them to do their most efficient work. And a modern building, containing all the essential provisions, can be provided by any community that is able to build an old-fashioned one-room church building, as the cost for the modern structure is no more than that of the old-style one.

Big Loan Fund Provided. To aid deserving congregations in building adequate houses of worship, the church building loan department was established six years ago and already more than 700 churches have been helped in building needed houses. The initial fund, established for this purpose, was fixed at $1,000,000 and an additional $1,000,000 will be received from the 75 Million Campaign. Applications pending now aggregate $1,000,000 and loans are being made at the rate of $50,000 per month. No loans are being made in excess of one-third of the value of the property, and the loan made must clear the property of all other indebtedness and thus make it possible to dedicate the building.

From the 75 Million Campaign the Home Mission Board will receive, also, $2,500,000 to be used as gifts in the building of additional churches during the next five years, but this sum will be expended largely in aiding churches in strategic points, among them being educational centers where it is desired to erect churches for promoting the religious life of students, especially of those students affiliated with Baptist churches.

Of the 25,000 Baptist churches in the South, 21,000 are in the rural districts and in small villages, and 19,000 of them have preaching services only once a month. While the work of the enlistment forces will be to help these weak congregations solve their problems and help them develop in numbers and efficiency, the other denominational agencies will help these struggling congregations in the erection of well-appointed church houses and the development of their Sunday Schools.

Why Good Houses Are Needed. The accompanying illustration shows a typical one-room church building and also an exterior view and floor plans of a modern, well-appointed church building, calculated to take care of all the needs of a church organization and costing no more than the one-room building.

This proposed building has many things in its favor as compared with the one-room structure, aside from its attractive appearance. First, it is more durable, being so constructed as to resist wind and storm. Second, it is easily heated in the winter, its vestibule cutting out the cold wind from the entrance, while by reason of the building having several departments it is needful to heat only the department being used on those occasions when only a small gathering is had. Then the auditorium in the center is shielded from the extreme weather by the departments surrounding it, though in the summer these surrounding departments can be opened up, giving abundant ventilation. Again, the new building offers admirable quarters for the several departments and classes of the Sunday School, thus making the teaching of the Bible a much easier task. Then the social life of the congregation can be greatly promoted by the better building, in that it affords ample quarters for church receptions, banquets and other affairs of this nature, enabling the church to give the young people adequate social activities under wholesome environments.

This and many other approved types of country churches are being employed now in every Southern state, and a more efficient church work is being done wherever such building has been erected, it is declared. Sufficient varieties of plans have been prepared to serve the needs of any particular community.

BAPTISTS TO CELEBRATE 75th ANNIVERSARY OF CONVENTION.

When the Southern Baptist Convention assembles in Washington, D. C., May 12, it will be the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of that body and will be known as the Victory Convention, by reason of the fact that it will celebrate the successful conclusion of the 75 Million Campaign. The local committee in Washington is making plans to entertain 10,000 delegates and visitors.

By reason of the fact that the future program of the denomination along all general lines will be formulated at this time, it is expected the meeting will be one of the most important in the history of the denomination in the South.

TWO AND A HALF MILLION NEW CHRISTIANS ARE SOUGHT.

Baptists of the eighteen states in the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention are now in the first stages of the campaign that is aimed to win at least two and a half million new converts to Christ in the homeland during the next five years. This is an average of 500,000 new converts for each year of the 75 Million Campaign and early returns from the evangelistic efforts indicate the goal will be reached.

THE BOYCOTT.

Human nature is a peculiar thing. We think and reason largely, if not altogether, just as matters affect us alone. Take for instance the action of certain senators who are trying to have laws adopted making it illegal to strike. They admit the right of any man to quit his job, but they want to prevent organizing and striking in a body. Most of us will agree that such a course of action would be the proper caper, since striking demoralizes business and adds to the already excessive cost of living. Then there is the senator who wants every one to wear overalls in order to reduce the high cost of living. Is he not, as a matter of fact, advocating a boycott, or strike directed against clothing manufacturers? In other words, he is advocating the strike method, and his colleague is advocating just the opposite.

The present high cost of clothing and food is due to shortage of labor and raw material, and the only method by which the cost may be kept at a reasonable level is by the sane and common-sense use of all sides of clothing. If well-to-do people refuse to buy the finer grades of clothing, but give preference to the cheaper grades with an idea of cheapening the cost of living, they merely raise the cost of living for the great bulk of people who must wear the cheaper grades of clothing out of necessity, and because the character of work they do requires it. The present rush of town and city people to the overall fad will be fatal to sane prices for this character of popular clothing for working men, as already overall manufacturers are putting up the price of overalls.

A continuation of the fad simply means that the class of people, upon whom the high cost of living now falls heaviest, will be the victims of another one-sided reform.—Brownwood News.

notes of the whipporwill in the spring until Jack Frost came in the autumn, the only apparel a healthy, husky boy had any use for was a long shirt. On Sundays when "store clothes" and shoes had to be worn was a day of torture instead of a day of rest and devotion. Until a boy has had the experience of sweeping the front and back yards with brush brooms on Saturday evenings with a bunch of pickannies as his subordinates, with the promise of a visit to the old swimmin' hole as a prize and a good licking if the job was not well done, he does not know what real sport is. A fellow feels a lot fresher in a long-tailed shirt and a sight more comfortable on a hot summer day. There may be some extenuating circumstances (as the lawyers would say) in this high cost of clothing yet. We are for the loose fitting garment during the heated term.—San Saba Star.

THE OVERALL FAD.

The economic movement going on over the country to form overall clubs among the business and professional men, as a means of cutting down the cost of clothing, is an absurd thing, and it is on a par with many of the one-sided and unjust reforms staged by elements of progressive Democrats pandering for reforms that are nothing more than Federal oppressions.

Shop men and farmers and others who do manual labor must wear work clothing—overalls—as a matter of necessity and convenience.

But when business men and office men and school students, whose work does not necessarily call for the use of this line of clothing, begin a foolish campaign to wear overalls, about the only economic change they will cause will be to put up the price of work clothing for the farmer and working man.

The present high cost of clothing and food is due to shortage of labor and raw material, and the only method by which the cost may be kept at a reasonable level is by the sane and common-sense use of all sides of clothing.

If well-to-do people refuse to buy the finer grades of clothing, but give preference to the cheaper grades with an idea of cheapening the cost of living, they merely raise the cost of living for the great bulk of people who must wear the cheaper grades of clothing out of necessity, and because the character of work they do requires it.

The present rush of town and city people to the overall fad will be fatal to sane prices for this character of popular clothing for working men, as already overall manufacturers are putting up the price of overalls.

A continuation of the fad simply means that the class of people, upon whom the high cost of living now falls heaviest, will be the victims of another one-sided reform.—Brownwood News.

The Great Drive on Metz. A negro labor battalion was slugging along a shell-wrecked road in the old St. Mihiel salient in the darkness one night soon after the drive. Like everyone else, they had heard the rumor that the drive was the first step in the long-anticipated masking movement on Metz. "C.P.L." spoke up the dusky pick-welder, "I goin' t' fall out." "Shut up theah, sojer," responded the Corporal, "you ain't goin' t' fall out. You goin' t' mahch right along with dis company." "Mahch right long wid dis company, mahch right along," repeated the complainant. "An' what good it do to—jes' trampin' long in dis mud?" "No mattah what good it do," replied the Corporal. "You goin' to do it jus' de same. Us non-commission' officers an' offic're doan' have to tell you listed men everything, we ha plans." "Plans, mah foot. What plans, jes' sluggin' long in dis mud. Do youan git a sojer nowhures. I see jes' t' drop out." "Sojer, you ain't goin' down out," insisted the Corporal. "Doan' tell you we got plans?" "Plans nuttin'! Jes' sluggin' long in dis mud, dat—"

It was evident that the "old" had come for the Corporal to face this man in his confidence. "Lissen heah," he whispered. "Dey is some use you sluggin' long in dis mud. Gen'l Pushing's goin' take Metz. Yassah, goin' take Metz, it cos' fo' hun'ed thousand lives." This astounding information had the desired effect. MAKING THE WEAKEST PART THE THE STRONGEST ONE

Five years ago there was only one answer to the question, "What is the weakest part of an automobile starting and lighting battery?"

It was agreed that the weak spot was INSULATION.

A good many battery builders saw that some day there would be a better and possibly an entirely different sort of battery insulation—and that when it came it would mean a better, longer lived battery.

Some even said, "Why not use rubber?" but gave up the idea when they found how many obstacles barred the way to its practical use in the insulation of an automobile starting and lighting battery.

Willard began the search with the others, and continued in spite of difficulties. It is common knowledge that we stopped only when we reached our goal, and had produced and proved Threaded Rubber Insulation.

Four years ago 35,000 Willard Batteries with Threaded Rubber Insulation were put into service. A large part of these batteries are in use today. What more striking illustration could be desired of the strength that has been added to the weakest battery part.

STRONG DEFENSE OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS OFFERED BY MR. TAFT RATIFICATION NECESSARY, HE SAYS

The Brownwood Bulletin reports a great reception as having been tendered Ex-President Howard Taft in that city last Friday upon his arrival. President Taft Friday night addressed an audience of about one thousand people in Brownwood. The following report of his address is reprinted from the Bulletin:

"Declaring that he favors the league of Nations covenant without reservations, but that the United States should become a member of the League even though the ratified covenant may contain reservations, former President William Howard Taft Friday night addressed an audience of about one thousand people at the Christian Tabernacle in this city. The whole history of the effort that has been made in the United States and in other nations to develop some kind of international league to enforce peace was revealed by Mr. Taft, and the consequences of America's failure to join such a League now that it has been definitely organized were clearly shown.

"Mr. Taft was introduced by Judge G. N. Harrison of this city, and with but few preliminary remarks launched directly into his discussion.

"During an administration which of Sweetwater, was celebrated on Thursday evening of last week, the wedding taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Batey, in the west part of town. Only members of the family and a few invited friends were present. The Rev. J. W. Cowan read the marriage ceremony.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Ross left on the night train for Sweetwater, where they will make their home. Mr. Ross is known to a number of Brady citizens, having made his home here some years ago, and is held in highest esteem by all. At present he is engaged in railroad work in Sweetwater. His bride is a Brady product, having grown to womanhood and attended the Brady schools, and Mr. Ross is to be congratulated upon having won so splendid a life companion. The best wishes of a large circle of friends is extended the newly-weds.

many of you have probably forgotten by this time," Mr. Taft said, "I sent to the Senate certain treaties designed to form the foundation for a series of international agreements which would restrain precipitate wars between the nations. The Senate considered those treaties, trampled on them, amended them, and otherwise changed them until when they came back to me their own father couldn't recognize them. I pigeon-holed them, thinking that, perhaps, the Senate might sometime change its mind; or that, in the providence of God, the people might change the Senate. But the people changed me, and his characteristic chuckle could be heard throughout the big auditorium.

The League Provisions.

"Taking up one by one of the vital features of the League of Nations covenant, Mr. Taft showed not only the necessity for such international peace agreements, but the practical operation of armaments, he said, is in his opinion the heart of the treaty. "The lack of an agreement limiting armaments was the primary cause of the recent war," the speaker said. "All the continental powers of Europe, through a period of forty years, were busy arming themselves in competition with each other. As one increased its armament, the neighboring state increased its armament. Finally, Germany won in the race, and then the war began. Under Article 8 of the League covenant the armaments of the member nations are to be limited in accordance with the recommendations of the League Council. This reduction of armament is to be gradual, and the United States would make its reduction just as England and other nations made their reductions. Armaments then would be for defense rather than for offense, and since all nations are required to reduce their armaments in the same ratio, each would have the same advantages as are now enjoyed."

"Another provision of the League covenant, Mr. Taft said, is that providing for the settlement of international disagreements by judicial procedure. Then comes Article 16, which is the penalty section of the covenant, and provides that nations which disregard their League obligations and agreements shall be subjected to a complete industrial boycott by all other member nations.

"Open diplomacy is provided for in Article 4 of the League covenant. This article provides simply that international agreements shall be open to the world, so that every nation may know what other nations are agreeing to do in their relationship and so that the jealousies and suspicions and international combinations may be restricted.

The Reservations.

"At that point Mr. Taft took up the fourteen reservations to the League covenant, which have caused the deadlock in the Senate with sixteen senators voting for ratification without reservation, forty voting for ratification with one series of reservations and forty voting for ratification with another series of reservations. The crucial differences between these factions he showed to be but minor matters of the construction placed upon words employed in writing the reservations.

"Article 10, which President Wilson has declared is the 'heart of the covenant,' Mr. Taft said is the crux about which the treaty fight has been waged. This article provides that the members of the League shall preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and political independence of the various small states which have been carved out of the larger nations engaged in the war, and in its practical application is but an expansion of the Monroe Doctrine to world-wide scope. While this article is important, the speaker said, 'I differ utterly with Mr. Wilson in the opinion that it is the heart of the League. For even if this article were eliminated entirely from the League covenant, we would still have provisions for the limitation of armaments, the industrial boycott, open diplomacy and many other very desirable agreements which are contained in other articles. I agree with the President that this article should be left in the covenant without reservations, but insist that even with the Lodge reservation it should not be permitted to defeat the whole League of Nations covenant.'

"The popular clamor against the six votes of Great Britain and her dominions as compared with one vote for the United States in the assembly of the League has at least come foundation but in the final analysis is found to be unworthy of the importance that has been attached to it. The council of the league of the executive or administrative body of the league, he said, and in this body the United States has permanent membership with one vote, the Great Britain has permanent membership with one vote. In the assembly, where the six votes of the British dominions count against one vote of the United States, a unanimous vote is required in all actions except that of admitting new members of the league, when only a two-thirds majority is required. In a unanimous vote one vote is worth as much as six he declared.

A Non-Partisan Matter.

"The conclusion of Mr. Taft's address was an impassioned plea for the ratification of the League, with whatever compromises necessary to secure the required two-thirds majority in the Senate.

"The allies in Europe fought for us for the first three years while we took the biggest possible profits from the things we shipped them for use in carrying on the war. Finally we came to ourselves and nobly helped them in their struggle to free the world. Are we going back on them now? Are we mean, selfish, reactionary? Do you think the personal opinion of any man should be allowed to stand between us and the prevention of the recurrence of such a war?"

"In this League of Nations matter I am neither a Republican nor a Democrat (loud cheers) but I'm an American citizen. We must arise above the sordid plane of partisan politics and do the thing which we recognize as necessary to make the world safe for the democracy for which our boys fought and died in the recent war."

"Just prior to the address the Brownwood Band, under the direction of W. C. Wiley, gave brief concert which was received with great pleasure by the large audience."

2000 Counties This Month

The Forces of the Church of Christ Will Gather To Face the Facts

2000 counties in the United States the pastors and laymen of 30 great denominations will meet conference this month.

It is the kind of conference that generals hold before a critical engagement; that business men hold before entering a new market. A conference of fact, not emotion; a clear-eyed facing of facts.

A Survey that Business Men Must Admire

For more than a year hundreds of workers have been busy engaged in making a scientific survey of the mission of America county by county.

The facts developed are startling. No such picture of our nation's religious situation has ever before been drawn.

On the basis of these surveys thirty Protestant denominations are uniting in a Nation Wide Cooperative Campaign

Each of the thirty denominations has its own "Forward Movement" organized and officered. The Interchurch World Movement is the clearing house for all of these.

It is the agency which the churches have created to bring to the attention of the public the facts of our religious situation, to foster cooperation and make sure that the people of this nation and dollar render the utmost service possible.

The month of April will be devoted to making the facts of the survey known to America; in the week of April 25th - May 2nd, will come a united simultaneous campaign.

Whether You Are Inside the Church or Out

Every man and every woman who loves his country, and who believes that 2000 county conferences are vitally important.

The facts developed by this great survey show what forces are at work in America—and what kind of a future this country is to be.

See that the pastor of your church appoints delegates. Any pastor can tell you the conference place and date. Or write direct to the

Mr. Willie Porch and Miss Doris Brown were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Brown, Saturday night, April 17th. They were one of the most popular young couple of Fredonia.

Mrs. John Holt passed away about eleven o'clock Sunday, after several weeks' suffering.

As my letter is rather lengthy, I will close for this time.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. WONDER WORDS.

Copies of The Brady Standard Reminds Soldier of McCulloch Boy.

Wonder, Ore., April 14.

Editor Brady Standard:

I will tell you what kind of weather we are having.

"All day the low-hung clouds hath dropped.

Their garnered fullness down, All day the soft grey mist hath wrapped

Hill, valley, grove and town." This morning when I got up there was a mantle of white all over the ground; and a million of beautifully decorated Christmas trees in sight. But it got warmer and the snow turned into rain.

I am getting to be a good guesser. I told everybody last winter when it was so dry, that just about the time we wanted to plant our crops it would be raining so we couldn't; and so it is. Our peach and plum trees are just now blooming out. We had our second mess on Easter Sunday. Wild mustard.

Say! I want to tell you something! A man stopped at our house today and noticed The Brady Standard. He said, "Brady, Texas. I soldiered with a boy from near that place. His home was near Voca." I asked him the name of the young man. He said it was Jim Casson. I told him I knew of a Jesse Casson, near Voca. He said he supposed that he was his brother as he had heard Jim speak of his brother and he thought that his brother enlisted in the navy. He said "Well, if Jess is Jim's brother, and is as good a man as Jim is, he is all right!" for he said, "I believe he is as honest a man as ever lived!"

This man's name is John Ferren, and I am of the opinion he believed what he said. He told me he had Casson's photo and he would show it to me some time.

SAUCE FOR GANDER

By GERALD ST. ETIENNE.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Little puffs of powder, Little daubs of paint, Make Miss Stella Arnold Look like what she ain't."

Stuart McKinnon's cheeks burned and his hair fairly bristled on end as he heard this paraphrase rhymed off, in passing two youths on the boardwalk. He stopped suddenly and looked back, an angry glint in his eyes. They were merely boys—youngsters, wearing their first long trousers. He started on again. It would have done them good, he thought, if he had banged their heads together or ducked them in the lake, but then, what good would it have done him? It would only have caused a scene and made things unpleasant afterwards, perhaps. The taunt was worse because it was true. Everyone knew that Stella's complexion was "doctored." There was no use denying it. Nothing irritated Stuart more than the thought of it. He had spoken to her of it.

"Don't tell me you don't like it," she had said to Stuart as he remonstrated with her. "It's fashionable and I'm going to do it while I'm here. I know the people at home would be shocked, but they are not here to see me."

As he walked to the spot where he had arranged to meet Stella, Stuart tried to figure out some way to bring her to her senses. He would not quarrel with her—he disliked quarreling with anyone, and besides Stella was a nice little girl, despite her faults. If he pretended that he was angry she could be only too willing to show him that she didn't care. She had done that before. He caught sight of her before he was able to decide upon anything definite.

He could see that she was made up as usual. He sat down beside her without a word.

"Oh, you are here!" she exclaimed, as she caught sight of him.

"Yes," he answered. "Did—for the love of Mike, what next!" He jumped to his feet and stared at her in wonder. "Well, if you are not the happy limit!" he groaned. "A beauty spot! What next!"

"What is the matter with a beauty spot?" she asked pettishly. "All the girls are wearing them. It's the very latest thing."

"I guess it is," he gasped. "If there was anything later than it you would have had it before now."

"You haven't said a word about how I look," Stella interrupted at last. "Isn't it time we went in bathing?"

"I think it is," he replied, as he consulted his watch. "I have time to go up to the village while you get ready. I will be back, ready for the water, before you are, though. For goodness sake don't spend too much time primping, or the sun will have gone down before we have a chance to enjoy it."

Stella did spend too much time "primping," but even then she appeared on the beach, in bathing costume, before Stuart did. This was unusual, but she excused him in her mind because he had always been early on former occasions. She waited nearly ten minutes before he appeared. It was her turn to gasp. Stuart's blonde mustache had changed color.

"What have you done?" Stella cried, excitedly. "You look dreadful, Stuart!"

"Don't say anything about it," he cautioned. "Everyone will hear you. I don't want them to know it is dyed. I was tired of that blonde mustache and it was hard to distinguish from my lip. This one looks better, don't you think?"

"It does not!" she declared emphatically. "It changes your appearance completely. You look so silly, Stuart! Whatever made you do it?"

"Let's change the subject," Stuart said, jumping to his feet. "The water looks fine."

The water was fine. Stuart enjoyed it from the first, but Stella didn't seem to enjoy it so much. She didn't want to swim; she didn't want to get on the raft; she didn't seem to want to do anything but have Stuart keep ducking his head under the water. She seemed relieved when he struck out for a long swim and left her. When he returned she had disappeared. He found her on the beach, almost in tears.

"I stood it as long as I could," she sobbed, when he appeared. "These girls are the most hateful things in the world. They did not do a thing but make fun of you after you had gone. That girl in the green bathing suit said you thought you were Charley Chaplin. They all knew that mustache was dyed."

"Of course, they did," he smiled. "Everybody knows that your rosy cheeks are covered with rouge, too. What's the difference? It's fashionable!"

"People don't talk about me like that?"

"Don't they? You should have heard some of the things I have heard. My cheeks have burned on your account a dozen times a day since we have been here."

"Haven't you felt ashamed? Didn't you hate me for making such a show of you? I'll never make up again."

"If you don't I'll shave off this mustache," he promised. "Of course, I haven't hated you. I have thought too much of you to let a little thing like that come between us. I wouldn't have cared if the whole world talked about you if I hadn't thought it would make you feel bad to hear it."

"You're a dear!" she cried.

BROWN CO. WOMAN DESCRIBES LAUNCHING WORLD'S BIGGEST BATTLESHIP, THE MARYLAND

Mrs. Will Young, a Brown county woman writes from Newport News, Va., to the Brownwood Semi-Weekly News, an account of the launching of America's largest and best battleship, the Maryland, which occurred on March 20th. The article written for the News, follows:

"To afford the reader some idea of the size of the Maryland, both for offensive and defensive, there will not be a battleship afloat as well equipped as the Maryland. All the modern devices that were invented during the war will be used in her construction. The ship is 624 feet long, 27 3-4 feet in breadth at the water line, and over 100 feet in breadth at the top. Her capacity is 32,600 tons. When fully equipped she will sink 32 feet in the water and in spite of that draft will have a speed of 24 land miles an hour. She has four propellers. Her engines are of the G. & E. electric-driven type. She has eight huge oil burning boilers, two funnels and two cage masts. The smoke stack is in the middle of the ship and will be sixteen feet in diameter. The mast will rise 100 feet and will be constructed of steel wire and tubing and will be well high impregnable. Her principal armament will consist of eight 16-inch turret guns, fourteen 5-inch guns, four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns, two 21-inch torpedo tubes submerged, and four 6-pounders for saluting. The crew will include 4 ward-room officers, 24 junior officers, 13 warrant officers, 64 petty officers and 1,281 enlisted men.

"Congress authorized her construction in August, 1916. The contract was let to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., December 15, 1916. Her hull was started in January, 1917. She is to be completed and turned over to the navy March 20, 1921. She is to cost around twenty-five million dollars.

"For the launching ceremonies, two official yachts, the presidential yacht, (Mayflower) and the Sylph, came down from Washington with Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and wife, Governor Richie of Maryland, Dr. Hugh Young, the noted John-Hopkins surgeon of Baltimore and numerous Congressmen and Representatives of both Maryland and Virginia. Mrs. E. Brooke Lee, wife of Major E. Brooke Lee, comptroller of Maryland, was sponsor.

"Just as the launching trigger was released and the mammoth vessel started her glide down the ways, Mrs. Lee broke a bottle of French champagne over the bows, saying, 'I christen thee 'Maryland.' As smoothly as a sled gliding down a toboggan the majestic ship sped down the ways into the waters of Chesapeake Bay.

"Overhead the air was filled with airplanes and hydro-planes that circled over the vessel. The ship yard band played 'Maryland, My Maryland.' The tugs and other ships in the harbor held their whistles open full, as did the big whistle on the ship yard power house. The big crowd yelled and waved flags, and perched high on a platform several moving picture companies ground away, indexing the magic scenes to be later released on the screen for the entertainment of millions who could not witness the original show.

"Between twelve and thirteen thousand people work in the shipyards here, and most of them were present, accompanied by wife, family or sweetheart, and so you can imagine the size and enthusiasm of the crowd which witnessed the launching.

"After the launching the Maryland was taken in tow by five tugs and pulled long side of the pier and the big crane will be busy lifting her boilers into the hold and settling them. The steam engineers will build her engines and night and day the work will go on, never stopping, for twelve months, as they must finish her in time.

"The next day on the ways where the Maryland was built, workmen began to lay the foundation of another big battleship, the West Virginia. The government is having six big superdreadnaughts built and this yard has the contract for three of them. The Iowa is to be built soon.

"When these ships are finished and equipped Uncle Sam will not fear a naval attack by any power, for it will put America so far ahead of all nations in war equipment that no one will want war with us.

"During the month of January the ship yard here launched four destroyers that are the finest of their type."

Knew His Limitations.
 "I knew a chap," said an artist, telling of some of his youthful experiences in the Latin Quarter, "who painted landscapes, and when opportunity offered he would make a little money to keep him going by decorating the walls of houses with rural scenes, highly colored in glaring tints, as if nature had turned color-blind. There were always cows and always they were represented as standing up to their knees in water."
 "Why do you always put your cows in the water?" asked some one.
 "Well," confessed the artist, "you see, I've never learned to paint hoofs."

RESULTS TELL.
 There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Brady.

Results tell the tale. All doubt is removed. The testimony of a Brady citizen can be easily investigated. What better proof can be had? B. Strickland, Brady, gave the following statement April 30, 1915: "About the only indication of kidney complaint I endured was getting down with my back. This came on every so often and I suffered badly with it. I have found Doan's Kidney Pills relieve me of this trouble. I always keep them on hand and use them if needed."

On May 15, 1919, Mr. Strickland said: "The recommendation I gave in 1915 holds good for I think Doan's Kidney Pills are just the thing for kidney trouble. Occasionally I take a few doses and with good results." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Strickland had. BRADY WINS LOOSELY PLAYED BALL GAME FROM EDEN WED. AFTERNOON

By a score of 19 to 6, Brady won a loosely played game from Eden Wednesday afternoon, the game being won, and lost, in the first two innings, during which Brady indulged in a slug-fest that put them so far in the lead Eden had no chance.

In the first inning Brady scored eight men, and seven men were scored in the second. Eden scored once in the first inning, and four men crossed home plate in the third. Following this, both sides settled down and played a good exhibition game, although wild throws contributed to a heavy error column. In the eighth, Brady scored four men, largely on bad throws, and Eden also gained one tally.

Practically the whole town turned out for the game, and enjoyed the carnage. H. S. Coleman umpired the game with complete satisfaction to both sides.

The line-up was as follows:

C. Yeager	if G. Ward
Campbell	ss J. L. Daniel

Adkins	3b L. L. Armor
Bailey Jones	rf J. W. Daniel

FRANK JOHNSON IS TRANS- FERRED TO GORMAN—J. L. DEAN NEW W. U. MANAGER

Frank Johnson, who for the past year and a half has been local manager for the Western Union, has been transferred to Gorman, where he will be in charge of the telegraph office at that place. Mr. Johnson has been deservedly popular with Brady citizens, being ever courteous and obliging, and handling the business with accuracy and dispatch. While loath to leave Brady, the change is a decided promotion for him, and consequently quite acceptable. His mother and nephew will continue to make their home in Brady until the close of school.

J. L. Dean of Fort Worth succeeds Mr. Johnson as manager of the Brady office, having been checked in last Saturday. Miss Elizabeth Souther will continue as assistant. Brady citizens are glad to have Mr. Dean with us, and extend to him a welcome to our city.

SHEEP AND GOAT GROWERS TO HAVE BARBECUE MAY 3RD

Barbecue May 3rd at Henry Jordan's summer house, on Brady creek, will be enjoyed by the sheep and goat growers. The directors have decided to have their second annual barbecue the first Monday in May and every man in the county who owns sheep or goats is expected to bring his family to this meeting. The invitation is not limited to the county citizens. If there are men outside the county who are interested in the work of this organization they are also invited and urged to attend.

A splendid program has been outlined and we believe that all who come will be benefited by it. One or two men from the A. & M. college will be here and will give us the advantage of their information on several subjects of interest to all. "How to get the balance of the money on the 1918 clip of wool" will be explained.

Test Your Planting Seed.

We have never before had so much faulty seed from which to select our plantings. Seeds that look perfectly good may not have germination power. So be careful to plant none that you are in doubt about. Test them. The way to do that is to make you a box that will hold water, with dimensions about two feet square and two inches deep, or deeper. Spread about one inch of soil over the bottom, count out one or two hundred seeds that have been taken from the planting stock and spread over this soil—only one layer of seed. Cover this seed with about one inch of soil, and moisten properly, keeping same in the sunshine for a time, giving the seed time to sprout and form a stem about two inches long. There will always be some strong seed in this hatch. From these you can judge the strength of the other seed. Count the seed that germinated vigorously and indicated plenty vitality. If the percent is below sixty you had better discard the seed. You might figure that the weak ones can be cut out, but that is not the case. They will become a part of the stand and the yield will be greatly reduced. It is too late in the season to risk having to plant over. Plant good seeds and give the crop a chance to yield one hundred fold.

Don't overlook this opportunity to get your seed beds in good shape. Lots of moisture will get away from the soil if it has to be pulverized after the rains come. The seed bed will also be too spongy and will not give the food to the plant that is needed. When the rain comes pulverize with a section harrow.

ALDERMEN EM- PLOY W. G. JOYCE AS SECRETARY

Installation of the newly-elected city officers was made at the regular meeting of the council on Tuesday night, all officers-elect qualifying, with the single exception of A. E. Carrithers who, after running a thrilling race and winning the position of town marshal by a hair-breadth, failed to file his bond and qualify for the office. As it is, the city will have to limp along with only Leonard Wood, chief of police, to look after the law and order department of the city government.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of last meeting, R. O. Wilkerson and G. B. Awalt had oath administered and were sworn into office.

Bond of N. G. Lyle Sr., as City Recorder, in the sum of $500, with E. E. Poik and J. C. Wall as sureties, was approved.

Bond of J. E. Shropshire, as Mayor, in the sum of $500, with Edd and A. H. Broad as sureties, was approved.

PROSPECTOR'S CURIOUS SENSE OF HUMOR BLAMED FOR TOMBSTONE'S NAME

Tombstone, Ariz., April 15.—A prospector's curious sense of humor was responsible for the naming of this town, which recently has gotten into the news despatches because of the Bisbee deportation trials being held here.

According to James F. Duncan, who came here in 1879, the town was founded in that year by Ed Schieffelin, a mining prospector. Schieffelin, called his mine near the site of the present courthouse "Tombstone mine" Duncan said because the region was full of drab rocks that resembled tombstones.

Tradition has it, however, that Schieffelin's friends frequently rallied him for his faith in the locality and told him that he would find his tombstone here. After the inspector had made his fortune here, in good natured irony he is said to have named the town after the fate that had been predicted for him.

To Democrats of McCulloch County:

There should be held at each voting precinct in McCulloch county, on Saturday, May 1st, between the hours of 10:00 a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. a Precinct Convention for the purpose of sending delegates to a County convention to be held at Brady on Tuesday, May 4th. The County convention will send delegates to the State convention to be held for the purpose of nominating President and Vice-President of the United States. All Democrats who are qualified voters, including ladies who have paid their poll tax or are exempt from poll tax, are entitled to participate in the convention. Those who are not Democrats and do not expect to vote a straight Democratic ticket the next election and support the nominees are not entitled to participate in the Democratic conventions. It is very important that the true Democrats who favor the Democratic administration and who are opposed to the liquor traffic be present at the precinct conventions and participate therein and send delegates to the county convention who will endorse the Democratic administration. A strong fight is being made by the Bailey crowd against the Democratic administration and in favor of the liquor interest. We should see that Democrats supporting the administration and who are in favor of clean government are sent to the Conventions.

Dutiful Prismatic.

The parlor lamp was turned low. But not insinuating low, just low enough.

"Prismatica," he gulluped. "Will you—will you give me—give me a— a kiss?"

Prismatica Trowse shook her fair young head.

"Mamma has taught me to always answer no to questions on that subject," she lisped. "No."

"Oh, Prismatica—" he hennied. Soon he timidly took her hand, and she timidly let him.

"Won't you, Prismatica?" he begged.

"No," she replied dutifully. "Oh Prismatica, please—just one?" he besought.

"No," she answered dutifully. Soon he took her other hand, timidly, and timidly she let him.

"Prismatica," he whispered, "if I asked you for a kiss would you refuse?"

"No," she answered dutifully. The parlor lamp was turned low. But nicely so. It was by no means out.

HUNT'S LIGHTNING TRIGG DRUG COMPANY

The "Soulless Corporation"

Because the Telephone Company is a corporation does not necessarily mean that it is without honor or the desire to deal fairly; that it is not as anxious as any other business enterprise to serve you satisfactorily, at a fair price, and to merit your good will.

Corporations—even public service corporations—are simply associations of men and women, managed and operated by men and women, all of whom are just as human as men and women in other walks of life.

These men and women who are the Telephone Company have every reason for trying their best to make their management and service acceptable to you—their places, pay and promotion depend upon just that thing!

Forget the "soulless corporation" when you think of the Telephone Company—think, instead, of the men and women who compose it. Give them at least "the benefit of the doubt."
