By Kerry Craig

That time has arrived. Saturday is election day. The big day will give us an opportunity to vote for the candidate of our choice—or against a candidate we feel would be better off somewhere else.

This is a time when newspapers traditionally speak out and endorse a candidate for a particular office.

The first one for me is easy. Charles Stenholm, United States Representative from the 17th Congressional District is unopposed for his office in the primary election and in the general election in November.

In the race for Governor of the State of Texas, there is a gaggle of gubernatorial candidates. Six of them are Democrats and three are Republicans.

Mark White, while in his first term, has proven his inability to fill the office of Governor of Texas adequately. I would recommend Mr. White be given the opportunity to seek employment somewhere else—not in a political office.

Bill Clements is the only choice.

In the race for attorney general, I know a little about only one candidate—enough to recommend that he seek employment elsewhere.

Mr. Mattox tenure has been tainted with a number of things including inconsistency, prejudice, and partiality. We need to try someone else in that office.

For our state representative there are several choices. Right off I would say that Jim Parker has done a good job—and will continue to do so. He should be returned to office.

Regardless of how the elections turn out, remember. It is up to you. Vote as you please—but please vote.

See you at the polls and then at the Mayfest.

Measuring up

Four Winters preachers have been working diligently in preparation for the beard-growing contest at Mayfest 86 Saturday.

Just to see who might be ahead in the race, Lutheran Steve Byrne, Baptist Glenn Shoemaker, and Bill Hooten of the Church of Christ seized Methodist Gary Turner and, with the aid of a ruler, took his measure—beard wise.

The idea of a beard-growing contest was a spur-of-the-moment idea from Hooten during the Chamber of Commerce Banquet when he challenged the other ministers to compete.

Fiesta Time in Ole San Antonio

San Antonio was a gay and friendly place as an outpost in the wilderness. It continues to be charming in an era of air-conditioning, chain-drug stores and super-markets. A Greek newsboy once said, "Well, I come to San Antonio because all time smiles."

Mary Margaret Leathers and I were there on a Magic Travel tour with 32 others, hosted by Dean and Lois Smith to celebrate Fiesta San Antonio 1986 — or the last part of it on April 24-26. The festivities actually included a ten day extravaganza of parades, music, dancing events, art shows, food festivals and much more.

Our tour group arrived just in San Antonio has evolved into a modern, prosperous city, but it retains much of the flavor of its past. The culture of San Antonio is, as anyone can see, basically Spanish — one observer said "95%."

time on Friday afternoon to go to our "reserved Bleachers" on the parade route for the 91st Annual Battle of Flowers Parade. We were among the more than 260,000 people who paid tribute to heroes of the Battle of San Jacinto as we watched the more than 100 entries march by including the Texas A & M Band. As the crowd cheered and applauded, the bands, the floats, the queens, the princesses and the dutchesses made their way through downtown in all their pomp and glory; with beautifully embellished gowns and flower bedecked floats.

At the same time the Alamo was founded a military post was established and San Antonio has been a military center ever since. This was evident as many divisions of our military service marched by and some of them on magnificent horses of all kinds.

Following each entry of horses a team of five came on the scene with shovels and brooms to do some cleaning. Each team was identified by a trademark such as "scooper-doopers," wearing gas masks, or false noses.

A great boon to those of us who forgot our umbrellas and sun shades was a little white cloud that kept obscuring the sun each time just before we fainted.

Another thing that amazed us was the amount of food and cold drinks consumed while the people waited for the parade to begin. Some without reserved seats had come hours before the parade and avoided boredom by literally eating the time away. Many of them carried ice chests well packed and others bought from vendors who were on every street corner.

Following our check in at the La Mansion del Norte, a hotel that reminded one of Spanish Colonial with open courtyards, tropical greenery and fountains. We were given the opportunity to attend "A Night in Old San Antonio," it was sponsored by the Conservation Society and held downtown on the grounds of La Villita, a restored 18th century Spanish settlement in the heart of San Antonio.

Some of us had the idea of getting some good Mexican food at one of the booths, but by the time we literally pushed our way through "wall to wall" bodies, to such a booth we learned that we should have bought coupons at the entrance to exchange for purchases. Rather than fight our way back through the masses, five of us conveniently got lost and went to the Hilton where we could eat in dignity, and where Dean had promised to pick us up if we got lost.

One thing that we noticed before we left was people buying dozens of colored eggs, and wondered why because it wasn't Easter. Later, I learned it was egg shells filled with confetti, called Cascarones, which revelers traditionally break over each others heads.

Saturday's activities included seeing the Witte Museum and the Alamo with lunch at a Mexican buffet. A visit was made to the SAS shoe factory and some of the ladies came out with new shoes.

I spent the day with my grandson and family at Floresville, Saturday and missed the sightseeing. But, Cliff, Matt and Bethanie came with me to the Fiesta parade in the evening. Jeani was assisting with a wedding.

The thunder of "Big Bertha" the world's largest base drum set the beat for the Fiesta Flambeau Parade as the University of Texas Longhorn Band led some 200 entries before the estimated crowd of 300,000 spectators.

The parade got off to a slow start and the children entertained themselves by purchasing souvenirs. Exotic hair made of vari-colored strips of foil was much in evidence throughout the crowd. Bethanie chose a bright rose for her hair dress and felt quite grownup.

Sunday was a slower paced day, with breakfast and devotional in the Madero room at the hotel. We took a boat trip down the river and visited the Botanical Gardens before lunch.

Luncheon reservations were at the Tower of the Americas. This beautiful revolving restaurant towers over 700 feet above the city for a spectacular view.

Experiences with some of the travelers I had met in the past were renewed, and my regret is I hadn't time to get better acquainted with others, but we all had a good time and on the next trip we will be old friends.

Cancer prevention for older adults

A person never grows too old to prevent cancer. But some older people fail to practice cancer prevention, mainly because they are uninformed, according to the Texas Department of Health.

Commissioner of Health, Dr. Robert Bernstein, said, "Many older people are unaware that 60 percent of all cancers can be prevented, or cured if found early. And they are uncertain about what lifestyle changes they should make or health habits they should develop to lessen their risk of cancer."

Dr. Bernstein explained that many older persons harbor misconceptions about cancer prevention. Some think they are too old to change unhealthy habits. Others, having known of numerous cancer victims, may believe cancer is inevitable as they grow older, and therefore see little point in taking precautions. Still others fail to see a doctor unless they already know they are ill, which often is too late for effective treatment, he said.

"The reality is that anyone, at any age, can have cancer. But at the same time, anyone can avoid some cancers and be cured of some others by following a few rules," Dr. Bernstein said.

He cited five preventive measures, which also are recommended by the American Cancer Society. Everyone should:

- ★ Have a regular yearly health checkup. Finding and treating cancer before symptoms appear is the most important step in curing cancer.
- ★ Maintain a proper diet. High-fat foods have been linked to breast and colon cancer. Less fat and more fruits, vegetables, and cereals can reduce cancer risk.
- ★ Use a sunscreen. Skin cancer is directly linked to the amount of exposure a person has to the sun's rays. Sunscreens, hats, and protective clothing are "musts" for reducing exposure, especially for fair-skinned people, or those who burn easily.

- ★ Do not smoke. Smoking is the single most preventable cause of cancer.
- ★ Know your environment. Avoid exposure to chemicals and other substances which are known to cause cancer. Among these are tobacco, asbestos, vinyl, chlorides and PCBs.

In addition, a woman 40 or older should have an endometrial tissue sample test at menopause, a mammogram every year or two, and should practice breast self-examination monthly. Starting at age 50, women should have mammograms and blood stool tests yearly, and procto exams two years in a row, which if negative should be repeated every 3-5 years.

Beginning at age 50, a man should have a blood stool test and a digital rectal exam of the prostate every year, and should have a procto exam on the same schedule recommended for women.

"Everyone must realize that cancer prevention is a life-long necessity," Dr. Bernstein said.

Questions asked by Veterans daily

Q—I served six months of active duty with the National Guard. Am I eligible for VA medical benefits?

A—National Guard members are only entitled to VA medical benefits if they have a disease or injury which was incurred or aggravated in the line of duty while on active training.

Q—I understand there has been a reduction in VA education benefits. Does this apply to my education assistance allowance?

A—The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act, which became law in December 1985, has reduced money available to pay educational assistance. As a result the VA has reduced the amounts payable for persons eligible for benefits under the Educational Assistance Allowance Program and the Dependents' Educational Assistance program. The reduced educational assistance applies to training from March 1, 1986 through September 30, 1986.

The Firemen's Auxiliary met

The Firemen's Auxiliary met for their regular meeting in April. The firemen met in the City Hall for a Emergency Service demonstration given by Wanda Lange and Gary Lange of Winters. Cookies, tea and coffee were served to Melba Jo Emert, Lue Bowden, Teresa Davis, Jo Miller, Mary Ellen Moore, and Diann Whittenburg.

We want to thank Wanda and Gary for taking time out to help us all to understand emergency service a lot better, and to help our selves and others better.

Caught in the Middle

A Scout for the Texas army, an honored soldier in the Battle of San Jacinto, a mayor of San Antonio—Juan Nepomucena Seguin was all of these. But he was also an expatriate from Texas, in later years. His conflicting experiences made Seguin a symbol for many Mexican Americans trying to survive in a changing Texas.

Life in Mexican Texas during Seguin's formative years in the early 1800s was rugged and uncertain. Hundreds of miles separated the frontier province from Central Mexico's cities. Disease, Indian attacks, and a war for independence from Spain profoundly disrupted attempts at settlement. Texas consisted of about 2,500 settlers, historian Arnoldo DeLeon says, most of them living around the towns of Nacogdoches, La Bahia (Goliad), and San Antonio de Bexar, where the Seguins had settled.

Seguin returned to Texas in the late 1840s, his fortune in shambles. He managed to make small political gains, though only at local governmental levels in Bexar where he was well-known. In 1862, he returned to Mexico to fight in Benito Juarez's army against the French. Until his death in 1890, Seguin made his home alternately in Texas and Mexico.

them defenseless," Seguin wrote later, "exposed to the assaults of foreigners, who on the pretext that they were Mexicans, treated them worse than brutes?"

Ultimately, Seguin became the victim of a fate akin to that which befell so many tejanos, DeLeon says. Already the target of a smear campaign by a faction of Anglo political opponents in San Antonio, he was implicated as an accomplice in Rafael Vasquez's expedition from Mexico which captured San Antonio in 1842. He fled to Mexico to evade assassination.

1/3 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1 egg
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt, to taste
Pepper, to taste
1 jar (32 oz.) Ragu Homestyle Spaghetti Sauce, Plain or with Mushrooms
1 package (8 oz.) wagon wheel pasta, cooked and drained

In a medium bowl, combine first 6 ingredients with 1 tablespoon spaghetti sauce; shape into 1" meatballs. (Tip: A melon

GET THE FACTS

A recent study by the American Cancer Society shows that Hispanic-Americans are not adequately aware of cancer's warning signals or of ways to reduce cancer risk. Everyone should be armed with the facts.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen reports U.S. oil reserve policies are in disarray

Senator Lloyd Bentsen said that U.S. oil reserve policies are in disarray, threatening domestic producers by adding to downward pressures on oil prices and threatening national security by depleting reserves.

Bentsen introduced legislation Monday that would override Administration plans to stop filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve this year and would also mandate a 6-month moratorium on sales from the Elk Hills oil reserve.

"When I speak of this government's oil reserve policies I use the term loosely," Bentsen said in Senate remarks accompanying his legislation.

"This Administration's inaction on energy issues in general, in the face of a crisis that literally threatens the survival of the domestic energy industry, is disgraceful. Its antics with regard to oil reserves are nonsensical."

"The decision to stop pumping oil into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve while continuing to pump oil out of the Elk Hills Naval Reserve is adding about 175,000 barrels of oil a day to a market that is already so glutted with excess supply that prices have plummeted by some $17 a barrel over the past five months."

"These oil reserve policies not only damage the deeply troubled domestic energy industry, they threaten our security by depleting reserves we will need in the event of a national emergency."

The Bentsen bill would override a decision by the Administration to freeze SPR at some 500 million barrels rather than the 750 million barrel target originally set by Congress in 1977.

The bill reappropriates $41 million deferred by the Administration and appropriates an additional $163 million to expand SPR capacity from 519 million to 750 million barrels over the next five years and to conduct preliminary site work for another 25 million barrels of capacity for a total SPR of one billion barrels. The bill calls for expanding capacity at the existing Bryan Mound, Texas and West Hackberry, Louisiana SPR sites and for opening new caverns at Big Hill, Texas and at the existing Bayou Choctaw site in Louisiana.

The Bentsen bill also reappropriates $578 million deferred by the Administration and authorizes an additional $1 billion a year in fiscal 1987-89 to fund the oil purchases needed to expand the SPR by 250 million barrels. The SPR would be filled at a rate of about 100,000 barrels a day. Bentsen noted that the cost of this oil would be perhaps only a third of the $29.06 a barrel average price paid this far to fill the SPR. The legislation instructs the Secretary of Energy to purchase oil for the SPR from domestic stripper wells

Nonsmoker's rights

Americans concerned about the serious potential health risks of breathing air tainted by tobacco smoke have begun to band together, using the democratic process to secure nonsmoker's rights, according to the latest annual report issued by the American Lung Association, the "Christmas Seal" People.

The two-thirds majority of the adult population in the U.S. that wherever possible, particularly those wells that would be lost forever if shut down.

The Bentsen bill also calls for a six month moratorium on the sale of about 75,000 barrels of oil a day from the Elk Hills Reserve in California. During this time Bentsen said, Congress and the Administration would "examine all aspects of this national asset in light of our need for expanded crude reserves." The government is currently selling this high grade oil at $9 a barrel, below the market price.

do not smoke have become a very vocal majority indeed, the Lung Association says. Many states, cities, and counties across the country, heeding the voice of their citizens, have enacted limits on smoking in public. And a few pioneering states are now regulating smoking in the workplace, their partners, in this effort, are the growing number of companies that have been discovered limiting smoking on the job makes good business sense.

A recent Gallup survey commissioned by the Lung Association found that 87% of Americans want companies either to ban smoking at work or else limit it to certain areas. The Lung Association cites a few of the hardships caused by both employers and employees from smoking.

★ Smokers average a 35-to-45 percent higher absentee rate than nonsmokers, which translates into 80 million lost workdays a year due to smoking.

★ Lost productivity due to smoking-related illness in the U.S. adds up to a whopping $30.4 billion annually.

★ Employers have to shoulder a hefty chunk of the $22.3 billion yearly in health-care expenditures caused by smoking.

"Freedom From Smoking At Work," a new program from the American Lung Association offers companies tailor-made stop-smoking programs and customized nonsmoking policies suited to all kinds and sizes of businesses and industries.

For information concerning smoking in the workplace, contact the American Lung Association of Texas, 3520 Executive Center Drive, Suite G-100, Austin Texas 78731-1606 or call toll-free 1-800-252-LUNG.

Special needs for children with cancer

Social isolation, physical discomfort, and fear of death. These are not the typical characteristics of a child's life. But for children with cancer, it is all too typical. Despite the challenges, parents can foster good emotional adjustment in a child with cancer by being realistic about the child's limitations, according to the April issue of Texas Medicine.

Children with cancer face an entirely new way of life. In addition to medical treatments, children face a dependence on doctors and other health care professionals, slowed development in school, and anxiety, depression, and withdrawal due to their illness. According to authors Donna R. Copeland, PhD and Frances F. Worchel, PhD, "most children master the task of coping with the changed conditions and threats to their lives, particularly if they have a well-functioning family to support them." Writing in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association they add, "but many children run into difficulties...when it seems warranted, the child and family should be referred to a psychologist or psychiatrist who is trained in dealing with emotional and behavioral distress associated with cancer and its treatment." Dr. Copeland is associate professor, department of pediatrics, The University of Texas, MD Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Houston. Dr. Worchel is assistant professor, department of educational psychology, Texas A&M University, College Station.

Profile of Texas pork producer

A recent statewide survey offers a good profile of the typical Texas pork producer. The survey data will serve as a basis for future educational programs as part of the Pork Profit Program, a cooperative effort of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Pork Producers Association and Board. Information was obtained from both large and small operators—small operators defined as those with fewer than 20 sows or those marketing fewer than 300 feeder pigs a year. Most small operators said they work off the farm 200 or more days a year compared to about a third of the large operators. Most small operators buy a complete feed for their stock while large operators mix their own. Half the large operators and 63 percent of the small operators said they sell show pigs. Forty-nine percent of the small operators are producing 100 pounds of slaughter hogs for less than $40 while 58 percent of the large operators fall into that category.

Red Cross disaster aid continues

One of the first on the scene after the devastating Sweetwater tornado, the Red Cross continues to offer disaster relief to the affected families. More than 500 families suffered losses in the tornado.

At the Red Cross service center in the old M-System building 197 families have applied for emergency assistance. This assistance may include food, clothing, household items, medical supplies and replacement of occupational tools and supplies. Red Cross mass care workers have served 11,181 meals to disaster victims and workers.

The Red Cross has been assisted by 275 local volunteers. Red Cross Health Services have assisted 87 people who have had disaster related injuries, illnesses or loss of medical supplies in the tornado.

All Red Cross aid is free, made possible through direct donations from the American people and United Way allocations.

Those wishing to make a monetary contribution to the Red Cross disaster fund can mail their check to their local Red Cross chapter.

Employees of non-profit organizations

Since January 1, 1984, most employees of nonprofit organizations who earn at least $100 a year are covered by Social Security. Even employees of a church or church-controlled organization, which itself has elected to be exempted from the payment of Social Security taxes for religious reasons, are covered by Social Security if they earn at least $100 a year from the church or church-controlled organization. In such cases, the workers are treated as self-employed individuals rather than as employees.

Before 1984, nonprofit religious, charitable, educational, and similar organizations had to elect Social Security coverage; otherwise, they were exempted from it. Moreover, if such an organization did elect to be covered, it could request that the coverage be terminated after 8 years.

While most of these organizations did elect to be covered, some did not; and of those that did elect coverage, some later terminated. As a result, employees of nonprofit organizations who moved between covered and noncovered employment found that there were gaps in their Social Security protection. The change in the law as it applies to nonprofit organizations was designed to eliminate these gaps.

One of the advantages of Social Security coverage is that it moves with the worker from one job to another. Employees of nonprofit organizations need no longer be concerned about their Social Security coverage when they contemplate changing employment.

For more information, contact the San Angelo, Texas Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Are U.S. Savings Bonds the answer?

The Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced-budget law has already reduced Federal funding of college education grants and loans beginning in March this year and, according to plan, the greatest reductions are yet to come. During these belt-tightening times Americans must find other acceptable ways to pay for their children's higher education.

The U.S. Treasury's Savings Bonds Division offers a "Tax-Free Interest" funding option which many citizens believe to be safest and most thrifty way to save for college costs. A small monthly investment of $25 in Savings Bonds at a child's birth with an average yield of 10 percent will be worth $14,358.32 at age 18...just in time for college. The total accrued interest on these Bonds will be free from Federal income tax when the fund is used for college education, provided the following simple rules are followed: Purchase the Bonds in the child's name at any age with a parent listed as beneficiary. At the end of the first year of Bond purchases, file a Federal tax return in the child's name, listing accrued interest as income. No further tax returns need be filed unless the child has an income in any one year, including Bond interest, in excess of $1,040.00.

If you're looking for a quiet place to live, ask about the door construction. Solid or core-filled doors with gaskets or weather stripping are quieter.

Hey doc-where you going so fast? Running off to join the circus, eh? Tsk, tsk. If you really want to be a star, like the ol' wabbit here, follow me and I'll take you to the best circus in the land. It's the Bugs Bunny Wonder Circus, of course. And, it's only at the Bugs Bunny Theatre in Enchanted Kingdom at AstroWorld.

Step into the ring and hear the crowd roar. Imagine yourself as the lion, that ferocious king of the jungle, or even the lion tamer. Be the daring trapeze artist and cross the tightwire as the audience claps for more. Or just clown around for awhile. Let your imagination run wild as you are transformed into a circus performer.

Bugs Bunny and his friends Sylvester, Daffy Duck, Foghorn Leghorn and Yosemite Sam will serve as ring masters and make you feel right at home in the colorful circus world. AstroWorld guests are encouraged to take part in the Bugs Bunny Wonder Circus, a backyard circus fo sorts, which will be shown daily in Enchanted Kingdom. Check the show schedule for show times.

Circle S Restaurant

Because the calendar was changed during George Washington's lifetime, his birthday was originally on February 11, 1732.

Clean Air Week will be observed

Clean Air Week, which is dedicated to improving the air we breathe, will be observed nationally April 28-May 4.

Sponsored by the American Lung Association—The Christmas Seal People—the continuing objective of Clean Air Week is to reduce air pollution wherever it exists—outdoors, in the workplace, in the home.

The theme of Clean Air Week 1986, "Toxic Chemicals in the Air—Indoors and Outdoors," encompasses the entire scope of the complex air pollution program.

When the Federal Clean Air Act became law in 1970, it took into consideration only outside air pollution and called for emission standards to be imposed on each major source of pollution.

Some improvement has been achieved, but much of the nation's air is still unhealthy.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which administers the Clean Air Act, has established standards for only six hazardous pollutants: asbestos, beryllium, mercury, vinyl chloride, benzene and radionuclides. However, no standards currently exist for many more toxic outdoor air pollutants.

Now a new issue has emerged. In the last few years, it has been established that an individual's exposure to air pollutants does not occur only outdoors, but at work and in the home. There are no Federal standards or regulations covering indoor air pollution, which some environmental scientists believe is an even more serious problem than outdoor air pollution.

The Clean Air Act is currently under review for reauthorization by Congress and needs to be strengthened if it is to meet its goal of guaranteeing the American people their right to clean and healthful air.

The American Lung Association of Texas is urging Congress to strengthen the Clean Air Act with respect to toxic pollution in three ways.

- (1) Force timely EPA decisions on suspect chemicals;
- (2) Reaffirm the requirement that standards must be set at levels to protect public health with an ample margin of safety; and
- (3) Require sources (Manufacturing plants, etc.) to prove compliance with the standards that have been set.

The ALA is also urging Congress to designate the EPA as the agency with primary jurisdiction "for research on the health effects of indoor air pollution and jurisdiction for establishing and enforcing control programs. Take into consideration:

—that estimated health care costs attributable to outdoor air pollution alone amounts to between $5 billion and $40 billion annually with the closest estimate approximately $16 billion;

—that an estimated 1,700 people may die from cancer every year from outdoor air pollution, and thousands more from indoor air pollution.

For more information about Clean Air contact the American Lung Association of Texas at 3520 Executive Center Drive, Suite G-100, Austin, Texas 78731-1601 or call toll-free 1-800-252-LUNG.

Save money on meat

If you want to save money on meat, learn to determine the amount of lean meat you're getting per pound, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Marilyn Haggard. A seemingly inexpensive piece of meat may actually be very expensive if there is a great deal of waste due to bones, fat, gristle or skin. Also learn how to cook less expensive cuts of meat. They are usually tougher cuts and need moist rather than dry heat. Use these in stews or pot roast. These cuts are very nutritious because they're high in protein and low in fat, says Haggard.

Texas-sized litterbags available free

New Texas-sized litterbags sporting the "DON'T MESS WITH TEXAS" message are available free at any of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation offices and all Texas Tourist Bureaus.

"Since it's cans and fast-food wrappers we find most among the litter along the highways, our new litterbags are large enough to accommodate those items," said Don Clark, spokesperson with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The bags, which measure 12"X 18", are part of the department's efforts to reduce significantly the cost of picking up trash along the roadside. Last year, it cost Texas taxpayers $24 million to clean up the highways.

"Research indicates that states with active litterbag distribution, combined with strong public awareness programs, are making major progress in reducing visible, deliberate litter," Clark said.

"Most people say they litter because it's convenient. By making the larger bags available free, we want to make it more convenient for Texans to put trash where it belongs instead of messing with Texas," said Clark.

Texas Tourist Bureaus are located in Amarillo, Anthony, Austin, Denison, Gainesville, Langtry, Laredo, Orange, Texarkana, Harlingen, Waskom and Wichita Falls. There are State Department of Highways and Public Transportation offices throughout Texas, with at least one in most Texas counties.

DON'T MESS WITH TEXAS bumper stickers are also available free at the same locations.

Interest expense key to farm debts

Many of today's farmers are having trouble paying their debts, and big culprit seems to be interest expenses. As a general rule, if interest expense exceeds 15 percent of total revenue, a farmer needs to look seriously at how efficiently the business is organized and operated and how profitably debt is being used, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. In most cases, if interest expense is more than 20 percent of total revenue—and in almost all cases, if it is more than 25 percent—simply restructuring debts is not going to solve the problem.

Dairy Queen

WE TREAT YOU RIGHT

IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO TAKE SWIMMING LESSONS FROM A MAN WHO HAS NEVER BEEN NEAR THE WATER, WOULDN'T IT?

The same principal applies to your State Representative:

1) Do you want JIM PARKER who has for 30 years, been a businessman and farmer/rancher or do you want a man who has spent at least the last 20 years as a Federal Bureaucrat on the government payroll?

THE CHOICE IS YOURS

2) Do you want JIM PARKER, who has actually lived in the district all his life or a man who lives in Austin and maintains his "legal residence" in the district?

THE CHOICE IS YOURS

3) Do you want JIM PARKER, who has and will continue to represent ALL the people of the district or do you want a man who is tied to a small group of would be power brokers?

THE CHOICE IS YOURS

4) Do you want JIM PARKER, who has important seniority in the House of Representatives or do you want to start from scratch in these troubled times?

THE CHOICE IS YOURS

The saying about fools rushing in where angels fear to tread was likely invented in response to someone who "hit the ground running." JIM PARKER will continue to represent ALL of you in the Legislature in a sober and deliberate manner and when the job is done he will be back home with you, his family and business with no desire for the government to keep him up.

IS THERE REALLY A CHOICE? I THINK NOT.

Since the September 1, 1985 effective date of the amended Texas Clean Air Act creating administrative penalties as an Air Control Board enforcement tool, notices of violation have been issued to 579 companies, individuals, or governmental agencies, according to James C. This could be in the form of administrative penalties, lawsuit, or permit revocation. To date, The TACB has assessed agreed administrative penalties totaling $518,125 against 24 companies. Fajita Cook-Off slated for May 17

The 1986 National Fajita Cook-Off Championship will be held May 17 in Moran, Texas. Participants will vie for over $1,000.00 in prizes, as four-man teams compete for the National Championship in fajita cooking.

The annual event is held each year in the small community of Moran, located 38 miles east of Abilene and 15 miles south of Albany. The population of the community should swell in multiples as residents roll out the red carpet for contestants and those in attendance.

Cook-Off participants will begin arriving Friday, May 16. Cooking will begin Saturday morning, May 17. Preliminary judging is slated to begin at 3 p.m. and finals are slated to end at 4:30. A special attraction this year will be a special Showmanship category, where the best showman of the event will be awarded $250.

A full day of activities are slated for those attending. Saturday morning, a goat-roping competition is scheduled. Throughout the day, area musicians will hold an outdoor musical, which will culminate in an "Old & Young" Fiddlers contest Saturday afternoon.

Artists and craftsmen from all over the southwest will line the downtown area of Moran and offer their wares throughout the day. Some of the finest bargains in homemade crafts are assured to those attending, as well as noted artists from Texas and the Southwest.

Food will take the center stage. A noon lunch of "Home-made Hamburgers and Fixins" will be served by the Ernest F. Petit Post of the American Legion. Supper of Bar-B-Que and Fajitas will be served beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Capping the days' festivities will be one of Moran's world famous "Old Fashioned" street dances for young and old which will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at 1 a.m.

Sponsors of the Cook-Off are the Moran Yacht Club, Inc., a local organization founded to promote Morans' economic growth and development.

Congress to consider snake vs. Stacy issue

The illusive little snake that has been called the Concho Water Snake and the proposed Stacy Dam are presenting the first major challenge to the law that protects species that are thought to be endangered since the Snail Darter held up construction of the Tellico Dam in Tennessee in the last decade.

The Concho snake, Harter's Water Snake is a non-poisonous snake, thought to grow to about three feet long has been proposed by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior as an endangered species that needs legal protection from humans.

Stacy Dam, on the other hand, is a proposed $66 million dollar project that would provide much-needed water for West Texas. The financing for the project would be local.

Claims have been made by the Fish and Wildlife Service that the hard to find snake lives in a 200 mile stretch of the Colorado River and Concho River to a point about where the Stacy Dam would be built. They say that the construction of the lake would have adverse effects on three-fourths of the snake's habitat.

U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen says that the concern for the snake is a "serious case of misplaced priorities." The senator has introduced legislation that would exempt the proposed dam from the provision of the law that gives creatures precedence over such projects.

Coleman Band Boosters sponsor World Class Wrestling Match

The Coleman Bluecat Band Boosters are sponsoring a World Class Wrestling Match on Tuesday, May 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Brownwood Coliseum, in Brownwood, Texas. Four matches will be held as follows: Kevin Von Erich vs Rick Rude and Percy; Chris Adams vs Buddy Roberts; Missing Link and Sunshine vs John Tatum and Missy; Brickhouse Brown vs Mark Youngblood.

Advance tickets are on sale for $8.00 ringside and $6.00

Registration set for summer classes

Registration for summer classes at the Ballinger extension center of Western Texas College will be held from 6:30-8 p.m. on May 20 in the Ballinger High School Activity Center.

Courses on the Ballinger summer schedule are English 131, 231, and 232, Government 232, History 132 and Intermediate Algebra 132. All the classes are and subsequently the human population on the area.

Officials with the Fish and Wildlife Service say that this is the first time since 1979 that anyone on Capitol Hill has launched an attack to create an exemption for such a project.

In the last round the snail darter, an inch-long minnow held up construction of the $130 million Tellico Dam in Tennessee. Tellico was 90 percent complete when the infamous fish was discovered in 1973.

The U.S. Supreme Court handed down a ruling that upheld the environmental law.

The dam was completed only after congress approved an exemption in 1979. In the early 1980s populations of snail darters were found elsewhere and the little fish was termed threatened instead of endangered.

Fish and Wildlife officials say that an actual count of the number of snakes is difficult because the snake hides and feeds only at night.

In a public hearing recently in Ballinger on the shy snake, Fish and Wildlife officials presented only speculation and supposition about the snake and very few hard facts.

The agency's arguments were countered by comments of excessive and unnecessary outlay of tax money and a lack of concern of the residents of West Texas and the critical economic conditions being experienced here.

general admission at Tex Robin Boots, Coleman County State Bank, and First Coleman National Bank in Coleman and at Wayne's Western Wear in Brownwood. Advance tickets will be sold through May 2. Tickets at the door will be $10.00 ringside and $8.00 general admission.

Proceeds of the event will help the band boosters complete end of the year projects, purchase new equipment and instruments and make a deposit to the uniform fund.
