TOM THUMB WEDDING FRIDAY 8TH, AT TABERNACLE

Members of the Parent-Teachers association are now arranging what promises one of the most interesting and enjoyable of spectacles—the Tom Thumb Wedding, which is to be presented on Friday night of next week, September 8th, at the Methodist tabernacle. The marriage of the midgets will faithfully depict a miniature "society" wedding, with little Miss June Jordan, three-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson D. Jordan, taking the part of the bride. There will be between sixty and seventy-five little folks taking part in the affair, and whose ages will range from 3 to 10 years. All will be attired in correct style, the little ladies in their wedding finery and the little men in full dress.

Preliminary training of the little folks was begun this week by the Parent-Teachers association, and they are being drilled in the wedding songs, the wedding march and various other phases of the wedding. The director of the Tom Thumb Wedding is expected to arrive here next Tuesday and will personally supervise the staging and presentation of the novel affair.

Advance sale of tickets will be had, and in order to assure getting seats for the event, everyone should purchase their ticket now. Prices of admission will be 35c for adults, and 25c for children.

FRISCO ROUNDHOUSE FOREMAN KILLED IN GASOLINE EXPLOSION — FIVE OTHERS BURNED

An explosion of a small gasoline tank, used as a pressure torch, at the Frisco round house in Brownwood, at 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning caused the death of L. C. Corder, roundhouse foreman and a highly respected citizen of the city, and inflicted serious and painful burns upon five other men engaged in roundhouse work.

The five men more or less seriously burned by the gasoline which took fire as it bursted from the tank are namely, Grady Gilder, a new employe recently from Dallas; M. C. Townsend, Brownwood; J. K. Singer, Brownwood; Price Rogers and R. J. Jewell, both recently from Dallas, and new employes of the Frisco shops.

Death of Corder.
Foreman Corder died Saturday evening from the effects of the gasoline burns, which were distributed over his body and face. He was 50 years of age and had been in the employ of the Frisco at this point for a number of years. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Mrs. Emily Carter of Dallas, and a son, Cliff Corder of Brownwood. He is also survived by a brother, Will Corder, of Sherman, and by three sisters, and a host of friends. He was buried at Greenleaf cemetery Sunday afternoon, Rev. C. E. Moore officiating.

Card of Appreciation.
To my friends, for their generous support, both in the first and second primaries, I desire to express my deepest appreciation. I am very grateful for the confidence you have placed in me, and shall do my utmost to prove worthy of your trust. Thanking each and every one for their loyal efforts in my behalf, I am,
Very sincerely,
HENRY R. HODGES.

The Photographer's Charm.
They could not get her picture, tho' they tried and tried and tried; The child was—oh, so restless, till the picture taker sighed:
"If you will leave your darling quite alone with me a spell I think that I can calm her." Said the mother, "Very well."

The picture soon was taken, and the mother marveled much That, though he was a stranger, the photographer owned such A charm to calm her darling; so she asked her later on,
"What did the nice man say to you, my dear, when I was gone?"

"He thaid to me," lisped Mary, "if you dare to stir or squall You snub nosed little jumping jack, I'll eat you clothes and and all."

TOM WOOD BUYS INTEREST IN JORDAN GROCERY

Tom Wood, recently of Fredonia, has purchased an interest in the Jordan Bros. grocery and will be actively associated with Messrs. W. W. and Tom Jordan in the business hereafter. The endeavors of the new firm will be greatly extended, their lines and stocks greatly enlarged so as to include everything in a modern and strictly up-to-the-minute store, and they will cater to town and country trade alike. Incidentally they announce that they will also buy cotton this fall, thereby greatly enlarging their field of operation.

Mr. Wood is at once one of the best-known and most popular citizens in this section. Since 1901 he has made his home in Fredonia, where for many years past he has had full charge of the Hofmann Mercantile Co., one of the strongest mercantile establishments in the Mason and McCulloch territory. While relinquishing the management of that concern to Messrs. John Latham and Marvin McMillan, he nevertheless retains interest in that firm. His removal to Brady was actuated by his desire to give his son and daughter the advantage of the splendid schooling offered by the Brady schools this year, and together with Mrs. Wood and the children he moved to Brady the past week, occupying the residence near the Central school building just recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cranford. His entrance into the firm of Jordan Bros. will give that institution added prestige and financial strength as well.

Brady citizens are glad to welcome this estimable family to Brady and to have them join our civic, social and religious circles.

MAYHEW COLD STORAGE PLANT NEARING COMPLETION

Good progress is being made towards the completion of the Mayhew Produce Co.'s cold storage plant. The walls and roof of the building, as well as the cement floor, have been completed, and the work of placing the cork insulation is this week under way. This forms a most interesting and unusual bit of work and is in charge of Messrs. J. A. and J. H. Congleton of Dallas, who have followed this one line of endeavor for the past fifteen or more years, and who have placed the cork insulation in some of the largest icing plants in the South.

The cork comes in big slabs, some two and some three inches thick, one foot wide and three feet in length. The floor, walls and ceiling are covered with these slabs to varying thicknesses, according to the temperature it is desired to maintain in the various rooms. Thus, the freezer, which may be kept at a temperature of freezing, will be covered with 8 inches of cork, and a 3-inch wearing floor. Another room, which will be maintained at a temperature of around 20 degrees, will have 6-inches of cork, with wearing surface, and the third room which will have a temperature of 30 degrees, or just slightly below freezing will have a 4-inch cord covering, besides the wearing surface.

The doors are of immense size and come built especially to order, cork insulation enabling them to keep the cold air in and the hot air out the same as heavily insulated walls.

About ten days will be required to finish placing the cork insulation. The machinery is in Fort Worth and will be shipped in time for installation by the time the insulation is nearing completion.

Friday, 11 a. m., address by Dr. W. B. Gray of Brownwood.

Miss Annie Webb Blanton, state superintendent, will attend on one day of the session and will address the teachers on school matters.

Teachers Attendance Upon Institute.
In view of the doubt in the minds of trustees and teachers in regard to the question of teachers attending institute and receiving pay for same, the State Superintendent rules that the teachers shall receive their regular salary for the time spent in attendance at teachers' institutes. Speaking of Miss Blanton's ruling, Miss Carrie Reaves, county superintendent, says: "This will make it plain that all teachers are expected to attend the institutes, and will receive pay for same. The work of the institute is just as essential as the regular school work, and a teacher who attends is not expected to do so without remuneration."—Brownwood News.

CHILDREN UNDER SCHOLASTIC AGE MUST ENTER 11TH

In making mention in the Tuesday issue of the opening of the Brady schools on Monday, September 11th, The Standard failed to state that only children who have attained the age of 7 years before September 1st are eligible to entrance in the Brady grade school as free pupils. The scholastic age is from 7 to 21 years. All children who are six years old on or before September 1st, may attend by paying tuition, provided they start at the beginning of the term. No pupil under scholastic age will be permitted to start after the opening of the school September 11th.

Rates of tuition are as follows:
Pupils in the primary grades—the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th—$3.00 per month.
Pupils in the intermediate grades—5th, 6th and 7th—$3.50 per month.
Pupils in the high school, $5.00 per month.

Numbers of families have already moved to Brady in order to give their children the benefit of the splendid schooling facilities the town offers, and many others have indicated their intentions of sending their children to school here. As a result, the enrollment this year promises to far surpass that of last year, at which time a total enrollment of 680 pupils was had.

McD. TOWNSEND, PROMINENT CITIZEN OF MERCURY, SUC-CUMBS TO HEART FAILURE

McD. Townsend, prominent and highly-esteemed citizen of Mercury, passed away suddenly at about 3:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 30th, aged 68 years, 5 months and 8 days. While Mr. Townsend had been not feeling well for some time past, yet of late he appeared improving, and his sudden demise came as a shock to his family and friends as well. He was first taken ill while at Winters, Texas, on a visit. Last Saturday evening he had a smothering spell and a physician was called, following whose administrations he appeared much improved. Tuesday he transacted some business over the phone, read, ate heartily and appeared much improved. About mid-night he was taken ill, and at 3:00 o'clock in the morning the family was aroused to find him gasping for breath, and after speaking a few words he fell back dead.

Mr. Townsend was born in Hopkins county March 22, 1854, and since 1890 had lived in Winters, Abilene and Ballinger. He came to McCulloch county from Hamlin, and located in the Mercury community in 1915, where he engaged in farming.

Mr. Townsend was an upright, Christian gentleman, was a member of long standing in the Baptist church and had always taken a prominent part in the associational work. In fact, he was on the program of the next associational meeting. He was also prominent in the Masonic order, his membership being with the Hamlin lodge.

Surviving are his widow, four daughters, Mrs. Agnes Smith and Mrs. W. T. Deadman at Winters, Mrs. T. P. Sanders at Clabeville, Tenn., and Miss Stella at home, and two sons, W. R. Townsend of Hamlin and Trace Townsend at home. There also survive two brothers, J. W. Townsend of Brady, C. C. Townsend of San Angelo, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Bishop of Dallas. All members of the family, except Mrs. Sanders of Tennessee, were present for the funeral, which was conducted at the Baptist church at Mercury at 1:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Bro. L. S. Richardson, Baptist minister of Rochelle. Rev. Scott Hickey of Miles, pastor of Mr. Townsend's daughters, was also in attendance upon the funeral. Following the services, the body was brought to Brady, interment taking place in the Brady cemetery yesterday evening.

EARL CANTWELL RE-OPENS MATTRESS FACTORY THIS WEEK WITH GOOD PROSPECT

"It's mighty hard to beat Brady," is the sentiment voiced by Earl Cantwell in re-opening his mattress factory here this week, after spending the summer at Groesbeck. Mr. Cantwell returns here to find orders piled up and waiting for him, and he anticipates a mighty busy season. He has secured new quarters just one door west of his former stand on East Commerce street, where he has ample room and light and which he has fitted up in comfortable and attractive fashion.

Mr. Cantwell has moved the new machinery, which he installed in his Groesbeck factory, to Brady, and will have a most modern and complete plant here. As always, he will give his personal attention to the manufacture of the mattresses, which assures the highest class of work and the best of service.

I wish to thank all my friends and supporters in both the July and August primaries for the splendid vote they gave me, and which has given me the nomination for Commissioner in Precinct No. 3. AGED CITIZEN DIES AT WEST SWEDEN

Gust. Dahlberg, aged and highly-respected citizen, died Tuesday morning at 2:00 o'clock at the residence of his son, O. G. Dahlberg, in the West Sweden community where he had been making his home. Death resulted from natural causes at the advanced age of 82 years. Mr. Dahlberg was born in Sweden, but had lived in the United States about 55 years, and for the past 15 years had made his home in this county. He was a member of the Free Mission church, and was a noble, upright Christian citizen, whose life was an inspiration to all.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Gustafson, and interment was made in the West Sweden cemetery besides the wife of the deceased, who preceded him into the Great Beyond three years ago.

Besides O. G. Dahlberg of West Sweden, two other sons living in another county, survive. To them is extended the sympathy of all.

MISS PINKIE JONES WILL HAVE STUDIO NEAR CENTRAL SCHOOL FOR MUSIC PUPILS

The residence on what is known as the E. J. Broad property in the east part of the business section, has been purchased by Miss Pinkie Jones, and will be moved to a lot east of the Central school building, where it is to be reconstructed and converted into a music studio for Miss Jones' pupils. Part of the building is being torn away by Miss Jones' father, W. W. Jones, leaving only the main structure, which Mr. Jones will move to the new site. When rebuilt, the building will be admirably suited to Miss Jones' needs and its accessibility to the school will make it of greatest convenience to her pupils.

LIGHTNER COMMENT.
 Light Shower Saturday—3-Year Old Girl Bitten By Rattler.
 Whiteland, Texas, Aug. 28.
 Editor Brady Standard:
 Cotton picking has begun in our community.
 A light shower fell Saturday. It will help everything, and the weather is much cooler.
 Mr. and Mrs. Davis moved to Melvin the past week. We regret very much losing them.
 Joe Rogers of Whiteland was with his sister, Mrs. Dewitt the first of the week, nursing a sore foot.
 Two little dogs were playing together at John Gormes' last Wednesday. When one of them began to howl, ran in the house under the bed, then outside to a pile of ties, having peculiar fits, Mrs. Gormes and her guest became alarmed and shut themselves in the house till the dog could be killed, as it had gone mad, but no one was hurt and luckily it was known by the family, for he was a pet.
 Ace Turk is carrying cotton to the Melvin gin this week.
 Little Roena Fields, 5-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Fields had the misfortune of being bitten last Monday by a large rattler, 3 feet long and supposed to have had seven rattlers. Her mother put her out the door, it being dark, and is believed to have put her on the snake and it bit before rattling. The child screamed and the mother raised her off of the ground at once. Then the snake rattled. Dr. Beakley was summoned at once and the child is now doing nicely, although she has had a very close call. It is certainly wonderful to be within reach of a skilled physician, and Dr. Beakley certainly knows his profession.
 Jeanne Priest and Homer Gormes were in Pasche Sunday evening.
 Con Lovelace shipped a car of cattle to market Sunday.
 C. D. Zimmerman, Joe Dewitt and Jeanne Priest were in Melvin last week.
 Ed Hale and family attended the Christian meeting in Melvin the latter part of the week.

 Fife, Texas, Aug. 30.

BLIND NEGRO BOY GIVES EX-PRESSION OF FEELINGS IN ASPIRING TO EDUCATION

The Standard has been handed the following composition, written by Alfred Williams, a blind negro boy, who calls Brady his home, but who is a student in the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute at Austin. The subject of the composition is "The Rugged Mountain," and the aspirations of the student are compared to the ambition of the mountain-climber, who aspires to the heights beyond. The composition by the colored boy was compiled by J. N. O. Brown, pastor of the local colored Baptist church.

Here is the vision that Alfred Williams sees through his sightless eyes:

The Rugged Mountain.

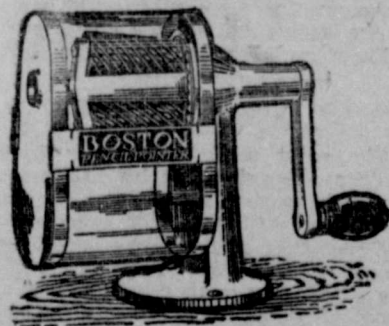

"When we are going through different schools, we are only climbing the rugged mountain that will lead us to success, and when we get halfway up these mountains and stop, then we have made a failure in the sight of the whole world; but when we make up our mind to climb these mountains then the world will be overjoyed. There are some people who will stop at the foot of these mountains and never know what is at the top, but the boy or girl, young man or lady who toils over these great rocks and never gives up will finally reach the top where the doors of success will be open waiting to greet them. But, remember, when we get to the foot of these mountains, there will be a guide who will lead us onward to the top, and without this guide we can never find the top. He knows the way up these mountains and he will lead us on, so come along and let us find these mountain-tops where the broad fields of success are waiting to greet us. If there is anyone who has stopped at the foot of these mountains, just say 'From today I am going to find the top of these mountains, where success reigns forever until the end.'

"Oh, come and let us go on—the guide will lead us and we have no need of fear. There are men and women who have gone into the world and failed. Why did they fail? Did they go to the top of these mountains? No! no! they did not; they stayed at the foot and never knew what was at the top. Now, as we climb these mountains, remember there is someone behind us that needs lifting, because we cannot enjoy all the successes of the world by ourselves. We must share with one another. So as we climb these mountains, let us lift up as we go. There are many dark places in these mountains and many sharp rocks which will tear our feet and hands; but do not get discouraged, go on to the top and you will be successful in the end.

"Let me give you a parable of a young man who started out to find a certain city. He had heard so much about this city—it was up in the high mountains. These mountains were so high, man was never able to find the top. Now, this city needed great men and women, so at last one day this young man made up his mind to find this city and away he went across the plains. He was seen passing through a beautiful grove of trees; he passed on and came to a hill. The hill was so high till it seemed that he would never make it over, but the brave young man made it over and came to a great forest. No man was ever known to go through this forest but he made it through. So on and on he went across the plains until at last he came to this high mountain so rough and rocky that it was thought that he would never make it over. But at last he made it over into this city. Now, dear readers, this is an example to show that if you go on and never stop you will be successful in the end."

BUMPUS

By CLARA C. HOLMES

© 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. Martha stood at the window of her "blueberry" cabin, watching the fire-blackened skeletons of pine trees being shattered in the December gale. It was only four days before Christmas, yet Martha's heart was as desolate as that forbidding wasteland stretching across to the eastward.

Beside her upon the windowsill, purred Bumpus. She stroked him and confided to him her troubles.

"It might have been very different with us, Bumpus, if someone had not erred so fearfully."

Co-incidentally, the words, "To err is human," flitted into her mind. Her face brightened.

"I'll do it, Bumpus! Anything is better than living a useless existence because one hates somebody. But oh, Bumpus, Anne did wrong me so spitefully! She may not have invented the unreasonable falsehoods; but she encouraged—she persuaded Carlton Burns into believing them. Because I was sensitive, I was hurt terribly; so I ran away to free Carlton—yes, Bumpus, I ran away from him," she concluded, bursting into sobs.

"Anyway I'll send Anne a Christmas greeting," she continued, clinging to her purpose, "but I can't buy anything out here. What am I to do, Bumpus?"

A moment after Martha had asked the question, the cat jumped down from the windowsill and ran for the loft stairs and Martha followed him. Bumpus stationed himself vigilantly at the eaves. As Martha glanced around, her attention was caught by a trunk which had not been opened since her sister had died, more than a year before.

"Poor Lina's gowns used to fit Anne Grant. Anne has become impoverished; it seems as if she is being punished for her jealous intriguing," reasoned unsophisticated Martha.

"I can't bear to wear these pretty things; I wonder if I can persuade myself to give Anne this silk kimono," she faltered, lifting a beautiful gown from its place.

Then she sat down to write a note, but her hand trembled and teardrops fell on the script.

"Dear Anne Grant—The Bankville News says you have had ill luck. I want you to know that I am sorry. I am mailing you a Christmas remembrance—the kimono Lina never was able to wear. Lina was fond of you."

"I presume you guessed why I turned cynic—I tried to be kind to grandmother—it crushed me completely when folks gossiped, after she had gone, saying that I had abused her. I suppose I was over-sensitive, too, in regard to Carlton; but I assert now, as I did then, that I liked Carlton for himself alone and not for his heirship to the mill property, as Carlton was led to believe was true. I am staying on my blueberry farm. In memory of Lina—and Christmas—and our own early friendship, I am truly wishing you, and all the old friends, a happy Christmas-tide.

"Your once confidante,
"Martha Bradwell."

Martha courageously went out into the storm to carry her letter and parcel to her mail box, which was nearly a mile away. When she returned, she passed long hours in suspense, wondering how Anne would accept the gift. By noon the postman came, having put himself out of his way in order to deliver a letter. The message was from Anne.

"My dear old chum—We are so glad to hear from you—no one knew whether you were living or dead. You mention some gossip. Will you kindly reflect that there were others ambitious for Carlton's friendship as well as myself? We are sorry you were so deeply hurt. Do you mind if we plan a sleighing party, and drive over when the road gets good?"

"I am sure you never will regret having shown so genuine a Christmas spirit. That this may be your happiest, merriest Christmas, is the wish of "Anne Grant."

"Happiest Christmas!" Martha's eyes filled with bitter tears; the words were filled with hollow mockery. Suppressing her anger, Martha watched the snow begin to fall. When Christmas morning dawned, Martha wept again in loneliness.

Suddenly she sprang up. Someone was knocking loudly, and she dare not open the door to a stranger. The intruder came to the window.

"Don't be afraid, Martha; for Jupiter's sake, let me in!" he commanded. She was soothed by the familiar voice; mechanically she opened the door.

It takes something more than a northeast blizzard to deter a Yankee. "Hullo, Martha," he greeted, "aren't you going to welcome a fellow who has wallowed miles to get to you?" She let him seize her almost inanimate hands.

"Martha," he bantered to dispel her bewilderment, "honest, I am real and human, even if I am covered with icicles. Anne sent for me to tell me you were here. She was trying to tell me something about somebody's grandmother, the great Jupiter knows what, I don't."

Martha forced back a flow of tears and flashed Carlton one of her winsome smiles. She thought just then about her memory gem; and, looking down to the furry bundle on the floor, she effused:

"Bumpus, isn't Anne Grant—divine?"

Snider-Farmer.

A wedding of interest to a host of friends was celebrated in Dallas on Wednesday, August 23rd, when Miss Mary Snider became the bride of Dr. Harry L. Farmer. The wedding was celebrated Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Trinity Presbyterian church of Dallas, of which the bride's uncle is pastor. Another uncle, the Rev. J. Ben Snider, performed the wedding ceremony. The bride was charmingly clad in a coat suit, while the bride-groom wore the conventional black. A number of relatives and friends of the couple were in attendance upon the wedding, included among the number being Mrs. J. A. Snider of Brady, mother of the bride, and Miss Willie Mae Dilliard of Fort Worth, one of her close friends.

Immediately following the ceremony the happy couple left amidst a shower of congratulations and good wishes enroute to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home, and where Dr. Farmer will be in the X-Ray department of the City hospital.

The bride is one of Brady's most charming and lovable young ladies, whose talents and sweet characteristics have endeared her to a host of friends. She is a daughter of Mrs. J. A. Snider, and has grown into womanhood in our midst, attending the Brady schools and being a graduate of the Brady High school. She also attended C. I. A. at Denton, and for several years past has been teaching school, being at Claude, Texas, the past two years. Dr. Farmer is a splendid young man, is a native of Comanche. He is a brother of Mrs. Miller Hammons of Stacy. It was while attending a house party at Stacy that the couple first met and formed the attachment which culminated so happily in their marriage. Dr. Farmer is a practicing physician, and has just completed a year's course in Boston specializing in X-Ray, and which he will make his life's work. In his selection of a helpmate, Dr. Farmer has chosen most wisely, and with Mrs. Farmer to inspire his efforts, he is certain to succeed and attain a high place in his profession.

The best wishes of all their many friends are extended to the newlyweds.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Having been confronted with irrefutable proof in the form of a photo, The Standard herewith takes pleasure in advising its readers that it is unquestionably true that a party of Brady fishermen captured two monster cat-fish in the Llano river on the 29th of August. Some Brady citizens, whose reputation for veracity is spotless, state that one of the fish, said to have weighed 57 pounds, was so broad that when Bill Murphy carried it on his back, he was almost completely hidden from view. The other cat weighed 27 pounds, according to the same informant. As before stated, the picture proves the mightiness of the fish. The alleged cap-tors of the fish are currently said to have been Dr. John Ben Granville, J. Ulysses Silvers and William Mac Murphy. These may or may not be the same parties as shown in the picture. The garb and sartorial appearance of the three individuals shown in the photo would indicate that they were full-fledged members of the Hoboes' union.

HONEST INJUN.

If we would build up more and tear down less we would much sooner get what we want.—H. M. Stansifer in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

ATTENTION BRADY VOTERS.

On next Tuesday, September 5th, there will be held in the city of Brady an election for the purpose of voting for or rejecting the benefits as provided in Chapter 11, Title 22, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, and popularly known as the City Paving ordinance.

The popular title is confusing, and may cause some citizen to vote contrary to his own best interests. Consequently, The Standard takes it upon itself to explain that this election WILL NOT INCREASE CITY TAXES ONE PENNY.

WILL NOT PAVE ONE PARTICLE OF STREET.

WILL NOT ENABLE THE BUILDING OF SEWERS, WALKS, CURBS or any other improvements.

In fact, the whole purpose of voting this ordinance is merely to prepare the way so that if, at any time in the future the citizens decide to vote street paving bonds, sewer bonds, or improvement bonds of any nature, they can be assured that the necessary legal steps leading to such a move have been completed with and that such bonds would meet the approval of the attorney-general simply because the required formalities have been pre-arranged.

Brady already has a street paving and improving ordinance but it is not likely that this ordinance would stand up under legal inspection. Therefore, the only thing to do is to get an ordinance that will protect the citizenship and assure the legality of a bond election whenever the citizenship decides it opportune to hold the same.

The legislature, seeing the necessity for providing regulation of municipal enterprises, such as street paving, sewers and other civic improvements, very wisely made provisions to cover the situation, such as are set forth in Chapter 11, Title 22 of the Revised Civil Statutes. These serve as a guide to city authorities in their actions.

It may be years before Brady finds herself confronted with the street paving problem, or the proposition of providing adequate sewerage system, but whenever the occasion does arise, then Brady should be prepared to meet it and by voting in favor of the adoption of the provisions set forth in the statutes above referred to, Brady citizens will have paved the way.

THE NEW BRADY HIGH SCHOOL.

A problem of no mean importance now confronts the Brady school board—and it is a problem of vital interest to every citizen of Brady—the matter of locating the new high school building.

If building sites, suitable for the location of a high school building, were numerous in Brady, the problem might not present such difficulties of solution. But owing to Brady's peculiar topography, which necessitates a widely-scattered resident district, there are but few places suitable for the purpose in view, and practically every one of these are priced beyond the reach of the school board—that is, if the school board is to retain a sufficient part of the bonds voted to enable them to build a high school building which will adequately meet the present needs.

To put it concisely: If the school board adopts present plans for a building, provides the equipment absolutely necessary, and incidentally retains on hand funds sufficient to make repairs in the present school buildings, then there will be left practically nothing in the treasury with which to purchase a building site.

There is but one way for the citizens to meet this situation and that is for BRADY—not the east side, the west side, the north side or the south side—but BRADY—to raise by popular subscription a fund sufficient to buy the most desirable building site, place the funds so raised in the hands of the school board, and tell them to do their dead-level best and our blessings go with them. That would be the real BRADY SPIRIT.

There are many citizens who will gladly give liberally for such a good cause; citizens who would rather donate money to a building site rather than to see the building plans scrippled or the safety and the comfort and the conveniences of hundreds of pupils, present and future, sacrificed.

There is another thing in which the citizens could offer material assistance, and that is in the matter of putting a reasonable price upon such property as the board might view with favor. In this, the interests of hundreds and thousands of school children must be considered above the mere matter of monetary and momentary profit.

Let's all unite and do our best for the school children of Brady. Giving in this good cause is like unto casting bread upon the waters—all thru the future years it will return to us buttered—and buttered on both sides.

ECONOMY—AND ROAD BUILDING.

Just recently, while this editor chanced to be traveling the Calf Creek road leading to Brady, we noticed a trail of maize heads strewn along the road. Every few steps there would be a bright, full maize-head lying alongside or in the road, food for the birds. Apparently every time the wagon hit a rock, a bump or a rough spot in the road, it disgorge a bit of its load of maize heads. The trail continued for miles and miles—practically from Calf Creek the entire distance to Brady. Two bushels three bushels—maybe more—were so lost. They represented some hard labor upon the part of the man who was marketing the maize heads. He had plowed and prepared the seed bed had purchased and planted the seed, had cultivated and cared for the crop, and, in the satisfaction of the good yield, had gone forth and laboriously headed the maize and gathered and loaded it for market. And all this work gone for naught because there were ruts and roughs and rocks and bumps in the road he traveled.

What a bad roads tax! And more than that, his travel was necessarily retarded by the rough roads; his vehicle deteriorated every time it struck one of those jolts; his team was tired out by the jerks, and he himself probably sang other than hymns as he jerked and lurched along the road.

The era of good roads is upon us. Good roads are civilization's greatest ally. They are mankind's greatest friends. Show me a country of good roads, and I will show you a happy, enlightened, progressive people. Show me bad roads and I will show you people who are unassociable, who know little of one another and of the world's affairs, because travel is too difficult for them to even intermingle in a neighborly fashion.

Let's stop paying bad road taxes, and put our repair bills, our delay bills, our loss bills and our own personal discomforts into good road taxes. As the years progress, we will find the good roads taxes far lighter than were the bad roads taxes, and the rewards we bring to ourselves and to those who come after us, will more than repay all the sacrifices we have made to build better roads.

PUT SHEEP ON YOUR FARM.

We have been growing sheep in a small way for 40 years or more, and no animal has paid us better for the amount of money invested. They will do the same for others if given a chance.

The size of the flock will depend upon conditions, but from 10 to 20 breeding ewes make a fine flock. Sheep are naturally adapted to the South, the mild winter and long growing seasons being favorable. Sheep are easily grown, not any more subject to disease than any other animal. But you can succeed by placing them off by the creek or in a pine thicket and leaving them to care for themselves, subject to attack by dogs. They require feed and good pastures, but no more so than the poultry, hogs, cows, or any other livestock.

Sheep will improve the pasture they run on by keeping down weeds and evenly distributing the manure over the field. So much value is placed upon sheep manure that seedsmen are advertising it in their catalogs, and selling it in packages, I suppose, to farmers throughout the country.

The sheep is a producer of the best meat and at the same time is growing wool that can be made into the best of blankets and goods for the family use. No other animal does this. Think of what it would mean to each farmer and the South as a whole if we could keep here the money that goes to the West and North to pay for blankets and woolen goods that we can grow here—and at the same time add fertility to our soils!

Sheep will pay on many farms where beef cattle will not. They come to maturity quickly, and the lambs are in demand at high prices. There will always be a demand for good lambs and mutton. There is on almost every farm, land that is not producing anything, that could be made to grow sheep.—R. W. Scott, in The Progressive Farmer.

UPS AND DOWNS OF TICK ERADICATION.

Kelso Howell has recently suffered the most grievous loss to cattle from dipping for ticks that has come to our notice. This loss happened to him in Lampasas county, near Lometa, and Kelso is all "het" up about it. So wrathful is he that he has directed his forman to engage attorneys and enter suit on anybody that can be found responsible, from the Governor on down, taking in Boog-Scott, J. B. Murrain and everybody else that seems to be in line.

Here and there severe losses are being occasioned by the tickdipping program, but it is difficult to determine the exact cause. Sometimes it is undoubtedly due to the inefficiency of the county inspector, and then there are hardships that cattle should not reasonably be expected to undergo successfully immediately following a dipping. Many losses happen in shipment to market or to grass lands when shipment is made immediately following a dipping. As a counter proposal to this, the officials in charge of tick eradication say that always cattle have died in shipment owing to other causes than dipping—when dipping was not done, in short. The Russell-Wilson cattle, which went to market only a few days ago, suffered severe losses, 43 dead steers being found on arrival at destination. Other similar cases have been noted. One case coming under our observation was wherein the cattle were being driven five miles to a vat, the drive commencing after daylight. The cattle were dipped and immediately driven back over the five-mile road, reaching their home pasture at noon. Naturally such exposure in the heat of June and July was hard on the cattle and a few losses were not without reason. In that case there were four or five small farmers pooling their herds and driving to the vat, five miles away. These men could have saved all sorts and quantities of time if they had built a vat of their own—and the county was furnishing the material. Then there is the big steer problem. Naturally wide ranges of big steers cannot be worked every 14 days and the steers fatten, speaking of the summer drouths. It would likely not hurt them in the cool months. In the early spring months there were many cases of stockmen telling that they found their stock cattle doing well under dipping. No doubt the heat of summer made a difference.

Then again there is the individual inspector to reckon with. He may, or he may not be efficient. He may get the dip too strong, on occasion—for none of them were reared in a dip factory. But Kelso Howell had a difficult lay. He had brought clean cattle into a clean district in Lampasas county, the pasture having been released premises for 13 months, there was not a tick on the cattle, Kelso says, and one day he decided to move them a matter of 10 miles to another pasture, also clean. The county inspector—for the whole county was not under release—said they must be dipped. Howell said they must not be. Then, while the matter was pending, and while both Howell and the foreman were away the inspector came out and ordered the hands to dip the cattle—and they obeyed. As a result, 15 calves died, and others, both grown cattle and calves, have suffered a great deal. Their hides crack and bleeding follows, then worms get in them. The hair comes off with the cracking and bleeding, and altogether Mr. Howell says, it is a pitiable spectacle. But a great many others are not having such misfortune.—San Antonio Express.

THE RANGE FIRE.

There is more grass in this section of West Texas, according to experienced cow men, than we have had for years. But like many other Augusts the grass is dry. Fires put out in Sutton county two weeks ago swept over 5,000 acres before they could be stopped and lost to ranchers hundreds of dollars.

Be careful about the range until we get a rain to start the grass again. A cigarette butt, a match—a spark from a camp fire—any of these things may start a range fire that will sweep over thousands of acres.

West Texas ranchers are liberal about allowing anyone the use of their pastures. Trespassing is permitted freely. Do not forget the obligation you owe to the man who allows you the privileges of his ranch. Those who have been in the army know what it means to "police up your camp." To those who don't, it implies leaving things in better condition than you found them. That's the army's way of showing its appreciation of a camp site.

Be careful what you do with your tin cans—with papers—with the trash that you accumulate about your camp—and don't forget to put out the fire. See that it is out yourself. Don't leave that to someone else.—San Angelo Standard.

MAKING FARM WOMEN COMFORTABLE IN TOWN.

The rest cottage or rest room is becoming an institution in progressive towns and cities catering to the farm trade. There was a time when the farmer and his family drove into town and while the head of the family transacted business the wife and children spent weary hours sitting around stores or in the wagon waiting for him. In many cities and villages today there are found comfortable rest rooms for the wife and children and perhaps a place fixed up in the county agent's office for the accommodation of the husband.

Every city and village in our agricultural districts will find it good business to provide comfortable quarters for the farmer's family while in town. If the municipality or the merchants show by their acts that they have the comfort of their out-of-town customers and visitors always in mind, trading in that town will become a pleasure. A good way to secure trade and hold it is to have the goods to sell, advertise them and make customers not only feel at home in the store, but in the city itself.—Farm and Ranch.

WOULD IMPROVE HEALTH, TOO.

The point made in a letter from the State Board of Health to Homer D. Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and secretary of the newly organized Texas Conservation Association, to the effect that a thoroughgoing program of flood control, water conservation and reclamation in Texas would improve health conditions immeasurably is well taken. For a comprehensive program, carried out over a period of years, that would ultimately harness all of our streams and develop them to a maximum degree would eliminate the swamp areas of the State, which are held to be di-

This is valuable information, and should be preserved by every sportsman. It will settle much doubt and misunderstanding, and perhaps be the cause of saving some hunter possible trouble.

COLEMAN "NEVER DIES" STILL OFFERING EXCUSES—HOPE FOR GR-R-RAND R-R-REVENGE, 1923

New comes Garland Woodward, manager of schedules for the Coleman base ball team, and avers that it is all wrong to accuse Coleman of ever thinking of playing a seven-game series. Never heard of such a thing! Bhsurd, also o-lutely. Bailey Jones and Jess Woosley probably dreamt that 7-game series, and the Brady editors were probably hitting the pipe when they originally announced a 7-game series between the teams. Friend Garland was mighty much disgusted when Brady won the fifth and sixth games of what he now says was a six-game series. Said he was through with base ball forever. Never wanted to see another game. Never, never! Might see one occasionally at Coleman, but never again would he get all het up over baseball and travel the many weary miles to Brady to see his West Texas semi-professionals beaten. But now Friend Garland is feeling more chirky. Asks us to wait until 1923. Probably means he is "coming back"—which is more than the Coleman team can do, since they have never yet arrived.

But read Mr. Woodward's statement. It reads well:
 "Editor Brady Standard:
 "With interest I have just read what is purported to be facts relative to the past season's base ball schedule as quoted in our local paper from The Standard. We feel sure that your editor is honest in his belief, but such facts as therein stated are incorrect. I refer you to Mr. Bailey Jones and Mr. Jess Woosley of your city for verification of the below facts:

"At the Melvin picnic in July in the presence of Mr. Jones, Mr. Woosley and myself, had this agreement, which was in full carried out by both teams. Brady and Coleman were to play six games, three here on the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Coleman then to return to Brady for the next three. A seventh game was never scheduled. At the conclusion of the sixth game Brady had one game on us for the season, a seventh game was therefore unnecessary as it would determine nothing for either side. When Coleman went to Brady for the last three games, we had then scheduled two games with Winters for the two days following the last three Brady games and, of course, we carried out our program with them as per contract. After we returned home and the fans read the badly quoted article in the State papers (purported to have been written by its Brady correspondent) they stated that if the Brady fans felt that way about it that we would arrange for six games the following week. Six games were then arranged by the writer with Mr. Woosley but were cancelled Saturday night previous to the playing here on the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Why they were cancelled we never knew.

"Just keep the record straight and wait until 1923.
 "Yours truly,
 "GARLAND WOODWARD"

To Mr. Woodward's letter we replied:

"Brady, Texas, Aug. 26, 1922.
 "Mr. Garland Woodward
 "Coleman, Texas.
 "Dear Mr. Woodward:

"Was glad to receive your letter of the 23rd inst., together with enclosure, and to note that you are planning on "coming back" in 1923. All of which brings on more talk.

"We have had a nice season in base ball this year; the boys and the fans are both well pleased, and are happy to note that the Coleman Star-Telegram correspondent admits Brady won the odd game of the season's series. Just as long as we can keep Coleman's scalp dangling from our belt, we should worry about the championship.

rectly responsible for thousands of cases of malaria every year. Such a program would include also the improving of the water supply of communities in many sections of the State, and this, too, would tend to improve health conditions.

It is doubtful that these considerations alone could arouse the people to the doing of the things which will be necessary to put over the program contemplated. But they are very material considerations nevertheless. And when added to them is the further consideration that the annual loss of life from floods would ultimately be greatly reduced if not entirely eliminated it will be seen that other benefits besides those of added material wealth will flow from the putting over of such a program.

The possibilities of our streams are only beginning to be realized, but the public is sufficiently aroused now to make a real start toward controlling them. The first step is to have a topographic survey of the main streams of the State made and the next Legislature should make provisions for the starting of this work.

What the Legislature does with respect to this one proposal will be a very good test of its sincerity in tackling this question of water conservation and flood control.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Smokers and chowers and spitters had as well make up their minds that the prohibition of tobacco is on its way. The No-Tobacco League of America in annual convention at Winona Lake denounced the whole tobacco business as "essentially, inherently and wholly bad," and passed a resolution calling on State Legislatures to pass laws "safe-guarding the inalienable rights of non-smokers in public places." The resolution also advocated a law "prohibiting the advertisement of tobacco through newspapers and periodicals."—Coleman Democrat-Voice.

According to an article quoted in the Literary Digest a favorite superstition of the West has been exploded by scientific investigation, viz: the belief that a hair rope placed about your bed would keep rattlesnakes out. The investigator had confidence in the theory that the hair rope would keep snakes out. He had asked cowboys and frontiersmen why the rope kept the snakes off, but no one was able to give him a satisfactory answer. He also asked them if they had ever seen it tried, but strangely enough no one had. So he set out to prove or disprove the correctness of the theory. He threw his hair rope across the path of a rattlesnake, being careful not to arouse the reptile. His snakeship crawled across the rope without hesitation. He tried it on another and another with the Sweeping refinements in motor, chassis, body and equipment mark the Buick seven-passenger open car for 1923.

Re-designing has brought the car's height down several inches with no sacrifice of head-room; an entirely new cantilever spring suspension provides a degree of riding comfort unexcelled. Above the windshield is a visor of distinctive design, there is a cowl ventilator, a gasoline gauge on the dash, a rear-view mirror, a transmission lock, the shifting lever has been extended. The entire car shows a completeness of equipment not to be found elsewhere within a thousand dollars of its price.

And back of these improvements stand the traditional qualities of Buick Valve-in-Head power and stability.

The seven-passenger touring is one of fourteen entirely new models at entirely new prices which Buick offers for 1923.

M. W. A. OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY BY BIG ZONE RALLY

The local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America is celebrating the 40th anniversary of the national order by undertaking a campaign for new members, with forty candidates or more as the goal. The campaign will end some time in December with a big zone rally and barbecue to be staged in Brady.

Included in the zone are the counties of McCulloch, Sterling, Coke, Runnels, Tom Green, Concho, Menard, Schleicher, Mason, Llano, Sutton and Kimble, and it is estimated that at least 500 members will be in attendance upon the festivities marking the end of the membership campaign, with at least one hundred candidates to take the initiation ceremonies.

District Deputy R. J. Vidler of Brownwood, with the assistance of H. E. Wahrmond, will have charge of this rally, and some of the head officers of the order will be present to take part in the ceremonies.

The co-operation of all members, and the Brady citizenship as well, is requested towards making this rally a grand success.

A BLUE UMBRELLA

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union. It was a blue silk umbrella, with a lovely white bracelet handle, and a Blue B engraved on the white knob. I have to be very careful in describing it, for this is part of the story.

Our new professor at college is always harping on "preparedness," and what a great advantage it is to success. Well, my thinking of carrying the blue umbrella that day when it looked like rain, wasn't any advantage to my success; but that begins the story.

Mother sent me down to Ballie's for some taffeta to match the dress she was going to wear to the reception that the faculty were giving for our noted professor; I hurried along, preferring to walk the short distance, and when I met Nan Palge on the way we stopped first, and had a soda. And Nan told me of the books this Professor Laidlaw had written on the deepest subjects, and how his picture had been in magazines, and everything, and I was just wild to see him. She said that he looked like anyone's favorite movie actor, and was an idol with the women wherever he went. But Nan said he was stern, too, and would not stand for nonsense or familiarity from his pupils, and we had better impress him with our dignified behavior.

Nan isn't very dignified herself, but I can be, on occasion. So as I walked the rest of the way alone to Ballie's, I decided that I would ask mother to let me wear the plain navy blue dress, which makes me look so old.

Aunt Betty is critical where men are concerned, and is always asking who they are, and what they have accomplished, until Janet is often provoked, regarding her own young men. Janet has plenty of beaux. And mother says that Aunt Betty might have married times over, if she had not been so particular. Aunt Betty is awfully pretty and jolly. But there I stood waiting for that taffeta to be wrapped up, and down came a shower, outside the street grew suddenly dark, and I was glad that I had brought my umbrella. I drew it with some difficulty from before a man who stood beside me at the counter, and stared reprovingly at him, when he failed to beg my pardon. And as I was hurrying down the aisle that man came after me. This time he did say "Beg pardon," but it was with the affront of claiming the umbrella, or trying to claim it, for I certainly did not give it up to him. "Beg pardon," he began, "you have taken my umbrella, under a mistaken impression, no doubt, that it is yours."

"Mistaken?" I asked disdainfully. "I certainly know my own blue silk umbrella. You will notice the letter B; my name begins with B." The man stood still and stared at me disconcertingly.

"Notwithstanding the fact of your name beginning with B," he said, "the umbrella is mine."

A crowding female with two jostling boys at her side came between us just then, and I fairly laughed back at the impostor over their heads, then to save trouble and publicity, I ran out of the store, and down the street and on to a street car; and it was not until I had handed in my fare that I took time to realize how brazen that man had been. And he was a nice looking man too, with fine features that any physiognomist would say placed him above petty crime. When I took the taffeta into mother, Aunt Betty was there, and Janet, and they were all talking excitedly about the evening's guest of honor, whom Aunt Betty called "a young man of sterling character."

Nan had spoken more concerning his eyes. Which reminded me of what very nice eyes the thief had. For even if it's only an umbrella you are trying to steal, you're a thief. And by and by when I'd got on my second best dress, I started down the stairs. Aunt Betty was going to have one of her friends in to dinner. And then I stood stock-still on the stairs. For she was talking to her friend in the hall that minute, and he was my umbrella man. Yes, really. And I couldn't help hearing him apologize to her for not bringing back an umbrella she'd loaned him, and which, he insisted, had been pulled right out from under his arm in a store. And all at once I felt chilly; for the reason that Janet had given me a blue silk umbrella for Christmas was because I had so admired Aunt Betty's, and Aunt Betty Baisley's name, naturally, begins with a B.

So there I stood, mystified, yet beginning uncomfortably to see daylight. For it occurred to me that perhaps I had forgotten to take my umbrella with me to Ballie's store, which upon later investigation proved to be true. The two silk umbrellas with their white bracelets stood side by side in my clothespress. And when I came guiltily into the dining room, you may fancy my next humiliation. "Bab's," said Aunt Betty, "let me introduce you to Mr. Laidlaw, the new college professor."

Well, I don't know how I ever should have come out if it had not blessedly happened that Professor Laidlaw is to be one of our family. He's engaged to Aunt Betty. And he really was a good sport, and left me out of his explanations when he was able later to return Aunt Betty's property. But, as Nan says, it was all perfectly thrilling.

Good Enough Reason.

The Piute Indians of California are notoriously lacking in chivalry toward their women. Uncle Arch Farrington was driving down Westgard Pass road one hot summer afternoon and met Fatty Jack, a fat Piute, astride a small pony, which was visibly wobbling under his burden, coming up. Uncle Arch was incensed to note Jack's wife carrying a sack of flour and toiling along on foot. As he met the Indian, Uncle Arch called angrily to Jack: "What for you ridem poney, makem squaw walk?"

Fatty Jack, not deigning to stop or argue the ethics of the situation, called over his shoulder as he passed on, "She no gotten horse."—Judge.

REST COTTAGES ARE GOOD INVESTMENTS.

Pleasant and Convenient Accommodations for Rural People an Asset to Any City.

While the county rest room is primarily a place of rest, a place where bundles may be sent or noses may be powdered and unruly locks of hair coaxed into order, yet it is becoming more and more truly a center not of rest alone, but of worth while activity.

The "rest" service is not to be despised, to be sure. Grayson county rest cottage at Sherman, Texas, showed an average registration of about 175 per month on a twelve-months record, and those figures do not include the children at all, nor do they take into account the many who failed to register, or the school-girls who came in regularly to eat their lunch there. Nor do those figures suggest the crowded condition of that same rest room during Red River Valley Fair time each fall, when every day the period brings hundreds of visitors.

The County Unit.

All of which makes the county rest room the logical place for the women of the county to meet and discuss matters of common interest. Moreover, while the neighborhood group is the beginning point, the county is made the unit in home demonstration work. Excellent individual club records, excellent community records come together to build up the general county record.

One reason for this is that the home demonstration agent is ordinarily employed by the county and paid from county funds. She therefore serves all the county, and all the county is interested in, and shares in, and is benefited by her service. But more basic than that is the simple fact of the existence of counties—our form of county government radiating from one central point; our system of schools under an elected county superintendent; the question of good roads and other matters of general county interest. By reason of all this the county is the natural unit for any general undertaking.

Special Speakers.

So it is that to the county site—and more often than not, to the rest room—come the speakers who would appear before the women of the county; candidates perhaps; certainly the experts for whom communities have called, making one lecture or demonstration serve adequately the women of the several clubs.

Sherman rest cottage has held several such gatherings. Dallas rest room holds for Dallas county women an assemblage of the sort each month. Other counties have tried the same plan and found it good; for with enough women together to form a good sized audience it is comparatively easy to arrange for lectures by experts in the various lines in which they are especially interested.

A style show was one of the successful rest-room-county meetings held. Each club group made itself responsible for certain models—one group showing afternoon dresses, another children's school frocks, etc., while for such an occasion merchants were readily willing to show some of their attractive styles. On another day a flower exchange, when all brought their surplus bulbs and seeds and yard and garden plants, to take from the array in turn what they desired—this was made all the more interesting by a talk on native shrubs and flowers by a man whose grounds were a most attractive exposition of what might be accomplished with these neglected plants that may be had for the mere taking.

A visiting French woman, anxious to come in touch with agricultural methods and rural life of the United States, found at the county rest rooms just such groups as she was most anxious to meet, gathering there information which she expected to make of practical value in her own land on returning there.

Natural Library Center.

But aside from the general meetings with lecturers of note or demonstrations of interest, the rest room offers a natural depository for technical books and bulletins as well as recreational matter in book and magazine at the disposal of all visitors.

This phase of service has made little expansion toward the organized county library of which it is the natural germ, but something has been done in putting at the convenience of casual readers such material as does come to hand.

The rest room matron of course has much to do aside from keeping up with books, so the matter of circulation is seldom attempted. Such books as are on the shelves are ordinarily used for whiling away an hour of otherwise monotonous waiting. But many a magazine is sent on to further use in some home. Perhaps it is a story that catches the eye of the bookworm of the family; perhaps it is a pretty bit of fancy work beauty-loving fingers are quick to copy; perhaps it is just a company of gay paper dolls that Dorothy covets for her collection. At any rate the magazines go gayly on from hand to hand; and some day this magazine exchange may expand until the rest room will offer the benefits of a real circulating library to its patrons.

Marketing Opportunity.

Moreover the rest room may so easily prove a convenient place for leaving notice of eggs or friers or choice fruit, honey, etc., for sale—as well as just as convenient a place for leaving notice on the part of others of such things desired.

Town dwellers, living on cramped lots—that must depend on the wide acres of others for their food supply—especially those who have known the wide acres themselves and are hungry for the product fresh from the farm rather than in tin can or shipper's carton—these are learning that at the rest room they stand a good chance of coming in touch with those who will readily supply them with fresh choice produce. A fifty-fifty arrangement this often proves to be, whereby the seller obtains a little more for her wares, and the purchaser buys at a little less than she would ordinarily pay.

At any rate, with live questions answered, general problems divined into with the benefit of general discussion by those most closely interested, experts heard, literature available, marketing opportunities taken advantage of, is it really a "rest room" or a center more truly of activity than of rest?—Veda Group, in Farm and Ranch.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

The many friends of Mrs. W. K. Gay will be pleased to learn that she is greatly improved. Mrs. Gay has been suffering with an attack of dengue fever the past week or so.

Joe McCall has been confined to his home the past week with an attack of dengue fever, and for several days ran a very high temperature. His condition is responding to treatment, however, and he hopes soon to be able to be about once more.

E. O. Barker of the Dodge community was in Brady yesterday, having just gotten out his first bale. He says his crop will be short, although the staple is good and the condition as well. Mr. Barker says so far he had done all his own picking and he is badly in need of pickers.

Joe Blount has purchased from W. N. Roberts the residence in Southwest Brady formerly occupied by Mr. Roberts, and Mr. Blount and family will make it their permanent home. The place consists of five rooms, with storm cellar, outbuildings and splendid improvements, and makes a most desirable piece of resident property.

Richard Roper of Rochelle left Wednesday morning for San Antonio, where he will take up his duties as instructor in the West Texas Military academy, following the spending of the summer vacation with home folks in this county. Mr. Roper is now entering upon his fourth year as instructor in the academy, which speaks eloquently for his efficiency in his chosen work.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Mayo of the Waldrip community are mighty happy and proud this week of the dainty little Miss which the Stork left for them at the local sanitarium on Wednesday, August 30th. Maxine Mayo is the charming name given the new arrival, and Father Mayo says the name doesn't begin to do the little Miss justice. Mother and babe are both doing splendidly.

Commencement exercises at the College of Industrial Arts at Denton were held on August 24th, and numbered among the twenty-nine graduates who received the degree of Bachelor of Science, was noted the name of Miss Edith Elaine Morris, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. I. T. Morris of Brady. Miss Morris is to be congratulated upon her splendid attainment, and the wonderful preparation she has made for her life's work.

It's surprising what a big lot of joy a little mite weighing just 7½ pounds can bring into this old world. But Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Mathis says the bright-eyed little Miss who arrived bright and early Thursday morning, August 31st, at their home has been the occasion of great rejoicing, especially since she is their first-born. The little lady has been given the attractive name of Wanda Jeanne. Congratulations are extended the proud parents.

J. E. Brown has decided to permanently locate in Brownwood for the practice of his profession, and this week moved his law office to our neighbor city. Early in the year Mr. Brown formed a partnership with Chas. Miller at Brownwood, and has divided his time between Brownwood and Brady, but finds it more to his advantage to be located there now. The Brown residence in Southwest Brady has been leased and will be occupied by Miss Maggie McKeand.

A party composed of Messrs. John Moffatt, Evans J. Adkins, Virgil Jones and B. L. Malone made an extensive trip up through the oil territory the first of the week, their route including visits at Comanche, DeLeon, Gorman, Desdemons, Eastland, Ranger and Rising Star. They report some interesting sights, and state that Ranger and Eastland are regular cities, with city appearance and city conveniences. All members of the party describe the trip as worth while, and report a most enjoyable time.

Writing from Lamesa, Texas, Grover Young, formerly of Lohn, says that while it isn't very wet there, yet they are all well and able to eat all they can get. Feed is pretty good, and cotton will run close to one-fourth bale to the acre. In addition, they have both good water and a plentiful supply, since dry weather doesn't affect that. Grover says he still likes the plains for the good, pure air and the good people they have there. He still is interested in his old home and old friends, and wants the paper kept going, incidentally sending best wishes to all its readers and friends.

Frank and Willie Roy Hall, 10 and 12-year old grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walton, returned last week from Louisiana, where they spent the summer visiting with their father, the two lads making the trip, both going and returning alone and unaccompanied. They report consideration and attention from railroad officials and passengers all along the route and experienced no difficulty in making their long journey. Incidentally they proved mighty good boosters for Brady. When asked how they liked Brady, they described it as the best place in the world and countered by asking the inquirer why he didn't come and live here. The boys were glad to be back, and timed their return early enough to assure their being ready to re-enter school when it opens for the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Davis and children returned Tuesday evening from a visit in Southeast Louisiana, where they participated in a most enjoyable family reunion. It took 6½ days to go from Brady to his destination, in which time they covered 1,036 miles. Mr. Davis says he saw sights that were nothing short of wonderful. Immense rice fields and sugar plantations, with innumerable negroes employed upon them at the refineries. Fruits in abundance such as cannot be described. Pears, oranges and every other variety of fruit. Swamps covered with duck and geese. Small wonder, then, that he can boast of having lived off the fat of the land. Many of the bridges had been washed out by the flood waters in the spring, and the party had to be ferried across numerous rivers. The immense cypress trees, with their wonderful draperies of moss, formed a most impressive sight. Returning, the party came by way of Jackson, Vicksburg, Shreveport and Dallas.
