Donated to museum

Dean Burns, Winters artist, donated this portrait of J.N. Winters, for whom the town was named, to the Z.I. Hale Museum recently. The portrait, along with other art work done by local artists, was displayed during a recent Open House at the museum.

Wet-Dry petition being circulated in South Runnels County

Voters in the southern half of Runnels County, in Justice Precinct One, may get an opportunity to go to the polls sometime in mid-August to express their opinion on the legal sales of alcoholic

Summertime Sidewalk Sale June 24-25

The Winters Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a "Summertime Sidewalk Sale" on Friday and Saturday, June 24 and 25.

In addition to finding super "buys" on the sidewalks of participating merchants, shoppers can sign up for a drawing sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Some lucky person will win $250.00 in gift certificates to be spent at the stores participating in the Summertime Sidewalk Sale. The drawing will be held in front of the Chamber office, 118 West Dale, at 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 25.

For more information, please call the Chamber office, 754-5210.

Wait A Minute —

By Kerry Craig

And that is just what I am doing. Recently, in a number of newspapers from around the area there were headline stories about this area being a possible site for the disposal of "low-level nuclear waste materials". Boy what a story — what with Three Mile Island, the nuclear power plant at Glen Rose, that hazardous waste dump near Hereford, and many other stories literally buzzing with radio-activity. Maybe I just was behind the door when the news releases were mailed out from that agency in Austin with a three-mile long name. No not really, the guy there said they did not know I was here. Big deal — I did not know they were there either, and I was not alone — neither did the Governor's office. Now wait a minute...

In an attempt to call these guys that dump this radio-active stuff (maybe it glows in the dark), I could not find their number in my Austin phone book. It was not in the directory of offices at the state capitol. So I called a friend in the Governor's office to see if they might have any idea how to get beverage in that portion of the county.

According to records in the Runnels County Clerk's Office, an application for a petition was filed on June 1 by Mary McBee. Mrs. McBee, who lives northwest of Ballinger near the site of the new Ballinger Lake, listed her address as Route 2, Ballinger. Mrs. McBee also is the owner of a newly-constructed convenience store which is also located near the site of the new Ballinger Lake.

The petition requests the county to call an election to give voters in Justice Precinct One the option of voting for or against the legal sales of all alcoholic beverages, for off-premises consumption.

The petition, which will require 481 signatures of qualified voters, is due to be returned to the county clerk's office on July 1. The county clerk will then check the names on the petition against the voter registration lists and present the document to the commissioners court after the signatures are certified.

The commissioners court will then set the date for a local option election to allow the voters in that area to vote for or against the legal sale of alcoholic beverage. The date for such an election, if the petition efforts are successful, would be in mid-August.

The entire southern half of Runnels County makes up Justice Precinct One, which includes voting boxes 1, 7, and 8. If a straight line were drawn on a county map from the Coke County line east through Hatchel to the Coleman County line, the area south of that line would make up the Justice Precinct One.

There are two areas in southwestern Runnels County that would not be affected by the election. Both Miles and Rowena are already in an area where the sale of alcoholic beverage is legal.

Really buzzing...

Thank goodness for telephoto lens. While roaming about searching for a good picture of something this intrepid photographer happened across a swarm of bees that was gathering on a pecan sapling in northwest Winters.

Just after this shot was taken, telephoto of course, some fellow with more understanding of bees came along, set down a part of a hive, and very calmly shook the small tree until the critters fell into the box — most of them anyway. The rest flew madly about for just long enough to make the guy with the camera decide he needed to look elsewhere for a picture.

West Texas Utilities files for general increase in rates

West Texas Utilities Company has filed for a general increase in its electric rates for retail customers.

Local Manager Gary Moore said the application, filed Friday, is a systemwide request for higher rates. Simultaneous filings were made in all incorporated towns and with the Public Utility Commission of Texas at Austin for an increase in rural areas, unincorporated towns and in incorporated towns which have ceded jurisdiction over electric rates.

Winters City Administrator Glenn Brown said Monday that the Winters City Council would not hear the WTU presentation until mid-July and then could either approve the rate increase request or suspend the rates for a specified time and accept the Public Utility Commission ruling on WTU's request.

So far, a total of 19 municipalities served by WTU have opted to let the PUC analyze rate request and to make decisions for them. These are Albany, Chillicothe, Dickens, Eldorado, Goree, Hedley, Lakeview, Matador, McCamey, Mertzon, Moran, Paint Rock, Roaring Springs, Robert Lee, Roby, Rotan, Rule, Trent and Weinert. WTU has filed complete information about the rate request with each of these towns.

The principal reasons cited for the new rate proposal is that the present rates are not adequate to support the investment WTU has made in necessary new facilities since the last rate increase, Moore stated.

WTU's current construction program, the core of which is the coal-fired power plant at Oklaunion, is the biggest and most expensive in the Company's history. By the time the proposed rates become effective, WTU will have invested more than $84.4 million in new facilities

Abilene trial for Winters man reset

A felony trial for a Winters man, scheduled to get underway Monday, was reset by State District Judge Don Lane before jury selection could get underway.

The 42nd District Court manslaughter trial for Wendell Clayton Conway, 27, of Winters was postponed until July 11 because of a faulty indictment.

Conway, in the indictment, was accused of killing David Ochoa; however, the man who died September 23, 1980 of a gunshot wound was Daniel Ochoa whose brother is named David.

Conway had his April, 1981, conviction on manslaughter charges overturned after an appeals court found the prosecutor, final arguments contained inadmissible comments on Conway's silence after his arrest.

Conway, who remains free on bond, had gone to trial on murder charges in April, 1981, but the jury found him guilty of the lesser charge of manslaughter. He was re-indicted last week on the manslaughter charge but the indictment named the wrong man as the victim of the crime.

and must spend considerably more in the years ahead to satisfy the growing demand for electricity in West Texas.

The proposed rates would produce an increase in total retail revenue of $26.6 million. This amounts to 11.4 per cent.

No major changes in rate structure are included in the proposal. For residential customers, the average electric bill, including fuel costs, would go up by about 13.2 per cent, although the actual increase would vary with the amount of usage.

Winters City Council approves purchase of new maintainer

The Winters City Council, meeting in a rare Thursday session gave its approval to the purchase of a new maintainer for the city street department at a purchase price of $59,900. The successful bid was submitted by Godsey Equipment Company of Abilene.

Glenn Brown, the City Administrator, said the low bid provided for a five-year payment plan at eight percent simple interest which would result in a total cost to the city of $72,000 over the five-year period. Brown said that the rate of interest being earned by the city's certificates of deposit was more than the interest charged in financing the equipment and that the city could make more money by paying for the maintainer over a five-year period than by using certificates of deposit to purchase the machine at the cash price.

In other action, the council approved an ordinance regulating subdivisions that meets the minimum requirements of the city and follows the state statutes.

The ordinance, as approved, would require the developer to pave or agree to pave all streets within the subdivision or addition. Also, the developer will be responsible for the installation of water and sewer lines to meet city specifications.

The council took no action on the Sheppard subdivision plat, as listed on the agenda, because the plat was not completely ready. The council also learned that the plat should be first approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission before council action could be taken.

The council has a meeting set for Thursday evening at 6:00 p.m. immediately following the P & Z meeting at 5:30 p.m. to study the plat. The proposed ordinances regulating the Winters-Elm Creek Reservoir was again tabled by the council. City officials said the regulations would be considered later this month.

In other action, the council discussed the street paving program for this year and instructed the city administrator to meet with the county commissioners concerning the paving.

There are about 10 blocks of streets scheduled for paving this year and the paving will be done under a cooperative agreement with Runnels County.

The council authorized the city administrator to again advertise for bids for a 1980 model automobile. The council recently rejected the bids received for the old police car as being too low. Brown said that both the car and a 1978 truck and compactor body from the old city sanitation department will be advertised for sale.

Before ending their meeting, the council set Thursday, June 16, as the date for the next council meeting and rescheduled the first July meeting from July 4, to July 5.

On the agenda for the Thursday meeting of the council is consideration of the plat for the Sheppard Development along with minimum requirements for paving, water and sewer, and other improvements.

The council is also expected to consider petitions seeking annexation along with an option for the lease on the city sewer farm.

The city administrator also said the council will take another look at the ordinance for regulations at the new lake and consider bids for the painting of the north water tower.

Annual Winters Rodeo tickets now on sale

The Winters Rodeo Association will host the Annual Winters Open Rodeo and Parade. The rodeo will be held Friday, June 24 and Saturday, June 25, beginning at 8 p.m.

Livestock producer for the rodeo will be Terry Walls of Stephenville. Events will include bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, team roping, barrel racing and double mugging. Individuals interested in entering the first six events may do so by calling 817/968-4416, Wednesday, June 22 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

To enter the double mugging, contact Ronnie Moore, 915/767-3221, Wednesday, June 22 between 12 noon and 8 p.m. This is a one-day only registration period. Those registering in the double mugging must live within a seventy-five mile radius of Winters.

Tickets for the rodeo may be purchased from 1983 Rodeo Queen contestants or at the Cowboy Shack on the corner of S. Main and W. Dale in Winters. Advance tickets will be $1.00 for children, 6 and under, and $3.00 for all others. Tickets bought at the gate will be $1.50 for ages 6 and under, and $3.50 for all others.

The 1983 Rodeo Queen will be presented during Friday night's rodeo.

A dance will be hosted by the Winters Rodeo Association on both nights of the rodeo, beginning at 9 p.m., and held at the Community Center. Music will be provided by "Plains Country" of San Angelo.

This year's Rodeo Parade will be held Saturday, June 25 at 3 p.m., forming at 500 S. Main (Winters State Bank) parking lot at 2:15. First place plaques will be given in four divisions: floats, riding clubs, youth, and most unique. Deadline to register is 5:30 p.m., June 22. Any individuals, business, or organizations may enter the parade by contacting Cowboy Shack, 754-4087, Tresa Moore, 767-3221, or Linda Dry, 754-5235.

Until We Meet Again

Registration of guests at the 1943 class reunion of Winters High School students at the Country Club on May 7 was certainly not a routine affair. This can be attested to by Ouida Nichols.

Even with help Ouida could not keep up and she was bewildered to see a man wearing the name of Robert Brooks when she had just given him the label of Ben Watson.

Others seemed dubious also and asked Robert Brooks all kinds of questions. When cornered he pleaded a poor memory. "After all, fellows, that was 40 years ago." But three persisted and finally said they would believe he was Brooks only if Estella said so.

"Everybody knows Robert Brooks," was her evasive answer.

Finally, after some time, the supposed Robert Brooks pleaded with Estella. "You've got to get me out of this mess!"

"It all started when Alex Orr asked her to give him the name of some classmate who would not be there, Estella admitted, and she remembered that Brooks had regretted.

Estella continues to live up to her school reputation of having fun and shared a conversation that she and Bob Best had during dinner. The class motto was "We have crossed the bay and the ocean lies before us." Bob went into the service right after graduation and was sent overseas. As he crossed the harbor at New York City, he looked back and saw the Statue of Liberty, and he recalled the motto. They had a good laugh, but Estella said she was sure it was not funny at the time.

It is appropriate for any school gathering to have a test. Some of the questions and answers from The Gale are quite interesting:

1. Why would Mr. Douglas not dance with the girls on Senior Day at the State Park? Because his wife was with him.
2. Who was the senior who seemed out of place because Joyce Davis, a junior, was absent at the State Park? Herbert Skinner.
3. Who was the Jitterbug King on the Senior trip? Earl Hord, and we didn't know he could dance.
4. What was the class flower? Bluebonnet.
5. Who was most beautiful girl? Bessie Joe Sullivan (Watson).
6. Who was class poet? Bob Best
7. Who won the game between the Blizzards and the Blowhards? The faculty.
8. Who were valedictorian and salutatorian? Enid Spill (Anderson) and Pauline Sanders.
9. What was the World War II bomber called that was named for the Winters High School mascot? Blue Blazing Blizzard
10. The girls sacrificed 2,117 of these for the war effort. What were they? Silk hose.

Those who sent in reservations made some interesting comments: C.G. Keele of Detroit, Michigan, General Director of Security for General Motors Corporation wrote, "Help! I don't even remember all the names. Will be there! Notwithstanding some business problems. Best personal regards to you, Ouida. Thanks for being the arranger."

Keele was heard to remark, "If you had told me a year ago that I would be attending a reunion, I would have told you, you were crazy. When I received the invitation and the list of names, I knew I had to come."

Eula Mae (Sneed) Manns of Lindale said, "I feel like I'm back with my family."

Opal Templeton Woods wrote that "John's whole life except for a stint in the army, has been farmer/stockman - Never lived anyplace but Lebanon, Kansas (Same farm his grandfather homesteaded in the 1800s.) Time has gone swiftly and we are now retired - have been for over a year. Looking forward to seeing you and the many changes life has a way of bringing all of us."

Otis Holladay was in El Paso hospital when his invitation came. He so much wanted to come that he did get well enough to make the trip.

Patsy Paschal Chupik wrote that her husband was deceased. And that she was advertising clerk and secretarial duties to office manager for Buena Vista Dist. Co., Inc. (Walt Disney Productions).

Devona Berry wrote that she was married to a handsome marine, Edwin Muckleroy, in 1945, at Concord, California. They came back to Texas after his discharge in 1946. They had five children. She and the two youngest boys were in a car wreck and they were both killed. Her husband died in 1967. She married again to Bill Burns 14 years ago. Bill is a musician and a wholesale used car salesman. Blue grass music is their hobby.

Ouida called Dallas and Dorothy Kruse Splawn gave her the poem over the telephone that she had written about herself, Patsy Paschal Chupik, and Effie Mae Gresham Hodge.

The poem follows:
 It all began at Winters High
 Underneath that West Texas sky
 After graduation in forty-three
 The journey began for we three.

There were Dorothy Faye, Effie Mae and Patsy Fay

Who started out one summer day.
 Always known as the three musketeers
 We left for Abilene with many fears.

We soon decided with Pearl Jackson at WHS
 - That business school
 Was easily conquered by any fool.

So off to Marfa we did go
 Looking for a job and perhaps a beau.
 It didn't take long to decide that this place
 Had only one thing of interest - the Air Force Base.

Surely there was some place that could offer more,
 So we set out again in 1944.

We soon arrived in Big D -
 Such a city we never did see!
 Beautiful stores with such great buys,
 But where were all the eligible guys?
 None could be seen on any street car -
 They were all off fighting the war.

We all found jobs and started to settle down,
 And then began to go out on the town.
 Effie Mae soon became known as Priscilla
 And married Steve Hodge to share her pillow.
 The next to fall was Patsy Fay Paschal
 When she married Adolph, that handsome rascal.
 The last to fall was Dorothy Faye:
 She met that S.M.U. guy, Isaac J.
 They fell in love and married on the spot
 And soon became known as Ike and Dot.

There have been children and careers,
 And lots of occasions to say "Cheers!"
 Now here we all are after forty years
 Sharing old times and just a few tears.
 Tho' we've all gone our separate ways
 We'll have these memories all of our days.
 So, our greatest wish for you as we go out the door
 Is that we'll all be around to celebrate 10, 20, 30 or maybe 40 more!

Picnic Pleasures:

Eating In The Great Outdoors

How to pack a picnic with pizzazz?

According to Clover Sanders, chairman of the board of Clover Club Foods, all it takes is imagination and old-fashioned common sense.

The 79-year-old food expert offers her own 50 years of experience to plan a picnic with panache. She suggests centering your outing around a theme, such as Greek, Victorian, gourmet, or Western.

Before piling the food into the basket, remember a few basic tips to make your picnic more enjoyable.

- Pack foods that don't spoil easily in the sun. For example, avoid mayonnaise in your potato salad or sandwiches. If necessary, take along a cooler or plan your meal near a cool stream.
- Dangle your "cold" food in plastic bags on the banks, like the early settlers used to do.
- Put heavy food items on the bottom. That avoids crumbled cookies and smashed potato chips.
- Keep sharp-tipped objects, such as marshmallow-roasting forks, away from containers that puncture easily. Make sure lids to jars and plastic containers are screwed on tightly to avoid spilling.
- Of course, some foods are synonymous with picnics - like fresh fruit, deviled eggs, pickles and Clover Club potato chips.

Theme-styled picnics have their own special charm, according to Clover. Some suggestions for making the outing more unusual:

- A Greek-style picnic isn't complete without the traditional Greek salad of feta cheese mixed with tomatoes, onions and black olives sprinkled with an olive oil and oregano dressing. A Tzuzuki dip of pureed cucumbers and garlic mixed with yogurt is a unique dip for sesame-topped Greek bread. For the heartier appetite, try roasted chicken. A mandolin-like bouzouki for appropriate mood music rounds out the festive spirit so characteristic of Greek outings.

- In contrast, a Victorian picnic should include finger sandwiches, scones topped with your favorite preserves and whipping cream, pasties (crusty pastry shells filled with meat and vegetables), cordials, and, of course, tea. And don't forget to wear your finest knickers while whacking croquet balls through hoops.

- For the gourmet picnic, pack a linen tablecloth and napkins, plastic champagne glasses and sterling silver. Buy canned or fresh pate and a jar of caviar to spread on wafer-thin bread or toasted squares of melba toast.

Because picnics mean more than just good food, it is important to come stocked with the tools for playing well, too. Don't forget to bring the kite, frisbee, boomerang, tug-of-war rope and volleyball net.

With such a pleasing picnic package, they'll be needed to work off the calories!

Social Security and the single parent

A growing number of divorced and widowed women and men today face the responsibility of raising a family alone. Many are concerned about providing for dependents when either parent dies or becomes disabled. Others - especially women who have earned a few Social Security work credits - wonder how they'll get by in later years long after the children are grown.

If you are a single parent, Social Security should play an important part in your financial planning. It represents a base of protection. You should know ahead of time what benefits may be paid on your Social Security record and on that of your former spouse.

As an insured worker, you can get retirement checks as early as age 62. And monthly payments can be made should you die or become severely disabled for at least a year. Eligible dependents include your unmarried children who are under 18, (under 19 if in high school), or who become disabled before age 22. You need not have custody of the children nor provide most of their support for them to receive benefits.

If you are caring for a child under 16 (or disabled) who is getting a benefit based on the other parent's earnings, then you may receive checks, too. If you work and earn over a certain amount ($4,920 for people under 65 in 1983), however, some or all of your payments may be withheld.

Some benefits can be paid on that person's social security record even though you have no entitled child in your care. For example, you are eligible for checks as a widow or widower at 60 or older (or as early as 50 if disabled) or as a divorced spouse at 62. In case of divorce, the marriage must have lasted at least 10 years. Benefits can be paid even if the former spouse had remarried.

If you wish to know more about social security benefits for single parents and their families, contact any Social Security office. The people there will be glad to help you. If you belong to a single parent organization, you may wish to have a social security representative talk to your group.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to family and friends for the prayers, visits, cards, flowers, gifts, food and phone calls while I was in the NR Hospital and with my children, and since.

A special thanks to Dr. Y.K. Lee and to the wonderful staff of the hospital. My family joins me in saying "Thanks" for the many kind deeds.

Your thoughtfulness will long be remembered.

POKIN' FUN
 By Doc Blakely

Just returned from the Oklahoma State Dental Association meeting. I didn't know that much about dentists before, but I'll sure never accuse them of being "down in the mouth".

The convention there was "The Whole World Smiles With You." That could probably work just as well for a nudist convention.

The naked truth of the matter is that dentists are fun people. During one meeting of a small group, which I was invited to attend as an observer, the chairman mentioned that I was from Texas. He told of the swank new golf course near Dallas that had a green in the shape of Texas. "We're putting in a green in the shape of Oklahoma," he said. "The sand traps will be in the shape of Texas."

The minutes of the previous meeting were held up. "Does anyone want these read?" asked the Chairman.

"I move that the minutes of the previous meeting be approved as not read," sighed a member.

Someone suggested that the invocation be given before going any further. The chairman gave it and closed with, "Lord, please help Hugh." Hugh had moved the non-reading of the minutes.

Another member asked, "How much business do we have to cover?" and while the chairman looked at his notes, he answered his own question, "Oh, good, it's only a 2-page meeting."

Probably the most imaginative trick they orchestrated was when the Governor of Oklahoma, George Nigh, appeared at a local meeting of dentists. The Governor, a close friend, always came at the last moment. These jokers got 12 of the most obviously pregnant women they could con into appearing on a platform as they announced the new campaign slogan for his reelection. At the appropriate moment, the Governor was ushered to the platform as a banner unfurled and the ladies donned the campaign pins with the slogan, "Nigh's the Guy."

Maybe that light-hearted attitude was carried through when I asked my dentist to give me an estimate on repairing my mouth. "Frankly," he said, "you've let it go so long, that it would be cheaper to just hire a dog to chew your food for you."

Bethany SS Class met in fellowship hall

The Bethany Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met recently in the fellowship hall. Hostesses were Mrs. Jo Olive Hancock and Mrs. Marian Blackmon.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Margurite Russell and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Lorene Moreland. Members present answered roll call with their favorite Bible verse.

Committee reports were given by the chairmen of each committee. Election of new class officers was discussed. The devotional, "Love is the Theme" was given by members of the class.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to Mes. Hortell McCaughon, Myra Dorsett, Lucille Tierce, Jo Olive Hancock, Ethel Mae Clark, Vivian Foster, Inez Mills, Marian Blackmon, Billie Whitlow, Jimmie Davis, Myrtle Duncan, Pinkie Irvin, Omega Priddy, Charlsie Poe, Marguerite Russell, and Lorene Moreland.

Martha SS Class met with Mrs. Ivy Wood

The Martha Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church held their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Ivy Wood.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Eula Cooke, and roll was called by Elsie Lee Sanders.

A devotional was given by Ella Mae Sawyer, after which Mrs. Perrie Carwile conducted a sword drill.

Entertainment, directed by Eula Cooke, was a Bible quiz.

Refreshments were served to Mes. Vallie Brannon, Perrie Carwile, Ivy Wood, Mabel Jernigan, Margaret Gideon, Eula Cooke, Ella Mae Sawyer, Flora McWilliams, Eunice Polk and Elsie Lee Sanders.

Local artists display work at museum open house

There was a good turnout of artists and visitors at the Art Show held at the Z.I. Hale Museum on Sunday.

The art work was arranged by Joyce Bahlan and Maurine Davis and included a number of pastoral and still life paintings by local artists as well as portraits and other types of artistry.

A portrait of J.N. Winters, for whom the town was named, was presented to the museum by Dean Burns, the artist. She also displayed a bluebonnet scene, a lifelike tiger, and a turkey scene.

Bertie Bell McNeil also exhibited portraits of a girl reading and an old cowpoke.

The most unusual exhibit was metal sculpture using discarded implements by Dewey Chestnut. He created a western scene of turtles, an armadillo, chaparral and a small snake against a background of beargrass. Mrs. Chestnut showed two still life paintings, one of blue iris and another of white flowers against a blue background.

Another husband and wife team was the Bobby Airharts. Dolly contributed two pencil sketches, Cactus Bloom and Old Man. Bobby's was an oil painting of poppies.

Maxine Pritchard displayed the first picture she had painted. A picture frame made by G.A. Pruser in 1905 contained a picture painted by Lela Thormeyer in 1948. Another early picture was painted in 1926 by LaDell Davis when Mrs. H.O. Jones was his teacher.

Others displaying paintings were Myrtle Duncan, Jimmie Davis, Virginia Carey, Virgil Roberts, Pam Conner, Cyndi Pinkerton Ashley, Jim B. Hatler, Bettye Pinkerton and Jim Heidenheimer.

Those assisting with the arrangements also displayed their artistic ability. Maurine Davis and Edna England contributed paintings and Maurine showed some pastoral scenes painted by her daughter, Cynthia Stone.

Sew and Sew Club met in Wingate

The Wingate Sew and Sew Club met at the Lions Club Building on June 7. Quilting was done for Mildred Patton, hostess.

Refreshments were served to Nellie Adcock, Mable Hancock, Pauline Huckalby, Madlin King, Ethel Polk, Lessie Robinson, Lorene Kinard, Mayola Cathey, Mildred Patton, and one guest, Annie Faye King.

The next meeting will be June 21 with Eura Lloyd as hostess, and will be a gift exchange day.

A special holiday luncheon will be held June 28 for the last meeting until fall.

Rebekah SS Class met in Harrison home

The Rebekah Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Lee Harrison Tuesday night for a business and social hour. Mrs. Cliff Poe and Mrs. Wayland Hukill were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Kenneth Rosson presided over the business meeting, with Mrs. A.L. Mitchell leading the opening prayer.

Mrs. Lillian Roberson brought a devotional on "Rediscovering the Joy of Familiarity".

Members answered the roll call with verses from the Bible on "friendship".

Others present were Mes. Ray Laughorn, Ronald Cooper, Billy Simpson, Wayne Sims, Hudson White, Sr., R.Q. Marks, Pyburn Brown, Kenneth Sneed, Dennis Poe, W.J. Briley, Leamon Herrington and Mary Beth Smith.

Devore family reunion to be held June 19

The Devore family reunion will be held at noon on Sunday, June 19 at the Wingate Lions Club Building.

All friends and family members are invited to attend.

VBS to begin at local church

Registration for Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, June 18, with the school lasting June 19 through June 25, from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Children ages 3 years through the sixth grade are invited to participate in the activities during the week.

A morning of movies has been planned on Saturday, June 18, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., with all area children invited to attend.

Parents of children enrolled in the Bible school are encouraged to attend a special Parents' Night Program on Sunday, June 26 at 6 p.m. at the church.

Story time to be presented at public library

The Junior Culture Club of Winters will be sponsoring stories as seen in movies at the Winters Public Library on June 22 from 2 to 3 p.m.

Refreshments will be provided and all area children are invited to attend.

Winters Bluejays

Bluejays to travel out of town for Coleman Tournament

The Winters Bluejays, sponsored by Winters State Bank, have enjoyed a season full of wins this year, having a record of 16 wins, 1 loss — to Rowena Farmers & Daughters.

Coach Mary Arredondo and Assistant Coach Ray Olvera noted that of the fifteen players on the team, all has played in each game.

June 17, 18, and 19, the team will be participating in a 16-team tournament in Coleman. First through fifth place teams will qualify for the State Tournament in San Angelo. During tournament play, coaches have to scout other teams very carefully.

ly. According to the coach, each year that Coleman is played, it is like the Winters-Ballinger football game, but notes that her team likes tough competition. The girls play harder during these games. She also notes that the team has several good homerun hitters. Jana Hogg, for instance, a former Blanket resident, when she was asked to play, said she had never played softball. She is now one of the fastest and most alert players on the team.

Last week the Bluejays beat Robert Lee, 27-2.

Debbie Whittenburg hit two homeruns, Christine Liggins, Pat Waller hit triples. The Bluejays also beat the Winters Blue, 33-0, with Anna Vera hitting two homeruns, and Christine Liggins, Mona Martinez and Lillie Hernandez hitting 1 homerun each; Tawana Gray, three triples; and Debra Whittenburg, two triples. The Bluejays will play Lawn Wednesday and Rowena Farmers and Daughters again Thursday of next week. The team also plans to host a Ladies' Softball Tournament soon in Winters.

Sunday visitors at the Joe and Thelma Trammel home were Joe's sister, Jessie McCary of Ozona, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Johnny McCary, and granddaughter, Jessica, age two, also of Ozona.

Monica Stephens, a student at Tarleton, visited this past weekend with her parents, Charles and Donna Beth Stephens. Monica majors in Agribusiness at Tarleton.

Chaile and Leona Smith of Pampa, Tx. visited his mother, Mrs. Ethel Smith, Saturday and Sunday. Steve Smith of Abilene was a visitor on Sunday. Steve is the son of Chaile and Leona.

A special "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Ethel Smith on June 9!

Hazel Saddler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Allen, and Mrs. Rena Jones attended a reception Sunday afternoon for the Rev. Harry Hines at the Coleman Baptist Church. Rev. Hines was a pastor at Novice some years back.

Weekend visitors with Claude and Shorty Coats was the Charles and Sheryl Coats family of Coleman. Also visiting was the Melinda and Casey Wills family of Leuders.

Are we no longer our brothers' keeper??? It occurs to me that a number of the community members might be interested in doing something about the drug problems that effect, not only the big cities, but our small communities as well.

Many of our northern neighbors have become highly alarmed to the point of organizing parent groups to help combat the problem. Their work has been so successful that the groups have spread to other cities and communities in many states.

Several of the organizations are ready, willing and able to send helpful information, tips and moral support to adults that care enough to recognize and deal with the problem. Some of the parents found, to their dismay, through their efforts and investigation that their own children were involved in drug use. But through the same efforts they have been able to combat the problem in the home as well as to help their friends and neighbors. Consequently many young lives have been saved and many families have been saved the grief and heartbreak of watching a fine young mind destroy itself.

Peggy Mann's article in the May 1983 Readers Digest is a very moving and powerful statement on what parents can do. Too often we take a back seat to our responsibilities, and let someone else do it. And it never gets done! Peggy Mann has written other articles on the drug problem that were published in the Readers Digest under the title of "Marijuana Alert". The title of this month's article is "Parents Against Pot". It should be on the parental required reading list.

The article includes the names of several of the organizations, and their addresses. The National Parents For Drug Free Youth, or NPF for short, will be very happy, for a ten dollar bill, to send your beginning group, a starter kit, including a subscription to NPF's newsletter, parent/youth brochures on marijuana and alcohol, and a list of parent groups near you for the moral support you will need. A life is definitely worth the price of a carton of cigarettes or two lipsticks and an eyeliner, don't you think?

You can succeed — I can help, you can help, together, we can help. The battle will not be without lots of tears, setbacks, and doubts, but there will be a light at the end of the tunnel. And if that light shines on your child, the solution is worth the cost. If the light shines on anybody's child, it is worth the cost!

To join other concerned parents in a national support system, write to and send $10 to NPF, P.O. Box 722, Silver Springs, Maryland, 20901.

Let's not let apathy kill our future! Let us, once more be "Our Brother's Keeper!"

YOUR HEALTH

Facts From American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons

WARNING: SMOKELESS CAN BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH warn oral surgeons who have noted an alarming increase in the incidence of oral irritations which may lead to precancerous lesions in young people with the smokeless habit.

"Smokeless — either chewing tobacco or dipping snuff — has become a campus rage encouraged by tobacco companies distributing free samples at colleges, and sports heroes touting the virtues of smokeless in advertisements," explains Dr. Eugene Friedman, President of the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons.

"What the macho men don't tell is that each year 27,000 oral cancer cases are diagnosed and 9,000 people die from it."

Dr. Friedman recommends abstinence from smoking and smokeless as the best preventive measure, but cautions those who do use tobacco to perform regular self-examinations.

Among the signs to look for are white or red patches in the mouth or on the tongue; a sore that fails to heal and bleeds easily; a lump or thickening; chronic sore throat or difficulty in chewing or swallowing.

People with any of these signs should see a dentist, oral surgeon or physician immediately.

Selected compositions by Debra Whittenburg's sixth grade classes (unabridged)

(Editor's Note: Before summer vacation began, Debra Whittenburg's sixth grade classes were asked to write a composition of their own choosing. The two classes voted on the stories, and the best two from each class were selected to be reprinted in this week's Enterprise. Our thanks are extended to Mrs. Whittenburg and her classes.)

Funny Baseball

By Kelly Spill
It all started one day when these two men wanted to coach a baseball team. They were Van Ray Spill, my dad of course and George Washinton the 100th. Well they picked the boys and they set a date for practice. Well, I'll tell you how each boy came. You see Chris Rives came dressed as a Marine because he thought we were going to attack Ballinger, then came Aaron Foster, he came dressed as a ballerina and jumping around like one, too.

Then of course came Clint Deike, he came dressed in bad clothes and hauling a pig, he thought we were going to a stock show. Then came Tommy Thoyemeyer he came on a motorcycle and he was dressed like a motorcycle racer he thought we were going to race motorcycles. Their were some others but let's not go to all of them. Well we started out throwing the ball around. Then the coach hit us some balls. Clint got a flyball and it popped him in the nose because he missed it, then Aaron got a line drive and he turned around to see the ball because he was talking to Chris and it popped him in the midsection and he went down. So Aaron went home that day. Then Chris got a line drive and he tried to catch with his bare hand and he hollered out in pain. Then the funny one, Tommy, he got a grounder and he dropped to the ground to try and catch it, but it stopped 20 feet in front of him. Then the coach assigned positions. He put Tommy at first, Clint at second, Aaron at short stop, Chris on the mound, and me behind the plate. Then some weirdo named Rene showed up and my dad put him on third. Then three other dummies showed up and he put them in the outfield.

Well George Washinton the 100th came up with a name for us it was the Rangers. Our first game was one of the hottest days of the whole summer, we played the Yankees. Boy they were easy. Then on May 10 we finally lost a game. Let me tell you about it. You see, we started up by the coach hitting us some balls. Then the game started. The first pitch Chris threw was a screwball and the man off the Dodgers whopped it over the fence. We finally managed to make 3 outs. The first batter up was Michael Ysa who played centerfield. Michael walked out and said am I left handed or right handed, we all hollered right-handed so he got up ready to bat and he bunted it and he took off for first base and he was safe because of the catcher and pitcher colliding. Then Aaron Foster came up he was playing SS. Aaron hit the ball and started bouncing like a ballerina going to first base. Everyone cracked up and Aaron said what's so funny and he looked down and he saw he had lost his tights and he was starked naked not a single piece of clothing but he was safe on first.

Then Chris stepped up he hit the ball to centerfield and he took off for third base. Boy, he was crazier than a looney bird. They got Chris out and Michael but Aaron Foster scored a run that made it 31 to 1 at the bottom of the first. Let's skip to the end of the game. It was bottom of the ninth I stepped up and hit it over the fence. The score was now 109 to 2. Then came Tommy and Rene they each got out. But Clint bunted it and made it all the way to third but caught and put out trying to steal home. The game was over, final score Rangers 2, Dodgers 109. We stepped out to congratulate the other team but Michael picked up his piece of pipe and took the whole team on. He got put in the hospital but he put everyone of the Dodgers out of commission. Then the last day my dad says I quit and everyone went home.

The End

The Skunk

By Kris Sims
One day me and Kim Wilson were walking around in her pasture then Kim said do you want to ride horses? and I said yes. So we rode for 3 whole hours then after we rode we went in the house and there was this sound under the house it sounded like somebody was digging for something, so me and Kim went outside and she went under the house and there was a skunk, and she came out of there so fast it looked like she was flying and I told her if she was in a race she would have beat everybody.

So we ran in the house and called her mother and she came and shot it, but we had to go under there and get it, and when we got it out we had to see if it was a girl in case she had babies, and it was a girl so me and Kim had to go out in the pasture and look for them.

I was staying with her for 2 weeks because my mom and Dad were at a convention at Houston. Me and Kim found this hole so we dug it up and there was a possum in there that was dead and it looked like it didn't die very long ago, so me and Kim got it out and when her mom got there she looked at it and she said there was foam on its mouth so her mother sent there heads off and it turned out it had rabies.

The last week I was staying with her we got into a fight so I ran off and while I was gone I saw a hole and there was babies in it I couldn't believe I had found them so I grabbed onto a tree and got in it and those babies ran out and they were trying to spray me and I was up in that tree for 3 hours. Finally Kim showed up and she had the gun and those little skunks started coming toward her and she couldn't shoot them because she had never shot an animal before but she had to, so she loaded the gun and shot all 5 of them and everybody was so happy because she had saved my life.

The Night I Thought Was Never Going To End

By Cindy Greer

One night I had to stay by myself while my brother and my sister and my Mom and Dad were all at a party that I couldn't go to. When they left it was still daytime, but after a while it got dark outside. I was okay until I changed channels on the Television and the Night of The Living Dead was on. I tried to change it but it wouldn't change, and then the phone rang and when I answered it they told me I would be visited tonight by an unknown horse driver. I was really scared now. I didn't know what to do, so I called some friends to see if they had calls like mine, but they all said, no. One of them asked me if I wanted to come over there til my Mom and Dad got back, so I said sure, but when I opened the door there stood the unknown horse driver that I was told about. I just about died, cause I had forgotten about him coming. When he got out of his horse I ran as fast as I could, but that wasn't fast enough because he ran after me and caught me and carried me back to my house, and tied me up where I couldn't go anywhere. He told me that if I wasn't quiet he was going to bring some people from the show The Night of The Living Dead to my house. So I tried not to say a sound, but I kept screaming for help, so the horse driver brought everyone of the show to my house even the dead person in the back of his horse. This was freackier than anything that had ever happened before, so I just sat there while everyone was coming closer and closer to me, because I didn't know what else to do. When my Mom and Dad got home they heard me screaming they went to the dean and woke me up and I told them about it all and they told me it was all a dream.

Class of '89

By Kim Wilson
It was the first day of our senior year. The first thing that happened was Kelly put a lizard in the teachers desk. Then she found a tack in her chair! After the first period we went to band. Somebody had broken the directing baton and glued it together. Then when we started playing a song, it broke and flew across the room. Then during third period Belinda asked if she could turn on the lights. The lights were already on, Clint had painted the lenses a light gray where she couldn't see very well. At the end of that day I could tell this was going to be a great year. The next morning DeDe was walking around the room with a yardstick swinging it. When Enadina raised up DeDe knocked her in the head. I know she had a headache for 3 years after that. In second period (band) Michel got mad and jabbed both of his drum sticks into the head of the drum. Then in 5th period Norma switched Bobby's and Andea's locker numbers, boy what a mess that was. Then during P.E. Monica B. put a frog in Kim S. shoe. Then in the hall she practically used Tony for a trampoline wandering what was in her shoe. The next day Aaron came running in the room with a parrot saying Polly wants a cracker. Then after lunch Tina and Karen were walking down the hall doing cartwheels! Tommy brought an anteatr to school and turned it lose in the room with 255 ants. Two days later Monica S. dropped her pet worms in Gina's mash potatoes at lunch. Gina didn't know this until she felt something slimy in her mouth.

It was a very exciting year. Then it was 4 days before school was out, Carla thought it would be a nice joke to put stink bugs in Damocio's folders but she accidentally put them in Chris's folders! Then when we graduated Rene sung We Wish You a Merry Christmas. It was a great, crazy year for me!

Cisco college offers camp for basketball

The third annual Cisco Junior College Basketball Camps for girls and boys will be held in July. Girls camp will be held July 11-15 and boys camp will be July 18-22.

Camp participants must be in at least the 6th grade next year and must not be older than junior varsity age. Campers will learn offensive and defensive skills plus gain valuable experience by playing against competition of their own age and skill levels.

Cost is $70 for commuters and $115 for dorm residents per week-long session. For information concerning the camps contact Mr. Carroll Scott at 817/442-2567.

Tarleton names honor students

Two Winters students, Jim B. Webb and William E. Bredemeyer, were listed on honor rolls at Tarleton State University for the 1983 spring semester, according to TSU registrar John Whiting. A total of 713 students were listed making the A and B honor rolls and the Distinguished Students list.

Webb was listed on the B honor roll, with a grade point ratio between 3.00 and 3.99 with no grade lower than B and taking a minimum of 12 hours, while Bredemeyer was listed on the B honor roll, along with the Distinguished Students list.

Winters Ponies taste defeat

The Winters Ponies finally got a taste of what they had been giving their opponents as they fell into the hands of the Eldorado A's, 7-2, for the Ponies first loss of the season Sunday afternoon during the Menard Tournament.

The Winters team then played Menard for the third time this season, losing 15 to 6.

During the first four games of the season, the Ponies had outscored their opponents 66-28 in points; 13 errors to 35 errors; and 48 hits to 23.

It seemed though, that Sunday was not to be like all the games before, as everything fell apart for the Ponies as they only scored 8 runs compared to 22; 8 hits to 9 hits, and 19

Social Security pays survivor benefits

Several surveys taken in recent years show that a substantial number of people were not aware that Social Security pays benefits to survivors of workers who have died, Frank Upp, Social Security District Manager in San Angelo said recently.

Most people still think of Social Security as just a retirement program, Upp said. In fact, more than 7 million people receive benefits as survivors of deceased workers.

Survivors that can be eligible for benefits are:

- Unmarried children under 18, or 18-19 if full-time high school students, or over 18 if disabled before 22.
- A mother or father of any age who is caring for an entitled child under 16 or disabled.
- A widow or widower 50-60 who is disabled.
- A widow or widower 60 or older.
- The worker's parent, 62 or older, if the worker provided at least 50 percent of the parent's support.

Before any survivor benefits can be paid, the worker must have had enough credit for work covered by Social Security to be insured, Upp stated. The amount of work credit required ranges from 1 1/2 years to 8 years, depending on the workers age at death.

Another important point to remember is that benefits can be paid on the Social Security record of a deceased mother as well as a father if the mother was insured at death, even if she had not worked for many years.

Quality Wheat Seed treated with Vitavax-200

smut, flag smut, barley stripe, smut of oats and seed rots. Vitavax is patented as a growth stimulant. Under field stress conditions, like drought or cool, wet weather, Vitavax-200 treated plants normally emerge faster, develop more extensive root systems and larger crowns, and produce healthier stands that contribute to higher yields. Here's the bottom line: Since Vitavax-200 usually out-performs ordinary seed treatments, it offers you an excellent return-on-investment. That's why Vitavax-200 has become the leading seed treatment for small grains in the United States today.

With today's fluctuating grain prices and profit margins, you have to make the most out of every acre you plant. Now, more than ever, you should be planting top quality seed treated with a quality systemic fungicide. Vitavax-200. Don't be misled by cheap treatments that provide limited disease protection. The systemic activity of Vitavax-200 protects your wheat, barley and oats against disease losses from true loose smut, bunt, scab seedling blight, covered Vitavax gets to the heart of the problem. It gets to the heart of the seed.

As with any fungicide, always follow instructions on the label.

If you don't think about the future, you probably won't have one.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pete Booth honored the Doug Bryans on their 58th anniversary with a dinner in their Ballinger home and Ima Bryan also had a birthday on this same date. We wish you many more happy anniversaries like this, and congratulations.

Kenny, Kendra, Shauna and Jason Nitsch came out one night to the Doug Bryans and brought a complete fish supper. Others who came during the week were Gary, Chery, Susan, Angela Dewitt and Frances, Lelon and Doris, Brent and Dawn Bryan, and Vicki Blackerby of Drasco.

Stephanie and Whitney Grissom of Fort Worth spent Wednesday through Saturday with their grandparents, Kat and Adline Grissom. Their dad, Steve, picked them up on his way home from San Angelo where he was on business.

Melinda Sims of Winters, and Jennifer Byrd of Abilene are spending a week in Fort Worth in the Steve Grissom home.

Mrs. Harvey Mae and Melissa Faubion were in San Angelo Thursday to see her doctor on an appointment. While there, they visited with the Mike Prater family. Melissa spent three days with her grandparents, Noble and Harvey Mae. She's been helping with the house chores, putting things back in their newly remodeled kitchen.

While Karen, Wesley and John McGallian carried the Southside Baptist Sunday School Class to Odessa, their daughter, Stephanie, came out and stayed with Nila and Therin Osborne.

Mike and Von Hill, and Ronald and Gary Hill are out here combining wheat for their Dad, Robert Hill, over the weekend.

Joanie Mathis of Abilene came by Friday for a short visit with Ferry and Wilbert Alcorn.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irwin of Winters hosted a Barbecue Supper on their ranch east of town for Chester McBeth, Mable White of Tuscola, Loyd and Mozelle McBeth on Thursday.

Dennis McBeth of Midland spent the weekend with his dad, Chester.

Nila Osborne visited with Mrs. Effie Dietz on Thursday.

Mrs. Marion Wood spent the first of the week with her daughter, Frances Siever in Big Springs, who had surgery. Doris says she's doing okay.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates of Ballinger were out to see Mrs. Amber Fuller on Thursday. Mrs. Johnnie Mathis and son, Mark of Abilene came on Saturday. Ann and Amber Fuller shopped in Coleman.

The Robert Van Zandt family attended his class reunion in Crane on Saturday.

Mrs. Corra Petrie went into Ballinger to see Willie Hale and Patsy (Dietz) Brown, who are in the hospital. Corra's 2-year-old great-granddaughter, Brandi, came out with her dad from Albany on Tuesday.

Mrs. Maureen Russell, Mrs. Jo Ann Cagle of Bangs were recent visitors with Margie Jacob. Mrs. Amber Fuller and Margie Jacob spent Tuesday visiting with Mrs. Louise Michalewicz of Blanton.

Those attending the Bredemeyer reunion in the Winters Community Center Sunday over these parts were Walter and Alvinia Gerhart, Walter and Margie Jacob, the Robert Van Zandt family and myself.

Kye Franke and Sheryl Cameron and the Walter Jacobs enjoyed a fish supper at the Gallery in Coleman on Friday night.

Joseph Ace Loyd

Joseph Mitt Loyd and Missy Miller-Loyd are most proud to announce the birth of their son, Joseph Ace, born May 15, 1983 at Harris Hospital in Fort Worth.

The baby weighed 7 lbs. 5 oz. and was 20 inches long.

Grandfathers are Joe B. Loyd of Norton and Charles H. Miller of Winters.

Paternal grandmother is Mrs. J.M. Henwood of Richmond, Indiana.

Antonio (T.J.) Garcia IV

Antonio (Tony) and Dana Garcia III are proud to announce the arrival of their son, Antonio Garcia IV (T.J.)

The baby was born at 10:20 a.m., May 23, 1983 at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene, and weighed 8 lb. 4 oz., and was 22 inches long.

Grandparents of the baby are David and Barbara Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Garcia II, all of Winters.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Bedford of Winters, and Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Garcia I of Yorktown, Tx.

Tony, Dana and son reside in Winters. Tony is employed by American Union Sunday in Winters, with about one hundred attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bragg, Mike and Joy of Glen Cove, Mrs. Cheryl Moss, Mindy, Chad of Midland, and Mrs. Larry Bragg, Amy and Kelly of North Carolina all ate dinner Sunday with Mrs. Hazel Mae and Russell Bragg.

Mrs. Alta Hale accompanied 82 other ladies with the Coleman Bank Club to Austin Thursday. I heard they had a big time.

On Friday, Alta visited several friends in Coleman. Also, Mr. Arthur Alcorn who is in a Coleman hospital. On Sunday afternoon, Alta visited Miss Edith Tombs, Mrs. Lamonia Poe in the home of Mrs. Kenneth McWilliams in Talpa.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kozelsky of Winters and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kozelsky and children of Snyder were out to see the Walter Jacobs on Friday.

The wind and hail storm did quite a lot of damage in the Crews Community. A dozen homes lost roofs, windows were broken, etc. The Gibbs' lost all their chickens but three, some crops were whopped out.

Wait — hold of a department created by action of the 1981 session of the Legislature.

Normally, when I call Leroy, the answer to any question doesn't take very long — boy this one did. I was on hold for about half an hour with a secretary checking on me every couple of minutes or so.

When I did get an answer, it was not what was expected. You see, Leroy couldn't find it either.

Well, after talking to the Health Department, I finally found the elusive agency and its number, dialed it, got an answer, and was placed (you guessed it) on hold.

After the man-with-the-plan got on the phone, he said that routinely news releases from his office were given to the wire services and the Austin media bureaus. Guess they didn't thing about sending the same information to the areas that might be affected by their actions.

Not to worry though, the fellow said that he would send maps and detailed information immediately and that his agency could not just come in and take what land they wanted — they would have to negotiate for it and buy it, wherever it might be.

So if he mails the information and the post office gets it here we will know about it next week.

Wait a minute...need to tell the weather guys "Your Welcome". I did not talk bad about them this week, 'course we haven't had any weather either. But I guess I needed to give them a breather.

Pointers For Parents

Helpful Information For You

Play is an important activity for young children learning to interact socially, solve problems, and develop a strong self concept.

Parents of preschool age children will want to actively encourage a variety of play experiences that develop fundamental reading and writing readiness skills in an atmosphere of fun.

There's a wide selection of preschool activity products available today that contain simple, satisfying projects to keep a young child's interest level high.

Look for play materials that help develop hand-eye coordination, stimulate curiosity and creativity, encourage verbal expression and allow for interactive play with others.

With specific instructions to the parent on each package, the Scribbler's activities are designed to both entertain and impart a variety of skills required for early childhood development.

For example, first color books help preschoolers develop hand-eye coordination while working within a boldly-colored outline and that gives them an opportunity to experiment with various colors. Heavy pages allow children to use either crayons, paints or the Scribbler's non-toxic, water-based markers.

Guided by a parent or older brother or sister, younger children can learn to recognize and name objects with the first color books. They also learn to associate letters and words with pictures. Both skills are important for children preparing to enter school and supplement day care or preschool classroom activities.

House Hunting Hints

Protection For Buyers And Sellers

Whether you're buying or selling a home, it's probably going to be the biggest and most important financial transaction you'll ever make. That's why it's important to know everything you can that will make the process easier and faster.

One thing that makes homes more attractive to buyers is a special plan that protects buyers from many costly unexpected repairs for up to three years after the sale. The plan even works to your advantage if you're a seller, because it's a strong incentive for interested prospects to purchase your home.

Under the Buyer Protection Plan, one of two warranty programs developed by Electronic Realty Associates (ERA Real Estate), buyers are protected against major costs for repairing or replacing nine major components. Items covered include the central heating system, electric air conditioning, built-in appliances, water heaters, water softeners, interior plumbing and plumbing fixtures, interior electrical systems and accessible duct work.

A similar warranty program — ERA Real Estate's Seller Protection Plan — offers the same kind of coverage and protects you from 15 days after you decide to sell your home until it's sold (180 days maximum) if you list it with an ERA broker. It covers the same components as the Buyer Protection Plan and prevents costly last-minute repairs just as you're preparing to move.

COOKING CORNER

Helpful Hints About Outdoor Cooking On A Gas Barbecue Grill

Here's some good news for those who enjoy eating outdoors.

Thanks to the versatile gas barbecue grill available today, outdoor cooking is cleaner and more convenient than ever.

There's no mystery to barbecuing with gas. In fact, it's as easy as cooking in your kitchen (and a lot cooler on steamy days) because you're cooking with a controllable gas flame. Following these hints from the people who make Arka gas barbecue grills can put you on the road to becoming a master backyard chef:

- Direct cooking is the most traditional grilling style and it's also the fastest. Place the food on the cooking grids directly over the lava rocks. This allows the smokey "outdoor" flavor to permeate the food. Steaks, chops, burgers and kabobs can grill to perfection with this method.

- You'd enjoy a roast but it's too hot to turn on the indoor oven? Arka, the world's largest manufacturer of barbecue grills, reminds you that you can roast or bake on this marvelous outdoor cooking appliance. Roasting and baking are done by using indirect heat with the flame lit on only one side of a two-burner grill. The lid is closed to circulate the heat. Follow your barbecue cookbook directions for best results.

- Your gas barbecue grill is great for Chinese-style wok cooking, too. Remove the cooking grids and place the wok directly on the lower grate where the heat is intense enough for frying.

- You can enhance that outdoorsy smoked flavor by using moistened wood chips packed in foil to create smoke in the grill cavity. Fruit and nut woods yield excellent flavors. Adding cloves of garlic, bay leaves and other herbs can spice up the variety of your cooking, too.

- Cooking time for gas barbecue grills depends on such variables as the weather, temperature of ingredients, moisture content of foods and thickness of meats. Cooking on a cold, windy day may require a higher flame, longer cooking time or both.

Gas barbecuing today is much more than just franks, steaks and hamburgers. Try your hand at exotic foods, marinated meats, succulent sauces, imaginative appetizers, baked goods and accompaniments.

Winters Homemaking Department is offering group sessions based on cassette tapes by Dr. James C. Dobson, Ph.D. These sessions, held June 20, June 21, and June 23, will be at the Homemaking Building from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. The Public is encouraged to attend.

Dr. James Dobson

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: James C. Dobson, Ph.D., is associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the University of Southern California School of Medicine and is a member of the medical genetics staff of Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. Dr. Dobson's first book, DARE TO DISCIPLINE, has sold a million and a half copies. His subsequent books (HIDE OR SEEK, PREPARING FOR ADOLESCENCE, THE STRONG-WILLED CHILD, WHAT WIVES WISH THEIR HUSBANDS KNEW ABOUT WOMEN, and STRAIGHT TALK TO MEN AND THEIR WIVES) have also been best sellers. Dr. Dobson is host of his own radio and television program, "Focus on the Family," and his film series of the same name has been viewed by more than ten million people.

With Love to Parents of Teens

Dr. James Dobson has some good news and some bad news for parents. The bad news is that adolescence is a "period of disequilibrium" in which parent-child relations are at their worst. The good news is that it's temporary. Dr. Dobson, whose message to the American family has been extremely well-received, speaks out on a topic that is a raw nerve to thousands. Parents of teens are often confused and overwhelmed by their child's sudden withdrawal, hostility, noncommunication, and/or disinterest in school, church and family. In WITH LOVE TO PARENTS OF TEENS, Dr. Dobson addresses the pain of parents who feel they have failed somehow.

How to Save Your Marriage

What would you say is the most severe contemporary problem facing marriages today? Financial crisis? Infidelity? Communication? "None of these," says Dr. James Dobson. The biggest problem is "over-commitment of our time." Discover how the pace at which we live contributes to this "time pressure." Learn how we place emotional stress on our relationships by pushing our bodies and minds to their limits, thus leaving no psychic energy for the hard task of "working at marriage." HOW TO SAVE YOUR MARRIAGE suggests some creative guidelines for getting our priorities straight. Here is a must program for every concerned husband and wife.

Make Playtime A Safetime

1. Always fly kites and model airplanes on days when there is no rain. Always use wood, paper and dry string in your kite... not wire or metal.
2. Always fly kites and model airplanes away from electric power lines and TV, CB and radio antennas. Avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.
3. Only climb trees that are far away from wires... never climb utility poles, substitution fences or transmission towers. Always keep away from fallen wires.
4. Build tree houses only in trees that have no wires running through or near them.
5. Use a safe target for accuracy games... never shoot or throw anything at wires, insulators or transformers. Call WTU if anything gets snagged in a power line... don't try to remove it by pulling or poking it or climbing the power pole.
6. Be careful when you dig... some electric lines are buried.

System developed to improve crop spraying

A new system has been developed to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of aerial application of pesticides.

It all involves a spray deposit analysis system that accurately measures an aircraft's spray pattern, says Henry O'Neal, an agricultural engineer with the Texas A&M University System.

The new system was developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and O'Neal is working with the Texas Agricultural Aviation Association in its testing. A total of 14 testing sessions have been conducted this spring throughout Texas to help aerial applicators analyze their spray patterns.

Spray patterns have traditionally been measured with a card or paper pattern test that depends on a visual check. However, the new system provides precise measurements of spray patterns, says O'Neal.

"This system is actually an automated quantitative system that analyzes the total swath width of an aircraft sprayer," explains the engineer. "It is an educational tool for illustrating the characteristics of sprayer systems for aerial application."

The new system works this way. A strip of film is placed across the flight path and sprayed with dye. The film is then reeled through a detection unit that measures the amount of dye deposited. The data is then fed into a microcomputer and a graph of the spray deposit pattern is plotted during the analysis. Final results show the uniformity of the deposit and thus help applicators determine the optimum width of the flight path.

"This information will help aviators arrange the spray nozzles on their equipment for optimum performance," says O'Neal. "The improved performance will mean more effective pest control plus reduced production costs to the producer."

Senate urged to continue SBA ag loan programs

A Senate subcommittee was urged recently to continue the Small Business Administration's agriculture loan programs and give them more flexibility so they can better serve farming needs.

Jerry Harris, cotton ginners from Lamesa, and a National Cotton Council director, said elimination of the SBA loan programs as proposed in legislation now pending before Congress would deprive agribusinesses of the only assistance now available to them.

He pointed out that the payment-in-kind program, while necessary, has resulted in an extremely difficult period of adjustment for many agribusinesses. Cotton gins and cottonseed oil mills are especially hard hit because their operations are directly related to crop production, Harris explained.

With the high level of producer participation in PIK and adverse weather in many areas of the Cotton Belt, he said cotton production this year could be as low as 8.2 million bales or nearly one-third less than last year.

"For cotton gins and cottonseed oil mills, who face a corresponding drop in business volume, this translates into a potential revenue loss of more than $400 million," Harris testified.

With operating costs likely to be much higher because of the reduced volume, the Council leader said a number of gins and crushers may find themselves in serious financial straits and have difficulty in obtaining adequate financing.

For this reason, Harris said it may be necessary to provide loan guarantees or other assistance during this interim period.

"By doing so, this will ensure that these vitally important industry segments will be in place and able to process and handle the anticipated increase in production once the farm economy fully recovers," he added.

Unclaimed property collections increase by 51 percent

State Treasurer Ann Richards said today that unclaimed property collections in Texas are running more than $2.5 million ahead of last year, a 51 percent increase.

Richards said receipts in the unclaimed property program through the end of May were just short of $8 million, compared to $5.2 million for the same nine-month period in Fiscal 1982.

"We've already exceeded total collections of $6.3 million for last year, and we've still got three more months before the end of our reporting period," Richards said. The state's fiscal year ends August 31.

"Greater public awareness of the unclaimed property program and our expanding audit program are beginning to pay off," Richards said.

Richards explained that Texas law provides for property that has been unclaimed or abandoned for seven years to be turned over to the state treasurer. She noted that Texas holds the funds until claimed by the rightful owner or the heirs. In the meantime, the money goes into the state's general revenues and the Available School Fund.

Types of property covered under the law include dormant checking and savings accounts; uncashed money orders, cashiers checks and travelers checks; unclaimed insurance benefits, corporate dividends, mineral royalties and security deposits; unredeemed gift certificates; abandoned safe deposit boxes; abandoned brokerage accounts; unused escrow accounts; and many other types of property.

Financial institutions, businesses and others who hold property that has been unclaimed or abandoned for at least seven years must file reports with the state treasurer and attempt to locate the owners, according to state law. If still unclaimed, the money or property is sent to the treasurer, who is responsible for preserving it until claimed by the owner, if ever.

"The unclaimed property program we're running at the Treasury has two important benefits to Texans," Richards said. "First, it represents a sizeable source of income to the state and helps pay for vital state programs like education, law enforcement and transportation."

"Secondly, it is a consumer protection program. It assists owners in locating their misplaced or forgotten property or money."

More than a half-million dollars in claims were paid to owners last fiscal year. For January through May 1983, a quarter-million has been paid to owners, an increase of 89 percent over the same four months in 1982.

Richards said she is impressed with the willingness of most banking institutions and businesses to comply with the law. "Our collections and refunds to owners would have been much higher years ago if somebody had taken the time to inform people about the unclaimed property program," Richards said. "That's what we're doing now, and we are finding that most businesses are more than willing to cooperate."

Anyone with questions about the Texas Treasury's unclaimed property program - either about reporting property or filing a claim - should write to the Unclaimed Property Division, Texas State Treasury, P.O. Box 12608, Capitol Station, Austin, Tx. 78711.

World's Most Spectacular Sights

Before You See Big Ben... See The Big Apple

An aerial view of perhaps the most famous island in the world - Manhattan, home of sights like the Empire State Building, Fifth Avenue and Wall Street.

Many travelers are finding that it's most economical to plan their trips to Europe via New York. By taking advantage of the discount airfares to and from the New York area, it's possible to spend a weekend in Metropolitan New York and New Jersey before or even after a vacation in England or on the Continent.

The three airports of the New York/New Jersey Air Center, operated by The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, are served by airlines offering more flights and lower fares to and from major cities in the U.S. and abroad. So, it's very convenient as well as economical to visit New York for a weekend on either end of your European vacation. In many cases, you can fly to Europe with a New York stopover for little more than you'd pay direct from home. And with the new Red/Green system at Kennedy Airport, passengers will find Customs clearance easier than ever. The hit shows and neoclassical magnificence of the theater district, the grandeur of such famous museums as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Museum of Natural History are among the highlights of a New York visit. World-renowned Fifth Avenue with its marvelous variety of stores; landmarks like the famed Statue of Liberty, the Empire State Building and the World Trade Center, are just a few more of Manhattan's sights. And don't forget New Jersey's glittering Atlantic City and new Meadowlands Sports Complex. This is just part of the excitement that awaits visitors to the area.

You can enjoy New York and New Jersey for far less than you might expect. Many top hotels offer surprisingly low weekend rates and package plans. Your travel agent can help you with advice and information.

Pamphlet outlines solutions for DWI

Someone is killed in an alcohol-related auto wreck every 23 minutes in this country. In Texas each year, nearly half of all traffic deaths are related to alcohol.

These two statistics are evidence that drinking and driving don't mix. That is the message in a pamphlet entitled, "Drunken Driving: Everyone's Problem", produced by the Texas Medical Association.

The 21,500-member organization of physicians and medical students emphasizes that drunken drivers are a leading threat to public health in America. Physicians are concerned because they see the aftermath of the accidents. They see the victims in emergency rooms, in clinics for rehabilitation, and in operating rooms.

The pamphlet notes three steps in getting the drunken driver off the road: educating people on how alcohol affects the body, passing stiffer DWI laws and changing the public's attitude toward drunken driving.

Education includes knowing how many drinks a person can safely have before his driving is seriously affected. The pamphlet includes a chart to help determine this. It is important to remember that a 12-ounce beer is just as intoxicating as a 6-ounce class of wine or 1 1/2 ounces of 86-proof liquor.

Tougher DWI laws will discourage drunken driving. The Texas Medical Assn. has supported legislation to allow suspected offenders to be checked for intoxicating substances with breath, blood or urine tests. TMA also supports automatically suspending the license of a driver who refuses to take a standard detection test. Other measures that would discourage DWI include allowing the refusal to take a detection test to be used as evidence in DWI trials, prohibiting deferred adjudication in DWI cases, and raising the legal drinking age to 21.

The third and most important part in solving the DWI problem is changing society's attitudes toward driving and drinking. For many people, combining the two is acceptable behavior. Only when this attitude is changed will a substantial reduction in DWI-related accidents result.

For a copy of the DWI pamphlet, write to the Texas Medical Association, Communication Department, 1801 N. Lamar Blvd., Austin, 78701, or call 512/477-6704.

NEWS OF SAFETY

Protecting Workers

Clearing vegetation on electric utility rights-of-way, roadsides, forests and fields, can be a hazardous occupation if the work is done by hand.

The job calls for the use of chain saws and other potentially dangerous tools. Lacerations and cuts of the legs and feet are not uncommon. Serious injury of the upper body and head sometimes result when a chain saw kicks back. And, sharp edges of saw and brushhooks sometimes bounce off rocks into workers' legs and feet.

Many people are safer on the job thanks to chemical vegetation management tools.

Fortunately, a safer method exists. Chemical vegetation management tools can do a faster and more thorough job than hand tools, with much more safety to workers doing the job.

In fact, a study by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency, shows that 35 states have separate workmen's compensation categories for the people who use chemical vegetation management tools and those who do the job by hand.

For those workers performing tree trimming and brush cutting, the compensation rate averages 8.14 percent of total wage. For workers in the chemical spray category, the figure is only 2.65 percent.

It seems safe to say chemical vegetation management tools can go a long way toward keeping the workers who keep our land clear, clear of danger.

National farm groups resist target price freeze

Grain Sorghum Producers Association has expressed opposition to a proposed freeze of 1984-85 target prices. The Agricultural Act of 1981 set annual increases for target prices to offset the increases in the cost of production. Secretary of Agriculture John Block has asked Congress to freeze targets at the 1983 level.

Grain sorghum targets for 1983 are $4.85 per hundredweight and, as currently set in the law, will be $5.14 in 1984 and $5.40 in 1985. Corn will increase from $5.11 cwt. in 1983 to $5.41 in 1984 and $5.68 in 1985 if the current law is allowed to stand.

In letters to members of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees and other members of Congress, GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp pointed out that the 1984 grain sorghum target prices, as they now stand, are still 22% below the national average cost of production. Target prices are the only real price protection farmers have under the present program. Secretary Block has stated that the target prices are too high and will encourage overproduction and increase government cost.

Harp contends that low prices encourage more production through expanded acres, heavy fertilization, double-cropping, etc., as farmers try to produce more to offset low prices. He pointed out that if USDA will operate the farm programs in a way that will hold market prices above the target levels, then government cost in the form of deficiency payments will be totally eliminated. "Nothing would make farmers happier," Harp said.

The National Farm Coalition, a national group of twenty farm organizations with Harp as vice-chairman, has also issued an appeal to Congress to resist the proposed freeze of 1984-85 targets. "Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the National Farm Coalition are encouraging farmers across the nation to let their congressmen know their views," Harp said.

End-of-model rebates up to $4,600 and a finance waiver offer to March 1, 1984 on new 40- to 228-hp John Deere 40 Series Tractors

There's no need for you to assign your PIK certificates to buy a new farm tractor now. Not if you take advantage of special end-of-model offers on John Deere 40 Series Tractor.

Between June cash rebates up to $3,200 (see chart) and your trade-in, you'll likely cover downpayment. Then if you're a qualified buyer and finance with John Deere, finance charges will be waived to March 1, 1984. Or you can take an additional cash rebate in lieu of waiver up to $1,400. * But you must act during June to take advantage of offers at this level.

One other reminder: We're discounting from tractor list prices that date back to 1981 on the 40 Series.

So get the new 40 Series tractor you need now. But hold onto PIK certificates and still get a new tractor for Investment Tax Credit plus first-year depreciation to help shield income in 1983.

Come on in soon. We're ready and willing to deal on the new tractor of your choice.

Pallbearers were Gordon Barnes, Joe Lloyd, George Reynolds, Johnny Wilson, Tom Poe, Charles Sawyer, Harold Armstrong and Charles Alderman.

Former Winters resident killed in one-vehicle accident west of Anson

Terry DeWayne Collins, 33-year-old golf course superintendent at Dyess Air Force Base, and former Winters resident, was pronounced dead at the scene Wednesday morning, June 8, after his pickup truck ran off a dirt road 13 miles west of Anson, according to the Department of Public Safety.

According to reports, Collins ran off the right side of the road, overcorrected, ran off the left side, and overturned into a ditch. He was thrown about 24 feet from the overturned truck. Going north, en route home, the accident occurred between midnight and 7:30 a.m., and Collins was pronounced dead at 8:05 a.m. by Justice of the Peace Terry Sprayberry of Anson.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday at First United Methodist Church in Hamlin, with the Rev. Jack Webb, pastor, officiating.

Graveside services were held at 5 p.m. Saturday at Lakeview Cemetery in Winters, directed by Foster-Adams Funeral Home of Hamlin.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Collins, he was born Aug. 17, 1949, in Winters, attending Winters public schools and graduating from Winters High School in 1968. He attended Texas Tech University and was an Air Force veteran of Vietnam. He married Happy McGinty Feb. 17, 1979 in Abilene.

Survivors include his wife; twin children, Chip David and Catherine Michelle, both of the home; a sister, Mrs. Ricky (Sherri) DeLaCruz of Eastland; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Lois Collins of Stephenville.

Pallbearers were Roger Bell, Jimmy Hastings, Jim Bonds, James Holt, Gary Maberry and Mike Owen.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation for all the many kindnesses shown us during the extended hospital stay and following the death of our Loved One, Dee Bedford. The many prayers, visits, flowers, memorials, cards and food provided during this difficult time were a source of comfort and support.

Thanks to Dr. W.J. Lee, the nurses, the respiratory therapists, and lab personnel for their concerned, attentive care.

Thanks also to our pastor, Bro. Glenn Shoemaker, for his comforting attention to our spiritual needs.

May God bless each one of you.

— W.G. Bedford and Family

CARD OF THANKS

My thanks goes to Dr. Lee and all the nurses that were so kind to me while I was in the hospital. Thank you to all that visited me.

May God bless each of you.

New Sea Frontier

The oceans and seas, which cover nearly three-fourths of the earth's surface, are a watery Fort Knox, filled with gold and other precious mineral wealth.

Oil, gas and mineral resources located on the continents are rapidly being depleted. As a result, the ocean has become the new theater for oil, gas and mineral exploration.

Marine geologists are looking beneath the surface of the sea—to the ocean floor and into the sediment and rock below.

There, marine geologists are finding new sources of oil and gas, plus new deposits of much needed minerals.

If you would like to learn more about these new efforts write the American Geological Institute, 5205 Leesburg Pike, Falls Church, Va. 22041.

Emergency steps can limit shock

The condition known medically as shock results from a lack of blood circulating in the body.

External or internal bleeding or the loss of body fluids in severe burns can interrupt circulation. Hard blows, crushed bones or muscles, bone fractures, and bullet wounds may cause shock.

Shock is dangerous because its symptoms can go unnoticed by the untrained person, according to the Texas Medical Association. An accident victim may appear only slightly injured but can be suffering from shock. If not treated promptly, it can cause death.

Early signs that may indicate shock include cool, pale, clammy skin; restlessness and unconsciousness; and a pulse that is weak but of normal rate.

Late signs include great thirst; rapid, weak pulse; shallow, irregular breathing; and nausea and vomiting.

If you come upon an accident victim, you should first try to control severe bleeding and restore breathing while someone calls a doctor. Next, treat for shock. Here are some tips:

— Keep the person lying down. If neck or back injuries are apparent, keep the victim lying flat. If the person has chest pains or difficulty in breathing, slightly elevate the head and shoulders, but not the legs. For other injuries, elevate the feet and legs 8 to 12 inches.

— Protect the person from chill or dampness, but don't let the victim become overheated.

— Lost fluids must be replaced, but do not try to force liquid into the mouth of an unconscious person. If the person is conscious, give plain water. Never give alcoholic beverages. Start slowly but give the person all the water he or she can drink.

— Anything that lessens pain will help in reducing shock damage.

— Reassurance often works like medicine. Handle your patient calmly and confidently. Above all, do not panic.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Beware Of Backflow

People have an implicit faith that the water is always safe to drink. But it may not be. The problem is backflow: pesticides and other liquids being sucked backward through a hose into a home's water system. It can occur when water pressure in the neighborhood is suddenly lost. A broken water main or firemen fighting a blaze are two common and unpredictable causes of backflow.

A sudden drop in water pressure in the neighborhood can cause garden hoses and swimming pools to back up into a home's drinking water system.

Spray guns containing chemicals are among the most common threats, reports the American Water Works Association. Such spray guns should always be disconnected from the hose as soon as spraying is completed.

The water from underground sprinkler systems, swimming pools or solar heating systems, can also be sucked backwards into the home.

Backflow prevention devices are available at hardware or plumbing supply stores and can be attached to outside faucets. More elaborate protective devices may be installed at the water meter by your water utility.

Talpa

By Maggie Ruth Stokes

The farmers are busy trying to save their grain. The cloudy mornings aren't helping very much.

Mrs. Roy (Thelma) Ray of Ballinger, former Talpa resident, died Tuesday at West Texas Medical Center in Abilene. She was buried in the Herring Cemetery north of Talpa. Survivors are Evelyn Monroe of Abilene, Wanda Ray of Ballinger and a son, Wayne Ray of Abilene; two sisters, Dora Priddy of Blanket, Emma Davis of Round Rock, A.C. Roesner and Luin Roesner of Ballinger; nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Bennie Jackson, 52, of Coleman, died at Temple Veterans Hospital on Tuesday, and was buried in the Talpa Cemetery. He was the husband of Pat Monroe, formerly of Talpa. Survivors were his wife, a daughter, Maudie Kay Jackson of Coleman, two sons, Marvin and Bennie Joe of Coleman; a brother and three sisters of Florida; and three grandchildren.

Congratulations to Rusty and Suzanne Ryan on the birth of their daughter, Asley Anne, born June 7th. Grandparents are Mrs. E.C. Ryan of Coleman and Jinks and Ginger Jamison of Leaday. Great-grandparents are Mrs. A. Russell of Bangs, Mrs. Manton Jamison of Leaday, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rush of Talpa.

Mrs. Alma Norris returned from Arizona on Friday. We are happy she got a good report from her doctor.

Jo E. Fletcher, age 68, of Dallas, brother of Grady Fletcher, died on Monday, June 6th and was buried June 8th at Restland Cemetery in Dallas. Grady and Nona Fletcher spent last week in Dallas. Survivors include Mrs. Jo Fletcher, Ralph Fletcher his son, his mother, Roberta Fletcher, and a sister from Colorado and one from Houston. Nancy Fletcher, granddaughter, returned with Grady and Nona Fletcher to spend a week with them.

Baker and Hiawatha Hallford spent Saturday night with the Orby and Thelma Sikes. The Hallfords had recently returned from a Caribbean cruise. They visited the St. Thomas and Barbados Islands. They really enjoyed their trip.

Jeannette Brooks of Coahoma and Beth Sikes of Lubbock, and Orby and Thelma Sikes went to Sweetwater on Thursday and visited and ate out with Thelma's niece, and met Donald Sikes so Beth could return home.

Kent Brown from San Angelo visited Everett Evans for awhile Sunday afternoon. He said that his father, Ralph Brown, a former Talpa resident, was not doing very well. Marie Brown has quit work to be home with Ralph at all times.

Eva Evans went to Sweetwater Thursday to be able to watch her grandchildren, James Rainey, B.D. Rainey and Chris Schifflet play ball. They returned on Wednesday.

Bertie Stone went to Brady today, Monday, and will return tomorrow. She will visit Steve and Faye King.

Mrs. Onnie Bouldin has returned home from her son's home, Clyde Bouldin of Woodruff, Okla. She broke her ankle and has been gone for three months. She is doing pretty well now.

Among those from the Talpa area attending the Coleman Bank sponsored trip to Austin on Thursday were Mrs. Louise Brookshire, Mrs. Bertie Stone and Rave King from Coleman, Miss Bonnie Lou Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kirby, Mrs. Alta Hale, Pat Cassidy and Zane and Claudine Brown and Maxine Crinkard, former Talpa residents. There were two busloads to visit the State Capitol, the Governor's Mansion and the L.B.J. Library.

Mrs. Pat Cassidy took Zane to Llano Friday to stay a week or so with his grandmother, Jewell Cassidy.

Pat Cassidy had the life scared out of her Sunday afternoon while she was picking beans from her garden. A rattlesnake was asleep under the vines. Luckily she wasn't bitten. Some fishermen at the nearby tank killed the snake with a gun. So watch for snakes when you go into your gardens.

Visitors in the J.H. Hallford's home are Mrs. Hallford's sister, Willie Adams and her daughter from California.

George and Jessie Rae, and Fay Pettiet went to San Antonio a few days last week to visit his sister, Valta Mae Korzekwa.

Cass and Pat Cassidy attended the Greer Reunion at the Glen Cove Community Center Sunday. Pat's grandmother Stokes was a Greer. There were 50 or more in attendance.

Bertie Stone and Faye King of Coleman went to Colorado last week for the funeral of Jack Wachof, Bertie's brother-in-law. Chris Schifflet play ball. They returned on Wednesday.

CAPITOL UPDATE

by Jim Parker

While the 68th Legislative Session is now history, I want to continue, to the extent your gracious editor will allow, to delve into areas of present and future interest concerning my representation of you.

I think perhaps the most misunderstood mechanism in state government is the appropriations process whereby all state revenue over a two-year "biennium" period is allocated to various agencies and services for expenditure. Of course, any consideration of the Texas appropriations process must be predicated upon our state's very unique constitutional concept that prohibits deficit spending. This could most aptly be analogized to the absolute prohibition against me, as an individual, writing a check that would overdraw my bank account.

For any appropriations bill to ultimately pass into law and expenditures authorized actually be made, the State Comptroller must certify that there will be sufficient state revenue to fund the expenditure made.

The actual appropriations bill must originate in the House of Representatives and, in reality, commences with recommendations made by a group called the Legislative Budget Board (LBB). This board is comprised partially of elected officials with LBB staff such as full time accountants, examiners, statisticians, etc. to assist them. As a practical matter, each entity in the state which must have state dollars for operation submits a proposed budget, their budgets are scrutinized and the LBB determines the merits of their requests. This procedure commences almost immediately after the close of any given regular session, and the LBB recommendations are ready at or shortly after the commencement of the next session. The chairman of the Appropriations Committee's name goes on the appropriations bill and he becomes the sponsor.

On the House side, the Speaker of the House appoints an appropriations committee from the House membership (the number was 29 members this session), and they, aided by the LBB recommendations and the Governor's budget recommendations, determine who gets what slice of the pie — the pie being the total $30B plus of state revenue generated over the two-year period. A seat on the Appropriations Committee is a very powerful position, if somewhat thankless, and was, prior to this session, determined to a great extent by seniority. This session, the Committee was made up of the vice-chairmen for appropriate matters from the other substantive committees (27) plus a chairman and a vice-chairman.

I had significant problems this session with the fact that 29 people were able to make these most important decisions for the people of the state of Texas with little or no practical input from the other 120 members. While it may not be the intent of this mechanism to create inequity, it invariably does; a typical example being the fact that the Governor's Office received a 54.3% increase in spending ability for the coming biennium over last biennium. On close scrutiny I discovered that a sizable portion of this increase was to fund and staff a Governor's Commission to study women's issues. I think we could virtually unanimously agree that, while the program might be good if sufficient funds were available, our state is faced with many issues and needs of significantly greater importance where funding is desperately needed.

I have quite probably told many of you more than you ever wanted to know about the appropriations process but I am convinced that the absolute key to the success of our system is an informed electorate that knows what the elected are doing so they can better judge their level of performance. In the coming weeks I will humbly attempt, through this column, to shed some light where I, at least, had always found darkness prior to your allowing me to serve you and become aware of the forces at work.

The banana does not grow on a tree. It grows on an herb—the largest known of all plants without a woody stem or solid trunk.

A whale's heart beats only nine times a minute.

After weeks of protracted debate, the Senate finally passed its version of the first Budget Resolution for the coming fiscal year. Unfortunately, it is seriously flawed, failing to meet the most basic requirements for a responsible federal budget.

It provides insufficient funding for our program to restore our national defense capability. During the past two years, we have begun to make up for the serious neglect of our national security during the 1970s, a neglect which led to an alarming deterioration of our capability in comparison to that of the Soviet Union.

This year, President Reagan asked for an increase which amounted to 10 percent after inflation. He did so because that level of funding for this year would allow us to pay for our modernization effort in a cost-effective way, rather than stretching our programs over a longer time so that they ultimately are more expensive.

The Senate not only rejected that increase, but it also rejected the 7.1 percent increase which would barely fund the minimum requirements for continuing to progress in this vital area.

Second, this budget resolution calls for unacceptably high increases in taxes. The revenue figures called for in the Senate resolution would require an additional $75.6 billion in taxes over the next three years. Reaching this level of taxation would require at least a cap on the amount of the July tax cut and a repeal of indexing. To repeal indexing would put wage earners in a position of facing ever-higher tax brackets because of inflation. Both of these steps are completely unacceptable.

In passing the economic recovery package which included July's tax cut and future tax indexing, we made a promise to the American people, a promise they expect us to fulfill. Even if the Congress should vote to break this promise, the President is pledged to veto any tax legislation which voids the promised tax relief. This means that the tax portion of the Budget Resolution is not only irresponsible, but also meaningless, because it is clear to everyone that a Presidential veto on this subject could not be overridden in Congress.

Finally, the Budget Resolution calls for $47.3 billion more in spending for domestic programs over three years than the President requested. It was the uncontrolled growth of this kind of spending which caused the serious deficit crisis which we are facing now. In fact, previous Administrations even referred to most domestic spending programs as "uncontrollable."

For the past two years, we have made some progress in getting control over the rate at which spending for domestic programs has grown, but we have not come so far that we can consider the problem solved. Increases of the magnitude called for in the Senate resolution actually reverse the trend we have begun.

We will not compromise our obligations to elderly Americans, the disabled and those most needy in our society, but the American people have made clear their mandate that we control the size, scope and cost of government.

This Budget Resolution fails to do that, or to meet our other basic obligations as a government. Fortunately, this resolution is not binding. I fear that its shortcomings will defeat the purpose of having a budget resolution, but even so, we must not let its flaws be enacted into law through the appropriations process.

Fire

There was no emergency and no sirens last Tuesday evening when Winters Volunteer Firemen went to a structure fire near the intersection of West Roberts and Armbricht Streets. The old building, long since abandoned, was burned by the firemen to remove a fire hazard.

The controlled burn of the old dwelling was part of a routine drill for the firefighters who had two fire trucks on the scene just to keep the fire from spreading. The smoke from the planned fire was easily seen from all parts of Winters.

Parkinson's Disease and You

How To Adjust To Home Living

Some 90 percent of all people with Parkinson's disease—a disabling disorder of the central nervous system—are able to live at home with their families. Here are some tips to help make that adjustment more comfortable:

- Arrange the house to minimize the danger of falls. Remove loose scatter rugs and all doorills. Sharp pointed furniture should be moved so the patient will not stumble and be injured by it.

- The patient's motor problems allow only one function at a time. This calls for family understanding and adapting to new schedules. More time is needed for such seemingly simple tasks as dressing or even teeth brushing.

- The patient will need longer to eat. Family members should be encouraged to sit around the table and chat, rather than leave the patient to finish his meal alone.

- Try to eliminate buttons, ties and shoelaces from clothing to simplify dressing procedures.

- The happy, contented, satisfied patient is one who is independent of others' help. To achieve this, allow the patients sufficient time so that they will not be pressured but can do all tasks themselves.

For more information about Parkinson's and how you can help, write to the Parkinson's Disease Foundation, Columbia University Medical Center, 650 West 168th Street, New York, NY 10032.
