NEW TERRACING IDEA PROVES SUCCESSFUL IN LOCAL EXPERIMENTS

Water-Washed Pasture Tract Is Converted Into Fertile, Irrigated Field By New Terrace Method

The Spur Experiment Station, which was the first agricultural station in this country if not the entire world to conduct terracing experiment on the large scale and to prove conclusively that they were an economic success even on land with a very slight slope, has this year tried a new wrinkle on the terracing idea and converted a strip of rolling and water-washed pasture land into a fertile, irrigated farm. And the crops which are now growing and maturing on this 120 acre strip not only prove the success of this new "wrinkle" in terracing, but surpass crops growing on the nearly perfectly terraced tracts over the rest of the farm.

Before terracing experiments were begun on the station, waters from the higher pasture land to the west washed over the entire tract and flowed on into the Negro Lake southwest of this city, carrying with it many tons of valuable soil as well as leaving only such moisture as would soak into the land during the rain. When terracing experiments were made on the northern section of the 414 acre farm, they were designed to hold what water fell on the land but were not designed to take care of additional water for any length of time and a quarter mile strip of land across the entire length of the farm on the south side was left to carry off surplus waters. This strip was planted to pasture grasses and crops which would tend to keep the land from washing too badly.

Most people in Texas who are interested in agriculture are acquainted with the successes of these original terraces, since it has become the "text book" of terracing study for the entire nation; and no doubt this last innovation will become as important in places where it can be used as has the ordinary contoured terraces.

Since the first terraces were not designed to hold an extraordinary amount of water nor to care for additional wash waters from other lands, it was decided by the directors of experiments of the station to build a dike across the upper side and divert the surplus waters onto the above mentioned quarter mile strip and devise a system of holding it as long as desired. Both sides of this strip, which is a mile long, were diked and thirteen water trap terraces were placed across it fashioned after the traps in a syrup evaporating vat. Every other one of these water traps were joined to the dike on one side of the strip and run on a level almost to the dike on the opposite side; and alternate water traps were joined to the dike on the opposite side, thus forcing the waters to flow in a snake-like course down the mile long strip. Each trap has an eighteen inch fall to the next one, and in circling the thirteen traps the water must flow a distance of six miles from the entrance to the outlet.

At the entrance a forty-foot vent has been made, equipped so that the amount of water flowing in may be measured, also the time required for water to flow in. At the outlet a twenty-foot vent has been made for similar measuring purposes of outflowing waters.

During the recent 1.78 inch which fell within 30 minutes over that immediate section, it was found that water began flowing into the water-trapped strip within 20 minutes and that 8,000,000 gallons flowed in in 3 hours. This large amount of water which flowed into the strip in three hours did not reach the outlet vent for 17 hours and continued to flow out for 26 hours—less than 2,000,000 gallons however, flowed out of the tract. Thus it is seen that by this method of terracing less than a two inch rain was converted into more than a seven inch rain; and if it had been desired the entire inflow could have been held on the land, or only a part of it allowed to enter.

A different crop has been planted between each water trap—milo, feterita, hegari, sudan, kafir corn, cane, and others; and none of them are suffering in the least and will more than likely surpass any crop in the entire country. It is surprising to note that the crops in this once water-washed strip are in better shape and will produce more than any on the remainder of the station farm—and this is saying a lot since actual measurements show that late cotton on other terraced tracts has grown more than a foot since July 23, and feed crops in proportion.

Everyone of course is welcome to make an inspection of this new experiment at any time and Supt. R. E. Dickson urges anyone who is interested to take advantage of the opportunity to do so and states that he will be glad to conduct you over the plot personally. During the remainder of this month and September parties will be here from Scurry, Garza, Fisher, Noland, Runnels, Tom Green, Taylor, Kent, Jones, Throckmorton, Eastland, King, Knox, Motley, Coke, Brown, Hardiman, Hale, Floyd, Lubbock, Hockley and possibly other counties. Announcements will be made in advance when these parties will be here and it is suggested that local citizens who have lived in any of the above named counties, make it a point to meet their former friends and acquaintances at the station and join them in the inspection.

WATCH YOUR LOCAL POLITICS

A situation similar to Spur was recently created in the City of Yoakum which has a population of over three times that of Spur. An oil engine municipal plant was promoted and the city commission refused to renew the franchise of the utility company. On expiration of the franchise, the private company was driven from town and here's what happened, taken from the San Antonio Express of July 10, reporting an article from Yoakum under date of July 9.

It was stated that the municipal light plant of Yoakum had raised its rate to 12½¢ for the first block of 20 KWH, 10¢ for the next 30 KWH, and 8¢ for the next 100 KWH. A statement was made to consumers which contained among other things the following:

"Normal rates are now being restored so that the city can meet its payments on the purchase of the plant..."

Can they meet those payments from earnings even now before the equipment is completely worn out? How much farther would they miss meeting their obligations if proper accounting were set up to include the used up value of the property and the taxes this plant fails to pay under the guise of being municipally owned? Such taxes have to be made up, of course, by the citizens. The accounting procedure prescribed by the oil engine company does not permit these items. There are other facilities of the city that are used that are not charged in the expenses of the plant venture. It has been clearly demonstrated by other such ventures made in Texas during the past few years that their prescribed payments can not be met solely out of the earnings when proper expenses are included.

Rain and showers fell over practically the entire Western half of the county Tuesday, precipitation varying from a quarter of an inch to an inch and a half. 55 hundredths were registered at the local experiment station.

Rainfall was considerably heavier to the west and on the headquarters of Dockum which stream was thrown out of banks and caused some damage to the recently constructed bridge east of the city.

In most of the communities rain was really needed and will greatly benefit fall gardens.

Henry Alexander & Co. Moving To New Location

Henry Alexander is this week making preparations to move his dry goods establishment from its present location one door north of the City National Bank, to the Cowan Building on the west side of Burlington in the next block south. The building is being repainted and new fixtures are being installed, and Mr. Alexander states that a considerable amount of new merchandise will be added to his present stock at the time of removal.

Announcement has been made that the move will be made and the store open for business by August 15th.

New Football Coach Arrived in Spur This Week

Thad Murley, new coach elect of Spur High Schools arrived here this week with his family and has already begun preparations for the athletic program for the coming year.

Mr. Murley stated that he had a football line up of 35 men completed which included five letter men; and that fall training would begin next week.

It will be remembered that Spur is this year released from a two year suspension and is again eligible for competition in the Interscholastic League. Mr. Murley is an excellent coach and a likeable fellow, so let's all get behind and do what we can to help him put Spur back in its proper place on the athletic map.

Candidates For Congress-at-Lrg.

In this weeks issue will be found articles concerning the candidacy of Joe Burkett and Pink L. Parrish, for Congress-at-Large.

Since the first primary his thinned the candidates for these three places down to a more reasonable number, we feel that we can devote space to this race and during the next two weeks will try to have something about all six of the candidates that will give you an insight to their character and platforms.

Roque Tournament Held Here Monday

Spur and the local Roque Club will be hosts to representatives from twenty-five or more West Texas communities Monday when a runner-up tournament is to be held here.

Cotton Jumps $6 Bale Following Report, Aug. 8

Following the Government Cotton Report of August 8 which estimated the coming year's crop at 11,306,000 bales the cotton market has been boosted around $6 a bale. Cotton market experts who are doubtful about the present price standing because of the 13,445,000 bale carry-over, state however that if the next report does not show an increase in the estimated production, another rise may be expected.

Stocks and bonds have also been on the upward trend during the past two weeks, and although economic forecasters who have been wrong so many times during the past two years are reticent about making statements, it begins to look like the long looked-for corner around which prosperity has been hiding, has been turned. Will Rogers thinks it is a Republican vote-getting stunt—and there may be something in that. But regardless of what it is it makes everybody feel better.

Boll Worms Make Appearance Here

Numerous reports from practically all parts of the county are to the effect that damage is being done to cotton by boll worms. The damage so far is very slight due possibly to the large acreage of young cotton, and further damage and a more serious menace from this pest depends on weather conditions.

Speaker Here Today Interest of Sterling

R. A. (Bob) Stewart, chairman of the Sterling campaign committee in West Texas, will speak here today (Friday) at 2 p. m.

Gov. Sterling had intended to speak here personally, also at Crosbyton and at Lubbock this evening, but became ill last week and will be unable to make the schedule. The public is invited to hear Mr. Stewart's talk.

Bringing with him the outstanding movie star cowboys, Gibson is also planning on bringing with him several of the most famous stars in moviedom to make personal appearances in connection with his cowboy contests.

To the People of Dickens County

On account of numerous reports as to whom I would throw my support in the race for the office of County Judge of Dickens County, will say that those who made their choice in the first Primary will now have that same privilege of making their choice in the second Primary. Individually I am taking no part in the County Judges race in the run-off.

Sincerely yours,
ROBT. REYNOLDS.

Chicken Thief Shot Here; Captured in Abilene Sunday

Rufus, colored resident of this community was shot Thursday of last week after resisting local officers Black and Bell who attempted to arrest him on a charge of chicken theft. The Negro, on being accosted is reported to have made fight and attempted to take Deputy Sheriff Black's gun away from him and during the struggle that ensued and the attempted escape the Negro was shot. He made good his escape however and a search of the countryside failed to find him.

Later in the week a Negro who was wounded in the back about the belt line was picked up at the Abilene railroad yards for questioning. His story was that he had been shot in a hold up on the freight train from Lubbock to Abilene. He was not released, however, and later investigations identified him as the man who had escaped from officers here. Local officers returned from Abilene Tuesday with the prisoner who is being held at Dickens pending bond or trial.

Schools Opening Over The County

Opening dates of other schools have not been announced but most of them will start before September 5th.

Hunter Campaign Manager Will Support Fergusons

J. E. Marlow, state campaign manager for Tom F. Hunter in the first primary gubernatorial race, announced Saturday that he will support Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for the Democratic nomination for governor at the second primary, August 27.

Mr. Marlow's statement is as follows: "In one of the most interesting elections, just ended, I was campaign manager for the Honorable Tom F. Hunter, and had it not been for the metropolitan press absolutely refusing to recognize him as one of the three outstanding candidates in the race for governor, and had they given him the publicity he was entitled to, there is no question but that he would have been in the run-off, and could have defeated either of the other two candidates, and would have made Texas a great governor."

"The great race he made is a splendid tribute to Mr. Hunter and his many supporters, and I am sure thousands of voters regret having passed up an opportunity to put a real man at the head of our state government. However, it is too late now to complain, and all we can do is to choose between Mrs. Ferguson and Ross Sterling; and, believing that it will be to the best interest of a majority of the people of this state, I shall vote for Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson."

"I hope this statement will answer the many inquiries I have been receiving as to the stand I will take in the run-off on August 27."

J. E. MARLOW.

I wish to thank the people for their votes and consideration shown me in the recent primary. It was impossible for me to see each of you personally before the election, but I hope it will be my pleasure to meet you in the future and to show my appreciation for being elected your District Clerk.

Now it will be impossible for me to visit you in your home and solicit your vote again in the campaign, but am asking you each and every one to take this as a personal appeal for your vote and influence on the election of August 27. Time To Plant Fall Gardens

By CLARA PRATT
We are having some ideal weather for getting fall gardens started now. There is quite a bit to be done before we are ready to plant the seeds so let's get busy.

In the late summer the moisture supply in the soil is limited, and care must be exercised to conserve it in every way in order to get the vegetables up. To do this the ground should be free of all weeds and plants that are left from the summer garden. Plowing under this material at this time is a bad practice, because it will prevent the moisture from rising to the upper soil surface, and the seed will not germinate. Then too, the unrotted plant material seriously interferes with the cultivation of the young fall vegetables and the heat resulting from the turned under vegetation dries out the soil.

The soil for the fall garden should be plowed shallow to a depth of four or five inches, or thoroughly disced. Immediately following the breaking of the soil it should be harrowed and the seed bed made as firm as possible to reestablish capillary attraction of the soil particles and to bring the moisture, if possible, to within 1 1/2 to 2 inches of the surface.

In purchasing seed for the fall garden it is advisable to secure one-fourth more seed for this planting than for the spring garden. The germination of seed at this season is poor; consequently, the extra quantity of seed will ordinarily be necessary to secure a good stand.

The following vegetables may be planted in this section during the latter half of August: Cucumber, Davis Perfect; English peas, Stragadem; Lady peas; Pin-tops; Irish potatoes, Bliss Triumph; Squash, bush Hubbard; During September the vegetables to plant are: Cabbage, flat Dutch; Radish, White Icicle; Cauliflower, Dry Weather; Carrots, Danvers Half Long; Beans, bush Bountiful; Beets, Crosby Egyptian; Swiss Chard, Lullullus; Spin-nish, Bloomsdale Savoy; Turnips, White Globe; Kale, Emerald Island; Lettuce, Iceberg; Mustard, Southern Curled; Parsley, Hamburg Rooted; and Onions, Australian Brown. The last seven in the list may be planted any time in October and give good results in this county.

Many are depending on the fall gardens to complete their canning budgets and will therefore plant more than needed for use fresh. For successful fall gardens much depends on the condition of the soil when planted and upon cultivation after the little plants are up.

Insect pests are one of the limiting factors in fall gardening. For those biting insects which feed upon the foliage of the plant it will be necessary to dust or spray the plant with poison material. Calcium arsenate of lead, when dusted over the surface of the plants, will control the plant eating insects. When mixed with water at the rate of 2 pounds of calcium arsenate to 15 gallons of water or one pound arsenate of lead to 15 gallons of water, good results will be obtained. Poison applied to vegetables at this rate does not make them unfit for table use.

For lice which suck the juice of fall vegetables, best results are secured by dusting the plants carefully with 1-4 pound nicotine sulphate (Black Leaf 40) and 5 lbs slacked lime, thoroughly mixed. Kerosene emulsion is good for all sucking insects, too.

to the Federal Court and secured a permanent injunction against Spur's enforcement of its ordinance on the franchise requirement? Would not the oil engine plant, promoted in the City of Spur, have been without competition and would not the citizens of Spur have been paying higher rates than their next door neighbors until the oil engines were worn out and later new ones signed up for, provided proper political connections could be maintained by the engine company? While they pay no taxes on this utility whatever, (not even to the much needed school fund), yet the electric rate which the oil engine plant of Yoakum now calls "normal" is from 20 per cent to over 100 per cent higher, (depending upon amount of service used), than regular rates in towns even smaller than Yoakum, such as Matador, for instance, less than one fourth the size of Yoakum.

A clause which the Fairbanks Morse oil engine company has in their contract with the City of Spur required the municipality to covenant that they would maintain such rates for the product or service of said plant which would produce sufficient revenue to provide for the payments called for by the contract so far as they might be permitted to do so by law. This, of course, has been proven to be an impossibility on the part of the City of Spur yet they signed the agreement and the city is obliged to do the impossible, one way or another. It is doubtful if their interest payment obligations, let alone principal payments, can ever be met from plant revenue, water department, refunding bonds, or other sources before the oil engine equipment is completely junked. What then?

Pink L. Parish is Only West Texan in Congress Race

The sole West Texas survivor of the first primary in the three-sided race for Congressman-at-Large, Senator Pink L. Parish, of Lubbock, is vigorously pushing his run-off campaign.

Paired in Place No. 1 with George B. Terrell, aged politician from over near the Louisiana border, Senator Parrish carried into the August battle of ballots the standard of West Texas, deserving of two new members of the House of Representatives had the state been re-districted in accordance with law as based upon the 1930 Federal census figures. Unless West Texans line up almost solidly behind their one candidate the broad acres of the Panhandle-Plains and Central West Texas will not be recipient of the added representation to which it is entitled.

Senator Parrish, who has represented the 30th Senatorial district in the upper house of the legislature for the past three and a half years, is letting no grass grow under his feet as he pushes his drive for the Democratic nomination which is tantamount to election. He expresses optimism and feels that he will lead his veteran opponent from the first through the last count following the coming election.

"I favor submission of the 18th amendment to the voters of United States despite the fact that I have always voted personally for prohibition," he says in commenting upon his platform. "Texas Democrats, in the July primary, expressed an overwhelming desire to secure such submission and if I go to Congress I shall always endeavor to be guided by the wishes of the Texas constituency—on prohibition and everything else."

As for extension of war debts, the Lubbock man takes a very decided stand. "I am in favor of collecting every penny that is owed us by European nations," he declares, "and the sooner the better. If it is not possible to collect those debts without further extension, I favor, in addition to the government's extension a similar extension on the part of international bankers. In other words, if our government gives European nations longer to pay debts, the big banking houses must do the same. I see nothing fair about the government's stepping aside in favor of Wall Street."

Son of a Confederate veteran and a native of Lamar County, Senator Parrish has resided in West Texas since his youth. He is interested in farming and in stock raising on a small scale and "because I have had actual experience along this line" is ready to fight the battles of agriculture in the House of Representatives if he is sent to Washington.

"To my mind," he says, "it is impossible to bring about a return of normal times until agriculture and its contributing agencies are saved from the slough in which it now reposes."

"I also favor elimination of the bureaucratic form of government saddled upon us by the Republicans. It is too inefficient and too costly and if I go to Congress one of the principal problems upon which I aim to work is the reduction of governmental costs, to be reflected in decreased taxes."

"I do not mean that I will favor 'penny wise, pound foolish' economies; such a program would be harmful. But I do know that many economies can be placed into effect in the operation of the national government and that's what I'll be after," he states.

Senator Parrish, who received a thumping big vote in South and East Texas in the July pri-

Burkett Favors National Platform; Asks Support of Demo Regulars

San Antonio, Aug. 12.—With the run-off for Congressman-at-Large, Place No. 3, appearing as a test between the regular Democrats and Hoovercrats, who 4 years ago bolted the Democratic ranks and swung Texas to the Republican column, Joe Burkett of San Antonio, former State Senator, today replied to the recent announcement of Thos. B. Love, in which he publicly opposed Burkett.

"The opposition of Tom Love and his crowd will materially aid me in winning the Democratic nomination for Place 3," Burkett said. "With Senator Love supporting my opponent, Sterling P. Strong, who bolted the Democratic Party four years ago, the race is a clear-cut test of whether the Democratic party in this State shall be for the Democrats or for the Hoovercrats."

A regular Democrat in every election since he cast his first vote, Burkett appealed to the honest Democrats of Texas to send to Congress, in Place 3, a true Democrat, who heartily endorses every plank in the National Democratic platform. Speaking of his opponent, Burkett declared that for Texas democracy to nominate a Hoovercrat, who deserted his party for the Republicans, would be a repudiation of Texas' own John Nance Garner, Speaker of the House and Democratic nominee for President.

Definitely in the run-off with a 3,500-vote lead over Douglas McGregor, according to the Texas Election Bureau, Burkett has made plans to present the issue personally to voters in both large and small communities in all parts of the State.

Burkett favors inflation of currency to cheapen money and to increase the value of products so the masses will not be required to liquidate with high dollars debts they made when money was cheap. "We should have at least four billion dollars in new money in circulation and our panic would be over in thirty days," he said. With two billion dollars, he would pay the soldiers' bonus. "I favor cheap money and high commodity prices and high wages. It is absolutely impossible for the farmers, stockmen, laborers and small business men to pay high debts with cheap commodities and cheap labor."

Declaring his position on the prohibition question, Burkett, a life-long prohibitionist by vote, precept and practice, declared: "The inherent right of a free people to vote on any public question and to change, modify, or abolish any existing law is so fundamentally constitutional and unquestionably democratic that it is not even debatable that the people have a right to have the prohibition question submitted to them for a vote. I favor submitting that issue to them for a vote and final settlement. The people are the masters—let them vote on that vexatious question—most any system is better than the present bootlegging system." Sharp reductions in governmental expenses and taxes are essential to a recovery in the financial condition of the nation, Burkett believes. Pointing out that since 1914 population has increased by 1-2 percent a year while taxes have increased 18 percent a year, Burkett declared "this means bankruptcy and ruin, if continued." Advocating heavy reduction in all government salaries, he promised his support in the reduction of $10,000 a year salaries of Congressmen and Senators by $2,500 a year instead of the proposed $1,000. "The people have reduced their expenses to conform to their earnings, so why shouldn't the government do the same?" he commented.

Other main planks in his platform include: United States guaranty of national bank deposits; opposition to cancelling foreign debts; against meddling in foreign affairs of other countries, and against federal injunctions in labor disputes.

Budgeting Calories

by Jane Rogers

Slice of Bread, Butter and Sugar Offers Economical Solution for After-Play Appetite Demands.

A FOUND three-thirty they come tramping in from the baseball diamond on the back lot, from their roller skating, their kite flying, from those many serious occupations which are the joy of an energetic childhood. They are hungry, clamoring for something to eat so that they can pick up their gloves, bats, and other paraphernalia and return to their engrossing pursuits. The needs of a healthy hunger must be satisfied, and when the food budget is under careful supervision this afternoon refreshment period cannot be overlooked in a housewife's calculations.

Of course a well filled cookie jar is always a happy answer to the call of voracious young appetites. So, too, is a sweet drink, especially one made from milk, which is so nourishing and which is made more interesting to the palate and more energizing to the body by the addition of a sweet flavoring. A delicious chocolate milk shake can be made very easily by shaking some chocolate syrup in ice-cold milk.

For a variation there is an afternoon snack which most of us may have forgotten—an old fashioned remedy for after baseball appetites which grandmother knew and which modern science helps us to appreciate—bread and butter and sugar. Bread is one of our most nourishing foods and sugar gives the quickest energy reaction. Such a spread will send young and active persons on their way with enough fuel to keep them going at full steam until supper time. Further more, the cost is so small, less than one cent a slice, that it will help to keep the penny count low and the calories high. The youngsters will like it as much as a more elaborate bit of refreshment and the budget will benefit from this slight added saving.

THANK YOU

I take this method of expressing my thanks to the voters of Dickens County for the splendid vote given me for State Senator in the recent primary. Your vote helped make me high man in this race, and for that I am grateful.

As in the former campaign, I am going to be clean and honorable. Any candidate who might resort to misrepresentation and untruth and falsehood, trying to prejudice you against any other is unworthy of your support. I am not a LAWYER and do not represent any Corporation nor Special Interests of any kind, but am a land owner and tax payer, and my personal interests are identical with yours.

The vote of every citizen in the district is earnestly solicited in the run-off.

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN
Candidate for State Senate.

Dr. and Mrs. Zachary have returned from a visit to east Texas.

To The Voters Of Dickens County

I wish to use this way in thanking each of you who supported me July 23. I also wish to say I hold no malice toward those who did not support me. I do not feel it was "all loss and no gain" however I was defeated. From the beginning I tried to run a race by which I might gain friends and I sincerely hope that I did not lose any.

Respectfully,
(MISS) EVA JACKSON.

Spur Enter Beautification Contest

Spur has entered the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Inter-Community Beautification Contest.

The entry was sent in by D. L. Granberry, Secretary of the Spur Chamber of Commerce which will sponsor the contest in Spur through a local beautification committee of which Chas. Whitener is Chairman.

The purpose of the contest is to promote the beautification of the West Texas landscape and appearance of West Texas communities by stimulating competition between the cities in beautification and clean-up activities. The 1932-33 contest will close at the Big Springs convention at which time the reports will be filed and judged, and the awards made. A silver loving cup is being offered to the winner, and the name of the winning town will be carried in 12 subsequent issues of the official publication of the West Texas Chamber — West Texas To-day. Home planting and beautification activities will be given fifty per cent value in the judging. A local yard and garden or pretty home contest is suggested as a means of conducting this part of the activities. Another means is a planting campaign. Thirty per cent value will be given to planting and repair and clean-up activities. Ten percent each will be given to city property beautification, and county and rural beautification activities.

Chairman Houston Harte, San Angelo, of the West Texas Chamber's beautification committee, reports that the following cities have already entered the 1932-33 contest: Abilene, Amarillo, Anton Benjamin, Big Spring, Breckenridge, Bronte, Denton, Graham, Hamilton, Hamlin, Midland, Odessa, Olton, Pecos, Plainview, Post, Quanah, San Angelo, Slaton, Spur, Stamford, Sweetwater, Vernon, Weatherford.

The following committee has been named to have charge of the local end of the contest: Chas. Whitener, chairman; Mrs. Jim Foster, Mrs. Roy Stovall, Mrs. C. E. Jones and Geo. S. Link.
