BRADY PRECINCT IS DIVIDED INTO 2 VOTING WARDS

An item of interest this week was the passing of an order by the commissioners court dividing Brady voting box into two voting precincts, to be designated as Wards 1 and 2. Ward 1 is defined as all that territory included in Brady voting precinct and lying west of a line running along the Santa Anna road, North Bridge street, South Bridge street, Lockhart street in Jones addition, and thence a line due south to the precinct limit. Ward 2 will include all the territory in Brady voting precinct lying east of the line.

Voters living in Ward 1 will continue to cast their ballot in the Justice of the Peace office, while those living in Ward 2, will exercise their right of franchise at the ballot box in the Sheriff's office.

When paying poll taxes for the coming year, Brady voters should remember to designate the ward in which they reside, so that the same may be placed on their poll tax receipts.

The division, according to the court, was made necessary by the heavy vote polled in the Brady precinct, there now being a voting strength of over 1100 in this precinct. By having two wards and two full sets of officers the work will be greatly facilitated and the ballots can be counted in just half the time as formerly. During the past few years election officers have been obliged to work all night long following elections and some times practically all the next day in tabulating the votes. With the new arrangement the work on the election board will not be nearly so heavy and the returns can be posted much more promptly.

With the growth of the town and adjacent country there is no doubt that within a few years it will also be necessary to make another division and at this time a line will be drawn through the precinct from east to west making four wards.

Among other matters coming before the court this week was a petition from the citizens of Melvin asking that the road be straightened near the T. C. Ward place, to take in a part of the John Nystrom farm. The petition was granted and a jury of view appointed.

BELL COUNTY MAN BUYS DAVE TAYLOR PLACE IN VOCA SECTION FOR $10,000

E. B. Scarborough has just closed a deal between Dave Taylor of Voca and C. B. Hillyard of Rogers, Texas, for the purchase by the latter of Mr. Taylor's 320-acre place in the Voca community, possession to be given within the next two or three weeks. The consideration was $10,000.

The property has 125 acres in cultivation, and is well-improved. Mr. Hillyard expects to move here in the next few weeks, and become a permanent McCulloch citizen, while Mr. Taylor will also continue to make his residence in the county, occupying another of his farms.

F. R. WULF BEGINS CONSTRUCTION OF BRICK STORE BUILDING FACING HOTEL

Excavation was begun yesterday morning for the foundation of a new store building to be erected for F. R. Wulf on his lots at the rear of the F. R. Wulf Motor Co. garage. The new building will be located on Church street, facing the new Hotel Brady, and will be a modern structure of brick, with plate glass frontage of 24 ft. Side and back wall will be of hollow tile construction. H. H. Richards has the contract for construction, and building operations will be begun as soon as the foundations are completed.

The new building will be an attractive addition to the business section, and its location in proximity to the new hotel assures it becoming a most valuable business stand.

LYRIC THEATRE OFFERS MOST ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM OF FEATURE PLAYS

There is a well-balanced and well-selected program of all-feature attractions offered at the Lyric for the coming week, and one which should serve to meet the desires of even the most critical. Tonight, there is that vivid 7-reel drama, "All the Brothers were Valiant." Excitement and thrills there are a-plenty. Tomorrow (Saturday) night, you will want to see Miriam Cooper in "Daughters of the Rich," a picturization of the famous novel of the same name. Monday, "The Face on the Bar Room Floor," presents a melodrama that carries with it a good lesson—and then to ease off the tension, there is a splendid comedy to follow: "High and Dry." Tuesday another powerful 8-reel drama is presented in "The Flirt," with the ever-interesting Fox News in connection. It's hard to miss a night on such good offerings, and regardless of the night you choose, you are assured of enjoyable entertainment.

JUDGE CHARLES JENKINS FORMS LAW PARTNERSHIP WITH JUDGE E. J. MILLER

A law partnership was formed recently in Brownwood, between Judge Charles H. Jenkins and Judge E. J. Miller, his son-in-law, and the firm will have as offices those now occupied by Judge Miller, on the fifth floor of the First National Bank building. Judge Jenkins, who recently resigned as Associate Justice of the Third Court of Civil Appeals, to accept the position as chairman of the State Codification Board, will spend much of the time, for the next several months, in Austin attending to the duties of that office. But he will be, at the same time, an active member of the local firm, and available for consultation and work before the higher courts. Both Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Miller are well known as among the leading professional men of Brownwood, and need no introduction to the people of this section. —Brownwood News.

The above item will be of interest to citizens throughout this section. Judge Jenkins has been in this district and has practiced law in the district for thirty or forty years, and his acquaintance extends widely over this area. Mr. Miller is one of the prominent and successful lawyers of Brownwood, and in their association, the new firm is certain to become one of the most prominent and active, and offers to clients exceptional facilities and ability for the handling of legal matters.

BRADY HIGH TO MEET RICHLAND HERE SATURDAY

Brady High football eleven will meet Richland Springs on the local grounds next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in the opening game of the season on home grounds. The local boys have been working hard under direction of Coach Collins, and have strengthened their line-up and have given special attention to overcoming their weak points. They expect to enter Saturday's game confident of winning, and will put up a class of football that is certain to win the warm support of Brady fans. The boys are anxious to have a big crowd out, and hope that every Brady citizen who believes in good, clean sport, will support them at least to the extent of purchasing season tickets.

The following games have been scheduled:

- Brady and Coleman at Brady, October 19th.
- Brady and San Saba at San Saba, October 26th.
- Brady and San Angelo at Brady, November 3rd.
- Brady and Mason at Brady, November 9th.
- Brady and San Angelo at San Angelo, November 17th.
- Brady and San Angelo at Brady, November 29th. The latter game is to be played on Thanksgiving Day, and will conclude the season's playing.

Brady Loses at Brownwood.

Brady lost the second game of the season, played last Saturday at Brownwood with Brownwood High, by a score of 27 to 6. The team made a splendid showing against their opponents, considered one of the best in this section, and Coach Collins is proud of his youngsters. The Brownwood players took Brady by storm in the first half, but after the local team steadied down, they not only prevented further scoring by Brownwood, but put over a touchdown and scored for themselves in the second half.

BRADY TEAM WINS POLO SERIES AT BROWNWOOD FAIR

Brady Polo team has again proven themselves champions of West Texas by taking the series of games played this week with the Brownwood polo team, as one of the feature attractions of the Brownwood Fair. Monday's game resulted in a tie, 6 to 6. Tuesday's game was won by Brady 6 to 1, and yesterday Brady again won, 4 to 2, thereby clinching the honors for Brady again this year.

The games proved most interesting, and while the attendance was not as large as anticipated, yet the local players were handsomely treated by Brownwood, and returned in high spirits. Incidentally, as a result of the splendid horsemanship and training shown, a number of polo ponies were sold by the Brady players, so that the games served to further advertise Brady's fame as the home of the premier polo ponies of Texas.

APPLETON BROTHERS CLOSE DEAL FOR PURCHASE OF TURNER BROS.'S BUSINESS

Appleton Brothers, local produce dealers, last week closed a deal for the purchase of the Turner Produce Co., and the taking over of the Bridge street wagon yard and all the Turner Brother's business interests in connection. Immediate possession was given Appleton Brothers, who have consolidated their produce house with the former Turner stand on North Bridge. The new stand is especially advantageous, since it combines several interlinking businesses. Besides the grocery store, a restaurant is operated in connection with the wagon yard, and also a cream station is maintained.

Appleton Bros. announce the continuation of all lines of business, and will give personal supervision to same. They announce that they will be active in the turkey, peacan and fur markets this fall, and ask for a share of the business.

Mr. Turner will continue to make his home in Brady, taking up other lines of endeavor.

B. H. Hallon has sold the Electric Kitchen operated by him on the south side of the square to R. Hutchenreuter of Brady and Milton Baker of Claxton community. The new proprietors, in turn, have leased the business to John Robertson, an experienced restaurateur and well-known Brady citizen, who announces that he will continue the business at the same stand and operate it as a high-class eating place, where the best of everything in season may be had. He invites the patronage of the general public.

Mr. Hallon has gone to the Plains on a prospecting trip.

MANVILLE BROS. COMEDIANS TO OPEN ENGAGEMENT HERE ON NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Geo. F. Dunnam, business manager for the Manville Bros. Comedians, arrived in the city yesterday to make advance arrangements for a weeks engagement of that popular dramatic company, beginning here next Monday night on the Dutton lot. While this company has never played this city they have been playing this part of the state for the past few years making Brownwood, San Angelo, Coleman and other towns along the main line of the Santa Fe. Mr. Dunnam says that the company travels in their own privately owned cars and will arrive in the city Monday morning over the Frisco. The large tent in which the company stage their productions is entirely waterproof and the shows will be given each night rain or shine.

The company has an especially strong repertoire of plays, the opening play being "The Masqueraders." The bills for each succeeding night will be announced at the show. The splendid music is said to be a feature, the music carrying their own orchestra, which will play at each performance. Big time vaudeville between the acts is also one of the drawing cards of the company.

BAND CONCERT ON SUNDAY TO OFFER VARIED PROGRAM

Director Lester Calloway announces a band concert for next Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock on the court house plaza, and a program that is going to be the best yet had. New overtures, and lots of new popular pieces will be played, and in addition Harold Deaton will sing some of the songs which have proved such a great drawing card for the band.

The many Brady and McCulloch county citizens who enjoyed the concert given a couple of weeks ago will agree that the Brady band produces wonderful music, regardless whether it is an overture, a popular air, or a grand medley of those soul-stirring sacred numbers.

The boys are always glad of a large attendance and appreciative of the courteous attention and enthusiastic reception that greets their efforts, and want everyone from near and far to attend next Sunday's program.

LOST CREEK ECHOES

Pecan Crop Good—Citizens Protest Changing of Voca Road.

Voca, Texas, Oct. 11, 1923. Editor Brady Standard:

The Lost Creek Echoes have not been coming in very often, as I suppose you have already noted. Well, through the busy season of the year, I have so much to do and so much to see after I just can't get the time to write much.

The cotton will soon be picked here; all are about through picking over the first time, and the second picking will not last long. I think the gin at Voca will get around five hundred bales by the end of the season.

The pecan crop is very good here but none have been gathered as yet. All hands have been too busy picking cotton.

J. E. Spiller and D. H. Henderson were chosen or sent to Brady the first of the week by this part of the county with a big petition to present to the commissioners court protesting against the proposed change in the Voca and Brady road. It was proposed to open up a road turning west at the Seven-mile hill, and intersecting the Camp San Saba and Brady road at the Mann place, but when they arrived at Brady the committee found that the committee of review had reported unfavorably, and that another committee had been sent out.

Now, all the people of the southeast part of the county do not want the road changed at all. This old road was laid out and surveyed in 1875. At that time it was known as the Brady and Austin road. At the time it was surveyed, at the end of a mile just that many hacks on a tree indicated the number of miles, or if no tree to hack, it was indicated by that many rocks in a heap.

The writer traveled over this route before it was even laid out as a roadway. All we want, is to have this road that goes straight to Brady worked, so we can get over it.

Reduce the Skidding Danger!
Buick Four-wheel Brakes

BUICK four-wheel brakes reduce to a minimum the skidding danger every driver encounters on wet pavements.

The action of the simple yet positive Buick brakes not only slows down the car safely but keeps it steady, preventing skidding to either side.

Buick four-wheel brakes operate with slight pressure on the service brake pedal, are of the Buick-proved external contracting type and function independently of the emergency brake.

Buick has taken this advanced step of designing four-wheel brakes on its 1924 cars in conformance with its well-known policy of providing owners with the safest and most dependable transportation.

We will be pleased to give you a demonstration and let you prove the effectiveness of Buick four-wheel brakes yourself.

FIFE FINDINGS.

Cotton is About Three-Fourths Ginned—Pasture is in Fine Shape.

Fife, Texas, October 10th.

Editor Brady Standard:
The news was so scarce, I forgot to write last week. Since then, some things have happened.

The Elm Creek crossing below here, East, is being worked on this week by Watkins' famous concrete workmen. They have been on this job since Saturday, and will probably finish in seven days, it being a wide crossing. They usually get one in in three or four days.

Cotton is so scarce, Mr. Edwards is going to gin only three days a week after October the 13th—on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. They have ginned to date about 240 bales.

Mr. Tom Bradley and Mr. C. Collins made a business trip to San Angelo last week.

R. K. Finlay, Sr., and Thos. Mitchell will go to San Angelo Thursday to the Fair.

The people seem to desire a better price for their fowls this year. If they do no better, they will at least have something for the men to cuss and the women can discuss.

Mr. Jack McKeand and Miss Rosa Clark were quietly united in matrimony Sunday, the 7th of October. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Clark of Fife. We join in wishing them a happy and successful future.

School will begin here Monday, October 15th. We have four teachers employed this year. The attendance will be light for this term—many are gone away to pick cotton up close to the "Tech" school site.

Rev. H. A. Smith is here for the winter. He will conduct services in the tabernacle at lower Cow Creek, at intervals.

Mr. F. M. Ranne of this place is figuring on buying a place, if he can find something that suits him, or he may move away to the Plains and farm as he first calculated.

JAKE.

Now is a good time to have cushions made for chairs and seats—they look good, and are cozy for winter. E. R. CANTWELL, Brady.

Editor Brady Standard:

Well, the weather has at last cleared up, and we have had about two weeks nice and dry. The people have put in the time well in the cotton patch, and the gin here has run almost day and night during this time. Cotton is about all picked over and ready for the second picking. It is turning out some better than was expected.

Some few have some grain planted, but there will be considerably more when they have time to work after it.

Mrs. N. K. Gamblin, after an illness of almost two years, passed away September 20th. She was an old McCulloch county resident, having moved here in 1877—then a widow with five children—and settled on a small tract of 160 acres of land, which she afterwards pre-empted and lived on till her children all were grown and married. By this time, Berry, her youngest son was left alone by the death of his wife, and with three small children, but this dear, good old mother came to his rescue, took charge of the little ones and kept house for him, raised the children to man and womanhood. Each one is married now and have families of their own, and are as follows: Mrs. Claud Knight, Calhoun Gamblin and Mrs. Homey Brown. They never knew any mother but this dear grandmother, and it was, oh, so sad to witness their grief as the body was taken out of the home for the last time. Her own five children, who were present when the end came, were E. E. Gamblin, Hall; Mrs. Charley Fares, Mercury; Mrs. Jake Linley, Merizon, Irion county; Berry Gamblin, Rochelle, and Mrs. Tom Criswell, Lampasas. Dear old "Aunt Kinch," as she was called by all her old friends—they were many and truly a Mother in Israel is gone. But our loss is Heaven's gain. She lacked only about three months of being ninety years old. The body was laid to rest in Cowboy cemetery in the presence of a large assemblage of sorrowing relatives and friends, and the beautiful floral offerings were evidence of her popularity among her old neighbors and friends. This dear old lady had 27 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Seward are rejoicing over the arrival of their first son, left with them last month by the Stork. Mother and son doing nicely.

Mr. H. F. Hardin was home last week from Copperas Cove, where he is at work in the insurance business.

The Baptists had their 5th Sunday meeting at this place and which was well represented by five churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sellman had for their guests on Saturday night and Sunday, the following young ladies from Menard: Miss Berta Meers, county clerk; Miss Ora Chatman, Miss Elsie Deitz, Miss Mauldin and Miss Vance, teachers in the Menard school. They report having had a grand meeting, with many ministers present, who, we hope, have left bread cast upon the waters, to be gathered many days hence.

The new school building was occupied Monday, the 7th, by the first, second and third grades. Rochelle is proud of this necessity—for it was surely needed here.

The new Dodge Brothers Touring Car is exceptionally comfortable to ride in; it is good looking; and it incorporates many important refinements of detail.

The body is longer and lower, eliminating side sway, affording more leg room, and enhancing the beauty of the lines.

Deeper seats, long underslung rear springs and longer front springs, give ample assurance that cross country touring can be enjoyed without weariness or fatigue.

WONDERS.

We know how to fly, with and without engines; we draw speech out of the air through electric lamps; we juggle fruits and flowers to make them give us what we want in taste, form and color; we talk, ride, sail or fly around the world; we are constantly on the quest of something new for our pleasure or profit, and we usually get it definitely and also promptly when we go after it, no matter what it is; but there is still one thing that we seem to want and need without getting it, perhaps because it is comparatively easy to attain, and that is the knowledge and art of living in peace and contentment, by our selves and with our fellow beings. That should be the next great wonder of man's achievement.—Wardle's Words.

ANY NEW IDEAS THIS MORNING?

Do you attach sufficient importance to ideas—ideas concerning your daily employment? Do you take the time and trouble to sit down and to think clearly and constructively about the work you have to do?

That old excuse about being "too busy" doesn't go. No task you have to perform is more important, more urgent than that of ferreting out new ideas for your business.

"One single idea," said Emerson, "may have greater weight than the labor of all the men, animals and engines for a century."

Reflect upon that for a couple of minutes, will you?

John D. Rockefeller once engaged an executive at a rather stiff salary.

"But what," asked an associate, "are the man's duties?"

"His duties," smiled Rockefeller, "consist of putting his feet on the desk, sitting back and dreaming out new plans to save money for the Standard Oil Company."

Incidentally, it may be added that the executive saved his salary several times over the first year.

It was brain, not brawn, that brought us out of barbarism. The world owes every forward stride to its creative minds.

TURKEY RAISERS MEET TO FORMULATE PLANS TO POOL PRODUCTS TO SELL IN NOV.

By Geo. E. Ehlinger

On Saturday, October 6, a representative meeting of the turkey producers of the county was held at the courthouse. This meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the turkey situation and formulating ways and means of bettering, if possible, the situation with reference to marketing the present turkey crop. A survey of the county had previously been made of the turkey crop and at this meeting it was found that some ten thousand turkeys had been tentatively offered for sale thru the turkey pool which is at present contemplated. Representative turkey raisers were present from the various communities of the county and most of the discussion centered about the question as to whether or not a contract would be signed in order to force delivery of the turkeys, if signed up in the pool. The majority of those present were in favor of a contract which would bind anyone signing same to deliver his or her turkeys to be sold thru the pool. Further discussion, however, brought out the fact that the time limit, in which to get the contracts signed, was too short. A committee of seven was then appointed to draw up an agreement, placing each and everyone who signed same on their honor to deliver their turkeys according to their agreement. This committee as appointed consists of Messrs. H. J. Huffman, Dan Zimmerman, Walter Hurd, Clyde Eubank, Rockett Hall, all of Brady; M. A. Leddy, of Voca, and Jack Shepard, Placid. The agreement is being drawn up and when completed a copy of same will be mailed to each turkey raiser whose name appears on the original tentative agreement and to all others who apply for one of those agreements.

The committee as appointed will have the authority to get bids on the turkeys offered for sale and it was the sense of the meeting that the turkeys would be sold to the highest bidder. It was also agreed that the committee after due investigation should be invested with the power to close the bids on some certain day in November. After this day the turkeys will be sold to the firm which has the highest bid in at that time. With the bids closed the producers will then be called upon to make deliveries as requested by the committee. This arrangement is made necessary by the fact that, in case the turkeys are dressed in Brady, the firm which buys them will have to be given sufficient time in which to dress the turkeys and get them on the Thanksgiving market.

It was also agreed at the meeting that anyone who fails to sign the agreement, in due time, will not be allowed to sell in the pool later. This stipulation is made necessary in order to protect those who have agreed and are expecting to sell according to the agreement. Therefore anyone expecting to sell in the pool must have signed the necessary agreement in order to do so. Those present at the meeting expressed the hope that our local produce people would avail themselves of the opportunity to cooperate with and encourage the turkey producers by being the ones to offer the bid which will buy the turkeys.

CHANGE OF LIFE

Florida Lady Was in a Miserable Condition, But Says She Found Cardui Helpful, and Got Well.

Altha, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of Route 2, this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up."

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a helpless feeling."

"I would get depressed and out of heart."

"I began to feel, after awhile, there was no use to try to get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse."

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results."

"I took one bottle (of Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so kept it up. Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right. Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

RED CROSS COLUMN.

We are glad, indeed, to announce that we have at last employed the services of a Public Health Nurse, in the person of Miss Emma Barth, who is a graduate nurse of the Scott & White sanitarium of Temple, Texas, and also has completed the nursing course of the State University, and is qualified under the requirements of the National Red Cross organization.

Miss Barth has had one year experience in this work, and we feel she is qualified to give the character of service needed in our county, namely: Instructions in the prevention of diseases, and to foster 100 per cent health among all the people, which is every individual's first right by nature. Statistics show that over 50 per cent of the people are physically unfit; due, in most part, to the lack of knowledge of how to take care of their bodies.

Miss Barth will visit all the schools of the county as soon as possible, beginning with those schools that open first, and continue on until she makes a complete tour of the county. She will give health lectures and demonstrations, and conduct physical examinations of all, and will give instructions in First Aid, Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, pre-School Health conferences, and other educational work will be undertaken. Parents are requested to be present, where possible, when physical examinations are made, at which time, especially, proper nutrition and weight of the child will be considered. Notification slips will be sent home with the child, to inform the parents of the nature of the child's defect, if any, and you will be referred to your family physician for advice and treatment, when needed. She will also make home visits where advice and demonstrations along these lines are wanted.

In order that she might make a success of this work, we earnestly solicit the co-operation of every individual in the county, especially the parents, which we are sure we will have, as the work is not for the benefit of the Red Cross, but for you to avail yourself of the opportunities given.

This is the character of work you assist in carrying forward, when you enroll as a member of the American Red Cross, and constitutes some of the fundamentals of the Peace Time program, and we are hoping this work will appeal to everyone to such extent that you will support it, not only with your influence, but to the extent that everyone in this county will enroll as a member of the McCulloch County branch of the American Red Cross.

The ROMANCE of ICE

An attempt which we believe to be one of the first of its kind to outline the interesting development of modern refrigeration, together with its relation to better living and proper household usage of ice itself. Given you in the hope that you may profit and be entertained by its reading.

Every product—every industry—every modern industrial development—has its "story." The pages may not have been turned back so that he who runs may read and be interested, but the story is there.

Perhaps some of our greatest untold romances concern those taken-for-granted commodities which the public sees, uses, appreciates, without giving a thought to their interesting origin or the struggles of men in their development.

As an out-standing example—ICE. Here is a luxury-necessity without which the public would really suffer. True, the blasts of winter turn the waters of river, lake and pond into ice; one long puff from Jack Frost's cheeks provides thousands and tens of thousands of tons each year, but twenty-one million American families cannot be supplied by Nature's manufactory.

Let's turn back the pages for a moment and see what preceded the era when ice is made as readily accessible as coal or wood. These pages reveal real romance.

As Lord Bacon commented in his Sylva Sylvarum:

"Heat and cold are Nature's two hands whereby she chiefly worketh, and heat we have in readiness in respect of the fire, but for cold we must stay till it cometh or seek it in deep caves or high mountains, and when all is done we cannot obtain it in any great degree, for furnaces of fire are far hotter than a summer's sun, but vaults and hills are not much colder than a winter's frost."

Bacon knew what a useful thing it would be if man could have the same command of cold as of heat. Scientist that he was, he undertook experiments into its possibilities. This led to unfortunate results. He caught his death of cold by alighting from his carriage one winter day and stuffing snow into a chicken to see if it would keep.

Starting with one of the first of the pages, we find that the Emperor Nero had slaves bring snow down from the mountains to cool his wines. Alexander the Great had trenches dug for storing snow. Hundreds of kegs of wine were cooled there, with the result that his phalanges entering battle on the next day didn't care much what did become of them, just so it was a good battle.

Without, perhaps, observing the strict sequence of history, note the ode described by Simonides, the early Greek poet, when he was embittered to observe that other guests at the banquet were treated to snow poured into their liquor, while he sipped vintage of temperature displeasing.

"The Cloak with which fierce Bores clothed the brow Of high Olympus, pierced ill-clothed man

While in its native Thrace; 'tis gentler now,

Caught by the breeze of the Pierian plain.

Let it be mine; for no one will commend.

The man who gives hot water to a friend."

Sir Walter Scott told how Salad'n, leader of the Mohammedan armies, sent a frozen sherbet to Richard the Lion Hearted, much to the amazement of that doughty monarch.

History's pages also show that the ancient Egyptian knew the secret of cooling by evaporation, as practiced by the native of India to-day—filling shallow trays of porous material with water placed on beds of straw, and leaving it exposed to the night winds, with the result that dawn finds a thin film of ice formed on the surface.

Marco Polo, the great Italian navigator, is reported to have brought receipts for water and milk ices from Japan and China in the 13th century. When Catherine d'Medici left Florence, Italy to go to France in the sixteenth century, it was reported she took with her the best of the chefs to make sure that she would be supplied with frozen creams and ices every day.

Coming then to the seventeenth century, we find that the French Government made an unsuccessful attempt at government ownership when it licensed the business of farming snow and ice. The farmers who received Government favor thereupon raised prices with such studious regularity that the people refused to buy and the government was forced to relinquish its control of this commodity. Immediately thereafter supply and demand got into stride and the business settled back into sanity. The Italians, Spaniards and Frenchmen have always been devotees of better living, and history is filled with interesting side lights on their uses of snow and natural ice.

Then we have the picture of the early English fishmonger selling ice from his wagon; the first record of American delivery of ice to the home in Eighteen Hundred and Two and the shipment of the first commercial shipload of natural ice from America, this being exported by Frederic Tudor of Boston in Eighteen Hundred and Five, the shipload being sent to Martinique in the West Indies to help stay the ravages of Yellow fever.

But how about the actual making of ice?

As Edwin F. Slosson, of the Science Service, Washington, D. C., explains in his article "Science Making Everyday Life:"

"The chronical of the century of effort to approach the farthest north of temperature, absolute zero, is as fascinating as the contemporary struggle to reach the geographic pole and unlike the latter has proved profitable at every stage. When Fahrenheit in 1724 stuck his mercury thermometer into a mixture of salt and snow he thought he had reached the lowest possible point and boldly scratched 0 on the glass tube. But it was not long before scientists began to climb down the minus steps. In 1769 a Russian professor, taking advantage of a cold spell, froze mercury itself in a mixture of snow and nitric acid."

A hundred years ago Faraday, working in the Royal Institution of London, succeeded in condensing ammonia gas to a liquid by applying pressure and then cooling it. When the pressure was removed the liquid of course, boiled off rapidly as a gas again, absorbing heat in doing so.

This discovery proves of the greatest importance, both practically and theoretically. A solution of ammonia and water was used by Carre in 1851st Carre machine to reach the United States was shipped through the blockade of New Orleans in 1863.

In 1855 Dr. William Cullen invented the first machine which produced ice by purely mechanical means, his achievement being followed by those of Vallance of France (1824) and Jacob Perkins, an American then residing in England who is given credit for the forerunner of the modern compression apparatus, his model being patented in England in 1834, with ether being the refrigerant employed. Other early workers in this field of science were Prof. A. C. Twining, of New Haven, Connecticut, and Dr. John Gorrie, of Apalachicola, Florida.

In the rotunda of the capitol at Washington, where each of the States has set statues of its most distinguished citizens, Florida has chosen this same Dr. Gorrie instead of any of its pioneer politicians or military geniuses. Too many men of various countries have contributed to the gradual development of mechanical refrigeration for any one person to be entitled to exclusive credit for the invention, but Dr. Gorrie certainly deserves this place in our National Hall of Fame for the service rendered to the country when he took out the first American patent in 1850 for a practical process of manufacturing ice.

In the years of 1873-75 the first successful ammonia compression machines were introduced by C. P. G. Linde, of Germany, and David Boyle, of the United States. From 1875 to 1890 many new forms of apparatus were produced and certain improvements were made.

Until the year 1890 the practical utilization of the art of ice making and refrigeration had seemed to come to a standstill. But there occurred in the year 1890 an incident that awakened the general public to the possibilities of the use of mechanical refrigeration. This incident was the greatest shortage in the crop of natural ice that has ever occurred in the United States. Thus to this peculiar incident may be credited the impetus that started the rapid development and utilization of mechanical refrigeration in the United States. In the interim up to the present time, the ice-making and refrigerating industry has grown in leaps and bounds.

Thanks to the manufacturers of the refrigerating machine, ice can be had at any time and anywhere that power can be obtained. The ice machine gives us ice in any quantity at any time, free from germs and dirt. It has made fever a rare disease in some places. Through the efficient household refrigerator, ice not only protects foods so far as their purity and flavor are concerned, it also becomes a genuine luxury, as well as necessary, in the family dietary through its ability, to keep for us the out of season fruits and vegetables we all crave at some time. Perhaps, too, the best definition of the luxury of ice consists in the real assurance of full palatability we can always have when foods of any kind are properly protected by ice.

Right here it is not out of place to inject some of the basic facts about ice and how ice does preserve and protect.

When ice melts it absorbs heat. It is the heat-absorbing power that makes ice a refrigerant. However, it cannot refrigerate unless it melts.

A material which does not allow heat to pass through it is called an "insulator." To keep the ice from melting too rapidly we surround it with some insulator which keeps away the atmospheric heat. The articles to be preserved for cooling or to be kept cold are put into the insulated space with the ice. Then the ice can absorb their heat, thereby cooling them, but turning to water in doing so. This is the principle of all refrigerators.

The better the insulation the less heat can get into the refrigerator or ice box and, therefore, the less ice meltage due to heat leakage. The warmer the articles put into the box the more ice they will melt before they reach the same temperature as the ice box itself.

The temperature of ice is 32 degrees Fahrenheit. If we had a perfect insulator—one which did not allow any heat from outside to go through the refrigerator walls—the temperature of the inside of the refrigerator would be 32 degrees also. But all insulators let some heat pass—the best hold little; the poor insulators let much go through. The poorer the insulation in the refrigerator the higher will be its temperature when the air outside is warm.

The intelligent housewife will utilize these facts to the advantage of her pocketbook and family. She will see that the refrigerator is ready to receive the ice when the ice man brings it. Every minute it stays outside the insulated space it is absorbing heat from the air and melting.

Cold is the ideal preservative and the housewife who really wants to economize on both food and ice will keep her refrigerator well filled at all times. This is a simple matter of household efficiency. When you let the ice get low in the refrigerator, it naturally grows warm and requires just that much more ice to bring the temperature down again to that safe point where the constant circulation of cold air across the top of the ice, down its sides, down the side of the food compartment, across the floor of the refrigerator, up through the food compartment and over the ice again purifies and preserves through every inch of its journey.

Perhaps we seem to have strayed from our story, but with this background of history, invention and development, you can now better appreciate the meaning of figures such as these:

More than five thousand model factories supply America today with 42,000,000 tons of the luxury-commodity known as ice. In addition to this the harvesters of natural ice supply a further 16,000,000 tons each year.

It is the duty of the ice industry to see that the American public is supplied with enough ice for all needs the whole year 'round.

When an ice card is placed in the window or a telephone call brings delivery, few housewives realize that the ice company serving her is able to meet all emergencies because of its farsighted policy of producing and storing ice during the winter months when demand is low. The ice man always has to gamble on the weather and he always has to gamble exactly one way. He cannot take it for granted that the summer will be mild; he always gambles that it will be hot.

Consequently, hundreds of thousands of tons are manufactured, harvested and stored each winter as assurance that the greatest emergencies of the hottest weather can be met. Not only is the ice industry pledged to the necessity of insuring supply; delivery is an equally important problem. During the winter and spring months delivery equipment is completely overhauled; new equipment added; plans laid for the system of delivery which is bound to undergo much strain during those days when housewives have all made up their minds at once that they want an extra supply of ice.

The ice industry is looking for cooperation.

Through the National Association of Ice Industries, an organization comprising more than two thousand producers and distributors of ice, the industry hopes to awaken people to the necessity of taking ice the year 'round.

Results already gained show that this can be done. The co-operation sought is that of intelligent buying by the public.

The industry believes that when families realize that a few cents worth of ice will save dollars worth of food, our sales season will be extended. Families will buy ice in months when they are now using little and the result will be a smoothing of the problem of supply and demand which will soon be reflected in better service and comfort all around.

Food needs preservation in December just as much as it does in July—although many families may not think so. These families believe that outside "coolers," window boxes and other makeshifts, will supply all the refrigeration necessary.

The fact is that food should never be exposed—at any time of the year—to the dust and germs so latent with danger.

The only proper place for good food is a good refrigerator and the uniced refrigerator is just about as valuable as an umbrella without a top. People who put food in the uniced refrigerator in winter are simply making of it a food container, whereas the refrigerator is constructed, designed and insulated for the proper protection of food in the only manner so far found for its protection—with ice and low, even temperatures.

Perhaps explaining new uses for ice—plus emphasizing the necessity for its year 'round value—the industry's campaign will make even more rapid progress than companies like ours deem possible.

Those in charge of the campaign tell us this is so because the industry remained silent for so many years. The campaign has already developed the fact that teachers, students and housewives are decidedly interested in this story of ice and its uses which we are telling for the first time.

If there are any problems in connection with home refrigeration, the proper temperature for foods and the care of your refrigerator, write to us and we will be glad to put you in touch with a department of the National Association of Ice Industries which, we are told, fills a long-felt want.

This is the Household Refrigeration Bureau. As members of the National Association of Ice Industries, we are entitled to its consulting service and gladly subscribe to its good object of furnishing the American housewife with better information on ice usage.

We hope that the reading of this outline of the business we are engaged in, its past and present, has proven interesting. If it has served to give you a better knowledge of the business itself, some of the problems we face and our sincere desire to really serve, we are indeed more than satisfied.

MRS. B. G. SMITH WRITES FROM AUSTIN TO COMPLIMENT BRADY'S PROGRESS

Brady and McCulloch county citizens will read with pleasure the following very complimentary comments on Brady's improvement and progress in the past year, the more so since they are written in all sincerity by Mrs. B. G. Smith, one of McCulloch county's pioneer and well-beloved citizens, who has been making her home in Austin in recent years, but whose interests still call her upon frequent visits back here.

Mrs. Smith writes: On my second visit to my son, Floyd, at Lohn, I met with many of my old friends. It was a great pleasure to see their familiar faces again.

I stopped a day or so, on business, in Brady, my former home town and was delighted to see the substantial improvements since I was there last.

The first to consider is the artistic well. A pipe projects from the well to about four feet in height, over which pure sparkling water flows not unlike a huge fountain. So solid and continuous is this immense flow that the entire town is supplied with water from this source. Its supply seems inexhaustible. With what a relish I quaffed this fine water.

Adjacent to the well is the Tourist Park. Hence among shady trees every convenience is provided for the weary traveler. So inviting it is that the towns-people frequently have gatherings there.

Next is the High school building, an excellent structure of brick, situated on a commanding eminence in the southern part of the town. It was completed just in time for the opening of school in September.

The new "Brady" hotel a splendid brick building of three stories on the modern build with no inner rooms. The entrance is a patio after the Spanish-American style. It is just off the square and is an ornament to the town. It will be open for business about Thanksgiving.

Electric lights adorn the plaza. Electric lights extend throughout some of the principal streets. A noticeable feature—they are in the center of the streets instead of along the sidewalks. Lights encircle the square and are placed at intervals on the court yard. This plaza is a thing of beauty. Cement walks are all around the court yard and at the four entrances to the court house. To one side is the up-to-date rest-room of concrete. The grounds are covered with beautiful trees, grass and many designs of lovely flowers, the most noticeable being the Texas star. Comfortable seats are conveniently arranged on the entire court yard. I first saw this plaza at night. The brilliant lights shining through the trees and reflecting on the green velvety grass and various colored flowers, the white seats and beautiful walks, reminded us of the fairy land we so often dreamed of in our childhood.
