RABBIT CLUBS IN MERCURY AND MILBURN SECTIONS DO EFFECTIVE WORK

HUNDREDS OF RABBITS ACCOUNTED FOR IN FIRST PRELIMINARY DRIVES—MORE SUCCESS ASSURED IN FUTURE—MERCURY DRIVE AGAIN TODAY.

The citizens of the northeast section of McCulloch county are waging effective war on the rabbits, and expect to continue their efforts until that season is "made safe for humanity." The depredations of the rabbits have become so serious that the citizens decided it was useless to attempt to begin a crop until the pest was abated. Orchards or years standing have been killed out by the rabbits, the bark on large trees being stripped for as high as the rabbits could reach. Winter wheat and grain was kept grazed off even with the ground, and under existing conditions corn and garden truck would not stand the slightest chance of growing, much less maturing. Traps and drives, and shot-guns have been declared the most effective means of ridding the country of the rabbits, and the citizens of the Mercury-Milburn communities are in hopes that all parts of McCulloch county may follow their example and stamp out the pest now so universal in this county.

Chas. Reynolds was in Brady the latter part of last week after wire, with which the citizens of the Milburn and Holt communities expected to build a large trap preliminary to organizing a drive against the rabbits. Reynolds lives in the edge of San Saba county, near the McCulloch county line. He had a fine orchard, which the rabbits killed by stripping the bark from the trees. He states that the citizens of his community, just as soon as the necessary wire can be obtained, will build a large circular trap, with a funnel shaped opening leading into the center of the trap, the outside of the opening being about 30 yards across, while the point narrows down to only a few feet across and empties into the trap. A line of fence is then built winging away, on either side from the opening of the trap for a considerable distance. A short line of fence is also built at the mouth of the trap and pointing directly at its center, the object of this fence being to prevent the rabbits coming down one wing from running across the mouth and escaping along the wing on the other side.

Mr. Reynolds says the success had in the Brown county communities with this sort of trap has greatly encouraged the citizens of the Milburn and Holt communities and that they will lose no time in making a thorough try-out of the plan.

Mercury Uses Shot Gun.
E. W. McMurtrey was in Brady last Saturday from Mercury and reported that citizens of the Mercury-Milburn section had discussed various methods of combatting the rabbit pest, and had decided upon shot-gun drives as the best method. For one thing, the building of wire traps is not only an expensive operation, but frequent moving of the trap from one locality to another adds to the time and expense. Another thing, while the jack rabbits drive readily enough, the cotton tails, when tired, simply hug the ground and refuse to budge farther.

Mr. McMurtrey says that in their first shotgun drive, they organized and had a thorough understanding as to the manner in which it was to be conducted. One rule laid down was that none but men were allowed to participate. Boys well up in years might take part only if they were accompanied by their father. A cap-

Death of Mrs. D. P. Riley.

The death of Mrs. D. P. Riley occurred at 9:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, January 25th, at the family home on the Mann ranch, 5 miles north of Brady. Death came after a long illness with tuberculosis, Mrs. Riley being 39 years, 7 months and 4 days old at the time of demise.

Mrs. Riley was a good Christian mother, being a life-long member of the Christian church, and her noble life and Christian teachings she leaves as an inspiration and as consolation to the bereaved husband and two daughters, the latter though being of tender age, yet old enough to be guided by the advice and influence of their dear mother.

The family came to this country from Austin something like three years ago in the hopes of benefiting Mrs. Riley's health, and had since made their home on the Mann ranch, where they were held in high esteem by all neighbors, friends and acquaintances.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. J. H. Taylor conducting, and the body was carried to Brady cemetery, where it was laid at rest.

INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTOR COMING 9-11TH

Do you need assistance in making out your income tax report?

The Standard is requested by W. D. Crothers, cashier of the Commercial National bank, to announce that B. L. Covey, internal revenue collector, will be in Brady and at that bank on Wednesday and Thursday, February 9th and 11th, to assist individuals in making out their income tax reports.

McCulloch county citizens who require income tax blanks, or who want information as to exemptions, or assistance in making out their reports, or who wish advice on anything pertaining to the figuring or payment of income tax, should bear the date in mind and see Mr. Covey during his stay in Brady.

A Task.

To be honest, to be kind; to earn a little and to spend a little less; to make upon the whole a family happier for his presence to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered; to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same grim condition, to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Following the Commandment.

The children in the Sunday school class were getting restless, and the teacher, to divert them, asked all who wished to go to heaven to stand up. All rose except one little girl. "Don't you want to go to heaven, Jennie?" asked the teacher. "Yes'm," was the response, "but I know mother doesn't want me to go just yet."

CASE OF R. F. KISER VS. FT. W. & R. G. RY. OCCUPIES WEEK

The case of R. F. Kiser vs. Ft. W. & R. G. Ry., suit for damages, which went on trial Monday, has occupied the attention of county court so far this week. Kiser sues for $500 alleging damages resulting from delay in delivery of a shipment of cattle. The taking of testimony was concluded yesterday, and arguments in the case were begun yesterday noon.

Another railway suit follows, that of Zettlemeyer vs. Ft. W. & R. G. Ry., which Judge Adkins expected to take up yesterday evening.

AT THE DOOR

He wiped his shoes before his door,
But ere he entered he did more;
'Twas not enough to cleanse his feet
Of dirt they'd gathered in the street;
He stood and dusted off his mind
And left all trace of care behind.
"In here I will not take," said he,
"The stains the day has brought to me."

"Beyond this door shall never go
The burdens that are mine to know;
The day is done, and here I leave
The petty things that vex and grieve;
What clings to me of hate and sin
To them I will not carry in;
Only the good shall go with me
For their devoted eyes to see."

"I will not burden them with cares,
Nor track the home with grim affairs;
I will not at my table sit
With soul unclean, and mind unfit;
Beyond this door I will not take
The outward signs of inward ache;
I will not take a dreary mind
Into this house for them to find."

He wiped his shoes before his door,
But paused to do a little more;
He dusted off the stains of care,
The mud that's incident to life,
The blisters of a long day's toil,
The sores of a long day's toil,
And when he entered he was glad
To find his home as clean as he.

LYRIC SHOWS SUNDAY AFTERNOON AND NIGHT—EUROPEAN RELIEF

"EVERY TEN SPOT SAVES A TOT," SLOGAN ADOPTED BY WORKERS—TEXAS THEATRES EXPECT TO CONTRIBUTE QUARTER MILLION TO RELIEF WORK.

Brady and McCulloch county citizens are urged to bear in mind the two relief performances to be given at the Lyric theatre on Sunday afternoon and night for the benefit of the European Relief. One of Clara Kimbell Young's best pictures, "Soul of Raphael," will be shown at these performances. No admission will be charged, but every attendant will be expected to donate from 25c up. All receipts from the two shows will go to the relief fund. All expense of the films is prepaid, Mr. Levy donates his services, the use of his opera house and the work of his employees; not even war tax is to be deducted from the amount realized.

The Masonic Orders, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Board of Jewish Relief, and in fact, almost every civic, religious and non-sectarian organization have offered the services and their money in the furtherance of Herbert Hoover's noble cause.

"Every ten spot saves a tot" has been adopted as the slogan by the committee in charge of the Texas district. Ten dollars will feed and clothe a child for one year according to the simple plans laid out by the national association, and there are

TEXAS-MEERS CO. ALL ATTENDANCE RECORDS BROKEN CASING OFF HALF MILLION FT. GAS IN BRADY SCHOOLS

Jeff Meers, who has been spending a few days here, returned Tuesday to Concho county, where the Texas-Meers Co. expected to resume operations on their well on the Mrs. Cora Hargroves tract, following receipt of repairs. Mr. Meers reports the hole at a depth of 1280 ft., with half-million ft. of wet gas which was cased off at between 1260 and 1270 ft. The gas was more than ample to fire the boiler, but was cased off, as it was decided it would involve too much delay and expense to set the double casing and place the braden-head, which this operation would involve.

A series of hard luck has recently delayed operations at the well. First a crank shaft was broken, and had to be repaired in San Angelo. Next the friction pulley gave way and had to be repaired, and then the crank shaft broke for the second time, and the well was shut down pending arrival of a new crank shaft from Chanute, Kansas.

Mr. Meers is confident of striking pay sands at 1460 ft. and will bend his every effort to bring the well in within the next few weeks.

"And Pity 'Tis True."
Visitor (at the jail)—Poor man!
What are you locked up for?
Prisoner (wearily)—I suppose they think I'd get out if I wasn't.

At the regular meeting of the Brady school board held last night, Superintendent N. A. Cleveland directed attention of the board to the fact that the local schools today have the greatest enrollment ever recorded, with the result that practically every room is overcrowded, thereby endangering the credits given the local schools by the State Department of Education.

The present enrollment totals 640 pupils—490 being enrolled at Central school and 150 in the high school department and 7th grade. The largest enrollment of the 1919-20 session of the Brady schools was 547—425 pupils having been enrolled in the Central school and 122 in the high school department and the 7th grade.

Since the 1st of the year, the attendance at both schools has been steadily increasing, many pupils from rural districts enrolling, while new families locating in Brady have added others. The 5th and 6th grades now have a total of 112 pupils on the roll, the 7th grade 64 pupils and the rooms have from 33 to 51 pupils at each session. The State Department requires that not over 35 pupils be permitted in any one room, and the present conditions must be remedied at once, says Mr. Cleveland.

While the fact that Brady schools have attained recognition as one of the best educational institutions in the state is very gratifying to all, nevertheless the heavy attendance presents a perplexing problem that will require the best efforts of a united citizenship to solve.

OLD TRAY'S PHILOSOPHY.

A long, long time ago
When older dogs were pups,
The people drank from home-raised gourds,
And not from silver cups.
They traveled then in ox-carts slow
Instead of limousines
They wore no eighty dollar suits,
But plainer ones of jeans.
You never heard of silken shirts:
They wore the hickory blue;
And men could meet their payments then
The day the notes fell due.

You never heard the housewives pine
For fifty dollar hats;
Instead they wore a simpler thing
Held up by wooden slats.
The men would dance in brogan boots
Instead of slippers fine;
And maidens put no powder on
Their dimpled cheeks divine;
But people were so happy then
In everything they'd do,
Because they paid their store accounts
As soon as they came due.

The master took his flint-lock gun
And walked with steady track;
No warden followed on his tracks
To fill his mind with dread.
He never saw a "Posted" sign
To make him turn aside,
From the course he took against the wind—
No one his right defied.
He hunted then where'er he pleased;
His dog went with him too;
But in the good old days of old
He paid his debts when due!

WONDER WORDS.

Wonder, Or., Jan. 17.

Editor Brady Standard: This is a dark, damp, dreary, dull, drizzly, dreadfully dismal, doleful day. If you wish to use more "D's" by way of emphasis you might prefix the D—D, which of course signifies Doctor—Divine. But some seem to think it wrong to joke or say foolish things; but one wise old guy has aptly said, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men;" and I am presuming that the readers of The Brady Standard are of that class. If they are not, then it devolves upon ye editor to make them wise.

I will send you an authentic U. S. government report to show you how many inches of water had fallen in Oregon from Sept. to Jan. 1st, and it has been raining most of the time since. It is more than four feet of water.

MORE RAINFALL IN DECEMBER THAN EVER KNOWN AT ASTORIA

Astoria, Or., Jan. 6.—(Special.)—December was the wettest December of which there is any record in Astoria, the rainfall during the month having been 18.9 inches. The greatest precipitation in any 24-hour period was on the last day of the year, when 2 inches of water fell. The heaviest rainfall during the winter, up to this time, however, was on Tuesday of this week, when 2.91 inches of rain fell. From the first of September to the end of the year 48.12 inches of rain fell, this being 11.24 inches greater than during the corresponding months of 1919.

SELLING PORK.—RELATIVE WEIGHTS OF HAMS, SHOULDERS, MIDLINGS, ETC.

In selling the various parts of a hog one should know within reasonable limits the relative weights of the parts. This is easy if we will consider the hams, shoulders, midlings, head, etc., upon a percentage basis. For instance, if the farmer sells a ham or fresh pork he should of course weigh it, but at the same time if he remembered what per cent the ham is of the whole hog and knowing what the hog cost him, he would be in a better position to charge a fair relative price for the ham.

The following proportions will not be far from correct:

Per cent of hams, 19; per cent of shoulders, 16; per cent loin, 12; bacon bellies, 10½ per cent; back fat, 15 per cent; leaf lard, 4 per cent; head, 6½ per cent; feet, 3 per cent; trimmings, 8 per cent; spare ribs, 3 per cent; neck bones, 2 per cent; waste, 1 per cent.

The comparison of fresh meat prices to that of cured meats is rather difficult. It has been estimated that hams and shoulders will lose from pickled to smoked from 6 to 8 per cent; bacon will lose from 8 to 10 per cent.

DODGE BROTHERS OFFICIALS NAMED—WILL CONTINUE TO DIRECT BUSINESS

Announcement of the election of Frederick J. Haynes as president and general manager of Dodge Brothers which was made in New York last week, is now followed by a complete list of new directors and chief executives. Arthur T. Waterfall is made vice-president and assistant general manager, Harry V. Popeney secretary of the corporation and Reginald J. Fry, assistant secretary. Charles W. Matheson has been advanced to the position of general sales manager. Howard B. Bloomer is made chairman of the new Board of Directors. The other directors are Frederick J. Haynes, Arthur T. Waterfall and John Ballantyne.

To every one interested in the affairs of Dodge Brothers, it is gratifying to know that the executives now in charge of the business are all seasoned men. By reason of their long and thorough training in the policies on which John and Horace Dodge built and developed their business, they have come to know and believe implicitly in these policies. It is absolutely certain that they will continue to apply these same principles to the future of their great organization which the two Dodge Brothers left as a monument to their genius.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Walter Caldwell returned Wednesday morning from Brownwood, where he had been called last week by news of the serious illness of his brother, Howard. He reports his brother much improved.

George D. Zivley, traveling freight agent of the Santa Fe, with headquarters in Temple, was a business visitor in Brady yesterday, looking after his company's interests, and incidentally greeting former friends and acquaintances.

Jas. T. Mann left Tuesday night for Dallas to attend the state meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, in session there on the 26th and 27th. Mr. Mann will make report of the meeting at the Farmers Mass meeting called to meet at the court house in Brady Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

A letter received here from Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ballou, who are ranching Rosedale, N. M., tells of their attendance at the Cattleman's convention in El Paso, and their delight at seeing and meeting Texas folks there, including several Bradyites. While in El Paso, the Ballou car was stolen out of a garage and not recovered until after three days' search.

A little daughter named Betty Irene has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Sammons, Born January 19, 1921.

So read a dainty little card received by Grandfather W. W. Sammons this week from the home of the proud parents in Fort Worth. Cleveland Sammons has a host of friends in Brady, all of whom will rejoice with him in the glad event. Grandpa Sammons is just as proud of his second granddaughter as he was of his first—the daughter of his son, Belmont.

Good Business.

The other day a stranger entered the Indiana National Bank and asked to borrow $5. He was told that the bank did not lend such small sums. "But," he went on, "lending money is your business, isn't it?" The banker admitted that it was. "Well, I have good security," said the stranger, "and I want to borrow $5."

Finally the banker, half from fatigue and half from amused curiosity, agreed to make the loan. When the note was all drawn and the interest of 35c paid, the stranger drew from his pocket $10,000 worth of Government bonds and handed them over as security. Before the banker could express his astonishment the stranger said:

"Now this is something like it. Over at the other bank they wanted me to pay $10 just for a safety deposit box to keep these things in!"—Indianapolis News.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Rose Cohen left the latter part of last week for St. Louis where she has entered school.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kiser of Menard were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ake, while here attending court.

Miss Rebecca Francks, accompanied by her niece, Miss Kathryn Ballou, left Sunday night upon her return to her home at Marlin.

Mrs. Jack Hill and sister arrived last Friday morning to join Mr. Hill here. The family has apartments at the L. Ballou residence.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Squyres were among the Mercury visitors in Brady the latter part of last week, being guests of their son, Oscar, and family.

J. R. Stone of Brownwood was greeting former neighbors and friends here Wednesday while here on business for Walker-Smith Co.

Mrs. O. W. Arge, who has been visiting here since the holidays, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Schwenker, returned Tuesday night to her home in Dallas. Little Louie Marie Schwenker accompanied her for a visit.

BRADY, TEXAS, Jan. 28, 1921.

HONEST INJUN.

What with such new terms as "hijacker," "buyman," etc., Websters unabbreviated appears due for a revision.

OPEN LETTER NO. 7.

To the Buying Public in General:
 In taking up the subject of a Retail Merchant's Credit association, The Standard makes first appeal to the citizens, and not to the mercantile interests, because we believe such an association is really more vital to the interests of the community at large than to the merchants themselves. At any rate, the advantage to merchants and to consumers is at least 50-50.

Most any Brady merchant will tell you he has on hand more or less "dry" checks. Some will eventually be made good; some are absolutely worthless. This loss falls directly upon the merchant—but also indirectly upon the consumer, since the merchant must make good his losses by making his percent of profit, large enough to enable him to continue to make a profit despite such "leaks." The result is, Mr. Good-Pay, that you are forced to carry the load your less-upright neighbor should bear. You're penalized for his dishonesty, or carelessness, or improvidence—whatever his act may be termed.

A retail merchants' credit association would do much for the advancement of a community. It will enable the Man-Who-Pays to get credit whenever and whenever he wants it or needs it; it will enable him to buy his goods on a closer margin; it will have his credit firmly established should he decide to locate elsewhere, and prove his best introduction to his new home and neighbors. It would force the careless pay to become good pay, or else cash pay. It would make him first buy his necessities—then luxuries. It would be a virtual application of the Golden Rule to one and all alike.

The Standard believes no better move could be made than for the establishment and maintenance of a Retail Merchants' Credit association which should not only be active in Brady, but throughout McCulloch county.

Yours to do as you would be done by,
 THE BRADY STANDARD.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Here is tardy acknowledgment—but better late than never!

The Standard editor wishes to acknowledge, first of all, the receipt of a pine cone from our friend, J. T. Roberson of Wonder, Ore. Now, as a boy, we were familiar with pine cones, and have seen them by the thousands in size anywhere from 1-2 inches to 4 and 5 inches in length. We were rather puzzled, therefore, when Friend Roberson wrote that he was experiencing some difficulty in getting pine cones, as they had to be gotten out of the snow-covered mountains. When the specimen with which he favored us arrived, however, we no longer wondered, for it stands fully 12-in. in height, and is as big around as a small lard pail. The cone was received before Christmas, and proved useful in adorning the Christmas tree, which Santa thoughtfully provided in the editorial paragonage—in fact, it promises to prove useful in that capacity for many years to come. Our thanks, therefore, to our thoughtful Oregon friend.

Then, too, we are indebted to our Congressman, Thomas L. Blanton, for three plants received through the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The first and most noticeable of the trio

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS?

January 18, 1921.

Editor Brady Standard:
 Please print this for me. We women of Brady are advised by our men to ask the friends of Brady to help to break up that Flat, down around the Planter's Gin. We want a clean town, and it looks as tho' the Negroes and Mexicans are in to run the town and run it over us. So will you all help us to stop all of this, please?
 —A WOMAN FRIEND.

was one bearing the imposing title of Lonicera fragrantissima, which, translated into household English, means fragrant honeysuckle; it was first and most noticeable because it was green and leafed out, and at first promised to be the only "live" one in the bunch. Somehow, it has experienced difficulty in getting acclimated, and at present presents a droopy appearance, which, we hope, a little more sunshine and Spring weather will overcome. Should that prove the case, we invite all our readers to come and smell our fragrant honeysuckles—when the suckles are in honey.

No. 2, next in line because it appeared to retain a spark of life, was labeled hibiscus. Now the hibiscus is both a useful and an ornamental plant, as it produces not only large, showy flowers, but some varieties yield strong fibres and much mucilage, and others even yield oil (not petroleum). We are undetermined as to just what species we have, since Hibiscus first name was missing, but the plant has leafed out nicely and is making sure, if somewhat slow, progress towards development.

Last, but most, of the series of triplets, had (hold your breath) for a cognomen Laegerstroemia Indica. Well, that would most have stumped us, had not the words "crepe myrtle" also been printed on the card. Now crepe myrtle had as much appearance of life as the proverbial Egyptian mummy—but, being an optimistic sort of a cuss, we treated the dead with every respect, offering food and water at stated intervals, with the surprising result that the resurrection was not long in coming about. Today, of the three, crepe myrtle is by far the most vigorous, extensive and appreciative of attentions given.

The department of agriculture failed to accompany the gift with any instructions for care or handling, so we presume they think it is second nature with recipients to watch, water and wait. We are!

BEFOREHAND.

Editor Billie Smith of the San Saba News is evidently anticipating the enforcement of the "Blue Laws," by devoting all time, formerly spent in domino playing, tiddle-dewinks and tobacco chewing, to the study of matters religious. Witness the following two gems reprinted from his last week's issue:

"The shortest text ever used for a sermon was that by a Houston preacher recently. It was 'women's dresses.'"

And this—
 "It may not interest you, gentle reader, to know it but you might be happier if you knew a lot of things that you don't know. But did you know that Shakespear is in the Bible? Well, turn to the 46th Psalm, count 46 words from the first and you will find the word 'shake.' Now count 46 words from the last or end of the chapter and you will find the word 'spear.' Now put these two words together and you have Shakespear."

Good Health says every person, to be healthy, should walk at least four miles a day out of doors. But the average person today, male or female, is confronted with an ordeal if he has to walk four blocks to church on Sunday. Several generations hence people may be born with a self-starter instead of legs.—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

FEDERAL ROAD AID.

All of the States have undrafted balances to their credit in the funds Congress has set aside as a Federal aid in road building. Texas, whose allotment is the largest, has, according to The News' Washington correspondent, an unexpended balance of more than $14,000,000. As is well known, the States are required to spend about as much as they get from the Federal Government to establish claim to the money allotted to them by the Federal Government, so that the existence of these unexpected balances evidences the subsidence of road building operations during the last four or five years. With appropriations made in the past still uncalled for, the need of making further appropriations just now seems to be lacking, and The News' correspondent reports a strong disposition in Congress to economize in this way. It could probably be done without detriment, since the funds now available to the States are not likely to be exhausted during the year. Also this state of the matter presents a fair opportunity to bring the whole question of Federal aid under review in the light of experience. It yields some good, undoubtedly, but at a price which might be thought unreasonably high. The theory which associates the Federal Government and the States in this and other kinds of undertakings is an attractive one and, logically, a sound one, but it is doubtful if it works out always in the admirable way promised by the theory.—Dallas News.

BACK TO ECONOMY.

The United States is confronted with a debt of $7,397,000,000, which will be due in two and one-half years. To this may be added the ordinary or "incidental" government expenses of the Nation for the same period, which is estimated at $10,500,000,000, and the State budget which is calculated in tens of millions.

With the above figures before them the people have a vivid conception of the revenue required to run the Government and it is not surprising that they are demanding economy in the administration of government, both National and State.

On this subject, Farm and Ranch says:
 "Along with the spendthrift tendencies of many individuals, our State and National Governments have been spending prodigally. Numerous new departments, boards, commissions, investigators and humanitarians have been authorized, most of them to do cheaper and better. Enormous appropriations are being asked for the various commissions, boards and uplifters. Government must go back to the consent of the governed. Private initiative, private capital, private individuals must be encouraged, but not given special favors. Our Government and the States should require more of citizens; attempt to do less for them and place less taxes upon them."—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

IN DAYS OF OLD.

A merchant of Uvalde, Texas, not long ago wrote something of the former abundance of buffalo in the southwest. From 1873 to 1874, he says, he saw as many as eight large prairie schooners, drawn by eight mules each, stand on Congress Avenue, the main street of Austin, Texas, loaded to the full capacity with nothing else but back straps and smoked buffalo tongues sold to the public at twenty-five cents each. These buffalo were killed by the tens of thousands on the north Concho river fifty miles northwest from San Angelo. He adds:
 "I was a boy chain carrier out with a surveying party for four years, locating the public lands into alternate sections, one for the railroads and one for the public schools, and I was all over West Texas afoot. I saw the bones of buffalo so close together that you could walk for miles in any direction and not be eighteen inches from some part of a buffalo. When our party of twenty-one men and twelve U. S. soldiers, who acted as our body-guard, reached Fort Concho—now San Angelo—the post trader had a room behind his store, twenty by twenty, and this room was filled with dressed buffalo hides, and each one of our party purchased one hide to sleep on. We paid three dollars and fifty cents for each dressed hide. You could select one to suit you."—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

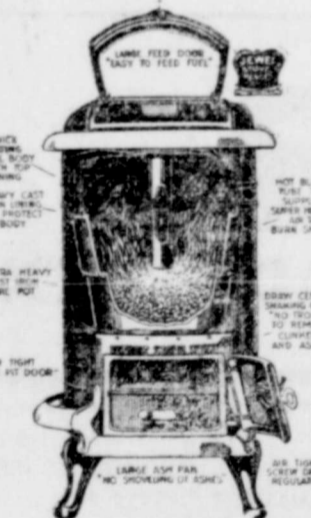

The situation confronting ranchmen generally at the present time and during the last twelve months is well stated by H. W. Rieck, owner of a 40,000 acre ranch in Kimble county, Texas, who says: "The Patterson ranch marketed $16.32 worth of products during the twelve months of 1920, and that was realized from the sale of two cowhides last spring, before the bottom fell out of the hide market; now the two hides would bring less than $4.00. The money derived from our ranch during the year just past," Mr. Rieck said, "is typical of the country lying in the watershed of the Llano river. Of course, in some instances, there have been sacrifices, but in the majority of cases ranchmen were understocked. There was no reason to market livestock where there was no surplus on the ranges. There was no market for wool and none for mohair. We couldn't sell our cotton for enough to justify growing it, so we have been sitting tight and hoping that trading will be revived and that the demand for our products will be stimulated to the point that it will be possible to sell them for enough to pay the cost of production."—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

Week End Party.

An enjoyable week end party was had at the S. A. Benham home, Miss Lucille Benham entertaining for her guests, the Misses Thelma Kahn and Eulah Franklin, with Messrs. Monroe Mayes, James Abney, Dudley Moore and Jack White of Lampasas as guests of honor. The party was joined by Misses Rebecca Francks and Sarah Johanson and Mr. H. A. Wulff, the occasion being thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Bridge Club.

Mrs. Sam McCollum was hostess at the regular weekly meeting of the Bridge club on Tuesday afternoon, with club members in attendance as follows: Mesdames G. V. Gansel, R. W. Turner, J. S. Anderson, C. T. White, W. D. Crothers, Ed Campbell, John Wall; Miss Sarah Johanson. Guests were Misses Lucille Benham, Thelma Kahn of Berkeley, Calif., Eulah Franklin of Eldon, Missouri, Erin Yantis; Mrs. H. W. Lindley.

Tuesday Club.

The regular meeting of the Tuesday club was held with Mrs. J. A. Maxwell this week, the lesson being on "Interesting Citizens of the Gulf Stream," with Mrs. Bert Stobaugh as leader. Eight members were in attendance.

Following the lesson the matter of a "Clean-Up" campaign for Brady was taken up for discussion, and it was decided to appoint a committee to meet with the Brady City Council, in order to have the "Clean Up" in Brady officially set for March, when the statewide "Clean Up" campaign is to be inaugurated.

The next meeting of the club will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock with Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. Webb leading the lesson, which will be upon "Life in Afghanistan."

Complimenting Visitors.

Mrs. Dick Winters entertained Monday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Wall, in compliment to Misses Thelma Kahn of Cali-ornia and Eulah Franklin of Missouri, charming and attractive guests of Miss Lucille Benham. Guests included Mesdames Sam McCollum, C. T. White, G. V. Gansel, J. S. Anderson, G. C. Kirk, Ed Campbell, Herbert L. Wood; Misses Sarah Johanson, Lucille Benham, and the honorees.

A series of "Bridge" formed the afternoon's diversion, Mrs. C. T. White receiving as prize for high score a blooming narcissus. As guest prizes, the Misses Kahn and Franklin were presented with boxes of cream candy by the hostess.

A delightful refreshment course of chicken croquets, potato chips, hot biscuits and an ice, was served the guests.

McCULLOCH CO. SCHOOLS ABOVE AVERAGE--CLARK

After traveling over a large portion of the state in his official capacity as rural school inspector, S. E. Clark, who visited the McCulloch county schools in company with W. M. Deans, county school superintendent, the past two weeks, stated he found the McCulloch county schools far above the average. He was especially surprised to find many large rural schools, away from the railroad. He found most of the schools in excellent condition.

Mr. Deans reports having received $8,856, with which to pay salaries of teachers, the money received being interest on vendor's lien notes held against school lands belonging to the McCulloch county schools.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Fried Mush and Bacon.
Cook slices of bacon in the spider; lift them out and lay on a hot platter. Cut cold mush in neat slices, dip in flour, egg and crumbs. Fry in hot fat till brown and crisp on both sides. Drain on soft paper and serve with bacon. This makes a delicious breakfast dish.

Hominy in Cream Sauce.
Two cupfuls cream sauce.
Two cupfuls cold hominy.

Make a cream sauce of butter, flour and whole milk and into it stir the hominy. Have the hominy well cooked before putting it in the sauce. This is a good substitute for potatoes, as well as a change. Season well with salt, pepper and plenty of butter.

Rice with Date Sauce.
Take cold rice, put it in a double boiler with a little milk and let steam till the milk is absorbed. Sweeten to taste and add a dash of nutmeg. Press the rice into buttered cups. Turn out and serve hot, individually, with a lemon sauce in which cut dates have been stewed for a few minutes. This makes a nice dessert.

Yeast Fruit Cake.
1-2 cups of dark brown sugar.
1 large spoonful of either butter, lard or meat fryings.
1 cup of yeast sponge.
1 cup of seeded raisins.
1-2 cup of currants.
1 cup of sour milk or buttermilk.
1-3 teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the milk.
1-2 teaspoonful of salt.
2 1-2 cups of flour or enough to make a stiff batter.

Mix cake when you mix bread, put in pan and set aside until the bread has baked, then put the cake in the oven and bake from 1-2 to 2 hours. Dredge raisins and currants with flour before putting them in the cake.

Woodford Pudding.
3 eggs.
1 teacupful of sugar.
1-2 teacupful of butter.
1 1-2 teacupfuls jam or preserves.
1 tablespoonful soda, dissolved in three teaspoonfuls of sour milk.
Cinnamon and nutmeg to taste.
Mix all well together and bake slowly in a pudding dish. Bake in oven as for loaf cake. Serve with hard sauce made as follows:
2 parts of pulverized sugar to 1 part of butter. Cream the butter and add sugar gradually until very light. Flavor with lemon juice or nutmeg.

Golden Cream Cake.
Cream one cup sugar, one-fourth cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, three well beaten eggs, two cups of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Flavor with lemon. This makes a small cake.

Sweet Potatoes.
Bake medium sized potatoes. When they are soft cut in two length-wise and scoop out the inside with a spoon. Put it through a potato ricer, and have butter, salt, pepper and enough thick cream to moisten. Whip with a fork until light and fluffy, refill the skins, heaping the potatoes into rough little mounds, and bake a light brown. A marshmallow baked on top of each makes them delicious.

Ham Balls.
Mince lean ham and mix with an equal quantity of mashed potatoes. Mold into small, flat cakes, roll in flour and brown in a spider with slices of salt pork fried out.

Beefsteak Roll.
Get a round steak, spread over it a layer of any kind of dressing. Begin at one end of the steak, roll it carefully and tie it to keep it in shape. Bake in oven and baste very often. Mix a brown gravy of the drippings. The dressing with a small stock of celery cut up in it adds a delicious flavor.

JEAN'S TEA ROOM
By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Jean Webb leaned against the gate post and looked up at the quaint old house where she had been born, and which was the birthplace of her mother and her grandmother. The three of them lived alone there with a tiny income from Jean's school teaching, with the old house almost falling down for need of repairs, and with a tangled old garden which had no one to take care of it.

Grandmother was old and feeble and Mrs. Webb was not strong. When Jean came home from teaching her sturdy youngsters she was tired and there was always housework to do, so the old house and garden were neglected.

"If I could only sell it," sighed Jean, "for a good sum of money, then—" she smiled and brushed away a tear, "then mother and grandmother would die of homesickness! Well, we'll keep it—somehow, all together!" She turned as a motorcar slowed at the gate. A smartly uniformed chauffeur touched his cap and opened the door of the car.

An elderly woman with gray hair and soft appealing eyes smiled graciously on the slender girl at the gate. "I beg your pardon—can you tell me if there is a tea room nearby?" she queried. "We have had a breakdown and it is long past luncheon hour—"

Jean hesitated. With the woman's question an idea flashed into her head—perhaps this was the answer to her prayers—this might be the golden opportunity knocking at her gate. If there was a demand for tea rooms—why not supply it?

In a few moments three ladies were sitting in the comfortable chairs in the green gloom of the honeysuckle vines, exclaiming over the roses that Jean brought them and the pure chalice of the fragrant day lilies. Then Jean disappeared for a period to return with pink slices of ham laid on crisp lettuce leaves, delicious balls of cream cheese, a pot of home-made jam, a simple salad and dainty bread and butter sandwiches—these and a pot of tea Jean placed before the ladies and then went away and left them alone.

When she came back they were so generous in their praise of the unexpected hospitality—so eager for Jean to open a tea room there.

"You are so near the post road, my dear—all you need is a few tables on the veranda and your own beautiful things—your cooking is delicious—let me have a sign painted for you!" urged Mrs. Delbridge, the owner of the car and the hostess of the party.

"You are too kind," protested Jean. "I shall send my son out next week and I may come with him—it is vacation now and you will have plenty of time. Beware! We shall send all our friends!" They laughingly drove away, their arms full of flowers, and it was not until they had disappeared that Jean remembered that they had not asked for a check and she had not thought to charge them!

"A poor business woman am I," she murmured wryly as she cleared the table. Then she found a five-dollar bill pinned to the damask cloth and she danced into the house waving it exultantly. "Exit Jean the schoolmarm and enter Jean the keeper of the tea shop—and weeder of her garden once more. Hurray!"

A week later a small gray car stopped at the gate and Jean, who was enthusiastically weeding the graveled walk between the rows of fragrant boxwood, thought of her grubby fingers and mused blue frock. "It must be Mrs. Delbridge's son," she thought as she went to the gate. In one hand he carried two rustic swinging signs and with the other he uncovered his handsome head.

"Is this the Wayside tea room?" he asked with twinkling eyes. "Why—no—" hesitated Jean. "I am afraid it is—or it is going to be!" He grinned as he displayed the signs.

Sure enough—framed in rustic were the magic words: "THE WAYSIDE TEA ROOM." And one corner of the sign was lengthened into a pointing finger.

"How kind of Mrs. Delbridge," cried Jean ecstatically. "One is for your veranda and the other to hang from some tree down the road—a guide. Mother said you would know the tree."

"The old locust at the corner," explained Jean.

"I will hang it for you," declared Phil Delbridge, and from the tool kit in the car he brought the necessary tools and presently the quaint sign was swinging in the soft wind. Afterward Phil hung the other sign over the front while Mrs. Webb and Jean prepared a high tea in the veranda. There was fresh strawberry shortcake and plenty of cream and other delicious viands, for the Webbs were famous housewives.

Phil lingered on the front steps with Jean. A whippoorwill was singing in the orchard and the roses were heavy with fragrance.

"I shall come again—and again—" promised Phil, releasing Jean's fluttering fingers.

"Do come," said Jean in a small voice; and her tone might have discouraged Phil Delbridge had he not read her eyes. He felt that while Jean's tea room might be the beginning of the story, the ending of the story must come only when beautiful Jean belonged to him.

Labor—And the Cost of Your Telephone

One-half or more of every dollar you pay the telephone company for service goes for direct labor costs—the salaries and wages of the people engaged in making the service.

Of the remainder, a large portion goes for indirect labor costs—labor in the manufacture of telephone maintenance material; in the transportation of that material; in printing; in the making of telephone tools; in the upkeep of trucks and other vehicles—and all the various other ways.

All the people engaged in these different industries must receive adequate remuneration—that, none will deny.

The principal factor, therefore, in the fixing of telephone rates, is the prevailing wages of labor—and wages are higher today than ever before in the history of the business!

"At Your Service"

WITH THE CHURCHES

Catholic Church.
Mass will be said on the third Sunday of each month at 10:00 a. m. by the Rev. Francis Hudon.

Fifth Sunday Meeting.
The Fifth Sunday meeting of the Baptist association will convene this morning at 10:00 o'clock at the Baptist church. Everyone invited to attend.
J. H. TAYLOR, Pastor.

REVIVAL STARTS AT METH-ODIST CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY MORNING, 11:00 A. M.
We are hoping and praying for a great victory in the revival which is to begin next Sunday. We have repeatedly asked that all Christians cooperate with us in every way you can. Everybody, whether you are a member of any church or not, will be welcome to attend every service. Come to sing, to pray, to talk of Christ and His love, put your talent into the service of God, and you will be blessed. It is our aim to help every member in any church here to be better Christians and with God's grace to lead others to Christ.

Our subject next Sunday morning will be: "Weak and Foolish Things." And at night: "The Way Back Home." Let's plan to be at every service. Not only go, but be in our place of humble duty and not slack, nor wait to be called upon. If you sing, don't wait to be called to the choir, but go right up as you come in the house. We want everybody to feel perfectly at home, and work and worship with us.

We had 161 at Sunday school last Sunday morning. If you are not enrolled in Sunday school, we will do our best to help you if you see fit to cast your lot with us. Every child in Brady should enroll at once in some Sunday school of the city. Let's make our homes better. Let's make our churches and Sunday schools better. Let's make our public schools better. Let's make our town—good old Brady better, every day, by forging to the front in Righteousness and Truth.

Alright, let's go! Pick up and step, don't drag!

PROMINANT OFFICER OF MASONIC GRAND LODGE DIES AT BROWNWOOD

Following an illness that confined him to his bed for the past two weeks, William W. Peavy died at his home on Austin avenue early this morning. His illness was caused by cancer from which he had long been a sufferer, and which brought partial paralysis several days ago.

The remains will be taken tonight to the old family home at Cuero, DeWitt county, where interment will be made on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. In addition to the family, a number of Brownwood Masons will accompany the body to Cuero, and the funeral and interment will be made by representatives of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Texas, headed by Past Grand Master A. A. Ross.

Biographical.

William Walton Peavy was born in DeWitt county, Texas, December 23, 1851. He was married to Nannie McAlister, at Clinton, DeWitt county, December 20, 1876, and to the couple were born nine children: George Clyde, who died October 5, 1881; D. Bainkley, who died May 9, 1909; and the following who survive him: Mrs. Sallie Staples of Edna, Sterling Peavy of Slaton, Frank Peavy of the Texas coast section, Mrs. Willie Rowland of Edna, Miss Janie Peavy of Brownwood, and Henry and Rufus Peavy of Brownwood. The wife and mother died at Cuero May 9, 1906.

Mr. Peavy and children moved to Brownwood in August, 1909, and have made their home here since that time. Prior to his coming to Brownwood he was engaged in the stock raising industry in DeWitt county, but since coming here has devoted his entire time to his work as treasurer of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of the Masons of this state, a position to which he was elected about ten years ago and has held continuously since that time.

Mr. Peavy was known personally, perhaps, by every member of the Masonic lodge in Texas. He became a member when a young man, and attended grand lodge for the first time in 1884. For the past twenty-six years he had attended every meeting of the state grand lodge, serving on the grand lodge committee on work for eight or ten years before becoming grand treasurer. He was known as one of the best posted Masons in the state, and spent much of his time encouraging the order throughout the turing and otherwise building up and state. He was known as the "grand old man of Texas Masonry," and universally loved as such.

Mr. Peavy was a Presbyterian, and a conscientious Christian man and good citizen. He was devoted to his family and friends, and was loved and respected by all the people of this city as well as in his old home county, DeWitt, where his body is to be taken tonight and laid to rest beside that of the faithful wife whose death occurred just prior to the removal of the family to this city.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Death of Mrs. Novie Riley.
(Contributed).

Mrs. Novie Riley, aged 39 years, 7 months and 7 days, passed away at her home five miles north of Brady early Tuesday morning. Death was not entirely unexpected, as Mrs. Riley had been in bad health for several years.

Mrs. Riley was born near Austin, Texas, Travis county, June 18, 1881. Was married to D. P. Riley October 8, 1906.

Thinking it would benefit her health Mr. and Mrs. Riley moved near Brady about four years ago. And for some time she seemed to regain health, but for the past year she had been gradually growing weaker until the end came.

She united with the Christian church at fourteen years of age and lived a consecrated Christian life. She had a kind and loving disposition and bore all her sufferings patiently, never complaining of anything.

Funeral services were held at her home Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Taylor, after which interment was made in Brady cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, two daughters, Vivian, aged 13, Theima, aged 12, her mothers, Mrs. E. C. Jarmon of Austin, four brothers, A. J. Jarmon of Elgin, R. E., W. T. and S. W. Jarmon of Austin; three sisters, Mrs. W. R. Hall of Mart, Mrs. J. E. Smith of Sour Lake, Mrs. W. H. Evans of Brady.

The sympathy of a host of friends is extended those left to mourn the passing away of this true Christian woman.

A Tombstone for Susan

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"For the love o' Pete!" Jeremiah Hart leaned over the fence and watched with amazed eyes as Oscar Plumb, the local stonecutter, chipped away at a slab of snowy marble. "Is Susie Ricketts dead?" he gasped at last.

Oscar's teeth gripped his pipe and he turned a wary eye toward Susan Ricketts' windows. He was nervously aware that Susan was watching him from some vantage point and he wondered whether she would object most to the marble chips on her orchard grass or to the fact that he was wasting some of her time to speak to a passing neighbor.

"No, she ain't dead," he said, after a while. "Not dead?" insisted Jeremiah incredulously.

"Not yet!" roared Oscar. "Not yet!" "Sick?"

"Nope." "Then—why—the tombstone?" "Because she wanted to—that's reason enough—it's enough for me," he suddenly chuckled. "The Ricketses always was forehanded, y' know, Jerry."

Jeremiah sagged weakly against the fence. His mind was incapable of readjustment after such a shock. First the sight of Oscar Plumb sitting in Susan Ricketts' orchard, placidly cutting into a slab of white marble, was disturbing enough—Oscar's place for chipping tombstones was in his little stoneyard by the river, or, on rare occasions, in the churchyard. Second, the idea of Susan's thinking of anything so practical was absurd in itself.

"You're staying with us while you're here, Ed. Come along now—Lucy'll give you raspberry shortcake with thick cream—you know I married Lucy Bee," he reminded the prodigal son of Rosedale as they walked down the street.

"Lucy Bee—I remember—sweetest girl in Rosedale—barring one," said Ed, reminiscingly.

A light came into Jeremiah's dull brown eyes. It was the greatest moment of his life for the instant his hand was on the wheel of destiny. "Hark," he said, inclining his sandy head.

They both stopped short and listened. Through the mellow evening air came the fluting song of a robin—the soft, high "tweeet" of swallows dipping in the golden light—and the clinking sound of metal against stone.

"What's that?" asked Ed, curiously. "Cow bells?"

"That's Oscar Plumb chippin' a tombstone—you remember Oscar?"

"Yes; I remember—who's dead?"

"He's a chippin' a stone for Susie Ricketts!"

"Jerry!" Ed Finney gripped the other's arm, and this time Jeremiah kept perfectly still.

"It surprised me, too," said Jeremiah.

In the silence the robin sang to its mate and the swallows dipped in pools of sunshine. When Ed spoke his voice was strained. "Jerry, I came home to marry her—we quarreled two years ago and I went off—I was a crazy loon in those days, but I've learned a lot—and one thing is that she is the best girl in the world—and it breaks my heart that I've got to go back West without her—"

Jerry nodded. "She's had a tough time of it, but cheery as a little wren—Lucy and I know how good she can be—and almost everybody says the same—you really want to marry her, Ed?"

Ed nodded curtly. His gray eyes were tragic—he wore the look of a man who has followed Joy over hills and mountains and through deep valleys and has lost sight of her forever.

"Come along," said Jeremiah. "We got to pass the house."

They passed the cozy little house and came to the orchard, where Oscar Plumb was showing the half completed work to Susan Ricketts, who dimpled and sparkled in the sunset glow like the flashing swallows with their gills or sooty black—that was her hair; warm brown—her eyes; and deep blue—her pretty cotton dress.

Oscar saw them and called over. "Here, Jeremiah, Susie wants me to put 'spinsier' under 'Susan Ricketts' and I tell her there's a plenty time yet to get married—cricky—Ed, how be ye?"

"Beat it!" commanded Mr. Finney, as he leaped the fence like a school boy and gathered the astonished Susie Ricketts into his arms.

Oscar picked up a few tools and fled through the back way, casting one backward glance, that caused him to chuckle delightedly. But Jeremiah, dizzy with the whirl of events and feeling that the wheel of destiny had been wrested from his grip by the efficient Mr. Finney, hastened home to his Lucy with astounding news.

"And he looked at her and she looked at him just like you look at me, Lucy," he finished softly. "Understand?"

Little Lucy blushed and nodded and laid her pretty head on his heart. "We know!" she murmured.

GREAT QUEEN AS A DIPLOMAT

Elizabeth of England, Eccentric and Able, Curried Favor With Her "Loving People."

Queen Elizabeth of England had all the instincts of a politician, besides being one of the most eccentric of English rulers. Among other popular customs, she was wont to honor Greenwich fair with her presence. On one of these occasions she came riding on a pillion behind her favorite master of the horse, Leicester, and the people not only greeted her with great acclaim, as was their custom when she appeared among them, but in their eagerness to get near her, to catch a look, a word, or perhaps snatch a jeweled button or aiglet from her dress, crowded her majesty almost to suffocation.

Her noble equerry then, as a matter of necessity, used his riding whip very smartly to drive the crowd back, whereupon her majesty graciously interfered ever and anon, crying: "Prudence, my lord, take heed that thou do not hurt my loving people!"

But when, in obedience to these tender remonstrances, he desisted, and she found herself again surrounded by the swarming crowd and her progress impeded, she would call to the earl in a low voice, "Cut them again, my lord, cut them again!"

Clearing the Way for Jones. A celebrated revivalist came to address his flock, and before he began to speak the pastor said: "Brother Jones, before you begin this discourse, there are some powerful bad negroes in this here congregation, and I want to pray for you," which he did in this fashion:

"O Lord, give Brother Jones the eye of the eagle, that he may see sin from afar. Give his ear to the Gospel telephone and connect him with the central skies. Illuminate his brow with a brightness that will make the fires of hell look like a tallow candle. Nail his hands to the Gospel plow, and bow his head in some lone-ome valley where prayer is much wanted to be said, and anoint him all over with the kerosene oil of thy salvation and get him adre."

BEE CAVES PLENTIFUL LOMETA MAN WRITES—NOT FICTION AT ALL

Of late I have seen much in Texas papers about bees and bee caves in West Texas, which most of the people believe is all fiction. I am an old Texan and can truthfully say that in the bluffs of Colorado, Llano, San Saba and other counties there are many bee caves and there is no telling the amount of honey in them. They have been there for ages. Near Lometa in a country church and school house the bees made a home, and they never bothered anyone at church or school. The trustees decided that they might sting someone, and met there to destroy the hives. They got out of the wall of the little school about 50 gallons of strained and 100 pounds of comb honey—the sweetest honey in Texas.

In my home in Lometa—it is a five-room frame house—the bees found a hole in the wall under a window, and have gone to housekeeping in the part between the inner and outside walls. I am going to let them alone—they bother no one—and some day I hope to have a car of honey. Why don't more farmers go into bee culture as a business? Since the negro won freedom the bee is the only thing that will work.—Lometa Correspondent in Houston Chronicle.

SHEEP RAISING IS PICTURED

Film Shows Treatment of Flock at Culling Time in Fall and on to Selling of Lambs.

A motion picture film dealing with sheep on the farm has recently been completed by the film laboratories of the United States department of agriculture in co-operation with the bureau of animal industry. The film is now available for use by county agents, county or state sheep-breeders' association, agricultural colleges, and other department or co-operative workers or agencies.

The film is in three sections and four reels. About 45 minutes is required for the showing of the whole production.

The subject treated in the first and second reel is a year with the flock on the farm, beginning in the fall at the time that the ewe flock should be culled prior to breeding, and carrying it on through until the lambs are sold. Each seasonal practice is brought out and educational points are featured. The third reel deals with the co-operative marketing of wool and lambs, and the fourth reel with the slaughtering of a mutton sheep, dressing the carcass, and then cutting it up for meat consumption.

MEAT SUPPLIES FOR FAMILY

Greater Portion of Pork Products Used by Farmers Are Produced on Home Farm.

Nearly two-thirds of the meat eaten on the farm is pork, the average farm consumption of pork being over 500 pounds per family. The greater portion of the pork products used by farmers are produced on the home farm. A small number of pigs can be raised cheaply, says the United States department of agriculture. Kitchen and garden wastes, and sometimes dairy by-products, are available for feed. The farmer usually kills the hogs and dresses them on his own place. The hog furnishes a good variety of meat and also lard. The smoke house, a common improvement on the farm, provides a convenient way for curing pork.

SHEEP BUSINESS PROFITABLE

Study Being Made of Specialized Raising With Complete Reliance on Forage Crops.

Results of a farm sheep experiment reported by the United States department of agriculture show clearly the possibility of a profitable sheep-raising business upon eastern lands. At the government farm, Beltsville, Md., a study is being made of specialized intensive sheep raising with complete reliance upon forage crops for summer pasturage.

In 1916 a 30-acre area did not produce forage enough to feed satisfactorily 44 Southdown ewes and 33 lambs. This field is now capable of furnishing sufficient summer feed for 100 ewes with their lambs. The improvement is due in part to the application of manures, lime, and phosphates, but chiefly to the fact that leguminous crops were largely used and all crops were fed upon the ground. Under the system followed forage crops are seeded in rotation and the sheep are allowed such frequent changes of pasture as are necessary to prevent troubles from parasites.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Practically all range-bred lambs are docked and castrated.

Hogs on pasture are not so liable to be troubled with intestinal worms and are usually in a thrifty condition.

Horses' teeth demand an examination at least once a year. As the horse gets some age, his teeth need rasping oftener.

The success of the hog business hinges on the fact that the most economical gains are made when the pig is in a growing condition.

The calf will start to eat grain when about two weeks old and it is a good idea to start out with ground oats, barley or corn meal and wheat bran.

Belton, Jan. 24.—The transcript in the case of the State of Texas vs. George F. Hornsby alias George Scott who stands charged with the murder of J. N. Weatherby, a prominent automobile dealer of Brownwood, Oct. 18, 1921, was received today by Judge M. B. Blair, following the change of venue from Brown county to Bell county by Judge J. O. Woodward.

The time for trying the case has not yet been set but it is probable that it will not come up before March on account of the crowded criminal docket which included many cases already set before it was known that the Hornsby case would be transferred here for trial.

After Oil Well Repairs.

Jeff Meers of Brady, head of the Texas-Meers Oil Company, which is sinking a well on the ranch of Mrs. Cora M. Hartgrove in Concho county, was in San Angelo Monday and Tuesday, accompanied by T. B. Jones, a member of the crew. Mr. Meers brought in some machinery for repairs at the foundry. He reported his well to be down 1,272 feet, in blue shale with sufficient gas to furnish fuel if it could be confined.—San Angelo Standard.

TEXAS MAN VISITS VILLA ON RANCH IN OLD MEXICO; IS PROGRESSIVE FARMER

General Villa, one time a terror to all his enemies in Mexico, is now a peaceful farmer who proposes to show the American agriculturists a few things about tilling the soil, according to L. G. Kibbe, president of the Kibbe Tractor and Implement Company of Dallas, who has received a communication to that effect from James A. Caldwell, traveling agent for that company. Mr. Caldwell recently returned from Mexico, where he visited the former bandit at his home on the Hacienda del Conutillo in the State of Durango.

"Villa's farm is unique," he said, "in that it is manned entirely by his former soldiers and a number of officers. His holdings consist of 200,000 acres of fertile land in the northern part of Durango. All of the modern farm implements are used on his farm, which Villa believes will prove the most productive in the world."

Mr. Caldwell spent several weeks in Mexico and four days as the personal guest of Villa, advising him as to the operation of his new power-driven tractors and implements. General Villa is assisted in the management of the farm by General Pedro Zamorro, who was recently given 50,000 pesos to cease his revolutionary activities.

"Villa is an ideal host," Mr. Caldwell said, "and treated me royally while I was with him. He furnished me with a horse when I wished to ride over his domains, and made me feel like one of his family. I was accompanied on many of my rides by Villa's son, an excellent horseman and rifle shot, although only 8 years old."

"My impression of the General was very favorable, and everything about the hacienda gives an impression of progress and modernity. One finds well managed offices equipped with typewriters, adding machines, engraved stationery and other things used in an up-to-date business establishment."

"Villa does not drink and seldom smokes, and does not allow intoxicating liquor on his farm and bars all forms of gambling. He does not permit loafing on the part of his employees."

"No women are allowed on the hacienda except members of the families of his officers and men."

Villa Digging Up Buried Loot.

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 15.—Francisco Villa, former bandit, is credited with being a modern Captain Kidd, but with the advantage over the old freebooter of being able to get hold of his buried treasure. Villa has for several weeks been going from point to point in the State of Chihuahua, ostensibly to renew old acquaintances and to be feted by the villagers who formerly feared him in his raids. The real reason, however, according to friends here of the former bandit, is different.

During his years of raiding Villa is said to have buried in many parts of the State of Chihuahua large sums of gold taken from his victims. It was his custom thus to dispose of all surplus funds not needed for the support of his troops. Now that he has become a peaceful farmer he is visiting his caches one by one and removing his treasure. His friends say he has recovered thousands of pesos and that he intends giving it back to his victims. His enemies doubt it.

WHY DOES M'COLLOCH COUNTY NEED A PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE

BECAUSE:

Careful studies of the amount and character of sickness in the United States have shown that 2% of the wage-earning population of the country is constantly incapacitated for work on account of sickness and injuries. Expressed in dollars, this loss is estimated at $500,000,000.00. Health authorities are agreed that much of this illness can be prevented by education in health matters.

BECAUSE:

More than 100 people die each year in the average American community of 25,000 which lives could be saved if the rules of the modern science of preventative medicine were generally known and applied.

BECAUSE:

The Federal Children's Bureau finds that about 17,000 women die annually in child birth in the United States. Comparative statistics show that only two principal countries, Spain and Switzerland, have a higher death rate than the United States.

BECAUSE:

One-half of the children that die in infancy in this country could be saved and become useful citizens, 300,000 children under five years die annually in this country, the majority of these from preventable diseases. Contagious diseases kill 30,000 children annually and permanently injure countless others. The health officer of one average community in the Southwestern Division assisted by the Red Cross Public Health Nurse, examined 3,704 children. Of these only 336 were of normal weight, 718 were over-weight, 2500 were under-weight. In another community the following defects were discovered where 1,466 children were examined, the same child sometimes having more than one defect:

- Defective Vision172
- Enlarged Tonsils615
- Defective Teeth750
- Defective Hearing20
- Nasal Obstruction102
- Tuberculosis takes an annual toll of between 150,000 and 200,000 people in the United States alone.

BECAUSE:

Your community can do much towards alleviating these conditions and your citizens and the resources of your community can be safeguarded through a well established Red Cross health and nursing service.

Some duties:

- (a) The Public Health Nurse makes school inspections, visits and advises young mothers about the care of their children, gives assistance in families where her aid is needed, and helps meet any local health conditions which need her attention.
- (b) The Formation of Classes in Home Hygiene, and Care of the Sick. Through classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, taught by a Red Cross Nurse, women and girls of every community can be given an opportunity to learn the elementary principles of disease prevention and the care of the sick in the home. These courses do not aim to turn out professionally trained nurses, but to prepare women to act intelligently under the direction of a physician.
- (c) The Introduction of Instruction in Dietetics. Malnutrition is the fore-runner of tuberculosis, pellagra, rickets, and increased susceptibility towards all other diseases. It causes the mental retardation of more school children than any other one thing. Courses in Home Feeding should be established to instruct women in the relation of food to health.

Red Cross Service.

Red Cross service should be given not only in the headquarters town, but should reach over the entire county. Most rural districts throughout the United States have special need for the type of service which the Red Cross gives. This need probably exists in portions of your county. The well-being of your headquarters town is dependent upon conditions in your county.

Red Cross Service not only belongs to, but should be carried on by the entire community. It is of prime importance to foster the volunteer spirit which accomplished wonders during the war. Red Cross Service can furnish an opportunity to everyone who wishes it to further the better interests of their community.

If Red Cross Service is to endure, what is not so much the large contributions from a few generous donors, but that all shall be members of the Red Cross, participating in its service, so that it may always be the democratic expression of the spirit of the American people in each community.

HORNSBY TRIAL TO BELL COUNTY—CHANGE OF VENUE

A change of venue to Belton, Bell county, for the trial of George F. Hornsby, alias George Scott, charged with the murder of J. N. Weatherby in Brownwood on the night of October 18th, 1920, was ordered this morning by District Judge J. O. Woodward, after testimony of more than sixty witnesses had been introduced by counsel of defense and the state tending to show the sentiment of the people of this county towards the defendant.

In announcing his decision on the defense motion for a change of venue Judge Woodward said:

"More than sixty men have been placed on the stand before the court, and fully 95 per cent of them have testified that they thought the case had been discussed in their communities, and that all such discussion had been that the defendant is guilty and ought to be hanged. In my opinion the cases cited by counsel (for the defense, during argument) are not so strong as in this case. I would do violence to my conscience should I hold that under the circumstances this defendant could get a fair and impartial trial in this county. I shall therefore overrule the motion of counsel for the defense, asking for a change of venue, and on my own motion order this trial to Bell county."

The court then instructed the court officials to make haste in the preparation of the necessary transcripts and other documents preparatory to immediately transferring the case to Bell county, explaining that district court is now in session at Belton and that trial can be given the case there within a very short while.

GREATEST OF ALL COMEDIES—FATTY ARBUCKLE IN "THE ROUND-UP" AT LYRIC

Everybody enjoys seeing Fatty Arbuckle—the greatest comedian of the screen—and Fatty never disappoints, for he has an irresistible, clean and enjoyable sort of humor that drives away the blues sure as shootin'. Well, Fatty Arbuckle is coming to the Lyric—tonight—in his latest and best comedy—"The Round-Up," a 7-reel frolic of unadulterated fun. The scenes are laid in Apache land and in the development of the plot, Indians, renegades, frontiersmen and young women are employed in vast variety. The theme is one of self sacrifice and as a result the climaxes are highly dramatic. It is safe to say that Mr. Arbuckle as the Sheriff does some of the most effective work of his screen career, and his complaint that "nobody loves a fat man," insofar as he is personally concerned, is a fallacy.

Other big attractions at the Lyric are Dorothy Dalton in "Half an Hour" which appears on Saturday night; Marie Doro in "Twelve-Ten," an interesting and fascinating drama which will be shown on Monday night, and Betty Brice in "The Beggar in Purple," a drama of material success at the cost of spiritual loss. You want to see this great drama. Then watch next week's announcement for new and startling features!

DON'T RISK NEGLECT.

Don't neglect a constant backache, sharp, darting pains or urinary disorders. The danger of dropsy or Bright's disease is too serious to ignore. Use Doan's Kidney Pills as have your friends and neighbors. A Brady case.

Mrs. J. Coorpende says: "I was annoyed by kidney complaint for some years. My condition was diagnosed as uric acid poisoning. I always felt heavy and depressed and had had attacks of rheumatic trouble. I was very nervous and frequently headaches came on. I used different remedies for this trouble but can honestly say that Doan's Kidney Pills gave me far better results than any other." (Statement given April 23, 1915.)

On May 15, 1919 Mrs. Coorpende said: "Doan's Kidney Pills gave me a cure that has been lasting and I am now enjoying the best of health. My opinion of this medicine is the same as it ever was." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Coorpende had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo N. Y.
