Wait A Minute —

By Kerry Craig

Well, looks like spring has sprung around here, the buds are poppin, so are the lawn mowers and the 'mini-bikes'—Now wait a minute...

Mini-bikes — now here is a thought to think about. On just about any afternoon, in any section of our town you can see one of the smaller motorcycles dashing about ridden by some youngster. A youngster who is really enjoying the freedom that a motorcycle can provide.

There is a problem here. But before you think that I am against motorcycles — I have one myself. The problem with these mini-bikes is this: for the most part the riders are youngsters — too young to get a license and their mini-bikes are not street legal (not intended for use on streets and highways).

The ones that really bother me are the kids who are riding in shorts, with no shirt, and with no helmet. Now this can be very hazardous to their health. As a matter of fact, state law requires riders under a certain age to wear a helmet. Common sense dictates heavier clothing to protect the body.

Now, to speak from personal experience, it is very unpleasant to find that your ride is no longer under you, but on you sliding down a street or highway. In that situation you develop what some motorcycle riders call "road rash."

To really get to the point of this, these kids can become dangerous to themselves from several standpoints. Mini-bikes are small, and not always easy to see. This makes them even more dangerous because drivers of cars may not see them.

These mini-bike riders without helmets, if they happen to have an accident, are even more likely to be seriously injured, and with no shirt on there is even more of the body exposed to the ground.

One would think the parents of these kids would think of these dangers—but wait a minute...

Why do we see these young riders dashing madly down the residential streets. They, for the most part, do not have driver's licenses. Their motorcycles are not street-legal. There are no helmets.

What's more, in several instances, when police officers tried to contact these kids the chase was on.

If these youngsters are going to ride, they should learn to do it properly. It is safer.

There is nothing like having a good motorcycle (street, dirt, or highway) under you. It is one of the most enjoyable sports anywhere — it also is one of the most dangerous, especially if you are on the street or highway.

If the mini-bikers learn to ride safely and properly now, in the right places, they may become serious motorcycle operators. If they are going to learn, parents, help them to learn right.

Physiologic Training is no breeze

By Kerry Craig

There are many of us who have flown aboard the big commercial airliners and on some that were not so big. Others have been aboard private aircraft. It was very likely that we did not notice much of a sensation other than our ears popping and feeling stopped up. Maybe there were others whose ride was more unpleasant — grabbing for that little plastic bag.

Now, I have flown a number of times, on aircraft ranging from a small, single-engine, private plane to some of the larger military planes. And I have experienced many of the unpleasant things that can happen.

This past weekend on a trip, courtesy of the Public Affairs office of the 96th Bomb Wing at Dyess Air Force Base, I had the opportunity to learn some of the reasons for the unpleasant feelings and to learn some of the things that pilots of high-flying aircraft have learned to live with every day.

The mission, which began on a Thursday evening boarding a bus at Dyess, turned out to be longer than anyone suspected and by the time the Air Force vehicle brought 10 members of the news media back home we had spent some 26 hours with very little sleep and quite exhausted from the rigid

Assistance agent resigns

Commissioners hear bids, accept resignation

The Runnels County Commissioners Court okayed the purchase of a new vehicle for the sheriff's department, a pickup for Precinct 1, and three dump trucks in their Tuesday meeting.

A total of six bids were submitted to the commissioners for a vehicle to be used by the sheriff's department. After reviewing the bids the commissioners awarded the bid to Holland Ford for a full-sized Ford LTD-S. The car will be used by Chief Deputy J.D. Wilson. The winning bid was in the amount of $9,052.68.

Other automobile bids were submitted by Jim Bass Ford of San Angelo and four bids, all for General Motors cars, were submitted by Ben Alexander Motors of Ballinger.

Holland Ford also was the low bidder for a pickup for Commissioner Precinct 1, with a total price of $11,001.15.

Three dump trucks, for use in Precincts 1,3, and 4, were purchased by the county at a total cost of $46,412.75 from Ben Alexander Motor Company. Bids for the trucks were submitted by Holland Ford, Alexander, Jim Bass Ford, Angelo Truck and Tractor, and an Abilene dealer.

In other business the commissioners accepted the resignation of Assistant County Agent Eddie Bean. Bean had served in the Runnels County Extension Office for the past 23 months. In the letter of resignation, he said that he had accepted a position as County Extension Agent for Kleberg and Kennedy Counties effective May 1.

The commissioners granted right of way to General Telephone Company to cross a county road, precinct one with a buried cable.

The commissioners discussed but took no action concerning House Bill 426, recently passed by the Texas Legislature relating to discounts to taxpayers for early payment of taxes.

Following a lunch recess, the commissioners were to consider an applicant for the position of assistant county agent.

Deputies to step up county-wide patrols

Runnels County Sheriff Bill Baird said Monday that his department has begun an effort to increase patrols county-wide. Baird said the move is one that will give increase law enforcement protection to Runnels County residents.

Baird said that his department will increase patrols county-wide and not in any specific area. The sheriff said that he was "misquoted by the Abilene newspaper" concerning the emphasis on patrols. He said that because Rowena does not have a resident deputy, there is a need for increased patrols there as well as in Wingate and other communities in this county.

Sheriff Baird said that the patrols will offer crime prevention as well as traffic patrol in communities such as Wingate and Rowena which do not have either a police department or resident deputy.

Another change that has been implemented in the sheriff's department allows deputies to have designated hours off. The new sheriff said that, on a rotating basis, each of the officers will be able to go home after 5:00 p.m. and not be on call.

In the past, all deputies have been on call or on patrol around the clock. Baird said that at any time of the day there are officers on call or on patrol, but the officers know that they will have time off when they are not subject to being called out.

In summing up his first three weeks as county sheriff, Baird said that there have been no personnel changes and that none are expected. The sheriff said that he could see a need for additional personnel, but no additional officers are expected in the immediate future.

Baird expressed his appreciation to the area police departments for their cooperation and said that he was looking forward to providing increased service to the residents of the county.

Blood drive scheduled for Winters area

Thirty-five hospitals, including North Runnels Hospital make up the service area of United Blood Services of San Angelo. The patients in these West Texas hospitals require approximately 1200 units of blood or blood components each month. It takes the support of concerned citizens of the community in order to meet these blood needs. If each healthy citizen within the community would donate blood, there would be no problem. United Blood Services feels sure that Winters wants to be self-supporting in providing the blood used by residents. What better way can we demonstrate our concern for our fellowman than by

Who Hauled The Rock?

No matter how much one knows about a subject, it seems there is always something else to be learned, especially in the case of history.

After years of searching and discovering the background history of the Rock Hotel, I didn't know until lately where the large boulders came from to build it and who hauled the material.

The hotel came into the limelight once again when Kate Adams of Seagraves, formerly of Winters, told Helen Hearne about the practice of placing official markers on historic sites and houses in Runnels County. Helen related this information to her Aunt Virginia Draper in California, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Heath, built the hotel when the railroad came and operated it successfully for several years.

A prominent business woman in California, Mrs. Draper has a number of exclusive dress shops to her credit and was interested in providing a marker for the hotel. An autobiography of her life furnished sufficient history about the hotel and her early days in Winters, but she did not have the date it was constructed. Others who attended the big picnic that was held on July 4, 1909, in celebration of the coming of the train could not recall if the hotel was built at that time.

While conferring with Lorene Frazier, present owner, about the proper inscription and her permission to place the marker on the building, she told me that Bert Kirby, a roomer at the hotel, had declared the hotel was finished in time for the celebration in 1909. It was assumed that the hotel was not finished until 1910, since no one could be found who remembered it, but we gladly changed the date to 1909.

The J.P. Kirbys moved to Winters on Christmas Eve of 1908, when Bert was ten years old. The family with four sons and one daughter lived in town for two months until they could get possession of the farm, five miles northeast of town, that Mr. Kirby had bought two years previously.

In the meantime, Mr. Kirby bought two rock buildings at Runnels City, the first county seat, and with the help of his brother-in-law, Charlie McCullah, dismantled these buildings and hauled the rock to Winters. One of these buildings was the Brandt hotel, erected in 1882, and the huge stones would be used to build the new Rock Hotel in Winters.

Bert said that his father had two wagons and his uncle had one. Each wagon had a driver and was pulled by two big mules. A round trip could be made in a day by starting early and working until late. This included dislodging the stones, loading them and then unloading at Winters. The boulders were strung out around the foundation of the building so that they would be easier to use. Bert was too young to lift rock, but had been driving a team for several years and was able to make a hand as driver. He recalls that there were other drivers and part of the rock was used in the Smith Drug Store building. Several loads of windows and doors were hauled and Bert thinks that the front doors of the hotel also came from old Runnels, but is not sure where the other frames and windows were used.

The next memories that Bert Kirby has are of the picnic and the celebration when the first train came through. The J.A. Lamberths and their four children came in the surrey from south of town and the J.P. Kirbys came from north of town with their five boys and one girl. There was such a downpour of rain that the Kirby children ran back and forth from the hotel to their cousin's house, across the street from the Methodist Church, to get out of the rain.

After the Kirbys moved to the farm they lived in the small house that was there until 1915, when they built their new home on the hill. "We worked all week and came to town on Saturday evening to see our friends," said Bert, who was married to Laura Thorntonburg in 1925. "I farmed until I went broke raising cotton when the price dropped to five cents a pound. There I worked on ranches in various places. My first job was for John Smallwood at $1.00 a day. And he furnished feed for my milk cow and chickens."

The Kirbys lived on ranches here and there until they moved to New Mexico for seven years. They were 60 miles from town but the railroad went through the ranch. So they rode to town on the train and returned the next day. While they were living there, Bert's mother died in 1953, after she and Mr. Kirby had celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary in 1952. Six months after his mother's death, Bert's wife died, so he returned to Winters to live with his father.

Mr. Kirby was very active until after he had passed his 100th birthday on Feb. 25, 1958. An extremely active Mason, he drew considerable publicity when he opened a Masonic Lodge meeting after he passed his century mark. He became ill and died the following July.

After his father's death, Bert moved to town and worked for Arthur Clark, shoeing horses and trading for 12 years before Mr. Clark's death. When he retired because of ill health, Bert eventually moved back to the Rock Hotel where he feels at home — living in the house that he helped to build when he was a boy.

POKIN' FUN
By Doc Blakely

Remember the oil embargo? Remember the Arab Cartel? Remember the Alamo!

Now they say it's likely that a price war will erupt. The price of this war will likely be that being rich will no longer be shiek.

Things have gotten so tough in the oil business that the latest drilling rig is being designed by a dentist...made by Mattel...power plant by Schwinn.

It's just a rumor of course, but the word is out that middle management Arabs are accepting care clothing packages from defunct chapters of the KKK.

Serves 'em right. Now when they drop to their knees, face Mecca, and pray 6 times daily, it'll be worth the trip down.

After all they've had us on our knees for several years, over a barrel and in a hole...trying to make ends meet.

Some of us nearly met our ends, too.

The cartel spent 6 days in a London hotel arguing about lowering the price of a barrel of oil. They argued for several reasons. First, some of them wanted to lower the price per barrel but not the oil inside. Secondly, some wanted to lower the price and lower the oil level inside. Finally when the majority ruled that they were going to have to get by on less the big argument in the hotel can be summed up in two words — separate checks.

One of the Iranian delegates got his turban too close to a revolving fan and was badly beaten by his own body guards who mistook him for a whirling dervish.

The sad thing about it was that brain damage had no effect on his leadership abilities.

He became a human corkscrew and it took several hours to extract him from the wooden floor. Finally, though, they discovered the problem...it was a left-hand thread.

Liberia has lots of oil, too, but their Colonel Kadafy can't be counted on for meaningful input. He wanted to form his own fleet of tankers, hollowed out from trees. He even had his architects bring in a crayola sketch of his plans. The oil would be sold in wine bottles and labeled "Kadafy Duck."

Sure feel sorry for those guys in their tattered rags and battered Rolls. Soon, very soon, OPEC may stand for "Oilfield People Eat Camels."

What the heck, we went through tough times, too. It's not so bad, once you get over the hump.

"Living Waters" theme of 1983 NACD Soil Stewardship Week

The Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District will join the nationwide celebration of Soil Stewardship Week to take place May 8-15, according to a recent announcement by Bud Davis, chairman, Board of Directors. The theme of this year's celebration is "Living Waters". The National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

"If our water management practices in the past have been adequate, we may ignore the rising population, the increased industrialization, and expanded irrigation, all of which require more water from our reservoirs," cites NACD in the 16-page Soil Stewardship Week booklet. "One of our more compelling social and economic needs is for a full appreciation of the true value of our abundant supply of water. It is time to think seriously about conservation, pollution, priority usage and our dependence upon it."

Informative material on the Soil Stewardship Week theme is distributed each year through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, churches, civic and educational organizations and to individuals participating in the observance.

"If we are to make certain that supplies will be adequate for present and future needs, we are obligated to abide by universal laws and to help, rather than hinder, the process by which the constant supply of water is recycled and repurified," according to NACD.

Mickie and I invite you to come with us on this unforgettable Runnels County Tour of Europe with farm visits August 2-14, 1983

Our tour will take us to Holland, Germany, Switzerland, France and Belgium for what may be the most interesting 13 days of your life! We'll visit typical farm families and see the sights of rural Europe in addition to visiting the major cities and famous tourist attractions. What's more, we'll do it all without a care in the world, thanks to our professional, English-speaking Tour Director who will be with us to look after our every need every step of the way. This is your opportunity to share a once-in-a-lifetime vacation with friends and home folks. But hurry. Space on our Runnels County tour is limited.

Write or call for a detailed itinerary today!

How different is farming in Europe? Come with us and see! We'll share unforgettable experiences with friends as we tour ancient farming villages and enjoy the hospitality of European farm families. We'll also spend time in famous cities and visit renowned tourist attractions.

Every detail of this trip has been planned far in advance by some of the most experienced folks who operate group farm tours. As a result, we will be able to make the most of our time in Europe, and are assured of maximum value for our every dollar.

If you're a first-time European traveler, or plan to travel alone, our tour is perfect, because you'll be with friends who share your interests.

Second, to add to your sense of security, you'll receive plenty of personal attention from our tour director. And, before you know it, our entire group will be acting like one big, happy family! So, make it a point to obtain your free itinerary today!

In Holland, we'll enjoy a canal cruise through old Amsterdam. We'll also visit a farm that was once on the floor of the North Sea and, if time permits, the world's largest flower auction.

In Germany, our Rhine River cruise will carry us past castles and vineyards on hillsides so steep they defy climbing, much less cultivation. We'll visit a farm family in an ancient village surrounded by a crazy-quilt patchwork of small fields. Our travels will also find us on the legendary Romantic Road and in the old walled town of Rothenburg.

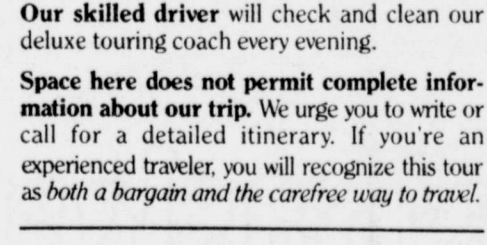

Don't be surprised if you make some new friends among the hospitable Europeans we encounter!

Our Tour Director is one of the best. He'll check us in and out of hotels, oversee the luggage handling and arrange sightseeing and group activities. This knowledgeable fellow will answer our questions about European agriculture, history and customs, plus help us with currency and language differences.

Our skilled driver will check and clean our deluxe touring coach every evening.

Space here does not permit complete information about our trip. We urge you to write or call for a detailed itinerary. If you're an experienced traveler, you will recognize this tour as both a bargain and the carefree way to travel.

The Arch of Triumph ranks with the Eiffel Tower as a world-famous landmark. We'll see both in Paris.

Large, wrap-around windows give us a "bus-eye" view from our comfort-controlled motorcoach.

The $1,897 price from Dallas is much less than you would pay for the same trip if you could arrange it on your own. Add first-class hotels, most meals, fascinating farm visits and a deluxe touring coach designed especially for sightseeing and you have a fantastic travel value! But you'll be able to better judge that when you examine the itinerary. Call or send for one soon.

Country Folk

By Jerry Lackey
P.O. Box 1542, San Angelo, TX 76902

At Wool Growers Central Storage back "who know how long ago now" when the Mexican employees didn't show up for work on May 5, the boss was forced to close. Finally, it was decided to have a celebration at the warehouse and everyone take part in Cinco de Mayo.

I have attended the barbecue and beer drinking for more than 20 years now. Last Thursday was no different. The occasion was again attended by several hundred ranchmen, businessmen and employees.

The consensus from the many conversations I had is that West Texas needs a general rain. It's dry in just about every direction. Well, make that statewide.

"South Texas is almost drought-like," stated Dick Bailey of San Antonio after he made a swing all the way to the Rio Grande Valley on behalf of National Ranchers Registry.

Wilbert Bruton just returned from the Plains after delivering some trailers. "There is very little dust left up there after all the wind this spring blew it to San Angelo," he laughed.

Abilene rancher and president of West Texas Rehab Centers, Shelley V. Smith, was in Snyder last week working some cattle. He said that country needs rain badly.

Mike Dail, Federal Land Bank president at Mason, commented on the Hill Country terrain. "It is green all through this part of the country, but we are going to need some moisture going into summer," he added.

A number of ranchmen have not stopped feeding, certainly an indication of hard times continuing. Larry Donaldson, operator of the liquid feed business in Eldorado, was saying the other day they are delivering as much "if not more now than back at peak times last winter."

At the Chadbourne Ranch Sale in Bronte a couple of weeks ago, I had a nice visit with Pete Ebeling of Marble Falls. I used to spend several days per year at his ranch 20 and 25 years ago when we made pictures and gathered all the information necessary for the advertising of his annual production sale.

Like Conda Richards at the Chadbourne, Ebeling is heavy in Chianina cattle. By the way, that special consignment for West Texas Rehab during the Chadbourne Ranch sale brought $6,000. A wild turkey auctioned off at the start of the sale brought in some $2,000 for WTRC.

I also had a nice visit at that event with Dobbs Hermann. He and his wife are now retired on 10 acres at Ballinger after living 40 years on the Rocker b Ranch near Barnhard. "I didn't think we would ever adjust to living anywhere but on the 'b'," commented Mrs. Hermann. "But we are really enjoying retirement. We work in our garden and at clearing some prickly pear off our acreage."

"Sometimes, we get up and decide we don't want to do anything but get in the car and drive somewhere for a day or two," added Dobbs. "It's kinda nice not to have to be some place at a certain time."

There are a number of us living for those days!

NW Runnels in herbicide regulated area

The Northwestern portion of Runnels County is once again included in a Herbicide Regulated area May 28 - October 1, 1983. The boundaries remain the same as they were in 1982, according to Allen E. Turner, Runnels County Extension Agent.

The boundaries are: that portion of Runnels County beginning on the west county line at the point of intersection with the Colorado River, east-southeasterly along the Colorado River to its intersection with U.S. Hwy 83, thence north along U.S. Hwy. 83 to its intersection with FM 382 to its intersection with FM 2647; thence northerly along FM 2647 with its intersection with FM 1770, thence westerly along FM 1770 to the intersection with U.S. 83, thence northerly along U.S. 83 to its intersection with the north county line, thence westerly along the north Runnels County line to the northwest corner of the county, thence southerly along the west county line to the Colorado River, the point of beginning, is regulated by the Texas Herbicide Law.

Spray program for Runnels pecan trees

Pecans are a favorite with most Runnels County residents, providing shade, nuts and beauty to our surroundings. While the pecan is a very durable tree and can survive in adverse circumstances, it responds to good care and most people are anxious to take good care of their pecan trees.

Listed below is a spray schedule that you might consider following to increase the health, vigor and productivity of your trees.

Pecan Spray Program for Runnels County

- [1] Pre-pollination- May 5 - Zinc.
- [2] Casebearer Control - Approximately May 25, using Malathion or Zolone plus Zinc.
- [3] If casebearer moth emergence is slow due to cool temperature-second application.
- [4] Second generation casebearer spray - July 7.
- [5] Water Stage spray - July 25 - August 1 - to control Stem End Blight or sticky shuck disease, use a fungicide as Benelate. This is a relatively new problem that has moved into our area and one that needs attention. The stem end blight or stick shuck causes the pecan shuck to return black and just stays in the tree.
- [6] Spray number 6 is at the stage when the nut is about half hard and is generally around August 10th. This spray is designed to control the Shuck

Worm, Aphid and Stem End Blight. It should contain a fungicide, plus Guthion.

[7] The final spray is to be applied between August 22nd and September 1 and is designed to control the Pecan Weevil. Malathion plus Seven is the effective and recommended chemical for this spray.

The following rates are recommended:
NZN-1 tpsp. per gallon of water
1 1/4-1 1/2 quarts per 100 gallons of water
Zinc Sulphate 2 tpsp. per gallon of water
2 lbs. per 100 gallons of water

Home Owner's Pecan Nut Casebearer Control Measures:

[Listed is a choice of chemical sprays mixed in three gallons of water]
Malathion - 2 tpsp. 55% liquid
Zolone - 5 to 7 tpsp. 35% liquid
Seven - 6 to 9 tpsp. 80% wettable powder

Commercial Orchard Pecan Nut Casebearer Control Measures:
[Listed is a choice of chemical sprays mixed in 100 gallons of water]
Malathion - 1 1/2 pts. 55% liquid
Zolone - 1 1/2 pts. 35% liquid
Thiodan - 1 lb. 50% wettable powder
Seven - 2 lbs. 807 wettable powder

Guthion - 1 1/2 lbs. 25% wettable powder
Always read the directions on the labels carefully and follow exactly.

Handwork displayed at museum open house

An outstanding variety of handwork was displayed at the Z.I. Hale Museum open house on Saturday to coincide with the Mayfest.

In the antique category, Thelma Ledbetter contributed some fine examples of battenberg, also luncheon cloths and napkins. Oneta Williams contributed a piano cover and scarves made by her grandmother over 75 years ago, and also showed a purse she had made of bargello weave.

Afghans took the day with outstanding ones made by Carrie Hope, Aleene Mapes, Jewel Kraatz and Hazel Jordan. Mrs. Mapes also contributed a Candlewick pillow of butterfly design and a grospoint Kleenex box cover. Mrs. Kraatz had made a tissue cover of bargello weave with plastic thread, and also a pair of dolls made from socks. Mrs. Hope had a large deer picture made of yarn.

Minnie Belitz represented the depression days of the 1930s with some very fine work painted on feed socks with crayolas, and bedspreads made of embroidered sheets.

Others who displayed works of art were cross-stitch place mats and pillow by Joyce Morgan; a variety of pot holders and Christmas decorations cross-stitched by Roxie Miller; pot holders by training session.

You see, the Air Force gave the members of the press a brief trip through the altitude chamber at Brooks Air Force Base at San Antonio. The altitude chamber and the accompanying training session-Physiological Training is required of all personnel who fly above certain altitudes.

Technically speaking, the day-long session included discussions of blood gases, different types of breathing equipment, and the effects of the lack of oxygen on one's bodily systems.

The effects of a lack of oxygen were driven home by spending a considerable length of time in the altitude chamber, a small room in which the trainees are sealed in and the oxygen pumped out to simulate an altitude somewhere around 40,000 feet above sea level.

To begin with, we all had been instructed in the use of the oxygen masks and equipment. We were fitted with helmets and masks and were ushered into the chamber and plugged into the systems. Then the condition was similar to what one would experience at about 18,000 feet. Suddenly, the atmosphere in the chamber changed to only a few thousand feet above ground.

All this occurred in seconds, with a sudden fog and slight sound of rushing air. Ears popped, or should have, and in a few minutes we walked out. After a short visit with our instructors, we again entered the chamber to see what 40,000 feet would be like — without benefit of a pressurized aircraft cabin.

To start this simulated voyage, we spent about 30 minutes breathing pure oxygen to get all of the nitrogen out of our systems. After this was done, the doors were again sealed and pumps started pumping out the air to simulate an altitude of 30,000 to 40,000 feet.

After a brief stay at that atmosphere, we experienced an increase of pressure down to about a 20,000 foot level. It was here we learned firsthand what Hypoxia (system dysfunctions related to the lack of oxygen) were like. After a few minutes without the oxygen mask, our feelings ranged from nausea to euphoria, we experienced "tunnel vision", blurred vision, lack of judgement, and some experienced discomfort.

After all this was over, we went through a debriefing session to discuss what we had experienced and what we had learned. We then began the trip back.

What we had done was to learn what it would be like to be aboard a high-flying airplane, with a pressurized cabin, and how to survive (literally) the sudden decompression and accompanying lack of oxygen. It is something the crewmembers aboard these aircraft live with every day.

We also came home with a small pink card which attests our successful completion of the Physiological Training. That card will enable some members of the news media to fly aboard, the B-52 bombers stationed at Dyess and to learn just how our nation's first line defense is prepared to function.

I can tell you right now, after re-fueling missions on the KC-135 jet tankers and the low level navigation flying of the workhorse C-130 Hercules of the Military Airlift Command, that the job of being a flyer in the Air Force is no picnic. The men and women who crew these giant aircraft are highly trained and polished professionals. They are people who are proud of the job they do — and they have every right to be proud.

Edna England displayed her artistic skills from the time she made pillowcases and dresser scarf for her hope chest in 1938 up to the present day when she was recently completed an afghan and pillow for a granddaughter.

All artists are reminded to prepare their pictures and other works of art for the showing in June.

Veterans Housing Assistance program passes state legislature

Texas veterans will now have the opportunity to purchase a home through the Veterans Housing Assistance Program if it is approved by voters as a constitutional amendment in November, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro announced. The legislature completed action Tuesday on a measure which will provide a loan of up to $20,000 for eligible Texas veterans to purchase a house.

"The Texas Legislature, Governor Mark White, Lieutenant Governor Bill Hobby and Speaker of the House Gib Lewis have shown the veterans and the people of this state that we need a modern housing program which will not cost the taxpayers of this state one cent," Mauro stated. The proposed constitutional amendment will allow for the sale of $500 million in bonds for the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program and $300 million for continuation of the Veterans Land Program. The election is set for Nov. 8, 1983. The measure was sponsored by Senator Lindon Williams (D-Houston) and Representative Frank Tejada (D-San Antonio). The program passed in the Senate unanimously and overwhelmingly in the House of Representatives.

"We will finance this program through the sale of general obligation bonds with the veterans themselves covering the costs through their payments. Taxpayers will not have to provide any tax money for the housing or the land program. Over 80,000 Texas veterans have participated in the Veterans Land Program since 1949. We want every eligible Texas veteran to have the opportunity to purchase land or a home," Mauro stated.

Mauro said private businesses and the entire state economy will benefit from the establishment of the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program. "Existing lending institutions will administer the housing program so we will not have to create another state agency or bureaucracy. We also will stimulate construction of 25,000 new homes and provide another 45,000 jobs for people in Texas. This program is the best example of the cooperation between government and private enterprise which can work to the benefit of all people," Mauro stated. Mauro noted Texas currently has more than 1.6 million veterans including 525,000 Vietnam era veterans.

"The Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program has the support of our state leaders, veterans organizations, lending institutions and thousands of other Texans. I am hopeful Texans will agree with me in November in voting for the Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program and the continuation of the Veterans Land Program," Mauro said.

"As I stated during the campaign and continue to state while in office, we don't need to do the veterans a favor, just repay one," Mauro concluded.

Z.I. Hale Museum holds installation of officers

A number of new things were introduced at the meeting of the Z.I. Hale board members on Tuesday with the installation of new officers.

Mrs. Loyd Roberson installed officers for the coming year, using a "Hold The Rope" theme. Installed were: Edna England, president; Kay Colburn, vice president; Mary Margaret Leathers, secretary; Estella Bredemeyer, treasurer; Mildred Gardner, curator; Joyce Bahlman and Minnie Belitz, exhibit directors; and Charlise Poe, reporter-historian.

Roy Young was named a trustee and will serve as building coordinator, a newly created office. Maurine Davis will be in charge of memorials.

Mrs. England outlined her plans for the year during the meeting and announced that the museum had a balance of $2,469.92 in the treasury on May 1.

Themes for open house each month were announced: June, Art; July, Dolls; August, Membership Drive and Antique Cars; September, School Days; October, Toys; and November, quilts; with a possibility of Christmas decorations in December.

Four members, Charlise Poe, Edna England, Mary Margaret Leathers and Estella Bredemeyer will attend a workshop in Lubbock on May 19, sponsored by the Texas Association of Museums.

The entire building has a fresh coat of white paint trimmed in gray with the name printed in black across the front and plainly visible. A new sign has been contributed by Carl Grenwelge and painted by Edna England which designates when the museum is open.

This past week has been the most difficult and frustrating week of the Session for me because of the action of the House in regard to the Appropriations bill. Of course, the Appropriations bill is the legislation that dictates the spending of state dollars over the biennium.

The bill that was passed was totally unpalatable to me for several reasons, all of which I think are valid. In the first place, the bill, and the solvency thereof, is predicated upon three items, at least, that may or may not actually come into being. The items are the $220 million amount derived from a reduction in the state's contribution to the Teacher Retirement System, (I have supported reduction if the funds generated would be used in the education field); the "speed up" of tax collections by the Comptroller; and passage of Senator Leedom's bills increasing fees to users of state services. As I say, none of these enumerated matters may come to pass and I think it is bad business for the State of Texas to spend money they may get.

Another good and sufficient reason for opposition to the Appropriations bill is the fact that because of the change in the local fund assignment formula, local school districts, statewide, will have to make up an additional $122M out of the only source they can, ad valorem taxes. I cannot for the life of me see why 82 members voted for such a measure, realizing the outcome, but can only conclude that they either did not know what effect it would have or did not care. In spite of the efforts of 50 of us who voted against the Appropriations bill, I fear most members simply did not know what they were doing.

Finally, the Appropriations bill simply is not adequate to meet the needs of the state. It is much like a good, conscientious carpenter who is asked to build a house but is only given three-fourths enough lumber. He can conceivably build the house, but, regardless of how skilled he may be, he cannot do the job he was commissioned to do in a satisfactory manner.

I think I have probably worked harder this past week than any other time in my 38 years and it sure leaves a bitter taste to have worked so hard, talked so long, and tried to move so many people and be ultimately unsuccessful. I take no pride in the outcome, but I do have a certain amount of pride in the fact that a number of us worked so hard for what was right, proper and just. See you next week.
