

Soil Moisture Is Lowest In Years Is Station Report

Following is a report of rainfall as shown by the Spur Experiment Station for the months June, July, and August. The first figure represents a 23-year average, the second figure the rainfall in 1933 and the third figure the rainfall this year:

June, 2.27 — trace — .07.
July, 2.01 — 2.51 — ?.
August, 2.79 — 3.32 — ?.

The available water in the soil on June 20 this year is 40 per cent of that of 1933.

The rains that started the crop in 1925 totalled 3.25 inches and fell on July 27, 28, 29 and 30.

Miló cut off with a hoe made over a ton to the acre in 1925. An abundance of good bundle feed matured.

Aspermont Man To Open Cafe In Spur

Preparations are nearing completion for the opening of a new cafe in the Joplin building on the east side of Main Street. The cafe will be operated by Bud Norris, who for the past three or more years has operated a grocery business in Aspermont. He recently sold his grocery business, however, and will move to this city and manage the cafe personally.

Equipment and furnishings of the cafe will be new and up-to-date in every respect and when completed will be one of the finest in the city if not in West Texas.

Mr. Norris states that he is making plans for an interesting event on the opening date which, if possible, will be Saturday, July 21.

Westerman - Head

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Westerman gave in marriage their daughter, Nadine to Graford Head, the ceremony being performed at the home of Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Ewton, Saturday, July 7th at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rev. Ewton read the beautiful ring ceremony in the presence of special friends of the bride, Misses Martha Nichols and Bonnie Lawrence.

Mrs. Head is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Westerman, who have lived in Spur the past eight years and where Nadine received her high school education following which she attended Texas Tech for one year. She has the attributes necessary to the making of a permanent and happy home.

Graford is a son of Mrs. O. Head, of Lubbock, and is a young man of high ideals and exceptional business ability and has shown rare good judgement in his selection of a bride.

The bride wore a beautiful navy silk pique dress with matching accessories.

Immediately following the marriage ceremony the bride and groom left for Denver, Colorado, for a ten day wedding tour and upon their return will be at home at Lubbock.

The bride has numerous friends in Spur with whom we join in extending best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lee were called to Denton the first of last week to attend their daughter, Mrs. Kilgore, who was seriously ill. They returned Wednesday, bringing Mrs. Kilgore and Kathrine to Spur for an extended visit and rest.

McAdoo Youth Is Recommended For Guild Competition

Marshall McDonald, 17 years old, is the McAdoo entrant. He is being sponsored by N. O. Cherry, the superintendent of schools. As a consequence, the youth has the opportunity of winning a complete college education.

University scholarships valued at $51,000 are being offered this year.

Co. H. D. Clubs Held Clothing Contest Saturday

(By Mrs. Oran McClure)

Closing another year's splendid work, Dickens County Home Demonstration clubs held their annual clothing contest Saturday in the basement of the Spur Baptist church with an all-day program, including luncheon which was the crowning event of the day, especially for the gentlemen included in the invitation list.

Said luncheon consisting of the very choicest of viands, prepared as only home demonstration co-operators know how to prepare them and which was served cafeteria style and in sufficient quantities to appease the appetite of everyone present and to spare; and to say we did justice to this bountiful feast expresses it but mildly.

Miss Myrtle Murray, district home demonstration agent, had to assist her, Miss Veralee Jones, Kent county demonstration agent, in judging and making awards. A list of the winners and awards appears in another article in this issue of the paper.

Mrs. F. B. Crockett, county chairman of the demonstration council announced the winners and made the awards, even to handing herself a scholarship to the short course.

The style review was presented in groups from the various clubs over the county and was a very attractive display, showing models of the most practical print designs to smart tailored frocks and elaborate evening gowns and all were cut by foundation patterns. A wonderful achievement within itself—designing and making beautiful, stylish, up-to-date frocks using only severely plain foundation patterns and this is only one of the many worthwhile lessons which our county demonstrators are teaching in class lessons over the county and state during a year's work.

Misses Murray and Jones, visiting demonstrators, expressed much pleasure at being present and gave friendly criticisms of the Dickens county ladies' club work, most of which was very complimentary.

This was a very profitable and altogether pleasant occasion, the only regrettable feature of the program is that each and every lady who fashions, makes and models such lovely frocks cannot get a trip to the short course.

A. C. Hindman Gives Some Facts On The Construction And Operation Of The Wilson Dam At Muscle Shoals

NOTE: In response to numerous requests that Mr. Hindman, recently returned visitor of a fortnight to his old home in Florence, Alabama, give some of the high points on the great Muscle Shoals project, The Texas Spur, in collaboration with him, presents the following sketch.

For more than half a century the possibilities of water conservation and hydro-electric energy on the Tennessee River at the widely known Muscle Shoals loop, have been points of discussion with both governmental and private interests—and perhaps as much a moot topic with the general public. The advisability of turning the great project to private interests—Mr. Ford having at one time offered enormous sums for operation options—has been often brought up in Congress, but it became the eventual and wise choice of the United States government to execute the task.

The Wilson Dam and Power House is the product of more than eight years of actual labor construction, not to include the time and vast sums of money expended in study and survey. The Congress of the United States authorized the construction of the huge dam and plant, and its plans were executed under the direction of the Secretary of War by the Army Corps of Engineers, auxiliarily by civilian assistance. It was designed by Hugh L. Cooper, Consulting Engineer, of New York City.

Mr. Hindman's vivid account of his trip to the east and inspection visit to the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, project adds another touch of color for Spurites to a topic that is already of national interest. Sketching some of his notations, he tells us:

The runway length of the big dam is nine tenths of a mile; the base is 101 feet wide, and it reaches upward 137 feet—a massive monument to collective science and labor of almost one and one-half million cubic feet of concrete. It has been planned and constructed to care for further up-stream developments, and scaled to a capacity to accommodate more than twice its present power output. It has 58 regulating gates or spillways, each measuring 38 feet in width and are 18 feet high. One of these gates, Mr. Hindman relates, will take care of a one-foot rise on the river; or totaling the sluice volume, the entire line of gates have a capacity for the release of 58 feet of lake-width water.

The water-level of the lake created by the dam is held at the top of the spillway gates, and is raised to such an extent from its stream height that the water is backed up about 16 miles, forming a volume of preserved water that varies in width from one to three miles. If spread to the gate-high level, the lake covers 14,500 acres of ground.

Spanning the entire length of the dam is a tunnel, with a 6 by 9 feet width and depth accommodation, and is 4,600 feet long. This is the inspection tunnel, and is about 90 feet below the lake water surface.

From here, by means of wells lowered to a depth of 50 feet into the bed rock beneath the dam, and about 25 feet apart, constant check-ups are made, and were purposely drilled in search of cavities into which the accumulation of under-earth pressures might cause disturbances to the foundation of the dam. These many wells are held open and serve as an escapement for the pressure that does form often in crevices.

Mr. Hindman's greatest interest seems to have been turned to the large generator room, second from the bottom.

If not causing any jealousy to the Carlsbad Cavern concerning its "largest room in the world," the room for the giant generators is nevertheless of a size to create comment. It is 57 feet from floor to ceiling, 71 feet wide, and 1184 feet in length.

Equipment in this room include eight huge generators; four General Electric machines, each of 32,000 h. p., and four others, products of the Westinghouse Company, totaling 120,000 horsepower—or amassing in the eight units about 260,000 h. p. To give some idea of the size of these machines, one of the Westinghouse giants has a rotating weight of 245 tons, is on a single 29 inch solid steel shaft 40 feet long, representing the journal of drive power. This total weight is suspended from one great bearing at the upper end of the shaft. Other bearings are in use but are only guides to the shaft at a lower fitting. Kingsbury thrust bearings are used at the head of the shaft—6 feet in diameter. The machines make 100 revolutions per minute, generating alternating current that comes off the generators at 12,000 volts, and then is stepped up to 154,000 volts as it passes through the transformers. About 3450 cubic feet of water per second are required to pull the big General Electric turbines on full load; 3000 feet care for the Westinghouse machines. A lighter load will, of course, lessen the water requirements to some extent.

Mr. Hindman says that the power house is mapped out to accommodate 18 of these generators, but that more dams will have to be constructed up-stream from the Wilson Dam before installation of the remaining machines is made.

Other equipment in the generator room takes in three cranes that travel the entire length of the room and are used for repairing and installation purposes. Two of these monsters of 150 ton capacity each, and a third is a small 10-ton crane. (Turn to Back Page, Please)

John A. Moore Buys Fox Barber Shop

A transaction was made Friday of the past week whereby Cecil Fox sold his barber shop and business to Jno. A. Moore, proprietor of the Spur Tailor Shop.

Mr. Fox has operated a barber shop in Spur for the past eleven years and his many friends and patrons will regret to learn that he is retiring from this profession. He states that he and Mrs. Fox and daughter, Cecilia, plan to take a month or more vacation in the mountains of New Mexico and that he has made no definite plans for the future.

Mr. Moore will continue to operate his tailoring business and the newly acquired barber business will be operated by Messrs. Bill McClung and Ex Blackmon, who have held posts in the shop for several years.

'Men In White' A Triumph, To Show At Palace

Every so often Hollywood girds up its loins, takes a deep breath and concentrates its mighty resource on the production of one motion picture. Such apparently was the case with M-G-M's film version of the four-star play hit, "Men in White," for the new talkie, soon to be seen at the Palace Theatre, is undoubtedly one of the most effective and distinguished photoplays to reach the screen this season.

Clark Gable, in a memorable performance, appears as Dr. Ferguson, the young interne who realizes all the obligations of his profession but struggles against the conflicting claims of the girl he loves. The girl, played by Myrna Loy, soon comes to the realization that a doctor so engrossed in his career has no time for love, with the result that the young interne is thrown into compromising circumstances with one of the nurses in his hospital. The ensuing entanglement and its complications bring about a climax that presents a high water mark in dramatic suspense.

The entire cast of "Men in White" as well as its brilliant director, Richard Boleslavsky, seem to have put their white heart in their respective performances. Gable and Miss Loy have never been greater, and honors go also to Jean Hersholt and Elizabeth Allan.

"Men in White" opens at the Palace Theatre Sunday. There will be a preview of the picture Saturday midnight.

One Lubbock Jail Breaker Captured

J. B. Stephens, one of the quartet who escaped recently in the Lubbock jail break, was captured in Houston Monday evening of this week. Stephens was standing on the curb in front of a hotel and his two companions, Ed Stanton, and Andrew Nelson were in a car at the curb when officers approached. Stanton and Nelson fled in the car but were driven into a blind alley. They, however, abandoned the car and escaped on foot. Stephens, who was left behind, walked calmly away but was arrested when the officers returned.

Stephens stated that the four had gone into hiding in an East Texas thicket following the jail break and that Doupe, the other member of the four, had left them a few days after the escape.

Deputy Sheriff Bedford Carpenter left Lubbock Wednesday for Houston to return Stephens who will face new charges of jail break, slugging, car theft and kidnapping. Carpenter was slugged when the prisoners made their escape.

W. J. Elliot was a business visitor in Spur Tuesday from his Spring Creek farm and ranch home eight miles southwest of Spur.

Mrs. G. W. Justice, of six miles east of Spur was transacting business here Monday morning.

Cotton Contracts To Be Approved By End Of July

Cotton contracts for Dickens Co. have been completed and forwarded to the Cotton Section, Washington, D. C. 768 farmers signed the voluntary reduction contract, offering for rent to the Secretary 29,013 a., which is 36 percent of total acreage planted to cotton in the county. The rental payment due farmers signing the voluntary reduction contract amounts to $131,854.60, one-half of which will be payable when contracts have been approved by the Washington office, which should be by the last of July. In addition to this amount, the parity payment will be $38,855.32, which will be payable in December.

The next step of the Cotton Program is to measure acres rented to the Secretary and acres in cotton. This task will be started within the next few days, and will be under the supervision of Community Committeemen who have been in charge of the program heretofore. Following very closely to the measurement of acres will be the signing of applications for exemption certificates on allotments under the Bankhead Bill. Sign-up days will be announced for each community within the very near future.

JOYCE HEMPHILL

Joyce Lorraine Hemphill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hemphill, died Sunday night, June 24, at about 10 o'clock. Joyce was 12 years and 8 months and 23 days old and was a graduate from the Croton Grammar school in May. She had diphtheria but had passed the crisis and was thought to be lots better. It is supposed that heart trouble caused from the diphtheria was the cause of her death.

Joyce dropped off to sleep so easily her father, who was sitting by her bed never knew when she passed away. She leaves her father and mother, five sisters and three brothers and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

*We wander about in the morning,
At noon time and evening alone,
For our hearts are ever lonely when,
We remember that Joyce is gone.
We stand at the cottage and listen,
We long to hear the foot-fall;
No tap at the door and we are waiting
For the smile this is dearer than all,
We never thought you would leave us
In sorrow to wander and mourn;
Why at eve thy bright smile cannot greet us,
Nor thy gentle voice at morn.
The birds may sing sweet as ever,
The rose may open in the morn,
But these cannot solace and comfort
When we remember that Joyce is gone.*

*We wait for the time and the glory
When Jesus will call for His own,
We will live in the kingdom forever
And never say, "Joyce is Gone."*

There are no new cases of diphtheria at present. Carol Allen is doing fine after an attack, the last case reported.

Loss Of Job Good Luck For Artist

TED O'LOUGHLIN

Ted O'Loughlin, who draws the comic strip, "Finney of the Force", which readers of The Texas Spur enjoy so much every week, might be a railroad man today instead of the widely known artist that he is, had it not been for the fact that when he was holding down a job as a way-bill clerk in the freight department of the Pennsylvania railroad in Philadelphia, his boss' likeness in grotesque caricature made its appearance on too many way-bills. Within a year the budding artist found his career as a railroad man cut short and he was precipitated into the work for which his later success proved he was particularly fitted.

Now only thirty years of age, Mr. O'Loughlin had quite an extensive experience in various lines of endeavor even before his brief tenure of service with the Pennsylvania railroad.

Christened 'Edward A. J.', his nickname was conferred by a stuttering aunt who could not say 'Ed.' Like many other successful men, he began his business career as a newsboy. Later, during the summer vacations, he served successively as office boy, a printer's devil and a jack-of-all-trades. The summer of 1918 found him working in a clothing mill, but this did not last long, for by August of the same year he was in the "world's greatest wartime shipyard"—Hog Island—a passer-boy, being the medium by which red-hot rivets were passed from the heater to the holder-on.

At the death of his father in 1919, the future artist left high school and became the "bread winner" of the family as a telegraph messenger boy. From this he advanced to the railroad job from which he was to be soon separated because of the itch to caricature, which he could not suppress.

Six months after he was "bumped," in the language of railroad workers, he embarked upon his life work as a newspaper man and artist. He was employed at different times on most of the dailies of Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., making layouts, retouching and doing sports cartoons. From this it was but a step to the comic strip field and he has made a name for himself among the younger cartoonists of the country through his portrayal of "Finney of the Force."

With these little sidelights on the career of the man who gives you the enjoyable weekly visits from 'Finney' you will be more interested than ever, we know, in watching for the further adventures of the genial officer as they appear in this paper, and in telling your friends about 'Finney' and the man who draws him.

"The demonstrators' record and stories show that they have met their responsibilities as demonstrators in a fine way."

"The dresses show good style and are well selected with the individual wearer in mind and each dress has some distinctive feature," said Miss Verolee Jones, Kent county home demonstration agent, who assisted Miss Murray in the judging.

TO THE VOTERS OF DICKENS COUNTY:

There are a great number of voters in this county that I will not be able to meet personally and present my claims for the office of County Treasurer. I regret very much being handicapped thus, but ask that you kindly accept this appeal as a personal call to you. Being without means of transportation, and unable to bear the expense of hiring a way of going to all places, I cannot make a house to house canvass, but let me say that I am qualified to hold the Treasurer's office, and can devote my entire time to rendering service to the public in this capacity. Your consideration will certainly be appreciated.

Sincerely,

MRS. HATTIE TURVIN

"You're Lucky, Helen, to have a NEW ELECTRIC RANGE

You, too, can be lucky. Do as hundreds of women are doing. Investigate the marvels of electric cooking. FAST to operate... CLEAN to your home and health... DEPENDABLE in service... ECONOMICAL to your household budget... AUTOMATIC in its execution of cooking duties.

ONCE YOU HAVE cooked electrically on a new Hotpoint range you'll never be satisfied with any other method. The new, better method of cooking eliminates all guesswork, watching and waiting. It gives you a clean flameless heat that cooks meat and vegetables in their own delicious juices with little or no water—all their healthful food elements and delicious flavors sealed in—not boiled away.

CONVENIENT TERMS

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

West Texas Utilities Company

all electrically driven. They load we may note, is not light when hooked to a turbine that alone weighs more than 33 tons.

In giving an outlay of the equipment, Mr. Hindman says there is also a small generator located between the two groups of large generators. It is termed the 'house machine' and furnishes current for the government reservation. It is of 1400 h. p., and is a miniature of the larger machines. It would care for a town of about 10,000 inhabitants, while either of the larger generators would furnish electrical energy to a city of 100,000 people.

The large generators, completely installed, cost approximately $500,000 each, and the entire cost of the dam and power house is estimated at $47,000,000.

The elevator shaft running down to the power house from the top has 11 floors, a 133 foot drop, and the generator room is number 10 from the top, or about 57 feet below the lake-level.

The great transformer yards are located on the south side of the river, one on either side of the switch-house—where the huge cables approximately one inch and a half in diameter, lead the current from the generators to the power house—end from which place high lines belonging to the Tennessee Power Co. are built out to consumers. Two giant, high tension towers, Mr. Hindman describes as one of the awe-inspiring sights, one at each end of the dam, support cables across the lake. The towers are 60 feet square at the base, and 345 feet high, representing 137 tons of steel. The span between the two towers is 4,867 feet, and swinging across this space is 38,800 pounds of cable of 1.1 inch size. The voltage capacity of the lines between the towers is 154,000.

From the foregoing article, we may be given to understand that Mr. Hindman thoroughly enjoyed his trip to the Muscle Shoals, as well as his stay with relatives and old-time friends at Florence, Alabama.

Municipal Plant Venture Fails At Seymour, Texas

Dallas, July 10.—Foreclosure on the municipally owned electric light plant of the City of Seymour, Texas, is sought in a suit filed in the District Court here today by the Municipal Acceptance Corporation of Chicago, holder of the mortgage. Total indebtedness of $142,419.07 is claimed in the petition, including principal and interest.

Plaintiff's original petition alleges that the plant was built by Fairbanks, Morse & Co. in 1929 at a total contract price of $125,479, payable in 72 installments with interest at 6 per cent; that in December, 1930, when the unpaid principal and interest amounted to $129,306, by written agreement between the City and Fairbanks, Morse & Co., the repayment terms were modified, the City agreeing to pay $500 a month the first year, $900 a month the second, $1,000 a month the third and thereafter $1,250 a month until the indebtedness was finally discharged. Subsequent to this agreement, Fairbanks, Morse & Co., for a valuable consideration, transferred the mortgage to the Municipal Acceptance Corporation.

Of the $36,300 that has become due and payable under the December, 1930, refinancing agreement, petitioner claims the City has paid only $13,100, leaving a balance of $22,800 now due and unpaid; that under the terms of the contract, petitioner has the legal right to declare the entire indebtedness due and payable and that it now exercises that right, asking for final judgement for principal, interest, costs of suit and foreclosure of its lien upon the plant and its revenues.

In July of 1931 the city council passed an ordinance increasing the electric rates and making them the minimum rates that could be charged by the municipal plant and the private utility also serving the town, and the rates fixed were higher than those that had been in effect.
