THIS WEEK IN McADOO

(By MARSHALL FORMBY)
The Formby column is published by this paper as a news feature because of the interesting comments of this writer upon everyday happening in McAdoo. The views expressed are those of Mr. Formby and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial opinions or policies of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.

In every community there is a certain amount of scandal that needs to be told. And that shall be one of the purposes of this column from week to week. This writer will appreciate the "low-down" on any one in McAdoo and will be glad to pass it on to the readers of this column.

Christmas has come and gone and hundreds of little children have been made happy, while hundreds of others have suffered disappointment. Most McAdoo children, however, were visited by Santa Claus and although many of them didn't get everything they wanted, they were made happy by what they did get.

American children wouldn't know what to do without Christmas and Santa Claus, yet Godless Russia knows no Christmas. Russian children 15 years old and under have never known what Christmas means. Since the October revolution about 15 years ago Russia has outlawed religion, has forbidden its citizens to worship God and has destroyed most of the churches. The spirit of giving at Christmas in Russia is not known.

Jim Cloud was sworn in as county judge the second of January and is one of the youngest men in Texas to hold down this responsible position. Although Jim is only 25 years old and perhaps lacks the judgment which comes to those who have served the public for a score or more of years, he is possessed with plenty of youthful energy, confidence and enthusiasm. And that means plenty for one trying to please the public.

Youth will play a large part in welding the policies of Dickens county for the next two years. Jim Cloud is young, County Attorney Alton Chapman is not much older, and Miss Neal Fortson who fills the office of county clerk is still young in her twenties. On the other hand, the four commissioners, Rose, Johnson, Mimms and Foreman and all middleaged men.

Mayor C. P. Aufill says he is a gentleman first and last, but not always.

"Dubbs" McLaughlin is suffering from a swollen ankle caused by the cotton market falling on him.

ODD FACTS—Bruce McLaughlin was an all district tackle while playing on the Floydada football team in 1931—Ervin Clark says used cars are not so cheap in Fort Worth as one might think—At one time this year three of the nine McAdoo teachers were out of school on account of the flu—McAdoo ball fans are still "cussing" the McAdoo trustees for not building a gym out of the old blue school building which they almost gave away about three years ago—McAdoo is a pretty good place for a shoow to stop—More than 5000 bales of cotton already have been ginned this year by the two local gins—The local telephone company isn't using its head; if they'd reduce their rates about four times as many phones would be used—This in turn would call for more long distance calls which would increase the phone company's revenue—Several local citizens—some of them grown too—were "gypped" plenty trying to win blankets when the tent show was recently here—McAdoo has failed to have its usual number of Christmas weddings this year.

J. J. Cloud has the Texas Spur gang's thanks for the subscription of his son, H. G., at Wewoka, Okla., and his brother, R. S., Rockdale, Texas. The Texas Spur list continues to grow even in times of depression in a legitimate manner. It has never been and won't be the management's attitude to try to force the paper on anybody, and we have found that a newspaper with the sort of news people like to read doesn't have to be given away.

BUDGETING FOOD EXPENDITURES IS PROTECTION TO FAMILY HEALTH

Do you budget your food money? If not, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, there is a subject for a New Year's resolution. To budget all household expenditures is good business but to budget the food money is a protection to the family health, particularly if the family funds are low. A market list, made up weekly, and made up wisely, can be used to insure a balanced diet as well as a balanced budget.

In fact the food budget must be balanced in more than one way. There should be no deficit of course, of money or food supply. But there is another sort of balance that must be achieved. The items in the food budget must balance each other in nutritive value. And the more limited the choice of foods, the harder it becomes to work out that kind of balance. But what are the requirements in nutritive value?

To answer that question it is necessary first to have in mind that the body needs several different kinds of foods—energy-yielding foods, body-building and body-maintenance foods—foods to help regulate body functions and to build resistance to disease. To supply those needs it is necessary to provide foods that will furnish the carbohydrates, fats and proteins required for body fuel; the proteins, minerals and vitamins for body building and protective purposes. As a matter of convenience foods may be classed in five groups from which to select for those purposes, and those groups are milk and milk products; vegetables and fruits; bread and cereals; fats and sugars, meats, fish, and eggs.

Something from each of these food groups must be included if the food budget is to balance in nutritive value. But how much of each?

This question is answered most easily by applying the familiar rule for expenditure of food money: Divide each food dollar in five parts (not equal parts however). The food budget would be balanced in nutritive value if the money is spent about this way:

- One-third for milk and cheese.
  - One-fourth for vegetables and fruits
  - One-fifth or less for cereals, bread and beans
  - One-eighth or less, for fats, sugar, and molasses.
  - The rest for other foods—meats, fish, eggs.
- Since we have so many foods canned and every farm should produce all the milk, cheese, eggs, and meat needed for the family that leaves only two groups that must be provided. Remember that milk does more for the body than any other food; each child should have a quart each day and each adult should have at least a pint. You need tomatoes and raw vegetables and fruits at least three times per week.

Scholarship Offered To Texas Students

Announcement of a valuable scholarship open to Texas boys who are in the 8th grade has been received at the principal's office of the local high school. It is one of the four offered this year in Culver Military Academy in memory of the wife of Culver's founder, Mrs. Emily Jane Culver. The scholarship is rated among the highest prizes offered by any secondary school. It is valued at $4,500 and covers all expenses for tuition, board and room for three years. The winner will be at no expense during his attendance at Culver except for wearing apparel, books and personal necessities.

The scholarship will go to the winner of a state-wide competition which will be conducted under the direction of a committee of Texas educators, of which Prof. Fred C. Ayer, professor of educational administration of the University of Texas, is chairman. His associates are Dr. Norman R. Crozier, supt. of schools of Dallas; Dr. C. E. Evans, president of Southwestern State Teachers College; Dr. R. L. Marquis, President of North Texas State Teachers College; Dr. E. E. Oberholtzer, supt. of schools of Houston; D. A. Shirley, registrar of West Texas State Teachers College; and Dr. Sam H. Whitley, president of East Texas State Teachers College.

Preliminary examinations will be held on March 18th in twenty-eight Texas towns selected as examination centers.

These centers are: Abilene, Alpine, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Breckenridge, Brady, Dallas, Brownsville, Del Rio, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Huntsville, Kingsville, Laredo, Lubbock, Matador, Midland, Nacogdoches, San Angelo, San Antonio, Texarkana, Tyler, Uvalde, Victoria, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Each candidate whose application is approved must stand this examination. A certain number of candidates who make the best records in the preliminaries will be selected to appear before the committee in person for a final examination about May 6.

Applications must be filed not later than March 1st with the scholarships secretary of the Academy in Culver, Ind.

Scientific methods of selection will be employed in this competition on a wider scale than in any previous scholarship awards.

The successful candidate must achieve, in tests devised by leading educators and psychologists, above average ratings in personality, emotional control, life purpose, social adjustment, originality and leadership as well as in the qualities of mentality expected of a scholarship aspirant.

The general requirements are that applicants must be recommended by the principals of their schools as outstanding students worthy of the committee's consideration; that their parents be unable to pay their tuition at Culver; that they be between 13 and 15 years of age, and that they be 8th grade students.

With these qualities required for a start and the tests applied in the course of the preliminary and final examinations, it is certain that the boy who wins the Texas scholarship will have to demonstrate stern and durable stuff. His scientifically tested capacities for achievement will unquestionably be far above the average.

The other states in which Culver scholarship competitions are being held this year are Iowa, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Earle Hitch, Scholarships Committee, Culver Military Academy.
