Blizzards treat crowd to homecoming win, 17-8

Before a near capacity crowd of homecoming well-wishers, the Winters Blizzards took the Anson Tigers in a storm, winning their third game in a row, with a score of 17-8.

The Winters defense, led by Paul Trevino, Ronnie Lujano, Kent Billups, Don Kvapil and Jeff Butts held Anson to only 3 first downs during the entire first half action. Anson kicked off to Winters to begin the homecoming game, and the Blizzards moved to the Anson 8-yard line. Ronnie Lujano kicked a 25-yard field goal, beginning the Blizzards scoring at 3-0. After kicking off to Anson, the Blizzard defense held, forcing Anson to punt. Dwight Hubbard then made an excellent run of 65 yards on a quick pitch around the right end for Winters' first touchdown. Lujano kicked the extra point, making the score 10-0.

The game became a defensive struggle at this point until late in the second quarter. Greg Guevara went to the left for 29 yards and Winters' last touchdown of the night, with Lujano kicking the extra point. Halftime score was 17-0.

The second half of the ballgame was again a defensive struggle as neither team could hold on to the ball long enough to get a scoring threat until late in the fourth quarter. Anson scored with about 7 minutes left in the game, then went on with a two-point conversion, making the score 17-8.

Anson kicked an inside kick, getting the ball back on the 50-yard line. Two plays later Jeff Butts intercepted his second pass of the game. With 6:21 left in the game, the Blizzards got their offense moving behind very strong running by Lujano, Butts and Hubbard, and ran out the clock with several first downs in a row, to finish off the game.

Half-time activities included the announcement of Homecoming Queen, Betty Graham, junior at Winters High School, and Coming Home Queen, Mrs. C.S. "Pearl" Jackson.

The Anson ballgame was an important win for the Blizzards as they are making a move to get into the playoffs. Winters now stands 4-3-1 overall, and 3-1-1 in district contests.

The Winters team plays Baird this week in another very important game.

If the Blizzards close out the regular season with two more wins, they will be in the playoffs, but a loss in either of the remaining two games would be fatal to their chances.

Coach Dan Slaughter reminds Winters residents to come out and support their team, as they are attempting to do something that Winters has not done in years — have a winning season and get into the post season playoffs.

Three in a row

The triumphant Winters Blizzards march off the field enthusiastically last Friday night after winning their homecoming game against the Anson Tigers, 17-8 before an almost capacity crowd. With only two games left in regular season play, the Blizzards have a shot at the district play-offs if they continue their winning ways.

Wait a minute . . .

By Kerry Craig

Wait an hour. That is what we will have to do, in a manner of speaking, this Sunday morning. Yeah, you guessed it, it is time to turn our clocks and watches back one hour and get off of daylight savings time again.

This means that for those of us who sport those fancy watches that give the time digitally, the ones with musical alarms, that tell the time somewhere else in the world, with power steering and air conditioning or whatever, must again dig out the instruction manual and attempt to either stop the clocks for an hour or set them back one hour.

At any rate, in order for you to make it to the church on time Sunday, or to Grandma's house you must set all of your time-pieces back one hour before you retire Saturday night. Now if you want to be official about it, you can wait up until 2 a.m. Sunday morning and set the hands back.

Either way you go the time is going to change. There are those who are in favor of daylight savings time, the year round, others are against it any time, and the majority of us who are learning to keep the instruction manual where it can be found in the spring and fall and keep changing time. And who said time didn't stand still?

Well now that I have gotten up on my soapbox there are a few other odds and ends that we might look at-like voting, Halloween, and pills.

Now on voting, next Tuesday is election day and there are a number of contested races that we will be voting in. Races that range from the United States Senate and House of Representatives, the state Governor, state legislators, statewide offices, local races (none of which are opposed), and six proposed constitutional amendments.

Now I wouldn't try to tell anyone how to vote, or even suggest how I might wish someone would vote, but I think that each and every voter should take a close look at those proposed constitutional amendments. The way they are printed on the ballot leaves a lot to be desired in the way of explanation of just what they mean.

It is the right, duty, responsibility, and obligation of every American to exercise his right to vote. It is the American Way. See you at the polls.

While on the subject of elections, I have begun to wonder just what politics are coming to. In the top races, it seems that the candidates are not looking for anything good to say about themselves—just trying to say everything bad about their opponent.

Now what if each candidate is telling the truth about his opponent.....Wait just a minute.

Just heard, by way of the tube, that the government has approved the use of the chemical "10-80" for use in predator control and that kind of bothers me.

Now I am in no way opposed to predator control. I think that what ever means are necessary should be used.

With the re-instatement of "10-80" though, I hope that strict controls are placed on its use and that those who use the chemical are instructed not only on how to use it but, its effects. By effects, I mean not only immediate but long range effects. This chemical is one of the most lethal death dealing concoctions ever created and it will last for years and years.

Maybe I seem a little hard about this subject, but after a heart-breaking experience as a youngster I cannot help but feel a need for complete education for anyone who uses the poison "10-80".

Now on the topic of pills, darn it. What is this world coming to. You first heard of Tylenol, now it is Excedrin in the extra-strength variety. Somebody is hurting because some other body, one way or the other, intentionally or otherwise, got some kind of poison in the over-the-counter pain reliever. It is going to get to where the doctor will be afraid to tell a patient to take two aspirins and call him in the morning.

Now before I dismount this old soapbox, Halloween is here, almost. There will be youngsters dressed as anything from the traditional ghosts, spooks and goblins, to critters from Star Wars and other extra-terrestrial beings. These kids will be going from door to door seeking treats.

In the interest of safety, parents might be sure those costumes have light colored material or reflective material on them. This will make the little ones easier to see at night. And for those who will be driving around on Halloween, please be on the look out for the trick-or-treaters.

Something that is occurring in many cities and communities is that children be allowed to seek their treats only in their own neighborhood, or the houses of family friends or acquaintances. This can help to insure the safety of the youngsters.

Have a safe and happy Halloween, don't forget to set your clocks back an hour Saturday night, and by all means go vote next Tuesday.

Waitin' on the fish

A large number of area residents were on hand Friday morning when Texas Parks and Wildlife Department conducted a 'Fish Kill' on the old Winters lake. Officials said that about 3,000 pounds of catfish were harvested in the kill, and bass, crappie, and rough fish were not included in the count.

About 74 boats were on the lake in somewhat less than pleasant

He currently serves as chairman of the Runnels County 4-H Council and is vice president of the Rowena 4-H Club.

Keynote speaker for the evening was recently appointed 51st State District Judge Royal Hart of San Angelo, a native of the Miles-Rowena area.

Memories of a Fighter Pilot

Brigadier General Henry A. Sibley spoke to members of the Literary and Service Club and invited guests on Thursday at the Housing Authority. He was introduced by Mrs. Barry Sullivan who gave some of his background and accomplishments:

He graduated with honors from the Coushatta High School in Louisiana. He received the American Legion Award for the outstanding senior who espoused the principles of patriotism and courage, and was president of the student body and captain of the basketball team.

Brig. Gen. Sibley attended Northwestern University at Nachitoches, La. and played varsity basketball. He was the honor cadet graduate of Randolph Field, West-point of the Air, San Antonio. After graduating from Jet Fighter School, Williams AFB, Arizona, he flew with the Silver Sabres, the Aerobatic team, that were the predecessors of the Thunderbirds.

Brig. Gen. Sibley flew Sabre jets in Korea, competing 67 combat missions and was awarded three Distinguished Flying Crosses, three air medals, a Presidential Citation, the Korean Air Medal, and the United Nations medal.

After Korea, Brig. Gen. Sibley received his Bachelor of Science and Masters Degree from Florida Southern University, and was appointed Director of Louisiana's Sovereignty Commission and aide to Governor John McKeetlen for eight years. He served one year as a missionary pilot at the Navaho Methodist Mission School in Farmington, New Mexico.

The Sibleys were married three years ago and lived at Kerrville until moving to Winters where they reside at 311 r risco. Together they have eight children and four grandchildren. June's children are Jeff, Jay, Joe, Jill and Jim Heidenheimer, and Henry's children are Hank, Jane and Jennifer Sibley.

Some of the highlights of Brig. Gen. Sibley's life are repeated as he told them. He said that Patriotism is "true love of God and Country," and quoted Psalm 33:12 - "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he has chosen for his own inheritance."

"I grew up in a small town in Louisiana much like Winters - on the bank of the Red River some 48 miles south of Shreveport. My father had the International Harvester dealership. I had a very fine childhood and grew up during World War II when patriotism in this country was a very valid thing indeed. I gave my parents the credit for instilling a love of country in me."

"I started flying at age 13, in an old Stearman, a biplane, in a hay patch in my hometown of Coushatta, and my burning desire was to be an air force fighter pilot."

After completing other training already mentioned, Brig. Gen. Sibley went through an intensive air battery course at Nellis Air Base in Las Vegas, Nevada and then on to Korea. He flew as the fourth fighter on an interceptor wing, and they were stationed at Kimpo, Korea, K14. They aircraft was the old P80 Shooting Star and the F86 was the first swept wing jet airplane in existence. It held the world's speed record from 1949 till 1954.

"Of course our job in Korea, flying this aircraft, was area combat with the Chinese Communist Migs. We would take off from our base at Kimpo and engage in pursuit at the Yalu River. Weapons on this aircraft were 6-foot caliber machine guns. It doesn't sound like much now but the six directed in a fire pattern was a deadly force."

"I had always wondered what it would be like going into combat and pursuing another human being - having to destroy his aircraft. It worried me considerably. However, when you see your comrades being shot down - go down in a smoking plane - then this leaves you. You don't worry about it any longer."

"On my 67th mission, we were going out to destroy an aviation fuel dump in North Korea. The Chinese Communists were trying to move the fuel back across the Yalu River. We fired rockets into the tanker trucks and the storage tanks there. On one pass, I was hit by the flak from the radar controlled 88 ground guns. The shell exploded and knocked out all my control system. The only control left was the throttle and the electrical trim tab, and my wing man covered me."

"Of course, being up in North Korea, the first thing a pilot things about is being captured by the communists, and this was not a very nice thing at all, because these people are barbaric, they have no regard for human life whatsoever. My engine was running rough and I had to clear a mountain range that was around 14,000 feet high. The ejection mechanism had been damaged by the shell in the rear of the fuselage. Consequently, had I tried to bail out manually, the stabilizer on the plane would have cut me in two. I could not get the airplane on its back because I did not have the full control system. I was in a bad situation."

"I really prayed that the Lord would help me back. It seemed that the engine smoothed out and I was able to make it over the mountains. I crash landed doing 140 miles an hour at a base on the front lines. On impact, I pulled 25 G's. This force is your weight imposed 25 times on the body which is a severe crushing effect. My back was broken in two places, both legs and both ankles were broken, my collarbone was broken, my scalp was ripped open and I had severe internal hemorrhaging. It was truly a miracle that I survived."

"After spending time in a hospital ship and extensive surgery off the Coast of Korea, I was flown back to the U.S. and spent 14 months at the medical center in San Antonio. I had the finest care and rehabilitation of any place in the world. I am very fortunate to be able to walk on these crutches. I was not supposed to get out of the wheelchair. Doctors had said that I must reconcile myself to this fact, but I did not believe this, consequently 14 months later, I walked out."

Four months later, I flew back to see the fellow in charge of the Orthopedic Department after again securing my pilots licence from the Federal Aviation Administration. I hold a valid commercial license at this time with 5,400 hours of flying time."

After hospitalization, Sibley returned home and after his turn at politics, he became the missionary pilot to the Navaho Indians which he considers the most rewarding time of his life. And he believes Philipians 4:13 - "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

He is happy to be living in Winters with June. He says some of the finest people reside right here and "I'm proud to be a part of the community."

The first air conditioner design was developed in 1911

To The Voters of the Winters Area!

Martha and I would like to take this opportunity to express our deep gratitude to the voters of the Winters Area for the support they have given me in my campaign for State Representative.

We have attempted to make personal contact with each voter but, realistically, know we have not seen all of you. If we haven't seen you, we regret the omission and hope you will not hold that against us.

Again, I ask for your votes and support on November 2 in the General Election. I will try to always remain deserving of your support and help.

On November 2nd. . . .

Vote JIM PARKER DEMOCRAT State Representative

(Pd. Pol. Adv. By Jim Parker Campaign, Box 762, Comanche, Texas)

Voters will be going to the polls Tuesday to vote for their favorite candidate in the November General Election for a number of offices ranging from the national level to state to local levels. The contested races include that for a United States Senator, a U.S. Representative, the Texas Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts, State Treasurer, Commissioner of the general Land Office, Agriculture Commissioner, Railroad Commissioner, Justice, Texas Supreme Court, place 1, Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, place 2, State Representative, and Member, State Board of Education, District 17. A number of other offices are up for election, but those candidates are unopposed in the general election.

Voters will also find on the ballot six proposed constitutional amendments.

In taking an overall look at the general election, we will first look at the races for seats in the Nation's Capital.

For the office of U.S. Senator, incumbent Lloyd Bentsen who is a Democrat, is facing his most serious opposition from Republican Jim Collins, but also on the ballot for that seat is Libertarian Party candidate John E. Ford and Citizens Party candidate Lineaus Hooper Lorette.

In the race for United States Representative for the 17th Congressional District, Democratic incumbent Charles W. Stenholm is being challenged by Libertarian Party candidate James A. Cooley, II. In the primary elections, the Republican party chose to not place a candidate on the ballot in the general election for this Congressional seat.

One of the races that has attracted perhaps the most attention is for the office of Governor of the State of Texas. Incumbent Republican Bill Clements is being challenged by Democratic nominee Mark White, who has most recently served as Texas Attorney General and before that Secretary of State.

For the second highest office in the state, that of Lieutenant Governor, incumbent Bill Hobby who is a Democrat, is being challenged by George W. Strake, Jr. who is seeking to step up from the Secretary of State's office to the Lieutenant Governor's post. A third name appearing on the ballot in the race for Lieutenant Governor is David Hutzleman of the Libertarian Party and the Citizens Party is represented by Bob Poteat for that office.

Another hotly contested race is wrapping up, that for the office of Attorney General. Former legislators Bill Meier, a Republican, and Jim Mattox, the Democrat, are the front runners while the Libertarian Party's candidate Katherine S. Youngblood is also on the ballot.

Another race that has received considerable attention is that for the office of Comptroller of Public Accounts. Incumbent Democrat Bob Bullock is opposed by Republican Mike Richards, and Libertarian Janet Tlapak.

There is no incumbent for the office of State Treasurer which is being sought by Republican Allen Clark, Democrat Ann Richards, and Libertarian Alma Kucymbala. The candidates for the office of Commissioner of the General Land Office are Woody Glasscock the Republican, Gary Mauro from the Democratic Party, and Charles S. Fuller from the Libertarian Party. In the race for the office of Agriculture Commissioner there is no incumbent because the present commissioner, Reagan Brown was defeated in the primary elections. The names on the ballot for that office include Republican Fred Thornberry, Democrat Jim Hightower, and Libertarian Stanley Keen.

For Railroad Commissioner the candidates include Republican John Thomas Henderson, Democrat James E. (Jim) Nugent incumbent, Libertarian Dick Bjornseth, and Citizens Party candidate Bob Russell. There are four other contested races on the general election ballot that includes Justice, Supreme Court, Place 1, the place two seat on the Court of Criminal Appeals, State Representative of the 65th District, and State Board of Education, District 17.

The candidates for the position of Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, Place 1, are Republican John L. Bates and Democrat Ted Robertson. For Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2, Republican Ray Moses and Democrat Chuck Miller are on the Ballot.

The final contested race on the ballot is for Member, State Board of Education, District 17. Candidates for that post include Republican Carol Hunter and Democrat Jewell Harris.

In Runnels County, the voters will see only uncontested races for county offices. At the bottom of the ballot are the six proposed constitutional amendments: Proposition number one on the ballot proposes a constitutional amendment that prohibits any state ad valorem tax. Receipts from previously authorized state ad valorem taxes that are collected after the effective date of the proposed amendment shall be deposited to the credit of the general fund of the county collecting the taxes and may be expended for county purposes. Taxes collected before that date shall be distributed by the legislature among educational institutions eligible to receive those funds under prior law. The proposed amendment also repeals a section of the Constitution levying an ad valorem tax for a construction fund for 17 state colleges and universities.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment repealing the state property tax." Proposition number 2 on the ballot: House Joint Resolution 62 as amended by Senate Joint Resolution 10 proposes a constitutional amendment that would eliminate the $80,000,000 ceiling on state welfare aid during any fiscal year. The amendment would set the state welfare spending limit at $160,000,000 for the 1982-1983 biennium.

The amendment further provides that, for each subsequent biennium, the maximum amount spend for state welfare shall not exceed one percent of the state budget. The proposed amendment will appear on the budget as follows: "The constitutional amendment to authorize the legislature to provide assistance through the appropriations process to needy persons and to place a ceiling on payments for needy dependent children at one percent of the state budget."

Proposition number 3 on the ballot: Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment that would exempt machinery and equipment used in the production of farm and ranch products from taxation. No dollar limits would be imposed and the exemption would apply to corporations and partnerships as well as to families and individuals.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment exempting implements of husbandry (agricultural machinery and equipment) from ad valorem taxation."

Proposition number 4 on the ballot: House Joint Resolution 77 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize the Legislature to set a four year maximum term of office for board members of certain water districts and conservation and reclamation districts.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to provide terms not to exceed four years for members of governing boards of certain water districts, and conservation and reclamation districts."

Proposition number 5 on the ballot: House Joint Resolution 119 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize Tarrant and Bee counties to hold county-wide elections to abolish the county treasurer's office by majority vote.

Should the county treasurer's office be abolished, the duties, powers, and functions of that office would be transferred to the county auditor or the successor to the auditor's functions.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county treasurer in Tarrant and Bee Counties."

Proposition number 6 on the ballot: Senate Joint Resolution 6 proposes a constitutional amendment that would raise the constitutional interest rate limit on state general obligation bonds from 6 percent to 12 percent.

The new 12 percent ceiling does not, however, apply to bonds issued by the Veterans' Land Board.

The Proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment increasing the maximum interest rate allowed on state general obligation bonds to a weighted average annual interest rate of 12 percent."

On each of the proposed constitutional amendments voters will have the option of voting either for or against the amendments as proposed.

The last day for voting absentee for the general election on Friday, October 29, in the Runnels County Clerk's Office.

On election day, the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Voters are

The Eclipse windmill is perhaps the oldest windmill recognizable to Texas rangeland. Its inception by Leonard Wheeler, an Indian missionary in Beloit, Wisconsin, was made in 1866.

He first designed the windmill with two tails. Wheeler's company was called The Eclipse Wind Engine Company, and was later sold to Fairbanks Morse & Co. of Chicago.

However, also back East in about 1854, John Burnham, a pump doctor, suggested the idea of a wind-driven mechanism to mechanic Daniel Halladay. That was in Ellington, Connecticut. Between the two, they constructed the device which, along with barbed wire, is said to have made the settlement of the West possible.

It was 1888 when Thomas Perry brought about the Aermotor windmill. It would change the whole scope of things and by 1927 be at every house in small towns and farms and ranches across the Southwest.

The Aermotor is most identifiable to my generation. I can recall with little pleasure the pulling of rods to change leathers. More, I can remember the lonesome squawks of the old things on a windy day in the middle of the back pasture as we worked livestock in pens nearby.

Hill Country artist Billy Hicks of Junction has put together a very attractive note card selection packet featuring the Eclipse, Star, Monitor and Aermotor windmills. The cards, complete with pen and ink sketches of the featured mills on the front, offer a brief description of the mill on the back, leaving the inside for personal notes.

I was reminded of the windmill note cards and recollections of early day experiences last weekend when driving to the front yard date at the Barrow Longhorn Ranch near Eola. Earnest and Dorothy Barrow invited me out to serve as master of ceremonies for the dedication of the museum on the ranch. Part of the museum features the different windmills located along the road into the ranch.

Earnest and Dorothy have traveled the world over to collect the thousands of memorabilia items now housed in the large buildings near their home in Concho County.

They have regional artifacts, dolls from the Orient, early day farm and ranch plows and tools, saddles, a pipe-organ from an old church, the old post office from Eola complete with cage window and boxes, etc. The list goes on.

I have been in a good many museums in the last 10 years, but this one almost established single handedly by this couple, has to be one of the finest. It is a work of love, says Earnest. They have turned it over to a foundation. A board oversees the governing and many other chores. Historians and regional people can only serve five-year terms on the board.

The Barrows have willed their entire ranch and registered Longhorns to the foundation. It will continue to serve as an educational facility to the public for generations to come.

As for the windmills, they, too, will provide a realistic symbol of an era. And the best part of all as we observe them, we don't have to pull the sucker rods and change the leathers!

Judge Royal Hart

Runnels County 4-H Club held their annual Achievement and Awards Banquet Monday evening in the Winters school cafeteria. Keynote speaker for the event was 51st State District Judge Royal Hart of San Angelo. A number of awards were presented, not only to the 4-Hers, but also to outstanding adult leaders.

Cotton harvesting well underway in Runnels Co.

Cotton harvest is well underway in some areas of Runnels County. Some producers are considering leaving the cotton until frost fields in which 80 to 85% of the bolls are open and the potential yield is 125 pounds of lint or more per acre, should be desiccated and harvested as soon as possible. Timely harvest will minimize weight and quality losses due to weathering.

Much of the crop is opening prematurely because of the hot dry weather conditions. Premature opening tends to reduce the stormproof characteristics of most varieties and could result in significant yield losses if adverse rainy, windy weather conditions develop.

Even if little or no cotton falls out of the burr, some weight and quality loss can be expected if open cotton is left in the field for an extended period. Studies conducted at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Lubbock show that simply exposing open cotton to the elements resulted in a 9% loss in lint weight after 4 weeks and a one grade reduction in quality after 5 weeks. Seed quality is also adversely affected by weathering. During one year of study, germination was reduced an average of 2.5% per week.

To avoid unnecessary yield and quality losses, it may be profitable to use harvest aid chemicals to prepare the crop for early harvest. Basically 2 types of chemicals are available for this purpose: defoliant and desiccants. Defoliants are relatively mild materials that cause leaf shedding. The defoliants currently cleared for use include sodium chlorate marketed under a number of trade names: DEF 6, Folex, Drop and Harvade. The latter two materials are relatively new additions to the list of defoliants.

These chemicals are normally used to prepare cotton for picker harvesting. Generally, defoliants do not provide adequate defoliation and plant drying for straight harvesting and need other hand-killed plant tissue and cause rapid loss of moisture from leaves, stems and unopened bolls. Desiccated plants can usually be stripped and mottled within a to 10 days after treatment.

Desiccants approved for use in this area include: 1.3 quarts arsenic acid per acre, 1.7 pints Paraquat per acre. Paraquat is also being marketed under the trade name of Gramoxone. Tank mix of 1.2 pints Paraquat plus 1.2 pints Accelerate per acre and tank mix of 1.3 quarts arsenic acid plus 1.2 pints Accelerate per acre.

The percentage of open cotton is still the best criteria to use in determining when to apply desiccants. Application of desiccants should be delayed until 80-85% of the bolls are open. The remaining should be too hard to dent by pressure exerted with the thumb and forefinger and too tough to cut with a sharp knife.

Later in the season (late October or later) it may be possible to lower this criteria to 70-75% open bolls. At that time of the year, it is unlikely that immature bolls will produce additional fiber and it may be desirable to desiccate the cotton and get it harvested before bad weather develops.

In early maturing fields, desiccants can be used to prepare the crop for a timely harvest. But, if these chemicals are applied before the crop is matured, yield, lint quality and seed quality can be adversely affected. Keep in mind that once desiccants are applied all fiber and seed development stops. Use of these chemicals does not promote maturity of cotton; their only purpose is to kill and dry the crop to aid in the timely harvesting of a naturally matured crop.

Once cotton is matured, there is no advantage to delaying desiccation and harvest. In addition to reducing fiber and seed quality, delayed harvest will also contribute to further depletion of soil moisture reserves, rapid utilization of moisture from rainfall for regrowth and to the buildup of insect pests such as the boll weevil.

Desiccation does constitute an additional input cost but it also allows properly matured cotton to be harvested when lint and seed quality are at their peak.

WTU gas purchase agreement could lead to lower fuel costs

West Texas Utilities Co. has entered a gas purchase agreement with Haskell Gathering Co. which could result in lower fuel costs at its Paint Creek Power Station.

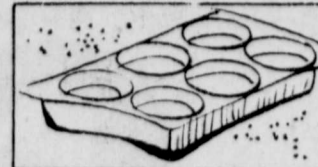

WTU has begun taking a small volume of low Btu gas, and is expected to take more when the gathering firm's pipelines are extended to additional wells in Haskell and Throckmorton counties. The Paint Creek plant is on Lake Stamford in southeastern Haskell County.

The gas is cheaper than WTU's main supply, but is of lower quality, according to Walter Meller, WTU's manager of system production.

"Because it is a lower Btu gas, it must be blended with other gas before it can be burned in our boilers," Meller said. "But we are doing everything we can to buy gas where there is a price advantage."

He said WTU is in the process of negotiating for low Btu gas at some of its other power plants. The company's contract with its principle supplier, which was renegotiated this past year, permits WTU to purchase gas from other sources, and WTU does so when it is available. The Company has eight major power plants, all of which burn natural gas as the primary fuel.

When extra ice cubes are needed for punches, or ice buckets at parties, use muffin tins instead of buying new ice cube trays. The big ice cubes will last longer.

If you're concerned about rising grocery costs, here's something you can do about it.

On November 2, you can make a positive step toward helping hold the line on rising grocery costs. Proposition 3, one of six proposed Constitutional Amendments which will be offered on the ballot, would correct the tax exemption for agricultural machinery and equipment. The effect of passage of this amendment will be to lower production costs for food and fiber. In the long run, this will be a positive step we can take to help hold the line on grocery price increases. For you and for your family, both now and especially in the future, this may be one of the most important votes you'll ever cast.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Many Texans have bought goods and services like magazines, kitchenware, children's photos, and insurance as a result of a telephone call from a salesperson.

Sometimes those who make their sales introductions by phone are straightforward enough to say they are selling something. However, some telephone sales people are not so direct. Many use unscrupulous sales tactics calculated to trick consumers into making a purchase immediately, or into listening to a sales pitch in our home.

Two favorite tactics of telephone salespeople are the "free gift" and "you've won a contest". These are used to sell everything from magazines to baby equipment, from encyclopedias to pots and pans.

Here's how they work: The consumer is told that he or she has been selected to receive a free gift, or that if they answer a quiz question, they win a prize. (The question is usually no more difficult than "Who's buried in Grant's tomb?") Or, a free gift, like a camera, may be offered.

The free gift or prize almost always, has strings attached. The free gift of magazines, for example, will typically involve a charge for postage and handling, and almost always this charge is expressed in a way to mislead. For instance: "These three magazines will come to you free for three years. All you have to pay is 25 cents a week for each magazine for the three years. This cover the handling and postage." Now 25 cents a week for a magazine doesn't sound like much, but it is approximately $117 for three years. On top of this the company will probably place a finance charge which they won't tell you about over the phone. Similar practices are used to sell sets of encyclopedias. They may be "free" if you buy an annual supplement costing several hundred dollars.

To avoid the hazards of telephone sales pitches our attorneys suggest that you follow these guidelines:

—Never agree to buy a product or to have a salesperson come to your house during the first call. Tell the person you will call back. This will give you a chance to consider the offer.

—If you are told on the phone that you have won a prize in a contest, ask if you will be obligated to listen to a sales pitch for a product or service. Many times, to accept a "prize" is to leave yourself open to an intense, high pressure sales pitch.

—Find out the conditions of getting the free gift. The gift is usually free only if you buy something. Often you will be overcharged. Tell the caller: you wish to shop around to determine how the price you must pay in order to get the gift compares with the item without such a gift.

MRS. MICHAEL CLINTON HELM

Pam Bryan, Mike Helm exchange marriage vows

Pamela Catherine Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bryan of Winters and Michael Clinton Helm were united in marriage in a ceremony performed at 7 p.m. October 23 at the First Baptist Church in Winters.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Helm of Wingate.

Vows were exchanged before Ron Briley, Church of Christ minister from Ingram, Texas.

The church was decorated with two spiral brass candelabra and six palm trees, with a unity candle in the front.

Organ music was provided by Susan Conner of Winters. Melissa Faubion of Ballinger sang "Sunrise, Sunset", "The Wedding Song", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace, with a Queen Anne neckline, touched with pearls. The gown, with full Victorian lace sleeves, had satin ribbons to mark the empire waistline, and streamers tracing the skirt. Tiers of lace formed a bouffant skirt, and trailed to a chapel train. A lace bandeau cap held the illusion veil, featuring two tears with rolled edge and inserts of lace motifs.

For something old, the bride wore her grandmother's wedding band. Something new was her wedding attire. Something borrowed was her mother's diamond earrings and necklace. For something blue, the bride wore two garters made by her grandmother, Mrs. H.A. Bryan.

Pam carried a cascade bouquet of silk and fresh roses mixed with English ivy, atop a white Bible. The Bible was given to the bride by her mother and father when she was ten years old.

Maid of honor, Lisa Bryan of Lubbock, wore a brown dress of polyester knit, with a Queen Anne neckline and puffed sleeves. The long, full skirt was accented with a wide ruffle at the bottom.

Bridesmaids were Brenda Schaefer of San Angelo, Tina Bednar of Abilene, Nancy Davis of Winters, and the bride's sister, Tabitha Bryan, of Norton. They wore dresses of polyester knit of rust, dark apricot, light apricot and off-white. Each were made in the same style as the maid of honor's dress.

Attendants carried nosegays of silk roses that matched the color of each dress.

Samantha Sears of Dallas, flowergirl, wore an eggshell colored short polyester knit dress made with puffed sleeves and full skirt. She carried an eggshell basket holding loose flower petals.

Ringbearer was Eric Tekell of Wilmeth. Candelighters were Sanford Bryan, the bride's brother, of Norton, and Tammy Dry of Winters.

Best man was the groom's father, Calvin Helm.

Groomsmen were Joe Jarvis of Cisco, Nathan Tekell of Wilmeth, Marcy Grun of Clyde, and Doug Bryan of Wilmeth.

The groom, best man, and groomsmen wore mahogany brown western tuxedos with ivory shirts and western boots.

Ushers were Jeff O'Dell of Winters, Byron Jobe of Cisco, Jimmy Bednar of St. Lawrence, Texas, and John Carter of Winters.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents in Wingate. Decorations were western with red checked tablecloths and lanterns on the tables. Barbecue with all the trimmings was served.

The reception was hosted by the bride's parents at the First Baptist Church in Winters.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of silk flowers in the bride's chosen colors.

The four-tiered bride's cake, made by Mrs. J.L. Ohlhausen of Ballinger, was all white. The top layer held sugar bells, and under the top layer was the bride and groom, which was used twenty-four years before on the bride's parents' wedding cake. The bottom of the cake was made of four hearts with a cascade of roses and Lily of the Valley, starting at the left front and running all the way up to the right front. It was also adorned with lovebirds and filigree hearts.

The crystal punch bowl held apricot colored punch, and the table had homemade mints of brown and ivory.

The groom's table was centered with a boot and rope entwined with English Ivy. The silver coffee service accented one side of the table and the oblong groom's cake of German Chocolate with an Allis-Calmers tractor in a field, centering the cake.

Loretta Sears, Mandy Hays and Angela Burris passed out rice bags at the reception. Members of the house party included Janet Jacob, Beth Rowden, Anne Moeller, Deana Reed, Susan Hibbits, Eddie Zly, Glenda Bryan, Mildred Burris, Frances Dry, Linda Dry, Pat Williams, Rena Compton, Iris Bryan, and Nancy Bryan.

The bride is a graduate of Ballinger High School and is currently employed at Security State Bank in Wingate. The bridegroom is a graduate of Winters High School, and attended San Angelo State University and Ranger Junior College. He is self-employed as a stock farmer near Shep.

Safety First in all-ways on halloween

Parents should exercise some safety precautions this halloween to assure that their trick-or-treaters won't be haunted by accidents.

One of the first safety precautions parents can take is to accompany their children on their halloween rounds and to visit only homes in their neighborhood — with emphasis on friends and acquaintances.

Costumes worn by youngsters could be the source of trouble, says Mackie Lawrence, Program Director of the Product Safety Division of the Texas Department of Health.

"A mask will limit vision considerably unless the eye holes are large. Many of the costumes are dark, which may hamper motorists in seeing the wearers in the dark," said Lawrence.

It's not too impractical to sew reflector strips onto the arms and legs of costumes, said Lawrence. "Many children borrow their mother's wigs and care should be taken to see that these and all homemade costumes are fireproof," he said.

The best idea is for parents to go with their children. Parents or the children themselves will be spotted easier if they carry flashlights. Flashlights can also prevent falls and are useful in spotting unfriendly dogs.

Parents and children should cross streets at cross walks, watch for turning vehicles at intersections, stay on the sidewalks, and walk facing the traffic if there are no sidewalks. They shouldn't cross the street from between parked cars, said Lawrence.

"It's better to eat the traditional treats that are individually wrapped by the manufacturer," said Lawrence. "Unwrapped items, or those in torn wrappings, should be inspected very carefully." Fruits, he said, should be washed and then cut into small portions before eating.

Dr. Sylvia Ann Grider, a folklorist at Texas A&M University, says that the

More Chamber Chatter

Why is it, you can see more changes take place in the Fall than any other season of the year? The trees and foliage are so beautiful at this time and the air is so fresh and the mornings and evenings are just cool enough to make outings to high school football games and other outdoor activities most enjoyable.

Speaking of change — downtown Winters is really taking on a new look with the construction nearing completion on the old State Theatre (J.W. Bahlman's project to turn the former movie house into a "mini-mall" with space for several offices and businesses to take up residences there) and Spill Furniture Company is really "fixing" up the front of their kitchen boutique addition to their already great looking business. And O'Neal's General Store changed their name, and their looks and their location. We're glad to welcome the Cowboy Shack to "Downtown".

Attention Merchants — Your directors have come up with a plan to bolster shopping this Christmas season! We are calling it "Winters Christmas Shoparama" and we need your participation for it to work for everyone. Briefly, the rules go like this:

1. The prize is a $500.00 Microwave oven (to be displayed at the Chamber office).

Services held in Winters for Beulah Sweeney

Beulah Y. Sweeney, 74, of Abilene, died at 8 a.m. Friday at Shady Oaks Nursing Home in Abilene after a lengthy illness.

Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Fairview Cemetery in Winters, directed by Winters Funeral Home. Charles Myers, retired chaplain at Hendrick Medical Center officiated.

She was born Oct. 28, 1907. Survivors include a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hall of Abilene; two sisters, Ruth Guin of Wingate and Billie Sanford of San Diego, Calif.; five grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

2. The drawing will be held at noon on December 20 at the Chamber office.

3. Drawing cards will be available at the Chamber and from participating merchants.

4. To be eligible, cards must be validated at each participating business and then placed in a hopper at the Chamber of Commerce.

5. No purchase is necessary to participate.

6. Contest period will be from Dec. 1 to noon, Dec. 20.

7. Each participating business must contribute $20.00 to the Chamber.

8. Deadline for merchants to participate is Nov. 24. Any chamber member may participate.

Sign up Now!
Have you cast your vote for six new Chamber of Commerce Directors? It's really a shame that there's not eight places to be filled because the eight people on the ballot are all capable of being top-notch directors and would certainly be assets to the Board just like they are to our community. Good luck with your decisions!

Registration is underway for the Chamber sponsored Big Buck Contest. George Mostad is chairman and the rules have finally been ironed out (details are available by calling the Chamber office). We expect a lot of entries and we're pretty sure it won't be too safe for any of those "poor critters" between Nov. 13 and Jan. 2.

The Tree Fund for the W. Lee Colburn Park is growing and we're still accepting donations. Some trees have already been purchased and a plaque is being planned to recognize the contributors.

Halloween is just around the corner and we are joining City officials in encouraging the event be celebrated on Saturday, Oct. 30 instead of the traditional 31st, since it falls on a Sunday.

November Chamber activities include the annual Arts & Crafts Show and Stew Cook-off on Nov. 12 and 13. Holidays are Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25.

We are happy to welcome Underwood Real Estate as a new member! Don't forget to vote Nov. 21!

Consider alternatives to treating goblins to candy

Sweets don't necessarily have to be associated with halloween, according to Ms. Nancy Gay Robinett-Weiss, a registered dietitian and Director of Nutrition Services for the Texas Department of Health.

"Ask yourself, am I doing the trick or treating a favor by giving them candy and sweets?" Ms. Robinett-Weiss said. "Sweets contribute to obesity and tooth decay, ruin appetites for nutritious foods, and can cause upset stomachs."

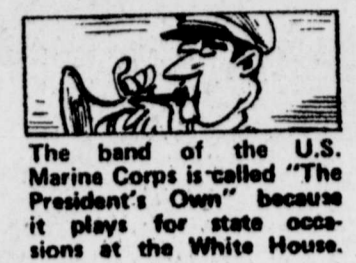

She said popcorn, fresh fruit, dried fruits, peanuts, pecans, sun flower seeds, pencils, balloons, sugarless chewing gum, and pennies are all good alternatives to the traditional halloween treats. "Even a little bit of clay that a child can be creative with later, makes an excellent treat," she said.

Ms. Robinett-Weiss had some advice for both parents and children with weight problems. "If you are an adult with a weight problem," she said, "and feel you must provide a sugary treat, buy treats that you don't like yourself — so that you won't feel obligated to eat up what's left over."

She said the children with weight problems can still go trick or treating at halloween, but they should bring everything home and pick out only four or five sugary items to keep. "This way they still have an opportunity to participate in halloween, but they won't be goring themselves on sweets and thereby contributing to their nutritional problem," she said.

After the start of the hunting season, permits will be issued only from the Austin office of the Parks and Wildlife Department and not by local officers.

Landowners or their agents are urged to pick up permits on the scheduled issuance dates.

dates that the ACT is administered, but is the only date that it can be taken in Winters. Mrs. Lee Harrison, school counselor, feels it is an advantage for our students to be able to take the three hour test in their home setting.

Colleges use information from the ACT Assessment Program for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. The ACT Assessment Program is a major service of the American College Testing Program, which has national headquarters in Iowa City, Iowa.
