Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

It seems that in our community we enjoy something that only a few other places have.

In a way it is a somber occasion when we see, or rather feel something that makes Winters unique. In the face of tragedy or disaster it seems that all the different faces in our community come one.

We all feel such a loss. We all share in carrying the burden. Our community unites as one to lend a hand in recovery.

The compassion for a neighbor is a very real thing. A thing that touches each of us.

The tragedy of the past week end has been no exception. The loss of three young lives, their companions gravely injured, has touched us all.

A thing such as this transverse political lines, or should. It overshadows the bounds of religious denominations. We become as one.

When we get to this time next week we will be on the phone getting results of the elections. The polls will not close until 7:00 p.m. and we will have space reserved to let you know the results of the vote.

There are a number of items on the ballots. Those constitutional amendments may not seem very important, but they are.

Complacency, a let George do it attitude, in the past has cost us many many tax dollars.

A good example of this is the central tax appraisal district concept. It was on a state-wide ballot. Few folks took time to read the ballot. Only a few more even voted.

I don't want to slight the staff of our appraisal district office but, the operation of that office costs a bundle—money that, until the issue passed in an election, stayed in the taxpayer's pocket.

Whether you are in favor of an issue or not, go to the polls. Vote!

We also have an issue of local importance to be voted on next Tuesday. The decision of whether to allow the legal sales of alcoholic beverage for off-premise consumption only is one that should be made by all of us—not just a few.

My concern here is not how someone votes but, that everyone votes.

It is an issue that should be looked at seriously, not emotionally.

It is an issue that asks many questions, the answers to which may work either way.

It is for you, the voter, to make the decision.

Hopefully, by now, we all have our clocks set to the right time (whatever that is).

The departure from daylight savings time has left some of us with a yard-full of grass that needs one last mowing for the year and no daylight left at the end of the day in which to mow it.

It might be nice if some of those folks, the ones that play with our time, would come down and trim our yards for us while the sun shines.

Why, maybe we could have a local option referendum about time. We could call it a "Day/Night Election".

It could make all the difference between daylight and dark.

To borrow a phrase from Mr. Harvey, "Closed circuit for the" Winters Council, maybe we should reconsider about discontinuing the animal control department before we go to the dogs, and cats.

It is rather distastful to have to pass a long-deceased dog day after day on the main street through our town. The critter remained where he crashed and burned after an unsuccessful

Three Winters youths die in car-bus crash Friday

Three Winters High School students died and two others were injured Friday evening when their car crashed head-on into a bus on U.S. 83 about one mile south of Tuscola.

Pronounced dead at the scene of the crash were Robert Green, 17; Joe Cavazos, 18; and John Alyn Key 17. The ruling of death was made by Justice of the Peace Frank Lockman of Tuscola.

Two other passengers in the car, Chance Blackwood, 18, and Tony Terrell, 16. Both are in the Coronary Care Unit at Humana Hospital-Abilene.

Blackwood was said to be in critical condition late Tuesday afternoon and Terrell was in stable condition according to a Humana spokeswoman.

The accident was investigated by Texas Highway Patrol Trooper Bob Shea, who said the crash occurred about 7:20 p.m. Friday.

He said that the car, driven by Robert Green, apparently veered across the center of the highway, into the path of the north-bound Sunset Stage bus.

Bus driver Tim Dean, of Abilene, said the car crossed into the north-bound lane, moved back into the other lane, and then again into the north-bound lane before colliding with the bus.

The accident report indicated the bus left some 26 feet of skid marks on the pavement and that the force of the collision carried the car backwards over 40 feet.

The car came to a stop on the shoulder of the north-bound lane of U.S. 83 and the bus narrowly missed running off a small bridge, crashing into a tree and came to rest on the edge of a deep ditch on the west side of the right-of-way.

The accident report, filed by Trooper Shea, indicated that there were 17 passengers on the bus along with the driver. Two of the passengers were hospitalized.

One ambulance from Abilene responded to the accident along with the major trauma unit of North Runnels Emergency Service.

Funeral services for John Alyn Key were held Sunday in Winters.

Funeral services for Joe Cavazos and for were held Monday.

Students at Winters High School were excused from classes Monday to attend the services.

Blizzards blow by Indians 63-0

The Winters Blizzards spent most of their time Friday evening in the end-zone, or at least it seemed that way.

By the time the final whistle had blown the Blizzards had defeated the Jim Ned Indians 63-0 and, at the same time, got a firm hold on second place in the district.

Coach Dan Slaughter said, "It was a good ball game, our kids scored the first four times they got their hands on the football. We'll really be the first five because a punt return back the next time we got the football. It was a good ball game all the way around."

"Defensively," he said, "the kids did a superb job. Eric Belk, Rene Garcia, Archie Austin, Eddie Trevino, Kevin Halfmann those guys just did excellent."

"Offensively, it was just a super night," Slaughter continued, "it was one of those times when everytime you ran a play the offensive line was knocking big holes up front and the backs were having a field night. It was a game that was so that everybody got to play and everybody had a good time. It was an easy victory for the kids. You know, you need to have one of those every once in a while."

Slaughter said he was pleased with the execution, both offensively and defensively. He said the team played good ball.

Looking at the Blizzards now, as opposed to the start of the season, the coach said the team has improved every week and because of the improvement, "we now have ourselves involved in the district race and we have an excellent chance of getting into the playoffs."

The Jim Ned Indians, as a result of no pass-no play, had lost at least eight players. At the start of last week another eight players dropped from the football program. The Indians were at a point of really struggling to even get a team on the field.

Coach Slaughter said that 63-0 was not a score that, "we really tried to run up, it could have been worse. We started substituting our kids early in the second quarter. In the third quarter, our regulars started with a series of plays and they scored the first time they had the ball. We did not really intend to run the score up like that."

Now that the race is on for district, the Blizzards meet the Coleman Bluecats in Coleman Friday. The Bluecats were defeated last week by Ranger, at team that fell to defeat at the hands of the Blizzards.

Slaughter said, "We can tie with Coleman and be in great shape. Coleman has two losses and Ranger has two losses and we have one. We're standing in second place in district by ourselves right now and the first and second places get into the playoffs."

If Winters were to lose Coleman, it could mean a three-way tie for second place and that would be decided by a coin-toss.

Ranger still has to play

A note from Charlsie Poe

Brigadier General Henry A. Sibley, retired, continues his interest in our military defense program. He was an Air Force fighter pilot in the Korean War, completing 67 combat missions. Sibley flew Sabre jets and on his 67th mission was going out to destroy an aviation dump in North Korea. A shell exploded and knocked out all his control systems. Rather than being captured by the barbaric enemy, he preferred trying to make it back to base. He had to clear a mountain range that was around 14,000 feet high, which he was able to do. He crash landed doing 140 miles an hour at a base on the front lines. This had a severe crushing effect on his body which was broken in many places. After extensive surgery in a hospital off the coast of Korea, Sibley was flown back to the U.S. and spent 14 months at the Medical Center in San Antonio before walking out on crutches. He had been told he would never get out of a wheelchair. He again secured his pilots license and has a valid commercial license.

Knowing of his continued interest in the B1-B Aircraft which General Sibley says has become "our first line of defense", I have asked him to write the story as my quest writer for the week.

A new beginning—the B1-B Bomber

Written by Henry Sibley
 The Literary Service Club was treated to a very informative talk and film presentation by Major Paul Maxson, a 11 year Air Force pilot, stationed at Dyess AFB, Abilene. He is a project training officer for the B1-B program.

Major Maxson is a very warm, highly intelligent and skilled gentleman who exemplifies the type of career officer of the Air Force today. He served a previous tour of duty as a T 38 instructor at Big Spring Air Force Base, Texas.

The B1-B developed by Rockwell Aerospace, has undergone 1900 hours testing at Edwards AFB, California. The aircraft is truly a product of computer aid design. It is our new strategic arm of defense

Keeping peace in a large family requires patience, love, understanding and at least two television sets.

Dr. Walter Clendenen and wife, Connie, Jewel and Richard Denny will host the Saturday night November 2 supper and game night in the Crews gym at 6:30 p.m. The traditional Thanksgiving meal will be served, the host will prepare the turkey and dressing and folks who come bring the trimmings.

Our sympathy to the Traylor families, special sympathy goes out to Darlene (Traylor), who buried her husband Thursday, Lucky L. Parker, 61, of Dickinand has twice the pay load capability of the now out-moded B-52.

It has the capability to air launch cruise missiles, complements missions of air, ground and sea. It has inter-continental range.

The B1-B has low altitude, high-speed penetrator capability and has 1/100th of the radar signature of the B-52. It may be started on alert without any external power source. The B1-B has a crew of four consisting of pilot, co-pilot, offensive and defensive systems officers. It carries the latest state of the art terrain following radar and is equipped with electric multiplex (EMUK) and central integrated systems (CITS). Our administration capped B1-B production at 100 aircraft. Each aircraft is valued at $200,000,000. The relative sizing of the B1-B may be shown as 2 B1-B's placed nose to nose completely filling a football field.

A B1-B in penetration is faster than a .45 caliber bullet, as it leaves the barrel of a gun.

General Electric produces the F1-01 engine and for the first time even has built a 3,000 hour engine with a five year on Wing Life.

The sleek new bomber, being able to fly under enemy radar, at times can only be detected by its ground shadow—the speed and altitude of the B1-B is classified. 29 B1-B's will call Dyess AFB home.

This magnificent air machine will enable our Strategic Air Command to maintain the motto "Peace Is Our Profession".

Control weeds now

Weeds rob bermudagrass pastures of a lot of grazing and hay potential each year, and producers can correct this problem with a fall herbicide application. Use of preemergence herbicide to control annual weeds can release the true potential a pasture or hay meadow has for producing top quality forage, says a weed specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Applying simazine (Princep 80W or Caliber 90) before weeds begin to germinate in late fall and winter will eliminate 80 to 95 percent of the weed problems next spring.

TRADES DAY IS THIS FRIDAY

To the voters of Justice Precinct #2 of Runnels County.

I appreciate your concern and co-operation in acquiring the petition to present to the County Commissioners calling for an election to give voters the opportunity to vote for or against the legal sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption on November 5.

It has been stated that the tax break should not be the issue, however, I felt that with the state of the economy at the present time, the tax break IS the issue!

My interest for this election is: for every voter to have the opportunity to express his opinion by voting on November 5 for off-premise consumption.

A Vote Yes—Is to Vote for the Tax Break!

Womans Club met

The Winters Womans Club met in the Methodist Church fellowship hall Oct. 8, 1985.

Ouida Nichols was hostess and Lillian Robinson, Theresa Briley and Pat Russell were co-hostesses.

President Dolly Gerhart conducted a short business session.

Program chairman Sandy Griffin introduced Patsy Cannedy of the Little Galeria of Abilene.

Patsy a vibrant, witty and energetic young business woman suggested instead of looking at the world through rose colored glasses, that we should try seeing the world through our own stained glass window.

Patsy opened a gift shop and working area for stained and beveled glass three years ago in the Rose Park shopping center. The shop in Rose Park was soon outgrown and the business has enlarged into a custom business now residing at 5749 S. First in Abilene. Just past the Royal Inn on the Sweetwater highway.

The hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. They offer classes and special workshops in working with stained glass.

Patsy demonstrated cutting glass and the two methods of putting it together. She showed patterns for lamp shades, boxes, door panels and of course windows.

She then presented a slide show of stained and beveled glass demonstrating it's beauty as well as the many ways it can be used to advantage throughout our homes. She showed slides of many of her own custom work in the Horseshoe Bay resort area as well as in private homes throughout the area.

She plans to have a Garage sale November 15th and 16th offering the last of her gift items, from the gift shop and small items in stained glass and many pottery items just in time for Christmas shopping.

Attending the meeting were club members and guests, Patsy Cannedy, Betty Roton, Billie Middleton, Marthiel Russell, Betty Brown, Billie Whitlow, Loreta Pierce, Louise Wagoner, Virginia Brown, Janie Humble, Halley Sims, Sandy Griffin, Vivian Foster, Margaret Favor, Dorothy Bedford, Dortha Laughan, Billie Alderman, Hortie Joyce, Kay Colburn, Edna England, Carolyn Slaughter, Dolly Airhart, Ouida Nichols, Lillian Robinson, Theresa Briley and Pat Russell.

The proceeds from the festival still go to the Church's general operating and maintenance fund.

Start early with retirement planning

People who are thinking about retiring at the end of the year should start making some serious plans now, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

And those plans should include Social Security, Upp said. There are several factors a person should consider.

First, a person under 65 considering retirement should remember that his or her Social Security benefit will be permanently reduced if received before 65. The amount of the reduction depends on the number of months a person gets benefits before 65. The reduction amounts to 20 percent at 62, 13-1/3 percent at 63, or 6-2/3 percent at 64.

Other factors can influence a person's decision to retire, Upp said. Availability of a company pension could be a factor. So could the person's ability to continue working.

At any rate, a person should contact Social Security two, or three, months before reaching 65 to arrange Medicare health insurance protection even if there are no plans for retirement.

A person should have certain information ready when applying, Upp said. The person needs his or her Social Security card or a record of the number. Next, a person needs proof of his or her date of birth. An official record of birth recorded before age 5 is best, but other documents can be used if this is not available.

Forms W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement) or self-employment tax returns for the past 2 years should be available. These are needed so that all of a person's earnings can be considered in figuring benefits.

A husband or wife who is also applying should have the same documents. Birth certificates of any eligible children are also needed.

Do not delay applying if all this evidence is not available. Call the Social Security office. The San Angelo office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608. The people there can tell what other evidence can be used.

parents let their children know how they feel about life-prolonging measures, and preferences about their funerals and the location of their wills and financial papers. "While this may be a difficult subject for many families to deal with," says Granovsky, "honest talk about finances and the future may be necessary so families can meet the needs of both their older and younger members."

"These people are also eligible for a special credit that can mean a larger benefit for them," Upp said. "This credit adds 3 percent a year or 1/4 of 1 percent for each month the person does not get benefits because he or she worked after 65. This additional credit also increases the payments made to widows and widowers." "For workers who become 65 in 1990, the delayed retirement credit will gradually increase until it reaches 8 percent," Upp said.

More information about delayed retirement credits can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Information about retirement credits

A person who returns to work after beginning to receive Social Security retirement checks may be entitled to increased benefits as a result of the additional earnings. Franklin H. Upp, Social Security automatically refigures the benefit after the additional earnings are credited to the person's record.

The Versatile Muffin

Throughout history, muffins and other breads have been a mainstay nourishing people around the world. Prehistoric people made a heavy, unleavened flatbread. Ancient Egyptians who discovered leavened bread, also learned to flavor their breads with herbs and spices.

Hot Cross Buns probably date back to pagan rites. A cross was cut in the dough to ward off evil spirits and to assure that the leavening would cause the dough to rise.

After the Reformation, Hot Cross Buns were associated with Easter. In England, they were baked on Good Friday. Some were hung in the kitchen as good luck charms. Today, it is simply convenient to use a Betty Crocker mix to bake Hot Cross Blueberry Muffins.

Another recipe adaptation based on a popular pioneer cake is Apple Spice Cake. Early settlers welcomed wild fruits and berries as a treat in the early summer. They were dried in the sun or made into jams, jellies and sauces to brighten up winter meals.

Now, muffins are still a much-loved part of breakfast, lunch or dinner, a savory snack or a simple dessert. To celebrate their versatility and commemorate history, bake up a batch soon. Muffins are still an inexpensive source of nourishment, tender and light, fresh from the oven.

HOT CROSS BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

1 package Betty Crocker wild blueberry muffin mix
1/2 cup candied citron
1/2 cup raisins
Quick Glaze (below)

Heat oven to 400°. Grease bottoms only of 12 medium muffin cups, 2 1/2 x 1 1/4 inches, or line with paper baking cups. Prepare muffin mix as directed on package except—stir in citron and raisins. Fill muffin cups 3/4 full. Bake until light golden brown, 15 to 20 minutes. Cool; drizzle crosses on tops of muffins with Quick Glaze.

Quick Glaze: Mix 1/4 cup powdered sugar and 1 to 2 teaspoons water until smooth and of desired consistency.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Prepare muffin mix as directed in high altitude directions on package except—stir in citron and raisins. Continue as directed in recipe.

APPLE SPICE CAKE
Streusel Topping (below)
1 package Betty Crocker apple cinnamon muffin mix
3/4 cup apple butter

Heat oven to 400°. Grease round pan, 8 x 1 1/4 inches. Prepare Streusel Topping. Prepare muffin mix as directed on package except—pour into pan. Sprinkle with topping. Bake until light golden brown, about 25 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely.

Split cake horizontally into 2 layers; fill layers with apple butter. Serve with whipped cream if desired. Refrigerate any remaining cake.

Streusel Topping: Mix 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour and 1 tablespoon firm margarine or butter until crumbly.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 425°. Grease round pan, 9 x 1 1/4 inches. Prepare muffin mix as directed in high altitude directions on package except—pour into pan. Continue as directed in recipe except—bake about 20 minutes.

CAPITOL UPDATE

by Jim Parker

Today I will discuss Propositions 11 and 12.

Proposition 11: The Texas Constitution guarantees anyone accused of a crime the right to know the nature and cause of the accusation and to have a copy of the accusation. It also states that no one can be tried for a felony offense unless indicated by a grand jury. If this proposal is passed, the Legislature would be allowed to set practices and procedures concerning the contents, amendments, requirements, etc., of the documents, i.e., indictments and informations, charging a person with an offense.

Supporters say the Legislature should set the standards governing the process of charging people with crimes. They feel Proposition 11 would still protect the defendants but could prevent the reversing of convictions based on technicalities that no prosecutor or grand jury could anticipate. Supporters agree that defendants deserve notice of the charges against them, but feel it is not necessary for all details to be included in the indictment itself. They say if there is a defect in the indictment, the defense should object before trial. If they fail to do so, then they should be deemed to have waived the right to base an appeal on the defect. Objections should be made early enough for the state to make needed corrections.

Opponents say if the proposal is passed, the guarantee that prosecutors give the people accused of crime sufficient notice of the charge to defend themselves would be wiped out. It would give the prosecution unfair advantage and would go against the principle that defendants are innocent until proven guilty. Opponents feel if the Legislature allowed vague, general charges to be filed, the prosecution could hold back key allegations until the case came to trial. If the prosecution were allowed to correct a "mistake" in an indictment at the last minute, and make significant changes, the basis for the defense could be destroyed.

Proposition 12: Presently, in a federal law suit, if the outcome of a case hinges on the interpretation of state law for which the state courts have not yet ruled, the federal judge in the case has to guess as to how he feels the state courts would rule. There have been cases where the interpretation of the federal court was contradicted by the state court when the same issue finally did come up on appeal from a lower court. If Proposition 12 passed, Texas' highest appellate courts would have the same power to answer state-law questions certified by federal courts as they do the rule on questions which come up on appeal from lower state courts.

Supporters say this will ensure that Texas controls the development of its own law, instead of letting federal courts decide what Texas law should be. It would help litigants in the cases that give rise to certified questions since a federal court's interpretation of Texas law is binding even if the state's highest appellate courts later interpret Texas law differently. They do not feel answering any questions certified by federal courts would over burden the state courts because the state courts could choose not to answer any question they felt was not determinative of the outcome in the case of for which there is no clear precedent.

Opponents feel this would increase the work load of the two highest state appellate courts which are already overburdened. They feel Texas courts should not issue advisory opinions for federal judges. They are no restrictions on answering certified questions only to cases where the state court's answer will decide the outcome. Opponents say while it is too bad federal judges may sometimes anticipate how Texas courts will rule incorrectly, it is better than having state judges answer state-law questions without full, lower-court records, in cases where federal judges have the final say.

Next week I will conclude this series of articles with the last two proposals. I imagine you are looking forward to this conclusion as much as I am.

Capitol Update

Today I will conclude explanations of the proposed constitutional amendments appearing on the November 5th ballot.

PROPOSITION 13: Presently, as provided in the Constitution, the Legislature may expand or shrink the size of judicial districts. Since the Legislature first divided the state into judicial districts, it has made some changes in these districts but not from a statewide perspective. The Constitution also set the subject-matter jurisdiction of trial courts but the Legislature has the authority to set further limits for each court.

If Proposition 13 is passed, a Judicial Districts Board composed of 13 members, 12 of whom would come from the judiciary, would be created to propose reapportionment plans for district courts. Proposition 13 would also make some changes in the state court system.

Supporters say this proposal would allow for a reform of the judicial system to make it more efficient and cheaper to run. They say statewide review of judicial district boundaries would put judges where they are needed most. They believe dropping most grants of jurisdiction from the Constitution will make it easier to reallocate the work of the courts to meet new demands without having to go through the process of amending the Constitution to make needed changes.

Supporters want docket loads equalized so every part of the state is served adequately rather than having some judges being underemployed, while others in fast-growing areas

Cystic Fibrosis Announces appointment

The Lone star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is delighted to announce the appointment of Melanie Wade as the Chairman of its 1985 campaign in Winters, Texas.

The campaign will be held to provide the community with pertinent information about Cystic Fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of children and have too many cases to handle.

Opponents say Proposition 13 is unnecessary and a threat to locally based administration of justice. They believe the Legislature should continue to be the exclusive forum for determining the districts of district judges. At the same time opponents feel this proposal would give the Legislature too much authority over the jurisdiction of local trial courts. They do not feel that locally constituted courts should be changed. Opponents feel it would further confuse the trial court system rather than simplify it.

I have tried to refrain from offering any personal comments; however, in this case, I have some serious concerns. I am afraid urban areas would dominate rural areas as they have in other instances and that rural judges would end up sitting in urban courts. I simply do not see how this proposal could help rural areas.

PROPOSITION 14: The Texas Constitution requires all counties to elect a county treasurer (except Bee, Bexar, Collin and Tarrant Counties which abolished their treasurer's office after passage of amendments allowing them to do so) and county surveyor. Proposition 14 would abolish the office of county treasurer in Andrews and El Paso Counties and the office of county surveyor in Denton, Randall, Collin, Dallas, El Paso and Henderson counties if the voters in these counties voted to do so in a local election called by their county commissioners.

Supporters say the change will make county government more efficient and save taxpayers money. They feel the duties of these offices can be performed by other county offices or on a contract basis.

Opponents feel that it is not a good idea to put the handling of county funds into the hands of the county auditor, a non-elected official, as is done in Bee and Tarrant Counties and would be done in Andrews County if this proposal passes. (County auditors are appointed by the county judge.) They also say while the functions of county surveyors are limited, the office is not obsolete because, besides surveying, the county surveyor examines field notes of all surveys in the county and has generally acted as an impartial judge to resolve disputes between private surveyors.

Other opponents say this amendment should allow all counties to decide whether or not they need county treasurers and surveyors. They feel it is a waste of taxpayers money to continue this piece meal approach of holding a statewide election every two years to decide efficiency in county government.

Finally, after several weeks of discussing the proposals, we have reached the end of the list. I appreciate your sticking with me throughout this series of articles and hope that it will be of assistance to you when you vote in the November 5th election. I urge each of you to participate in government decisions by casting your vote, whether for or against, because, as trite as it may sound, your vote does count and is necessary if we are to have a true democratic form of government.

young adults and to raise desperately needed funds to support research, education and care programs.

CF is difficult to diagnose and, at present, impossible to cure. Each day five babies are born with this tragic disease which will clog and choke their lungs and inhibit their digestive process and their growth. It will eventually take their lives as it takes the lives of three young people each and every day.

For more information about cystic fibrosis and how you can help in the fight to find a cure, please contact Melanie Wade at 915-754-5025.

A skate-a-thon will be held Saturday November 2 starting at 1:00 at the parking lot of Dry Manufacturing business offices on highway 53. Prizes will be awarded including T-shirts, bike bags, sony radios. Sponsor sheets can be picked up at the elementary school office or at the Hair Post. Bring your own skates and we'll all skate to music.

Halloween safety

Halloween in most adults' memories seems to have been a safer time 20 or 30 years ago. Childhood recollections of hand-stitched costumes, of giggling goblins roaming through the neighborhood after dark, of benign pranks pulled on tolerant adults who feigned terror while doling out homemade cookies and fruit - all seem like history to those one-time gremlins who now have children of their own.

Was Halloween really safer then? In some ways it was, but according to the Texas Department of Health (TDH), today's trick-or-treaters can enjoy a safe Halloween if parents take proper precautions.

Dan Sowards, chief of TDH's Product Safety Division explained, "When we were kids, unless we were personally injured on Halloween, or knew someone who was, we were oblivious to most hazards that were present even then. We were having too much fun.

"The general public didn't wake up to the fact that kids got hurt every year, until only a few years ago when more publicity about accidents, poisonings, and incidents such as people putting needles and razor blades in children's treats got our attention."

Sowards said some simple precautions taken by parents of children who go trick-or-treating would greatly reduce the number of hazards.

First, children should not eat any treats before bringing them home for examination by an adult.

Costumes should be made of brightly colored, fire-resistant material. If a costume is dark, however, it should have some fluorescent or reflective tape on it. Masks should allow clear vision, and hats should be securely attached, he said.

An adult or older child should always go with small children and should carry a flashlight to light the way and to make the children more visible to motorists.

The children should not enter the home of anyone they do not know, and they should stop only at homes with outside lighting.

Children should stay out of the street, and never run between parked cars. They should not run through yards, or even on sidewalks. All too often, hard-to-see objects are lying in the grass, and slick surfaces can be invisible in poor lighting, Sowards said.

Sowards also has some tips for homeowners who expect trick-or-treaters.

"They should turn on a porchlight, or other outside light, and be sure the lawn is cleared of any objects a trick-or-treater could trip over. And they should keep jack-o-lanterns and candles away from doorsteps and curtains to prevent igniting a costume, or even the house itself," Sowards said.

Deadline set for Maid of Cotton

The panel of judges for the 48th annual Maid of Cotton selection in Dallas, December 28-30, was announced today by the National Cotton Council.

Jann Carl, 1982, Maid of Cotton and now host of a daily television show for Los Angeles station KABC, will chair the panel.

Representing the cotton industry will be Robert J. Boslet, president and chief executive officer of Cotton Incorporated, New York City; Albert Russell, former executive vice-president of the Council, Oxford, Mississippi; and Dorothy Roberson, communications director of the Council, Memphis.

John D. Miller, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Sanger Harris in Dallas, will complete the panel.

Judges will weigh the four basic criteria of personality, poise, communication skills, and appearance in selecting the young woman who will represent the American cotton industry during seven months of domestic and international travel.

The 1986 Maid will make fashion and goodwill appearances in Japan, South Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Malaysia in addition to the United States. She will receive a $10,000 educational award made possible by a grant from Ciba-Geigy Corporation to The Cotton Foundation.

Deadline for submitting completed applications is November 9. Application forms and information are available at Council headquarters, P.O. Box 12285, Memphis, Tennessee 38182, (901) 274-9030.

Curb too many treats

Halloween treats may seem more like "tricks" to parents who want to keep their children from filling up on candy. Mary K. Sweeten, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, offers some suggestions on how to keep the holiday treats safe and curb your child's urge to overeat sugary foods. Encourage your children to save some candy by suggesting that they eat one or two pieces a day, at snack time and as a dessert, offer the child some milk or juice to drink. Suggest alternate snacks such as fruit, sandwiches or cheese to the children instead of sweets. "Even if you rarely allow your children to have sweets, try to take a casual approach to having them around during this holiday," says the nutritionist. "Your relaxed attitude will help keep your child's attention from being focused on having sweets to eat."

NOTARY PUBLIC STATE OF TEXAS COMMISSION EXPIRES 4-7-88

Charles Stenholm introduces new bill

Congressman Charles Stenholm has introduced legislation which would lead to competitive bidding for government contract projects and result in considerable savings for the federal budget.

The Contract Savings Act, H.R. 5357, was recently introduced by Congressman Stenholm and Congressman Bob Smith (R-Oregon). The bill would subject the performance of many non-national security activities—currently handled in-house by the federal government—to competitive bidding between government agencies and the private sector.

Under the act, the Office of Federal Procurement Policy would be required to use "fair and equal" cost comparisons between the government's performance of commercial activities and the private sector's cost for doing the same work. Contracts for such activities as construction projects and food services would be awarded to the lowest bidder. Congressional Budget Office estimates show that if the legislation were adopted, the government could save up to $1.1 billion a year.

"Competitive bidding is one of the basic ideals of American free enterprise," said Congressman Stenholm. "Free and open competition improves the products and services while keeping costs down. The pressure of a competitive market also gives vitality to those who can make a better product, or can cut costs of that product, and weed out those who cannot."

"This needed legislation would benefit the taxpayer, the small business sector and the government," the Stamford farmer-lawmaker said. "This is a concept that the federal government should have been using long ago."

Congressman Stenholm said this is the kind of legislation American will need in efforts to cut the national debt and trade deficit. He noted his bill would lead to substantial savings without cutting government services or quality.

It is our conviction that the legalized sale of alcohol would not be in the best interest of our community. We strongly feel that this action would be detrimental to our young people, our families, and the quality of life at Winters. Please vote "AGAINST" the legalized sale of alcohol on November 5th.

Texans will vote on statewide water plan

On November 5, Texans will vote on a statewide water plan that barely addresses the protection of the ground water that makes up 60% of the state's fresh water resource.

Instead, at this date, the most successful protection of that water is often left up to small farmers and ranchers fighting to save their crop and grazing land and water from oil field contamination.

An estimated 430,000 acres of Texas farm and ranch land have been contaminated by saline as a direct result of oil and gas production, according to a recent survey by the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board. That number could be much higher, according to James Moore of the Board's Temple office. The estimates were compiled from Soil and Water Conservation District surveys of surface conditions that were easily traceable to oil field pollution. No estimates of ground water contamination or soil contamination through underground transference were included.

The area of the state most affected by oil and gas pollution is the north central West Texas region that includes Nolan, Tom Green, Wichita, Runnels, Coleman, Concho, Throckmorton, Jones and neighboring counties.

An analysis of the Railroad Commission complaint filed by Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower notes that 57% of the Commission's confirmed cases of groundwater and land contamination are in that region.

Hightower's study, which is limited to an analysis of the Commission's complaint files, confirms 100 cases of contamination from oilfield injection wells, saltwater pits and abandoned improperly plugged wells.

The Hightower study found that 4,568 complaints of ground water and farm and ranch land pollution by oil field production were filed between 1982 and 1984 with the Texas Railroad Commission. The study, initiated by Hightower with the cooperation of the Railroad Commission, is one of an increasing number of actions taken recently by state agencies to determine the impact of the oil and gas industry on Texas' ground-water and agricultural land.

The major contaminate from oil and gas production is salt water, released when drilling breaks through formations containing saline. The saltwater is also forced into formations to fracture or loosen formations containing petroleum.

In both instances, literally millions of gallons of saline are produced and must be disposed of. Before 1967, when the Railroad Commission limited their use, open evaporation pits were the common method of disposal. But charges of such dumping are still fairly widespread, and complaints that saltwater is being disposed in open fields and in gulleys or creeks without the benefit of even a pit are filed regularly.

Studies by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service give an estimate of 5,000,000 acres of agricultural land in Texas damaged by saltwater through oil field production practices, natural causes and farming practices such as terracing and irrigation.

Many farmers and ranchers are questioning the accuracy of studies so far, saying the numbers are too low.

Ralph Hoelscher of Miles, in Runnels County, who lost 100 acres and half his cotton and milo acreage to saline pollution, was instrumental in securing legislation to fund the plugging of abandoned wells.

But Hoelscher's ruined land has not benefited from the legislation he worked so hard to pass because oil field pollution is difficult and expensive to trace unless it is on the surface where Railroad Commission personnel can easily see damages and the source of contamination. Hoelscher and others who deal with the Commission are critical of the way the agency responds to individuals. Most of them note, however, that while the agency is structured to regulate the oil and gas industry, it has little capacity to provide help to landowners with pollution problems.

Most of the contamination reports today relate to the approximately 50,000 abandoned wells drilled before stricter regulations were placed on drillers in the 1960's. And, in fairness to the Railroad Commission, it didn't receive the enforcement authority it needed until 1981.

But in fact new wells also pollute. One Central Texas royalty owner points to drillers disposing of saltwater in open pasture within 50 miles of Austin. And in West Texas, at last one major oil company has recently settled out of court with ranchers whose land and ground water the company's wells have contaminated. Other lawsuits are pending, both against independent operators who are frequently blamed and major oil companies who claim to have cleaned up their operations.

Other state agencies are concerned about the issue, but the authority for regulating pollution by the oil and gas industry rests solely with the Railroad Commission. The Texas Water Commission, which regulate all other industries' pollution and is charged with protecting Texas' water resources, has no power over oil and gas polluters. And it's an open question whether irreversible damage has been done to enough groundwater to affect the state's entire water supply.

The earthworm is often known by several other names, including fish-worm, angleworm or night crawler.

Fires can be caused from dirty chimneys

Chimneys with heavy creosote deposits are a leading cause of home fires in the United States each year. Chimneys should be inspected annually for creosote buildup, and now is a good time to do so, says a safety engineer with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Creosote is produced when wood burns, moves up the chimney in the form of smoke, and condenses on the inside of the chimney. It is highly flammable and can burn at temperatures up to 3,000 degrees F. A strong updraft can lift burning creosote out of the chimney and onto the roof, possibly spreading the fire to the rest of the house or even to neighboring houses. Special brushes are available for cleaning a chimney, but often the job is best left to a professional-a chimney sweep.

DO WE WANT THE SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES IN OUR COMMUNITY?

Winters has a nice environment in which to live and raise a family. Why would we, as a community, want to risk spoiling our town by making alcohol more easily accessible?

The young people of Winters are not any different than those of other communities in our area. There is a large amount of emphasis put upon drinking by a surprising number of young people. Senior High students are not the only young people who drink, there are many Junior High students who also participate in the drinking of alcoholic beverages. If alcohol becomes more accessible, how much more of a problem will it become?

Even though the sale of alcohol to a minor is illegal, young people (through bootlegging) seem to be able to obtain enough to become intoxicated from time to time. By selling alcohol in our own community, we would only be making it easier for bootleggers to furnish youth with the alcohol, thereby, worsening the situation.

As parents and as a community who love and care about our youth, let's not take the risk of having more fatalities, among our youth.

Let's take a stand and show that we do love the youth of our community and vote NO in the upcoming liquor election.

IN THE LOCAL OPTION ELECTION ON NOVEMBER 5th...

The Issue is not whether you should drink... That remains a matter of individual choice.

The Issue IS..Would sales of alcoholic beverages in Winters benefit the community??

Those favoring sales of liquor in Precinct 2 contend that local sales would SOLVE our budget and tax problems, as well as making it more CONVENIENT for those who wish to drink.

We cannot argue to the convenience issue, but according to the facts, legalization of liquor sales would have VERY LITTLE IMPACT ON COMMUNITY FINANCES!

- The return to Cities is only 1% of TOTAL SALES (Unincorporated areas, such as Wingate and Norton, get NOTHING.)

- To realize $10,000 in tax revenues, Winters Merchants would have to sell $1,000,000.00 worth of liquor! That's roughly equivalent to 100 six-packs for every man, woman, and child in Winters!

- There will be little drive-in trade, since all area towns have closer liquor outlets.

- Even if a $10,000 return were possible, it is only a drop in the bucket when compared with Winters' General Fund Budget of $579,000.00!

Legalization of Liquor Sales WOULD...

- Increase consumption and abuse of alcohol in our community
- Make alcoholic beverages more accessible to our young people
- Increase our costs for police protection
- Increase the risk of encountering a drunk driver on our streets

Add up the benefits and the costs...

bout with some kind of iron and steel creature.

In the month since the department ceased activities, the number of stray, unwanted, abandoned animals has grown.

With the increasing number of these wayward animals comes a time of the year when the dread rabies runs rampant.

Our sales tax revenues are up a little bit from last year and exceed projections by the city staff. Maybe some of these few dollars could be used to fund an animal control department of some kind. Just a thought to think about.

Oh, nearly forgot. Our Blizzards travel east Friday to do battle with the Coleman Bluecats.

As you know I was converted a few years ago. I was, however, a Bluecat in days gone by.

I have decided where I will post myself to take pictures at this game.

My position will, most likely, be behind one of the goal posts.

I'll be the guy dressed in Blue and White.

Blizzards —

Eastland the last ballgame of the season, and that is a major task for them. If Ranger played Eastland and lost, it would put Winters in a tie with Coleman and Coleman would end up in second place because they had beaten us.

Slaughter said, "We still need to beat Coleman. We're in control of our own situation, we win this ballgame this week end, we have second place sewed up. If we don't win this ballgame it's going to be a struggle. Our kids are playing real good ball and I look for this to be a real good ballgame. I think we are going to go over there with the intentions of winning."

Looking past Coleman, Slaughter said that the race is really starting to shape up. "If we beat Coleman this week, we could lose to Albany and still be in second place but you wouldn't want to do that. If you beat Coleman, you definitely want to beat Albany to enter the playoffs on a good note."

He said that the whole key is to beat Coleman. "If we can beat them, we're in."

Memo from Kay

By Kay Colburn
Winters Chamber of Commerce

The sympathy and compassion of everyone in Winters is with the families and friends of the young men who lost their lives in the tragic accident last Friday night. This unfortunate crash has touched many people of all ages who mourn together with heavy hearts.

Inadvertently left off the list of those who are participating in the scarecrow contest was the Winters State Bank and Higginbotham Lumber Co. The Higginbotham scarecrow was not ready for judging, but both are certainly worth the walk to enjoy seeing other original interpretations of this unique form of art work.

The Z.I. Hale Museum Board of Directors are again sponsoring a Quilt show to be held on Friday and Saturday November 8 & 9, the days of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Arts & Crafts show. These two events promise an opportunity to see the results of much talent and hours of work. Everyone is invited to the museum to enjoy the many quilts that will be on display there. The Arts & Crafts show will offer different types of crafts to entice the crafty shoppers in the area. Don't forget this big weekend of talent and food too!

It is time to start planning and working on floats and costumes for the Christmas Parade which will be held Saturday, December 7, the day of Christmas fun and entertainment in downtown Winters.

Many students who have participated in the event have made jumping rope a year 'round activity.

Jump Rope For Heart gives teachers an opportunity to demonstrate leadership, and they serve as role models for their students. It also helps create a strong community image for participating schools. At the same time, Jump Rope For Heart provides a low investment/high return extracurricular activity. And it allows schools to show their physical education programs and achievements to the community.

Schools hosting a Jump Rope For Heart event receive all instructional materials free of charge. Among these is an educational package titled "Jump for the Health of It," which includes a curriculum guide, an audiovisual presentation, and a wall chart illustrating jump rope tricks and routines. For information on hosting this event, contact your local office of the American Heart Association, listed in the White Pages of your telephone directory.

Management can help family plans

More middle-aged people are finding themselves "sandwiched" by financial obligations to both their elderly parents and their college-age children, says family economics expert Nancy L. Granovsky. "Some good honest money talk between adults and their aging parents about assets, debts, insurance coverage and money management can help the entire family plan for the future," advises Granovsky.
