Primary Elections Saturday, May 1

VFW Convention

Dignitaries at the Veterans of Foreign Wars District 22 Convention, held in Winters this past weekend at the Winters Post 9193 were District 22 Commander Alfred Multer; State Junior Vice Commander Emmitt Stelzer; VFW Ladies Auxiliary State President, Louise Golden; and District 22 Auxiliary President, Mary Kurtz.

Saturday is election day across the State of Texas, voters in both the Democratic and Republican parties will be conducting their primary elections to pick the nominees who will represent their party on the General Election ballot in November.

In Runnels County there are a number of contested elections on the county level as well as statewide and national. You have heard on the radio, seen on television, or read in a newspaper many times messages urging you to vote...well here it is again.

Regardless of one's particular party affiliation or preference, support of an individual candidate, or what ever reason to vote one way or the other, it is incumbent on each and every eligible voter to go to the polls and cast his or her own ballot. Voting is the heritage of the American People, it is their duty, privilege, and their right.

Over the years the right to vote has spread to virtually every American, from America's independence to Women's Suffrage, to crossing racial and ethnic barriers of the past. It is part of being an American Citizen.

Whether you vote for someone or against them, your vote counts. If you don't vote it doesn't count.

So vote as you please, but please vote in the Primary Election Saturday. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on election day.

If, after the election is over and you did not vote, you did not like the outcome, sorry about that. If you don't vote, don't gripe.

(You can find sample ballots and a complete summary of the Primary Elections elsewhere in this issue.)

See you at the polls Saturday.

Winters VFW hosts District 22 Spring Convention

The Winters Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9193 and the Ladies Auxiliary hosted the Spring Convention of District 22 April 24 and April 25.

The convention started with a get-together and supper Saturday night. The Post Home was decorated with gold streamers and "Buddy Poppies", with a large "Golden Key" hung in the assembly room in honor of the State President Louis Golden's special project, Medical Research Fellowships.

The project has been promoted through the year with the sale of Golden Key pins and other fund raising projects. Sunday morning, the activities were started with a Commander's Breakfast and registration.

A memorial service was held at the post with District Chaplains May Harris and Roy Rogers and other district officers participating. The Rev. Lawrence Keene of St. John's Lutheran Church of Winters delivered the message.

Winters Commander J.A. Henderson then opened the joint meeting with a welcome to all in attendance. District Voice of Democracy Chairman R.C. Kurtz introduced Nancy Gonzales of Winters, the District 22 Voice of Democracy winner, who presented the assembly with her speech.

Chairman Kurtz then presented Miss Gonzales with a $100 scholarship, a bracelet, with the 'VOD' charm, and a trophy to be presented also to Winters High School. This marks the third consecutive year that Winters has won first place in the Voice of Democracy competition.

The names of Brett Billups, the 1979 winner, Geoffrey Connor, the 1980 winner and Nancy Gonzales the 1981 were engraved on the trophy. Mary Kurtz, District Auxiliary Chairwoman for the Voice of Democracy program also presented Miss Gonzales with a $100 check from the Auxiliary along with best wishes for the future.

District Commander Alfred Multer then reported on his trip to Washington D.C. and thanked the members for helping him win the Charges filed in knifing incident

A disturbance early Friday at a mobil home near the hospital in south Winters left one man hospitalized in Abilene and another facing charges of assault.

Police Chief L.C. Foster said that he received a call early Friday to the residence and the report of a disturbance at that address. When he arrived, Foster said that a James Hollis came out of the residence holding his stomach and had blood on his hand and his shirt. Hollis reportedly told Foster that he had been stabbed.

Foster said that he transported Hollis from the residence to the hospital across Highway 53 by patrol car where the man was admitted and later transferred to Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene.

The police chief said that when he arrived at the residence he noted that there were vehicle tracks across the yard and that some type of vehicle had apparently driven through a chain link fence leaving the scene of the incident.

Another Winters man was taken into custody on preliminary charges of assault in connection with the incident.

Named in the charges is Ronnie Powers, who was released from the Runnels County Jail after posting $5,000 bond. The Winters Police Chief said that other charges may be filed in connection with the incident.

Tuesday morning James Hollis was said to be in satisfactory condition following surgery at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene.

Investigating officers said that Hollis received a severe knife wound to the abdomen in the affray that was believed to have started from a domestic argument.

Judge sets $100 fine for marijuana sale

Runnels County Judge Bill B. Stultz set the fine at $100 for 24-year-old Rocky Lynn Pilkington of Winters on a charge of sale of marijuana. Pilkington was also assessed an additional $76 in court costs.

Pilkington initially was indicted by a Runnels County Grand Jury on a felony charge of sale of marijuana but lab tests found that the actual amount of the weed was less than four ounces and the charge was reduced to a misdemeanor.

Sheriff's officers said that Pilkington was out of state when the charge was filed and he was not arrested until last week when he returned to Winters.

Winters Police Chief L.C. Foster and Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission D.J. Goetz took the man into custody last Wednesday after receiving information that he had returned to Winters.

Another Winters man who was indicted by that same Grand Jury is still facing felony charges of delivery of marijuana.

In both cases, undercover officers were said to have purchased the illegal substance from the men and that information led to the original indictments against the pair.

Historical Commission receives Texas DSA Award

The Runnels County Historical Commission has received the State of Texas Distinguished Service Award for outstanding accomplishments in the field of historical preservation. The commemorative plaque was presented during an awards banquet in Brenham, April 16. The banquet, part of the Texas Historical Commission's 1982 Historic Preservation Conference, was attended by some 200 delegates representing county historical commissions from around the state.

The Distinguished Service Award (DSA) is presented to those county historical commissions that have successfully carried out a program of specific goals and objectives during the previous year. Some of the goals established by the Texas Historical Commission for the 1981 award year were the initiation of a county oral history program, the involvement of young people in local preservation programs, the collection and conservation of photos and documents concerning local history, the establishment of an active downtown preservation and revitalization program, and the distribution of newsletters and other public information materials concerning community heritage conservation. Runnels County was among 28 counties winning the state DSA honor.

The Preservation Conference is cosponsored annually by the THC, the official state agency for Texas heritage conservation, and the Texas Historical Foundation. Working with a state network of 254 county historical commissions and some 350 nonprofit local and regional heritage groups, these organizations promote the identification, preservation, and appreciation of the vast historical and cultural resources of the Lone Star State. Those resources are embodied in archeological sites, museum collections, and historic buildings, landmarks, and districts. The Historic Preservation Conference is a yearly reunion of Texans interested in safeguarding these historical treasures in their own towns, counties, and state.

The THC also presented other competitive county awards during the conference, including "Best Program of Work," "Best County Chairman", and "Best Commission Member," and others.

The Texas Historical Commission's year-round educational and consulting programs include workshops, publications, professional consultation, and other public services in the fields of preservation, restoration, archeology, and museology. In addition, the THC is the Texas liaison with federal agencies on projects affecting historic sites.

Loyalty Day

The first of May is Loyalty Day and as such it is a day filled with activities designed to involve the community in an overt display of loyalty to flag and country. Therefore, every loyal citizen should eagerly participate in the festivities in an effort to make this Loyalty Day the best observance ever had.

Loyalty Day has become a tradition with the Veterans of Foreign Wars. With the passage of Public Law 85-529 on July 18, 1958, the V.F.W. won a long hard battle to have Loyalty Day approved by Congress. However, this day does not belong to the V.F.W. alone, it belongs to all Americans.

Most Americans have heard the quote "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country." This is a sound principle to live by in a country such as ours, where the government is elected by the people and where the public is expected to participate in the governing process.

In these times of global political turbulence, Americans should pause and ask themselves, "What have we done and what are we doing now to demonstrate to the world just how we feel about our country?" After all, ours is a country that has held high the beacon of liberty and asked nothing of the other nations except that they send to her, in the words of Emma Lazarus emblazoned on the Statue of Liberty, their "huddled masses yearning to breathe free." Ours is a country that has taken the abstract ideal of "Freedom and Justice for All" and made it into a way of life.

We must pledge ourselves to maintain a free society in which loyalty is always encouraged and respected. For, without loyalty the United States, the world's best hope for a future blest with freedom, cannot long survive. And, if we fail, the flame of freedom will diminish and fade forever. So, join in and become a part of the Loyalty Day Celebrations, let the world know that Americans are behind their country and that America because of this is still a strong vibrant nation.

Poe's Corner

BY CHARLIE POE

(Editor's note: This is the last in a three-part series on Charles Noyes, written by Mrs. Charlie Poe.)

The son, Charles was born in 1895 and spent his childhood on the Noyes ranch at Menard. During his early school days his life centered around the little Noyes school at Melvin. He had inherited his mother's cheerful, affable disposition, and even as a fifteen-year-old boy he had become favorably known throughout the ranching country.

On the edge of Concho County and adjoining the Noyes ranch stood a small community named Lightner. The large merchantile store, with a post office in the corner, served as the social center of the area.

The storekeeper's small daughter looked forward to the visits of the tall, handsome boy who usually came to the store mounted on his favorite horse. She recalled how well Charlie loved candy, especially gumdrops. He was always provided with plenty of spending money and usually bought the store's entire stock of gumdrops, and handed them out freely to everyone in sight. This caused him to become fondly known around Lightner as "Gumdrop Charlie".

When Charles became of high school age, his parents moved to Ballinger where he attended school and later went to business college in Abilene. When not in school he was his father's constant companion. If cattle were being sold it was difficult to decide who was more astute and the cleverer thinker, father or son.

The accident which resulted in Charles' death happened while driving calves through a gate on the Melvin ranch. Many versions of the accident are given, but old timers say that his horse ran under a tree limb and Charles' neck was broken. He was carried to the Brady hospital on Friday evening after the accident, and lived until Sunday morning, February 11, 1917.

For years after the accident, Noyes kept the boy's room at the ranch exactly as it was and stored his saddle, spurs, canteen and clothes there. Later the articles were moved to the adjoining closet and there they remained.

About 1920 Noyes and his wife gave up the idea of ever seeing Charles again. They leased the Melvin ranch to C. C. Ledbetter and Brady rancher, G. R. White, who were partners in the cow business. And the Noyes moved to another ranch he had bought in Orlando, Florida. In the swampy marsh lands of Florida, Noyes was trying to build a fence. He was 71 years old, and as the tide was coming in he was too strong-willed or too stubborn to quit until he finished the job. He got wet, took pneumonia and died January 30, 1923.

Gus Noyes body was shipped to Ft. Worth and remained there for several months during the Spring. Early newspaper clippings say Mrs. Noyes had been ill when her husband died and wasn't able to make the long trip to Texas. A longtime friend said that Mrs. Noyes didn't want to take Aileen out of school for the trip.

"And while the body was in Ft. Worth, the funeral home put it on public display in a store window," the friend recalled. "Mrs. Noyes was very angry when she found out. I don't know why they did it."

The body was embalmed, a procedure still relatively rare at that time, and it's possible that the funeral home was just proud of the mortician's work.

In June, Mrs. Noyes and Aileen returned to Texas and were met in Ft. Worth by her husband's brother, Judge E. L. Noyes of Kansas City and his daughter, Miss Cheney Noyes.

They then accompanied the body on the Frisco railroad to Brady, arriving on Saturday night. Sunday morning the body was taken by hearse to Melvin for the simple funeral ceremony on June 17, 1923. And Gus Noyes was laid to rest by his beloved Charlie in the Melvin Cemetery.

An item in the Brady Standard said this of the funeral: "The largest crowd that has ever been known to gather for funeral services paid their respect to Mr. Noyes."

Aileen was only sixteen years old when her father died. She and her mother remained at the Noyes ranch in Melvin for several months, visiting with friends. They continued to make trips back to Texas over the years, they always came by train. Mrs. Noyes never learned to drive a car and Aileen drove for her.

"Lula Noyes loved Texas," said a friend. "After all, she came from Georgia, and there wasn't a whole lot of difference between Georgia and Texas." Over the doorway of their home was a sign that said: TEXAS.

Sometime after her father's death Aileen was married to D. C. Middleton of Melvin, a popular and prominent citizen. But the marriage was opposed by Mrs. Noyes and they finally broke up. Friends say they were deeply in love and the lives of both were shattered.

"Mrs. Noyes came back from Florida and was going to take Aileen and her husband back with her," as the story is told.

"But she loaded Aileen and her bags in the car and they drove off, leaving the husband standing with his packed bags on the porch."

In Florida, Aileen met and married her second husband, Roy Miller, who sold real estate. While they

On a sodium-restricted diet? and you wash off regular tuna so you can still eat it?

Washing regular canned tuna or other fish will NOT reduce the sodium content, says Mary K. Sweeten, a food and nutrition specialist.

On the other hand, buying dietetic pack tuna or salmon prepared without oil or salt WILL allow you to have those items without the sodium, she says.

were living together, her mother died and she was buried in Florida. When Aileen was asked about it she said, "It was Roy's idea."

One may wonder why Aileen allowed her husband to make her decision for her, but since the moment her brother died she led a sheltered and secluded life. Forceful parents made decisions for her. She was placed in a private school and was with her parents the remainder of the time. An observer said she stood at the gate and looked longingly after children passing on their way to school.

In her early womanhood Aileen was very attractive and loved pretty clothes. Money was no object, she could have anything she wanted. She enjoyed coming back to West Texas and Ballinger. The people were very gracious and entertained for her with bridge parties at the country club. But when her husband wanted her to help in his business by entertaining, she refused to go, saying that she had nothing to wear. After they split up, she returned to Texas to live.

Mrs. Miller lived for two years in Brownwood before going to San Angelo in 1963 where she lived in a retirement home operated by the Baptist Foundation and the Baptist Memorial's Geriatrics Hospital. It was thought that her illness was brought on by malnutrition, due to her desire to stay thin. She had been there about two years when she told the officials:

"You take care of me for the rest of my life — giving me the same good treatment you've been giving me — and I'll give you the ranch."

After Aileen, last heir to the ranch, died on December 5, 1979, the Baptists put the 16,500 acre ranch up for sale with a price tag of seven million dollars. Otha Fortson, a Melvin rancher was hired as manager and assisted in showing the ranch to prospective buyers. The historic ranch was sold in 1981 to Bob Gibson, a Fort Worth rancher.

Mrs. Noyes had left her share of the Noyes estate to her nieces and nephews, descendants of the Kitchens family of Menard. Some of them still operate portions of the Noyes ranch in Menard and Concho counties.

And now the final chapter in the life of Gus Noyes has been written, but down through the ages echos his sad refrain:

"Is death an eternal sleep, or will we meet again?"

Renting bulls good idea in Texas?

In Texas, renting a bull to settle cows is an alternative to owning one, though cattlemen need to consider numerous factors before making a decision either way.

Several factors exist favoring bull leasing for the producer, according to Dr. Ashley C. Lovell of Stephenville, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

These include the tax deductible rental charge, less investment capital needed, and less annual expense in feeding and caring for the bull.

"An important factor

Wool, mohair production increases

A 14 percent jump in wool production and a 10 percent jump in mohair production made 1981 a very good year for Texas sheep and goat ranchers. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

"This is the largest production of wool and mohair that Texas ranchers have had since 1977. The wool clip for 1981 totaled 20.9 million pounds as compared with the 18.3 million pounds clipped in 1980. Mohair production totaled 9.7 million pounds, a 900 pound increase over the 1980 production," Brown said.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reports that the number of sheep and lamb clipped during 1981 totaled 2.8 million head, a four percent increase over the number clipped in 1980.

Along with this increase in production, Texas ranchers also saw an increase in the average price per clip. In 1981, the average price per pound of wool was $1.20 as compared with the 97 cents per pound average for 1980. The total production value for the 1981 wool clip was $25,080,000, a 41 percent increase over total figures for 1980.

Mohair production in Texas increased ten percent between 1980 and 1981, according to figures from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The average clip per goat in 1981 was estimated at 7.6 pounds, a slight increase from 1980.

For smaller producers is that renting gives them a chance to use a better quality bull than they often could afford to own," says Lovell. "Also, by using a different bull each year, producers can keep heifers from each calf crop, and there is limited bull death risk." The economist states that acquiring a herd bull has short- and long-term consequences, and these must be weighed and individually considered before deciding whether to rent or own.

Long-term satisfaction to cow-calf producers from choosing bulls is measured by the performance of the progeny through future generations, he says. Bull costs per calf and pounds of beef weaned per cow are the short-term consequences from the bull selection that may determine if the producer can stay in business long enough to realize any long-term benefits.

"To achieve the economic advantage of lower annual feeding and maintenance costs, producers might need to keep a bull only three to four months a year, which is where renting would be the ideal answer," Lovell says. "For herds that calve all year, six-month to one-year leases are necessary."

In comparing figures for a three- to four-month bull leasing program, the economist notes that leasing a $2,125 bull is projected as less expensive per calf than owning a $750 bull.

In many cases, renting a high-performing bull for periods up to one year will be more economical than owning an average bull when rental costs, bull ownership costs and performance of offspring of the two bulls are observed and compared, Lovell adds.

Loss of Ag Weather Service could cost farmers, consumers

The Agricultural Weather Service, which has proved a valuable ally of farmers and ranchers in Texas as well as throughout the nation, is about to fall victim to proposed budget cuts.

Loss of the service could cost agricultural producers dearly at a time when they are already struggling for survival. And it could also add to the price consumers pay for food.

What's at stake is $1.2 million in the budget of the Department of Commerce which oversees the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the parent organization of the Agricultural Weather Service.

"When you consider all the good that the Agricultural Weather Service has done over the years, the budget reduction seems rather minute," says Dr. Michael Flynn, meteorologist in charge of the regional AWS unit at Texas A&M University.

"Avoidable type weather losses generally amount to about 6 percent of total farm production costs," estimates Flynn. "Our weather advisory program is worth some $100 million a year to Texas farmers alone if we assume a conservative 50 percent effectiveness."

The Texas A&M unit serves Oklahoma and New Mexico in addition to Texas. Similar operations are currently in place at Auburn University, Stoneville, Miss., and Purdue University.

"The Agricultural Weather Service is in the business of providing farmers and ranchers with seasonal weather information as well as up-to-the-minute information to help them make better day-to-day decisions regarding critical operations," explains Flynn.

For instance, soil temperature data are critical at planting time, he points out. Farmers that plant in soil that is too cold will likely get poor stands and have to replant, thus increasing their production costs.

Information on wind, evaporation, relative humidity and dew formation are critical to spraying, harvesting and other operations. If spray operations have to be repeated because of weather problems or if rain or other factors cause harvest losses, the farmer's costs go up.

Eventually, those increased costs show up at the supermarket in the form of higher priced or lower quality food products, says Flynn.

Particularly critical to Texas would be the loss of the fruit-frost program in the Rio Grande Valley, the degree day 50 program in the Rice Belt, soil temperature monitoring in all areas, and livestock and poultry weather alert services, notes the meteorologist.

"Alerting fruit growers in the Valley to impending cold weather is critical to their operations," says Flynn. "With sufficient warning, growers can take steps to prevent a considerable amount of frost and freeze damage."

In the Rice Belt, the degree day 50 program has helped rice farmers time mid-season fertilizer applications based on certain temperature levels to get optimum results and boost production.

"An excellent example of where timely weather information rescued farmers occurred in 1978 in the Coastal Bend area," points out Flynn. "It's estimated that farmers saved some $5 million by delaying spring planting of corn, grain sorghum and cotton because of low soil temperatures."

Not only will farmers and ranchers lose an ally if the Agricultural Weather Service is eliminated but many Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service programs will be jeopardized, says Flynn.

"Both the Experiment Station and the Extension Service rely heavily on Agricultural Weather Service data as a base for their programs," he points out. "Without such data the efficiency of many agricultural research and educational programs will be reduced."

For instance, the many computer models now being used by these agencies to predict populations and peak buildup periods of such damaging pests as pecan nut casebearers, alfalfa weevils, cotton bollworms and tobacco budworms, to name a few, rely heavily on accurate weather information, notes the meteorologist. Crop production models and pro-

G. Willis presented program for Fort Concho Water Utilities Assn.

George Willis, representing Neptune Meter Company, presented a program on various types of water meters and how to get better service from them at the regular monthly meeting of the Fort Concho Water Utilities Assn. at the Winters recreation building. The meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 15.

Willis compared compound meters with turbine meters, and talked about fire-hydrant meters, remote reading display for meters located in inaccessible places, electronic guns for recording meter readings on computer tape, and a new type to scan homes through television cable or telephone lines.

He also told of some cities that are financing their system with pro rata tapping fees instead of revenue bonds.

President Don Hannon of the San Angelo water department thanked the City of Winters for the meal and nice meeting place, and Jim Hamner, Winters water superintendent, introduced new city administrator Glenn Brown, and the ladies who prepared the meal. The May 20 meeting will be sponsored by Crockett Water Improvement District. The June 17 meeting will be at the new wastewater treatment plant at Sterling City, and the July 15 meeting will be family night at the Concho Bass Club at Lake Nasworthy.

Services were held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Winters Funeral with the Rev. Robert Sanchez of Nazarene Church of Ballinger and the Rev. Fred Thomas of First Baptist Church in Winters officiating. Burial was at Northview Cemetery.

Born Ruby Shults Jan. 29, 1914, in Tishomingo, Okla., she moved to the Lubbock area in 1927 and to Winters the next year. She married J. M. (Pud) Cooke Sept. 2, 1930, in Ballinger. She was a baptist.

"Shampoo" comes from the Hindu word shampu, meaning "to press." A good shampoo involves pressing the fingers against the scalp so the original meaning still applies.

Cemetery work planned May 1

There will be a work day at Midway Cemetery on Saturday morning, May 1. The cemetery is located south of Goldsboro.

Everyone is urged to bring tools and attend this work day. Donations may be made to: Cemetery Fund, Frank Armour, Rt. 1, Novice, Tx. 79538.

T. W. Norman died Monday in nursing home

Thomas W. Norman, 62, died at 4:30 a.m. Monday at the Senior Citizens Nursing Home, after an illness of several weeks.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Winters Memorial Chapel with the Rev. C. D. Walker, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, officiating. Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery under the direction of Winters Funeral Home.

Born at Blanchard on May 14, 1919, he attended school there. At the outbreak of World War II he moved to San Diego, Calif., where he worked in an airplane factory until entering the Air Force in 1942. Following his discharge in 1945, he moved to Liberty where he married the former Ruby Brown on July 22, 1942, and where he lived until 1950 when he moved to Winters. He worked for the City of Winters in the city light plant and later in the water department until his retirement in 1979.

He was a member of the Assembly of God Church.

He is survived by his wife of forty years; three sons, Kenneth Norman of Tuscola, Arnold Norman of Sonora, and Troy Norman of La Grange; one daughter, Mrs. Jimmy (Dorothy) Moore of Johnson City; his mother, Mrs. Florence Smith of Anahuac; and eight grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Fred Mabry, Bill Ivey, Neal Chambliss, Johnny Plumly, Tommy Chambliss, and Bobby Staggs.

Mothers and Babies

LITTLE-KNOWN FACTS

There is an increasing realization that human milk from a healthy, well-nourished mother, or formula patterned on human milk, can provide complete nutrition for the first four to six months of life.

Today, doctors are advising mothers to delay the introduction of solid foods until the fourth to sixth month. By mid-infancy, the child has achieved a level of development to consume and digest foods other than human milk or formula, and to absorb and metabolize them.

Most pediatric nutritionists agree that cow's milk — whole, reduced-fat or skim — is not appropriate food for the young infant. It contains insufficient amounts of iron, vitamin C and copper, while it provides too much hard-to-digest protein, phosphorus and sodium for the infant.

Pediatricians agree almost universally that human milk is the best food for the first year of life. If a mother does not choose to breast-feed, one of the commercial infant formulas, developed to be nutritionally comparable to human milk is the best alternative. These formulas were originally developed in response to physicians' stated need for adequate substitutes when human milk is not available. They must undergo rigorous quality control procedures before they are marketed to assure their nutritional quality.

Specialized formulas have also been developed which can provide for the nutritional needs of infants who suffer from allergies, malabsorption difficulties or specific metabolic errors. Since the food a young baby consumes during its first four or five months is critical to optimum growth and development later on, parents are urged to discuss their baby's food with the pediatrician in order to make a wise choice.

Martha and I regret that we have not been able to meet more of you personally, but the necessity of making a living continues even during a political campaign.

I will have to use this admittedly poor way to communicate to you my desire to be your next State Representative. If elected, I pledge to be available to ALL the people of the District to listen and work toward solutions to problems of the people of the District.

I sincerely believe, and represent to you, that I am the best qualified candidate for the office, and Martha and I earnestly solicit your vote and support on May 1st.

It's Strawberry Time!

While those mouth-watering, ripe, red berries are in season, it's time to make some delicious desserts. There are, of course, those traditional favorites like strawberries and cream or strawberries, brown sugar and sour cream. And then there's that invention of the American colonists, strawberry shortcake. But for a new idea, try this delicious and attractive Deluxe Strawberry Dessert. It's a do-ahead idea that is kept in the refrigerator until time to serve.

The rich, buttery crust is easy to make by blending Bisquick® baking mix, sugar and margarine. There's no messy dough to roll out. Just press the mixture into a round pan or pie plate. Top with a custard-like mixture of sugar, egg yolks and sour cream spiced with nutmeg. Crown with strawberry halves and a glaze of mashed strawberries. It's a glistening jewel of a dessert.

DELUXE STRAWBERRY DESSERT

|----------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 2 cups Bisquick baking mix | 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 2 egg yolks |
| 1/4 cup firm margarine or butter | 1 cup dairy sour cream |
| 1/3 cup sugar | Strawberry Glacé (below) |
| | 1 1/2 cups strawberry halves |

Heat oven to 375°. Mix baking mix and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in margarine. Pat in round pan, 9x1 1/2 inches, or pie plate, 9x1 1/4 inches. Bake 10 minutes. Mix 1/3 cup sugar, the nutmeg, yolks and sour cream; spread over hot layer. Bake 20 minutes; cool completely.

Prepare glacé: cool slightly. Arrange strawberries on layer. Spread glacé over strawberries. Refrigerate remaining dessert. 12 servings.

Strawberry Glacé: Mash 1/2 cup strawberries. Mix 1/4 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch in 1 1/2-quart saucepan. Gradually stir in 1/4 cup water and the strawberries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Stir in few drops red food color if desired.

Cycling provides enjoyable outing, improves health

It's a glorious time of the year! Why not get out your bike and leave that stuffy car in the garage for the weekend? What better way to enjoy the newly budded trees and wildflowers than by getting out in the open air and cycling. After all, springtime is bike time.

Not only can cycling provide an enjoyable family outing, but regular biking also can improve your health, says the Texas Medical Association. Good cycling workouts can help protect you from heart and circulation problems. The rhythmic leg movements involved in cycling squeeze the blood vessels and pump blood more efficiently from the arms and legs to the heart. An additional system of blood vessels is also built, creating a back up system to the blood vessels which could save your life when your heart is under stress.

However, like any other active exercise, don't overdo it. Start off slowly and gradually build up your endurance. And don't forget to be safety conscious. Bicycles are the number one cause of recreational injuries in the United States. And anniversary supper Sunday night in the Winters hall. We welcome Beverly Cooke and Robert Von Zandt who have moved from San Angelo to our community this week. They have two children, Corey, 3, and Brad, 1.

They are making their home in Arthur Acosta's earlier home. We hope you like our community, folks. Kat and Adline were in San Angelo Friday for their annual checkup with their doctor.

the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) ranks bicycles as the second leading cause of product-related injuries last year. In 1980 an estimated 514,000 accidents occurred involving bicycles or bicycle accessories.

In part, this high rate of injury is reflecting the large number of people of all ages who ride bikes. But CPSC notes that there are accident patterns associated with bicycle accidents, and there is a lot that you can do to avoid them.

Be sure that your bike is in good mechanical condition before you go for a ride. Check the brakes and make sure the wheels are not loose or wobbly. Also check for looseness in the steering mechanism, difficulty in shifting gears and pedals falling off.

Loss of control of the bicycle occurs primarily because of riding too large a bike or riding double on banana seats, rear fenders, handlebars or the top bar on a man's bike. Don't be tempted to perform stunts — you may be doing them in a hospital bed.

Beware of entangling your feet, hands or clothing in the bicycle. Be sure to wear appropriate clothing when bicycling. Avoid wearing anything that dangles. It can get caught in the bike.

While you are cycling, make sure that your foot doesn't slip from the pedal. This is one of the major causes of bicycle accidents.

One of the most serious types of accident situations is collision with a car or another bicycle. This can often be prevented if cyclists would stick to safety regulations. Besides obeying traffic laws and remembering to ride defensively, a cyclist should walk, not ride, the bicycle across busy intersections. Signal well before making a turn so that both hands will be on the handlebars while turning. Never ride on dangerous rain-slicked streets. Always ride single file. Never tailgate the rider in front. Never ride under the influence of alcohol or tranquilizers. Take bike riding as seriously as you do driving a car and you will have even more fun.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

You may be able to get more for your money — if, believe it or not, you watch more television.

A television show aptly called MONEYWORKS tries to help different people handle different financial problems.

Early Americans used white shells called wampum for money.

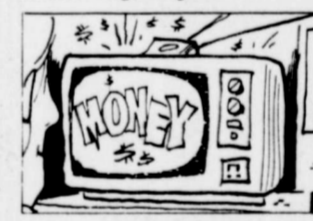

Its guests include financial newsmakers, business and government leaders, publishers and economists. Recent programs have featured U.S. Senators Proxmire and D'Amato and the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, John Leshner.

The show, underwritten by Integrated Resources Inc., a financial service company, is shown on over 500 cable television stations in 44 states. It's generally shown Mondays at 8:30 p.m. Eastern-time, but check your local listings for time and place.

WANGY THAT!

Money was a weighty matter back in ancient days. In fact, some of the early common coins were named for their weights — such as the Anglo-Saxon mark, which later became known as the English pound.

How money works today is a far more complicated matter. With this in mind, a new weekly cable television talk show, MONEYWORKS, provides the average family with access to sophisticated, yet understandable economic news. The show, underwritten by Integrated Resources, Inc., is shown on more than 500 cable systems in 44 states. It's broadcast 8:30 p.m. Eastern time on Monday, 1:30 Eastern time, Saturday, 7:30 a.m. Eastern time Wednesday.

CRIME STOPPERS

For an enterprising thief, Texas' oilfields offer endless opportunity. Thirty to fifty million dollars worth of oilfield equipment was stolen in Texas last year. These losses are pushing the cost of pumping oil sky high, and that affects each of us.

The drilling boom in Texas has created a demand for materials which are hard to come by. Any tool, large or small, can catch the eye of a thief, as it represents a pocket full of money. This problem is running rampant in Texas and is hard to detect. Items are often taken to another state where they are stripped of serial numbers, given a fresh coat of paint and resold, sometimes back to the original owners.

The industry is fighting back with rewards, recovery systems and better identification methods. Governor

Clements and the Texas Legislature have implemented new laws to stop the growing crime wave in the oil patch — but they can't do it alone.

For the month of May, 1982, the Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" program on oilfield theft. Any citizen having information about oilfield theft is asked to call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of oilfield thieves. Citizens do not have to reveal their name, just their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Let's get these people out of our society! Call 1-800-252-TIPS today to help stop oilfield theft in Texas.

"Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon rescheduled

The "Wheels for Life" Bike-a-thon, sponsored by St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, and originally set for April 24 was rescheduled due to inclement weather. The bike-a-thon, to raise money for the study of childhood cancer, will begin at 9 a.m. May 1. Riders should meet at the tennis courts in Winters, where they will receive a lap card which will be initialed at each check point.

Several local merchants have pledged prizes to those who raise the most money, and to those who ride the most miles.

Women's roles in medicine have expanded recently and promise more rapid growth in the future, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist.

County scales check show good accuracy rate

Runnels County people can count on getting their money's worth in weight through the year if the products are weighed on local scales or gas pumps, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.

In the county there are 268 weighing devices of different types, ranging from 129 fuel pumps to 95 supermarket scales.

"Our Department regularly checks the commercial scales in the county and has found that they conform to our previous surveys across the state. Of those that were above or below tolerance, not many scales were off by significant amounts. Also, as many were giving the customer too much of the product as were giving too little. Because of frequent checks, scales are not out of calibration very long," Brown said.

"Business owners are glad to see us come in because as often as not, they have been losing money if their scales were not accurate," Brown said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has inspectors assigned to every county. They are trained to check all different types of scales — from those for medicines in a

Successful Sanding

Removing Paint And Varnish As You Refinish Furniture

Removing those old paint coats is the first step to take towards refinishing your favorite furniture pieces. Whether you're sanding by hand or machine, it's good to keep these sanding tips in mind.

You'll remove those scratches and heavy coatings more quickly if you sand parallel with the wood grain in straight, smooth strokes.

When sanding into grooves, carvings and other sharp recesses, pull your abrasive sheet grain side up over a sharp edge. You'll be able to create the sandpaper without cracking it for greater flexibility.

It helps to use a sandpaper specifically designed for the sanding job. The white zinc stearate coating and aluminum oxide abrasive of North Paint and Varnish Removal Sandpaper resists clogging and provides fast cutting action on various sanding jobs. These range from light sanding of old paint to promote better adhesion of a new layer, to removing heavy coats of paint.

Your sandpaper will last you through many sanding jobs, and give you the best possible results if you use it over a rubber sanding block or straight edge wood block.

Umpires meeting scheduled

Winters boxers in Coleman tournament

Members of the Winters Boxing Club participated in the Coleman Boxing Tournament this past weekend. The Winters Club scored wins in the light-heavy weight division.

Winning for the Winters Club were Joe Escalona, who took a decision over Domingo Soto of Coleman and Monte Baker, who won a second place decision.

The Winters Boxing Club also attended another tournament earlier this month in San Angelo at the Southside Recreation Center. Those winning in that meet were: Phillip Esquivel, first; Joe Escalona, first; Robert Baker first; Monte Baker, first; Angel Ruiz, second; and Margarito Rocha, second.

In May, the Winters Boxing Club will be in the Abilene Tournament and fighters Joe Escalona, Robert Baker, and Monte Baker are expected to see action one more time. This will be the last meet for the season until fall when the boxing program will again be underway.

Boxing Coach Arthur Dela Rosa says that he hopes to have enough youngsters interested in boxing here to form a club that will not have to travel to Coleman to work out. Anyone wishing to help get the club started in Winters and to help purchase equipment for the training will be appreciated.

Dela Rosa expressed his appreciation to everyone from Winters who supported the local boxers and attended the tournaments.

The coach also expressed his thanks to the boys who participated in the meets and commended them for their sportmanship, achievements, and abilities.

The Burned-Out

The test of authentic faith is not measured by the number of church activities one does. It's good enough to hear the story, share its meaning and by God's grace do it. If you are anxious for that kind of freedom and still want to worship, give us a try.

Holiday Dessert Idea: Butterscotch 'n' Rice

- It's called Broiled Butterscotch Rice Pudding and it's an easy version of that old favorite done in a new flavor and topped off with a crunchy glaze of coconut, butter and sugar. The basic ingredient is penny-wise rice, a good bet any time of the year.
- BROILED BUTTERSCOTCH RICE PUDDING
- 1/2 cup uncooked rice
 - 1 cup water
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon maple extract
 - 1 package (3-3/4 ounces) butterscotch flavor pudding and pie filling
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 - TOPPING
 - 1/3 cup maple syrup or brown sugar
 - 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
 - 1 cup shredded coconut

Combine rice, water, salt and maple extract. Heat to boiling over high heat. Stir once. Cover, reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Blend pudding mix with milk and butter; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, for about 5 minutes. Fold in cooked rice. Spoon into an oven-proof serving dish or individual dishes and chill. When ready to serve, spread with mixture of topping ingredients and broil slowly until golden, 2 to 3 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Blackwell

The United Methodist Women of the Blackwell United Methodist Church met Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. Q. Spence with eleven members and one guest attending, and with Mrs. Spence as hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. T. J. Oden, with a prayer given by Mrs. Terry Barrett.

A business meeting was held, at which time plans were made for the Spring Revival, which will begin Sunday evening, April 25 and last thru Wednesday evening, April 28.

Sunday evening at 6 p.m. sandwiches, cookies and punch will be served by the ladies of the church, and each evening service will begin at 7 p.m.

A covered dish luncheon will be served in the fellowship hall of the church after the 7 p.m. service.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend these services.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Oden adjourned the meeting and turned to Mrs. Abe Lanier, who gave the program, "Jesus Christ Liberator", reading the story of verses from the Bible. She was assisted by each member.

Mrs. Lanier closed her program with prayer.

A refreshment plate was served by the hostess to Mmes. T. J. Oden, Ida Oden, Cecil Smith, Juanita McRorey, Margaret Stout, Savannah Thompson, John English, Lanier, Barrett, Mary Louise Alderman and her granddaughter, Carrie Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Habeck and children, Chandra and Jason, moved over the weekend to Sheffield, where Mr. Habeck will work on the John Rowden Ranch.

We will miss them, but we hope them the best on their new job. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gatlin and children, Brandy, Shelly and Jason helped them move and visited over the weekend, and like their new home very much.

The Women's Missionary Union of the Blackwell First Baptist Church met Thursday afternoon at the church with eight ladies attending and Mrs. E. K. Smith presided.

The scripture and calendar of prayer was read by Mrs. Olin Corley.

The prayer for the missionaries was given by Mrs. Eula Nabors.

The Bible study, "Baptist Women's Programs" was given by Mrs. Cecil Lewis Smith.

Dismissal prayer was voiced by Mrs. Ben Noble.

Attending were Mmes. Thelma Smith, Cecil Lewis, Corley, Nabors, Noble, Gordon Montgomery, Willie Burwick and Kinard.

Mrs. Becky Bowen was dismissed from Hendricks Memorial Hospital in Abilene Tuesday, April 17 and came to her home in Blackwell. But, since she had to go to Sweetwater every day for therapy treatments, and it tired her so much, her mother came for her last Sunday and took her to her home in Sweetwater. We hope she has a quick recovery.

Scotty and Stacy Smith and a friend from Lubbock visited Thursday through Monday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jeffcoat, other relatives and friends.

Johnny Chew and son, Jody, visited last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Chew and others.

Blackwell had a thunderstorm Wednesday night, with lots of thunder, lightning and high winds, but no hail, and received as much as an inch of rain in some places.

In the late 1500s, perfumed gloves were much prized and it was the fashion to give them away at weddings.

"Let's Get Physical"

REPORT FROM SECRETARY OF STATE DAVID A. DEAN

Elections Update

Election Year 1982 will be a very interesting and important time. Texas' primary elections will be hotly contested and more head-on confrontations in the general election will be seen than ever before. The debates among the various candidates are healthy and productive as the more dialogue and conversation among the candidates only serves to better inform the electorate—and a better informed electorate will make wiser and more intelligent voting decisions.

The Secretary of State's Office is engaged in several elections projects which directly impact Texas voters. As the State's Chief Election Officer, my Office is fully committed to ensuring that each person eligible to register and vote be afforded full opportunity to exercise this most sacred right. We have a long way to go—as of November, 1981, there were approximately 6.6 million registered voters in Texas out of an eligible 9.9 million. That means only two-thirds of those who could be registered are in fact registered. My Office recently concluded a massive voter registration drive on April 1, 1982—the deadline for Texans to register and vote in the May 1 primary elections. We received widespread support statewide and while we are currently in the process of determining the impact of our voter registration effort, I have no doubt we were successful in registering a significant portion of the State's eligible voters. The voter registration drive will be repeated in the Fall of 1982 prior to the November General Election.

Hand in hand with a voter registration drive must be a ballot integrity program. The right to vote must be protected throughout the election process and safeguarding the integrity of the election ballot rests with the Secretary of State. The program designed by my Office for use in the upcoming elections will assist political parties, candidates, and election officials by ensuring that qualified voters vote and their votes are properly counted and reported.

Based on the facts that only 12.2 percent of the State's eligible voters participated in the November 3, 1981 Constitutional Amendment Election, at an estimated cost of 2.5 million to state and local governments, or some $3.00 per vote cast, a study was commissioned following the election to provide insight as to why an alarming 87.8 percent of the electorate were not motivated to vote. The study's findings suggest that: (1) additional efforts to educate Texas citizens on proposed amendments may be needed; (2) amendments should be incorporated on the general election ballot only when issues of "state" and "local" interest are present; and (3) the number of amendments presented in an election should be limited. Similar election analyses will be conducted following the 1982 primary and general election.

A recent survey by my Office projects that an unusually low percentage of registered voters will vote in the May 1 primary elections. The statewide voter turnout is expected to be 29 percent of the State's registered voters or some 1.9 million voters—24 percent in the Democratic Primary and five percent in the Republican Primary. The low voter turnout projection indicates that voters are waiting until the November General Election to vote because voting in our primaries no longer determines the outcome of the general election.

1982 will no doubt be a high water mark for Texas politics and I encourage each eligible voter to exercise his most precious right to vote in the upcoming elections.

Effects of alcohol on stress and occupation

Alcoholism — a destructive form of stress control and a menace to the work industry.

An estimated 10 percent of adults in the United States have a drinking problem. Twenty percent of all purchasers consume 80 percent of total alcohol sold, reports Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist.

Consequently, alcoholism costs the job industry approximately $40 billion annually, she points out. High costs are the result of the impact alcoholics have on co-workers, in addition to increased absenteeism and losses in productivity, she notes.

One of every four families reports that drinking interferes with homelife as well as occupation. More cases are cited in high-income families than in low-income ones, the specialist reports.

Symptoms of alcoholism usually appear in the home after four years of drinking, but don't show up in the work-place for another seven years, Shirer warns.

Alcoholics drink to "tune out" self-doubt and ease challenging work pressures, which are both possible sources of stress, she explains.

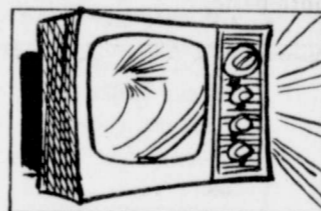

In order to relieve these stress pressures, supervisors and co-workers should assume the responsibility of helping the alcoholic, the specialist urges.

Co-workers should not ignore the fact that the person has an alcohol problem or cover up for his behavior, she advises.

To prove to the individual he has a problem and needs assistance, Shirer recommends that supervisors record unacceptable habits, such as continuous absenteeism, long lunch hours and drinking on the job.

From this point, the "team approach" should be used to help terminate the problem, she urges. The team consists of supervisors, employee-assistance programs and community services.

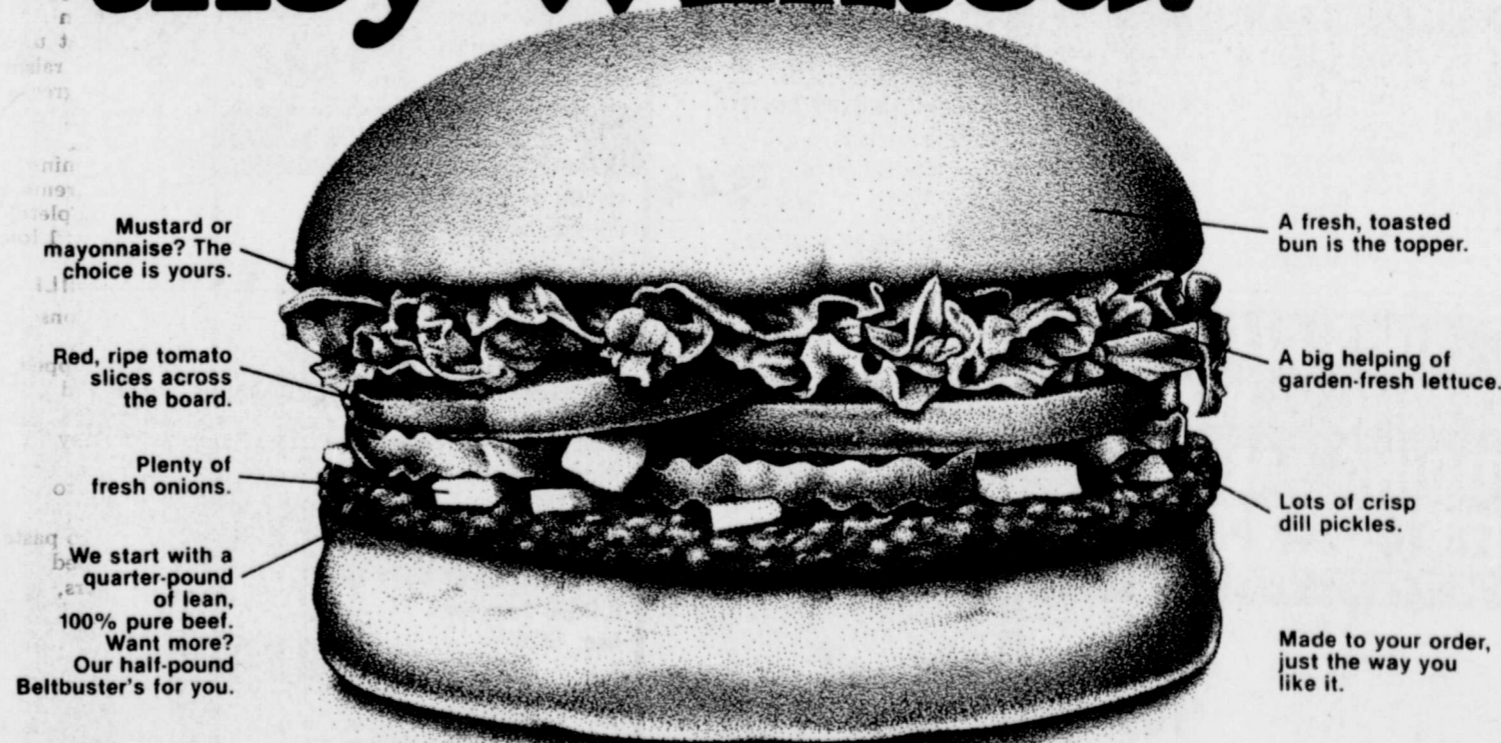

Shirer is with the home economics staff of the Texas Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A prototype television was invented in the 1890s by an Austrian named Szczepanik.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

Among the advantages of being a syndicated newspaper columnist is receiving firsthand information concerning every subject from local to national and international affairs. Such an opportunity came my way a few days ago when I had breakfast with Congressman Tom Loeffler.

Main top of conversation was the financial situation nationwide and the balancing of the federal budget. Loeffler believes the federal budget balance will come by the end of this decade providing President Reagan and U.S. House Speaker Thomas O'Neill can agree to work together.

Loeffler said he was using figures from the Congressional Budget Office rather than Office of Management and Budget figures "because last year's OMB estimates were not projected out well."

CBO projections, he said, estimate a $170 billion to $180 billion deficit for Fiscal Year 1982-83, a $215 billion deficit for FY 1983-84 and a $250 billion deficit for FY 1984-85.

"It is a challenge that will take good faith, credibility on the part of both Republican and Democratic members of Congress, perseverance and creativity to come up with new ways to fall within the general guidelines we need to bring about a balanced budget," he said.

However, he said, before congressional action can be geared toward budget-trimming, O'Neill, the Democratic leader, and President Reagan must agree to work together. If either one fails to make the move toward consensus, said Tom, "It is his party that will take the blame for failing to get our economic house in order for this decade."

Loeffler predicts that once the financial community notes "sincere movement" by Congress toward a balanced budget, interest rates will start to drop. That, of course, is what all of us in the business community are looking toward. However, the tax credits and tax incentives for businesses added in last year's tax package are not likely to be changed.

Some changes are likely in the structure of individual income taxes, in spending for national defense and in the social-service-directed entitlement programs. Loeffler says the changes in individual income taxes "are being called revenue enhancements, but we all know they are taxes."

Among individual income tax changes being considered are a proposal to leave the 10 percent tax cut but eliminate the indexing applied to successive income levels, a drop from the 10 percent cut to five percent or three percent next year, a surcharge on incomes over $40,000 or elimination of the 10 percent cut but retention of the indexing measure.

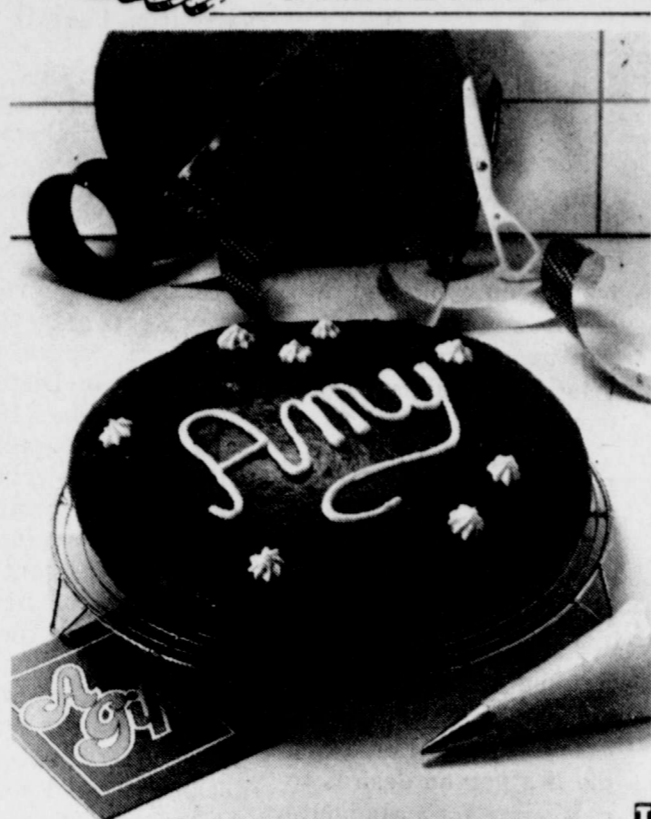

A major proposal for budget-cutting is a cut in the proposed $260 billion defense budget, the abolition of cost-of-living increases for military retirees, civil service retirees and Social Security beneficiaries.

Cost-of-living automatically increase with inflation — and thus add to federal spending — but, he said, as inflation is dampened, recipients will no longer be in a great need of increased benefits.

Entitlement programs — food stamps, welfare, medicare and medicaid — also increase automatically due to economic index growth and also must be cut back to achieve budget balancing, he said.

Defense spending, he said, can be reduced "and still increase the defense outlay over last year without jeopardizing security." From what little I know about it, nonetheless, I would venture to think Tom is right!

International Breads CARNIVAL LOAVES

This sweet moist egg-bread has a spicy anise twist in its flavor. The original Mexican recipe was adapted for American kitchens by Fleischmann's Yeast. What an original gift idea for house-warmings or special days!

CARNIVAL BREAD Makes 2 loaves

- 6 1/2 to 7 cups unsifted flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 1 teaspoon crushed anise seed
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup Fleischmann's Margarine
- 4 eggs (at room temperature)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon water

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 1/2 cups flour, sugar, orange rind, anise seed, salt and yeast.

Combine water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°F to 130°F). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of an electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs, vanilla and 1 cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a heavily floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Turn out onto a lightly floured board. Knead 1 to 2 minutes. Divide dough in half; shape each half into a smooth ball. Place on greased baking sheets and flatten each to a circle 10-inches in diameter. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled, about 40 minutes.

Make a 1/8-inch deep slash across the center of each loaf. Beat egg yolk with 1 teaspoon water; brush on loaves. Decorate each loaf with Writing Mixture (recipe below), squeezed through a pastry bag fitted with a 1/16 to 1/4-inch plain round tip. If desired, sprinkle outside edges of loaves with sesame seed. Bake at 350°F for 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from sheets and cool on wire racks.

Writing Mixture: Blend 1/2 cup softened margarine and 1/2 cup unsifted flour. Add enough water (about 1 tablespoon) to make a smooth paste.

Reagan Brown speaks before TPCA in San Angelo recently

Reagan V. Brown, Texas Agriculture Commissioner, stressed the need for experienced, effective and responsible leadership in government as he addressed several hundred farmers and ranchers attending the annual meeting of Texas Production Credit Association in San Angelo.

"Agriculture and our food system are complex enterprises," said Brown. "Their problems will not be solved overnight, nor will they be solved by turning back the clock. Plans for the future must be realistic and based on sound judgement."

Brown was instrumental in the passage of the Family Farm and Ranch Security Loan Program close to the hearts of this audience. He helped initiate integrated pest management programs to reduce production costs and the need for chemical pesticides. He announced the decision with Gov. Bill Clements to release $500,000 from his emergency fund to aid in the state's effort to control fire ants.

"The Federal Government has allotted $900,000 in the Texas eradication program," the Texas Hill Country, west of Fredericksburg. Brown spoke briefly about the upcoming primary and encouraged everyone to vote "not just for me, but for the future of agriculture. My opponent is a radical and against everything Texas agriculture stands for," he added. "Take a close look at this man Hightower. We can not let his kind get control of our machinery."

"Agriculture is America's single largest export, the most important inflation fighter, and the number one employer. I want to keep it that way," said Brown. "Experience and knowledge will make the difference for the future, and I have 32 years of it all the way back to county extension agent."

Brown received a standing ovation and endorsement from the 18-county membership of TPCA.

Insect scouting sign-up deadline

Acree sign-up for the 1982 Runnels-Tom Green Pest Management Program is now underway. Producers who would like to have their cotton or grain sorghum scouted for insects through the growing season should contact the County Entomologist, 3rd Floor, Courthouse, Ballinger, before May 4.

The scouting costs cover the scouts' wages and mileage allowance. Scouting will begin as soon as the crop is up and will continue until the hard-dough stage of grain sorghum and until mid-September in cotton.

For further information, call the County Entomologist, 365-5212.

Chocophiles take note! For gastronomic delight — three tantalizing recipes on a surprise menu of chocolate, chocolate and more chocolate.

The Aztecs discovered it. The Spanish improved it. And Mexicans add it to sauces for meat and poultry. Borrowing the best of all cultures, plan a menu around chocolate with three superb, if surprising, recipes.

Chocolate Fruit Soup: a refreshing blend of chilled fruit and rich semi-sweet chocolate whipped to epicurean perfection.

Chocolate Raisin Bread: for the hearty appetite and true chocolate lover, a natural blend of coarsely chopped nuts and raisins with a sweet touch of semi-sweet real chocolate.

Chocolate Chili: yes, chili — for the daring gourmet, hot 'n spicy with the subtlest hint of chocolate (so subtle it may even fool your taste-buds). Here are the kitchen-tested recipes from Nestlé.

CHOCOLATE RAISIN BREAD

One 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels, divided
 1 cup milk
 One 10-oz. pkg. frozen strawberries, drained
 1-1/4 cups heavy cream
 1/2 measuring teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/2 measuring teaspoon cinnamon
 Whipped cream (optional)

One 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels, divided
 6 measuring tablespoons butter
 2-1/2 cups unsifted flour
 1 measuring teaspoon baking powder
 1 measuring teaspoon baking soda
 1 measuring teaspoon salt
 1 egg
 1-1/2 cups milk
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 measuring teaspoon vanilla extract
 1 cup raisins
 1 cup coarsely chopped nuts

Place 1/2 cup (3-ozs.) Nestlé Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels in blender container, process at high speed about 15 seconds or until fine particles are formed; set aside. Combine over hot (not boiling) water, hot (not boiling) water, Nestlé Semi-Sweet Real Chocolate Morsels and butter; stir until morsels melt and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat; set aside. In small bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; set aside. In large bowl, beat egg, milk, sugar and vanilla extract. Add chocolate mixture. Gradually stir in flour mixture by hand just until moistened. Stir in raisins and nuts. Pour into greased 9" x 5" x 3" loaf pan. BAKE AT: 350°F.

TIME: 65-70 minutes
 Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely. Makes: 1 loaf

CHOCOLATE CHILI

2 measuring tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 medium onion, chopped
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 1 pound ground beef
 1 16-ounce can kidney beans, drained
 1 16-ounce can tomato puree
 1 16-ounce can tomato paste
 1 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers, seeded and drained
 1/2 cup water
 2 envelopes (2 ounces) Nestlé Choco-bake, divided
 2 measuring tablespoons chili powder
 1 measuring tablespoon beef-flavored instant bouillon

Heat oil in a large skillet; add onion and garlic and sauté until tender. Add ground beef; cook over medium heat until meat is evenly browned. Drain off excess fat. Stir in beans, tomato puree, tomato paste, chili peppers, water, 1 envelope Nestlé Choco-bake, chili powder and bouillon; mix well. Simmer uncovered 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in remaining Nestlé Choco-bake and corn chips or over hot rice. Makes: 4 to 6 servings.

VOTE LEE HANEY MAY 1-DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

PL. Pol. Ad. Lee Haney, 311 N. Center, Blvd., Tx.

A preview of the May primaries

Runnels County voters along with voters all across the state will be going to the polls Saturday for the May Primary Elections. Primary elections are being held in Runnels County for both the Democratic and Republican parties.

On the Democratic ballot there are a number of county races that are drawing a considerable amount of attention. In the race for the office of County Judge for Runnels County, incumbent Bill Stultz is opposed by political newcomer Michael Murchison.

A two-man race developed before the filing deadline for the post of County Attorney. Candidates in that race are E.C. (Judge) Grindstaff, a long time political figure in the county and a new face on the political scene, Kendal Granzin. Both men are seeking to fill the unexpired term in that office that was left with the resignation of John McGregor last year. Grindstaff was appointed by the Commissioners Court to fill the post until the election and Granzin is actively entering politics for the first time after serving as legislative aid to State Representative Dick Burnett of San Angelo.

Four women are seeking the office of Runnels County District Clerk. Joe C. Kreager, Mrs. Loretta Michalewicz, Dorothy (Dottie) Smith, and Sarah Craig are on the ballot for the office being vacated at the end of this term by long-time district clerk Myrt Jobe who is retiring.

Only one person is seeking the office of County Clerk of Runnels County, Linda Bruchmiller, who has served as chief deputy in that office for over 13 years. Frankie Berryman has held the position of county clerk for over 30 years and is retiring on May 1. The Runnels County Commissioners Court has indicated that Mrs. Bruchmiller will be appointed to fill out Berryman's term of office.

The race for the office of County Treasurer is a two-way contest between Bud Everett and Nora Halfmann. Everett, former Ballinger Mayor, was appointed to fill out an unexpired term in that office and then filed for election for a full term at that post.

Incumbant County Commissioner Precinct 2, David Carroll is being opposed in his bid for re-election by Earnest Cooke.

In political races on the state level, three persons are in the running for the legislative seat being vacated by Representative Lynn Nabers of Brownwood. On the ballot are Lee Haney of Brownwood, Jim Parker of DeLeon, and John Lee Blagg of Brownwood. Initially, Nabers had intended to seek re-election but later withdrew his name from the ballot.

The Senatorial seat of Grant Jones of Abilene is also at stake in the election, however Jones is unopposed for the post.

In other races seeking the Democratic nomination, U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen is being opposed by Joe Sullivan.

Charles W. Stenholm, who represents the 17th Congressional District of Texas, is on the Runnels County ballot for the first time. Stenholm is completing his first term as Congressman this year and his district has been re-arranged to include Runnels County. Stenholm is the only name on the Democratic Ballot for the Congressional seat.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor of the State of Texas there is a field of six candidates to choose from. Those are: Don Beagle, Ray Allen Mayo, Mark White (Texas Attorney-General), Bob Armstrong, David L. Young, and Buddy Temple.

For Lieutenant Governor, incumbent Bill Hobby is opposed by Troy Skates.

There are a number of other races on the ballot for state-wide offices including Attorney General, Comptroller of Public Accounts, State Treasurer, Commissioner of the General Land Office, Commissioner of Agriculture, and Railroad Commissioner.

Also on the ballot are races for State Supreme Court Justice and seats on various appeals courts. At the end of the Democratic ballot there are several categories for county and precinct chairmanships for the Democratic Party.

On the other side of the political coin, lets look at the Republican ballot. On this ballot there are no county-wide election candidates, but there are contested races on the state-wide level and for U.S. Senator.

Three persons are seeking the G.O.P. nomination for Governor including incumbent William P. Clements Jr. and Duke Embs.

For Lieutenant Governor, only George Strake is seeking the party nomination.

The Republican ballot also contains five referendum questions. The questions are only to sample the opinions of the persons voting in the Republican primary and are not binding issues.

The first question asks for the voter's opinion on a parimutual horse race betting on a local option basis. The second concerns mandatory jail time for repeat drunk driving offenders.

The third question at the end of the ballot asks "Are you for or against initiative and referendum as a way for the public to vote directly on issues and make law in elections rather than depending solely on state legislature action?"

The two final questions address issues that seem to attract the most interest, asking if the voter is for or against passage of a law that would ban private ownership of handguns, while the last question addresses the Texas Sunday closing law, commonly referred to as Blue Laws and if the legislature should abolish them.

For this end of Runnels County, it should be noted that the Wingate box and the two Winters boxes have been combined into one box and the voting will be conducted at the Winters Chamber of Commerce office.

Voting in the Democratic Primary will be conducted at the regular polling places.

It should be pointed out that persons who vote in either the Democratic or Republican primary are not eligible to vote in the other election. For example if a person desires to cast a vote for a candidate on the ballot for one party, that person can only vote in that party's primary election and subsequent run-off election. In other words, if a person votes on the Republican primary election ballot, he cannot vote in a democratic run-off election later next month. The converse is also true, if a person votes in the Democratic Primary, he cannot vote in any Republican run-off. That same voter, however, can vote for the candidate of his choice on the General Election ballot in November.

Sample ballots for both the Democratic and Republican primary elections can be found elsewhere in this issue of The Enterprise. These sample ballots are printed as a public service to the voters of Runnels County by The Winters Enterprise.

The record speaks for itself. Since he has served as our State Treasurer, that office has earned more income on public funds than the combined total of all previous earnings in the history of Texas!

A Nuclear Weapons Freeze?

The current public debate on a nuclear arms freeze is spreading across the country and prompting a wide range of emotions on the subject. In fact, a recent nationwide poll said three of every four Americans favor some form of freeze on the nuclear arms issue.

The current debate is between those who think freedom can be protected without a credible nuclear deterrent on our part, and those who believe that such a deterrent is necessary unless and until the Soviet Union poses no nuclear threat.

I believe there are several principles at the heart of any proposal for nuclear arms freeze.

First, it must be clearly understood the major issue confronting the world today is not the possession of nuclear arms by the United States, but the defense and preservation of freedom. If freedom cannot be defended through any other means but the possession of a nuclear deterrent by the United States, then having such a deterrent is a political and moral imperative on our part. In fact, any freeze proposal that would place the United States in a position whereby our deterrent capability would not be credible is in itself a direct, destructive threat to peace.

Secondly, any nuclear freeze must be truly verifiable. The verification procedure has to be one that can actually do the job of verifying a freeze on arms reduction. Anything less simply is not enough.

The third thing any freeze policy should protect inherently is our right to build a B-1 or the MX or the Trident submarine. Any proposals that conflict with this element of readiness are unacceptable.

Additionally, any freeze that does not either directly or indirectly confront the problems of the imbalance of conventional forces now in favor of the Soviet Union is worthless.

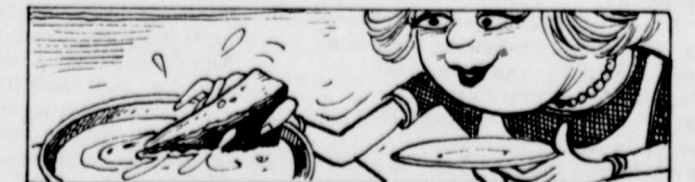

Finally, any freeze proposal based on the false idea that the United States is currently engaged in something termed an "arms race" is worthless. It just does not deal with reality. The Soviet Union has for 10 years or more been outbuilding, outspending us in the strategic nuclear field. We certainly cannot stop our own development or cut back while the opponent continues to move ahead.

For a generation or more American possession of nuclear weapons has been the only thing standing between us and those bent on world domination. Possessing this technology certainly has not made us the enemy of mankind.

No one wants to see the potential of nuclear war reduced more than I do. It is possible that reductions and proper verifications over a period of time could at least address one of the dangers we face. But to say that our possession of nuclear arms in itself is a threat is uninformed — if not dangerous.

Possession of nuclear weapons by the United States at this time in history is the only means of preventing a nuclear war. If we are to proceed with nuclear arms reductions, it must be very carefully considered.

Making certain that the Soviet Union realizes we have a credible nuclear and conventional deterrent to its warmaking machine is the only method to avoid war and maintain peace. Any freeze proposal which adopts that principal is one that I can accept. We must not allow emotion or lack of information to force us into making dreadful mistakes!

trip. The State Junior Vice-Commander, Emmet A. Seltzer of Post, Texas, brought greetings from the State of Texas to the Convention.

District 22 President Mary Kurtz gave the convention a report on the auxiliaries in District 22 who had reached 100 percent on membership and all other projects that were being completed. Mrs. Kurtz then introduced State President Louis Golden who brought greetings from the state and a report on all projects across the state.

Mary Kurtz then presented the Ray Dickens Award to Larry Albers of Ozona. The award is given by the District Ladies' Auxiliary to a V.F.W. member who has been outstanding in helping with all the auxiliaries' projects.

Albers has helped this year and in past years in the selling of pins for cancer and medical research. He has already raised $525 this year and reported to the ladies that he still has more checks to collect.

Following a noon luncheon, separate meetings were held for the election of 1982-83 officers.

In the V.F.W., J.A. Henderson was elected District 22 Junior Vice-Commander and R.C. Kurtz was named Judge Advocate.

Mary Kurtz was re-elected District 22 President in the Ladies' Auxiliary and Ellen Meyer was named three-year trustee.

IT'S A STRAWBERRY MORNING

Say "good morning" to the family with a smile and the excitement of offering a new taste experience for breakfast. Try this as a day-starter: your very own homemade Strawberry Pineapple Jam generously spread on warm cornmeal muffins.

There's no guesswork about this jam because liquid fruit pectin assures a good "set" and helps capture fresh fruit flavor. Remember, commercial fruit pectin helps supplement the natural pectin in fruit which decreases as fruit ripens, and it's the pectin that helps make the jam "jam" and the jelly "jelly." Only one pouch of fruit pectin is used to prepare this jam with the advantage of using the short-boil method. Shorter cooking time helps to retain more of the fresh fruit flavor and color that might possibly boil away if cooked longer.

Two pouches of liquid fruit pectin come in a package, so use the remaining pouch to prepare one of the many delicious jam or jelly recipes to be found in the recipe leaflet tucked inside the pectin package. That's what you call good planning with plenty of eating pleasure ahead.

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE JAM

- 2 cups prepared fruit (about 1 qt. fully ripe strawberries)
- 1 can (8-1/4 oz.) crushed pineapple in syrup, drained
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 5 cups (2-1/4 lb.) sugar
- 1 pouch Certo fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Stem and thoroughly crush, one layer at a time, about 1 quart strawberries. Measure 2 cups into 6- or 8-quart saucepot. Add pineapple and lemon juice.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepot. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Ladle quickly into hot jars, filling to within 1/4 inch of top. Cover and process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Makes about 5-1/2 cups or about 6 (8 fl. oz.) jars.
