CITY COUNCIL SETS TAX RATE AT 85c ON $100

The city council, meeting in regular session last Tuesday night, set the city tax rate for the present year at 85c on the $100 valuation. Of this total, the available rate is 75c, while 10c is set aside as a reserve sinking street fund. The total assessed valuation of city property for the year 1921 was $2,497,971, as against a total of $2,537,505 for the year 1920, showing a loss of $39,534.

The city tax rate was apportioned as follows:

Street Bond Fund	4 1/2c
Water Works Fund No. 1	9c
Water Works Fund No. 2	8c
Grant Note	4c
General Fund	33 1/2c
Street Fund	15c
Street Reserve Sinking Fund	10c

Total . . . . .85c

The 10c Street Reserve Sinking fund was placed by the city council as the first step towards providing a nucleus upon which to build a reserve fund which will take care of the principal in future bond issues for street improvement. The demand for permanent improvement of the streets of Brady has forced the council to provide a permanent fund for this purpose. It has been shown that such a reserve fund placed at interest, and with interest added and compounded, will, at present interest rates, in the course of a forty-year period take care of the principal of a bond issue nearly seven times as large as such sinking fund. To explain: A sinking fund of $15,000 placed on permanent deposit and with interest at current rates added and compounded for a period of forty years, will take care of the principal of a 40-year bond issue of $100,000 before such bonds shall have matured. Accordingly, in the course of a few years, Brady citizens will be enabled to vote a bond issue of $100,000 for permanent street improvement, with assurance that the principal of the same has already been provided for and only the interest upon the same is to be taken care of. This will enable the city to undertake a permanent paving program of large proportions.

In increasing the tax rate for the Grant note from 2c to 4c, the council has in mind the retiring of this note, which carries ten per cent interest, at the earliest possible moment. This note covers money borrowed by the city.

The above statement of taxable values in McCulloch county was very kindly furnished The Standard by County Tax Assessor H. R. Hodges. As will be noted, the statement shows a gain of $81,946 in the assessed valuation for 1921 over that of the year 1920. While this gain is not large, yet it is a most gratifying showing, since the valuation placed upon sheep and goats this year is but a fraction of what it was last year, and also the railroad valuations were cut deeply. Despite this heavy loss, Mr. Hodges, by closely assessing every asset of the county, managed to bring his totals up, so as to show a gain.

THIS MAN PETERS HAS BAD HABIT OF SUDDENLY "DYING"

A couple months ago Brady citizens were very much interested in a report current here that a man named Peters, and presumably a former Brady citizen, had died suddenly at Brownwood. No confirmation of the report was ever had, and the matter was finally credited to one of those baseless rumors, which apparently have their origin in the blue ether. From the following, however, reprinted from the Brownwood Bulletin, would seem that there was actually foundation for the story. However the party named appears to be a stranger in these parts and, so far as is known, was never in Brady. The Brownwood Bulletin says: Members of the American Legion in Brownwood will find much of interest in the following story clipped from the Santa Anna News of this week:

"A young man by the name of Peters was seen to fall in the western part of town Monday evening in such a manner as to excite two small boys who hurried to their mother with the news. The lady coaxed the boys to take a stand by the road and stop the first auto party passing and have them to report the matter to the authorities in town. Soon Judge S. J. Pieratt and Dr. Holland went out to the scene and found the young man in an almost dying condition. He was brought to town, medical aid administered, and soon he was sufficiently recovered that there was hopes for his recovery. Found on his person was an honorable discharge from the U. S. Marines, with an excellent department. The American Legion took charge of the victim, placed him in the local hospital where he remained for several days, until his condition was such that he could continue his journey. Considerable difference of opinion has been expressed as to the cause of the young man's troubles. Papers show that he gives his address as Fort Worth, Texas, but in case of death or accident, notify a lady, we suppose a sister, living at Bonham, Texas. No other people to be found on the premises.

but was resuscitated in a local hospital where he was taken by the American Legion. His sudden attack here, he said, was superinduced by lack of nourishing food. The Legion paid his hospital bill and the doctor bill was contributed by the physicians called into his case, and after he had been outfitted in clean and neat clothing he was given a permit to go on his way rejoicing.

At his present rate of travel, as indicated by the Santa Anna story, he is due to fall "unconscious" again within the next two or three days, probably at Sweetwater or maybe San Angelo, according to the local Legionnaires.

Now is the time to buy that New Fall Suit, and the price is right. See those new ones just arrived, from $25.00 to $35.00—all wool. KIRK, Nuf-Sed.

SPRING, ONCE THIRST'S BOON, NOW FLOWING OIL WELL IN COLEMAN COUNTY

Coleman, Texas, Sept. 20.—Out on the J. C. Dibrell ranch, about twelve miles northeast from Coleman, is a spring that has been known for forty years or more as the place to get a "good, cool drink" of pure water. But Mother Nature, in one of her freakish moods, has added "wormwood" to the cool, sparkling fountain and the spring is now flowing oil with the water.

About two years ago an oil company drilled a test well less than a mile southwest from this spring. The well was said to have been drilled to a depth of 3,100 feet, and that some oil and gas was found while drilling, but just how much of either is not known to the public and there is quite a lot of speculation as to whether the drilling of the well is in any way responsible for the appearance of oil with the water as it now comes from the spring.

DUPLEX PUMP FOR STANDPIPE BOUGHT BY CITY

The city council is overlooking nothing in the matter of providing first-class equipment for the water-works system, the latest purchase being a duplex Fairbanks-Morse pump, purchased in Dallas last week by Alderman B. Simpson. The new pump which has a capacity of between 250 and 275 gallons per minute, will be used to pump water to the stand pipe, and will be used in place of the triplex pump of 125 gallon per minute capacity, which does not meet present requirements.

On account of the small capacity of the triplex pump, the plant has been forced to pump water over a long period, or else press the fire pump into service. It is the council's desire to keep the fire pump for emergency uses only, and rather than run the risk of wearing it out by daily service, they decided to buy the new duplex pump. The new pump will enable the pumping of the water from the clear well to the standpipe in the shortest possible time, saving both time and operating expenses.

Shipment of the duplex pump is promised within three weeks.

WONDERS OF AMERICA

By T. T. MAXEY

THE HOOKER OAK

IN BEAUTIFUL 2,300-acre Bidwell Park which, by the way, is one of the largest natural-wooded parks in the country, in the little city of Chico, California—some 180 miles northeast of San Francisco, there is a giant white-oak tree which is believed to be the largest of its kind in the world.

This ponderous monarch of the forest was named after Sir Joseph Hooker, the noted English naturalist, who, in 1877, after a close examination and considerable study, pronounced it to be larger than any of the wondrous oaks for which England was famed.

This great tree is more than 100 feet high and its circumference eight feet above the ground is 28 4-10th feet. Its longest branch extends away from the trunk for 105 feet. From north to south its branches spread an even 200 feet. The greatest circumference of its outside branches reaches the astonishing figure of almost 400 feet.

Students of freedom from near and far have come and tried every means known to science to coax this massive oak to whisper the secret of its tremendous size and unusual age, but it merely waves its branches in the gentle breeze and seems to laugh at them. So, the best they can do is to estimate its age. The consensus of opinion is that it has been on earth well nigh 1,000 years.

General William Tecumseh Sherman, of Civil war fame, gave it as his opinion that an army of 7,000 men could stand within its shade at high noon.

Good news bears repeating, and when it is confirmed after a long lapse of time, even if we hesitated to believe it at first hearing, we feel secure in accepting its truth now. J. L. SLAYDEN DESCRIBES CONDITIONS IN EUROPE—EVERYTHING VERY CHEAP

Washington, Sept. 17.—That business men in Berlin are watching the pending tariff legislation and expect commercial disaster if the Fordney bill becomes a law, was declared by former Representative James L. Slayden of San Antonio, who returned last week from Europe, where he attended a conference of the Inter-parliamentary Peace Union held in Stockholm.

"Germany needs cotton, copper, foodstuffs all from America; but it has neither silver nor gold to pay with, and their paper money, which is nearly as worthless as that of Russia, no sane man will accept.

"Except a small amount of small silver coin in England and still less in Scandinavia," continued Mr. Slayden, "I saw no metal money in Europe. One really needed a handbag in Germany to carry the currency received for a small American check.

"Everything is pitifully cheap in Germany. The people are working wonderfully, for long hours, and barely exist. Wages are so low that industry should revive, but it does not, or, if it does, so slowly that the business men are all depressed. Just a little more trouble such as the enactment of the Fordney occasion, and the people will be hopelessly bankrupt, incentive to work gone. That is not improbable that chaos and inflation will ensue.

"So far as I could tell the German Republic seems to be functioning in an efficient way. The cities are orderly and the people well behaved. I venture one opinion, the Government of the United States and all other

SENTIMENT FAVORS PAVING.

There is no question whatever but that there is a growing sentiment among Brady citizens in favor of permanent paving for the Brady square and, as well, the Brady streets. The folly of temporary street improvement has been so forcibly demonstrated in recent months as to leave no room for argument. Streets that have been placed in A1 condition, a month later were again resolved into a series of chug-holes, destructive to nerves, steering gears, and auto vehicles in general. The citizenship will, therefore, welcome and endorse the action of the Brady city council to confine all street improvement work for the present, to merely keeping the streets passable, the while providing for a permanent street improvement fund by the levying of a 10c tax. This special tax will be allowed to accumulate until the sum total of $15,000 has been attained. This amount of money, kept on deposit, and with interest compounded upon the same, will take care of the principal of $100,000 40-year street bonds even before the forty year period has elapsed. In other words, the city council proposes to create a fund of $15,000. This sum, with interest compounded for a period of forty years will total something like $102,000—more than enough to pay the principal of $100,000 street improvement bonds, to run 40 years, and which the Brady citizenship will thereby be enabled to vote.

The city of Brady now has a tax rate totaling 85c. Compare this with the Brownwood tax rate, which has been set at $1.75 on the $100 for the present year. Then recall the fact that the city of Brownwood, up to the present year at least, has been notoriously "broke." It would appear that the Brady city government is performing a miracle in efficiently financing the city government upon such a low tax rate.

A HEALTH RESORT.

An interesting item was contained in the "Lost Creek Items," written by "A Citizen," and published in The Standard for September 9th. The following is the item referred to:

"In conversation a few days ago with a neighbor of mine he tells me that on their farm he had found what seemed to him to be a sulphur mine. He says in breaking the rocks there are large cells full of pure sulphur and that he had tasted it to find it was sulphur. Who knows but what this section might become a health resort a little later on when the merits of our artesian water are found out. There are some parties now who are trying it out and say that after trying it only for a few days they seem to feel a beneficial effect and will continue it for a time to prove its effect.

"Now, that has been proven to me for some time, not only from a personal standpoint, but I have a friend in Brady who, for the last several years has spent a week or so with me each summer. He has told me that he has come here bothered with kidney trouble and after being here only one week went away perfectly relieved.

"Now I am not advertising, but giving what I believe to be facts, and would be glad for others to come and try it out. I have had a number of people say to me after staying here a few days or a week that they never felt better in their lives, but this was all, without thinking anything about the effects of the water.

"A few years ago I had a friend that lived at Hico, Texas, who was so badly run down in health that he could hardly walk by himself. He stayed only about eight or ten days and went home and went to work, feeling fine. We had no thought that it was the water, and it may not have been. It could have been the change and again it could be the water. All that want to try it out—it's free!"

Readers of The Standard will not be surprised, although they will be greatly interested, in knowing that at the very time the foregoing comment was written there was on foot in Brady a project to drill a sulphur well in Brady, with the ultimate view of establishing here a model health resort. As has been frequently pointed out, the sand and water formations which appear close to the surface in the Voca community, are to be found at Brady also, although at a greater depth beneath the surface. So it is that the sulphur and sulphur water in the Lost Creek community, of which our correspondent speaks, also were to be found in the well drilled by the city of Brady. This sulphur water was struck at a depth of between 600 and 700 ft., and was in every way identical with that to be found in the far-famed health resorts of other portions of the state. As a result, numbers of Brady citizens are evincing interest in the forming here of a stock company, which will have as its first objective the drilling of a sulphur well, with the ultimate object of creating thereby a model health resort that will be the means of attracting to Brady many tourists in search of such health-giving waters. Brady has numerous beautiful groves ideal for camping and parking purposes; she has an abundance of pure water; she has all the climatic advantages of Kerrville or Carlsbad, and with none of their disadvantages—why should not Brady become a great health resort.

Nature has provided here a storehouse of inexhaustible wonders. It remains for the citizens to develop these wonders to their own advantage.

A MORBID INCIDENT.

The man who would steal a penny off a dead man's eye is proverbial, but the man who really accomplished something closely akin is a reality. He is Al Semmacher, manager of the late Virginia Rappe, with whose death Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, the film comedian, is charged. Here is the incident, as reported by the daily press: Despite the tragic circumstances involved, smiles passed over the faces of jurors and auditors at the inquest into the death of beautiful Virginia Rappe when Al Semmacher, her late manager, told of the disappearance of two torn silk garments of the dead girl which later were found at his Los Angeles home and brought here as evidence.

Semmacher had been explaining to the jury how he had picked up the torn silk shirtwaist of Miss Rappe after her removal from the room and was on the verge of discarding it.

"And why didn't you throw it away?" asked Coroner Leland.

"Well, you see, I suddenly happened to think what a nice rag it would make to clean my auto with," the witness said.

IMPATIENCE JUSTIFIED.

Editors Schwenker of Brady, and Smith of San Saba, are all hot up over the fact that it takes them so long to get to Lometa over the Eden Branch. Their impatience is entirely justified, too.—Lometa Reporter.

Editor Gayle Talbot said a mouthful when he said "their impatience is entirely justified." This is a fast age we're living in, and the ox-cart timetable upon which the Santa Fe operates its Lometa-Eden branch is entirely too archaic to merit anything but stern rebuke. Some day the Santa Fe is going to learn that only service brings reward, and then she will realize the rich rewards she has been missing because of the inexcusable service she has rendered.

VICE-VERSA.

While digging a well in hopes of increasing the municipal water supply at Brady recently, a wonderful flow of soft water was encountered that will mean a fortune to that city. It stood a test of 300 gallons per minute without visibly lowering the supply.—Lometa Reporter.

Although the water supply was not visibly lowered, the spirits of Brady citizens were very visibly heightened by the fact. The less the water fell, the greater our enthusiasm rose. If public spirit could be turned into cash, then the new Brady well would have been paid for many times over.

SNAP SHOTS.

Tillie Clinger says the reason she is leaving her present boarding-house is because the ceiling is so low she can lie in bed and kick a fly on the back.—Dallas News.

A POOR DEFENSE.

The Reverend Billy Sunday has rushed to the defense of "Fatty" Arbuckle, and says the corpulent comedian of the screen has "suffered enough." "Fatty fell for whisky and wild women," says the evangelist, and all the world knows that "whisky and wild women" make a bad combination for any helpless rich man.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Wherein and whereby the Reverend Billy proves that after all he is made of just common mud. As well defend the hi-jacker, the bootlegger, the bank robber, the criminal of every class upon the grounds that he has been led astray by a "wild woman." The great trouble of the day is that life is held too cheap. A man is never considered a murderer if he can keep his crime covered up, or if he has money enough, influence or shrewd attorneys who can wrench him from the law's clutches. It is time that public conscience was awakening to the fact that human life is a sacred thing, and that the taking of human life is a violation of the law of God explicitly stated in the ten commandments as given Moses upon Mt. Sinai.

MY AUTO, 'TIS OF THEE.

My auto, 'tis of thee; short road to poverty, of thee I chant. I blew a pile of dough, on you three years ago; now you refuse to go, or won't or can't. Through town and countryside, you were my joy and pride, a happy day. I loved the gaudy hue, the nice white tires so new, but you're down and out for true, in every way. To thee, old rattlebox, came many bumps and knocks; for thee I grieve. Badly the top is torn; frayed are the seats and worn; the whooping cough affects the horn, I do believe. Thy perfume swells the breeze, while good folks choke and wheeze, as we pass by. I paid for thee a price; 'twould buy a mansion twice; now everybody's yelling "ice"—I wonder why? Thy motor has the grip, the sparkplug has the pip, and woe is thine. I, too, have suffered chills, fatigue and kindred ills, endeavoring to pay my bills, since thou wert mine. Gone is my bankroll now, no more 'twould choke the cow, as once before. Yet, if I had the mon, so help me John—amen—I'd buy a car again and speed some more.—From the Greene County Farm Bureau News.

THE COMMONEST MISTAKES.

Judge McCormick of San Francisco says these are the thirteen commonest mistakes in life:

To attempt to set up your own standards of right and wrong.

To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own.

To expect uniformity of opinions in this world.

To fail to make allowances for inexperience.

To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike.

To not yield to unimportant trifles.

To look for perfection in our own actions.

To worry ourselves and others about what can not be remedied.

To consider a thing impossible that we can not ourselves perform.

Failing to help everybody, wherever, however and whenever we can.

To believe only what our minds can grasp.

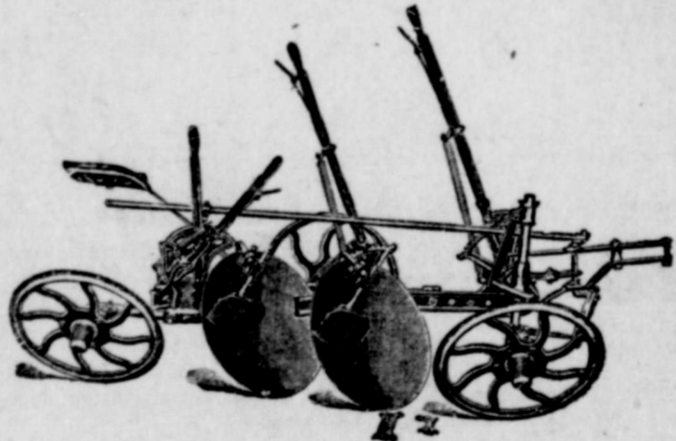

Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others.

To estimate by some outside quality when it is that within which makes the man.

The lawn had been brilliantly lighted for the evening, tables were arranged and a feast spread that would have appeased the appetite of the most devouring as everything in the way of good eats was in abundance. After a supper "fit for a king" was partaken of, a business meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held, presided over by our ever-popular president, Mr. E. W. Lazalier.

Some real, interesting and uplifting talks were made by the older members, serving to encourage the young folks in this movement of "Training for Christian Service," which were enjoyed and appreciated by all. After hearing reports from the different committees the business session was closed, the young folks afterwards enjoying games of various kinds and music until the hour came to say "Good-by" but before departing all were served delicious punch and ice cream. ## OPEN HOUSE AT WATER WORKS PLANT DRAWS LARGE CROWD TUESDAY NIGHT

OVER FIVE HUNDRED CITIZENS GATHERED—SEE WELL SPOUT, INSPECT NEW LIGHTING AND PUMPING MACHINERY AND ENJOY ENTHUSIASTIC ADDRESSES.

"Open House" Tuesday night at the waterworks plant was the signal for a large gathering of Brady citizens, who exhibited every indication of interest in and gratification at the placing in service of Brady's wonderful new water well. The visitors were given opportunity to see the entire lighting and pumping plant in operation, and for their special benefit, the umbrella-shaped cap was removed from the top of the well, and they were treated to the sight of a four-inch stream of water being shot a hundred feet into the air, when the air-pressure pump was set in motion. Following this, several enthusiastic addresses were given by visiting and local citizens, in which the great importance and value of the new well to the town and its future development was emphasized.

Mayor J. E. Shropshire was in charge of the open-air meeting, the speakers stand being improvised by means of a truck. Mayor Shropshire first presented District Judge J. O. Woodward to the audience, as one of our distinguished visitors and neighbor citizens, and who had always evinced his friendliness to the people of Brady and his deep interest in their progress and welfare. Judge Woodward congratulated the citizens of Brady upon the great success attending their efforts to solve the water problem, and commended them most highly for their enterprise in going beneath the surface for water, when all other efforts had proved unavailing. He stated that this abundance of splendid water removed the only objection that anyone could ever have found in coming to Brady, and he predicted that this splendid water supply would prove a wonderful help in the town's future growth. In conclusion, he stated that his love and admiration for the citizenship of Brady was exceeded only by that which he felt towards the citizens of his home town, Coleman, and he rejoiced with his Brady friends in their happiness.

District Attorney Walter U. Early followed Judge Woodward, and stated that he was "raised in Old Kentucky, where they made the mountain dew," and that it was only in recent years that he had ever found it necessary to drink water. But since the W. C. T. U. had shaken their finger in the face of the anti and had warned them that they would be made to drink water, he had finally come to realize that water was actually palatable—that is, good water. In this respect, he said, no town in this section could henceforth boast of water superior to that of Brady, and that the citizenship here had shown neighbor cities just how to do to get water and resulting in a body of water that can readily be made to produce three times our present consumption was an accomplishment far ahead of any that had been dreamed. Mr. Shropshire said that just as the united opinion and cordial co-operation upon the part of the citizenship had made possible this notable success, so would continued co-operation and concentration of efforts lead to other notable progress in the future. He warmly commended all for the spirit thus manifested.

Its Wonderful Point

The superb writing quality of the Tempoint Pen is due to the manner in which the generous iridium tip is affixed to the gold point—by having the gold fused about it—not annealed. Then the gold pen itself is hammered into steel-like hardness and durability.

The pen cannot weaken or become "sprung." The hammering process also eliminates porosity, so that the pen is not affected by harmful ink-acids.

Services for next Sunday, September 25, 1921.

"The Mission of Jesus" will be the subject for the morning hour. I believe you will be benefited by hearing this message about the "Man of Galilee." The message for the evening, 7:30, will be: "The Letters to the Seven Churches." This will be the second, in a series of sermons I am delivering on Revelations. The letters to the churches, in their broad application, cover the period of time from 96 A. D. to the second advent of Christ. Read the 2d and 3d chapters of Revelations and come and hear this message.

G. T. REAVES, Pastor.

"The Seven Greatest Wonders of All Time."

No doubt you have heard of or have read of the "Seven Wonders of the World," so designated by the Ancient Greeks. Those Seven Wonders in their times have been very interesting in many ways; but, for our subject at the Methodist church next Sunday morning, we have chosen "The Seven Greatest Wonders of all Time." Don't forget the hour, at 11 a. m. and we are expecting you to be with us.

And now read this line twice; our evening services will begin at 7:30 instead of the old hour, that many say was too late. At this time our subject will be: "Plenty and to Spare." Have you happiness? Let everyone remember that the big apple tree of "happiness" will grow in every man's orchard. It is true it takes very careful planting and cultivating and pruning, but if you will only apply the rules of the Man of Galilee this rare tree will blossom and bring forth fruit in a day. Come with us—get right with God and stay right, and the world around you will be better because you are better.

Epworth League will meet at 6:30 p. m. a little earlier on account of advancing the time of preaching services.

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. every Sunday.

"Something kinda nice about him," ruminated the blonde at the telegraph office in the Sixty-third street station.

"We went to school together," said Edith stiffly. She felt that Emma had fallen into the acquaintanceship very easily and she didn't quite like it.

There were few travelers that morning and Edith did not sell very many magazines. After she had dusted and arranged her stock of brightly colored wares she had nothing to do but think.

Emma was knitting a softly tinted couch cover, for she was to be married in a few months, and Edith felt that it was scarcely decorous for the pretty, rather bold blonde to chat so vivaciously with her customers. The man who had bought his morning paper at the newsstand and then nodded a pleasant good-morning at the telegraph booth was called the professor.

Edith, lost in a brown study, reviewed the years that had passed since they had gone to school in the village thirty miles up the line. She, also, had planned to teach, but for several reasons she had decided that the years of preparation were too costly, and she had remained a clerk.

Ed, on the contrary, had gone steadily ahead, and he was now principal in the grammar school in their home town, but, as there was no library there, and he was constantly studying, he found that he could not keep abreast of his subjects there, and he boarded in Chicago and went back and forth to school every day. He often stopped to talk with the little dark-eyed woman who had charge of the magazines, and sometimes made an additional purchase after buying his paper.

Edith sometimes wondered if his life was as drab as hers. Always reticent, he had grown silent as the years passed and his hair was touched with silver at the temples. This she secretly admired, and even the rubbers which afforded much amusement to the frivolous Emma failed to be funny in her loyal eyes.

Evenings Edith usually spent in her back room at the boarding house, for there were many things to be done to keep her wardrobe in its usual exquisite order, but sometimes she would let her work drop in her lap and dream. Would the years ahead be as barren as the last two since she had been alone in the city? Would she keep on making dainty blouses and frilly little neck things to become quickly spoiled by the soot and smoke of the city, with no one to care how she looked or felt?

A bright spring morning would often cause her to dress with little excited thrills and hum low snatches of some old song. Something lovely must surely happen on such a day of gold and pink. But the end of the day would often find her frantically adding her sales and counting her change to find out where a stubborn dime had hidden itself, and the greatest good luck that occurred would be when her accounts balanced. She regretted now that she was not teaching back in the home grammar school, for she would be among her former friends and neighbors.

A sudden blur of pink and white, with the fragrant scent of early spring, aroused her and she saw Ed standing before her with a smile upon his rather pale face.

"Danny Smith brought these from the grove," he said, watching her big gray eyes brighten. "Guess they are the first found around there."

"Lovely," breathed Edith, burying her tip-tilted nose in the waxlike flowers.

With a hurried nod he was swept on with the crowd and the magazine girl tucked the cluster into the folds of her silk blouse.

"Say, you got them after all," called Emma crossly from her counter. "He stopped here, but a fat traveling man was sending a night letter and I guess he got tired waiting. Seems to me you ought to divide," she added as a wave of color swept across Edith's face.

Late that evening she walked home rather wearily. Two of the younger girl boarders were already through dinner and were sitting on the front steps waiting for their friends to come to take them out for the evening. The fresh young faces under the carefully waved hair and the pretty slim feet in their high-heeled pumps made Edith feel rather elderly, for she saved part of her salary each week toward a little home in the future.

"I am raising the board a dollar a week," announced her landlady as she gave Edith her pudding. "The cost of food is soaring and so greatly that I may have to raise again before long, too," she added as the girl's eyes gazed back at her in dismay.

Edith had just removed her flowers, intending to put them in her tooth brush mug to keep fresh for the next day, when there was a tap on her door.

"A man to see you, Miss Jones. Land's sake, you never had a man call on you before, but then I suppose he's an insurance agent," Mrs. Miller's sharp eyes dwelt upon the tired face before her as she speculated. "He wouldn't give his name."

"Thank you, Mrs. Miller," Edith's tone was colorless, but once again the thrill of spring seized her.

From the house next door came a languorous love song, the rather dingy lace curtains stirred in a breeze straight from the lake laden with a spicy sweetness that even the flight across the city had not lessened. From the tiny flowers in the common china mug nodded a call of the woods—of glossy green leaves against the lingering patches of snow in cool hollows.

She rearranged her hair slowly, dallying with the pleasure of anticipation. It might be some one waiting in that stiff, garishly furnished front parlor with its heavy odors of long-eaten meals—with the grim atmosphere of loveless lives that had tarried for a brief stay and then fitted to, perhaps, a worse environment. It probably was an insurance agent, as Mrs. Miller had unkindly surmised, but if so he could wait.

Edith smiled back at her shadowy reflection in the pale mirror. She would pretend that she was dressing for an escort—one who would bring a beribboned box of candy and who would masterfully assist her down the steps as she had seen the trim-belted young fellows do when they went laughing down with the girls who now waited on the steps.

Tucking the flowers back in their silken nest, she turned slowly away and went sedately downstairs. No one must guess at the joyous riot of spring that had suddenly pervaded her drab evening. She was a young woman going down to her company in the front parlor and the gay smile still lingered on her face, leading a new expression to the rosy mouth as she entered the door and looked at her caller.

"Hello, Edith! Thought maybe you'd go to the movies with me tonight."

There was a tiny gasp as the incredible words fell upon the ears under the soft lops of black hair. Ed was smiling back at her under the crude light of the yellow gas whose globe had long since been broken.

"I wanted to tell you my good news," he began as they went out into the shadowy street and joined the procession of young people who loitered dreamily in the sweet dusk of the spring night. "The township high school is finished now and I'm to be the principal at an (he paused and looked down meaningfully into her face) "adequate salary."

"Adequate?" murmured the girl, for his salary as principal of the grammar school had seemed almost opulent to her.

"Yes, at last, adequate," he said, with a lit of joy breaking through the grave notes of his deep voice. "I shall have enough to keep up a really good little home, and I want to know if you will come?"

The fragrance of the first spring flowers drifted up and Edith knew at last why she had resented the calm appropriation of Emma. She had not known she cared for Ed in that way. But the gold and pink of other spring days that had begun so happily and ended in the fatigue of a hard day among the garish colors of railway literature were as nothing to the present.

She lifted her head and listened, for he had gone on talking excitedly, his reticence of the past forgotten.

"I couldn't speak sooner, for the life was too hard, but now, Edith, I thought of the new, soft, green bungalow on the street south of the high school. We are going to have a library in it, and think of the pleasure of choosing the books."

"And we'll always have a bowl of arbutus in the spring," murmured the girl, feeling glad she had divided her cluster with Emma. After all, the years were filled with joy.

The Natural End.

The "actors" whom Willie knows most about are those who do lofty feats in the circus and vaudeville. He has a proper appreciation of the danger of their calling and the means adopted for their safety. Recently he heard his father, while reading a book on theatricals, mention the name of Sir Henry Irving.

"Who is Sir Henry Irving, father?" asked the boy.

"He was a great actor," said the father.

"What show is he with?"

"He isn't with any show now. He's dead?"

"What happened? Did he miss the net?"

SAYS HER RECOVERY FROM MISTAKES ALMOST LIKE A MIRACLE

From Helpless Invalid to Complete Restoration of Health, Strength and Happiness Is Wonderful Change Mrs. Root Experienced in Three Weeks—Statement One of Most Remarkable On Record.

MRS. JENNIE ROOT

"Just a week before I started taking Tanlac I was down in bed so crippled up with rheumatism I could not move without help. My son had taken Tanlac, and it had done him a world of good, so one day he brought home a bottle and said, 'Mother, I want you to take this.' When I had finished that bottle, I felt like a different woman, and by the time I had finished my second bottle, I was out in the garden hoeing.

"Tanlac has simply done wonders for me; it almost seems like a miracle." This is the remarkable statement made recently by Mrs. Jennie Root, residing at 1409 Powers St., Portland, Oregon, and is only one of tens of thousands from well-known men and women who are daily testifying to the powers of Tanlac.

Continuing her wonderful statement, Mrs. Root said, "For years I suffered terribly with rheumatism, and would often be down in bed for days at a time. In the last five years there was not a time that I didn't feel those rheumatic pains all through my body. About two months ago I got very much worse and my arms and legs were so bad I was almost helpless and couldn't even hold a pen to sign my name. I was so weak I could not do any housework. I couldn't even sleep, and had no rest day or night. Even to walk a few steps would tire me out completely. When I tried to walk I would stagger, and when I did walk a little way and sat down I could not get up without some one helping me. I had no appetite and hardly ate enough to keep me alive. I could not stoop over far enough to get my shoes on.

"I never knew what a night's sleep was, and would lie awake for hours. Boys' Two Pants Suits at a price you can afford to pay. C. H. VINCENT, South Side. Send your films to a good finisher. At times I would get very hot and would have to get up and open the fire all huddled up, and my feet would put hot water bottles around me. I was treated by two doctors, and took all kinds of medicine. Nothing ever did me any good. I am just like a different person now. All those terrible aches and pains have left me, and only the other day I was able to walk up four flights of stairs in an office building when the elevator was out of order.

"My appetite is just splendid now, and just today for the first time in years, I felt so hungry that I had to go and eat a piece of pie between meals. In fact, I can't remember the time that I have felt as well as I do now. I have not only regained my health and strength, but I have gained fourteen pounds in weight. To tell you the truth, I wouldn't exchange the benefit I have received from Tanlac for the best ranch in Oregon, and I will praise it as long as I live."

Tanlac is sold in Brady by the Drug Co., in Rochelle by C. W. Carter in Mercury by J. T. Matlock, and by leading druggists everywhere.

FLEES FROM FLOOD MEETS LION UPON ROOF OF BUILDING

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 15.—We have all heard the story of the man, who being chased by a vicious bull, took refuge in the hollow of a large tree, only to find the hollow occupied by a bear.

However, truth at times outdoes fiction, as the following incident of the flood of Friday night and Saturday morning shows.

J. F. Florian, an insurance agent, of 124 Oakland Street, met the oncoming waters at the intersection of St. Mary's and Romana streets late Friday night and was forced to abandon his car, and take refuge on the top of a building occupied by an automobile concern.

The water had, by that time, according to Florian, risen fully nine feet and the streets were veritable mill races. Florian thanked his stars but, at least, was safe, and felt that no power on this earth could cause him to leave his perch of safety. A low, sullen growl prompted Florian to turn and the sight that met his eyes caused his blood to chill in his veins. Two large glowing orbs met his gaze. He knew it was a feline of some kind, but before he had time to speculate at any great length, a vivid flash of lightning revealed to his wondering eyes a huge lion, which he says, had escaped from the Breckenridge Park zoo.

It was a choice, then, of lion or flood. Florian chose the flood and plunged.

The swiftness of the current carried the man like a chip several hundred feet before he could right himself and make an effort to get to a place of safety. A friendly tree's down-hanging branches offered another haven of refuge, and Florian climbed up, took a long breath and looked about! He was not alone. A large black bear, the property of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, had beat him to the tree.

At this juncture Florian was in no mood to argue with the bear, so he slid from his own little bough and drifted on down the line, presently bringing up against a fence, from which he made his way to safety.

CONCHO COUNTY TRAGEDY CULMINATION OF FEUD RUNNING MANY MONTHS

In regard to the probable origin of the trouble which resulted in the killing of T. F. Bengé at Eden last Saturday by Sheriff Bob Miller of Concho county, the Brownwood Bulletin has the following account:
District Attorney Walter U. Early went to Eden today to represent the State in the preliminary hearing before the justice of the peace there, of Sheriff Bob Miller, of Concho county, who Saturday evening shot and killed Tom Bengé, a well-known stockman of the Eden section.

The shooting occurred at Eden, it is stated, but reports differ as to the weapon used by Miller, some saying it was a shotgun while others say it was a rifle of some kind. Bengé was killed instantly, and it appears from the best available information that Miller commenced shooting as soon as he saw Bengé and that Bengé was reaching for his gun when he fell mortally wounded.

The tragedy of Saturday seems to be the culmination of a feud of several months duration, when prohibition officers on making an investigation of the premises, are alleged to have found liquor in considerable quantities. Sheriff Miller, it seems, was with the federal officers when they made the investigation, it being upon his request, so it was intimated, that the investigation was made. It seems that Bengé was arrested in regard to the matter and so the trouble started.

A Recent Killing.
Will Bryant, a rural mail carrier and son-in-law of Miller was on the route that included the locality in which Bengé lived, part of his roadway leading through a pasture that belonged to Bengé, and in which the Bengé mail box was located. Bengé had a daughter who was receiving mail from a man who was apparently objectionable to Bengé and so he met Bryant one day and ordered him not to put any more mail directed to his daughter in the family mail box.

It is said Bryant remonstrated with Bengé and told him that he had no way of getting around the proposition as the mail was put in his charge along with other mail, without his having any authority whatever in the case and he would have to

REPORT UPON COTTON TEST—DOES INJUSTICE TO VARIETY OF SEEDS

The Standard last Friday reported the testing out of three varieties of cotton seed upon the August Young place in the West Sweden community, stating in the article that the Rowden cotton appeared pre-eminently the best. This statement has been challenged as entirely unfair to the other varieties of cotton being tested in the county, and The Standard is glad to make correction of the report as given.

As explained to The Standard editor, the local Farm Bureau is interested in the testing out of the various kinds of cotton seeds for the purpose of finding which kind will average up best here over a period of years. The test made by Mr. Young was only one of possibly thirty or more test made in various sections of the county by McCulloch county farmers, all of whom were furnished with the best seed of the different varieties that the farm bureau could buy. Even though the variety of cotton should show up better in one field over the others, the test could not be accurately checked until the cotton had been picked and ginned. Naturally, report upon the year's work will have to await the gathering and ginning of the cotton from all the thirty or more test patches. This complete report then will give the results obtained for the present year, and may be completely reversed in another year.

Obviously, the report as furnished to and published by The Standard last week was premature and did injustice to the other varieties grown. Whenever the official figures are prepared upon the complete test, we will be pleased to give the results to our readers.
