"REFLECTIONS"
"REFLECTIONS"
"REFLECTIONS"

BY RICHARD C. THOMAS

I don't know how many nights a week it happens, but it seems that most any night when I happen to be downtown late, I can hear or see the city's street sweeper busy in some part of town. In fact, it seems that on any given night when I decide to put in a little extra time at the office, and park my car out front, that will be the night Charles Grenwelge of the City Street Department has scheduled to sweep West Dale... and there remains a car-size spot next to the curb he has had to miss. We need to synchronize our calendars. (However, he has been known to backtrack later in the night and do some patch sweeping).

Sweeping of the city's streets is just one of the services we all probably take for granted. When we come down in the early mornings and notice the streets nice and clean, we give hardly a thought to the process behind it. We seem to expect it. Many of us don't stop to think that someone has spent a long night, driving up and down the streets and sweeping up the trash we have discarded during the day. It has to be a pretty lonely job, cruising up and down quiet and vacated streets, into the wee hours while the rest of us are sleeping. But there are results: drive through many other towns, and we begin to realize that even though somewhat littered streets greet us occasionally, we are better off than many. We may have some junky, dirty areas about town (a problem the city fathers are in the process of doing something about), but as a rule our streets — especially downtown — usually are pretty clean.

According to Charles, however, the monotony of his nighttime job is broken at times. For instance, just a few days ago he swept up a pocketbook, but he retrieved it before it was gone forever. In the pocketbook was a nice sum of Mexican money — about 1200 pesos, and some other papers. After some searching, the owner was found, and the pocketbook and money were returned to him. But there also had been some checks in the pocketbook. Charles searched the area where he dumps the trash from the sweeper, and found one check in the pile, and another lodged against a fence. These were also returned to the rightful owner.

This happens occasionally, Charles says. He has found folding money in the sweeper at times, which could not be traced; not much, though. Coins are often swept up, too.

There are a lot of coins dropped on the streets, mostly pennies, near parking meters. On any given day, one probably could find at least half a dozen pennies on the sidewalks or in the gutters, where someone had dropped them while trying to feed the parking meters, and just let them roll away. Sometimes nickels and dimes get away in that manner. Seems these coins are not worth the effort to retrieve them.

To coincide with Winters' 90th Birthday Celebration — May 23-24 — The Enterprise will publish a special historical edition. We hope to print many heretofore unpublished pictures taken in the early days of Winters, as well as articles telling of the past. Plans are to make this edition one of the most comprehensive ever published locally. Watch for it... we believe you will enjoy it. And we want to give everyone an opportunity to take part and to include their own celebration messages in this edition. If we happen to miss someone, it will be unintentional... just give us a call.

Lite-A-Bike

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Winters Post 9193, Veterans of Foreign Wars, applied reflective tape to bicycles during a Lite-A-Bike campaign last Saturday. About 50 youngsters showed up to have

Plant cuts work force 30 percent

The economic recession which has been stalking the nation for many months, and which appears to have gained momentum during the first quarter of 1980, has suddenly made itself felt on a local level.

Dry Division, Wallace Murray Corp., a Winters-based manufacturing company, has announced a 30 percent cutback in the work force, effective this week. Employees affected have been notified.

Hal Dry, vice president and general manager of Dry Division, said the "economic conditions surrounding the home building industry" are cause for the necessary cutback in the work force. He cited the severe slowdown in housing starts throughout the nation within the past few weeks, due to rapidly escalating interest rates, which directly affects the Winters company. Dry Division manufactures grilles, louvers and diffusers for air conditioning and heating systems, with almost nationwide distribution, and is tied to the housing industry. Whatever affects the housing industry, it was said, directly affects the Winters company.

The remaining work force in the Winters plant will continue on a five-day work week, it was stated. Future status is dependent entirely upon the nationwide economic situation, but company officials said this layoff "hopefully will be a temporary thing."

During the 1974 recession, it was said, a similar cutback in the work force was made, but at that time a four-day week was adopted. When the economy brightened at the end of that recession, the local work force started to increase.

Employment Commission reps here

Texas Employment Commission has announced that representatives of the commission will be in Winters, Friday, April 25, to assist residents who have been laid off from their jobs due to a cutback in the work forces of local companies in filing for unemployment benefits.

The representatives will be at the office of the Winters Housing Authority, at E. Parsonage and N. Grant, at 9 a. m. Friday.

This will be a temporary arrangement, it was said, and is being done as a convenience for the people concerned. Otherwise, workers would be forced to drive to Abilene to file for benefits.

Membership drive on for Hale Museum

A drive is currently underway to sign up community residents as members of the Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation, according to the finance committee of the foundation.

There are no set membership dues, committee members said, but dues collected will be for annual membership.

The foundation will operate the Z. I. Hale Museum on West Dale.

Drive committee members said contributions will be tax deductible; the foundation was incorporated some months ago, and approval as a non-profit organization has been received from the IRS.

Residents may obtain membership cards from members of the committee, or at the Chamber of Commerce office. If dues, in any amount desired, are mailed in, membership cards may be picked up at the chamber office. Those wishing to join by mail may use the blank coupon to be found elsewhere in this issue of The Enterprise.

The board of trustees of Winters Independent School District has begun an investigation of the possibilities of inaugurating a building construction trades class in the high school for the 1980-81 school year, and has authorized Superintendent of Schools Tommy Lancaster to draw up proposed plans for such a course.

Because of the anticipated difficulty in securing a certified industrial arts teacher, the board decided to alter the format of the present Shop I and II classes, and Mechanical Drawing courses to accommodate and include the Building Construction Trades class. When this is done, it was explained, the emphasis will shift from small individual shop projects to large group construction. Classroom and shop experiences concerned with the erection, installation, maintenance and repair of buildings and other structures, using assorted materials such as metal, wood, stone, brick, glass, concrete or composition substances, will be stressed, according to school spokesmen.

In the proposed courses, instruction will be provided in a variety of activities such as cost estimating, cutting, fitting, fastening, and finishing various materials; the uses of a variety of hand and power tools; and blueprint reading, following technical specifications.

According to the announcement, the proposed vocational class would utilize the present Industrial Arts building with only slight modifications being necessary. Additional tools and equipment would have to be purchased, but state funds would be available for this, and the cost to the local school district would be minimal, school authorities said.

James Jones, who has been filling the role of Industrial Arts teacher, has been recommended to the Texas Education Agency for certification as a Building Trades instructor. Approval of the application is expected in the near future, school officials said.

The proposed Building Trades class will require a three-hour block of time, with morning and afternoon classes. A maximum of 30 students will be allowed to enroll, with 15 in the morning class and 15 in the afternoon class. The proposal calls for the course to be restricted to junior and senior students, and it is anticipated that the junior class students in the program will participate for two years.

After two years in the program, school officials anticipated, graduates should be prepared to enter the building construction industry and perform successfully as apprentices. Their initial income would probably be higher than those employees who are hired who have had no previous training or experience, they suggested.

School board members and the school administration have expressed the belief that "this proposed program will greatly benefit the young people of the community," and enable the school district to continue to utilize the buildings and equipment presently being used in the Industrial Arts program.

Winters man killed in accident Monday

Rock pickers

Six, seventh and eighth grade students of Winters Public Schools had a "field day" last week, as they turned out to pick up rocks at the City Park. The rocks were surfaced when the grass area was plowed recently, and had to be removed before the new grass grows to mower height.

BY CHARLES POE

William George Cathey, early Wingate Settler

Bill Cathey's roots are deep in Wingate where he lives on a place that was established by his great-grandfather, William George Cathey, in 1889.

Bill says that W. G. Cathey bought the entire John Early Survey and cut it up into farms which he sold. And that he gave the land for the west side of Wingate.

Although Bill has taught history in the Winters High School for eight years he is quite content to live in a nice brick home now located where his forebearers settled. After finishing McMurry, Bill taught two years at Blackwell before he was employed at Winters. He is married to the former Cindy Antilley and they have two young daughters, Cara, age 4, and Hollie, nine months.

From information in the book, Runnels County Pioneers, we find that W. G. Cathey was a confederate veteran. He was born October 11, 1836 in Stewart County, Tennessee. He enlisted in May of 1861, in Company H, 50th Tennessee Infantry, as an orderly sergeant. He participated in the battles of First Fall of Fort Donaldson and was captured there. He was held prisoner seven months at Camp Doughlass, Chicago, Ill. He was exchanged at Vicksburg, Miss. in the fall of 1862. He served until the close of the war, participating in many battles and skirmishes.

Ada Lee, the oldest daughter of W. G. Cathey and Vickus Cathey was born in Stewart County, Tenn., and she was married there in the home of her parents to T. S. Langford on Jan. 1, 1882.

After their marriage, the young couple rode the train to Dallas County, Texas, and had exactly $8.65 to start on, as a grandson, Horace Anthony Gustavus, relates. A little farm in the vicinity was their first home and the house was a box-type structure with a small shed room added on. Here their first child, Emmie, was born in 1883.

Apparently the farm was not much of a paying proposition, because in a few years they moved farther west, to Wingate, where Lankford worked with and for Mr. Cathey, his father-in-law.

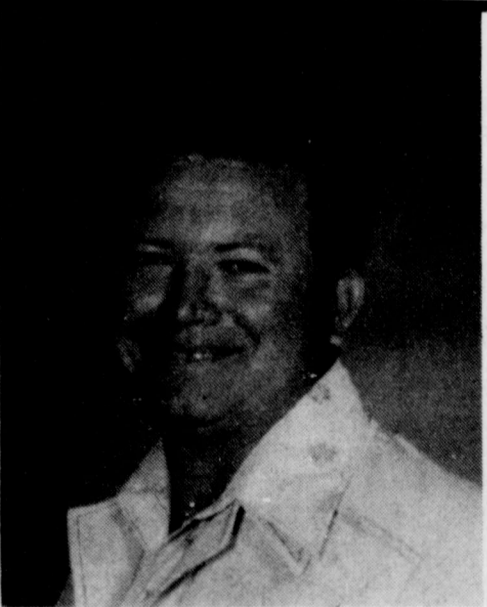

The trip west was made in covered wagons around 1889. They must have joined the W. G. Catheys for they moved to Texas from Tennessee in 1888 and to Runnels County in 1889.

Fortune seemed to smile on the young couple and the Lankfords made good on a small farm, then bought another 640 acres and lost everything they had. From here they seemed to drift to Ballinger where followed some of the hardest years of their lives.

In Ballinger they lived with friends and relatives who were also broke. They did everything possible to earn the necessities of life. Lankford chopped wood, white-washed barns and henhouses, and peddled watermelons in San Angelo for a small profit.

During this time he drove the U. S. Mail to Menard from Ballinger in a wagon, and had to change teams three times enroute. The 14-hour, one-dollar-a-day job was the toughest that he had encountered up to that time.

Lankford's friends asked him to run for city marshal and after his election he served for several terms in this capacity. In 1892, it was the custom for women to walk down a certain side of the street, away from the vicinity of the open saloons in Ballinger. Lankford also served a term as deputy sheriff and the family lived in the jail where daughter Lodie was born in 1894.

During this period Lankford hauled rock and assisted in the construction of the Eighth St. Presbyterian Church where he and Mrs. Lankford were faithful members.

Lankford went into the saddle and harness business and after a fire he put on a fire sale and ventured into second-hand furniture which must have been successful for he built several rock buildings in Ballinger, one that later housed the King Holt Furniture Co. He later converted his used furniture into a new furniture business.

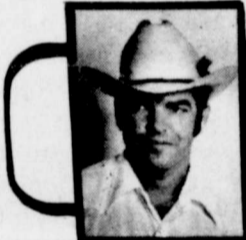

Following World War I, Lankford conceived the idea of making clothes, and work clothes in particular. On the second floor of the furniture store was the small beginning of the T. S. Lankford & Sons Manufacturing Co. After his wife's death in 1925, he moved the business to Abilene.

It is not known if W. G. Cathey and his wife left the farm and moved to Ballinger to be near their daughter, but both are buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Ballinger. Mr. Cathey died March 23, 1916 and his wife died May 20, 1927.

Ernest Mack, the Cathey's youngest son, who was about ten years old when they came to Wingate, remained with the farm until his death. He was married to Roxie Allen in 1904. She died in 1924, and he died in 1960. Both are buried in the Wingate Cemetery.

Ernest Mack's son, Walter George, lived on the place at Wingate until his death two years ago.

Bill is the oldest son of Walter George and it is no wonder that he feels at home as he is a fourth generation member to live on the original Cathey land.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

Steve Hoelscher, who farms south of San Angelo and near Pecos and is famous for growing juicy cantelopes, was busy this week and the past several getting his fields fertilized.

"With some hot sun, some rain or irrigation, we are going to make a crop," he said. "We are sure spending the money on fertilizer this year, however."

It might be fun to compare some prices. I was reading a February, 1925 edition of The Progressive Farmer magazine the other night. There in was a report on some fertilizing in Gillespie County. It read in part:

"Last year, Ben Thomas, Otto Kneese, Willie Klier, and Edwin Crenwelge fertilized a number of acres planted later in cotton with commercial fertilizer and in most cases it did very well. The fertilizer used was a 10-4-2 mixture at the rate of 200 pounds per acre, a cost of $4.25 per acre.

"Mr. Thomas and Mr. Kneese said that the yield of cotton over the unfertilized cotton right by the side of it was from 30 to 40 per cent. Mr. Klier had to plant his cotton over, but even at that he said he made more than the $4.25 per acre invested in the fertilizer.

"By getting a car load of fertilizer it would come much cheaper and should cost somewhere about $3.25 to $3.50 per acre. People desiring to fertilize another year should get in touch with Mr. Miller as there will be an effort made to order a carload of fertilizer. Ben Thomas expects to fertilize 20 acres this year and the other men who used fertilizer last year will use some more this coming year (1925)," commented R.S. Miller, County Agent in Gillespie County.

Well, as we know, fertilizer and the use of it has come a long way since that time.

As a matter of record, in that same edition of Progressive Farmer, it was reported that Texas used approximately 23,000 tons of fertilizer in 1922. In 1923 approximately 75,000 tons was used. In 1924, nearly 130,000 tons were used.

Back in those days, farmers were finding out that in dry years it was good to use fertilizer to get greater yields. That certainly maybe the case this year if it don't start raining for a week period.

At any rate it is a scientific fact, and has been demonstrated time and time again, that growing plants require less moisture and actually consume less soil water when the soil solution is reasonably well supplied with the necessary plant food elements than is the case when there is a deficiency of one of the essential plant foods.

Texas ag Receipts up

Cash receipts from agricultural products reached a new high in Texas last year, according to Texas Agricultural Extension Service estimates. They totaled $9.6 billion, up from $7.9 billion in 1978. The big jump was due to a bumper cotton crop, along with good prices, plus an excellent beef market. Cash receipts from beef totaled $4.1 billion while cotton receipts hit the $1.5 billion mark. Total livestock receipts are estimated at $5.3 billion while the crop sector added cash receipts of $3.9 billion. Agriculturally related areas such as timber, hunting, fishing and horses added another $474 million.

Rabies cases up sharply last year

Rabies cases continue to increase at an alarming rate in Texas.

Laboratory confirmed positive cases of rabies in Texas showed a 115 percent increase in 1979 over 1978, reveals Allen Turner, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The number of cases of rabid dogs took the biggest jump with an 811 percent increase. A total of 82 dogs were found rabid in 1979 compared to only 9 in 1978. More rabid skunks were confirmed than any other animal with 857 skunks reported rabid compared to 447 in 1978.

A large number of foxes, raccoons, horses, cattle, cats and bats also made the rabid list, Turner says. Reports so far for 1980 indicate the incidence of rabies in wild animals, especially the skunk, are still high.

The agent recommends the following steps when animals are exposed to rabies.

— Dogs and cats bitten by a known rabid animal should be destroyed immediately. If the owner is unwilling to have this done, the unvaccinated animal should be vaccinated immediately with a modified live virus vaccine against rabies and placed in strict isolation for six months. If the animal has a record of current vaccination, it should be revaccinated immediately and restrained for at least 60 days.

— Livestock bitten by rabid animals should be destroyed immediately. If the owner is unwilling to have this done, the animal should be placed in quarantine for six months.

VA provides dental care for POWs

Former prisoners of war who were held in captivity for six months or more are now eligible for any dental care deemed necessary by the Veterans Administration.

Also eligible are certain veterans whose service-connected disabilities are permanently rated at 100 percent.

Veterans who believe they may qualify for the expanded dental benefits should contact the VA health care facility nearest their place of residence for applications and assistance.

Dental treatment for former prisoners of war was previously limited to dental problems rated as service connected. The new legislation - Public Law 96-22 - distinguishes between former POWs held captive for less than six months, and those who were prisoners for six months or more.

Short term prisoners are presumed not to have suffered irreparable dental damage while those held prisoner for six months or more are considered to have suffered such damage.

For this reason they are now eligible for any dental care, as determined necessary by VA, on an unlimited treatment basis.

Under certain conditions, veterans living in localities remote from VA health care facilities may be authorized treatment by private dentists.

These additional groups are eligible for VA dental care:

- veterans with compensable service-connected dental conditions;
- veterans who apply within one year of discharge for treatment of service-incurred dental conditions;
- veterans with non-compensable service-connected dental conditions caused by trauma;
- those with service-connected medical conditions which are professionally determined by the VA to be aggravated by a dental condition;

rehabilitation programs; and - veterans of conflicts prior to World War I, whose dental conditions are presumed to have been service connected.

I have been a member in the First Baptist Church of Tuscola for 31 years, the Tuscola Lions Club, the National Rifle Association, American Legion, VFW, the booster club, and the Marine Corps Aviators Association.

My professional experience in the courtroom has given me countless opportunities to make individual choices, individual judgments, and individual decisions. I can and will perform the duties of a Justice of the Peace without having to be partial, without bias and without prejudice. My experience has provided me with an insight that comes only from the proper kind of decision-making.

My responsibilities are to perform the duties and responsibilities to the best of my ability in accordance with the directives and guidelines assigned. To make sound and intelligent decisions based on fact. In addition to my regular duties and responsibilities, I have experiences and knowledge as might be requested by anyone who is ready to meet a challenge. This is to try to inspire everyone that I might come in contact with in the performance of my duties and responsibilities as Justice of the Peace, Precinct 3.

I will occupy the office on a fulltime basis, and make myself available, so when I am needed I can be reached.

I will give the office a permanent professional image by giving the maximum attention possible to these duties.

I have the capacity to function as a Justice of the Peace capable in all respects to be your Justice of the Peace.

I wish to assure each of you, the voters, I am confident I can be effective as a Justice of the Peace. I am asking each of you, the voters, to vote for me. Vote for me because you believe I can do the best job; vote for me because you want impartiality in the office; vote for me because you want the most qualified person for the job; vote for me because you can trust me. You have my confidence, my gratitude, my dedication and my loyalty. I am proud of this opportunity to be the Justice of the Peace. Thank you very much.

I am, yours truly,

Children most likely to be poisoned

Poisoning is a medical emergency that can strike all ages and all social, ethnic and economic groups. But its primary victims are children under five years of age. More two-year-olds are poisoned than any other age group.

If you have children of that age, if you are visited even once a year by friends or relatives with young children, you owe it to them to poison-proof your home. Now is the time. Here's what you can do:

Keep all potential poisons out of children's reach. Lock medicine chests and household storage cabinets. Never store a dangerous product in a pop bottle, a cup or any other container usually used for food or drink.

Always put aspirin and other medications back in their normal storage areas after each use. And don't rely on "childproof" lids. They slow down most children, but they aren't foolproof.

Nothing is foolproof, in fact. No matter how safe you may have made your home, you should still know what to do if the worst happens. Here's what the Texas Department of Health recommends you do when you think a child has swallowed something unsafe.

Be sure the child is breathing. (Mouth-to-mouth breathing or cardiopulmonary resuscitation might be necessary if the child is unconscious.)

Call your physician or poison control center. If you don't know the number you would call, find it now. Keep it near your telephone.

Do exactly as you are told. If you must make the child vomit, the best thing you can use is syrup of ipecac. But never give ipecac unless it's called for. For some poisons, it would only make things worse.

Stay as calm as you can, and keep the poison container with you. The doctor or poison control center can recommend treatment only if they know what poison to treat.

The 26-Week Money Market Certificate

Put in $10,000, and get back
$10,601

26-week return reflects interest earned on $10,000 principal and accumulated interest for 26 weeks at current rate.

Current rate of 11.892% yields 12.421%*

Staying ahead financially has always been a race. But the 80's present new, tougher challenges.

At First Texas Savings, we have ways to beat the 80's. Like our 26-Week Money Market Certificate. It offers the maximum rate allowed by law for maximum yields on amounts from $10,000. Rates for new certificates are set weekly and are good for the entire term.

Sure, our 26-Week Money Market Certificate is a good investment, but it's also a no-risk investment. Your money is insured up to $100,000 by a federal agency. And your deposit is backed by First Texas' over 1.6 billion dollars in assets.

Best of all, at First Texas Savings, your money is always available. Penalty on early withdrawal is maximum of 3 months' interest only on the amount withdrawn. And as a convenient reminder, you will be automatically notified prior to renewal.

Also ask about our 2 1/2-Year Money Market Certificate.

So, before you put your money anywhere, remember: Others may keep you even in the 80's, but First Texas Savings will keep you ahead.

Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest on 26-Week Money Market Certificates. Annual yield assumes reinvestment of principal and interest at maturity at the same annual interest rate. However, the annual interest rate is subject to, and likely to, change at maturity.

Head in clouds

A woman student at the University of Texas has reason to have her head in the clouds.

Charlotte Smith is one of 10 women in the nation accepted for jet pilot training in the U.S. Air Force. A physics major, she is a cadet in the UT Austin Air Force ROTC, where she is deputy commander of the John H. Payne Squadron.

It is no coincidence that she is interested in flying. Her father is a career Air Force pilot. She hopes eventually to become a flight instructor. Under Air Force rules, she is barred from flying combat missions.

'Runnels Pageant' at Ballinger

The "Runnels Pageant," covering the first century of county organization, will be held in the Ballinger High School auditorium Thursday, May 1, at 8 p. m.

The all-county pageant, sponsored by the Runnels County Historical Commission and directed by Mrs. A. T. Granzin of Miles, will be free to the public.

The Senior Citizen String Band of Ballinger and Winters will open the show. Posting of the colors by the National Guard unit of Ballinger and a welcome by Mrs. Granzin will follow. Mrs. E. H. Boelshe will present a brief description of the countryside before 1880.

The years from 1880 to 1900 will be depicted by Miles. The cast will tell something about the pioneers, and will sing "Wagon Wheels." The coming of the train and the founding of the churches will be presented, and there will be a skit about the first saloon.

Rowena's period from 1900-1920 will feature polka dancing and period wedding dresses. The decade from 1920-1930 will be reviewed by Wingate, and will include the days when "Cotton was King," and the bank was robbed at Wingate.

The years from 1930-1940 are to be outlined by Olfen, and will feature agriculture. Crews will take the next decade when World War II was in progress. This will be in memory of the 56 young men who gave their lives for their country. Other highlights will be mentioned. Norton will include Marie and Maverick in their period of 1950-1960.

The decade from 1960 to 1970 will be directed by David Evans, speech teacher, and presented by Winters High School students.

The period includes the organization of the Historical Commission and Winters' Diamond Jubilee Celebration. Special numbers will include the song, "Hats off to Texas," by Pam Connor, and a duet by Gloria Isaacs and Tancy Layton.

Ballinger will conclude the pageant by presenting the last ten years, including the building of the new Ballinger high school, and featuring the Ballinger High School Band. The Ballinger Bicentennial and the Festival of Ethnic Cultures and arts and crafts will also be described with special features. Two numbers from the Community Choir will climax the presentation.

Souvenir booklets of recorded historic spots in the county and printed programs will be presented those who attend.

School seeks names of first year students

Names and birth dates of all kindergarten and first grade pupils who are eligible to enroll in the Winters Public School for the 1980-81 school year are being sought by the school administration, so that class scheduling may be done. Primary and Elementary School principal George Beard has announced.

Beard said all pupils in kindergarten this year are pre-registered for first grade for the next school year. Information is needed on children who will be in the Winters system for the first time next fall.

First grade children must be six years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1980. Kindergarten children must be five years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1980, Beard said.

Kindergarteners will attend class on a full day schedule all year, the principal said.

Parents or guardians are asked to call the office of the school nurse, Mrs. Bonnie Hood, 754-4037, for an appointment time and date for a health information conference. Appointments will be scheduled in April and May. Enrollees must present birth certificates and proof of required immunization.

Domino tourney planned during 90th celebration

An open domino tournament will be one of the activities scheduled during Winters' 90th Birthday Celebration, May 23-24.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the tournament, to be held Saturday, May 24, under the trees at the City Park.

The tournament will be for "regular" dominoes, and players must enter as teams. Entry fee will be $2.50 per player, and entries must be made by Friday, May 16. Each game will be for 250 points. Prizes will be presented for the first three places.

Area farmers invited to attend Area IV Field Day April 25

All area farmers have been invited to attend the Area IV Young Farmers Field Day and Tour at Chillicothe, Friday, April 25. The tour will begin at 9:30 a. m. and will include wheat demonstrations and cotton experiments at the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Those individuals who would like to ride the bus from Winters, may contact the Winters Vo-ag building, 754-4854, and meet at that building at 6 a. m. Friday. Lunch will be provided by the Chillicothe Young Farmers Chapter, and the bus will arrive back in Winters about 8 p. m.

Transfer students in local school must register in May

May is "transfer month" in the Winters schools for students who do not live in the Winters Independent School District, and who desire to attend the Winters schools next year, school officials have announced.

All students who live outside the district, and who wish to attend the Winters schools, must complete transfer forms during May. Forms have been sent to transfer students already in the Winters schools. Extra forms are available at the School Business Office.

Allow free dumping Saturday

Residents who are joining in the voluntary efforts to clean up the community may dump the trash they collect at the city's landfill facility southwest of town without extra charge Saturday.

Normally the landfill facility is closed to the general public, and a charge is made for individual use. This one free day will allow residents to haul their trash away and not have to wait until it is picked up by the city Sanitation Dept. on the regular schedule.

According to Chamber of Commerce officers and city officials, no organized cleanup campaign has been planned for this spring. Instead, the chamber and the city are encouraging residents to make individual efforts to clean up their own areas. The week of April 20-26 has been designated as "Clean Sweep Week" in Winters.
