Cost of Adult Lunches At School To Increase

Winters Man Hurt In Oil Field Accident

Doyle Curry, 22, of Winters, is in Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene, suffering from serious injuries received in an oil field accident about four miles northeast of Winters Monday afternoon about 2 o'clock.

Curry was working on an oil field pulling unit of Winters Construction Co., when the accident happened. According to other men on the job, he was on the rig, when a part of the rig telescoped and caught his right foot between two beams. He fell about 25 feet to the bed of the unit truck.

The Winters unit ambulance of Runnels County Emergency Service was sent to the scene, and Curry was taken to North Runnels Hospital in Winters, and then sent to Hendricks Medical Center in Abilene. He underwent surgery Monday night, and was in an intensive care unit Tuesday, reported in "stable" condition. According to reports, his right leg is broken in two places, he lost part of the right foot, and received a broken jaw bone and other facial bone fractures.

Burglars Hit Chick-Inn Thursday

Burglars broke out a front door glass and entered the Chick-Inn on Hwy. 83 South last Thursday night, and made away with merchandise and some cash, according to Mrs. Patsy Teague, operator.

The thieves took about $40 in cash, a carton of cigarettes, and a small amount of candy, gum and cakes.

Not Really A Loss: Money Didn't Belong To WISD

Winters Independent School District hasn't actually lost $11,521.60, according to J. B. Smith, the district's tax assessor-collector, because the money never belonged to the district anyway.

Nonetheless, the budget of WISD will have to be corrected and adjusted, Smith said.

The case of the "jumping 11 thousand" all began when valuation consultants erroneously assigned some oil lease properties to Winters School District which didn't belong in the district. The leases are in the Rufus Allen Field, and explanations can be complicated, to say the least. Valuation experts took for granted that the Winters-Ballinger school district line was so located that the leases were in the WISD, when all the time, they were "south of the border." The consultants were contacted, and found the mistake.

So the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District must correct the budget, and leave out the eleven thousand they thought they had, but didn't. And Ballinger School District will be $14,686 richer than first thought. The difference: Different assessment rates for the two school districts, Smith said.

Even so, Smith was quick to point out, the Winters school district budget will remain balanced, as usual.

City Gets $3,370 From Sales Taxes

The City of Winters has received $4,370.91 from the State Comptroller as the January allocation of the local option one percent sales tax.

The January payment was about 45 percent greater than the $2,311.54 received for the same period in 1978.

State Comptroller said that Texas cities' receipts for the period will exceed $18.1 million. This month's rebate is about $300,000 less than the state paid to some 900 Texas cities during the same one-month period last year, the comptroller said. Texas cities received a record $424.8 million during 1978 as their share of the city sales tax, an increase of 17 percent over the previous year.

The sales tax is collected by merchants and other sales tax permit holders along with state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller's office.

A comparison with receipts of some other cities in the area:

Ballinger	3,030
Cisco	3,439
Coleman	5,995

RUNNELS COUNTY HISTORICAL COMMISSION REPORT FOR 1978—PRESENTED TO COMMISSIONER'S COURT DEC. 4, 1978

Entertaining outstanding historians from over the state at a convention held October 7 in the Winters public school cafeteria was the main event of the year for the Runnels County Historical Commission.

The 17th annual session of the Edwards Plateau Historical Association was hosted by the Runnels group: Special guests were members of the West Texas Historical Association who held a separate meeting during the afternoon. This prestigious group covers seven counties.

More than ninety members and guests heard papers outlining the early history of Runnels County. The Indian influence was prepared by Wade White and read by Mrs. Loyd Roberts; Early County History by John Glenn Key; Hugh Martin Childress, rancher, by Frank D. Jenkins and Ethnic Cultures by Dr. B. F. Tatum. Entertainment was an Ethnic song and dance with period wedding dresses presented by a group from Rowena and directed by Kay Halfmann.

Following lunch provided by the hosts a bus tour of historic spots was conducted with Neuman Smith serving as commentator. Other guides were Arnold Allcorn and Dale Herring. Thirty five people rode in the bus and others followed in cars.

Sites visited were the Winters cotton oil mill which is now the Lazy N. Shetland Pony Stables; Nancy Parker cabin; home of early herb doctor; and the ghost town of Content and the Blue Gap post office. The grave of Hugh Martin Childress, Sr., in the Atoka cemetery was the last stop. The Runnels historians had recently placed a government marker at his grave with the information that he was a Confederate soldier and one of the first Rangers. A brief ceremony was held and a wreath placed on the grave in memorium. Descendants from California and Washington attended the ceremonies.

Those working on the planning committee were Mrs. George Poe, Mrs. Clarence Lee and Mrs. Edgar Boelsche who is also secretary of the Edwards Plateau Association. Others who provided cookies, presided at the refreshment table, decorated tables in pioneer motif and assisted in registering were Mrs. Rankin Pace, Mrs. J. W. Barr.

Ballinger historic sites were toured during the ethnic festival and Neuman Smith was the director. He is the general chairman of the Texas State Festival of Ethnic Cultures and Arts and Crafts show. He assisted two men in research from the Parks Recreation Dept. The last tour was the one conducted on October 7th. Publications for the year include 250 copies of Winters Cemetery Records and 250 copies of a pamphlet listing the Official Markers in Runnels County and the inscriptions on them. These are being given as souvenirs to those who are interested. Ninety copies of Hugh Martin Childress, Sr., and his son have also been printed.

Thirty five speeches and programs have been presented in the county by members and nine programs out of county. Two members, Arnold Allcorn and Neuman Smith, serve on the tourism committee of the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce.

One historic marker, the Abilene & Southern Depot, has been received and the dedication will be held early in 1979. More than $100.00 has been contributed to the Texas Historical Foundation by contributions from members. A restoration-preservation conference was conducted with Dr. Williard Robinson from Texas Tech in charge. Members have conferred with several from the state commission on restoration of the Carnegie Library and Phase I has been completed, the outside repairs.

Four members attended the annual preservation convention held in San Antonio April 28-29. They were Mr. and Mrs. Pace, Mrs. Poe and Mrs. Eoff who also attended the West Texas Historical meeting in Abilene April 7-8

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Fratris L. Duff, M.D., Commissioner

There are six "old fashioned" new year's resolutions that might add years to your life and increase your chances of living illness free.

"What I'm going to say may sound quaint and even unimportant in this age of open-heart surgery, organ transplants, and other forms of highly sophisticated medical technology," said Dr. C. R. Allen Jr., Director of the Chronic Disease Division of the Texas Department of Health.

"But good health today is a do-it-yourself proposition in many ways. Everyone should assume more responsibility for his or her own good health. If more people would learn to adopt an overall healthy life style, the rewards would be great." Dr. Allen said you should:

(1) Learn more about good nutrition. "Eat three balanced meals a day and try to reduce the intake of salt, saturated fat, and sugar. It is estimated that the consumption of sugar exceeds 125 pounds per American per year. Don't overlook fresh fruits and vegetables. And you should maintain your normal weight. Too much weight contributes to high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and other medical problems.

(2) Avoid alcohol in excess. "Certainly one can't deny the relationship of alcohol to the number of auto accidents and the homicides that occur in Texas yearly. During 1977, accidents were the fourth leading cause of death and homicides the seventh in Texas," Dr. Allen said.

(3) Stop smoking. Smoking has been linked to lung cancer, pulmonary disease, heart disease and other health problems. "If you still smoke, quit today. Tomorrow could be too late," he said.

(4) Get regular exercise and adequate rest. Getting plenty of sleep during the cold winter months when the body's defenses should be at their peak is important. There are many ways to exercise. Jogging might be right for some, while brisk walking could be better for others.

(5) Use your seat belts. "Once again, I think it is important to remember that accidents were the fourth leading cause of deaths in Texas, right behind deaths from heart disease, cancer, and cerebrovascular diseases," he said.

(6) Learn to manage stress and try to enjoy your life. "It's been said that the reason Jack Nicklaus is such a good golfer is because he enjoys fishing so much," Dr. Allen said. "At times the golfing tour becomes demanding and creates stress. So what does Nicklaus do? He grabs a fishing pole to relax."

"Each and every one of us whose work is not physically demanding, should have an exercise program, hobbies or outside interests to relieve the stress," said Dr. Allen. "I think it is also important to remember that what might be the maximum for you in emotional stress or physical stress, might be a minimum for another person. You should just make sure that you are not exceeding what your body or mind can stand."

Dr. Allen said that in addition to his six new year's resolutions, it would be a good idea to have regular physical examinations.

Dr. Allen emphasized his point that one of the chief health problems today is behaviour-related illness.

"A few years ago," he said, "Dr. Lester Breslow, Dean of the School of Public Health, University of California at Los Angeles, studied 7,000 adults for five and one half years.

"The results showed that seven simple health habits—three meals a day at regular intervals, eating breakfast, moderate exercise, seven or eight hours sleep a night, moderate weight, no smoking, and no alcohol or only in moderation—were associated with a longer life.

"These specific studies showed that a 45-year-old man who practices at least three of these habits can expect to live to about age 67. But a man who has six or seven of these habits can expect to live to age 78, a difference of 11 years. Also, the study showed that the physical health of those following all seven was consistently about the same as those 30 years younger who followed few or none of them."

NEWS OF HEALTH

Teeth
Tooth decay is actually a disease called dental caries. In fact, it is the most widespread human disease, probably affecting 98 percent of the population.

Caries are produced by colonies of bacteria in the mouth. When we eat, small deposits of food accumulate between the teeth, in the grooves and on the chewing surfaces. Bacterial enzymes acting on food starches and sugars produce lactic acid. This acid dissolves tooth enamel and produces cavities.

But by keeping your teeth smooth and polished, you can reduce the effect of the bacteria. A new home dental-care system, the ToothPro, cleans like a professional dental machine—safely and more effectively than a regular or electric toothbrush.

Water containing minute amounts of fluoride can reduce dental caries—but only in children during the years when their teeth are forming.

The temperature on your home freezer should be kept at 0°F or below.

When selecting an iron, consider cord placement.

Cords fitted for right-handed persons contribute to accidents when used by left-handed persons, reports Becky Culp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Right- and left-handed persons can use irons with the cord centered in the middle back, the specialist suggests.

No news to write about the last two weeks except the ice, snow, sleet and freezing rain.

Several were expecting visitors for the New Year holidays but none came as the weather and the high-ways were just too bad.

The churches did not have Sunday School or Church as everything was covered with ice as it rained some Saturday night and then froze over the ice and sleet which made it lots worse.

Have not had any school to speak of as too bad for the buses to run. Heard one senior say "Well we won't get out till August if this lasts much longer" so guess some students really hate to miss school.

Mrs. Sally Watts, Mrs. Gladys Copeland and Mrs. Vera Bryant are still patients in the Rolling Plains Memorial Hospital in Sweetwater. Mrs. Daisy Henderson has been dismissed from the Sweetwater hospital but she is staying with her daughter and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clements in Roscoe till she has improved and the weather gets lots better.

Saturday noon the sun is shining, quiet a bit of wind blowing from the north and is still below freezing but no ice. Received about one-quarter of an inch of moisture from all of this, which was badly needed and highly appreciated.

—For waffles, biscuits or muffins, stir pecans into blended dry ingredients before adding liquid.

—Add pecans to meat, poultry or seafood salads.

—Try slivered or sliced pecans tossed in vegetable salads.

—Roll ice cream balls in chopped pecans. Freeze balls separately until set.

—Use toasted, chopped pecans as a quick topping for cream pie or ice cream pie.

—Sprinkle cupeakes with pecans before baking and skip the frosting.

—For a spread on crackers or celery, add finely chopped pecans to cream cheese that has been blended with a little milk.

—Pecans perk up a vegetable soufflé.

Add finely, chopped pecans along with the vegetables.

Texas Pecans--Tasty As Ever

New pecan crops are now available and as tasty as ever, says a foods and nutrition specialist.

Texas pecans give that "out of this world" touch to any recipe—they have the distinction of being the first fresh food on the Moon, Marilyn Haggard points out.

In addition pecans are an excellent source of energy, vitamins, minerals and protein, she continues.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Pecans store well in the refrigerator or freezer—shelled pecans keep six months or more in the refrigerator and over 18 months in the freezer.

But, it's difficult to see these delicious tidbits last that long—especially when served in these appealing ways:

—Serve sour cream with pecans on meat or baked potatoes.

drippings or other fat to the cooking water for each cup of beans.

Now that you have mastered the basic technique, try beans in combination with other ingredients. Lima beans in tomato sauce, served with a tossed salad, crusty bread, and a fruit or pudding dessert makes for a lovely lunch or light supper.

LIMA BEANS IN TOMATO SAUCE

3 slices bacon, finely chopped

Dry baby lima beans, cooked, salted, and drained.

4 cups (about 2 cups uncooked)

2 cups (or 1 16-oz. can) tomatoes, cooked

1/2 green pepper, chopped

1/4 cup brown sugar, packed

1/4 cup onion, chopped

1/4 tsp. chili powder

1 Tb. vinegar

Hearty Fare: Nutritious Dry Beans Are Now In Plentiful Supply

Nutritional credentials of dry beans are impeccable. One cup supplies 25 percent of the recommended daily allowance of protein, phosphorus, and iron; 20 percent of the requirements of magnesium and folic acid (a B vitamin); 15 percent of needed zinc and thiamin; as well as fair amounts of calcium, riboflavin, niacin, and vitamin B-6.

And now the cooler weather makes—it the perfect time to try this hearty fare in new and interesting combinations. Another excellent reason to use them now is that, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) they are now in plentiful supply.

Here's a basic recipe for the cooking of dry beans.

COOKED DRY BEANS

2 cups dry beans

Water: 5 cups for black-eye, Great Northern or lima beans; 6 cups for kidney, pea (navy) or pinto beans

Boil beans in the water for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand at least one hour, but preferably overnight. Cook beans in the soaking water. Add one teaspoon salt per cup of beans and boil gently, according to the hours given below:

Blackeye, 1/2 hour

Great Northern, 1 to 1 1/2 hours

Kidney, 2 hours

Lima, 1 hour

Pea (navy), 1 1/2 to 2 hours

Pinto, 2 hours

NOTE: To avoid foaming, add 1 tablespoon meat

Planned-Over Turkey Completes Low Calorie Menu

Is one of your holiday resolutions to keep a tighter reign on your waistline? What better entree could you serve than planned-over turkey? This bird claims fewer calories per serving than any other meat.

What a warm, tasty broth bits of turkey meat, sliced carrots and onions, celery leaves, garlic, salt and spices brewed with a little water make.

You can create your own low calorie combinations by making your own additions to a basic turkey salad recipe of diced, cooked turkey, chopped celery, mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt and pepper.

To keep your planned-over turkey as tasty as the first slice, separate stuffing, wrap turkey, and refrigerate as soon as possible, say home economist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Refrigerated turkey should be used within one or two days, but if you plan to include turkey later on your diet, you should freeze it, suggests USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service.

To freeze planned-over turkey, remove all the meat from the bones and carefully slice the sliceable meat. You can separate light and dark meat for special recipes, or mix the two. Dice or grind the remaining meat, then divide into portions suitable for your needs. Carefully wrap each portion—air-tight—in freezer paper and label each package.

Turkey doesn't retain good eating quality as long as other meats, but you can keep frozen turkey for more than a month.

Thirty-five percent of all households will have microwave ovens by 1983, compared to 10 percent today, says Nancy Granovsky, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consumers can expect to find new lines of housewares and food products designed exclusively for microwave oven use, the specialist adds.

Boosting Performance of First-Calf Heifers

The key to a profitable cattle operation is to get a calf from each cow every 12 months. However, first-calf heifers sometimes put a kink in those plans because they tend to have lower pregnancy rates and often fail to rebreed or take longer to rebreed.

"First-calf heifers often experience rebreeding problems due to a number of stress factors," points out Dr. John C. Spitzer, livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"For instance, the first-calf heifer is required to perform all the body functions of a mature cow, such as body maintenance, lactation and rebreeding. Parturition itself may place a greater stress on the heifer, especially if she experiences calving difficulty."

A first-calf heifer is also attempting to grow, and this problem is compounded by the shedding of incisor teeth which limits her ability to chew feed, adds the Texas A&M University System specialist.

To get first-calf heifers back on their breeding track fast, Spitzer offers two general management practices which should become standard procedure in cattle operations:

1. Separate heifers from mature cows the last three months of gestation and through the breeding season. This will keep heifers from having to compete with mature cows for available feed.

2. Breed virgin heifers 20 to 30 days earlier than the regular cow herd to assure early calves. Calving early will give heifers enough time to return to heat during the second breeding season, which would then correspond to that of the regular cow herd.

If a producer is short on feed or is faced with thin heifers at calving time, he should wean calves early or alter the suckling pattern. Weaning calves at 30 to 90 days of age removes one of the primary stresses on heifers and makes more nutrients available for other body functions such as growth and rebreeding.

An alternative is to limit nursing to one time per day for 30 to 45 minutes until the heifer shows heat. This should not begin before 30 days after calving and can run for about 45 days.

Research by Dr. Ron Randel with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has shown that once daily suckling can dramatically decrease the interval from calving to first heat after calving while having little effect on a heifer's milk production or total calf gain to weaning, notes Spitzer.

"Giving heifers in your beef herd a little special treatment can boost their reproductive performance," contends the specialist. "This can mean extra dollars in future years of production due to a larger calf crop as well as increased weaning weights of early-born calves."

Parramore Picked As Director for FU District

Robert Parramore of Winters began his term of office as a director for Texas Farmers Union, District VIII, during the recent FU state convention in Lubbock. He was also elected as an alternate delegate to the National Farmers Union convention in Kansas City later this year.

attending the convention from the Runnels County unit included Rodney and Bernie Faubion, Robert and Rhea Parramore, Bill and Pat Russell, Randall and Susan Conner, Dwaine Lange and Doyle Lange.

Delegates and members of the Texas FU again gave full support to re-adoption of 100 percent of parity farm prices and urged all farmers and ranchers in the state to "unite their numbers and harmonize their opinions in the coming months' efforts in Washington."

The Runnels County Farmers Union was further honored at the convention banquet by being selected as the fourth place winner statewide for outstanding county organization. This award is based on membership growth in the county, community activities, and activities to further promote Farmers Union and the Family Farm Concept.

Delegates and members

The convention, held in Lubbock, was filled with little controversy, even though coincidentally timed with a caravan of tractors which left the convention center parking lot on their way to Washington.

Cattle Feeding Profits To Be Slim In 1979

Despite higher prices for fed cattle, the cattle feeding business may well be in for a squeeze in 1979 due to increasing costs. These costs are in the form of high feeder cattle prices.

"While there will be good feed supplies at generally favorable costs, people in the cattle feeding business will be faced with higher prices for the cattle they will be putting into their feedlots," reports Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to the Texas A&M University System specialist, high feeder prices are a result of two things—massive liquidation of the cattle herd since 1975 which has brought on a dwindling supply of feeder cattle, and inspiration from spring and summer profits in cattle feeding.

Looking at feeder prices, Uvacek points out that Choice yearling steers at Amarillo will average in the upper $50s (per hundred-weight) for 1978, about 46 percent higher than last year. Prices will likely not increase half that much in 1979. However, Choice yearling feeder steers will probably average in the mid-to upper $60s.

As far as the feeding business is concerned, fed cattle prices should also go up next year and will likely average in the upper $50s. This rise, however, will depend upon supplies of competing meats and consumer demand, notes Uvacek.

"All this means that profit margins for cattle feeders will be slim during 1979," points out the specialist. "In fact, there may well be losses at times."

Homemakers Can Make Work Easier

Homemakers with physical limitations can make work easier by simplifying their tasks, says Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Homemakers with physical limitations can use the following principles of work simplification:

(1) Arrange a special work place for each job.

Keep supplies and equipment stored in fixed work places. Pre-position tools and supplies so that they can be grasped and used immediately.

Adjust the work-place height to the person and the job. Do not store often-used items out of reach.

(2) Select the right tools and equipment to do the job. Eliminate unnecessary motions like "smoothing" a bed. Locate machine switches and controls within easy reach.

Select appliances with accessible controls. Change location of switches where

Employers Must Provide Wage and Tax Statements by End of Month

Employers must provide their employees with completed Wage and Tax Statements for 1978 by Wednesday, January 31, 1979, the Internal Revenue Service said.

If a Wage and Tax Statement is not received by January 31, an employee should contact his or her employer first, according to the IRS. After February 15, the employee should contact a local IRS office.

By not issuing Wage and Tax Statements on time, employers may be penalizing employees who will have to wait until February or later to file their tax returns, possibly missing out on the quick refunds available to early filers.

Employees who do not receive their Wage and Tax Statements must still file by the tax deadline. These individuals should report all of their income and attach a statement explaining tax computations for the missing wage and tax statement information, the IRS said. These individuals may also use Form 4852, "Employee's Substitute Wage and Tax Statement," which can be obtained free from most IRS offices.

Additional information on the proper distribution and handling of Wage and Tax Statements are available in the IRS Publication 15, "Circular E—Employer's Tax Guide," obtained free from local IRS offices.

Winters Man Victim of Cold Weather

Enrique H. Esquivel, 63, of Winters, who had been missing since Saturday evening, was found early Monday morning in a field in the Dale Community, about seven miles southeast of Winters.

Justice of the Peace J. C. Hodnett of Winters pronounced Esquivel dead early Monday, a victim of "exposure to below freezing temperatures," after his body had been found by searchers.

Esquivel had last been seen sometime Saturday afternoon, according to Runnels County Sheriff Hershal Hall, and was reported missing about midnight Sunday. A search was mounted, and Game Warden Robert Wood found his car stalled on a country road early Monday morning. Chief Deputy Johnny Wilson tracked Esquivel's footprints and found the man's body in the field about half a mile west of the stalled car.

Apparently, Esquivel had had car trouble and was walking to get help at a farm house when he possibly fell or collapsed due to the cold, Sheriff Hall said.

Services were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in Winters.

Rosary was at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Winters Funeral Home Chapel.

Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery.

Mr. Esquivel was born April 12, 1915, in Winters. He had lived here all his life and had been an employee of C. L. Green Milling Co., which later became Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co.

He married Manuela Cortez, June 20, 1942, in Winters. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include his wife; seven sons, Jimmy and Raul, both of Abilene, Enrique Jr., Alfonso and Richard, all of Winters, Roy and Robert, both of San Angelo; a daughter, Mrs. Manuel Reyes of Lockney; four brothers, Juan and Manuel Sr., both of Winters, Aurelino of Munday and Augustine of Kansas; a sister, Benita Castillo of Hale Center; 19 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Grandsons and nephews were pallbearers.

Care Urged With Woodburning Stoves

The following article is from the December, 1978 issue of the Texas Fireman's News, and is reprinted as a public service at the request of Winters' Fire Chief Marvin Bedford:

The warm glow of a cheerful fire in a wood burning stove may be irresistible. But before this cozy scenario becomes a reality, there is work to be done, says the Insurance Information Institute's Texas Insurance Information Center (TIIC).

Improperly installed stoves—most notably the pot-belly, the box, the Franklin—can be fire hazards in disguise.

The Institute advises potential stove owners to follow some important guidelines set forth by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) and Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) for purchasing, installing and operating a wood burning stove. The following guidelines are essential for safety:

Select a stove made of sturdy material such as cast iron or steel. Look at those listed by UL or other recognized testing laboratories. Used stoves should be checked carefully for cracks or other defects.

To determine where the stove can be best placed, make sure there is enough clearance between the stove and floors, walls, and ceilings. (NFPA standards call for 36-inch clearance.) If adequate clearance is impossible, nearby combustible surfaces must be protected by a panel of fireproof material such as sheet metal or asbestos millboard spaced at least one inch from the wall. Place the stove on a fireproof base. Commonly used is one-quarter inch asbestos millboard covered with sheet metal extending at least 18 inches beyond the ash removal door.

If using an existing fireplace chimney, it must be sealed off below the stovepipe's point of entry to prevent toxic gases from backing up into the room. Have a mason or other qualified person inspect the chimney.

Burn only dry, well-seasoned wood. (Green wood may cause a buildup of flammable creosote which could start a chimney fire.)

Open a window slightly for ventilation if your house is securely insulated.

Dispose of ashes in a closed metal container outside the house.

Properly ventilating a wood burning stove is extremely important to prevent odorless toxic fumes from building up in the house. One should never extend the stovepipe through a wall or ceiling unless there is no alternative. If it must go through a wall or ceiling, the pipe should be passed through a "thimble" which must be installed within the ventilation space. The thimble is a metal sleeve which should be at least 12 inches larger in diameter than the stovepipe for insulation against flammable wall or ceiling material.

Afraid of strangers? That particular phobia is called, "Xenophobia."
