By Kerry Craig

Since receiving that chain letter in the mail a couple of weeks ago, I have really started paying attention to those envelopes that look real official but have that special stamp that says "Bulk Rate" postage on it. Those are the ones that really offer the big deals.

There was one this week that was an eye-catcher. These folks offered to give me, free, a color, instant-picture camera. All I had to do was to agree to buy one of any four items selected from a list of nine BIG prizes.

Among those prizes were a new luxury auto, a giant-screen television, a trip to the west coast (expenses paid, of course), and six other special items.

I have looked and looked for the catch and have not seen it—or have I.

They said to call them and they would pay for the call. They did not say call collect and they did not have a toll-free number.

It asked that I select any four items from the list. Each item is priced at $197. The card also said that the folks doing this would choose one item from the four I selected and send it to me.

Sound interesting? Well, after looking more closely I found that, along with the three really expensive items, there were six items that might cost half the amount listed. There is no way to give them four expensive items to choose from.

Then there are the packages that have a personal letter to you from some computer that tells you that you have won millions and millions of bucks—if you send in the enclosed card with the sticker on it.

They say the winning names will be draw at Random, and that town must be some place in Texas.

Oh, by the way, they want you to subscribe to about a hundred different magazines that you either wouldn't read or, have never heard of before or ever again.

Then comes the mail, with first class stamp stuck on it, with a prepared editorial wanting the editor to use to endorse anything from seat belts to kitty litter for an outdoor sandbox.

There was one, however, that caught my attention. It came from the Texas Civil Justice League. The letter named several area folks and groups that are members including the City of Winters and Gene Wheat of Bob Lloyd L. P. Gas.

In all seriousness, this concerns something very important and I will use the prepared editorial as it is written. I urge you to read the following and give it careful consideration.

One of the most controversial issues facing the Texas Legislature this year is tort reform, the movement to reform our state's civil justice system. It is interesting to examine the players on either side of the issue and their motivations.

Their names are surprisingly similar. The Texas Civil Justice League, umbrella organization for lawsuit reform, is comprised of 80 trade and professional associations, 110 businesses and more than 300 cities and counties. Together, these groups represent the interests of hundreds of thousands of Texans.

The TCJL probably represents the largest, most diverse coalition ever assembled for purposes of passing legislation in Texas. Its members are concerned about correcting what they call the imbalance in our civil justice system. The president of the TCJL is J. P. Word, a former Texas senator and presently executive director of the Consulting Engineers Council of Texas.

The other side is Texans for Civil Justice. It represents a small, but powerful, organization called the Texas Trial Lawyers Association. The TTLA is comprised of 4,500 attorneys who primarily make a living representing plaintiffs in civil cases, in most cases collecting 30-50 percent of the jury award as payment. The executive director of Texans for Civil Justice is Billy Rogers, a political operative who formerly helped run the Walter Mondale campaign in Texas.

Both names sound alike. Their goals and membership could not be more different. This information may help you as you read about the opposing groups in the coming weeks and months.

As I said the message is very important. The tort reform issue is one that must be dealt with.

Judgements and the resulting increase in insurance premiums affect us in many ways, from health care and medicine to just about anything else.

For example, professional liability insurance for someone in medical-related field has risen, in the past two years, in modest jumps of four or five hundred percent to thousands of percent.

With the economy in the shape it is in, we do not need to have costs continuing to rise either to buy insurance or help someone else protect himself from those who make their living from suing.

I guess that we could call them the sewers.

I would like to express appreciation to Gene for making sure we got the editorial and to all those groups, cities, and individuals who are vitally interested in trying to solve this rapidly growing problem.

Winters City Council plans move for Police Department

Only five action items were on the agenda for the Winters City Council's regular monthly meeting. Those items included approval of a new franchise agreement with Lone Star Gas Company, water fluoridation, moving the police department offices, repair at the tennis courts, and a time extension at the new water treatment plant.

The meeting was also the first for Winters' new city administrator. Charles (Chuck) MacIvaine has assumed his duties in the city's top administrative office.

The council gave approval to the new franchise agreement with the gas utility. The ordinance providing for that agreement to be in effect for a period of 20 years and allows Lone Star Gas Company to furnish and supply gas to the general public of the City of Winters.

The agreement provides for the payment of a fee or charge for the use of the streets, alleys, and public ways by the gas utility rather than charging the utility other fees and charges except ad valorem taxes.

The council authorized proceeding with plans to utilize funds from the Texas Department of Health to complete the fluoridation project at the water treatment plant.

The fluoridation project had been on hold since just before the start of construction of the new plant.

Another major move may be on the way for the Winters Police Department. The council agreed to seek bids for the construction of offices for the police department on the second floor of the City Hall. In its bid specifications, the city is seeking bids for labor only.

The city is going to explore the possibility of providing the materials for the project and seeking the manpower for the project from local contractors using local workers.

Working with a very tight budget, City Administrator Chuck MacIvaine said that it was hoped that the job could be completed for about $3,000.

In the last five years the police department has moved from a back office in the city hall to a newly-constructed office in the old power plant building.

Additional space is badly needed by the department. At the present time there is only one office which the department must use for administrative work, a squadroom, interrogation room, and evidence storage.

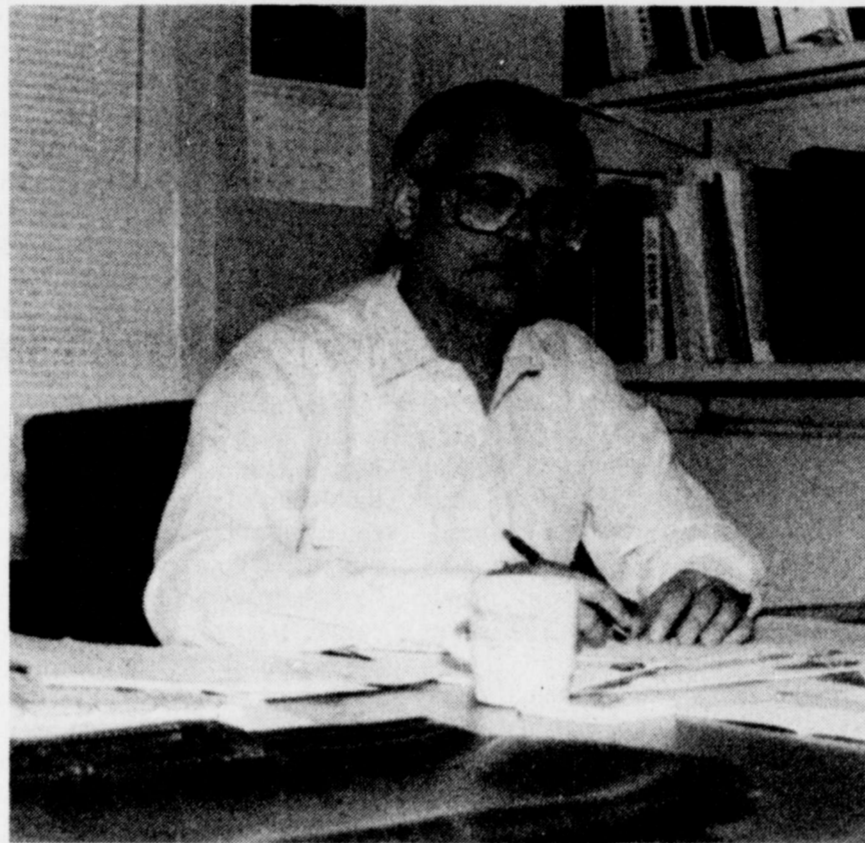

The office is also used by the Winters deputy from the sheriff's department and is used as a hall-way to get to the office of the municipal judge and justice of the peace.

Council member Jerry Sims reported to the council on the condition of the surfaces at the tennis courts at the city park.

The surfaces are cracking and are not level and the repair work will be expensive. Estimates for the work indicated that it would cost about $2,250 for each court.

It was decided to explore different ways of paying for the repair work including seeking funds from the Department of Parks and Wildlife and local fund-raising assistance.

With little discussion, the council gave a 15-day time extension to the contractor at the water treatment plant. The extension had been sought due to time lost during bad weather.

Just folks

Winters new city administrator was on the job this week. Chuck MacIvaine comes to Winters from Evanston, Wyoming and, after a tour of the community, says he feels like he has come home. The new city administrator says that he is looking forward to working for, and with, the citizens of Winters.

Bid opening Thursday for Stacy Dam construction

A quest that has covered most of a decade will come to a head in Big Spring Thursday morning when construction bids for the Stacy reservoir project will be opened.

The opening conducted by Colorado River Municipal Water District officials will be at 10 a.m. in the East Rooms of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Directors of the CRMWD will convene earlier at the headquarters building 400 E. 24th Street then adjourn to the coliseum because of the expected large crowd afterwards, they will convene for a regular session that deals mainly with Stacy and may include a tentative contract award.

At stake in the bid opening is a 2½-year job that may cost upwards of $40,000,000. It will be one of the if not the largest construction contract ever awarded in this area.

Proposal will be for building a two-mile earth-filled dam up to 156 ft. high, plus a concrete spillway containing 90,000 cu. yds. of reinforced concrete. Also, bids will cover a 72-in. and 12 in. conduits through the dam for smaller water releases.

Robert A. Thompson, Fort Worth, project coordinator for the work, said that there has been widespread interest "from the West to the East coast." Among those who will be present for the opening is S. W. (Si) Freese, whose firm has done all the engineering for the CRMWD for 40 years. Due to the anticipated large turnout, the Associated General Contractors has reserved quarters at Park Inn for a get-together of contractors, suppliers, and others on the eve of the opening.

CRMWD, which will own and operate the reservoir, does not yet have a 404 construction permit from the U.S. Corps of Engineers but is confident it will have one by the end of the month. The Corps cannot make a ruling until a 30-day comment period on its final Environmental Impact Statement expires March 15.

John L. Taylor, Big Spring, CRMWD president, said he is hopeful that the permit, if issued, will not be challenged by environmental groups because steps to protect the Concho water snake, wildlife and archaeological items have been spelled out in the Corps' EIS. Within 30 to 45 days after the opening, the District may break ground for actual work. Already, the CRMWD has acquired some 6,000 acres, far more than enough for the dam. It has finances in hand for the over-all project which may cost $70,000,000. Several million dollars have been invested in engineering, planning, archaeological and biological studies, financing, etc.

The two-mile long dam will plug the Colorado River some 25 miles southeast of Ballinger and approximately the same distance south of Coleman, and it will contain 4.3 million cubic yards. It will be protected on the upstream side by some 110,000 cubic yards of rolled concrete. The structure will impound a lake covering 19,150 surface acres in Coleman, Concho, and Runnels Counties. It will yield from 90,800 to 113,000 ac. ft. from its 554,000 ac. ft. impoundment at maximum elevation of 1551.5 ft. West Central Texas Municipal Water District (Abilene), Midland and San Angelo each have contracted for some 15,000 ac. ft. per year from the lake. Pipelines to those points are not included in the present project.

Crimestoppers make report on rewards paid

The Runnels County Crimestoppers paid rewards totaling $230 in the second half of 1986 according to a report made to the Crimestoppers board of directors by law enforcement coordinator Paul Boggess.

A reward of $100 was paid for information that led to an arrest for possession of marijuana and a bond forfeiture. Information leading to an arrest and guilty plea for possession of marijuana received a reward of $30.

Information concerning methamphetamines warranted a $20 reward while $40 rewards were paid for information leading to a methamphetamine arrest and for information leading to a marijuana arrest.

In making the report, Boggess told the Crimestoppers directors that the rewards were paid since July 1986. He said that the rewards did not reflect the amount paid by Crimestoppers during the last series of narcotics raids.

Boggess, who is Chief of Police in Ballinger, said, "We have noticed a significant decrease in narcotics traffic in our area since the raids last fall."

The March "Crime of the Month" spotlights a case of criminal mischief or vandalism that occurred in Winters at the high school parking lot on December 2, 1986.

THE AUTHENTIC OLD WEST BARBECUE RECIPES AND ANECDOTES OF WALTER JETTON, CATERER TO LBJ.

there was to do. For eats and other things the cowpokes needed a chuckwagon went along with them. There was no refrigeration, so about the only way they could take meat along was in the form of jerky, which they learned how to make from the Indians. Jerky was strips of lean beef that had been hung out in the air and sun to cure. It kept pretty well and could be eaten from five weeks later without too much of a toxic effect.

To prepare jerky, which could only be made out of lean strips of meat, a whole steer had to be slaughtered. The parts which were too fatty to be cured (and made the best eating), were cooked right away. Bailing wire was used to tie the main body of this steer to a tree limb that stuck out over the ground. Underneath it a low fire was built out of oak or any other available wood and the steer cooked right then and there. When it was ready, some fixings were made to go with it (there might be a little pot of hard cider) and everybody came around and had themselves a nice hoorah before the boys went out. The hoorah was what they called the barbecue.

In later years barbecue got to be the name of the process of cooking over a wood fire so that the smoke penetrated the food and gave it a taste which is not to be had in any other way.

Heat can be obtained by any method but charcoal is probably the best. The smoke comes from wood, and one will have to lay a log or some wood chips on the charcoal to get it. There is a lot of mixed opinion about what kind of wood to use, but it was Jetton's experience that it makes no difference in this wide world what kind of wood you use, providing that it does not have a lot of resin in it. Pine and cedar would be excluded. Pecan, walnut, apple, oak—anything like that is just fine.

Mr. Jetton died soon after I met him but his recipes—gathered from every place under the sun—live on in the memory of all Texas who continue to prepare and serve them.

Historical Commission commemorates Women's History Month in Texas

The Texas Historical Commission, in an effort to celebrate the notable achievements of all women across the state and nation, will join with other groups to commemorate National Women's History Month in March.

The event, which is coordinated nationally by the National Women's History Project serves to remind all Americans of the significant contributions made by women, many of whom have gone without notice or mention in history books.

In Austin, the event will kick off with a special dedication ceremony in the State Capitol on March 1. A special booth will be set up to provide information about the month, and an exhibit on ranching women will be on display in the Capitol rotunda, March 1-8.

Several proclamations pertaining to women's history in Texas will be enacted by the state legislature during the month, and across the state, cities and towns will commemorate the event with special activities. For example, several city councils, including Austin's, are expected to proclaim Women's History Month in their cities. On March 8, women around the world will unite to commemorate International Women's Day.

This celebration began in California in 1977 as Women's History Week. An increasing interest in women's history since that time, however, led the U.S. Congress to issue a resolution in 1986 designating March 1987 as Women's History Month. The theme of this year's celebration is "Honoring generations of compassion, courage and conviction."

Efforts to coordinate and publicize Women's History Month in Texas are being led by the THC, with assistance from various groups across the state. For more information about the event, please contact the THC, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, 78711, 512/463-6100.

Recommendations on fat

The dietary guidelines from major health organizations agree that Americans need to cut back on fat, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

According to Dr. Alice Hunt, U.S. Department of Agriculture guidelines recommend that Americans avoid too much fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. The American Dietetic Association recommendations suggest limiting fat to no more than one-third of daily calories and selecting a variety of saturated, polyunsaturated and monosaturated fats as well as eating lean meats and low-fat dairy products.

The Heart Association has more specific recommendations on fat, she says, advising that saturated fat should be reduced to less than 10 percent of total calories and polyunsaturated fat should also supply less than 10 percent of total calories, with total dietary fat not to exceed 30 percent of daily calories. The AHA also recommends that dietary cholesterol be reduced to less than 300 milligrams per day.

Cut It Out!

When I was an impressionable child sitting on the rough pews under the brush arbor in downtown Pontotoc, Texas listening to all the fired up traveling evangelists who passed through every Summer, the Bible passages that seemed to always stick with me were to gory ones. The bloody battle atrocities of the Old Testament. The hair-raising threats of Jesus to cast sinners into outer darkness where there would be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth.

And one that really made an impression on me: "If your hand causes you to sin, cut it off; it is better for you to enter life maimed than with two hands to go to Hell, to the unquenchable fire. And if your foot causes you to sin, cut it off; it is better for you to enter life lame than with two feet to be thrown into Hell. And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out; it is better for you to enter the Kingdom of God with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into Hell." (Mark 9:43-47)

As one who was taught to take the words of the Bible very literally I would often find myself in bed at night reviewing my sins of the day. And I would come to the conclusion that the only way I was ever going to overcome my sinful tendencies, the only way I was ever going to stop committing certain sins was to cut off the offending members of my body which seemed to be the cause of these sins.

If I had hit someone in a fight, I was tempted to cut off my hand so I could never do that again. If I had said a curse word, to cut out my tongue. If I had looked at someone else's possessions with covetousness, to poke out my eye.

Fortunately I was too chicken to ever carry out any of these drastic cures for sins.

As with most people I have outgrown my childish ways and attitudes. As I have matured in my faith and knowledge I have discovered some things about these words of Jesus.

Mainly that this unjunior to "cut off your hand and foot, and put out your eye" is NOT to be taken literally. This passage is a classic example of Hebrew hyperbole, of overstatement.

Jesus is here using a graphic example to make point that if there is anything in your life which is keeping you from God, anything in your life that is hurting you, anything that is making your life Hell—CUT IT OUT!

Get rid of it. Even if it appears to be as indispensable as a hand or a foot or an eye. It is better to lose a part of your life than all of it.

Rather regularly in the news we hear of people who have gotten an arm or a leg, hand or a foot caught in a piece of machinery and the only way that could get out and thus save their life is to cut off the limb.

And they do. It is better to lose a hand or a foot than to lose one's whole life.

Or again we regularly hear of someone who has a limb amputated because it is ridden with cancer or some other disease of infection. The limb is amputated to keep the sickness from spreading to the rest of the body. Better an amputation than death.

In spite of the pain, in spite of the loss, most humans when faced with the choice of losing a part of their life to save the rest of their life, make the life-saving choice. Better to live handicapped than to die whole.

Now if this is true of physical life, it is also true of spiritual life.

If something in your spiritual life is diseased and a threat to the rest of your life, then cut it out! It is better to make a sacrifice of self-denial than to live in Hell.

For example: If you have a problem with alcohol or drug abuse. A problem that threatens your health, a problem that may cause you to lose your job, a problem that may lead to the death of your marriage. The obvious advice is—cut it out! Stop it before it totally ruins your life.

Or maybe you have a problem with some relationship. You are involved with some individual or some group that is leading you astray, causing you great personal pain, threatening to kill some other relationship that you treasure. The obvious advice again is—cut it out! Stop it before it further ruins your life.

The reaction that a lot of us have to such advice is to think that cutting something off that is precious and indispensable is really a painful punishment—our lives will be diminished by such a sacrifice. However, Jesus is saying just the opposite happens.

The purpose of such sacrifice, such self-denial, is not to take away from life. The purpose of cutting some things out of our life is to enrich our lives, to give us a more abundant life.

It can be compared to pruning a fruit tree. Pruning may appear to be hurting the tree, but actually this is what the tree needs. The reason for the pruning is to produce more and better fruit.

When we prune our lives, what at first appears to be great loss, ends up leading to great gain. We bear fruit that would have been impossible to bear without the pain of the pruning shears.

So Jesus' advice to cut things out of our lives that can hurt us is obvious, logical, reasonable advice. This Lent may be a good time to listen to and try out that advice.

Arson fires on the increase in Texas

The crime of arson apparently is becoming more profitable in Texas. The number of set fires increased 31.5 percent in the first six months of 1986, compared with the same period in 1985, according to statistics recently compiled through the Texas Fire Incident Reporting System (TEXFIRS).

TEXFIRS is an automated system operated by The State Board of Insurance, State Fire Marshal's Office, to document the number, nature and causes of fires in Texas. Three hundred and ten fire departments protecting 71 percent of the state population report fires to the system.

During the first six months of 1986, fire departments reported a total of 9,045 incendiary or suspicious fires which resulted in at least 11 fatalities, 53 injuries and an estimated $39.2 million in property loss.

The amount of property loss decreased 12 percent from the same period for 1985, but injuries increased 17.8 percent and fatalities increased 22.2 percent. The dollar loss from these fires amounted to 22 percent of the total dollar loss from all fires.

"Incendiary" or "suspicious" were among the top five fire caused in every major building category. Residential properties were hit the hardest by arsonists during the first six months of 1986. More than 1,400 incendiary/suspicious residential fires resulted in 39 injuries, 10 fatalities and $19.7 million in property damage.

Fires caused by children playing with fire increased 44.8 percent in the first half of 1986, to more than 1,800. They resulted in 49 injuries, six fatalities and $3.7 million in property loss.

Statistics from the TEXFIRS are made available to the public in an effort to decrease the number and severity of fires through increased public awareness of fire problems, said State Board of Insurance Chairman Lyndon L. Olson, Jr.

Memo from the Chamber

Letters and entry forms for Food, Games and Arts and Crafts Booths for Mayfest '87 are being mailed this week. If any group is interested in a Food or Game Booth and does not receive a letter, please call the Chamber office and request one. We don't want to overlook any organization that wants to participate.

Mayfest '87 will be held Saturday, May 2 at the Park and Community Center and lots of activities are being planned under the supervision of Chairmen Melanie and Donald Wade.

Make plans to be a part of Mayfest '87. Jerry Lloyd has volunteered to chair Clean Up Drive for April. Be a good citizen call Jerry and volunteer to help with the Clean Up Drive. We should have a beautiful spring after all this rain so let's clean up our town and enjoy the lift that comes with looking good.

If you have heard any compliments or good comments about anyone you know, pass it on. You could make someone's day much brighter. If you have heard any bad comments or bad gossip meant to hurt, squelch it. You could ruin someone's reputation for the rest of their life.

Citizens of our little town need to be more cautious about accepting mean gossip as fact. There are a few individuals who actually enjoy hurting others. Don't be a party to this type of contemptible behavior. Be above it, look for good in others and be happy for them.

I believe I've found the missing link between animal and civilized man. It is us.
Dr. Konrad Lorenz

Extension at Home

By Pat Hohensee
County Extension Agent

Mark Tuesday, March 10 on your calendar, because you will want to be part of the Runnels County Agriculture Day. Beginning after lunch and continuing into evening, there will be an impressive series of speakers and activities.

Granted, you ladies may not be interested in the technical aspects of agriculture. But you won't want to miss the program especially designed for you. Review the schedule and make plans to attend as many of the segments that you would like. All of these will take place in the Ballinger High School Home Economics Department.

1 p.m.-Home Decor, Highlighting Quilts—Sherri Carter, Babberwalkie, Fredericksburg, Texas.

1:30 p.m.-Preserving Heritage Quilts and Linens—Sherri Carter, Babberwalkie, Fredericksburg, Texas.

2 p.m.-Baking Like the Professionals—Betsey Lehnert, Halfmann Cake Cottage, San Angelo, Texas.

2:30-3:14 p.m.-Break

3:15 p.m.-Farm Family Strengths Through Family Support—Dr. Sandy Maxedon, Psychology Professor, Angelo

State University, San Angelo, Texas

3:45 p.m.-Spinning Our Product-Cotton—Jo Helton, Helton Handspuns, Altus, Oklahoma

4:15 p.m.-Rag Basket Artistry—Jan Hohensee, Coke County Extension Agent-Home Economics, Robert Lee

From 5-7 p.m., time is allowed for supper in the cafeteria and for review of numerous commercial agriculture booths. At 7 p.m., plan to be in the Auditorium for a Grown and Made in the U.S.A. Fashion Show, featuring Sherrie Smith, the 1987 South Plains Maid of Cotton. Local cotton farmers wives will also be showing a line of denim sportswear being manufactured in Abilene by Katherine Stephens.

Key-note speaker, Carolyn Corbin, will address the group following the Fashion Show. Ms. Corbin is a Research Consultant from Dallas and her presentation is entitled: "Strategies 2000: How to Prosper in the New Age".

The days agenda is packed with an array of enlightening programs you won't want to miss, stated Patricia Hohensee, County Extension Agent-H.E.

Economics, has put together a wonderful program for you and we do hope you'll take some time off to attend the Ag Day. While the men are hearing the latest technical information in the afternoon session, the following speakers will present information to you:

—Home Decor, Highlighting Quilts— Sherri Carter Babberwalkie, Fredericksburg, Texas

—Preserving Heritage Quilts and Linens— Sherri Carter Babberwalkie, Fredericksburg, Texas.

—Baking and Decorating Hints for the Homemaker— Betsey Lehnert, Halfmann Cake Cottage, San Angelo, Texas.

—Farm Family Strengths Through Family Support— Dr. Sandy Maxedon, Angelo State University, San Angelo, Texas.

—Clouds of Cotton— Jo Helton, Helton Handspuns, Altus, Oklahoma.

—Rag Basket Artistry— Jan Hohensee, Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Robert Lee, Texas.

You are welcome to attend whichever presentations appeal to you.

Displaying Their Best! Seed, chemical and equipment dealers will have booths set up displaying their best products. Representatives will be there to answer your questions. Booth visitation will be scheduled throughout the afternoon and prior to the meeting beginning at noon.

In addition to these booths, a sock knitting demonstration will be conducted by the Textile Research Center in Lubbock.

Election Day

The uniform delayed planting date for cotton will be determined at the Ag Day by producer vote. Producers who wish to express an opinion and or vote should be present from 4:15 - 5 p.m.

Joan Schaefer has been going through leaf litter samples for the past three weeks looking for overwintering boll weevils. The number of live weevils found in samples this winter has been higher than we've ever found before. This really is no surprise considering the wet September, extended harvest and mild winter.

Since the number of weevils that survived the winter is unusually high, the beneficial effects of the uniform planting date will be more important than in previous years when we've experienced very high weevil pressure. Tom Fuchs will be addressing this problem at the Ag Day and you'll want to hear his comments before you vote.

If you want to have a say in this year's uniform delayed planting date, BE THERE AND VOTE!

Mmmmm, Good!

The supper will be catered by Randy McGowan's of San Angelo. The seed, chemical and equipment dealers will be paying for most of meal so cost will only be $2 a plate. Randy always does a good job, so expect a delicious meal!

Made and Grown in the USA A natural fibers fashion show featuring Sherrie Smith, the 1987 South Plains Maid of Cotton, will begin at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. Area cotton farmers wives will also be showing garments from the Made and Grown in the USA line manufactured by Katherine Stephens of Abilene. Isn't it refreshing to see our cotton products being promoted as a fashion essential?

Grand Finale Carolyn Corbin, research consultant from Dallas, Texas, will be discussing the views expressed in her Top Ten Best Seller Book, Strategies 2000: How to Prosper in the New Age. Ms. Corbin is very knowledgeable agriculture and will present how ag producers need to adjust to our changing economy to survive. She is a delightful, upbeat speaker you'll enjoy.

Cook with low-fat dairy products If you're already drinking skim milk to cut calories, you can save even more by cooking with other low-fat dairy products. According to Dr. Alice Hunt, yogurt can be substituted in just about any dish that calls for sour cream.

Cottage cheese also makes a good substitute for ricotta cheese and sour cream in casseroles. For sauces,

Carolyn Corbin to highlight Ag Day

Internationally known research consultant, Carolyn Corbin is set to highlight the 1987 Runnels County Agriculture Day in Ballinger March 10. Ms. Corbin is president of Dallas-based Carolyn Corbin, Inc., an international research and consulting firm which produces seminars for major corporations.

The one day affair which is set to start at 1 p.m. at the Ballinger High School is to bring area farmers up-to-date on some of the latest in agricultural developments. The program is sponsored by the Runnels County Crops Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Ms. Corbin is set to round out the program at 7:45 p.m. Her topic, "Strategies 2000" is designed to give farmers insight on how to prosper in the new age economics. She is the author of the number one business bestseller, Strategies 2000: How to Prosper in the New Age. The national impact of the book has put her in the media spotlight where she has been featured by major TV affiliates and numerous nationally known print outlets.

Ms. Corbin is keenly aware of the plight of the American farmer and says that agriculture and the communities that support it will face great transitional changes in the next 15 years. She says that those in agriculture who will prosper during this time are those who are innovative in crop production, use of rangeland, marketing, promotion, and the ability to find a "niche" for products and services.

Allen Turner, Runnels County Extension Agent and a program coordinator, said planners for the program have put not only an impressive slate of speakers together, but also have on tap a wide array of commercial booths featuring the latest in agricultural products and technology.

Prior to Ms. Corbin's presentation, participants will hear updates on topics ranging from new herbicides, the barked cotton problem, and chemical safety. Two special topics addressed will be cotton production in Russia and a futuristic look at agriculture in the year 2001.

Concurrent to the afternoon agricultural program will be a ladies program featuring presentations on home decor, preserving quilts, professional baking, farm family strengths through family support, hand-spinning cotton and rag basket artistry.

Following a catered supper and booth visitation, participants will be treated to a fashion show featuring natural fibers. In addition, an awards presentation is set with a major highlight being the naming of the Runnels County Extension Farm Family of the Year.

At the conclusion of the awards presentation, Ms. Corbin's talk will conclude the day's program.

For further information contact the Runnels County Extension Office at 915/365-2219.

"By substitution low-fat dairy products, dieters can get the nutrients and calcium they need without adding extra calories," says the nutritionist.

The reason there are so few good talkers in public is that there are so few thinkers in private.

1987 Farmers Home Emergency Loans tied to crop insurance

Farmers seeking disaster emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) for 1987 losses will need to have crop insurance if it is available, FmHA State Director, J. Lynn Futch said.

"All family-size farmers should be aware that a newly-effective provision of the 1985 farm bill prohibits our making emergency loans for crop losses that could have been insured under multiple-peril crop insurance programs sponsored by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC)," said Futch.

"Therefore I urge every family-size farmer in the State of Texas to seriously take into account this new relationship between insurance coverage and emergency-loan eligibility."

Federally-subsidized multiple-peril crop insurance is now available for all wheat, corn, barley, grain sorghum, oats, upland cotton and rice, plus an additional 35 specialty crops in most growing areas. The government subsidy reduces worthwhile option to consider regardless of the newly-required tie-in with emergency loan eligibility.

If a farmer obtains the insurance required, and if the value of his crop loss is still 30 percent or more after the insurance payment, the operation will be eligible for consideration for an emergency loan.

Effective in January, the new requirement will affect crops planted in 1987, and this will not affect winter wheat or other winter-seeded crops planted in 1986 and harvested in 1987. Insurance must be multiple-peril, covering most forms of disaster, rather than hail-only.

The closing date for insurance sales on spring-planted crops in the State of Texas will vary. Closing date for insurance sales in the coastal and South Texas areas is February 15; East Texas and Blackland areas is March 31; and the Rolling Plains and High Plains areas is April 15. Because of these dates and the fact that a prevented-planting endorsement for eligible crops must be elected 45 days prior to sales closing, Futch urged farmers to contact their local insurance agents promptly.

Information is also available at FCIC field offices and through most county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Extension Service has ties with Vet facilities

Because the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has frontline contacts with livestock owners and others in the animal industry, it provides a linkage between animal health problems in the field and referrals to Veterinary Teaching Hospital and the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory of the Texas A&M University System. County Extension agents and local veterinarians are contacts for producers and help with educational programs in animal health and disease prevention. The veterinary hospital and diagnostic lab are learning centers that deal with many animal health cases from over the state.

which shall be equivalent to two percent (2%) of the gross receipts received by the Company from sale of gas to its domestic and commercial consumers within the corporate limits of said City (expressly excluding, however, receipts derived from sales to industrial and governmental users in said City) for the preceding calendar quarter, and on or before thirty (30) days following each calendar quarter thereafter during the life of this franchise, up to and including the year 2007, a sum of money which shall be equivalent to three percent (3%) of the gross receipts received by Company from the sale of gas to its domestic and commercial consumers within the corporate limits of said City (expressly excluding, however, receipts derived from sales to industrial and governmental users and consumers in said City) for the preceding calendar quarter, which quarterly payment shall be for the rights and privileges herein granted to Company, including expressly, without limitation, the right to use the streets, alleys, and public ways of said City. And it is also expressly agreed that the aforesaid quarterly payment shall be in lieu of any and all other and additional occupation taxes, easement, and franchise taxes, or charges (whether levied as an ad valorem, special, or other character of tax or charge), in lieu of municipal license and inspection fees, street taxes, and street or alley rentals or charges, and all other and additional municipal taxes, charges, levies, fees, and rentals or whatsoever kind and character which City may now impose or hereafter levy and collect, excepting only the usual general or special ad valorem taxes, which City is authorized to levy and impose upon real and personal property. Should City not have the legal power to agree that the payment of the foregoing sums of money shall be in lieu of taxes, licenses, fees, street or alley rentals or charges, easement or franchise taxes or charges aforesaid, then City agrees that it will apply so much of said sums of money paid as may be necessary to satisfy Company's obligations, if any, to pay any such taxes, licenses, charges, fees, rentals, easement or franchise taxes or charges.

In order to determine the gross receipts received by Company from the sale of gas (expressly excluding the sale of gas to industrial and governmental consumers) within the corporate limits of City, Company agrees that on the same date that payments are made, as provided in the preceding paragraph of this Section 9, it will file with the City Clerk a sworn report showing the gross receipts received from the sale of gas to its domestic and commercial consumers within said corporate limits for the quarterly period preceding the date of payment. City may, if it sees fit, have the books and records of Company examined by a representative of said City to ascertain the correctness of the sworn reports agreed to be filed herein.

Receipts from sales to governmental users or consumers shall include all those receipts derived from the sale of gas to federal, state, county or city governments or branches and subdivisions thereof, school districts, or other similar districts, it being the intention to include within the term "governmental users and consumers" all tax-supported institutions owned or operated directly or indirectly by said governments and branches or subdivisions thereof, such as schools, colleges, hospitals, eleemosynary institutions, army or training camps, airports, courthouses, city hall, and other institutions of like or similar kind and character.

"Industrial users or consumer," as herein used, are those generally and commonly classified as such by Company.

The payment herein provided shall be for the period January 1 to December 31 of the respective year that the payment is made.

SECTION 10. When this franchise ordinance shall have become effective, all previous ordinances of said City granting franchises for gas distribution purposes which were held by Company shall be automatically cancelled and annulled, and shall be no further force and effect.

SECTION 11. Company shall file its written acceptance of this franchise ordinance within sixty (60) days after its final passage and approval by said city.

Farm storage fan selection

Farmers who store grain may want to take some time during the "off season" to evaluate their drying operation, including fan selections, says an agricultural engineer with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Storage fan selection should be based on air flow rate and the quantity of grain to be dried. The air flow rate should be sufficient to remove moisture quickly enough from grain to prevent quality deterioration.

Hospice care

Under certain conditions, Medicare hospital insurance can help pay for hospice care for terminally ill beneficiaries, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently. However, the care must be provided by a Medicare-certified hospice.

Hospice patients are subject to special benefit periods, Upp said. Hospital insurance can pay for a maximum of two 90-day periods and one 30-day period.

Covered services include physicians' and nursing services; the cost of medical appliances and supplies, including outpatient drugs for pain relief; home health aide and homemaker services; medical social services; short-term inpatient care, including respite care; and counseling.

Hospital insurance pays part of the cost of outpatient drugs and inpatient respite care and the full cost of all other covered services.

More information about hospice care under Medicare can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

The "trick" is to select a fan that will provide the required quantity of air at the top foot of the grain mass, the point farthest from the equipment.

ADOPT-A-HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Ok Winters and Wingate — we have a job to do in improving the appearance of the highways leading into and out of town!! Other towns and cities throughout the state during the past two years have joined the Texas State Department of Public Highways "ADOPT-A-HIGHWAY PROGRAM", and have done a terrific job in cleaning up litter. We have a highway system in this state that is second to none; therefore, let's keep it clean and beautiful!

Your Chamber of Commerce is pleading with all church, civic, governmental social and other groups to sign up and participate in this program designed to create public involvement to help in the efforts to keep Texas highways free of litter. Through an adoption, an organization will have responsibilities of picking up litter with that section of highway. Responsibilities prescribed by the Highway Department are as follows: The organization will:

—1. Hold a safety meeting with the workers prior to each cycle of work. In this meeting, the workers should be apprised of the hazardous nature of the work which they will be performing.

—2. Develop a functional plan that will influence and encourage the public to improve the appearance of their adopted highway.

—3. Plan a general cleanup of two (2) times a year.

—4. Assist the Department's Maintenance Supervisors in carrying out the plan.

—5. Require workers to wear safety vests provided by the Department and to work only after traffic control signs are in place.

—6. Assist the Department in securing media coverage for the Programs. Other Conditions:

—1. Traffic Control signs will be furnished by the Department and put in place by the Department.

World Day of Prayer to be observed March 6, 1987

Friday, March 6, 1987, is the Centennial Celebration of World Day of Prayer.

Join people of all faiths around the world as they pray together for peace and justice.

—2. Project identification signs will be provided by the Department.

—3. Trash sacks will be furnished by the Department.

—4. Trash sacks will be removed from the highway and carried to solid waste sites by the Department.

If your group is interested in pursuing an adoption of section of highway, please contact the Chamber of Commerce office or one of our directors as soon as possible. We will arrange a meeting of all the groups with the Highway Department's District Maintenance Engineer in order to get this project in high gear. Please talk it up in your group and join this program. We are always bragging that this is "God's Country" and it is — so let's keep it clean!
