San Saba ends season for Blizzards, 23-19

The Winters Blizzards played their hearts out last Saturday night in Bi-District play against the San Saba Armadillos, but San Saba's big plays and running back John Henry were just too much for the Blizzards to overcome.

San Saba's line, both offensively and defensively, was just too big and strong for the Blizzards, as the Armadillo's went on to a hard fought, hard hitting ball game, ending in a 23-19 score.

Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

Well, the football season for the Blizzards has come to an end.

The final score in the final game was 23-19, the San Saba Armadillos defeated the Blizzards. A lot of things can be said about the Saturday game, but in no way can either team be faulted. Nor can the officials. It was a top-notch game any way you cut it. But we did not win, well...wait a minute.

Maybe by the score and by which team advances to the next step in the play-offs we did not win. Let's look at this from a slightly different angle. The 1982 Winters Blizzards are a team to be very proud of. They broke a long dry spell by getting Winters into the play-offs, the first time since, I believe, 1962 or 1963. This year's Blizzards got off to a rather slow start, but continued to pick up momentum. I would venture to guess that last Saturday's game was the toughest game the 'Dillos played all season.

Most important though, something that in my opinion overshadows all else, was community spirit. After growing up in a neighboring city, about the same size as Winters, I have never seen or experienced such total community support and spirit for a football team that was evident last week. Not even in the eight or so years that I was a resident of Brownwood, where state championships are almost the rule rather than the exception.

This football season created a very contagious spirit that seems to have brought a close-knit community even closer together. The first indication of such a spirit came last Tuesday evening when we were working late getting the paper to bed. Some people came in the front door (we forgot to lock it) to ask if we could cut some crepe paper for streamers. Naturally we said we could and that we would. Well, the paper was cut and the ladies left and we went back to the composing room. It was then I noticed someone on a step-ladder in

(See Wait page 9)

Just before the end of the first half, Winters had a goal-line stand to keep the score knotted at 7-7. San Saba, with a first and goal from the 5 yard line, could not push it on into the endzone, and the Blizzards took over on the 12 yard line.

In the second half of the ballgame, two key mistakes by Winters led to their downfall. Winters had a punt blocked and San Saba took it into the endzone to take the lead, 14-7. In the fourth quarter, San Saba blocked another punt, scored on a 29-yard pass play, and took the lead 20-7. Winters then battled back and scored on a 36-yard pass from Jeff Butts to Kent Billups.

San Saba drove to the Blizzards 7-yard line, where the Blizzards toughened up and held. The Armadillo's succeeded in kicking a 24-yard field goal. The Winters team came back to score on a 6 yard run by Jeff Butts. The Blizzards then missed on a try for two points.

With 4 minutes and 30 seconds left in the game, Winters tried, but failed to get the ball with an onside kick. They got the ball back with one minute 27 seconds left in the game, but could not score, and the game ended 23-19.

The Blizzards would like to thank their fans for the support they gave the team, and especially the Booster Club for their enthusiastic and creative spirit-building techniques throughout the season.

Coach Dan Slaughter would also like to thank those people who ran the chain at home games, kept the clock, announced, and helped make the season run smoothly.

1982 tax rates set

WISD sets rate at $.89

In their regular school board meeting of November 9, 1982, the Board of Trustees of the Winters Independent School District adopted a tax rate of $.84 per $100 valuation for the 1982 tax year.

The tax rate of 84 cents per $100 valuation is based on 100 per cent of the assessed property value and is broken down like this: 29 cents per $100 valuation for debt service; 55 cents per $100 valuation for maintenance and operation.

According to Superintendent Tommy Lancaster, the school board felt it imperative that as low a rate as possible be adopted and noted that this rate would generate less tax dollars for the school to operate on for the 1982-83 school year than was collected during the 1981-82 school year.

With the school's budget and tax rate calling for less taxes this year, it was noted that taxes for real and personal property will go up this year due to equalization that was required by the passage of the constitutional tax relief amendment voted on and approved by voters in the State of Texas in 1978. The 1982-83 and 1981-82 school budget for maintenance and operation are basically the same and the rate set by the board will call for deficit spending.

In the same meeting, the school board voted to allow a one percent discount on all taxes paid by December 31, 1982, and to note the delinquent date as set by law of February 1, 1983. Tax payers in the Winters Independent School District should start receiving their 1982 tax statements during the next two weeks.

Fund drive set to buy X-ray unit

North Runnels Hospital Administrator Clay Miller says that a fund drive has been launched to purchase a new X-ray machine for the hospital.

Miller said that the present machine, which was not new when it was purchased, is in poor condition and that the X-ray unit is the number one need at the hospital.

The cost of a new X-ray machine, suitable for use at North Runnels Hospital is expected to be about $75,000.

Persons who wish to make a contribution toward the purchase of the new X-ray machine should contact George Lloyd, Ted Meyer, or Clay Miller.

City rate at $.44

The Winters City Council, meeting in regular session Monday, set the tax rate for the City of Winters as 44 cents per $100 property valuation.

City Administrator Glenn Brown said that the 44 cent rate was six cents less than the amount estimated by the Runnels County Appraisal District. The tax rate, according to Brown, should generate $165,291.80 if tax collections reach 100 percent. The administrator said that the city is expecting to collect about 96 or 97 percent of the total amount of taxes along with collections on some delinquent taxes from previous years.

The recently approved city budget calls for expenditures of about $170,000 and the tax rate will lack almost $5,000 of equalizing that amount. Brown said that he is looking at some cutbacks to bring the budget in line with the expected revenues. The city administrator said that he was in hopes that the collection of delinquent taxes and some cutbacks would balance out in the long run.

City may dim street lights

Street lights in the down town area may become slightly dimmer in the very near future due to action by the Winters City Council Monday.

The council, in considering a contract renewal with West Texas Utilities, suggested that money might be saved by cutting down on the number of street lights being used and the use of smaller bulbs in other street lights.

That proposed new contract from WTU for the street lights specifies an increase of some 156 percent over the present contract, which will expire at the end of the year. The council noted that the current contract was written five years ago, along about the same time the electric utility purchased the street lights from the city. Also Tension...

Coach Dan Slaughter stands nervously on the sidelines during a crucial play in Saturday night's Bi-District loss to the San Saba Armadillos, 23-19.

The loss ends the season for the Blizzards, who get their basketball season underway next week with a scrimmage Thursday, and then the season opener in Coleman on Monday, Nov. 22.

Glorious Glorieta

Those who go to Glorieta, New Mexico for the first time are enchanted with the beauty of the mountain foliage, and those who have been returning year after year for the scenery is everchanging and always fascinating. Truly, it is a glorious experience.

Wesley and Margie Wade hosted a barbecue and picture showing at their new home near Wingate Thursday night so that the eleven people who had been to Glorieta could relive the excitement of the days spent there from Oct. 10-15. This was the Wades first trip to Glorieta and they took many pictures and movies.

This year's trip was not the usual trek, as time for the Aspen Bible Conference in Glorieta drew near, we decided to forget the cool, crisp mountain days and warm fellowship for we had no driver for the church van. But this was changed when my grandson, Cliff, called and offered to drive for us. "You took me when I was five years old, and now I'll drive for you," he said.

It's amazing how fast a tour can sometimes be planned. Three women from Eden joined us, Opal Keyes, Annie Lee Maddox and Helen Harwell. The Wades from Wingate and the five from Winters were Darlene Sims, Velma Hart, Myra Dorsett, Louis Wade and myself, who made the group.

The first shock we received was Monday morning when we awakened to a world covered in snow. By afternoon, most of the snow had melted and we were out exploring. But Tuesday morning was a rerun with more snow and this time the lights and heat were off. I stayed in bed until the heat came on and was the last one in to breakfast.

Dr. Earl J. Mead, now 90 years old, charmed us again with his lectures and explained some of the area plant growth. He said that about 90% of the country is covered with juniper and the rest is pinon pine with short needles, and it bears nuts. Two plant growths or brush are the Chamiso, salt brush with dense leaves, that grows all the way down from Canada, and the Chamisa, rabbit brush, that is from 6 to 8 feet across. It furnishes yellow and green dye. Two scarlet flowers are the bugler, that hangs its head down and the sky rocket, from the trumpet flocks. There are also purple asters and the Indian paint brush.

Much ado about the snow was made by the speakers and Dr. Mead said he missed his opportunity. His wife invited some women in to see the snow from their window. He had his room full of women in their nightdress and skinned his leg trying to find a match. A fund was started secretly and at the farewell banquet on Thursday night, Dr. Mead was presented with the largest flashlight that could be bought.

With the weather clear once more, the annual trip to Santa Fe was early anticipated. Santa Fe has become very popular with Greer Garson buying a ranch nearby and other movie stars flocking in. The ugly little town with one story adobe houses, two stories are not permitted, and no yards, for there is no water and little rainfall, has suddenly become the "in" place to be. After visiting the Governor's palace on the plaza, many of the shops and the ice cream parlor, we turned our attention to the San Miguel Mission, the oldest church in the U.S.A. and the Old House, across the lane from the mission. Cliff and I wanted to see if they were as we remembered them 25 years ago.

The original adobe walls and altar of the San Miguel Chapel were built by Tlaxcala Indians from Mexico under the direction of Franciscan Padres (1610). The church contains centuries old paintings, wood carvings and the 600 year old San Jose Bell imported from Spain.

The walls, which are five feet thick, withstood the siege of the Pueblo uprising of 1680. After the upper part of the tower was destroyed by a storm, in 1872, the facade underwent remodeling and assumed its present appearance since 1955.

The Bell of San Miguel, originally called the San Jose Bell, was cast in honor of St. Joseph, in Andalusia, Spain in 1356. After ringing in Spain for over 300 years, and 100 years in Old Mexico, it was brought to Santa Fe, by ox-cart, in 1812.

It rang in the belfry of the San Miguel Mission until the storm of 1872. Then it was placed in the church until 1950, when it was moved into the adjoining Bell room where visitors can see and ring it. Jewelry donated in thanksgiving for the triumph of the Christians over the Moors, in the 1300's, went into the casting of the bell.

This historic bell contains a total of 780 pounds: 110 of silver, 600 of copper and 50 of iron. The iron clapper weighs 23 1/2 pounds. It has been called the sweetest sounding bell in America. A full octave of notes can be rung by striking different spots on the bell.

The Old House, across the lane, is built of "puddled" adobe, and is believed to be pre-Spanish. About the year 1200 A.D., the Pueblo of Analco — of which the old house is the last remnant — occupied much of the area on the south side of the Santa Fe River.

The old man was sitting in the corner by the fireplace, just as he was 24 years ago, but covered with several more layers of dust.

The journey ended with many happy memories and new friendships formed.

Ingenuity in Home Improvement

Here's an easy and economical way to insulate your windows against heat and cold: make plastic linings for your draperies. Place the linings behind the drapes, and hang together using the same hooks.

Your hardware store or home center can supply the plastic. Also, from September 25 to October 11, 1980, a visit to a participating hardware store could win you a Hilton Rainbow Vacation for two in Hawaii, one of 199 Hilton Rainbow Weekends, or one of hundreds of other prizes. Details about Fall Home Value Days, sponsored by the National Retail Hardware Association, will appear in a special ad section in the October Reader's Digest.

NEWSWORTHY TRENDS

Closed Captions Open Doors For Hearing-Impaired

Although statistics indicate that nearly every hearing-impaired adult in the U.S. owned a television set by the 1970s, for most of them this window on the world remained an incomplete picture.

Now, since the introduction of a system called "closed captioning," and a device known as a television decoder, that picture has been dramatically completed.

Thanks to these advances, thousands of hearing-impaired of all ages now have access to hours of enjoyable—and understandable—subtitled television programming every week. Those numbers include many of the 2 million deaf and 14 million who have hearing impairments of varying degrees.

Television programs are captioned by the nonprofit National Captioning Institute (NCI), which became operational in 1980 and has centers near Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles.

Decoding units are available through NCI, Sears, Roebuck and Co. and various organizations for the deaf, and the cost can be included on Federal income tax returns.

Closed captioning began with pre-taped television shows. Now, thanks to new technical innovations, "real-time" captioning is available for "live" events. Because of a Department of Education contract awarded to NCI, ABC's World News Tonight is now closed captioned "live" every week-night across the nation.

This year the Oscar Award and Emmy Award ceremonies were captioned "live" for the first time. The recent fourth journey of the Space Shuttle Columbia was closed captioned, as well. One hearing-impaired viewer described the experience as "amazing" as he and his wife—for the first time—learned the details, before, during and after the blast-off. President Reagan's speech of welcome to the returning astronauts was instantly captioned, too. More such programs can be expected now that anything "live" can be closed captioned.

Helping your children deal with divorce

Parents can help their children deal with divorce, one of the most traumatic events in a child's life, second only to death, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

Taylor explains that there are three important steps in helping a child through these times:

1. Understand that divorce does impact children.

2. Choose a "least-stressful" time to tell them, and

3. Guide and assure children through the period after the divorce.

Taylor is with the Home Economics Program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

For children, divorce, like death, is the "loss" of a loved one except the parent is not dead — just gone, Taylor explains.

Research suggests that the really difficult part for youngsters, however, is the conflict surrounding a divorce, not the divorce itself, she says.

Once parents understand how divorce affects children, the next important step is choosing the best time to tell them about it — in the least damaging way, the specialist says.

Thoughtful planning for this step will set a "coping" direction for the adjustment period to follow, Taylor adds.

Here are her suggestions:

Make sure the divorce is certain before you even think about telling the children. Don't upset them with this security-shaking blow before you've made the decision.

Talk to the children after you have calmed down, not following that "final, ferocious" quarrel.

When the time comes to tell the children, it is

TMA says acupuncture in Texas considered medical practice

Texas law includes acupuncture under the definition of the practice of medicine. This means only a licensed physician or a trained acupuncturist under the physician's supervision can legally perform this ancient Chinese therapeutic technique.

The non-physician acupuncturist must obtain permission to practice from the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners, the agency that primarily regulates physicians. The board's guidelines stipulate that an acupuncturist must have at least two years of acupuncture training from a board-approved institute.

A physician also must seek board approval to be a specific acupuncturist's supervising doctor. If approved, he can allow the acupuncturist to perform certain tasks so long as the physician retains supervision and control over the acupuncturist. The physician also retains responsibility for the care and treatment of acupuncture patients.

Dating back to before 2500 B.C., acupuncture involves piercing certain parts of the body with best for both parents to tell them. At this point, tell the children immediately so they will not feel left out — or be told by outsiders.

Tell the truth — evasions and half truths only return to haunt both parents and children.

Recognize that emotional disturbances, such as fidgeting, restlessness, withdrawal, thumbsucking, bed wetting or excessive crying may be your child's response to the tension associated with divorce.

Difficult as it may be, the explanation should come from both parents, if possible.

Words come hard, but tell the child in a manner appropriate for his age and level of understanding.

Above all else, help the child understand that he did not cause the divorce — many children suffer tremendous feelings of guilt thinking they have somehow caused their parents' divorce.

When children plea for a reunited family, don't confuse the issue with long explanations about how the other parent is "wrong" or "no good". This only forces children to "take sides". And in the long run, this hurts a child. Children need both parents.

Finally, remember, just as a widow is apt to exaggerate the dead spouse's virtues, divorced persons tend to magnify the other partner's faults, Taylor notes.

Hearing either extreme is hard for children, because it shows them only a one-sided view of life.

The first European monarch to own a motor car was King Leopold of Belgium, who had a car especially built for him in 1898.

thin needles ranging from about one to nine inches in length. Although the technique is used to treat disease, Texas newspaper ads for acupuncture clinics generally emphasize it as a means of losing weight and quitting smoking and drinking.

How acupuncture work revolves around Chinese medical theory: "Chi", the basic energy of living things, is a pressurized air stream that flows through 12 primary channels of the body. Six are called "yin", and the other six "yang". When yin and yang are out of balance, the theory contends, the body is susceptible to illness and pain. Inserting and manipulating needles at the proper locations restores the balance, acupuncturists say.

The Texas Medical Association encourages further research into acupuncture — but only by or directly supervised by a licensed physician. The doctor must be "adequately skilled" in this field. "These safeguards are necessary to protect the public from exploitation and indiscriminate application by those untrained or unqualified in acupuncture," TMA says.

Two from city at workshop

Two city employees have just completed a week-long Management and Supervisory Skills Workshop conducted by the Texas State Management Development Center.

Attending from Winters were Police Chief L.C. Foster and Assistant Street Superintendent Charles Grenwelle.

The four-day workshop was hosted by the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene and was attended by some 25 persons from the 19 county area served by the WCTCOG at the Texas 4-H Center at Lake Brownwood.

Topics covered in the workshop included the Role of Management and The Management Process, Communications, Motivation and Leadership, Managing Change and Conflict, Performance Management, Time Management, Financial Management and MBO, and Human Relations.

Instructors for the workshop were Brady Mayo, who manages the Business Systems Analysis staff for the State of Texas, and Chris Miller, who is on loan to the Texas State Management Development Center from the Texas Youth Council.

VFW, Auxiliary install flagpoles in cemeteries

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 9193, and its Ladies Auxiliary have recently installed thirty-foot flag poles in the Lakeview, Northview, Fairview, and Lutheran Cemeteries.

In years past, the Post and its Auxiliary have placed small American flags on the graves of all veteran's graves in the Winters area on Veterans and Memorial Days. They will now discontinue this practice, as there are some unmarked graves and several graves without government markers, making it impossible to know for sure all the veterans' graves.

These flagpoles in each cemetery will honor all veterans that are buried in these cemeteries.

Commander M.L. Guy contacted members and other people about the project. C.B. Edgar Oil Co., owned by Sid and Doots Edgar, donated the pipe. B's Oilfield Construction Co. did the welding. Winters Oil Field Supply furnished paint and American Supply furnished the sash

The price of wheat has been below the $3.55 per bushel national loan rate in each of the first four months of the 1982-83 marketing year. This virtually assures that the maximum deficiency payment of 50 cents per bushel will be paid those producers who participated in the 1982 acreage reduction program.

The low wheat prices have been fostered by an expected 2.8 billion bushel U.S. wheat harvest, up one percent from 1981. This record production was tallied despite the voluntary 15 percent acreage reduction program that was in effect for the 1981-82 crop.

A sagging world economy has prompted the USDA to re-evaluate and lower its export projections for the 1982-83 marketing year. In the October supply and demand report, projected 1982 exports were dropped 4 percent from the previous month's estimate to 1.7 billion bushels. Some analysts predict that the export figure could decline further as importers evaluate their projected needs in view of depressed world economic conditions.

In 1982-83 it is clear that total expected supply (approximately 4 billion bushels) will outstrip projected demand by about 1.4 billion bushels, resulting in a carryover to use ratio of 56 percent by the end of the current marketing year.

Although 78 percent of the projected carry over stocks are expected to be tied up in the farmer-owned reserve or CCC inventory, it is unlikely that free stocks will be depleted in the current year. Thus, prices for the remainder of the current marketing year probably will not increase much above the 3.55 per bushel level.

Outlook for 1983-84 market prices is particularly hazardous given present information. Price enhancement for the 1983 crop will depend on several factors which at this point are unknown.

The 1983 wheat acreage reduction program will not materially affect this outlook. With current high carry over levels and normal production conditions, prices likely will be below loan rates for a substantial portion of the 1983-84 marketing season.

Officials at Texas A&M University say the 1983 wheat program should be looked upon as a way by which farmers and ranchers can supplement their income, rather than as a solution to the farm surplus problem.

Stocks of wheat are simply too high for this program to substantially reduce the carry over. It is expected that less than 70 percent of wheat producers will participate in the program, and the resulting reduction in domestic production will be approximately 4-6 percent. Our calculations indicate that a 10 percent reduction in production would be required to bring the price of wheat above loan levels.

Turkey in abundant supply this season

Turkey, now a year-round favorite, is a traditional holiday food. It's protein-packed, low calorie, flavorful and economical, and consumers should find an abundant supply of fresh, wholesome birds this season.

Beverly A. Rhoades, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, points out that turkey is one of the most economical meat sources available.

"Fresh turkeys displayed in meat counters are USDA inspected for wholesomeness and most are Grade A, indicating they are fully fleshed and meaty, well-finished with no parts missing and no skin defects," Rhoades says.

Lower grade turkeys are equally wholesome and nutritious, but may not be as visually appealing in the package.

Processed turkey offered at meat counters is inspected again to approve label information and ingredients.

"Tenderness of the meat is determined by the age of the bird, rather than the sex, grade or size. A 25-pound turkey is just as tender as an eight-pound bird of the same age. Toms are generally as tender as hens of similar age. For greatest tenderness, look for the words, 'young' or 'fryer-roaster' on the label", Rhoades says.

To determine how much fresh turkey to buy, plan for three-fourths pound per person, or for planned leftovers, purchase one pound per person. When choosing whole turkeys, large birds may be the most economical buy per serving, Rhoades explains, and leftover meat can be stored for later use.

Pre-basted and pre-stuffed whole turkeys are available but cost more per pound than plain frozen turkeys. "There is little difference between them in the cooking process for moist and tender meat," Rhoades says.

Turkey parts or processed turkey may be used instead of the whole bird for some occasions, but generally cost more per pound. Packaged turkey parts allow consumers to choose white or dark meat, or an assortment, to please the family.

Turkey roasts offer variety and are available in all-white or all-dark meat, or a combination of both.

Processed turkey is particularly popular because of convenience, versatility and storage ease. Cooked, cured or smoked turkey may taste similar to pork or beef counterparts, but usually has its own distinct flavor. Turkey "ham" is actually thigh meat rolled and seasoned to taste like ham. Ground or link turkey sausage is a reduced-calorie sausage. Turkey luncheon meats with a deli flavor and aroma are seasoned to resemble their counterparts in the luncheon meat field.

"With the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons approaching rapidly, families may want to plan creative uses of turkey in their holiday meals," Rhoades says.

Pecan Show scheduled Nov. 20 in Ballinger

The Runnels County Pecan Show will be held Nov. 20 in Ballinger, with judging to be held the day before. Any pecan grower in the area may submit entries to the show, providing there is no pecan show in their county. No person can enter more than one county show. No entry limit per exhibitor is made, but participants are limited to one entry of each named variety they grow. The grower may enter as many seedlings, known hybrids or natives as he wishes. The exhibitor must be the grower.

A minimum of 50 pecans are necessary for each entry, which may be entered at the County Extension Office in the County Courthouse in Ballinger, or at Alderman-Cave Company in Winters. No entry will be accepted later than Thursday, Nov. 18.

Pecans should be packaged in paper bags with exhibitors name, address and variety of pecan, if known.

No exhibitor may have more than one entry in each variety class. If there is only one entry in a class, the entry will be

TSA board endorses traffic safety task force recommendations

Tougher penalties for DWI offenders, increased use of child auto safety seats for infants and children under four and strengthened driver education in Texas were among the legislative recommendations unanimously approved by the Texas Safety Association Board of Directors recently.

Responding to Texas Department of Public Safety Chief Col. Jim Adams' call for tougher laws and greater enforcement of those laws to deal with DWI offenders in Texas, the directors of the 1400 member safety group approved all of the Task Force on Traffic Safety recommendations and pledged to work for grass roots understanding of the recommendations and their safety benefits.

Among those recommendations are raising the drinking age to 21, banning open containers of alcoholic beverages from the passenger compartments of motor vehicles and stiffer penalties for driving while intoxicated. Several Texas Safety Association members, including the immediate past president, Dave Coslett of Dow Chemical in Freeport, served on the task force.

Current Texas Safety Association President Dean Ward said, "It is imperative to remove drunk drivers from Texas high ways. As safety professionals, TSA members are acutely aware of the tragic results of drunk driving. We want this behavior stopped."

NEWS FOR PARENTS

A Better Children's Vitamin Formula

Your child's vitamin needs are different from those of adults. For instance, on a weight basis children may need more Vitamin D, Vitamin C, and Niacin than their parents do to help their young bodies grow properly.

If your child is a fussy eater, he or she may not be getting all the vitamins and minerals needed for healthy growth.

Many parents are finding one way to see that their children get the vitamins they need is by giving them a children's vitamin supplement, such as Popeye vitamins from J.B. Williams, featuring six tasty cartoon characters including Olive Oyl, Sweet Pea and Popeye himself.

Popeye has a children's vitamin formula doctors prefer, with 17 vitamins and minerals. That's 20 percent more essential vitamins than any other leading brand, and five recommended minerals, not just one, as in most other children's vitamin formulas.

Popeye vitamins contain no artificial sweeteners and no preservatives.

Quilt Show draws crowd during weekend festivities

The quilt division of the Arts & Crafts Show was held at the Z.I. Hale Museum and drew a crowd of 128 people to see the 42 quilts displayed.

The overall winner of the show was a pieced quilt belonging to Mrs. Homer Stoecker. It was made for her graduation in 1936 by her grandmother, Mrs. H.K. Reid.

Several Lone Star quilts were exhibited. Mrs. V.E. Fisher, Mrs. Fred C. Young and Mrs. Oliver Wood entered quilts in this group. There was also a nine patch and quilted spread made by Mrs. Jack Whittenberg, and a crazy quilt made by Mrs. S.A. Whittenberg that belonged to Jack. First place went to a quilt made by Homer Hodge's grandmother in 1965.

Myrl Young received first place on a quilt made by her mother, Mrs. Garner, for her wedding present in 1930.

Quilts entered in the embroidery division were a cross stitch belonging to Floy Hodge; state flower, Mrs. Walter Kraatz; state bird quilt, Mrs. Bill Bredemeyer; cross stitch flower, Mrs. Bill Milliron; and a quilt spread, property of Mildred Gardner, which placed first.

The 52-year-old hand painted quilt made by Mrs. Earl Roach won first in its division. It was painted with India Ink. A quilt made with prize ribbons won by Bill Hoppe's chickens in fairs and stock shows also won a first place ribbon.

A 70-year-old baby quilt made by Glenn Hoppe's grandmother received first place. Jewell Denny exhibited an antique quilt with "around the world" pattern.

Emily White displayed two pieced quilts she had made. They were quilted by Vida Talley. A strawberry pattern quilt was made by Maggie Moore and entered by Melody Ferguson.

Lucille Virden exhibited a double ring quilt made for her granddaughter's wedding and a bowtie pattern made for her grandson. Ellen Reid received two first places, one on a baby quilt and a large quilt called the "Wild Rose" pattern. Lela Thormeyer entered a quilt she had made for an expected great-grandchild.

Estella Bredemeyer, chairman, was delighted with the response to the two-day show. She also announced a memorial to Kirby and Alpha Robinson had been received from Mr. and Mrs. Morris Robinson.
