New Start On Ambulance Service

It's back to square one for the Runnels County Commissioners, in their planning to lease the county's ambulance service to a private operative.

Two weeks ago, the commissioners approved a proposal submitted by Glenn Pratt of Sweetwater, to lease the Emergency Medical Service. Under the agreement, Pratt would have operated the service and the county would subsidize him in the amount of $5,500 per month.

Pratt's proposal had been accepted by the commissioners over a proposal submitted by Bob McDaniel of Ballinger.

However, all the commissioners' work and study and final approval of the proposals two weeks ago were for naught. It was learned late last week that the commissioners had not followed state statutes in regards to advertising for bids for the leasing of the service. So County Judge Bill Stultz called a special meeting of the commissioners for Monday morning, at which time the commissioners voted to advertise for bids, to be opened at a special meeting July 9, in order to meet all legal specifications.

At the meeting, held in the district courtroom Monday morning, both Pratt and McDaniel were present, along with delegations from Winters and Ballinger who were interested in the continuation of the county's Emergency Medical Service.

Pratt reiterated his previous proposals, pointing out that he would provide "the best service available" to the residents of Runnels County. He said that his plans call for obtaining the best equipment available, and employing trained and experienced personnel to handle the ambulances. One ambulance would be stationed in Ballinger, and another unit in Winters. He indicated that plans were to buy larger vehicles, with more sophisticated equipment, to meet standards set by federal and state agencies. He also indicated he would begin and conduct first aid and lifesaving classes within the county, to better educate the general populace on methods of self-protection.

Pratt also listed the fees which he would charge if he was granted the lease. Base rate for ambulance calls would be $47.50. Nursing home transfers would be $30 per trip, plus a $15-per-hour waiting time fee, according to his proposal. When transporting outside the city limits of Ballinger and Winters, there would be a charge of $1 per patient mile charge. Special handling charge would be $7.50 for cases where use of special equipment or situations requiring 30-40 minutes or more is needed in removing a trapped person, or other similar circumstances.

The average cost for an ambulance call is $85 according to Department of Transportation statistics, Pratt said.

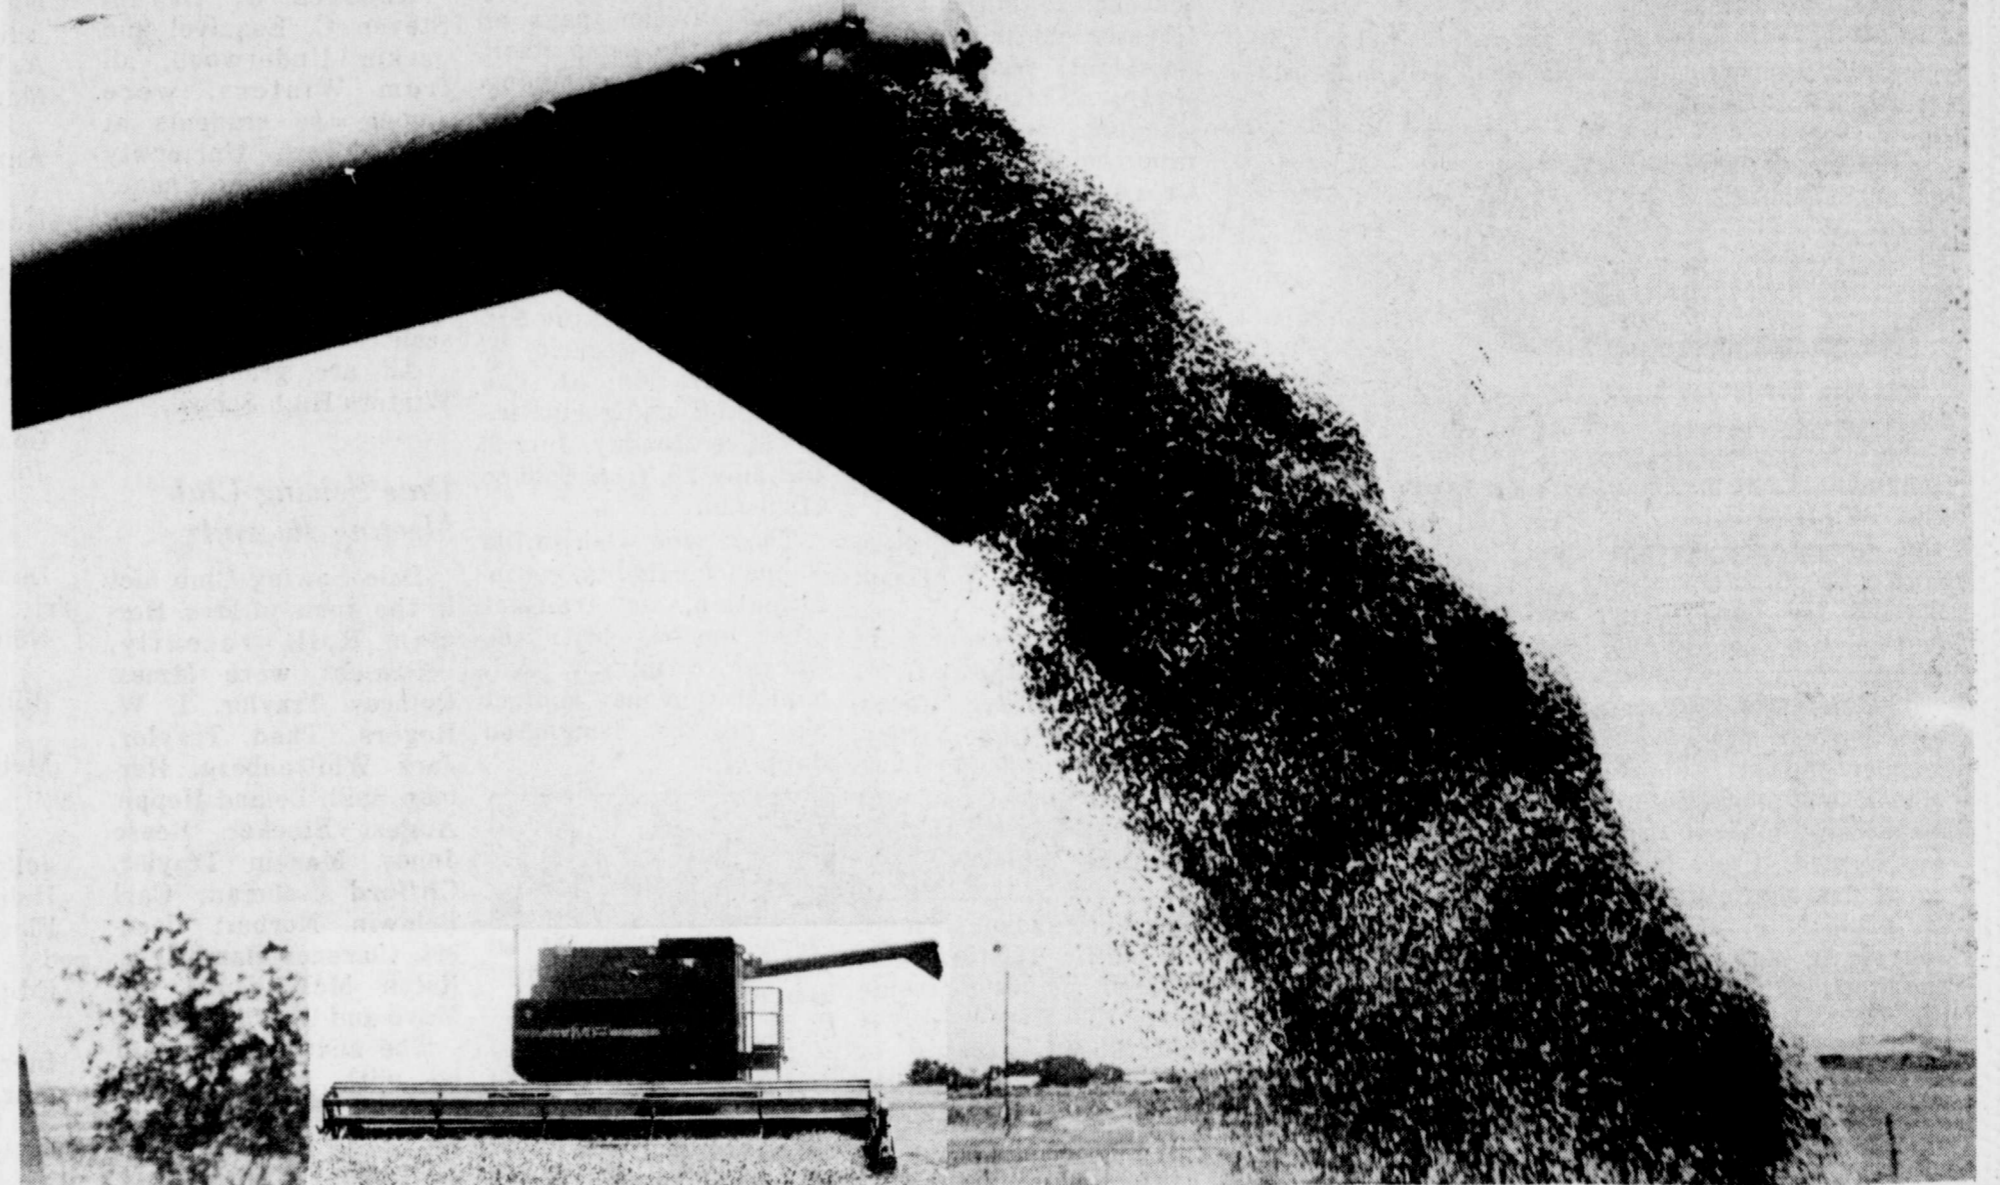

Pratt has been associated with ambulance services and the Sweetwater Fire Department, and has conducted CPR and other life-saving courses throughout this area.

A copy of McDaniel's proposal could not be obtained, but he told the commissioners and the group of interested citizens Monday that his base proposal of $60,000 was "padded," in that he had added $10,000 more than he believed it would take to operate the service, when he submitted his proposal. He said he could collect "$2,500 per month" from ambulance users if he were operating the service. He also said he would provide the "best ambulance and emergency service" available, should he be granted the contract.

Nelan Bahlman, of Winters, chairman of the board of North Runnels Hospital District, told the commissioners that the North Runnels board "would like to see the County Emergency Service continue to operate as it is presently operating," and that they were well satisfied with the service. A spokesperson for Ballinger Memorial Hospital said they were "pleased with the present service," and were "well satisfied."

Ballinger's Mayor Bud Everett indicated the Ballinger City Commission was interested in the best Emergency Service available, but did say that he was not sure that the police radio network now operated by the City of Ballinger and partly financed by the county and the City of Winters could be used legally by a private concern, such as would be the case if the county leases the service to private operators. Pratt pointed out that the private ambulance service in Sweetwater uses the city's radio network.

Winters' Mayor Lee Colburn told the commissioners that the people of Winters and the north section of the county hoped the commissioners "have the people's interest in mind," and said the people of this area are vitally interested in the best service which can be obtained.

American Shetland Pony Club show rules will be followed in all classes except where specific changes are made by the show chairman and at least two WTSPBA directors.

stallions; miniature, ponies 34 inches and under; shod mare class; unshod mare class; performance classes.

Trophies will be awarded for grand and reserve champions; ribbons will be awarded to second through fourth places.

Sign Contract For Beacon At Airport

Mayor Lee Colburn Monday night was authorized by the City Council to sign contracts for purchase and installation of a non-directional radio at Winters Municipal Airport.

The beacon will be installed in the immediate vicinity of the airport, and will be used by aircraft pilots to guide them to the airport during darkness or bad weather.

Cost of the equipment, including installation, will be about $7,000, with the Texas Aeronautical Commission providing one-half of the funds.

This equipment, according to officials and others, will make the Winters airport one of the safest and most accessible among smaller airports. It was felt that because of the heavy traffic at the airport, which is growing heavier monthly, that the equipment was needed, officials noted. The airport is one of the biggest drawing cards for the area.

New Band Director Hired

Eddie W. Pace of San Angelo has been employed as band director for the Winters Public Schools. The board of trustees of Winters Independent School District took the action at the regular board meeting last week.

Pace will succeed Thomas Fogelman, who resigned recently to return to school. The new Blizzard Band director is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, where he earned a bachelor of music and a master of music degree. He holds an all-level certificate in music, and has written an unpublished thesis on "Survey of the grading criteria reported by UIL Conferences A and AA Band Directors."

Pace was in the San Angelo public school system from 1958 to 1963. He was band director at Eldorado from 1963 to 1966. From 1966 to 1974 he was instructor of music and band director at Angelo State University. From 1975 to 1977 he was band director at Grand Falls.

He and his wife Joan have three children, Keith, Donald and Laurie. They are members of the Lutheran Church. He has been active in community affairs in San Angelo, a member of the Lions Club, YMCA, and has been Sunday School superintendent. In 1970 he was awarded a certificate as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America.

Core Testing For New Dam Is Beginning

Engineers and surveyors were to begin this week to survey the area to be included in Winters' proposed new dam and water reservoir.

Engineers already have outlined the proposed boundaries, but actual surveys must be made to determine the exact area to be covered.

Also, core testing of the subformations where the proposed dam will be built will be done to more fully determine the type of foundations necessary for the kind of dam proposed.

The City Council also will meet with the city's financial advisor on this project, in a called meeting next Monday, to make final conclusions before the pre-application for federal funds is forwarded. Indications are, according to officials, that the proposed project will be approved within a few months, as Winters has been given a higher priority.

Softball: Jaycees vs. Lions Club

Winters Jaycees and Winters Lions Club will play a softball game Sunday, June 24, at 2:30 p.m., on the Little League field.

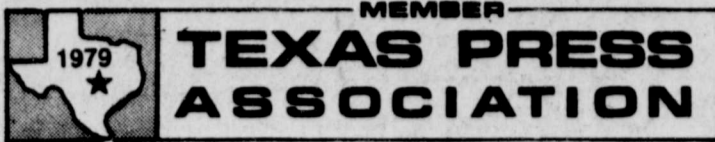

Homemade ice cream will be for sale.

The Jaycees' part of the proceeds will go to the new Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation. The Lions Club's part of the proceeds will be used by the club for community projects.

NEW QUARTERS

All administrative offices of Dry Division, Wallace Murray Corp., will occupy this new building located on Hwy. 53 West. Office equipment was moved to the new building over the weekend.

Winters Livestock and Agriculture Association

This story began in 1953 with the formation of the Winters Livestock and Agriculture Association—an organization founded to raise prize money for the annual Winters Livestock Show.

The idea was originated by Elwood Harris, a teacher in the Winters school, and through his leadership the association was formed. It was made up of persons interested in promoting and encouraging agricultural and livestock work among the FFA and 4-H Club boys and girls of the Winters School District.

First officers of the association were Neal Oakes, president; L. O. Byrd, vice president; J. R. Payne, secretary and Mrs. R. P. Penny, reporter.

The prize money was raised quickly through $5 annual dues assessed each of the 242 members of the association. But a permanent and covered site for the show was needed, usually it was held out doors or in tents during the cold of January.

A suitable barn would cost about $15,000. The original plan was to set aside $500 each year from the dues as a building fund which would have taken several years to reach the goal of a suitable show barn.

It was then that the Winters School District stepped into the picture. Officials offered a 23-acre site and $5,000 to buy materials and to pay a supervisor to help erect the structure. The school also agreed to maintain the building and pay for electricity and water. School officials asked only that everyone pitch in and build the barn.

The school had purchased the landmark "the Meadows Place" as part of an expansion program and the old residence was still on the property. W. F. Meadows bought the new house in 1906 and it was here that he and Mrs. Meadows reared their family of six girls.

This residence was given to the association along with the lot, and was torn down by the FFA and 4-H groups, and all usable material was saved for use in the erection of the new barn.

The general labor chairman was C. R. Kendrick and he was assisted by a committee composed of W. J. Davis, W. F. Minzenmayer and R. P. Penny. In each of the 18 communities surrounding Winters, a community labor recruiting chairman was appointed.

Local lumber yards agreed to furnish all materials at cost and Harvey Dale Jones drew up the plans for the show barn.

There was never a day during the construction period that fewer than 15 men showed up for work. More than 200 men are estimated to have worked on the project. In about three weeks, it was complete. A $15,000 barn had been built for less than one-third the cost.

The official opening ceremony was held on Tuesday night Oct. 5, 1954, and the 300 attending were shown through the 50 by 150 foot corrugated building. Inside were 120 five by eight foot stalls capable of holding 360 sheep. There were tie racks for calves, rest rooms, a concession stand, a poultry and rabbit room, and offices for FFA and 4-H supervisors. Electric plugs and water were within easy access of each pen and proper ventilation was assured by spinning vanes on the roof.

One who helped build the barn summed up the project this way:

"The nicest part of it all," he said, "is the community interest in it. Teamwork is the answer. Without it we couldn't have succeeded."

Interest remained high and the annual barbecue, held at the barn, was attended by a crowd of 500 who waded mud and water to attend. C. R. Kendrick was elected president for the coming year along with other officers. Mrs. R. P. Penny was recognized for her work and she announced that the membership stood at 276.

Something happened to the enthusiasm of the people and by 1957 the association had become inactive and remained dormant for several years.

In 1964 the Winters Livestock and Agriculture Association was reactivated and a barbecue held to celebrate the enlistment of 315 paid members, Ken-

Mango Cake: Lush As The Tropics

Among the earth's many delights, none may exceed the delicious mango. When choosing the mangos for this recipe, don't judge ripeness by the outside. According to experts at Calavo Growers of California, the fruit is ready to eat when it yields to pressure—regardless of its color.

PARADISE MANGO CAKE

3-1/2 cups flour
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 1-1/2 teaspoon soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 2 teaspoons cinnamon
 2 cups sugar
 1/4 cup oil
 4 eggs
 3 cups Calavo mango, mashed (approximately 3-4 mangos)
 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
 1/2 cup shelled walnuts, chopped

Sift dry ingredients together into a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients, and mix thoroughly. Pour into a greased and floured 10-inch bundt pan. Bake at 350° for 50-60 minutes, or until toothpick comes out clean.

shoot that someone a hard glance and say, "Such a question. The refrigerator, of course."

But more than likely you have milk stashed away elsewhere in the kitchen, as well. Like in the cupboard, back there, maybe forgotten, among the other canned goods.

Chances are, you have a can or two labeled "evaporated" or "condensed" milk. If you've forgotten about that other kind of milk, don't worry. It'll keep. That's the good thing about it. But not the only good thing.

Evaporated milk was invented to keep. Napoleon commissioned a contest to find a way to preserve food for his army, which was too busy conquering Europe at the time to stop and milk a cow. It took 15 years, but a lowly confectioner named Nicholas Appert finally won the prize for his process of producing evaporated milk.

Today's version of Appert's invention is only nominally the same as his, but the idea lives on. Modern evaporated milk is whole milk with about half the water removed. The volume of the milk is reduced by cooking in a vacuum over low heat. Then the milk homogenized, sealed in an air-free container, cooled and heated again to sterilize.

If that can in your cupboard is labeled "condensed" milk, then what you have is evaporated milk containing about 40 percent sugar.

Both kinds of canned milk have a variety of uses, of course, though condensed milk plays its role largely in desserts, as might be expected from the sugar content.

Evaporated milk can be sweetened for desserts, and it has a multitude of other cooking uses as well.

You can use it straight out of the can for ...

... creaming coffee and tea.

... binding meat and fish loaves and patties.

... coating fish fillets, chops, croquettes or similar foods to be breaded for frying.

... glazing breads, rolls and pastries before baking.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service says supplies of these and other milk products should be plentiful now as the dairy industry reaches its seasonal production peak.

Spend a quiet evening at home without electricity... and see just how quiet it really is.

Forget about watching TV or listening to the stereo. How about reading a good book — that's a great idea if you do it before dark or if you plan on using Abe Lincoln's lighting, the fireplace.

Nobody has to tell you how important electricity is in your life. It surrounds you daily, lighting the way, entertaining you and making life more comfortable.

And that's the way it should be, but we at West Texas Utilities hope you'll use electricity wisely and efficiently. Make sure your home is properly insulated and weatherized, turn off unnecessary lights and appliances, and above all, watch that thermostat setting. These things not only conserve valuable energy, they can help to lower your monthly bills. And that's important now and in the future.

Children are susceptible to these types of accidents, especially small children playing around swimming pools. Last year, 56 people drowned in swimming pools, and 26 of these were under 10 years of age.

Two simple safety rules could prevent almost all such tragedies. First, never leave children alone without adult supervision. Secondly, make sure everyone in the family knows how to swim. Free or very inexpensive swimming lessons are available in almost every community through American Red Cross programs and local agencies.

If you are a boating enthusiast, be sure your craft meets all the safety regulations, which include having a Coast Guard approved flotation device on board for each person. "A lot of people don't realize it, but children under 12 are required to be wearing their vests," Murphy commented. "And it's a good idea to put the child in the water with a vest beforehand and let him play with it. The vests are bulky and might scare a child unless there is an opportunity to get used to it first."

When pulling skiers, boat drivers must be on the watch for swimmers and other watercraft. It's a good idea to have two people in a tow boat, one to drive, and the other to watch the skier. It's also important to learn the hand signals that have been developed especially for skiers, because it's hard to hear above the noise of a motor.

Murphy stressed that drinking and operating a boat don't mix. "The Parks and Wildlife people estimate that drinking is involved in 60 to 70 percent of the boating accidents," he advised.

Accent On Health

Texas Department of Health
Raymond T. Moore, M.D., Commissioner

Summertime fun and summertime safety should just naturally go together, says the Texas Department of Health.

"Whatever type of recreation you choose, there are a few 'common sense' precautions to take which could prevent injury or death, or perhaps will help you if you are injured," said John P. Murphy of the Emergency Medical Services Division of the State Health Department.

According to safety experts, water sports offer the most frequent hazards. During 1978, 596 people drowned in water water-related accidents in Texas.

Typically, swimming accidents took the largest toll last year, accounting for 226 deaths, followed by boating and fishing accidents.

"Going into the water to save a drowning victim should be the last resort," says Murphy. "Try to find some object to throw to the victim, such as a plank or a rope. Even a spare tire mounted on a rim will float and you can use that." Murphy also advised vacationers not to go diving or swimming in waters without checking them out first, and not to swim alone. Never swim when you're chilled, overly tired, over heated, or you've just finished eating, he said.

Not all drownings involve swimmers and boaters. Many times people will fall from places of presumed safety such as docks, bridges, or the edges of swimming pools. During 1978, 117 people died from falling into the water, and 63 perished in wading accidents.

Children are susceptible to these types of accidents, especially small children playing around swimming pools. Last year, 56 people drowned in swimming pools, and 26 of these were under 10 years of age.

Two simple safety rules could prevent almost all such tragedies. First, never leave children alone without adult supervision. Secondly, make sure everyone in the family knows how to swim. An important part of any vacation is the family car. Some simple safety checks can be made by vacationers before leaving on a trip. Check your tire treads to see if they are thin, or maybe worn unevenly, indicating the tires need alignment. Also check the car's hoses, belts and fluid levels. It's wise to carry a small tool kit, a first aid kit, a flashlight, road flares, and extra fuses.

"Anyone on regular medication should take an adequate amount with them on a trip or have their physicians make a copy of the prescription. The same goes for eyeglasses: take an extra pair or a prescription for a new pair. Broken eyeglasses can ruin a trip," Murphy said.

If camping is in your plans, watch out for spiders and scorpions. Two well known poisonous spiders in Texas are the brown recluse and the black widow. Both are retiring spiders and prefer dark places. If bitten by either one, seek medical attention at once and if possible kill the spider and take it with you to the doctor.

If you are in brush country, wear long pants and sturdy high topped boots to ward off snakebites. "Avoid stepping over logs without looking first—and never put your hands up over a ledge where you can't see them," warns Murphy. "When walking, make lots of noise, because snakes don't like noise. Stay on paths and well-cleared

Rabies Increasing In Texas

Rabies a disease all but forgotten by many people, is once again on the upswing.

Cases of rabies have increased sharply in many areas of Texas, points out Dr. Jim Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

There were more laboratory-confirmed cases in Texas last year than any other year since 1961. And 1979 is off to a rousing start.

The first quarter of this year produced over twice the number of cases reported in 1978's first quarter, notes Armstrong. He says 80 to 90 percent of the cases are in trails because snakes usually stay back in the brush where there is plenty of protection."

skunks. However, domestic animal cases are increasing.

Twenty-two rabid dogs have been reported to the El Paso area, possibly due to rabid stray dogs in Mexico, he says. As a result, special immunization clinics have been set up to increase the vaccination level. Armstrong says intensive stray dog pick-up activities are under way on both sides of the river.

The veterinarian says the keys to rabies control are public awareness, pet vaccination (both dogs and cats) and stray animal control.

There are 3.7 million dogs in Texas, yet only 1.25 million rabies vaccinations are given annually by Texas veterinarians, Armstrong points out. A 70 percent vaccination level is considered the minimum necessary for rabies control.

During the first four months of 1979, laboratory confirmed cases through the Texas Department of Health totaled 370, compared to 183 confirmed lab cases for the corresponding period in 1978, representing an increase of over 100 percent.

"Of the 370 cases this year, 139 of them were confirmed in April alone. About 80 percent of all confirmed cases have been in skunks, and the Department of Health has announced that 46.2 percent of all skunks examined have been positive," notes Armstrong.

Cases confirmed through the laboratory during the first three weeks of April include: Skunks, 108; foxes, 2; bats, 4; raccoons, 2; cats, 1; dogs, 6; horses, 2; and cattle, 7. Although the two horses were confirmed in Brazos County, they were brought here for testing from the Houston and Hempstead areas, the lab report indicated.

Jaycees Charter Night June 28

Winters Jaycees, recently organized, will hold their charter night banquet Thursday, June 28, in the Humble Building on Wood Street, Jim West, president of the new organization, has announced.

Ken Higdon of Abilene will be the master of ceremonies, and a state Jaycees representative will be present to present the charter.

Officers of the new service organization are Jim West, president; Jim Matthews, vice president; Bill Dinger, secretary; Jerry Sims, treasurer; and Daryl Coats, state director.

Remodeling of City Hall To Begin

The City Council Monday night gave the go-ahead signal to a project which has been hanging in the fire for several months—the remodeling of the north side of the second floor of the City Hall.

The project will be done on a job basis, with contractors assigned to certain areas and working piecemeal.

Plans are to paint, put in new ceiling tile, floor tile, air conditioning, and recovering the cabinet and work tops in the kitchen.

Aldermen Jimmy Hatler and E. J. Bishop will oversee the project for the council.

Teen Center Open Only Friday Nites

Winters Teen Center will be open only on Friday nights during the rest of the summer, the board of advisors announced following a meeting last week. Hours will be 7:30 p.m. to midnight. The regular schedule will be resumed in September when school begins.

The decision to open only on Friday nights was made due to the fact that the young people present recommended such a schedule, advisors said.

Plans are being made to have a band for dances at the center in the future. Also, advisors said, the 1979 graduating seniors are still a part of the center and are urged to use the facilities.

Police Dept. Will Get Radar Unit

Winters City Council Monday night approved a lease-purchase agreement to obtain a radar unit for use by the Police Dept.

The unit will be mounted in the police car, and will be used in an attempt to control speeding traffic on the city's streets, Police Chief Doc Smith said. He indicated that with the radar unit enforcement of the speed limits would be more effective.

Cost of the unit will be about $1400, according to city officials, on a lease-purchase agreement.

Water Dept. Installing New Meters

Another 200 new water meters will be ordered by the City Water Dept., to be installed within the next few months.

The City Council Monday night approved purchase of the new meters, to replace old meters which have been in use for many years. The Water Dept. has been in the process for some time replacing many of the old meters, and the latest move is a continuation of the replacement program.

Jim Hamner and the city officials felt that the cost of the new meters would be offset by the more accurate metering of the water used by consumers. Many of the older meters were not measuring accurately, and there was a large financial loss to the city, it was said.
