Public hearing on increase Sept. 26

Winters tax rate to increase 8 cents

Citing a $20,000 deficit in the General Fund, the Winters City Council has called a public hearing on a proposed increase in property taxes in the City of Winters.

Winters City Administrator Glenn Brown said the council is considering raising the tax rate to 52 cents per $100 property valuation from the present tax rate of 44 cents per $100 valuation.

The city administrator said that the council had explored cutting back on the services offered by the city or a cut back in the number of employees but had agreed to "bite the bullet" and increase taxes. Brown said that the city is offering only the basic services which would be hard to cut back.

In citing reasons for the deficit of some $20,000 in the city's general fund, Brown said the increased cost of from West Texas Utilities for street lighting figured prominently along with a decrease in the sales tax rebates over last year. He also said that the city will receive about $5,000 to $6,000 less this year due to the loss of revenue generated previously by a tax on bank stock.

In discussing the increase in the cost of providing street lights, Brown said that WTU had increased the cost of electric power to the city for the street lights some 300 per cent, from about $6,000 per year to about $18,000 per year.

The council agreed to not tax vehicles as personal property which will give individuals a slight break, but business vehicles will continue to be taxed. Those individuals who were taxed for their vehicles last year will see a decrease in this year's taxes due to the dropping of the vehicle tax.

The city administrator also said that the cost of everything the city purchases has gone up and that something has to be done to just keep the city on a break-even basis. Texas State Law requires that taxing entities desiring to increase their property tax rates more than 3 per cent hold a public hearing before adopting the new tax rate.

Final adoption of the budget has been tentatively set for October 3.

The council will conduct a public hearing on the tax increase on Monday, September 26, at 7:00 p.m. in the Winters Community Center.

This will mark the first time the tax rate in Winters has been increased since 1975 and only the second time in the past 22 years.

Winters man indicted in lake incident

The Runnels County Grand Jury, in session last Thursday, returned a total of eight felony indictments against seven persons.

District Attorney Dick Alcalá said that an indictment alleging felony criminal mischief named David Lloyd Carroll Jr. of Winters. The indictment stemmed from an incident that occurred July 23 at the new Winters Lake in which a pick up belonging to Halley Sims was pushed into the lake.

The grand jury returned two indictments against Willie Edward McGowan in connection with two burglaries at the same Winters residence in mid-August. McGowan was indicted on charges of burglary with intent to commit theft and burglary with intent to commit rape. The first incident occurred on the evening of August 11, and the second incident occurred on the morning of August 12.

Lozaro Cabrera Martinez was indicted by the grand jury on charges of injury to a child following an September 3 incident.

An indictment alleging aggravated assault was returned against Michael Marriott in connection with an August 15 incident.

Three persons were indicted for DWI, subsequent offense, by the grand jury. They were Stephen Randall Richards, William Ray Mullins, and Danny Charles Jackson.

Alcalá said that one case was "no-billed" by the grand jury and several cases were investigated by the grand jury and then passed for later consideration.

The findings of the Runnels County Grand Jury were reported to District Judge Curt Steib.

Burglary charges filed

Charges of burglary of a building were filed early this week against a 19-year old Winters man in connection with the burglary of Farmer's Seed and Supply last Thursday.

Mark Anthony Green was arrested by Assistant Police Chief W.W. Reel Friday in connection with the theft of an undetermined amount of money from the business. Reel said that Green was taken into custody at a Winters motel and placed in the Runnels County Jail.

Sheriff's Deputy Odell Denton of the Runnels County Sheriff's Department said that entry to the building was gained by climbing through a window at the rear of the building.

Green was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Wilburn Davis who set bond at $5,000 on the charge.

Green was released from the county jail Monday afternoon after posting the bond.

Deputy Denton said that an investigation is continuing and that further charges may be filed.

Wait a minute...

What is going on in this world? Those guys that own Siberia must be sipping too much vodka and eating too much caviar or something.

For the past two weeks all the networks have been talking about Korean Air Lines flight 007. You know, the one the Russians blew out of the sky? Well all the network news guys have had their chance to analyze the situation and what is being done and what should be done. All the political leaders have expressed their thoughts and opinions about the mass murder of so many innocent civilians.

The shooting down of that commercial airliner is, most likely, the biggest thing to happen in world politics since the last world war. In Washington D.C. the hawks and the doves are almost roosting on the same limbs in their thinking.

Now the Soviets, they claim their color is red, are looking on the surface to be a pastel yellow. A better description would be very similar to what is found on the ground in the chicken yard. They are now showing their true colors for all the world to see. There has been no great change in the USSR — they are just coming out of the

Blizzards chill Coleman 7 - 6

Records showed that in the last six times the Coleman Bluecats and the Winters Blizzards met, the Blizzards did not score a point, but the Blizzards erased that record by not only scoring a touchdown and the extra point, but holding Coleman to only six points with a strong defense.

The Blizzard Defense was awesome against the Bluecats. Coleman finished the game with only 87 yards passing and a minus three yards rushing.

Leading the Blizzard defense was Jeff McDorman, Barron Guy, Don Kvapil, Kent Billups, Greg Guevara, and Kelly Hood. The devastating defense racked up a number of key plays, all topped off by stopping the Bluecats three times on fourth down tries.

The game began with the Blizzard offense going in reverse, according to Coach Dan Slaughter. After running three plays the offense was faced with a fourth down and 37 yards to go. Don Kvapil punted from the back of his endzone and Coleman put the ball into play on the Blizzard 40-yard line. Two plays later Coleman connected with a pass to move the ball to the Blizzard three-yard line. Two plays later, Coleman went in for the score. The Bluecat try for an extra point was blocked by Don Kvapil to make the score 6-0.

Winters trailed by those six points until late in the second quarter. The Blizzards blocked a Coleman punt to set up their winning touchdown. Tough yardage by Kent Billups got the ball down to the four-yard line. On a fourth and goal situation, Bill Wheat threw a four-yard pass to Greg Guevara for the touchdown. Ronnie Lujano then kicked the extra point to send the Blizzards to a 7-6 lead.

Defense ruled in the second half of the game. Neither team could mount an offensive threat and both offensive teams were hampered severely by penalties and turnovers which kept the offense from moving.

In spite of the tough defense and the penalties, Kent Billups racked up 114 yards rushing in 29 carries.

This Friday, the Blizzards will host the Bangs Dragons in the final game before starting district play. Kick off time is 8:00 p.m. in Blizzard Stadium for what promises to be a very good game. The Blizzards will be looking to avenge last year's loss to Bangs.

Coach Dan Slaughter said that Friday night is parents night at Blizzard Field. Parents are asked to be at the game by 7:30 to be introduced and to have their pictures taken with their son.

Slaughter also said that the Junior Varsity, 8th., and 7th. grade football games with Cisco, originally scheduled for next week in Cisco have been moved to Winters due to a conflict in Cisco.

Time Marches On

While I was a senior in high school in 1925, there was excitement among the students and faculty when the state high school supervisor visited the high school to inspect its facilities and program. He was complimentary relative to progress within the last year. But made the following suggestions for improvement:

1. That a modern high school be provided as soon as possible. The present building has been improved but is not adequate for expansion. The town is moving toward a new building. It should be obtained in a year or two.
2. That commercial courses, cooking, sewing, home nursing, and agriculture be added as soon as practicable.
3. That additional material and apparatus for science laboratories be provided. The lab recently created is a good beginning, but it deserves improving.
4. That accrediting be asked in English for the third and fourth units; plane geometry for one unit; English history for one-half unit; physics for one unit; and biology for one unit.

On February 15, 1926, a school bond election was held for the purpose of construction the new school house. The bond issue passed by an overwhelming majority, and in April, the blueprints submitted by David S. Castle and Company were accepted.

H.J. Butts hauled the brick for the new high school assisted this time by two sons, Walter and Henry.

The first Winters Gale blew into high school in October, 1925. This first effort in journalism was sponsored by Myrtle Barber with Auburn Neely as editor in chief. The first issue featured football life. The fourth was the High School edition which boosted the bond election, and helped to create a sentiment for the victory that resulted in the new high school building program.

Miss Barber wrote the school song, "The Blue and White", which appeared in the 1926 annual:

*We are here, our dear old high
 To land your glories to the sky,
 Colors white and blue,
 and we'll stand by you.*

*We will wove our colors gay
 as we go fighting on our way;
 For with you, our High School dear
 We'll never fail, never fail.*

Hip, hip-a-hip, hoo-rah!

Cheerleader — 1928

Mildred Spill spurs team on with Blizzard yell. Freez'em with your frost winds, Bite'em with your pep, Make for old Winters, a permanent rep. Hoot'em and toot'em, and blow'em to death, yell for old Winters, Till you're out of breath.

Mrs. C.S. Jackson, history teacher, was sponsor of the senior class in 1926 and the second edition of The Glacier was dedicated to her "because her life has been an example of those ideals that have led us forward!" Milburn Curry was editor of the annual and Benton Neely was business manager. This year began the practice of electing a King and Queen of high school and class favorites. Marie Hill, a junior, was crowned Queen and Dell Barber, a freshman, was King. Class favorites were: seniors, Lavina Collingsworth and Pete Nance; juniors, Marie Hill and J.D. Robertson; sophomores, Mamie Moran and Bill Phillips; freshmen, Edna Moran and B.B. Harrison.

Important events from school: September 8th — W.H.S. is growing, over 200 enrolled; September 18th — Glee Club is organized with Mrs. Jackson as director; October 7th — Tryouts for operetta begin; October 9th — W.H.S. is going to have an orchestra, Miss Eugenia Mitchell will wield the baton; October 15th — Dramatic Club is organized; December 10th-23rd — Athletes were presented sweaters; December 31st — The play, "Barbara Makes a Splash," was put over with a vim — Ruth Jones is director; January 29th — our first operetta, "Miss Cherryblossom," after 3½ months of work, it was beautiful, graceful, musical, and funny; February 1st — Vote for new high school building; April 12th — Track meet — all cups are ours for another year. C.R. Smith was now coach. Tennis made its appearance for one year with 20 players. Laverne Neely was first place winner in girls' singles at country meet. Brevard Bedford was second in boys' singles.

All activities took on new life and enthusiasm with the move into the new high school building in 1927. The Glacier was dedicated to C.R. Smith, "He stands as the great leading power of our athletics." Auburn Neely was editor and Bennie McAdams was business manager of the yearbook. There was a big turnover in faculty with Veda Wells becoming director of the Glee Club in Mrs. Jackson's absence. Gladys Joseph was sponsor of the Dramatic Club and faculty advisor to The Gale which was now a weekly page in The Winters Enterprise. She was also coach for the debating team.

word is given, "We'll move into the new high school building today!"; May 9th — all enjoy concert given by High School Band; May 10th — seniors won popularity contest, Queen Marie Hill and King J.D. Robertson, with their attendants make a beautiful May day coronation. Seniors were Alton Roberts and Fannie Joe Bartlett; juniors were Roy Young and Verdis Riordan; sophomores were George Hill and Lucille Donham; freshmen were Bernie Robertson and Ruth Woodrow. May 15th — the great day is here! How proud we feel with our caps and gowns on!

LaVere Neely was editor and Bill Phillips, business manager for the 1928 edition of The Glacier. It was dedicated to Gladys Joseph "who supported the school in all its activities." The popularity contest had dropped back to two people being honored. Best all around girl and boy were Valera Duncan and Myron Pumphrey.

Mrs. Jackson was back as commercial teacher and director of the Glee Club. March 2nd — a large crowd witnessed the operetta, "Pickles", with a cast of 57 singers. A soloist and 20 girls entered the District meet at San Angelo. The entire club sang at both the commencement and baccalaureate exercises.

Winters High School now had a Home Economics Department under the direction of Ethel Bob Montague, and students in her classes had the privilege of joining the Home Economics Club.

An entirely new organization called the Student Association made its appearance. The purpose was to bring about proper school spirit and to foster school loyalty. The president, secretary, and two councilmen were chosen from the senior class and remaining officers from other classes. Gaylord Singleton was president.

On Thursday night, October 20, 1927, six lettermen from WHS, under the direction of Principal L.A. Wooldrige and Coach C.R. Smith, met to organize the (See Poe page 8)

Grapes increasing in popularity

Grapes, increasing in popularity as a diversification crop for the Texas High Plains, will be one of the featured stops at the 74th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) here Tuesday, September 13.

This year's tours open house will be from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Texas A & M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center. It is north of Lubbock International Airport on FM 1294, just east of I-27 at the Shallowater exit.

Results of 12 years of research and continuing scientific study at the center's vineyard will be on display, said Dr. William Lipe, TAES associate professor of horticulture and a specialist in viticulture. It is one of four featured stops on the tour, said Dr. Don Rummel, professor of entomology at the station, who is field day chairman.

"We already have almost 700 acres on the High Plains planted in commercial vineyards," Lipe said. He will explain to visitors at the field day the results of his years of research on more than 450 grape varieties at the center.

"These varieties include both wine and table grapes," he noted. They are evaluated on production and juice quality as well as their adaptability to the area.

The grape research being conducted by scientists at the Lubbock Station also includes studies of root stocks, water requirements, irrigation systems and weed control. The latest findings in each of these areas will be discussed.

Other stops to be featured at the field day are drought tolerant cotton and grain sorghum, development of new cotton varieties to improve quality and marketability, and research on new products and techniques for weed control.

Visitors also can tour the soil testing laboratory of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the greenhouses and facilities of the Texas Forest Service, and view displays of agricultural computers and software and of new farm equipment.

Prior to the afternoon tours, new research and educational facilities at the center will be dedicated in ceremonies beginning at 10 a.m.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the High Plains Research Foundation, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Service, and the Texas Forest Service.

Staffs of these agencies will be present to answer questions and discuss problems with visitors.

Chinese history... "compelling and informative" look at recent Chinese history and an enlightening introduction to a significant literary tradition virtually unknown in the West.

The five writers interviewed are Mao Dun and Ba Jin, two of the country's most influential novelists; Ding Ling, China's leading feminist and woman writer; the revolutionary poet Ai Qing; and the dramatist Cao Yu.

Each of these immensely popular writers has played a major role in rebelling against the strictures of traditional Chinese society, both in gaining the country's independence and in trying to achieve modernization. They were China's leading intellectuals and held high positions in the cultural hierarchy during the early years of the Communist regime. During the Cultural Revolution, they were stripped of offices and severely persecuted. After Mao's death in 1976, they were released from prison or returned from years of exile. "Return from Silence: China's Revolutionary Writers" captures the suffering they have endured as well as their vision of the enormous changes China has undergone in the 20th century.

Old photographs, archival footage and scenes from performances of some of their most famous works are interspersed with their comments. Scenes of contemporary urban China and rare historical footage of the May Fourth Movement (1919), the Land Reform (1948) and the Cultural Revolution (1966-1976) help audiences understand the tumultuous emergence of modern China. The historical material also illuminates

Toddler's feet may look flat

When you look at a toddler's feet you may wonder if they are flat because you cannot see a long arch.

When a toddler begins to stand, her feet and ankles are barely ready for weight-bearing, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

A child will look quite flat-footed as she stands holding on to the side rails of her crib or play pen, feet spread apart and often rolled inward at the ankles. But this flat-footed look is somewhat deceiving.

The toddler's bones are still quite soft and her foot and ankle muscles are not yet strong enough to support her arch as she stands. However, she has some natural arch in the form of fat pads which support her arches when she stands. It is these fat pads which make her feet look as though they are flat.

As a toddler walks more and more, the muscles which support her arch grow stronger. Later she will learn to run and jump, first flat-footed and then with the strong push-off and flexibility which only strong arches can provide.

In societies such as ours where shoes are worn, the fat pad under the arch gradually disappears when it is no longer needed and the fully developed arch can be seen by about age five.

It is important to a toddler's motor development as well as to her future comfort that her feet have the best possible chance to grow straight, flexible, and strong.

First walking shoes should have sturdy but flexible soles which are not slick on the bottom.

Uppers should be soft and preferably without a back seam. Moccasin type toes without stiffening are best. They should be fitted so that they grip the heel firmly and so that there is plenty of room for the child to wiggle her toes.

A good shoe salesman will make sure there is enough length beyond the child's big toe for you to press down with your finger. Toddlers usually outgrow their shoes before they wear them out. They will need a new pair every two or three months for a while.

The fit of a toddler's socks is as important as the fit of her shoes. Properly fitted shoes are of no help if her socks are too short. Be careful with stretch socks. After you have pulled them over the feet, pull them out at the toes again to relieve any pressure.

Your toddler should also have plenty of opportunity to walk about barefoot so that she experiences the feel of the floor against her feet and learns to grip it with her toes. If floors are chilly, confine her barefoot experiences to crib or playpen.

Good shoes for the toddler are not cheap but they are very important. Take good care of your child's feet and they will serve her well for many years to come.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information about the social and physical development of children (and a free sample newsletter), write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Texas Trade Directory ready in 1984

The first publication of a Texas directory of exporters and importers doing business with the Lone Star State will be in the spring of 1984. The announcement was made by Otis Davenport, publisher of the Texas Foreign Trade Report. "Texas is one of the most vibrant and dynamic industrial states in the Union, but it is far behind in exporting. It is time for Texans to promote their products overseas. We hope that our new Texas Foreign Trade Directory will help Texas exporters and importers get together with businessmen and manufacturers all around the world and increase their business on a global basis," Davenport said.

The 1984 Texas Foreign Trade Directory will list for the first time in one book a complete guide to foreign trade in Texas. Various categories will include: exporters and importers, trade organizations, steamship services, consulates, freight forwarders, ports, international air carriers, chambers of commerce, foreign buying agents in the U.S., free trade zones and more. The book will also include a short summary of instructions to make it easy for anyone to enter foreign trade for the first time. There will be more than 5,000 listings. Listings are free. Individual copies of the Directory will be $45.

The directory has already achieved worldwide interest with inquiries coming from as far away as Japan, Taiwan, Singapore and elsewhere around the world. 10,000 copies are expected to be distributed during the first year.

FACTS & FIGURES

In 1980, the glass packaging industry recovered and recycled almost 2.7 billion glass containers, or 11 bottles for every man, woman and child in the country—more than ten times the number that was recycled just a decade ago.

To provide answers to the frequently asked questions regarding the recycling of glass containers, the Glass Packaging Institute has published a 24-page booklet. The booklet introduces the "Glass Recycles" logo, shown above. For a free copy of the booklet, write to the Glass Packaging Institute, Communications Dept., 2000 L Street, N. W., Suite 815, Washington, D. C. 20036.

More than 100 glass container manufacturing plants presently produce new containers in part from recycled glass. For years consumer research has consistently demonstrated that glass is considered unparalleled in terms of preserving taste and the quality of foods and beverages.

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 8, 1983

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 91 proposes a constitutional amendment which requires a county with a population of 30,000 or more to be divided into not less than four nor more than eight justice of the peace precincts. A county with a population of 18,000 or more but less than 30,000 shall be divided into not less than two nor more than five justice of the peace precincts. A county with a population of less than 18,000 shall be designated as a single justice of the peace precinct or, upon a finding of necessity by the commissioners court, shall be divided into more than one justice of the peace precinct but not more than four. The amendment provides further, that in any precinct in which there is a city with a population of 18,000 or more, two justices of the peace shall be elected. The amendment would take effect on January 1, 1984, and counties with populations of less than 30,000 and with more than four justice of the peace and constable precincts would have until January 1, 1987 to comply with the amendment.

Mrs. Timothy Scott Dexter

Debra Austin, Timothy Dexter united in double ring ceremony

In a double-ring ceremony held Sunday, September 4th, Debra Anna Austin became the bride of Timothy Scott Dexter.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Archie Austin of Winters, Mr. Robert I. Dexter, and Mrs. Charles Fowler both of Michigan.

The 3:00 p.m. ceremony officiated by Mel Swoyer was performed before an altar table decorated with white pom-pom mums with white carnations. The organ was decorated with white pom-pom mums and blue carnations.

Music was provided by Sherry Kurtz and Deonn Deaton. The traditional 'Wedding March' was followed by the song 'If'.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of pale blue chiffon over pale blue taffeta. The dress featured a sweetheart neckline with chiffon and lace inset into a high collar. The sleeves were of chiffon in a puff to the wrist. The natural waistline sported a satin ribbon sash. The floor length gown was accented with pearl buttons.

For something old, the bride wore a bracelet that was worn by her grandmother in her wedding, something new was the dress given to the bride by her parents, something borrowed was the pearl earrings provided by the bride's mother, and something blue was the garter made for the bride by her maid of honor. For luck, the bride wore a 1983 penny, symbolizing the date of marriage, in her shoe.

Maid of honor was Martha Armbricht of Winters. She wore a dress of royal blue jersey knit with a high neckline and full, puffed sleeves to the elbow, and wide cuffs to the wrist. The gown had white lace on the bodice, a sash of the same, and pearl buttons.

Michael Price of Winters, acted as best man.

'W' Association. The object was to 'further the purposes and plans of clean, sportsmanship like athletics. The hope expressed by some of the members was that they might help some day to bring about a good gym and football stadium for the school. Coach Smith's constant theme was 'A gymnasium, a grass football field, and organized physical exercise for every boy and girl.'

The girls' basketball team under the leadership of Mildred Spill, captain, had a successful year. This same group of girls played volleyball with Kathleen Lamberth as captain. This team won first at the county meet by defeating four other teams. Members were Fay Mitchell, J.V. Baird, coach; Irene Smith, Frances Bergen, Rhee McDonald, Ora Louise Jordan, Ruth Cathey, Maurine Pumphrey, Mildred Spill, Kathleen Lamberth, and Gladys Graham.

The first vocational agriculture class was taught by B.A. Patterson, a science teacher in 1926-27. Their projects were on a small scale. Tom Poe and R.P. Penny raised pigs and Chester Collingsworth had chickens. Dick Homann came to Winters in July of 1927 to take over the work. The Future Farmers Club was organized on September 7, 1928 with 30 charter members. Officers were Reginald Polk, president; Oran Dorsett, vice president; Owen Forbus, secretary; Lawrence Green, treasurer; and R.E. Homann, advisor. According to state records, the Winters Chapter holds the first State Charter issued in Texas. The Charter was issued April 10, 1930. Three men who assisted in getting the first chapter for the F.F.A. were J.N. Key, H.O. Jones, and C.L. Green, who spent some time in Austin.

All of these years A.H. Smith was the superintendent and the same faithful school board served with one small exception. J. Frank Paxton, president; W.E. Hickman, secretary; Dr. T.V. Jennings, Albert Spill, W.B. McCaughan, Dr. J.W. Dixon and R.I. Collingsworth. J.R. Cooke was assessor and collector. In 1927, John Curry replaced McCaughan and collections were taken over by the board.

Another school bond election was held in Winters on April 3, 1930. This issue provided for the construction of a new gymnasium, and was passed. The brick building was completed the same year.

During the depression and war years, The Glacier was not published, from about 1930 to 1944.

The school was carried on under great difficulties during these trying years. There was need for expanded agricultural education facilities. In September of 1948, the Poe school building was moved to the Winters school grounds. It was remodeled and used for several years.

NEWS OF SCIENCE

Antibodies and Antigens

'Foreigners, go home!' That's the message your body sends out whenever any organism, such as a bacterium, fungus or virus, enters it. How does it find out about the 'invasion' so quickly? It's because every organism that enters your body carries on it specifically identifiable markers, called antigens, on its surface. The way your body is able to react to such an 'invasion' can mean success in treating certain diseases now and in the future.

That our body's immune system is able to fight 'foreign invaders' can mean hope for treatment of various diseases.

The body is immediately prepared to make specific antibodies that lock onto the matching antigens to identify the invader as 'foreign.' Thus, the invader is singled out and marked for destruction by the body's immune system. The cells producing antibodies can be fused with other cells to make a cell called a hybridoma. These hybridomas then can be used to produce unlimited amounts of specific antibodies for diagnosis and perhaps, for treatment, of a specific disease.

Scientists at Bethesda Research Laboratories (BRL) have already developed a new blood test using this technology for the virus that causes hepatitis B. The laboratories are also working on a diagnostic test that can recognize certain variations in streptococcus bacteria in minutes, rather than the one or two days that current tests require. That time-saving could save the life of a newborn infant with a streptococcal infection, and that's good news.

A MEMORIAL TO CONGRESSMAN LAWRENCE PATTON McDONALD 1935 - 1983

Out of the night that covers me,
 Black as the Pit, from pole to pole,
 I thank whatever gods may be,
 For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
 I have not winced nor cried aloud,
 Under the bludgeonings of chance,
 My head is bloody, but unbowed.

It matters not how strait the gate,
 How charged with punishments the scroll,
 I am the master of my fate,
 I AM THE CAPTAIN OF MY SOUL.

William Ernest Henley

Words from Congressman McDonald:
 "When will the people learn — a communist is a communist is a communist?"
 "Never — never for a moment forget your responsibility to restore sanity to our civilization."

The public is invited to the Winters State Bank on Sunday, September 18th, at 2:30 p.m.
 Topic: AMERICAN EUPHORIA IS DANGEROUS, Congressman McDonald on tape.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The Soviet Union outraged the world with the cold-blooded murder of 269 men, women and children flying to South Korea in a commercial passenger jet. This attack was a wanton and unmitigated act of barbarism by the Soviets. The Soviets first denied any knowledge of this inexcusable action, and then tried to brazen it out with the limp and unacceptable explanation that the plane was in their airspace. Later, the Soviet Union charged that the Korean airliner was on a spying mission, a totally preposterous accusation.

On occasion, planes flying over vast expanses of ocean deviate from their course because of navigational errors. However, there are internationally accepted procedures for assisting planes in distress and guiding them out of restricted airspace. To shoot down such a plane -- bringing almost certain death to all who are on board -- is unthinkable.

I cannot offer any explanation as to why the Soviet Union would commit such a barbaric and stupid act, but this terrible event does remind us that the Soviets simply are not guided by the same moral standards that we associate with civilized nations.

What, then, should we do to express our revulsion? We have heard many suggestions -- ranging from cutting off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union to imposing trade sanctions. However, we must make certain that any action we take is effective and in our national interest.

Clearly, it is important to us that we continue to communicate with the Soviet Union, and that we seek an agreement to control nuclear weapons. We know that the 1980 gain embargo was ineffective as well as unfair to our nation's farmers, so to repeat that response would not be in order.

There are, however, two courses of action which are appropriate, and President Reagan is pursuing both of them. The first is to act in concert with the rest of the civilized world to express our outrage and to penalize the Soviet Union by restricting its civil aviation. At the same time, we must work with other nations to try to find ways to ensure that nothing like this ever happens again.

The best long-term response, though, is to continue to strengthen our national defense capability. We cannot effectively prevent Soviet aggression in the world unless we possess a military capability sufficient to deter Soviet adventurism. The Korean aircraft incident points out yet again that reason and moral persuasion alone are not enough.

The Soviet Union will refrain from aggression on both large and small scales only to the extent that it believes it is in its self-interest to do so. It is imperative, then, that we continue on the path we began three years ago to strengthen our deterrent capability.

This is a course of action which will impress the Soviet Union far more than words or sanctions, and, therefore, this is truly the best response not only to the Korean aircraft incident, but also to Soviet adventurism in Afghanistan, the Middle East, Latin America and elsewhere in the world.

Consumer Update

Public utilities occupy a dual position in today's society. On the one hand, they must provide service at a reasonable price to everyone in their service areas. On the other hand, these businesses must generate profits in order to acquire capital and meet ever-increasing demands. After all, the utilities which serve you today must also serve you and your children tomorrow.

Unlike other businesses, however, utilities are monopolies not subject to competition and other forces of our free-market system. Consumers have to use the only phone company or the only light company in town. In most cases, they can't shop for better service or a lower-priced service.

Why are utilities monopolies? Why isn't competition allowed in most cases? The answer lies in the nature of utility service. Picture, for example, the prospect of two or three complete electric systems operating in your town. The duplication of lines, cable and other equipment would be extremely wasteful and expensive.

Many years ago, when utilities were created, it was determined that a single company could provide better and cheaper service in a given area than several competing companies could. While this no longer is always the case, regulation has been devised as a substitute for the constraints and controls of competition in utility service.

Until the mid-1970s, the state of Texas offered consumers little assistance in regulating utilities. Our utilities were regulated either by the utilities themselves or by individual cities, without much guidance from the state government. Self-regulation by the utilities often resulted in abuses of their monopoly status. At the same time, further regulation by the cities became very difficult because of rising costs and rapid utility growth.

In 1975, the Texas Legislature, responding to intense public pressure, passed the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA) and created the Public Utility Commission (PUC). Texas was the last state to enact such a law. The PURA establishes a comprehensive regulatory system through the PUC, the Railroad Commission and individual cities.

The PUC sets rates and service standards for all telephone utilities, and for private or investor-owned electric, water and sewer utilities operating in unincorporated areas. The PUC also regulates electric cooperatives.

Incorporated cities regulate city-owned utilities and have original jurisdiction over any other electric, water or sewer utilities operating within the city limits. All of these utilities, except the city-owned utilities, may appeal city rate decisions to the PUC.

The Railroad Commission and city councils share regulatory responsibility for all gas utilities.

This spring, the Legislature extended the life of the PUC until 1995 under provisions of the Sunset Act. The Legislature also authorized funds for increased activities in the areas of utility performance evaluation, consumer affairs, and conservation. In our next report, we'll take a closer look at the PUC and its responsibilities.

Consumer Update is prepared and distributed by the Consumer Affairs Office of the Public Utility Commission of Texas. Our address is 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 450N, Austin, Texas 78757.

Winters Police say that burglars used a rock to smash the plate glass door of Higginbotham Hardware on West Dale Street sometime early Sunday morning. The burglars took merchandise valued at over $500 including a 20 ga. semi-automatic shotgun, a case of 12 ga.

shotgun shells, approximately six pocket knives, and two game vests. Officers said that the thieves apparently failed to check the size shotgun and the size shotgun shells they carried away — the shells were the wrong size for the gun that was taken.

Now on to something more pleasant...

For a while I was beginning to think that I should contact the weather bureau boys and those meteorological prognosticators on the television and do some serious apologizing. We seemed to be missing out on rain of any kind from anywhere. Well, the rain made its debut this week along with some slightly cooler temperatures. Maybe, since they have us located on radar screens and on television screens, we should give them another chance.

So fellows, here it is. We need more rain, a lot of it and not all at once. Just spread it out over the next several months. And by the way, with the third season on the way, you weather people might start working on a comfortable winter for us.

Handle those simple requests and maybe we can start the severe weather season next spring and not have to fuss at you guys. Promise.

While we are just rambling in this column this week, how about OUR football team? Sure I know they are 1-1 so far this season, but they have only played two games and they are looking very good. They have only one more match-up before they have to start counting the marbles. As far as the fans are concerned, we need to practice some more. There was a good crowd at the game in Coleman and there were a lot of seats that were not filled too.

By the way, I heard that some of the seats here emptied well before our first game was over week before last. Shame shame shame.

That Coleman game was rather interesting to

Watching Washington

West Texas is in the grips of a terrible drought. Hurricane Alicia did bring some rain in mid-August, but not enough to end the drought and too late in the growing season to do much good.

Some experts say the past 18 months have been as bad, if not worse, than the terrible three-year drought of the 1950s. Andrews County, for example, did not have any rain this growing season. Its forage crops are coming in at 80 percent below normal production.

Upton County has had only 10 percent of its usual rainfall, with none at all in June or July. Only five percent of its pasture land has produced grass.

In Glasscock County, farmers are estimating that their crops will come in way below normal yield per acre. Fields that yield 350 pounds of cotton per acre probably will produce only 190 pounds, and estimates for wheat are down to one bushel per acre compared to 20 bushels normally.

The 230 livestock producers in Glasscock County are no better off. Nearly 100 of them have cut their herds down by 90 percent or more.

These are just three of the more than 20 counties parched by the drought. They cover more than 43,000 square miles, an area larger than Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Vermont all put together.

It will be hard to tell just how badly the farmers in this vast area will be affected until after harvest is completed. But by mid-summer many crops were too far gone to be saved.

Ranchers have already had to sell off their cattle, sheep and goats in large numbers rather than lose them to the drought. Many ranchers are down to the nucleus of their breeding herd.

If they are forced to sell off their breeding stock, that will deal a severe blow to our agricultural economy that will end up costing consumers as dwindling supplies drive up the cost of beef.

The plight of the farmers and ranchers of West Texas is a classic example of the kind of disaster the federal government should take steps to divert. The cost of standing by and letting these individuals go under would be too great to allow.

I have been working since early summer to get the most effective aid possible to our farmers and ranchers, but for weeks Agriculture Secretary Block dragged his feet.

When West Texas finally was declared a disaster area in August, that was the first step in the right direction although simply offering low-cost government loans to livestock producers wasn't the best or most effective aid available.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture chose at that time not to implement an Emergency Feed Program. It also dragged its feet on a decision to send in government-owned corn, stored at taxpayer expense in West Texas and damaged too much to be good for anything except livestock feed.

This lack of responsiveness unnecessarily made a desperate situation even more difficult.

When their crops are shriveling in the sun and their pastures are turning to dust, our farmers and ranchers need more than grudging attention from the USDA.

The Banvel® herbicide advantage...Roots out bindweed on Set-Aside/PIK or harvested acres.

NOW: Get a clean start in '84.

Bindweed and other tough perennial broadleaf weeds keep coming back — getting worse every season. But you can root out bindweed and the rest of these stubborn weeds after harvest or on idle acres with Banvel® herbicide.

When you use Banvel herbicide at recommended rates in a Between Crops Application, you kill perennials clear through the roots — so they can't creep back. Use Banvel herbicide before a killing frost. It penetrates weed leaves. Is absorbed by the roots. Moves through the entire plant — leaf-tip to root-tip. Then rotate back to wheat, corn or milo.

Get the control you need for bindweed... Texas blueweed... woolly leaf bur sage... and other tough broadleaf perennials.

Wildlife is a growing resource

Experts say that although the value of wildlife cannot be precisely calculated, by exploring the hunt lease system and rural land market in Texas, it is clear that wildlife is an enormously valuable natural resource. In terms of its contributions to land values, wildlife and associated amenities are valued at over 4 billion ($4,000,000,000) dollars and contributes over $50 per acre to the average value of deer range, according to Dr. C. Arden Pope, agricultural economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Texas A & M University System.

"Because required data related to other species is either not available or confounded with various problems, most of the estimates in our recent study were based on data relating primarily to white-tailed deer," Pope said.

"However, these estimates serve to illustrate the value of wildlife in general. If, based on survey data, it is assumed that the average value of the rights to access deer for all white-tailed deer lease ($393), the total value of white-tailed deer for hunting purposes alone, equals about $210,000,000."

Texas wildlife is regarded as being held in trust by the State for the use of the public, but access to this wildlife, for the most part, is controlled by private landowners. Because almost all of the land in Texas is privately owned, and because a market for buying and selling the rights to access wildlife on private land has developed, hunting leases have become an important source of income for many landowners.

There are basically only four ways to access wildlife in Texas. One way is to use public land. However, in Texas there is very little public land; much of it has poor hunting, and it is often over crowded.

The second way is to be invited onto private land by family, friends, or associates. A third way is to purchase a hunting or recreational lease directly from the landlord or to belong to a sportsman's club, a company, or some other organization that has purchased these rights.

And the fourth way, of course, is to obtain title to land you wish to hunt.

For many people, some form of the four types of leasing arrangement is the only alternative. The first and most common type of leasing arrangement is the annual or seasonal lease.

Under this arrangement the landowner provides a hunter or group of hunters the privilege of hunting on the land for a particular hunting season or for a full year.

Annual leases often allow the hunters to hunt multiple species within their respective seasons throughout the year. Seasonal leases generally allow hunting limited species during their hunting season.

The hunters and the landowners will agree on the services provided by the landowner, and harvest quotas for the hunter (within the established state and county game regulations). In addition, this arrangement may also include privileges to engage in other non-hunting activities such as wildlife and nature photography, camping, horseback riding, etc.

The third type of leasing arrangement is one where the landlord charges hunters directly for the animals bagged. Charges may differ by sex, size, antler development, or other such characteristics. Often there will be a base per day or per-person charge for access to the property and an additional fee depending on the animals taken. The fourth type of leasing arrangement, Pope says, is for the landowner to sell the rights to access his land for hunting or other recreational activities to an outfitter, a recreational activities or sportsman club, or some other such organization and allow them to manage access to the land for hunting or other outdoor recreation for a predetermined period of time and within an agreed upon set of conditions.

According to the survey reported by Pope, John Thomas and Clark Adams, only 75 percent of those holding hunting licenses actually hunted during the 1981-82 season. White-tailed deer was the most hunted game species (hunted by 75% of the hunters), followed by dove(54%); quail(43%); squirrel(36%); rabbit(35%); turkey(25%); duck(21%); javalina(13%); geese(10%); and mule deer(5%).

Antelope, pheasant, raccoon, and fox were also hunted by a relatively small number of hunters.

White-tailed deer, mule deer and turkey were most commonly accessed. White-tailed deer, mule deer and turkey were most commonly accessed through hunting leases. About 40% of those surveyed that hunted these species, purchased a lease to do so.

This compared with 35, 24, 21, 19, and 15 percent for javalina, geese, duck, quail, and dove respectively. Those that hunted without a lease generally hunted on their own land, or had free access to private land by invitation from friends or relatives.

Less than 10% of those surveyed that hunted white-tailed deer, javalina, turkey, dove, or quail did so on public land. Waterfowl was most commonly hunted on public land; however, only 27% of the geese hunters and 19% of the duck hunters surveyed, hunted on public land.

The cost of the hunt leases ranged from one dollar to over $5,000, Pope says. The average cost of a white-tailed deer lease, as reported by those surveyed, was $393. The average cost of a mule deer lease was $902.

The average cost of leases to hunt duck and geese was $626 and $758, respectively. The cost-of-lease data for dove, quail, squirrel, rabbit, turkey and javalina was confounded by the fact that the leases commonly included the rights to hunt multiple species.

However, the costs of these leases were notably high. The average cost of leases that included the rights to hunt these species ranged from $293 for squirrels to $647 for quail.

In summary, Pope estimates that over $100,000,000 is spent annually on leases to access wildlife for hunting purposes. Estimates of the total annual value of wildlife in Texas range from 100 to over 380 million dollars.

This rivals the value of some more traditional agricultural commodities. For example, in 1981, the total cash receipts for sheep, lamb, mohair, and wool equaled 114 million dollars.

As already mentioned, in terms of its contribution to land values, wildlife and related amenities are valued at over 4 billion dollars and contribute over $50 per acre to the average value of deer range. In some areas of Texas, the contribution to land values from wildlife exceeds those from traditional livestock production.

In conclusion, Pope says that although it is impossible to precisely calculate the total value of wildlife in Texas, researching the hunt-lease system and the rural land market makes it clear that wildlife is an enormously valuable natural resource.

As you are probably aware, I have written several articles regarding our State's public education system. I am sure you have also been reading articles concerning meetings occurring around the state which are being conducted by the Governor's Committee on Education. Since I have sent you letters requesting suggestions from all the teachers in our district and have been receiving their responses, I thought I would share their suggestions and concerns with you.

One of the most commonly mentioned concerns was the time spent on "extra" teaching and subject matters. Let me explain my use of the term. "Extra" refers to bilingual education and remedial tutoring simply because while this added help may be needed for some, it is not necessary for the majority of students. Yet students are leaving the classrooms during regular class times for these special subjects and missing other lessons during the regular school day. "Extra" refers also to the times spent for athletics and pep rallies which also cut into classroom teaching of the basics. (I realize this will be a highly controversial area among coaches and other sports-minded individuals.)

Lack of interest from parents and lack of motivation on the part of students were also mentioned quite often by teachers as a serious handicap for excelling in scholastics. The students knew they would be passed to the next grade whether they put in the time and effort or not. Many students seemed to put forth the minimum amount of effort needed to eek by. Pride in one's work and "learning for the sake of learning" were not conscious objectives of students anymore. Obviously, in this atmosphere, mediocrity, as opposed to excellence, prevails.

The third most noted suggestion or concern was discipline, or rather lack of it, in the schools. Teachers felt they had little recourse or back-up from families and some administrators in dealing with problem students. The students rarely could be expelled from school for misbehavior yet had been passed from grade to grade until they finally could not perform at a certain level even though they decide they wanted to do so. It certainly is understandable that if one cannot perform in the classroom but is required to be there anyway, that we are asking for disruption. It is unfair to the teachers trying to teach the rest of the class and also to the students in the class who are really trying to learn.

Hopefully these teacher's concerns have been as enlightening to you as they have been to me. More important, I hope the Legislature can come up with workable plans for overcoming and correcting these and other problems in our public school system in the very near future. We are losing valuable potential each day we allow the situation to remain and our school system to deteriorate.

Recipes for Relaxation

SAY "CHEESE," DEAR

When you have a party you can be sure of bringing smiles to the faces of your guests when you serve delicious cheeses from around the world or create a delectable cheese dish.

You can also top off the festivities with a drink that tastes like a bubbly wine, yet costs much less, and is the ideal accompaniment for cheese and an assortment of bread or crackers—Sparkling Extra Dry or Pink Champagne.

Often used as an ingredient in classic dishes like Welsh rarebit and cheese fondue, Champagne blends smoothly with Swiss cheese to form the perfect dip for shrimp, as in the following recipe:

SWISS SHRIMP

Heat 12 oz. Pink Champagne Malt Liqueur in a chafing dish or fondue pot until simmering the stir slowly while combining 2 1/2 cups grated Swiss cheese and 2 tablespoons flour. Blend in 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons cream. Season with 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon black pepper. Serve with cubes of French bread and cooked shrimp for dunking.

Guests will enjoy eating the Swiss Shrimp while gathered around a table with the chafing dish in the center. It is also handy to have a plate in front of the dish upon which your guests can put their dipping forks. Also be sure extra napkins are handy.
