By Kerry Craig

It is really amazing what some educated folks can dream up to spend grant money on.

Researchers, many of them, exist on grants from Uncle Sam or big-time companies to investigate or try to find something.

For instance, the millions spent trying to learn if the baby monkey loves its mother. Or, how about the time and dollars spent to reach inconclusive conclusions about the habitat and existence of some snake that few of us, if any, really care about.

In one of the big-city papers this past week end was a front page story that told of a two million dollar grant that was used to pay six super smart folks for two years. They came up with the earth-shaking revelation that well-done hamburger meat can cause cancer in rats.

I don't have to worry about such things. When I order a steak (are you listening Gary?), I order it medium or medium rare. My wife orders hers slightly different.

Maybe she thinks she is liberated or something, but when she orders a steak, she wants the horns cut off, the nose wiped, and the meat slid rapidly across a cool grill.

My mother, on the other hand, will send a well-done hamburger back to the cook with instructions to "burn it."

Now with the discovery of well-done hamburger causing bad sickness in mice and rats — well maybe we ought to become vegetarians.

It seems that the most inane and silly things can get funding from some governmental agency for some kind of study.

Here is another example: In one state the top elected official decided to give all the school teachers a test to see if they had enough on the ball to teach youngsters.

The test copy was purchased, at some expense, from another state. The errors in the instructions and information were not corrected.

It cost a bunch of bucks to print and distribute the tests and even more to line up some computer to grade the tests.

The teachers were told only if they passed the test or not. They were not told their scores on each element of the test.

If you take a test, for whatever reason, you are just naturally interested in your score. In areas where your score might be lower, you might want to brush up a bit.

Well, after spending all these tax dollars on this test business, the state told the teachers they could get their grades — for a slight fee.

That's right, Teachers and Administrators, for the paltry sum of only $15 you can see your own test score.

You have to admit that for $15 you would not get most of the frills, whistles and flashing lights. You do get a little sticker, two of them in fact, to go on the teaching certificate that says you passed the test.

Oh well, teachers will get those stickers without having to pay the test surcharge.

While we are talking about tax money, here is a bit of food for thought.

Our hospital district directors approved the advertisement for bids for a communications system for our hospital.

This is a good move — long overdue. This will allow the hospital to have direct radio contact with doctors, technicians, ambulances, etc.

Other hospitals, almost everywhere, have such systems already.

Over the past few months our own hospital has taken some giant steps to improve its services.

If things continue as they have begun, we may have one of the finest, best equipped small hospitals in the country.

County tax deadline July 1

Runnels County Tax Assessor-Collector VaRue McWilliams has issued a reminder to Runnels County residents that July 1, is the deadline for payment of 1985 taxes without penalty.

Property owners who do not pay their taxes by July 1, will be required to pay an additional 15 percent penalty which is required by state law.

Mrs. McWilliams says that the total effective penalty and interest for delinquent taxes paid in July will total 35.7 percent, including the 15 percent penalty.

This reminder is to provide some incentive for property owners to avoid the penalties and interest that accompany late payment of taxes.

Proclamation

Mayor Randy Springer has proclaimed the week of May 18 through 24 as Small Business Week in Winters, Texas.

In issuing the proclamation, Mayor Springer said, "America's business begins with small business. We should encourage our small business owners by acknowledging their importance to Winters and to our Nation."

Small Business Week is held annually to honor and recognize the contributions of America's small business men and women.

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) coordinates and promotes Small Business Week activities. This year's theme is "Small Business is BIG in the USA."

Small businesses employ 48 percent of the private work force, contribute 42 percent of all sales in the country, and are responsible for 38 percent of the Gross National Product (GNP).

"Small business owners are the leading job creators and job trainers in the country," said Walt Fronstin, director of SBA's Lubbock office. "We are indebted to small business for its contributions to our success as a Nation and dependent on its progress and vitality for our economic well-being."

Hospital to seek radio system bids

The board of directors of North Runnels Hospital gave approval Monday evening to advertise for bids for a radio communications system for the hospital.

Hospital administrator Rita Williams and Dr. Richard Thorpe told the board that a radio system will lend itself to a number of applications.

Having a system at the hospital, the nursing staff can have immediate contact with a doctor or with a lab or x-ray technician.

The system will also enable the ambulance service to contact the hospital by radio to let the nurses know what type of patient they are bringing in and the patient's condition. Also medical direction can be given to a paramedic by a doctor over the radio system.

Dr. Thorpe has been using a radio communications for several months. He told the board that the concept is working very well.

Thorpe, using a private radio system can be contacted by the hospital anywhere in the Winters area.

The system, as proposed by the hospital administration, will offer even greater range.

Randy Nolte, owner of North Runnels Emergency Service, told the board that similar radio systems are used by most hospitals in the area and that when a patient is being transferred to any of the hospitals in Abilene or San Angelo patient information must be called in to the hospital by radio.

When installed in this hospital, the system will allow the hospital round-the-clock contact with emergency personnel. Having this contact will enable the hospital to provide more prompt emergency service.

It is expected that the radio system will cost approximately $5,000 and the money donated to the Hospital Equipment Fund can be used to make the much-needed purchase.

While talking about equipment, Dr. Thorpe told the board that an infra-red infant warmer was urgently needed.

Administrator Williams agreed with the doctor's comments and said that there has been an increase in the number of births at the hospital, and recently there have been two high-risk births in which such equipment was needed.

At the present time the hospital has an incubator isolette which will support a new-born infant. The baby warmer is an open piece of equipment that will keep the baby warm and, at the same time, allow the doctor to do what is necessary to sustain the baby.

The cost of the baby warmer is thought to be about $5,000, and according to Dr. Thorpe, is a state-of-the-art necessity for a delivery room.

The hospital administration and the board expressed concern over the ability of the hospital to afford these much-needed pieces of equipment.

They noted that the recent tax increase in the hospital district was primarily to fund the routine operations of the medical facility.

It is hoped that the funds already donated to the equipment fund will cover most of the purchases.

Since the fund was started, in 1973, over $53,000 has been donated to the hospital. Most of the donations have been in the form if memorials.

The fund has been administered since its beginning by Ted Meyer. Donations to the fund and memorials may be made at the Winters Funeral Home, Winters State Bank, or North Runnels Hospital.

The special equipment fund is used for needed equipment and is expended only with the approval of the board, the hospital administrator, and Meyer.

called Content. The farm belonged to Howard Baldwin and her father, Ed Harris, worked for him. "It was more like a ranch," she said. "We had cattle and sheep, also cotton, maize and corn. At that time my Uncle Joe Mapes was County Commissioner."

They eventually moved out west to El Paso. The boys grew up in Fabens. When Lonnie finished high school and one year of college in Denton, he was drafted into the the Navy in 1951. That was the year that his mother went to California and was married to Elmer Call. "My Bill had started his career of being a jockey and riding horses at the racetrack out here," she said.

Willie Shoemaker was born August 19, 1931, a tiny baby boy who weighed only 126 pounds when he was grown. While he was in high school at Fabens, a girl whose parents had a ranch succeeded in getting him interested in horses and taught him quite a bit about them.

When he went to California, Willie went to work as a stable hand where his knowledge of horses was soon discovered and this led to his becoming a jockey.

"When Shoemaker was interviewed on Johnny Carson's TV Show, he was asked how many races he had won. His reply was 'over 6,000'. At one time he had the record of winning more races than any other man," said Mapes.

"He owns quite a bit of property," said Mapes. "He did own a ranch at San Angelo, two ranches in Arizona, some apartment houses and a night club or two. He bought his mother, the former Ruby Harris, a home at Riverside. His grandparents returned to Clint to live. Mrs Harris, my sister, is still living, a great aunt. Mrs. Roy Adams, lived at Wingate until her death last year."

At one time Shoemaker was head of a crippled children's organization and sponsored an annual golf tournament on their behalf.

Shoemaker's outstanding record is listed in all World Almanac's and tells this astonishing story:

From the 1970 World Almanac we find that in 1954, Shoemaker was the annual leading jockey with 1,251 mounts and 380 wins. Again in 1958 with 1,133 mounts and 380 wins. And in 1959 he rode 1,285 mounts to win 347 times.

The following records as to winnings are also listed:

YEAR	MOUNTS	WON	MONEY WON
1958	1,133	300	$2,961,693
1959	1,285	347	2,843,133
1960	1,227	274	2,123,961
1961	1,256	304	2,690,819
1962	1,126	311	2,916,844
1963	1,203	271	2,526,925
1964	1,056	246	2,649,553

In the major stakes races for 1969, Shoemaker is listed as the winner in the Lassie Stakes for two year olds, fillies, at the Arlington track in Washington. Clover Lane was his mount.

In Horse Racing's Triple Crown listed in Reader's Digest World Almanac for 1971, we find that Shoemaker won in all major races. In the Kentucky Derby for 1955 he rode a horse named Swaps to win. And in 1959 his victory was a mount named Tomy Lee. He and the winning mount in 1965 were Lucky Debonair.

For the Preakness in 1963, Shoemaker rode Candy Spots to victory, and in 1967 his mount was Damascus. In the Belmont Stakes, he rode Gallant Man to victory in 1957; Sword Dancer in 1959; Jaipur in 1962; and Damascus in 1967.

Shoemaker continues to be a consistent winner as we find his name listed a number of times in the Major Stake Races of 1972, in the World Almanac for 1973.

In the races for three year olds and up, he was the winner in the American Handicap at the Hollywood track on the mount, Buzhashi. In the California Stakes he rode Cougar, 2nd to victory.

For the three year olds and up, fillies and mares class, Shoemaker was the winner at the Santa Margarita event at the Santa Anita track and Turkish Trousers was his mount. His mount was Quack in the class for three year olds at the California Derby at Santa Anita track. This was also a victory. The Hollywood Oaks event at the Hollywood track for two years olds was won by Shoemaker and a horse named Pallisima.

With all his world acclaim, we wonder if Willie Shoemaker ever thinks of the little green valley of Content, that once he called home.

We know that Willie's mother remembers her days in Runnels

Questions & Answers

Q—I am a 67-year old veteran with limited income. I have applied for a nonservice-connected pension. Do I have to prove to the VA that I am disabled?

A—No. Permanent and total disability for pension purposes is presumed at age 65.

Q—My brother was a disabled veteran. I was appointed his guardian by the VA. His compensation checks came to me. He died last month and I would like to use the check that came at the end of the month to pay some of his bills. Can I do this?

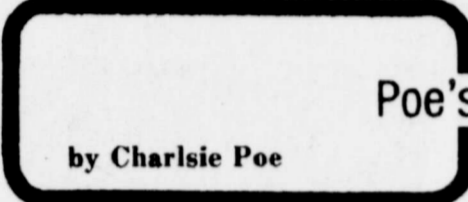

A—No. A veteran's entitlement to disability pension or compensation terminates at the end of the month prior to his death. Checks received after the death should be returned. The person who pays the funeral expenses may be eligible for a burial allowance. Reimbursement for medical expenses may be made only if accrued compensation payments are available.

Q—Does the Veterans Administration offer assistance for rent, utilities, food, etc?

A—No. The VA has no resources for these forms of assistance. You may wish to contact a local veterans affairs or social service office.

What if you don't like milk?

If you don't drink milk because you simply don't like it, Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionists recommend eating more of other foods that include calcium. High calcium foods include those made with milk or cheese and tofu, a soybean product that is often made with calcium sulfate. Dark green leafy vegetables and tortillas made with cornmeal also provide some calcium. Canned or dried fish with edible bones, such as salmon, will also contribute calcium to the diet.

"Winningest Jockey" spent boyhood at Content

Willie Shoemaker, record breaking jockey, who once lived in Runnels County has done it again by winning the Kentucky Derby last week. At 55 he is the oldest person to ever win this distinction.

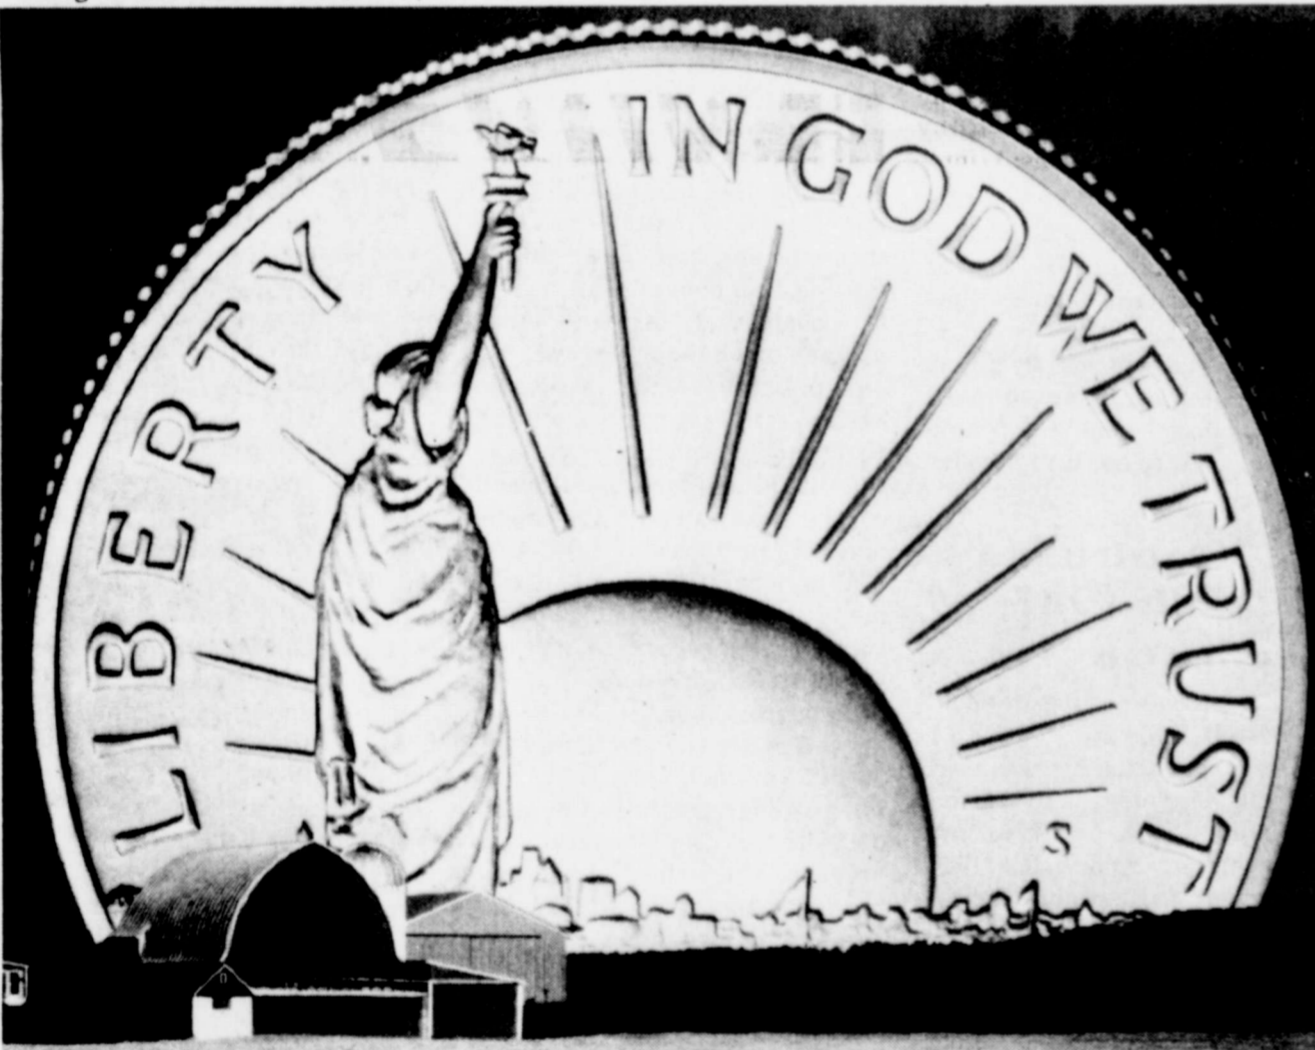

Shoemaker's career has been of interest here since 1970 when his Great Uncle Melvin Mapes, then a County Commissioner, related what he knew of Willie's activities when I was writing the county history.

While getting ready for Texas' 150th birthday celebration, we heard that Shoemaker had retired. Hoping that he would have time and might possibly be interested in returning to the land of his youth, I telephoned his mother, Ruby Call, in Riverside, California. She said that he had been unable to ride in a year due to injuries received when a horse fell on him, but he was now working harder than ever.

Mrs. Call said that Uncle Melvin was right on everything except where Bill (Willie) was born. It was at Fabens and he was eight months old when they moved back to Winters, about four before Lonnie was born at Wingate in 1932.

Four years later she and her husband seperated. She and the boys came to live with her parents on a farm about 15 miles from Winters at a little place

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Webb

Mary Jean Mitchell weds Henry Taylor Webb

Mary Jean Mitchell of Abilene and Henry Taylor Webb of Winters were married May 1, 1986 at the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church in Winters. The Rev. Glenn Shoemaker performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a mauve-colored pongee dress styled with a neck-hugging Victorian-band collar with a ruffle around the edge. Tucks formed at the collar and extended down the front of the dress to the hemline. Long puffed sleeves were gathered at the wrist with matching bands and ruffles. The waist was belted with a self-fabric V-belt, fastened in the back. The street-length skirt was slightly gathered. Satin pumps were dyed to match her dress. She carried a bouquet of mauve-colored silk roses atop a white Bible with her name printed in gold. Mauve-colored satin and ecru-lace ribbon streamers extended from the bouquet to the floor. She wore a mauve silk rose nosegay in her hair fashioned to match the bouquet.

Avo Roberts accompanied the bride as matron of honor and wore a dusty rose dress fashioned with long sleeves and rows of tiny lace and ruffles on the bodice. She carried a long-stemmed spray of mauve silk roses.

Milt Bunger of Winters served the groom as best man.

Skip Crowell, Choir Director of Trinity Baptist Church in Abilene, sang the selection, "Flesh of My Flesh and Bone of My Bone", during the ceremony.

The couple's children served as photographers for the event.

All the flowers for the wedding party as well as the floral centerpiece and brass candlesticks with mauve candles for the reception table, registry table, groom's table, and the piano were designed by the bride's daughter, Linda Antilley of Wichita Falls. Ms. Antilley served the three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pale pink roses and a gold cross standing on top with two doves holding intertwined gold rings. The groom's daughter-in-law, Marcie Webb, served pink punch. Pink mints and salted, roasted pecans, made by the groom's daughter, Virginia Rhodes of Uvalde, were served with the cake and punch. The groom's granddaughter, Dorothy Nichols, hosted the groom's table serving coffee and chocolate cake decorated with pale pink roses.

The bride's daughters, Wanda Ulmer of Delaware and Rita Rodriguez of Houston, hosted the registry table.

Noel Antilley, the bride's granddaughter carried a basket of mauve satin rosebuds fashioned by Linda Antilley. Buds were filled with "birdseed" rice and were presented to each guest to sprinkle on the couple as they left.

After a short wedding trip to the Big Bend Country of Texas, the couple will take an extended trip to Georgia and Delaware. The bride is originally from Georgia. The groom is a native of Taylor County and is a farmer/rancher. The couple will reside in Winters.

Bentsen cites excessive production at Government Oil Reserve
 Senator Lloyd Bentsen, citing a finding by the Department of Energy Inspector General, said Wednesday that excessive rates of production at the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve are placing at risk as much as 128 million barrels of high grade oil.

Bentsen and Senator Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) asked Wednesday that U.S. Comptroller General Charles Bowsher investigate the situation. They also asked Secretary of Energy John Herrington to suspend most production at Elk Hills pending the outcome of the investigation.

"The findings by the Inspector General are quite clear," Bentsen said at a joint press conference with Gore.

"The Department of Energy, since 1979, has withdrawn oil from the Elk Hills reserve at rates which exceed the Maximum Effective Rate, or MER, recommended by its engineers and consultants."

"This excessive production is damaging reservoirs and isolating reserves, causing the recovery of from 91 million to 128 barrels of oil at Elk Hills to be placed at risk."

"One half that total — from 45 to 65 million barrels of oil, with a value of at least $600 million at today's depressed oil prices — has already been lost. This is comparable to some 10 percent of the total amount of oil in the Strategic Petroleum Reserve."

In the letter to Bowsher, Bentsen and Gore noted that the problem was first called to the attention of the Department of Energy in 1979, yet the department has taken no action to slow production. In fact, the department has established production targets through 1989 which are not based on MER calculations.

"The Inspector General has found that the department has not developed an MER 'consistent with sound engineering practices' as the law requires and that has ignored the MER recommendations made by its own engineers and consultants," Bentsen said.

"We need to get to the bottom of this problem and fast. And the department should immediately stop the vast bulk of production from Elk Hills and keep it stopped until we can determine what the best rate of production should be," Senator Bentsen said.

A letter series on "UNDERSTANDING YOUTH—ADOLESCENCE...A STAGE OF LIFE" is being offered by the County Extension Office beginning in June. The letter series is free of charge.

Teenagers are in that frenzied world of not being children anymore, but not being adults either. Some authorities say that today's youth are growing up earlier, wanting more privileges and finding trouble sooner. Recent data on Texas teenagers show these major problems.

—More teens are engaging in sexual behavior.
—More are skipping school or dropping out.
—More are committing acts of violence.

—Drugs are common and contribute to discipline problems.
—More parents are kicking teens out of the home.

—More teens are running away from home and at earlier ages.
—Depression and mental health problems are showing up in poor school performance, hyperactivity, fighting, delinquency, hypochondria and suicide.

If you are a parent or someone who works with teenagers, this letter series will help you cope with this critical stage of life.

The letter series consist of six letters dealing with the topics of myths about adolescence, youth and parental concerns, challenges of youth, self concept and self esteem, adolescence and discipline, and parent-teen communications.

To enroll in this home study course is simple, call the County Extension Office at 365-5042. Deadline for enrollment is Friday, June 13, 1986.

Adolescent pregnancy in Texas is being called "an epidemic." The statistics are quite alarming. One in five babies born in Texas has a teenage mother.

In 1984, forty-six babies were born to mothers age 15 to 19 in Runnels County. In the same year, two girls from our county who were under 15 gave birth to babies. These numbers do not include babies born to Runnels County girls in out-of-county hospitals.

Runnels County has a higher percentage of births to women under 20 years old than the state. These percentages are 21.6% for Runnels County and 15.7% for the state of Texas. Teenage pregnancies in our county have increased since 1980 while the state's rate has shown a slight decrease.

Why be concerned about teenage pregnancies? Most teens under 17 have no health insurance; therefore, they may not seek adequate prenatal and health care. Infants born to teen mothers are more subject to birth defects, low birth weight and even death. Teen mothers are more at risk for illness, injury or death resulting from an early pregnancy. The teenage mother is more likely to drop out of school, limiting educational and career possibilities. She is more likely to become financially dependent on her family or on welfare. And finally teenage marriages have a much greater chance of ending in divorce.

While most parents would probably like to be better communicators with their teenage children, especially on sensitive issues like personal relationships, intimacy, and pregnancy, they find it difficult to know exactly when to bring up the subject with their children.

Talking about sexuality can also be difficult for parents who grew up in homes where the subject was not discussed. Parents want to impart their values as well as give information to their teenagers. But knowing how to be a good communicator does not come automatically just because you are a parent.

Education our young, sexually inexperienced boys and girls about sex and contraception is still a highly charged issue. Somehow our society must resolve the ambivalence of seeking to prevent adolescent pregnancy, yet fearing the effects of early reproductive education.

With the right preparation of the parents of teens and preteens, the timing for teaching sex education to their children will become more accurate and appropriate. Neither education nor support services in this effort to combat teenage pregnancies is as crucial as when to teach sex education and/or by whom.

Developing communication skills for dealing with our children and their sexuality is as important as an important family strength. The Runnels County Extension Office has a packet of materials available free of charge to help you with this task.

If you would like to receive this packet or want more information contact the County Extension Office at 365-5042.

Buffelgrass management tips

Buffelgrass, a major grass species in southern Texas, can be kept healthy and growing vigorously by good grazing management. Buffelgrass will not tolerate continuous heavy grazing and requires relatively short deferment periods, says a range specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Also, production tends to vary more with climatic fluctuations when cut short in spite of longer rest intervals. Forage quality may have to be compromised to some extent by allowing some maturity between grazings. Short-duration grazing and seasonal deferred grazing are effective methods for increasing carrying capacity and animal performance on buffelgrass pastures.

At a Jackson Day Dinner in 1933, Garner stated: "There are just two things to this government as I see it. The first is to safeguard the lives and property of our people—the second is to insure that each of us has a chance to work out his destiny according to his talents."

Brownfield to host Junior Rodeo

A two-day junior rodeo for youths up to the age of 19 will be held June 6-7 at the Brownfield Rodeo Arena. It is sanctioned by the High Plains Rodeo Association and is being sponsored by the Terry County Extension 4-H and Youth Committee.

Competition will begin at 8 p.m. each day and will have four age divisions, said Brad Pierce, Terry County Extension agent. Age brackets will be 8 and under, 9 through 12, 13 through 15, and 16 through 19.

Buckles will be awarded all-around winners in each age division.

The deadline for entries is May 27. Entry forms may be obtained from the Terry County Extension Office, 201 East Hill Street, Brownfield, telephone 806-637-4060. After 5 p.m., forms may be requested by telephoning the HPRA secretary, Janice Moore at Clovis, N.M., telephone 505-985-2653.

Pierce said the events for each age division will be: 8 and under, girls and boys—barrel racing, flag racing and goat roping, 9-12, boys—steer riding, calf touching, breakaway roping and steer stopping; Girls—barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying and breakaway roping, 13-15 and 16-19, boys—bareback bronc riding, bull riding, tiedown calf roping, ribbon roping, partner roping and team roping; girls—barrels, poles, goat tying, ribbon roping, partner roping, breakaway roping and team roping.

Farm credit banks of Texas show improvement

Farm Credit Banks of Texas officials today announced a $2.6 million net income for the first quarter of 1986. The banks make loans to Texas farmers, ranchers and agriculturally related businesses.

According to James Rogers, chief executive officer of the Texas banks, the organizations' earnings from local operations totaled $8.2 million before $5.6 million of these earnings were allocated to other Farm Credit districts with serious problems.

Texas, one of 12 Farm Credit Districts nationwide, is comprised of the Federal Land Bank of Texas and its 44 local Federal Land Bank Associations, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas, 28 Production Credit Associations and the Texas Bank for Cooperatives.

Rogers also stated that although the system remains under stress due to the lagging farm and ranch economy, the Texas banks and associations were able to maintain their $148 million reserve for losses, leaving them adequately protected against future losses. The banks' CEO reported the banks and associations charged off $5 million for anticipated losses on loans during the first quarter.

Loans outstanding for the three banks now total almost $4 billion, down 5 percent from March 31, 1985. Rogers indicated that bank officials were concerned about their good borrowers who might leave the Land Bank in search of lower interest rates. He said the district board had asked the Farm Credit Administration, the banks' regulator in Washington, D.C., to approve a lower interest rate. So far, the request has not been approved.

Rogers noted a healthy surplus and reserves of almost $490 million for three banks, an improvement over the $489 million at December 31, 1985.

Nationally, the Farm Credit System incurred a net loss of $206 million for the first quarter of 1986, compared to a net income of $118 million at the same time last year. The system reported a 12.7 billion loss in 1985.

"The Texas District remains among the strongest in the nation," according to Rogers.

The Farm Credit System is the largest single agricultural lender in the U.S., providing about one-third of the nation's total agricultural credit. The Texas District has almost $4 billion in loans outstanding to 40,000 farmers, ranchers, aquatic harvesters and 150 agricultural and rural utility cooperatives.

Beef cattle seminar to be held May 20

A beef cattle seminar will be held at the Angelo State University Management, Instruction, and Research Center Tuesday, May 20, from 3:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The seminar will focus on the topic of the importance of sire selection on herd performance. All cattlemen interested in beef production are welcome to attend. The seminar is free and registration begins at 3:30 p.m.

The MIR Center at San Angelo is located three miles north of the San Angelo City limits off of Highway 87.

Dr. Leon Holland, head of the department of agriculture at ASU, will open the seminar with introductory comments. Dr. Don Shelby, professor of animal science at ASU, will speak on genetic improvement in beef cattle herds by the use of artificial insemination and performance records.

The participants will also tour the Angelo State University Angus and Beefmaster herds.

A free barbecue is scheduled for 6 p.m. for participants.

Roy A. Wallace, chairman of beef programs for Select Sires, Inc., will speak on selecting beef sires using sire summaries and Gus Thompson, regional sales manager for CEVA Laboratories, Inc. will speak on touring the U.S.A. with SMB Estrous Synchronization.

Other speakers include Dr. Jerry Cowley, livestock specialist with the Texas A&M Extension Service, and Dr. John Beverley, animal reproduction specialist and project supervisor with the Texas A&M Extension Service.

State to cut Medicaid payment for hearing aids

Hearing aids will no longer be covered by Medicaid as of June 1, 1986 if proposed legislative rule changes and budget cuts are adopted, Jim Wilson, executive director of the Texas Hearing Aid Association said Friday, May 9.

During a preliminary hearing, held Thursday, May 1, 1986 at the Texas Department of Health, Winters Complex, Austin, testimonies were heard from several consumer groups and trade associations in objection to the proposed cut.

Steve Svadlenak, director of contracted health services, presided over the hearing. He said "the Governor has asked that all state agencies cut 13 percent from their budget as quickly as possible, in an effort to relieve a $1.3 billion deficit."

"The reason hearing aids are being cut completely is that this is a non-mandatory service," he said.

At the hearing, in response to the proposed cuts, Wilson said "please know that a hearing aid is, in most cases, a hearing impaired person's only contact with the world. It is the bridge between darkness and light, between bitterness and joy.

"Our older citizens who cannot hear withdraw from social life. Their productivity decreases and quite often they become fully financially dependent on the State for support. Please keep the door open for our state's hearing impaired aging adult citizens," he said.

A final hearing is set to begin at 9 a.m. May 27, 1986 at the Winters Complex, 701 W. 51st street in Austin.

Persons who wish to make written comment may write before May 27 to Cathy Rossberg, Texas Department of Human Services, P.O. Box 2960, Austin, Texas 78769. Attention Policy Development Support Division, Mail Code 153-E.

Area dentists attend Annual Session

Area dentists joined more than 6,200 professionals and guests attending the Texas Dental Association's (TDA) Annual Session to hear the latest issues, learn the best techniques, and review the newest products in dentistry. TDA's Annual Session was held in San Antonio May 1-4.

Local dentist attending the TDA Annual Session included, Thomas L. Russell.

TDA's progress in establishing "Paid Dental" benefit programs was a major issue addressed during the Session. In a Paid Dental program a dental patient's employer reimburses the patient quickly and directly for dental care costs. Similar programs, based on this direct reimbursement concept, are gaining popularity around the country because of significant savings in time and administrative costs for the employer, patient, and dentist.

The Annual Session provided participants a "hands-on" experience with Electrosurgery, a painless technique for precise shaping of soft tissue, such as gums, with little or no bleeding and no scar formation. The process is considered a major technological advance and is a time-saving technique for the general dental practitioner.

Among the more than sixty topics the TDA Session addressed were: preventing the spread of disease; use of new dental materials; dental management of the cancer patient; and developing effective mouth-guard programs for high school athletes.

Throughout the Session, more than 200 exhibitors from around the country demonstrated new dental products, computer equipment and dental software, and office management systems.

The Texas Dental Association is a statewide voluntary professional association with 25 local societies and more than 6,200 members.

"Adopt-a-Highway"

A statewide "Adopt-a-Highway" program, aimed at increasing community involvement in Texas' antilitter campaign has been kicked off by the highway department.

Under the new program, civic organizations can adopt a section of highway, and are responsible for picking up the litter along that segment at least twice a year. The program was conceived last year in the Tyler highway district and is apparently the first of its kind in the nation.

In 1984, the highway department was spending $20 million annually on the litter problem. In response to an appeal by highway commission chairman Bob Lanier, the Tyler district started an intensified campaign against litter. In early 1985, Billy Black, Public Affairs Officer for the district, conceived the idea of organizations adopting highways.

Thus far, some ninety groups have adopted sections of highway throughout the Tyler district. They range from the Tyler Civitan Club to the Tyler/Smith County Juvenile Detention Center. The Tyler district of the highway department includes Anderson, Cherokee, Gregg, Henderson, Rusk, Van Zandt and Wood counties. The program has been a tremendous success in the Tyler area, and now the department wants to try it statewide.

Guidelines for initiating and managing Adopt-a-Highway programs have been sent to the other 23 highway district offices. Once an organization has adopted a stretch of highway, the department will place signs at each end of the two-mile section, giving credit to the adopting group.

The new Adopt-a-Highway program complements Texas' other antilitter programs that include a media and education campaign, funding for increased law enforcement, and support of the Governor's Community Achievement Awards for civic beautification.

Guidelines for ag youth labor

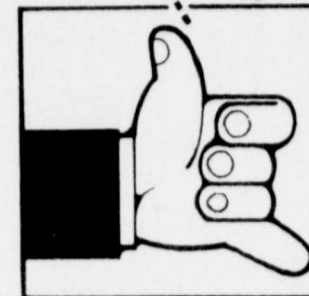

Child labor requirements for agricultural work apply to youth 16 years of age and under working on any farm or ranch, points out a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The requirements restrict youth under 16 from operating or riding a tractor of more than 20 horsepower. They also restrict youth from working with a wide range of equipment, from working at certain heights, and from working with anhydrous ammonia and certain chemicals. Farmers and ranchers planning to hire youth for agricultural work this summer should be familiar with these requirements.

Memo from Kay

The week of May 18 to 24 has been designated as "Small Business Week".

Small business is BIG in the USA! Small business is BIG in WINTERS! The small business paycheck puts bread on the table for more than 100 million Americans. What would Winters, Texas be if it were not for small business? A ghost town? Businesses with fewer than 20 employees create two out of every three new jobs.

Don't sell our small businesses in Winters short. Almost 50 million Americans work in small businesses across our great country. Small business is more than twice as innovative as big business. Most new products still come from small businesses. Big is not always better.

Really great things come in small packages. This is the perfect time to thank the small businesses in our community—not just for their contributions to the local economy, but for their community spirit, which sets an example for all of us. Every week, every day, the people who own or work in our small businesses donate their time, money, products, and services to the civic and charitable projects of our community. The next time you get in your car preparing to go out of town to shop, stop and think about the times that our local small business people have donated to Scouts, Little League, school classes, booster ads for sports, prizes for carnivals, School Yearbook ads, etc. etc. etc.

Don't they deserve our support so that they can stay in business. They need our support more than ever with the state of economy down. SHOP WINTERS FIRST, you'll be glad that you did. Its really true—Small business is BIG in the USA!

The directors of the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce, salute the small businesses of Winters. Without you, Winters would dry up and blow away. We have a great little town and let's keep it that way, and work together to make it even greater.

Lake Brownwood's annual Spring Fest

The Lions Club of Lake Brownwood aims to institutionalize its spring festival as the lake community's most extravagant annual event. Live music all day and all night, eating all day and all night, games all day and all night, Arts and Craft and Flea Market and fun for the rest of your life if you hold on to the good feeling you'll leave with will be its trademark if the Lions have their way.

With five acres of frontage of Hwy. 279, the Lions are attracting some of the best cook-off gangs, artists, and a flea-marketeers in Texas. With the inclusion of local talent, the only serious business of the day will be figuring out what tastes best, what is most beautiful, and how good a time you can have.

The musical line-up includes Country and Western and Blue Grass, but which one is best won't be known until the judges, who are celebrities themselves, make their decision. The celebrity judges will also be judging the Cook-Off teams endeavors, which you can start sampling at 5 p.m.

But first there is breakfast at 7 a.m. pancakes, sausage, bacon, coffee and the works will be served. And don't forget lunch.

The deadline to register for spaces for Cook Teams, Arts and Craft and Flea Market is May 25. For more information or to apply, write to the Lake Brownwood Lions Club Star Rt. 2 Box 241, Lake Brownwood, Texas 76801 or call Benny McGlasson at (915) 784-5202.
