We get the darndest things in the mail. You, have no doubt, heard of the official looking letter that says you have won some wonderful, exciting something, or other.

The envelope has official looking instructions for the mail man. Those instructions, if you check with the Post Office, tell the letter carrier to simply throw the letter away.

The real kicker is when you look at the postage—bulk rate.

Well, I got something different today. When I got the envelope opened, there was a real nice looking card with the statement, "I'll bet you didn't know..."

Sure enough, I didn't. And unless you were really into that sort of thing, or you were the consumer relations manager for a manufacturer of bathroom tissue, just how many sheets of the paper were on a roll of bathroom tissue.

This latest bit of propaganda contained some very enlightening information. In 1975 three brands of this paper had 500 sheets, or more. Then in 1981, two of them had more than 400, while a third had 300.

The folks that sent this valuable information sheet claimed that, today, their product had 1,000 sheets.

Now, let us devote some time to some important research. The sheet that these folks are talking about is 4½ by 4½ inches square. It is thin enough to see through, too.

Now a piece of paper that thin and that size is not big enough to blow your nose with, and it is too 'soft' to write on. It must be, however, really something to those folks that make it and sell it.

I just can't find enough time in the day to take a roll of this paper with the polite-sounding name of bathroom tissue and unroll it, count the little square sheets and then roll it back up again.

Rump ribbon is one of those things you don't really think about—until you get to the last sheet.

Enough for this week's insight into the wonders of things that most folks wouldn't ever think about and the supposed hunger of the American public for statistics.

Now on to something a bit more serious and with the tongue out of the cheek.

A number of weeks ago, in this space, we mentioned how our community was really blessed. We mentioned a special relationship between four preachers from as many different denominations.

I have felt a close friendship with these men, as have many others.

The four, a Methodist, a Baptist, a Lutheran, and a Church of Christ preacher, are dedicated to their respective churches and to their communities. Their mutual friendship did much to bring their congregations even closer in the Brotherhood of Man.

In the past few weeks we have learned that two of the four will be leaving our community.

Bill Hooten, of the Church of Christ, and Gary Turner, of the First United Methodist Church, will soon fill the pulpits in different communities.

We will miss these guys. Our lives, however, are much richer because of them. We also know that, for both of them, they are moving much closer to their homes and families.

Bill and his family will be going to Arkansas, very near their home. Gary and Carol and family will also be moving closer to their families.

We will miss them, but we realize that we must also share such friends with the rest of the world.

To both families, we can wish only the best—they have given us their best.

Very special dedication

MayFest '87 was opened Saturday morning with a special ceremony re-naming the Winters City Park Ted Meyer Park in honor of the late Ted Meyer.

Mayor Randy Springer presented a special plaque to Mrs. Meyer and her children, Teresa Patterson and Tim and Mike Meyer.

Winters Council hears request for Police Reserve

Winters Police Chief Ted Galloway appeared before the Winters City Council Monday to ask the council to consider authorizing a reserve police officer program in Winters.

The police chief said that a reserve officer program would provide a supplement to the five full-time police officers in the city, allow for increased patrol activities during week end hours, and give the department more help in keeping overtime hours at a minimum.

Galloway said he was asking for authority to form a 10-man reserve force, but that he would plan on having four, to six, reserve officers at the beginning of the program.

He emphasized that a reserve officer must hold certification from the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards of Education to be considered and, then must undergo an indepth character history search and background by the department.

He also said that before being allowed to go on duty as a reserve officer, the candidate must also undergo training locally.

Chief Galloway said that approximately 440 hours of classroom training are required for the advanced reserve certification, the same as a basic certified police officer.

In his request Galloway told the council that the cost to the city would be minimal and that the reserve force, as proposed, would be strictly volunteer and that the reserve officers would be responsible for their own uniforms and equipment.

The council agreed to study the police chief's request and to again discuss the proposal at the next meeting of the council.

In other business, City Administrator Chuck MacIvaine requested council approval of new rates for the swimming pool at the city park.

The administrator said that the pool will open on May 30 and will be open from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. daily through the summer.

The admission charges at the pool will be $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children under five. The children must be accompanied by an adult.

Also approved were special passes which contain 20 swim tickets at a price of $20.

A special swimming session, for women only, is planned for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. and family sessions on Tuesday and Thursday at the same time.

The council also set the private party rental rate at the pool at $25 per hour.

Sports Banquet set

The 1986-87 Winters High School Sports Banquet will be held Friday, May 8, 1987 in the High School Cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are $5 per person and may be purchased at Springer's Fabrics, Gloria Poehls or any cheerleader.

Card of Thanks

We would like to Thank everybody for sharing their time and also for all the food and flowers that was brought. We would like to express our appreciation to the members of the Catholic Church who served lunch.

Thank you Father John for everything you did for us. Thanks to the Winters Funeral Home.

Thank you again for sharing our time of sorrow.

From the Ortiz Family

sat on what I'm sure was the "Crows Nest." Hortell McCaughan made it OK, but worried for fear she would never get down. We managed by making a human chain, but don't know what would have happened if one had stumbled.

The live wire song director, John Ballard of Lubbock, taught us a theme song to the tune of "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart."

"We're having the time of our life - We're have the time of our life - Tho' the years swiftly fly - and the birthdays hurry by - We're have the time of our life."

Among other things he taught us was to turn to the right and rub the person's back in front of us and then to the left. (This would be good to try in church). He said if we were going to talk Texan there were two things we must learn to say "Howdy pardner," and "Git Along Little Doggie's."

Clower carried it on by saying "I love ya'll because you ain't pessimists and ya'll ain't lazy. He didn't think we would come across the U.S. to a meeting like this if we were lazy and we could agree to that. He also loved us because we didn't look like joggers - he hated little skinny people that jogged and ate yougart, it was just glorified clabber.

There was time for sight seeing on Tuesday afternoon and we drove to the Southwestern Seminary where David toiled to get his degree. It was a well tended 200 acre campus and 14 major buildings with a new library opened in 1982, one of the largest theological research centers in the nation.

Lillian Eubanks had short visits in passing with her sisters, Lois Brooker, of Odessa. We saw her the first time on our way to Fort Worth when both groups stopped at a roadside park to eat lunch. Others in our bus were Billie Whitlow, Jo Olive Hancock, Omega Priddy, Elsie Sanders, Flora McWilliams, Nadeen Smith, Bud and Jimmie Davis.

My Neighbor's Bluebonnets

There is nothing quite like the smell of Bluebonnets. If there is a uniquely Texas fragrance it is the Spring air filled with the pleasant essence of "Parfum de Blue Bonnet".

During the years of purgatory in which I lived outside the state there were many things I missed about Texas. Bluebonnets were close to the top of that list.

One night I was driving from my then home was on the plains of Eastern New Mexico to my boyhood home in the Texas Hill Country.

A chaotic jumble of work related thoughts bounced around in my brain. Suddenly, as if by magic, all those disturbing thoughts were pushed out. Pleasant memories of my childhood flowed in.

It took me a moment to realize the reason for the change. And then it hit me - the nostalgic aroma of Bluebonnets were wafting through the car window!

That smell meant home. Peace. Serenity. Comfort. Familiarity. All those feelings were released by the aroma of a flower.

These words are being written on a Spring day in the living room of my boyhood ranch home - which, through the grace of inheritance, is still my second home. All the doors and windows are open. There is a soft, cool breeze from the Southeast filling the house with the fragrance of Bluebonnets.

I savor the scent. The tranquil tang soothes my soul. I thank God for the gift of the sense of smell and the blue and white buds that gently caress that sense.

And I thank my neighbor to the Southeast. For, you see, those flowers are not on my ranch. They are on my neighbors.

We raise goats. Goats love Bluebonnets. Not for the smell, but for the taste. They are a delicacy in which goats delight.

As a result we have very few Bluebonnets on our place, and none in the small trap around the house where the goats are kept while kidding in the Spring.

However, in the goatless pasture of my neighborhood, just a couple of hundred yards to the South, there is a lush and solid field of blue.

I enjoy Bluebonnets because of my neighbor. Bluebonnets are a beautiful, meaningful part of my life - not because I have them on my property, but because my neighbor has them on his.

I am tempted to wax serene on all the great eternal truths contained in the above thought. However, I shall contain myself to a couple of observations.

One is the realization that I am not reaping what my neighbor has sown. He did nothing to plant or promote the growth of those flowers. They are just a natural part of the land. However, he has done nothing to deter their growth, either. He has not grazed goats. He has not sprayed with herbicides. He has let nature take its course - and I reap the benefits.

Second is the thought that I am sure my neighbor is totally unaware of his gifts to me. He did not consciously say one day, "I bet Ol' Ron would like to smell those Bluebonnets up by my North fence, so I won't do anything to mess them up." No, he is just going about his business of ranching, concerned about what is the best thing for him - which in this case is also a good thing for me.

"Love your neighbor."

My neighbor is fulfilling that Biblical admonition with his Bluebonnets and their fragrance which floats over his fence and into my home.

When the wind blows the other way, I wonder what my neighbor smells?

Multi-Purpose Center says thanks to all their volunteers

National Volunteers Week was celebrated across the U.S.A. last month. In Winters, at the Multi-Purpose Center we understand so well what Volunteerism means to all communities. Without people giving of themselves and their resources there could never be the quality of life we enjoy today. Commitment of people to the needs of the community and fellow-citizens is fantastic in Winters.

We celebrate the Volunteer Fire Department, the Volunteer parents who work at the Little Leagues (Soccer, Baseball, Tee-ball) alive and well for all our benefit. The list of names below reflect only those individuals who have volunteered during the past year at the Winters Multi-Purpose Center. It does not include all the wonderful churches, businesses and clubs who have also contributed.

Without volunteers the Head Start Program, the Community Food Pantry, and the Commodities Program could not have met the needs of the people. We celebrate these individuals—we can't say "Thank You" loud enough. Remember this cheer from your school days: "We're from Winters couldn't be prouder if you can't hear us now we'll yell a little louder" Let's all cheer for the volunteers of Winters this week.

Mother's Day: A cause for celebration

Some mothers would argue that every day should be Mother's Day and perhaps rightfully so. Nonetheless, it is but once a year that we shower our mothers with cards, flowers and gifts as tokens of our appreciation for all they are and do.

Just how did we come to set apart a day to revere motherhood? The idea of officially honoring mothers may be less than 100 years old in the United States, but goes back centuries in others parts of the world. According to The World Book Encyclopedia, ancient civilizations—such as the Greeks, Assyrians and Romans—compared nature's creative powers with those of a mother, because they believed a mother is the source of life.

A day for honoring mothers was observed many years ago in England and in Yugoslavia. In the United States, people began holding their own celebrations in honor of their mothers, but it was Julia Ward Howe in 1872 who made the first known suggestion for an official Mother's Day. In 1907, Anna Jarvis of Grafton, West Virginia and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, began a campaign for a nationwide observance of Mother's Day. By 1912, a delegate from her church introduced a resolution naming her the founder of Mother's Day and the second Sunday in May as the day of observance.

Finally, on May 19, 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed a joint resolution of Congress recommending the government's recognition of Mother's Day. This led to the proclamation in 1915 of the national observance of Mother's Day each Spring.

This Mother's Day (Sunday, May 10) why not take time out to recognize the vital roles mothers play in our lives. There is perhaps no group more deserving of our appreciation.

Hats-off to all the winners of the tennis, softball and volleyball tournaments. They played long and hard. We had fun with the Hog-Calling Contest and we thank the contestants and the winners. Also to "Miss Piggy" The Pet Show is a highlight for the kids and we thank everyone involved. Kids also enjoyed the gunny sack race and the egg toss. Thank you goes out to everyone who helped make it fun. We had a big crowd in our bubble-gum blowing contest young and old. Hope they had fun. Washer Toss and Horsehoe Pitching is growing each year. We hope the winners this year will be back to defend their titles.

The park was filled with fun, entertainment, and excitement. If you did not join us this year we invite you next year to join in the fun.

Senior Centers to be lauded in May

Texas over the age of 60 and the senior centers that sponsor many programs and activities in their behalf have been honored by Governor Clements in proclamations designating May as older Texans Month and May 10-16 as Senior Center Week.

Clements, in his older Texans Month proclamation, called today's seniors "Our mentors, the standards by which we judge our own endeavors" and noted that "without their guidance, the state of Texas could never have achieved its present stature."

In lauding the state's more than 500 senior centers, Clements observed that these centers are the focal points for provision of social services funded by the Older Americans Act of 1965 and administered by the Texas Department of Aging. These services include meals, transportation, health screening, exercise and educational activities.

"Senior centers are unique, valuable assets that deserve our support at the state, local and individual levels," Clements said. "We who have benefitted so richly from the wisdom, love and hard work of older Texans can find no better way to express our appreciation than continued support of the Texas senior center network."

Many communities, area agencies on aging and senior centers have planned special activities to commemorate Older Texans Month and Senior Center Week. Group and individual visits to senior centers are also being suggested as a way to celebrate Senior Center Week.

For the address of your local area agency on aging or nearest senior center, contact the Texas Department on Aging a 1-800-252-9240.

Memo from the Chamber

Thanks to all the volunteers and the attenders we had a great Mayfest. Read all about it in another article in the paper.

Since last week, two more organizations have joined the Texas Highway Department's "Adopt-A-Highway" Program. They are the Junior Luther League and the Main Street Church of Christ Youth Group. We hope this worthwhile program continues to grow, not only for the beautification, but also to help our state save money!!

Our town was well represented Monday, May 4th at the Texas Department of Agriculture's opening of a satellite office in Abilene and their joint participation with Larry Lee of Bronte of a buffalo barbecue. Over a dozen businessmen, farmers/ranchers, Winters area Chamber of Commerce members and city government personnel attended the affairs. Our TDA is certainly working to help the agriculture section to diversify and broaden their income potential.

The Chambers next big event will be the BASS CLASSIC on JUNE 6th at our lake. Entry blanks are being submitted to the Chamber and we encourage all interested parties to submit theirs before the 60 slots are filled. First prize will be $500 and the 2nd through 10th place will receive gift certificates or merchandise prizes. There will be many out of town people visiting us that weekend so let's give them a big welcome.

Topics to be discussed is the use of A.I. and estrus synchronization. The primary speaker will be Mr. Andy Vestal, County Extension Agent in Crosby County, who has been instrumental in developing an outstanding cattle improvement program in Crosby County. This program will be an excellent opportunity for small to mid size beef producers to explore ways they can develop a high quality herd of cattle.

KOW KANDY

Cattle show a grazing preference for KOW KANDY because its high protein and sugar levels enhance its palatability. KOW KANDY is a superior multi-purpose sorghum-sudangrass for spring and summer production. This excellent forage crop, with its sweet, juicy stalk and abundant succulent leaves is a very palatable and nutritious livestock feed. It produces excellent results when used for pasture, green chop or hay production, and when fed in large or conventional bales. Fast and abundant regrowth make KOW KANDY a maximum TDN producer. Its rapid regrowth and drought tolerance enable this superior hybrid to produce several cuttings per season.

Proper Insulation!

Keep the cool air you've paid for inside of your house. Consider installing insulation as support for your hard-working air conditioning unit. Insulation comes in Caulking and Weatherstripping!

If you check all windows and doors and install weatherstripping and caulking where needed, you will save on both cooling and heating costs. Just think, an almost invisible 1/4" gap at the base of a standard 36" wide outside door is equal to a nine-inch hole in the side of your house! Close that gap with easy-to-install felt or foam rubber products which draft-proof doorways.

Blizzard Band to attend festival

The Winters Blizzard Band will attend the Sandy Lake Band Festival, Saturday, May 9th.

They will also enjoy a visit to Six Flags.

Regional Tennis Tournament results

Melisa Poehls and Tami Belew defeated Ozona 6-4, 6-4 in opening round action. They then faced Hart in quarterfinals and again prevailed 6-4, 6-4. This win brought Melisa and Tami to the semifinals and a match versus the #1 seeded team from Memphis. A win would mean a trip to Austin to play for the state championship; a loss would mean playing for 3rd place and an alternate position in Austin.

Memphis was returning to the regional semifinals for the third consecutive year and undoubtedly their experience proved to be the difference. Melisa and Tami played very good tennis, however Memphis played excellent tennis and won 6-1, 6-4.

It was very hard to find words to console these two fine young ladies in this time of disappointment but they certainly had earned the respect of their families, fans and opposition.

Still numb from the heart-breaking loss to Memphis we played very good but uninspired tennis and dropped the match for 3rd place by a close score of 7-6, 6-4 to a team from Reagan County. All of us who enjoyed watching Melisa and Tami play this year would like to thank them for a great season and wish them luck in the future.

Halfmann, who is also a top ranking student in his graduating class, is a member of the National Honor Society and the student council. Halfmann was also active in the Texas Association of Future Educators, football captain, band president, senior class president, and participated in basketball and golf.

These three seniors are among more than 300 distinguished high school students who have been awarded Carr Academic Scholarships for 1987-88. The recently concluded process will result in a total approximately 1,000 scholarship awards for the next year.

Cheryle Powers inducted into National Honor Society

Cheryle Dawn Powers, a junior at San Angelo Central High School, was inducted into the National Honor Society April 27, 1987.

She is the daughter of Rita Powers of San Angelo and Jerry Powers of Winters.

Cheryle is the granddaughter of L. B. and Mary Watkins and Jack and Sue Powers, all of Winters.

After the ceremony a banquet was held for the students, friends and family.

Area students win Carr scholarships

The extensive scholarship program is made possible through funds provided by the Robert G. and Nona K. Carr Scholarship Foundation. Carr Academic Scholarships are awarded annually to approximately 1,000 undergraduate and graduate students who enroll at Angelo State. The scholarships may be renewed annually until graduation for qualified students who maintain exemplary academic and personal records.

Now in its seventh year, the Carr Academic Scholarship Program has provided over $7 million in academic scholarships since the 1981-82 academic year. Awards are based on the student's outstanding academic records and personal achievements.

Wheeler, who currently ranks first in her graduating class, is a member of the student council and the National Honor Society. Wheeler was also active in the flag corps as captain, the Teachers Association of Future Educators, the jazz band, editor of the annual staff, and participated in U.L.L. one-act play.

Traylor, who is a top ranking student in her graduating class, is a member of the National Honor Society and the student council. Traylor was also active in the marching and concert bands, U.L.L. typing, band ensemble, spelling, and the one-act play, program chairman for the Texas Association of Future Educators, and elected F.F.A. Queen, Glacier Queen, and Band Sweetheart.
