Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

With two days to go before Halloween, it was really something to see fragments of egg shells and cartons that eggs were purchased in scattered all over town. One would think that the chickens had been working overtime.

Personally speaking, I like my eggs "over easy" not scrambled—all over town. There must have been a bunch of folks with nothing to do.

One thing about it, though, those egg-throwing mis-fits were not particular. They managed to splatter most everything, and that's no yolk.

It was very unnerving when some nervous bird managed to miss its nest and hit the hood of the family buggy. Now a bird is one thing, but for some misguided person to splatter somebody's car with such a mess would create considerable anger.

Next Tuesday is the day. Election day. In this paper you will find a copy of a sample ballot. With one exception, the ballot concerns Republicans and Democrats. That one exception is in the race for President and involves independents and those candidates deserve no further mention.

In that race for the top office in the land, we have two candidates, but only one choice. That choice is Ronald Reagan and George Bush.

Our Great Nation has made too many great strides toward where we should be to make a change now.

In the race for the seat in the U.S. Senate being vacated by Mr. Tower we have two candidates, and again, only one choice. Phil Gramm, a highly respected and intelligent member of Congress, has already established his position and his record speaks for itself. For the benefit of the people of the Great State of Texas, Phil Gramm should be elected to represent them.

The polls will be open from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. next Tuesday. It is up to you to cast your vote.

You have heard much about the election and the candidates. A lot that has been said, we could have done very well without.

After watching elections and politics closely, as a reporter, for the past 20 years, I can say that there has been more mud slung in this election than any I've ever seen.

I don't understand how a candidate can hope to gain the voter's confidence by spending all his time telling the voters how terrible the opponent is.

Maybe the thought would fit, and maybe it wouldn't. "It is far better to keep one's mouth shut and be thought a fool, than to open it and remove all doubt."

Charges filed in vehicle theft

Winters Police say that two warrants have been issued in connection with the theft, last week, of a late-model car belonging to a Winters resident.

Named in the warrants, alleging unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, are Manual Salazar and Jesse Salazando. Both men are thought to be Mexican Nationals about 26 years of age. Officers said the two were thought to be accompanied by a Mexican

Indians slip past Blizzards

In the mud and water on the Jim Ned field last Friday night, the Indians slipped and slid past the Winters Blizzards, 7-0.

Following the rainiest week of the year, the locals journeyed up the road to play on a field so wet that fumbles were frequent and passes were hard to hold on to. Several times players would be running and suddenly lose their footing, sliding down in frustration.

Coaches and players on the sidelines stood in large puddles of water.

Winters Coach Dan Slaughter said that his team "played a very good defensive ball game. With the muddy conditions, their big strong back made a difference," he explained.

"Eddie Trevino had a very good defensive game," Coach Slaughter commented. He also cited Tony Blackshear, Kelly Hood, Kevin Busher, and Robert Baker for their fine play in the game.

Among injuries in the game were those to Alfred Yates, who broke a bone in his hand, and Rene Garcia, who had a slight concussion. Yates will be out for the rest of the season, and Garcia will miss this week's game.

Jim Ned received the opening kickoff and fumbled on their first play. Winters recovered on the Jim Ned 30. The Blizzards made seven yards on the next three plays, and then Eric Belk attempted a field goal which was short and off to the left.

Jim Ned managed one first down before punting. Yates took the punt, ran with it, and the ball popped loose. The Indians recovered.

Jim Ned's Lee Dillard scored his team's only touchdown after breaking several tackles. Kevin Tutt added the extra point. The

Coleman comes here Friday night

The Coleman Bluecats will come here Friday night for the last home game of the Blizzards' season. The game will also feature homecoming ceremonies at half-time, with the crowning of Coming Home and Homecoming Queens.

Winters Head Coach Dan Slaughter rates Coleman as a "super" team, one that likes to throw the ball. They have lost only to Eastland and are currently ranked second in district.

One player in particular will bear close watching by the Blizzards: "Speedy" Holloway. Slaughter said he is likely to go all the way for a touchdown whenever he gets the ball.

The Blizzards will have only one game left, in Albany next week, after this game.

Indians led, 7-0, with 7:53 left in the first quarter.

Dale Roberts took the kickoff and returned it 15 yards to the 40. Unable to make a first down, the Blizzards punted.

Jim Ned began on their 15 and gained four first downs before the first quarter ended.

Faced with a fourth down situation, Jim Ned tried a pass, which was incomplete. The ball went over on downs at the Winters 20.

Garcia tossed the ball to Yates who in turn threw it to Belk for a long gain at the Jim Ned 48, the Blizzards' first first down of the game. Robert Baker got another first down on a 13 yard run. Then Yates plowed in to the line, the ball slipped loose, and the Indians recovered.

Jim Ned began on the Winters 40. Kevin Tutt broke loose for a long run and was brought down by Steve DeLaCruz and Baker at the Winters 15. However, Jim Ned fumbled and Winters' Edward Rocha recovered.

The rest of the second quarter was taken up with punts by both teams.

Winters kicked off in the second half. Jim Ned began their possession on their own 33. Fine defensive play by Busher and Blackshear resulted in a two yard loss for the Indians. A penalty on them set them back even further, forcing them to punt.

Winters' next possession ended in an interception. Jim Ned got one first down, but following Busher's sack of the quarterback on third down, they punted.

Winters also had to punt again, but Jim Ned fumbled and

WHS Homecoming is this Friday night

The annual homecoming of Winters High School will be Friday night, November 2, as the Blizzards host the Coleman Bluecats.

Highlighting festivities will be the half-time crowning of both homecoming and coming home queens.

Preceding the game, a hamburger supper, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the school cafeteria.

An after-game reception for all exes, featuring the Class of 1934, will conclude the celebration.

Homecoming Queen nominees

Nominees for Winters High School Homecoming Queen are (l-r) Amy Tuggle, a junior, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Belcher; Darcy Stone, a junior, daughter of Bobbie Stone; LaShea will operate from 1102 North Concho Street.

Guy, a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Guy, Jr.; and Maggie Campos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trinidad Campos. The queen will be crowned at halftime of the game Friday night.

The service will be staffed with at least two Emergency Medical Technician/Paramedics and other personnel who will be certified by the Texas Department of Health as either Emergency Medical Technicians or Emergency Care Attendants.

Initial employees will include Nolte, an EMT/Paramedic and CPR instructor who is also certified to provide Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS), Travis Walston, EMT/Paramedic, ACLS, and Wanda Lange, LVN/CPR Technician.

Nolte said that his service will begin immediately upgrading the present equipment to meet new state standards that will become effective on January 1, 1985. He said the initial service would provide Basic Life Support service and that within a year the service would be upgraded to provide Advanced Life Support service.

All emergency service employees will be continually upgrading their training through in-service education and advanced certification.

One of the future projects of the new service is to begin offering local training classes to teach Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR). Nolte said that as soon as possible this training would be offered to anyone interested.

With the start of operations by the new service this week, the new operator said that anyone having an account with Trick, treat or donation?

It's Halloween, and time for trick-or-treat, when all the ghosts and goblins go out on streets.

Some have thick hides and some even have a little hair, but Halloween is also a time to give a little CARE. That's why the Sub-Debs, the Total Teens and the Goadiggers are taking up donations from people like YOU.

The girls will be in costume as they go from door to door, uh, asking for donations to help Amanda DeLaCorda. The girls will start at 5:00 p.m. and go until they are through.

So please, give a little and have a happy Halloween, too.

Best of Show Scarecrow

With the theme "Adopt a Scarecrow," this lady in a cabbage patch at the Winters State Bank won the top award in the Scarecrow Contest sponsored recently by the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce. Shown with her are Rhuell Poe, left, and Jean Boles, right, as Chamber Manager Kay Colburn, second from right, pins on the Best of Show ribbon. Mrs. Colburn reports very good participation by merchants and much interest by the people in town.

Adventures in the snow

Main Auditorium at Glorieta Baptist Conference Center

Although snow had been predicted, a group of nine brave souls left in the First Baptist bus on Monday, October 15 for a weeks stay at the Glorieta Baptist Conference Center in New Mexico. We were to attend the Aspen Bible Conference, which is a great time to be at Glorieta. The Aspen trees are a golden hue. The scent of Pinon and Juniper is in the air. The Sangre de Cristo Mountains, 7,000 feet high and purple in color, make a fitting backdrop for the bright blue sky with its contrasting white, fluffy clouds.

With David Speegle as driver, we moved along at a steady pace and had lunch at Clovis. By the time we reached Vaughn at 4:30 p.m., it was raining and the clouds were becoming dark and heavy.

We began meeting cars that were dusted with snow and soon it was coming down fast and furious. It was difficult for the windshield wipers to remove the snow as fast as it fell and several stops were made to remove it by hand.

One old fellow had broken his windshield wiper and held it in his hand as he stood in the snow. David offered his assistance, but he waved us on, saying "I've already sent for help. You better go on. You've got a bunch of kids to take care of."

By the time we reached the fork in the road that led to Glorieta on the right or Santa Fe on the left, we were running out of gas. The station at the "Y" was closed, many cars were already stalled, our decision was to try for Santa Fe. We were able to reach it and buy gas. The attendant told us it had been snowing all day in the mountains. She inquired where we were from and had a strange look on her face when David said "Winters".

The next decision necessary was whether to stay in Santa Fe or proceed to Glorieta. Since the snowplows were working, we opted for Glorieta. Moving slowly for several miles, we began to see more and more cars stranded by the roadside. Finally, we came to a halt. There were cars ahead of us for miles and miles, and soon just about as many behind, we could now say we had now been in the longest parade from there to Las Vegas, New Mexico.

With nothing to do but wait, we turned off the motor and turned our attention to eating. Those goodies we brought from home now looked very enticing. For the main course, we had salted peanuts and Ritz crackers spread with peanut butter. Dessert consisted of peanut brittle, peanut butter cookies, and Rice Krispies. We washed it all down with cold drinks that Lewis Wade had brought. Jo Olive Hancock had a thermos of coffee.

After sitting from 6:30 til 8:00 p.m., we finally began to move on. Slowly but surely we proceeded while we passed miles and miles of stranded cars, some completely covered with snow.

The snow plows were continuing to rescue people from these vehicles—the roadway had been blocked by two huge trucks that were in trouble.

At 10 p.m., we reached the campus of Glorieta, the last to arrive. We were shown to our rooms in the Hall of States along with a group from Oklahoma. Have you ever tried to sort out luggage for a group and reach a hotel room with only two flashlights? It isn't easy, but finally we were all located.

Some of us, with the aid of pocket books of matches found our nighties and eventually got to bed—about that time, the lights came on—how wonderful is light. Edna England and Jo Olive had rooms upstairs, also, the Wesley Wade's, David and Lewis. Myra Dorsett, Darlene Sims and I were located downstairs.

Tuesday, events moved slowly around the Conference Center and so did we. The snowy streets were now icy and some were involved in accidents, but not our group.

By Wednesday, everyone could reach the dining room for meals in safety and the Bible Conferences were held on schedule. In the afternoon, we drove to Santa Fe, which is at the end of the old Santa Fe Trail. The Indians were displaying their jewelry for sale in front of the old Governor's palace, although they were shivering in the cold. We also visited the shops, art galleries and museum, and drove by Greer Garson's ranch.

A visit was made to St. Francis Cathedral, where the oldest representation of the Madonna stands in the United States, where our lady of the conquest has resided for 355 years.

Thursday afternoon was spent in exploring the Glorieta gardens and grounds. The evening was climaxed with a formal dinner for the 300 guests that had braved the weather to attend the Conference.

Newcomers and old timers alike always leave with the desire to return again next year to Glorious Glorieta.

Mrs. Wayne Simpson

Mary Childers weds Wayne Simpson

In a candlelight ceremony in First Baptist Church, Winters, at 3 p.m. Saturday, Mary Louise Childers became the bride of James Wayne Simpson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Childers of Winters. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Simpson of Winters.

A flowered archway and candelabras decorated the church.

Wedding music was provided by Susan Conner, organist, and Audine McBeth, soloist, who sang "What A Difference You've Made In My Life."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin gown with rounded scoop neckline, accented with lace and embroidered flowers on the empire bodice. The dress featured sheer bouffant long sleeves and a long lace-trimmed train accented with lace appliques. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with light blue ribbons.

Lanora Baker was maid of honor, and Karen Wilkerson was bridesmaid. They wore light blue long sleeved dresses with white lace trim and carried single blue carnations trimmed with white lace and white ribbons.

Best man was Kenneth Baker, and groomsman was Perry Wilkerson. Ushers were Neill Burton and David Childers.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church, hosted by Betty Childers. Those serving were Mrs. Olen Potts, Mrs. Billy Sherman, Sue Hukill, Kim Simpson, Nolis Prine, Michelle Prine, Sally McAnally, and Christi Hilliard.

The groom's mother hosted the rehearsal dinner at her residence in Winters.

The bride is a senior at Winters High School and will graduate in May 1985. She is employed by the nursing home. The groom is a 1980 graduate of Winters High School and is employed by Winters Meat Processing.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will be at home at 710 Vancil, Winters.

TIPS ON EYE CARE

by Mitchell Shapiro, M.D.

DEAR DOCTOR:

My next door neighbor just had surgery for a retinal detachment. My understanding is that he nearly lost sight in his left eye. What are the symptoms, and how can retinal detachments be prevented?

The retina is a thin layer of tissue located on the rear wall of the eye. Its function is somewhat similar to that of film in a camera. It captures images entering the eye and translates those images to the optic nerve, on which the message is carried to the brain.

A detached retina is not painful, but it is very serious. Symptoms may include the appearance of spots before the eyes, light flashes and loss of vision, especially in the peripheral area of the visual field.

The detached retina will nearly always get worse if not repaired, and repair usually requires surgery. There are several techniques currently in use, most of which are "external," meaning they do not always require incisions in the eye itself. Retinal repair leaves no visible scars.

One of the more promising treatments involves laser therapy — used to treat retinal tears or holes before a retinal detachment occurs. It is simple, painless and takes only seconds to complete. Of course, laser repair does require a brief period of recuperation.

The symptoms of retina detachment, however, do not always indicate detachment. Other, less severe problems often produce the same symptoms. If you suspect you have a retinal detachment, see your ophthalmologist immediately. Only he can tell for sure whether you have a problem.

If you have a question about your vision, write us at Florida Eye Clinic, P.O. Box 19446, Orlando, FL 32814.

FACTS & FIGURES
Healthy as a horse: to control gastrointestinal roundworms and stomach bots in horses, including pregnant mares, a medicine called EQVALAN is now available in an oral paste formulation. Marketed by MSD AGVET, a division of Merck & Co., Inc., it controls the arterial larval and adult stages of bloodworms, and the oral as well as the gastric stages of bots. The product comes packaged in syringe tubes for dosing by mouth. The plunger is notched at 50-pound intervals, and has a locking ring so that a precise dose can be delivered to a horse of any weight up to 1,250 pounds. It's available from veterinarians.

Vaccinations now required for heifers
Effective November 5, heifers sold for breeding, grazing, dairying or feeding in non-quarantined feedlots will have to be vaccinated for brucellosis. The new vaccination requirement recently adopted by the Texas Animal Health Commission applies to 113 counties in eastern, southern and central sections of the state that are in the Class C Area of the Brucellosis Control Program. Brucellosis is a major disease of cattle that often results in abortions, points out Dr. Buddy Faries, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Heifers born since last January 1 that are more than four months old must be vaccinated when they are sold for breeding, grazing, dairying or feeding in a non-quarantined feedlot," emphasizes Faries. "However, heifers need not be vaccinated if sold for slaughter or for feeding in a quarantined feedlot." Producers can have heifers less than a year old vaccinated free of charge by a veterinarian or Texas Animal Health Commission official. "Unvaccinated heifers older than a year are too old to be vaccinated and therefore can be sold only for slaughter or for feeding in a quarantined feedlot," adds Faries. "Producers need to keep that fact in mind since heifer calves born this spring will be a year old within a few months." Producers with heifers to sell should make sure they are vaccinated and properly identified with a tattoo in the right ear, says the veterinarian. Since vaccinated heifers are worth more at the point of sale, vaccination for brucellosis should be a top priority item for cattlemen.

New farm credit initiatives ready
Regulations for implementing President Reagan's Farm Credit Initiatives have been completed and are being distributed to the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) field offices, the USDA stated recently. The regulations provide for a one-time debt set-aside program for FmHA borrowers and loan guarantees for non-FmHA borrowers. In addition, guidelines have been developed for County Supervisors to use in signing contracts with local non-government lenders and farm management specialists. These specialists will provide additional advice and assistance to financially distressed farm borrowers. In both cases, the action will restore farmers to a positive cash flow position. "With field office training underway, we will have everything in place for the successful launching of this program," Charles W. Shuman of the FmHA said. Under the plan announced recently by the President for farmers experiencing serious financial difficulty, FmHA can set aside up to 25 percent, to a maximum of $200,000, of a borrower's debt for five years without interest. For non-FmHA borrowers, the agency can guarantee up to 90 percent of a loan if the lender is willing to write off a minimum of 10 percent of the debt.

Local youth joins Hereford Ass'n.
Ben Jac Barker, Winters, has been accepted as a junior member of the American Hereford Association, according to an announcement by H.H. Dickenson, Executive Vice President of the AHA. By becoming junior members of the AHA, youngsters are able to take advantage of the many programs open to Hereford breeders in their efforts to further their own breeding programs. Shows, performance records information and being a part of the many activities sponsored by the AHA's junior department are all benefits for the youthful members. The American Hereford Association, headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri, is the world's largest beef breed registry organization. There have been more than 18 million head entered in its herd book since the founding of AHA in 1881.

Regulations covering agricultural chemicals
The president of the state's largest farm organization Friday called proposed state pesticide regulations "unnecessary, unreasonable, and unworkable." S.M. True, a Plainview cotton and grain farmer, said existing state and federal regulation pesticides give adequate protection. Farm Bureau policy on the subject reads in part, "Regulations governing application of agricultural chemicals must be workable and effective, and should always be accompanied by an economic impact statement proving that they will solve more problems than they will create." True said that the proposals announced October 19 by the Texas Department of Agriculture are "ambiguous" and contain "a number of traps for the unwary farmer or rancher." They (the proposals) appear to have been drafted by individuals without a working knowledge of agriculture, or by someone intent on multiplying the problems of farmers and ranchers," True said. "Someone wishing to harass a farmer will find happy hunting in the requirements of these regulations." True discounted the claim by the TDA that farmers had input in the regulations which the Department has been developing for the past year. True said that the Texas Farm Bureau, representing 313,000 member families, found out about the proposals "by accident" in August. On September 20, TFB met with leaders of 20 agricultural groups to discuss the proposals. "Only three of these organizations knew that TDA was developing these regulations," True said. It is a fact that the Department did not make its plans known to agriculture until after we discovered what was being proposed, and only then because members of the Legislature requested that TDA talk to us," the Farm Bureau leader said. True said a public statement by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower concerning pesticides "raises the question of Mr. Hightower's motives for these regulations."

He said Hightower was quoted in The Dallas Morning News earlier this year as saying "the weaning of Texas Agriculture from chemicals" is a high priority of his administration. "Careful use of pesticides keeps the consumer's food supply safe from rot, worms and rodents," True said. "Consumers demand high quality produce and farmers must have a means of protecting crops from devastation of insects and disease." True said farmers do not use pesticides carelessly or unnecessarily. "No farmer or rancher wishes to cause damage to the environment, nor do we want to hurt our employees or the public," True said. "By complying with existing state and federal regulations, we feel that there are adequate protections in place. As a matter of fact, the Texas Department of Agriculture has yet to present an convincing case for the need for these extremely stringent regulations," he said.

Guidelines for preserving cemeteries

Historic cemeteries, many of which have endured years of neglect and vandalism, are more than just a series of forgotten grave markers—rather, they represent Texas' rich past and offer a rare glimpse into the beliefs and traditions of early pioneers.

A growing interest in one-ignored cemeteries has spurred many Texas communities to ensure that local plots are properly surveyed and maintained. However, many rural plots tucked away on private land are often overgrown and deteriorating. Only through local awareness can residents come to realize the significance of these gravesites and understand the lifestyles, religions, social structures and ethnic diversity of early settlers.

Although many people are not familiar with cemetery laws, residents (especially landowners with family plots on their property) should be aware that land dedicated as a cemetery cannot be disturbed—in other words, once a cemetery, always a cemetery. The only exception would be if the areas District Court formally removed the cemetery's purpose of dedication.

Additionally, cemeteries cannot be sold or used in such a way to restrict their designated purpose, even if the area has been neglected or abandoned. As long as there is visible evidence of burials in an enclosed tract, the cemetery is inviolate, and desecration of the site is punishable as a class A misdemeanor. The landowner who inadvertently lets cattle graze on long-forgotten graves, therefore, is abusing the cemetery and may be fined.

Of course, most people do not knowingly disturb these old sites, but a community's best protection against abuse is knowledge—knowledge of cemetery laws and legal alternatives should the plot be threatened by development or inappropriate removal.

If a resident does see a cemetery being disturbed or vandalized, the incident should be immediately reported to local authorities, who are empowered by law to protect the site. Secondly, the Texas Historical Commission, county historical commission, and local newspaper should be alerted about the cemetery's destruction. Publicity, the most effective tool, will rally community support and possibly save a threatened tract.

Other events that generate public interest include cemetery clean-up days, columns in the local paper detailing the lives of

You and Your Car
Tips from the Mobil Auto Tech Group

Gasoline Magic

Your gasoline is a result of decades of scientific development. So it helps your car purr contentedly without harmful engine knock—while rolling along at peak efficiency. And you'll be fighting carburetor dirt besides.

Octane rating measures gasoline's ability to resist knock. That's the ping you hear when you suddenly load your engine, as in starting up a hill. Today's engine design allows for occasional light ping. But severe knocking cuts power and can be damaging.

If you get too much knocking, shift to higher octane. A modern high-octane gasoline like Mobil Super Unleaded fights knock. The higher the octane rating, the higher the anti-knock capability: 92 octane means a gasoline has demonstrated the knock-resisting capabilities of a mixture of 92% octane and 8% heptane. Such a modern gasoline also contains a detergent that inhibits carburetor dirt.

Free vote buttons

Free vote buttons are being given away through November 6 at 58 Texas McCoy's Building Supply Centers as a public service encouraging people to vote, according to Anne Clark, promotional manager.

McCoy's has three locations in this area: 1202 E. Highway 80, Abilene; 2031 Loop 306, San Angelo; and Highway 377 South, Brownwood.

McCoy's is also presenting awards to all registered voters. Each voter presenting a current voter registration card will receive a free package of energy pincher Sylvania light bulbs.

Head lice a big problem

Head lice are once again becoming a problem in many areas of Texas and are presenting a real nuisance in public schools and private day care centers.

The tiny pests suck blood, causing intense skin irritation and itching. Continuous scratching may cause skin abrasions that can lead to bacterial infection.

Head lice are tiny grayish, flattened, wingless insects, says Dr. Phil Hamman, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The adult female attaches 50-100 eggs, or nits, to the hair near the scalp. Eggs hatch in a week and lice start sucking blood in the scalp area.

Head lice spread easily by physical contact, such as children at play. Even under the best sanitary conditions, infestations may occur among school children who are in close, daily contact, notes the entomologist.

Infested persons should see a physician, says Hamman. Medicated lotions or shampoos can be prescribed for effective control.

Personal hygiene and not using another person's comb, brush or hat are keys to prevent lice infestations. Shampooing with soap and water normally will not remove nits from hair since they are attached by a "cement", explains Hamman.

Dry cleaning or thorough laundering of clothing, towels and bedding in hot, soapy water (125 degrees F. or more for at least 10 minutes) kills lice and nits. Personal items (hats, caps, combs, rollers, hairbrushes, wigs) can be heat sterilized.

Suspected infestations should be reported to a physician, local public health authorities or school officials so the source can be located. Prevention is the most important control of head lice, emphasizes Hamman.

Dust on light bulbs can cut lighting efficiency by as much as 50 percent.

Some say holding your breath when a mosquito lands on you traps the insect there until you exhale again.

Note: Parental supervision may be needed to help in cooking meat, opening containers and shredding cheese and lettuce.

Kitchen Safety Tips

Parents should encourage their children to learn about safety and nutrition, says a leading home economist.

Here are some safety tips:

- Store sharp knives in a knife rack, not mixed with flatware and other utensils in a utility drawer.
- Cut can lids off completely; never cut them partially and then try to bend them back.
- Teach children that the heating units of a range can be hot and may still be hot after the units are turned off.
- Prevent scalding by lifting the far side of cookware lids first so that steam escapes away from face and hands.

early settlers, and cemetery surveys, which involve documenting each grave and noting any historical information available on the cemetery and the surrounding area. In addition, taking photographs of the markers not only provides an afternoon of creative fun, but also provides evidence of the site's existence should the stones be illegally removed.

Once a community or historical commission has expressed interest in a cemetery, a historical marker may be the ideal way to record and preserve the history of the site. The Research and Markers Department of the Texas Historical Commission reviews each marker application based on various criteria, including the exact location of the cemetery; pertinent dates and historical information; date of the earliest grave; approximate number of graves; family, church or ethnic groups associated with the cemetery; its present condition; and who currently maintains the site. By securing a historical marker, future generations are assured of a place to remember, study and appreciate the lives of early settlers who helped shape present-day Texas. Residents should keep in mind, however, that historical markers do not provide legal protection for cemeteries—they are already protected under separate state laws.

For communities or individuals interested in preserving a pioneer cemetery, the THC is publishing a special preservation guideline later this fall entitled "Preserving Cemeteries". For more information on acquiring the publication or initiating work on a cemetery, call or write Dan K. Utley, THC, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, Texas 78711; 512-475-3092.

Elderly may file to postpone taxes

Taxpayers aged 65 or over can delay payment of property taxes on their homesteads.

Elderly homeowners can qualify for the "over 65 tax deferral" by filing a sworn affidavit at the office of the appraisal district in which they live.

If an elderly taxpayer has already been sued to collect delinquent taxes on his homestead, he can still take advantage of the tax deferral by filing an affidavit asserting age and ownership with the court in which the suit is pending.

According to Ron Patterson, executive director of the State Property Tax Board, the Texas Property Tax Code provides that, once an "over 65 tax deferral" affidavit has been properly filed, taxing units may not pursue or initiate delinquent tax suits on the homestead as long as the applicant owns and lives at that property.

Patterson said that forms for the deferral affidavit are available at local appraisal district offices in the state. The form should be filled out and signed by the applicant and his signature witnessed by a notary public or other official authorized to take oaths.

Patterson stressed that elderly homeowners should realize that the deferral only allows payments to be postponed, not dismissed. "During the period of deferral, the amounts of delinquent taxes, penalties and interest continue to add up," explained Patterson. "Once the applicant no longer qualifies for deferral—that is, if he no longer owns or resides at that homestead—all those accrued amounts become due and payable. Taxing units at that time may sue and foreclose on the accrued delinquent taxes, penalties and interest."

7th graders blank Jim Ned here, 32-0

The Winters Seventh Grade football team blasted the Jim Ned team here Thursday night, 32-0, on an extremely wet field.

Fumbles are frequent in a game on a wet field, but center Kenyon Black and quarterback Jimmy Ripley handled the center exchange with no fumbles, Coach Tom Selby stated.

Scoring for Winters was as follows:

-Don Patton raced around the end for a 40 yard touchdown. The extra point was kicked by Richard Lett.

-Jeremy DeLaCruz carried the ball in from 15 yards out. The kick by Lett was blocked.

-Eloy Rodriguez galloped for a 28 yard TD. The kick by Dan Killough hit the goal post.

-A 40 yard pass from Don Patton to Eloy Rodriguez was good for a TD. The kick by Lett was good.

-Rodriquez threw a 28 yard pass to Patton for a TD. The kick by Lett was no good.

Coach Selby listed as good offensive plays for Winters the passes by Rodriguez and Patton; a 54-yard touchdown run by second team fullback Sean Baker, which was called back for a holding penalty; and good running up the middle by Jeremy DeLaCruz and Longino Rangel. Their running allowed the sweeps to be effective, Selby commented, because the Indians were looking for the backs to run up the middle, and were surprised when the Breezes ran wide.

Selby praised his entire defensive unit, which shut down the Jim Ned rushing game and put pressure on the passer. DeLaCruz, Rangel, and Gibo Lujano led the linebackers; and Lett and Mark Jacobs led the linemen. Eloy Rodriguez also recovered a fumble which led to a touchdown.

Rodriquez was definitely the outstanding player of the game because he carried the ball for over 100 yards, scored two TD's, passed for another, recovered a fumble, and played well at cornerback on defense. He also had a 65 yard touchdown run called back because of a clipping penalty.

Selby explained that his team had worked for one day on the kick for the extra point. Richard Lett and Dan Killough had worked on it, and they made two extra points and had three blocked because of the line's not knowing yet how to block properly for a PAT attempt. Brady Cowan held the ball for the kick, and Kenyon Black centered it.

A fine crowd turned out for the game in spite of the weather, Selby stated, adding that fan support has played a part in the team's 5-0-1 record.

The seventh graders will play in Coleman Thursday night, in search of their goal to be district champs, Selby said. Kickoff is at 5 p.m.

Jim Ned sneaks by Winters JV, 6-0

The Winters Junior Varsity played a fine defensive ball game here last Thursday night, allowing the Jim Ned Indians to score one touchdown in the third quarter to win the contest, 6-0.

Winters Coach Jimmy Randolph said his team "played extremely tough and with super enthusiasm."

"The entire defense was outstanding," he commented. "Jim Ned had a first and goal to go inside the five and we held them."

"Michael Thompson had a super night on offense, catching a 39 yard pass and rushing five times for approximately 50 yards," he continued. That pass from quarterback Doug Wheat was one of the outstanding offensive plays of the game, Thompson was one block away from breaking for a touchdown, the coach stated.

On defense, Randolph praised the work of Randy Watson, who intercepted a pass, and good defensive halfback play by Wheat and Todd Grantham.

The junior varsity plays at Coleman Thursday night at 7:30. Their final game will be at home against Albany next Thursday night.

Girls' basketball season starts soon

This year's basketball season for the Lady Blizzards will begin with two scrimmages November 6 at San Angelo Lakeview, beginning at 5:30 for the junior varsity. The second scrimmage will be with Trent there on November 13 at 5:30 p.m. with the junior varsity first.

The high school teams have worked extremely hard on offensive and defensive sets, Coach Larry Dearen says. "Since school has started, we have concentrated on fundamentals, especially our passing, ball handling, and shooting," he continued. "Our goals are to increase our free shot, field goal, and rebounding percentages, along with more flexible passing and ball handling teams."

At this time, 26 girls have come out for basketball, a good number to start with, Coach Dearen said. Players on the varsity squad are Brenda Belk, Maggie Campos, Carolyn Garcia, LaShea Guy, Michelle O'Neal, Melisa Poehls, Leslie Pruser, Rosie Rodriguez, Lana Rice, and Melinda Sims.

Managers are Becky Cortez, Lucy Lugo, Nora Sanchez, and Lupe Torres.

came out this week, and Winters has one of the top three teams in district.

The first junior high games will be November 19 at Wall.

8th graders beat Jim Ned here, 8-6

The Winters Eighth Grade football team defeated the Jim Ned eighth graders, 8-6, on a wet field here last Thursday night.

The win brings the locals' record to 4-2. If they win their next two games, they will tie for the district crown.

The first quarter was scoreless. In the second quarter, Rene Cortez scored a touchdown on a 55 yard run following a quick pitch. Michael Ysa scored the two extra points on a dive. Winters led, 8-0.

Neither team scored in the third period. In the last quarter, Jim Ned scored a TD, but the Breezes stopped the try for extra points to retain the lead, 8-6.

Winters Coach Mack Lingo listed as outstanding offensive players Rene Cortez and the offensive line.

Defensive standouts were Houston Guy, safety; Michael Ysa and Paul Bishop; linebackers, and Chris Rives.

The team will play at 6 p.m. Thursday night in Coleman. The final game of the year will be at home against Albany, next Thursday.

Prevent Home Falls

Home falls are a major cause of severe or fatal injuries. The older we get, the more apt we are to be injured by a fall. Follow these tips to help avoid home falls.

- Keep outdoor steps, walks and porches cleared of ice, snow and mud.
- Wear well fitted shoes with slip resistant soles.
- Keep household trafficways free of clutter.
- Use handrails going up and down steps. Don't stumble in the dark.
- Turn on lights.
- Use a step-ladder or step-stool, not a chair or boxes to climb on.
- Wipe up spills without delay.

Protect household equipment

Your house doesn't have to be hit by lightning to be your household electronic equipment to be affected in an electrical storm, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

You may have noticed during a thunderstorm that your lights flicker. That means there has been a power surge caused by lightning, says Bonnie L. Piernot. It lasts only an instant, but that surge can damage microchip circuitry in your home computer, telephone answering device, microwave oven or anything else that uses microchips, she says.

The surest way to minimize the threat is to disconnect or at least turn off anything with microchip circuitry during a severe thunderstorm, Piernot advises.

You can also buy a device that plugs into AC outlets and protects microchip circuitry. But the application of such a device may cause a circuit breaker to trip, so using it on a branch circuit with a freezer or refrigerator is inadvisable, says the home economist.

Although the answering device on your phone is We've added a new game to our exercise routine. We call it the bean bag toss. Everyone seems to like it pretty well so far.

vulnerable, the telephone itself has a reasonable level of protection due to a device on the side of your house, put there by the telephone company. There's less protection if you're using one of the new, inexpensive phones, notes Piernot.

Cable television, if not installed in accordance with the National Electrical Code, can present a major risk of set damage from lightning, she cautions.

The most common damage from a power surge is program upset. For example, your computer equipment may not be harmed but a computer program will do illogical things for no apparent reason, or your answering device will turn itself off.

But major power surges can damage equipment, Piernot says, requiring a service call to repair or replace burned out or damaged components. These service calls can be quite costly since sometimes the entire circuit board must be replaced.

Textile uses varied

To most people, textiles mean consumer products like clothing, linens, carpet and upholstery. But there are hundreds of other uses for textiles in medicine, space and defense, construction and sports that also impact our lives, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist Dr. Ann V. Beard. Artificial kidneys, disposable hospital gowns, astronauts' space suits, and the roofs of domed stadiums are just a few examples of the many uses of textiles, she says. Most finished products are manufactured out of state. But many of the raw materials, such as natural fibers like cotton, linen and wool or synthetic fibers made from petroleum products originate in Texas.

Automated soil pH testing

An automated system for testing soil pH (level of acidity or alkalinity) is in operation at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University. Some 5,000 soil samples have been processed with the new automated unit in the past five months. The unit runs a complete analysis every two minutes and references every tenth sample, making for extreme accuracy in pH readings and therefore more reliable recommendations for particular crops and areas of the state, notes an Extension soil chemist. Plans call for linking the unit directly to a computer for reporting test results. Also, plant diagnostic computer programs are being developed.

Observing parenting skills important

One way to learn something about how you parent is to observe your friends who have children near the age of your children, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist Diane T. Welch. As you observe, ask yourself, how do these parents act toward their children. Do they appear to enjoy their children and approve of what they are doing, or do they appear critical, impatient and nagging? How many parents request their children to stop doing something and how many habitually order their children around? How many embarrass their children in front of others? How many expect conduct beyond their child's years? How often do you see parents that show approval more often than they correct? How many give orders endlessly and then punish children for disobedience when the child fails to know which order was important enough to follow? Then think about your own parenting behavior and ask the same questions, she suggests. The comparison can help parents see areas where they are satisfied with how they are bringing up their own children, and areas where they would like to change.

Bullock sends tax checks

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday sent checks totaling $11.6 million to 221 counties and 425 cities as their third quarter share of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax collected through October 1, 1984.

The Texas Legislature raised the rate to 12 percent, effective October 2.

Bullock said the state collected $40.4 million in taxes on the sale of mixed drinks during the quarter, up 8.5 percent over the same period in 1983.

Texas cities and counties each now receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state. The state's general revenue fund receives the balance—$28.7 million—of the tax money collected.

Cities and counties will get a 15 percent share of the increased mixed drinks gross receipts tax from fourth quarter collections. Beginning with the first quarter of 1985, cities and counties will each receive a 12.5 percent share of the increased tax and the state will get the entire gain from the tax increase.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller's Office.

Bullock said the mixed drink tax has brought in $120.5 million so far during 1984.

The total county tax revenue for Runtels County for the third quarter totaled $3,083.08. The county's 15 percent remittance for the quarter totaled $462.46.

A Brief Explanation of

One of the world's newest gasolines has been granted a patent by the U.S. Patent Office. This fuel has an ingredient called PDP 5400 that's designed specifically to reduce or remove ridge deposits in the intake manifold passages of a car's engine.

Recent tests of this gasoline, known as SU 2000™, showed that it prevented deposit buildup and limited increases in octane requirements in 12 out of 12 laboratory engine tests. Shell researchers, who developed the new fuel, report a high degree of success in combating engine knocking by reducing deposits which lessen octane requirements in older cars.

Child

A law recently passed by Governor Mark White long way toward better health and safety for children. The new law will require that children under the age of 12 who ride in cars or vans must wear seat belts. The law's aim is to reduce the grim statistics of child deaths and injuries.

Last year in Texas alone, 100 children died as innocent victims of automobiles, and 10,000 more were injured. National studies indicate that 80 percent of the injuries could have been prevented through the use of child passenger restraints.

Texas lawmakers recently passed a law mandating that passenger safety seats on June 30, 1984. The legislation requires that children under two years of age be secured in child passenger seats, and children between the ages of two and six be secured by seats or safety belts.

The new legislation provides for a $25 fine for non-compliance, but can be dismissed if the parent acquires a safety seat within 10 days of the fine. The law will be effective January 1, 1985.

In reaction to the Child safety seats-now the law

A law recently passed by the Texas Legislature and signed by Governor Mark White will go a long way toward protecting the health and safety of Texas children. The new law requires the use of safety restraints for children under the age of four who ride in cars or light trucks. The law's aim is to reduce the grim statistics which make Texas a national leader in deaths and injuries for this age group.

Last year in Texas, 78 children under the age of four died as innocent passengers in automobiles, and another 6,603 were injured—many seriously. National studies indicate that up to 80 percent of the deaths and injuries could have been avoided through the proper use of child passenger safety seats.

Texas lawmakers passed the law mandating the use of child passenger safety seat systems on June 30, 1984. Specifically, the legislation requires children under two years old to be secured in child passenger safety seats, and children between the ages of two and four years to be secured by either safety seats or safety belts. The law goes into effect October 31.

The new legislation also provides for a $25 to $50 fine for non-compliance, but the penalty can be dismissed if the person acquires a safety seat system within 10 days of the offense. No fines will be charged until January 1, 1985.

In reaction to the new law, Dr.

Robert Bernstein, Commissioner of Health, said, "It gives me great pleasure and relief to learn that the legislature has acted on this problem. The new law, combined with public education and awareness campaigns, will save the lives and protect the safety of thousands of infants and young children in Texas."

In an effort to increase parents' voluntary use of safety seats and to reduce the number of young children killed or injured in motor vehicle accidents, the Texas Department of Health has initiated the Safe Riders Program.

This program, conducted in cooperation with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, began in April.

The program consists of a statewide awareness effort and a special demonstration project in the Dallas/Ft. Worth area (Public Health Region 5).

The statewide effort includes:

- * A public awareness campaign to encourage parents to use child safety seats in their cars;

- * A toll-free information line (1-800-252-8255) manned by bilingual (English/Spanish) operators from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday;

- * Promotional and educational materials for consumers and health care providers concerning the use and availability of car safety seats;

- * Educational resource materials for community leaders who want to establish loaner and reduced-cost sales programs.

Pamphlets, resource packages, and other information in English and Spanish about localized child passenger safety programs which loan or sell seats at reduced prices are available through the toll-free information line. In addition, callers may order bilingual educational materials, and receive educational materials, and receive consumer information about safety seats.

MDA presents cookoff awards

Numerous awards were presented to those who assisted in the recent Muscular Dystrophy Association Chili Cookoff in Ballinger, during ceremonies October 24 at Simply Taylor's Restaurant in Ballinger.

Presenting the awards were Louise Morris, head of the Ballinger MDA, and Paul Moore of Lubbock, District Director of MDA.

Those receiving awards were the Gold Rush Band; Doug Cox, superintendent of schools in Ballinger; J.B. Wilson, Ballinger High School principal; George Beard, Ballinger Elementary principal; Weldon Brevard, Ballinger Junior High principal; Betty Ischar of City Savings; County Judge Michael Purchison; and Police Chief Paul Boggess.

A special award was presented to Wayne Irby and Dennis Jones for the participation of the City of Ballinger in the cookoff.

Other individuals and organizations not present to receive their awards were: Todd Huckabee, Gary Goetz, Shipman and Company, Travis Roach, Jr., F&M Bank, and Sheriff Bill Baird.

According to Mrs. Morris, the Chili Cookoff was a great success thanks to the townspeople. Close to 500 came to the cookoff.

In his remarks, Moore stated that the Ballinger MDA unit raises about $1 per person for this area. The regional office of the organization enjoyed its best year, having reached its budget.

He explained that 77% of money given to MDA goes to research and patient care. He went on to describe some recent breakthroughs in research, including the new hormone injection which can give some patients complete muscle control for 30 days.

Moore predicted a major breakthrough in genetics within the next five years, and a cure by the end of the century.

The MDA organization in Runnels County would like to have a fund-raising effort in Winters next year.

WTU home rates below state average

West Texas Utilities Company residential customers are paying slightly less than the state average for their electricity this fall, according to surveys reported by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

In September and October, WTU's standard residential rate for 1,000 kilowatt-hours was $74.74, while the state average was over $76, the PUC report shows. For 500 kilowatt hours, WTU charged $41, while the state average was $40.41 in September and $40.25 in October. Average monthly usage for WTU residential customers was 1,020 kWh in September 1983 and 701 kWh in October 1983.

The survey included 19 utilities, among which were 10 investor-owned companies. Highest rates in the state were those of El Paso Electric Company, which charged $98.37 for 1,000 kWh. The lowest rates reported were by the Lower Colorado River Authority, which charged $53.09 for 1,000 kWh.

WTU currently is awaiting the outcome of a rate case pending before the PUC. A settlement agreement presented to a PUC hearing examiner would raise WTU's rates but lower the fuel cost recovery, resulting in only slight changes in the various rates now in effect. A final decision by the three PUC commissioners is expected in November.

MDA award

Presenting an award to the City of Ballinger for their participation in the recent MDA Chili Cookoff are (l-r) Louise Morris, head of the Ballinger MDA; Paul Morris, MDA District Director from Lubbock; and Marcel Shelton of Lubbock. Dennis Jones, Ballinger City Administrator, second from right, and Wayne Irby, Mayor of Ballinger, right, accepted the award.

Brace yourself against the cold

Texans who know that the best defense is a good offense are already arming themselves against the coming cold weather. Their weapons are caulking guns, door sweeps, and weatherstripping.

No one would tolerate a huge, gaping hole in the wall of their house. But a house which is not properly sealed—even if it is well insulated—presents this exact situation. Though these air leaks are not obvious, they exist all the same around doors, windows, plumbing and electrical penetrations, and elsewhere.

Air infiltration makes your heating system work harder to maintain thermostat settings. In most cases the system can handle the job and keep your family comfortable. But you pay for it, winter and summer. It's money wasted.

Caulking and weatherstripping are the principal materials used to "plug" those air leaks. They are simple, effective, and inexpensive to apply. Yet they are frequently overlooked in favor of more complicated and more expensive energy-saving measures. They should be your first line of defense in devising a sound strategy to maintain comfort while controlling energy use and reducing utility bills. When applied, these measures will typically save from 10 to 30 percent on heating and cooling bills.

Now's the time to start your defense against cold weather. Caulking is best applied when temperatures are above 45 degrees F. You'll be more comfortable while applying it if you get the job done before a big temperature drop occurs. Easy how-to instructions are available wherever these products are sold.

For more information on these cost-cutting measures and other strategies to control your energy use, call the toll-free ENERGY HOTLINE 1-800-643-SAVE. For detailed information about specific use, durability, ease of installation, cost, and appearance of sealing products, ask for Texas Energy Topics No. 10.

Life-saving protection no family should be without!

- Purchase one or more smoke detectors for your home to wake you when a fire starts.
- Install your detectors properly and test them regularly to make sure they are working.
- Develop and practice an escape plan to enable you and your family to get out safely.

Report changes to SSI office

If you receive an SSI check or if you receive an SSI check for someone else as their payee, you must report any changes in your living arrangements or their living arrangements. It is very important that you report these changes promptly. In order to avoid being assessed a penalty, any change should be reported by the tenth of the month following the month of the change.

Some changes you should report as soon as possible are:

- * If you move or change your mailing address;
- * If there is a change in your household.

(a) Notify us if you and your husband or wife have separated or if you have begun to live together again.

(b) If a parent of a child receiving SSI leaves or returns to the household.

(c) If you move into someone else's house or out of someone else's home.

(d) If you begin living with others and share with household expenses; or there are any changes in the amount you or others contribute to the household.

(e) Let us know if you were paying rent and either no longer paying rent or paying a lesser amount.

(f) Let us know if the number of people who live with you changes.

* If you enter or leave an institution - hospital, nursing home, jail, etc.

* If a child in your care receiving SSI enters the School for Deaf or Blind or any children's colony or leaves your care;

* If you plan to leave the United States and are to be gone over 30 days;

* If you marry or your marriage ends or if a child in your care marries.

Any of these changes can be reported by phone. Call your San Angelo Social Security Office at 949-7426. This list of changes does not cover every change that may affect your check; so if you have any questions or doubts, call the Social Security Office. Remember, changes not only may cause your check to be reduced but may result in an increase in your check. Any delay in reporting means it will take longer to get your money or delay your check.

Students needed to study in Europe

"Qualified high school students are offered a unique opportunity to spend an academic year or six week summer holiday in Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Finland, Iceland, Switzerland, Germany, or Great Britain as part of the ASSE International Program," announced Carole Powell, Southern Director of ASSE International.

"Until a few years ago, only a fortunate few could afford to spend a school year or summer in these countries. Now ASSE International has changed all that," continued Mrs. Powell.

Students, aged 15 to 18, are selected on the basis of a good academic record, excellent character references, and a genuine desire to experience life abroad with a volunteer European host family.

"At least one member of the carefully screened host family will be fluent in English," added Mrs. Powell, "so that communication will not be a problem."

Year students are provided language/culture instruction as part of the ASSE program.

The non-profit ASSE International is affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and has been officially designated by the U.S. Information Agency as an Exchange Visitor Program. The exchange program enables qualified teenagers to live and study in European countries in order to learn from cultures other than their own.

Local students interested in receiving more information about the program should contact Carroll Draper, Route 4, Box 33, Comanche, Texas 76442, 915-966-3588.

Medicare changes effective Oct. 1

Recent changes in the Medicare law will affect many Medicare beneficiaries. Beginning October 1, 1984, participating physicians and suppliers will "accept assignment" on all Medicare claims. "Accepting assignment" means that they accept Medicare's approved charges as full payment on all claims. The Medicare beneficiaries cannot be billed for more than 20 percent of Medicare's approved charge, regardless of the amount of the actual bill. Medicare pays the other 80 percent after the deductible has been met.

Before these changes in the law, doctors have been able to decide on a claim-by-claim basis whether to accept assignment on Medicare claims. In those cases where assignment was not accepted, Medicare paid 80 percent of the Medicare approved charge after the yearly deductible was met, but the beneficiary could be billed more than the remaining 20 percent of Medicare's approved charge.

After October 1, 1984, Medicare beneficiaries whose physicians or suppliers do not participate will still have Medicare coverage and the physician still has the option of accepting assignment on an individual basis. Medicare will still

Dirty chimneys can cause fires

Chimneys with heavy creosote deposits are a leading cause of home fires, so an annual chimney inspection and clean-up is in order, notes a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Creosote is produced when wood burns. It collects on the inside walls of the chimney and is highly flammable. Once ignited, creosote can burn at temperatures up to 3,000 degrees F. and can be pulled out of the chimney by a strong upward draft and onto the roof. Since chimney cleaning is messy and requires special tools, the job might best be handled by a professional chimney sweep.

pay 80 percent of the approved charge after the yearly deductible is met. But the beneficiary can be billed for more than 20 percent of Medicare's approved charge, unless the doctor has accepted assignment on the claim.

The new law also places a freeze on doctors' Medicare charges for fifteen months from July 1, 1984 to September 30, 1985. During the period of the freeze, nonparticipating doctors are not permitted to increase their actual billed charges to Medicare patients.

Medicare beneficiaries may ask their doctor if he or she is a participating provider. Also, Medicare carriers will maintain a Medicare Participating Physician/Supplier Directory. The directory will be available after December 1, 1984 and can be seen at local Social Security Offices, Railroad Retirement, or Area Agency on Aging Offices and senior citizen organizations. It can also be purchased. Write or call the Medicare carrier for more information. Remember the directory will not be available until after December 1, 1984.

Christmas Carousel slated for Abilene

The Junior League of Abilene has set November 15-17 as the dates for its annual Christmas Carousel in the Abilene Civic Center. The theme of the fundraising event is "A Country Christmas," with 60 merchants from across the country participating.

Among merchandise for sale are the following: specialty clothing for children and adults, furs, jewelry, decorations, kitchen gifts, toys, personalized gifts, art, portraits, antiques, foods, flowers, and more.

A preview party will be held November 15 from 7 to 10 p.m., with $25 admission charged. Market days will be November 16 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and November 17 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with $2 general admission charged, or $1 for military personnel, students, faculty, or senior citizens, per day.

Proceeds of the event will fund community projects sponsored by the Junior League of Abilene, Inc.

GSPA requests paid diversion provision

Grain Sorghum Producers Association has requested that a paid diversion provision be added to the 1985 feed grain program. GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp said such a program is needed to prevent a surplus buildup like that which depressed grain prices before the Payment-In-Kind program in 1983.

In a telegram to John Block, Secretary of Agriculture, Harp said, "Grain Sorghum Producers Association requests that you add a paid diversion provision to the 1985 Feed Grain Program. It should be optional with farmers able to put up to 10 percent of their base acres into paid diversion. Surplus stocks of corn and sorghum are growing this year by seven to eight percent of projected annual disappearance. This increase must be curtailed."

Harp said another year like 1984 could create the same surplus situation as that of 1982 which necessitated the costly PIK program. "It just makes a lot more sense to take action to prevent a problem than to let it happen and then try to correct it," Harp said. "That is what we are asking Secretary Block to do."

Time to assess need for terrace upkeep

This fall season is a good time for farmers to assess the need for terrace maintenance, according to Robert Fowler with the Ballinger Field Office of the Soil Conservation Service.

He stated that the recent rains highlighted the need for terrace work, particularly in those areas where the rainfall was intense. High water marks and topping of the terrace ridge obviously point out the need for greater terrace height. Residual water ponding indicates the need for land fills. A gully or two down the back side of a terrace ridge might indicate only the need for spot repair of the ridge.

The dry weather last spring and summer has had its effect on crop growth and production. Poor crop condition in the upper channel of terraces on many fields points to a need to build up terrace end closures to hold and spread run-off water over more crop rows. As a result of routine farming operations during the past years, the effective height of end closures and internal blocks has been worn down.

Fowler stressed that the internal blocks of the parallel terrace systems are just as important as the terrace ridge in making such a system work effectively. Its purpose is to hold rainfall on terrace lands of a higher elevation. If the internal block fails, then it is likely that the ridge of adjoining lower elevation land will become overloaded and fail. Then it is even more likely that any terraces below this point will also fail resulting in many tons of soil loss due to water erosion.

He stated that the ideal situation would be to hold each drop of water in the ground at the spot where it fell. Since that is not possible due to various conditions such as rainfall intensities, land slopes, and soil properties, terrace systems are installed to reduce the soil erosion rate and at the same time conserve moisture.

Careful use of crop residues can aid a terrace system in its design purpose. Residues on and in the ground will speed up the entry rate of water into the soil and at the same time increase the volume of water the soil can hold. Chiseling the contour is another good farming practice that compliments a terrace system by holding water at or near its drop point.

For more technical information on the maintenance of terrace systems, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

The sport of "talking turkey" is on the rise, says National Wildlife magazine. No longer just a rural, southern sport passed from father to son, the art of turkey calling is turning into a true national pastime. Some say it's contagious. The object is to attract a wild turkey into the open by using an artificial call. Although a call has to be pretty bad not to work at all, most gobblers are often heard and not seen.

Blackwell

by Savannah Thompson

The Pioneer County City Museum was the lure that brought members of the Euterpean Study Club of Blackwell to Sweetwater recently.

Prior to the tour of the museum, the visitors attended a luncheon at the Sweetwater Country Club, arranged by club member Mrs. Bem Murray, who lives at Oak Creek Lake near Blackwell.

Mrs. Georgia Lewis, president of the club, presided during the luncheon and introduced Laura Sheridan, a guest, who gave a brief history of the museum. Sheridan stressed the importance of people in keeping the museum a lively place.

Officials support Proposition Two

Top officials of major state-supported universities last Thursday urged voters to approve Proposition 2, a constitutional amendment on the November 6 general election ballot.

The proposition establishes a new $100 million annual fund for all state-supported institutions outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M University systems while broadening participation in the bonding program of the Permanent University Fund to include all UT and A&M units.

The funds will go toward necessary construction, repair and maintenance that protect the state's capital investments on college and university campuses, said Dr. Lauro Cavazos, president of Texas Tech. "It is a fund essential for the necessary growth of library resources and the purchase of equipment and computer systems that undergird delivery of high quality academic programs important to all Texans," he stated.

by Sheridan who guided the group on a talk tour. Those assisting Sheridan were Henri Elizabeth Papper, director, Mary Hudgins and Lora and Charlie Crow.

Members of the Blackwell Euterpean Club attending the luncheon were Mmes.; Mary Louise Alderman, Rhoda McCarley, Margaret Stout, Vera Raney, Laura Seale, Esther Smith, Gracie Smith, Emma Lee Lanier, Georgia Lewis, Billie Murray and Juanita Dancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Lewis had as their visitors over the weekend their daughter, Susan Herring and her children, Ryder and Tripp, her daughter Sheri Kordek and husband Mike, all from San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Patterson of Oak Creek Lake attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary October 13 of Mrs. Grady (Ruby) Patterson's aunt and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar V. Whipple of Lubbock. They were honored with a luncheon and reception at the South Plains Baptist Temple with over 100 attending. Their children, daughters and their husbands Mr. and Mrs. Wanda Dworaczyk of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Virginia Crawford of South Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Whipple of Denver City and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Whipple of Lubbock hosted the luncheon and reception.

The former Cecil Lee Sluder and Oscar Whipple were married October 13, 1934 in Dallas. They have thirteen grand children and sixteen great grandchildren.

In closing my news now, afternoon this Saturday, we had another good rain since last night. Some thunder, but not too bad. It began raining after midnight and the gauges showed another nine-tenths of rain this morning and this makes a total of six and eight-tenths inches of rain. It began raining last Saturday morning after 3:00 a.m. and it has rained or showered some each day all this week, but at this time, the sun is shining and it is clear. There is some wind and it is still cold, but the weather news says there is still more rain yet.

Blackwell has reported five and nine-tenths inches of rain since it began last Saturday morning. Up until Friday morning, we received one-half inch and still drizzling.

Benny Polston, treasurer of the Winters Lions Club, presents a check for $200 to Melody Herring, president of the Winters Young Homemakers, for the Playground Equipment

PAVE PAWS southwest radar system construction beginning

U.S. Senator John Tower participated in the official groundbreaking ceremony at 10 a.m. Tuesday, October 30, for the $120 million PAVE PAWS Southwest radar system being built in Schleicher County.

Tower, retiring chairman of the Armed Services Committee, was joined at the event by U.S. Representative Tom Loeffler and numerous other civic, military, and government officials.

The ceremony at the construction site was followed at 11 a.m. by a barbecue hosted by the City of Eldorado on the courthouse lawn.

Construction on the sophisticated system is scheduled to be completed in the fiscal year 1987. When operational, PAVE PAWS will provide radar coverage over a large portion of the area south of the U.S. and give tactical warning and attack assessment of sea-launched ballistic missiles. It also will track earth-orbiting satellites.

"This ground-breaking brings to fruition years of hard work to ensure Goodfellow Air Force Base's continuing role in our national defense capability," Tower said.

The Texas PAVE PAWS system will be the fourth built with two already operational in Massachusetts and California and a third under construction in Georgia.

Turkeywalk is this Saturday at 2 p.m.

Numerous walkers are expected to participate in the Turkeywalk event to be held Saturday at 2 p.m., beginning at the Winters State Bank. The participants are hoping to raise public awareness about the benefits of walking while raising funds to benefit the American Heart Association in Texas.

The physical benefits of walking are many. In addition to the obvious trimming and firming of the body, it also strengthens and conditions the heart by making the body work and demand increased amounts of oxygen. Enthusiasts of the activity also say it helps relieve tension and increases the ability to relax.

Walkers may walk as much of the five mile course as they want, and refreshments will be served at the City Park. Prior to the event, the walkers recruit sponsors who make pledges based on the number of miles the participant completes. After the walk, the participants collect the pledges to turn in to a local American Heart Association representative.

"We are grateful for the tremendous support we're getting from Winters area citizens," said Fran Polston, local coordinator of the Turkeywalk. "The funds will help us in our mission to prevent premature death and disability from heart disease. Those people who have volunteered to put this event together should be congratulated for their enthusiastic cooperation."

The Winters Turkeywalk will feature Winters City Administrator Scott Epperson, Winters State Bank Vice President Lanny Bahlman, local attorney Ken Slimp, and C.P.A. Benny Polston. Assisting with the walk as well as participating in it will be Jodie Meyer and Carolyn Priddy. Walkers of all ages are encouraged to participate.

Prizes for the Turkeywalk are as follows: first, a $75 gift certificate to the Cowboy Shack and a chance to win a trip for two to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico; second, a $40 gift certificate to Bahlman Jewelers; third, an AM/FM cassette radio with headphones from Western Auto; and fourth, a $25 gift certificate to Heidenheimers.

Each participant turning in $30 or more in pledges will receive a Turkeywalk t-shirt. Walkers turning in $100 or more in pledges will receive a turkey, donated by either Super D or Piggly Wiggly.

All money must be turned in by November 9 to Mrs. Polston in the Professional Building. Prizes will be awarded at 3 p.m., November 10 at the Winters Arts and Crafts Fair in the Community Center.

For further information, contact Fran Polston at the Professional Building.

Guevara earns award

Ray Guevara of Winters was among West Texas Utilities Company employees honored Tuesday night, October 30, at the company's annual district service and safety awards banquet in Abilene.

Guevara, serviceman, received an award for ten years service. WTU employees from throughout the Abilene district attended the banquet. Glen Churchill of Abilene, WTU president, was principle speaker and presented the awards.

Blizzards —

Baker recovered it.

The Blizzards got two first downs on runs by Garcia and Hood before losing another fumble.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Indians drove down the field quickly on running plays, and Jeff Hudson scored a touchdown on a 34 yard run, but it was called back due to penalties. A first down and 40 situation resulted, and Jim Ned eventually had to punt on fourth and 31.

Winters was backed up almost to the goal line because of a clipping penalty. Hood sped to the 47 with the ball, and Garcia added another first down before getting hurt. Hood moved to the quarterback position for the remainder of the game. With fourth down and 10, Winters decided to go for it, but did not make it.

Jim Ned made two first downs before facing a similar situation: fourth and 12. They did not make it either, and Winters took over with 37 seconds on the clock. The game ended with Jim Ned's Hudson intercepting a pass and being tackled promptly.
