Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

In the newspaper from Coleman last week there was a letter to the editor that was called to my attention. Reading that letter got my attention.

Having known those paper folks in Coleman for most of 40 years, I have no question about what they say. The same is just about true about the author of the letter.

I have not, however, had time to get on the horn to the state capitol to ask any questions, but I will. Here is the letter-Dear Editor:

So many ranchers and property owners don't know the terrible water bills that are being considered in Austin. They are trying to take away our privileges as landowners and turning them over to the public. Gary Mauro is sponsoring these.

These bills will allow anyone to come on your land to fish and hunt. There would be no hunting or fishing leasing by the landowner. It would all be public domain. This has already passed in some states.

The bills are H.B. No. 1205 and H.B. 850 and S.B. 702.

Write Rep. Jim Parker and Senator Grant Jones to vote against these. Don't wait too late!

Becky Hucabee. Circle Cowbelles Coleman, Texas

Now wait a minute-If all this is true, brother Mauro is looking for a job somewhere else. Mauro is elected by the voters of this state and, if he is pushing for something like this, he can get un-elected, too. If there are some legislators (lawmakers) and elected officials that are wanting to make privately owned land public domain, they can darn well pay the taxes on the land. If they are going to dance, they are going to have to pay the fiddler.

While we are talking about legislation, how about the speed limit?

The reason for lowering the speed limit was because of an alleged fuel shortage. The reason was changed when the price of gas reached about $1 per gallon and then, due to some wonderful twist of fate, was found to be in abundance. They said the slower speed saved lives - maybe so.

Statistics can be twisted to tell anyone anything.

Well, back at the ranch, the guys in Washington have upped the limit to 65-in some areas. To try and figure just when and where you can drive what speed may soon require a college degree, or a seat in Congress.

Now talking about Congress, and we now have to include the big-time news media, all this todo about the sale of arms to one country and the proceeds from the sale being diverted to another country and who done it, is getting to be a pain.

Those big-time news guys have really messed up the soap operas with their "live coverage" of special committees investigating all those folks that might, in some small way, had something to do with what ever.

Then there are the speeches about who knew about it and who didn't, who is to blame and who isn't, and so on. Then there are the big-time news guys trying to impress us all with their intelligence by explaining what some important somebody had just told us in plain English.

I think that I called that an insult to our intelligence one time-I think I was right on that

It seems like that everybody that is anybody - or wishes they were - is looking for some big cover-up about something.

They are looking for publicity and the news-guys are trying to make their star a bit bigger and brighter.

Oops. Did I call those news guys stars? Sorry about that. They just think they are.

The incident resulted in an indictment for possession of a prohibited weapon on premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

A short time after the shooting incident in the liquor store, officers stopped a car on the Brownwood highway, east of Ballinger and took Powers into custody. His bond was set at $25,000 on that charge.

The Death Of A Mother

Mother's Day is designed to remind us of our Mothers. As I remembered my Mother I recalled something I had written over 22 years ago. I would like to share it with you.

On Sunday, March 7, 1965, at 11 p.m. I stood by a hospital bed and watched the body which had brought my body into the world breath its last. After six long years the terrible disease had shriveled and drawn the body into an S shape-ironically symbolic of the suffering which the body

At the comparatively young age of 57 my Mother, had endured.

Bessie Bell Birk, was dead. In the days that followed-as friends and relatives gathered to honor her memory, as her body was laid to rest in the earth, as we made arrangements for the things which she had left behind-I had a lot of time to think about death.

There was no question but that the death, and the suffering which had caused it, were basically evil things. They were definetly NOT the will of God. However, God, (through his power and love, had taken these bad things and worked good through

The long days of confinement and suffering had caused my Mother to turn from dependence upon material things to dependence upon things spiritual.

My Father became a very concerned, loving, unselfish husband.

Countless people in the community were inspired by the actions and attitudes of these two people, so that they were strengthened to face their own trial and tribulations.

The death itself freed my Mother from her physical pain and released her family from their mental and emotional torment.

It caused others to examine their lives in the light of their own eventual death.

The funeral service witnessed to the comfort, hope, and joy which Christiani ty can provide in the face of life's greatest enemy, death.

It was an evil sickness, a terrible death-but through it all God worked good to all involved. Many lives were blessed through this suffering and death.

It seems significantly appropriate that such a death occured during Lent.

Call Deli fish in farm ponds

The month of May is the most popular time of year for landowners to stock fish in farm and ranch ponds. According to Carl Smith of the Soil Conservation Service in Ballinger, now is a good time to consider fish stocking for hours of recreational fishing and good eating in the months and years ahead.

The good rains of the past 12 months have filled most stock ponds in Runnels County to near capacity says Smith. For those ponds that had dried up and are now full, and for brand new ponds, stocking can proceed immediately. For ponds that may already have fish populations, restocking should only be done after the existing fish are killed with rotenone.

Most ponds in Runnels County being less than an acre are best suited to catfish production says Smith.

Catfish ponds can be managed in two ways: 1) stock 500 to 1000 fingerlings per acre when fish will be fed daily with commercial catfish feed; or 2) stock 100 fingerlings per acre plus one to two pounds of fathead minnows for forage when catfish will not be fed or fed only occasionally. Many ponds in Runnels County are between 1/4 and 1/2 acre, so stocking rates should be reduced accordingly. Catfish fingerlings should be stocked only in ponds that do not have an existing bass population. If bass are present in a pond, then at least eight inch catfish should be stocked to minimize predation.

The fathead minnow is a slow swimming forage fish that catfish readily eat once the catfish reach one pound. Fatheads are very prolific and can be encouraged to reproduce with the addition of spawning devices. Fatheads can spawn over 10 times within a year. Since fatheads lay egg masses on the underside of floating or underwater objects, minnow production can be increased by floating boards or submerging tin roofing or tires in shallow water.

Whether catfish are fed naturally or with commercial feed, they will grow from fingerling size to frying sizeabout 14 inches in the first year. Catfish are among the most efficient converters of food to meat in the animal kingdom. They are known to convert 1-1/2 to 2 pounds of feed into one pound of gain. Catfish are easily produced in most ponds and can provide lots of sport and good eating.

Only those ponds over one acre in size are well suited to bass production. Futhermore, bass are more difficult to manage and will produce less per acre than will catfish. A good bass population is totally dependent on a very high producing forage fish population. It requires about eight pounds of forage fish to produce one pound

Time for stocking Retired Teachers held meeting

Delegates of the Retired Teachers Units of District XV met in Brownwood Friday, May 1 in the Activity Center of the of gain in bass. This means that a five pound bass has consumed 40 pounds of forage or about 600 average sized bluegill. As you can see, a pond must produce large quantities of small forage fish to sustain even a small population of bass. Bluegill sunfish are considered about the best bass forage for ponds in this area. Other sunfish species, hybrid sunfish and crappie should not be put into ponds managed for bass, since they compete with bass for the same food items.

Bass fingerlings should be stocked at 50 per surface acre. Bluegill can most economically be stocked with 30 adult fish per acre. If adults are not available, 500 fingerling bluegill should be stocked. Fathead minnows stocked at one or two pounds per acre will provide food for small bass. Catfish, 6-8 inches can be stocked with bass and bluegill in these larger ponds if desired.

More detailed stocking information, as well as information on pond fertilization, weed control, and proper pond management is abailable through the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District and the Ballinger SCS

First Baptist Church on Austin Avenue for their Drive-In Workshop.

Present were 69 delegates with greater representation in units from Stephenville, Comanche, Coleman, Brownwood and San Angelo-than in some county, or distant units. The Runnels County Unit was represented by Mrs. Eula Mae Kruse, president of the Runnels County Retired Teachers Unit; Mr. N. T. Gault of Miles, vice president; and Miss Lola Eubank, chairman of the Community Participation Committee.

Mrs. Mina Green of Brownwood, president of District XV presided during the first session and welcomed all who came. She also recognized Mrs. Gladys Neu, president of TRTA, and Dr. Lloyd Bell, representative of the American Association of Retired Persons. Mrs. Neu addressed the assembly with regard to the TRTA program and its aims and efforts to secure that legislation in the best interests of all of us. She emphasized the importance of expanded membership to include all retired teachers of Following a brief recess in which time coffee and doughnuts were served delegates went into Special Interest groups. These were the Legislative, Membership, Program, Preretirement, Community Participation, and Informative and Protective Services - each having an able leader, a consultant, and a recorder.

At the noon hour, a most delicious meal was served by those in charge of the kitchen and dining facilities of the Activity Center. Tables were made beautiful by bouquets of bluebonnets and bluebells in vases sitting in straw hats to provide the theme of spring. Placemats were paper, printed to appear as old-time samplers of fine stitchery of spring flowers at sunrise; and the message; "Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it to themselves."

The afternoon session began at 12:45 p.m. A recorder from each of the Special Interest Sneed and Virginia Schwartz. groups gave a report of what had been discussed in these meetings. Dr. Lloyd Bell made the Executive Director's report. Mr. Russell Sayers gave the delegates an up-dated our TRS-Care Insurance program. The Installation of our elected District XV officers was conducted by Mrs. Ruth Dodson.

During the business hour, Mrs. Green presided over an Awards Ceremony. Closing remarks were made by Mrs. Neu and Mrs. Green.

The Meeting was adjourned at 2:30 p.m.

For members of the Runnels County Retired Teachers Association were seven Awards of Distinction which will be presented to the honored persons at the June 8 meeting. The are:

Texas officials today, May 7, 1987, called on Texas Governor Bill Clements not to limit the number of bids for the Superconduting Super Collider (SSC) to only one site.

In initiating a letter to Gov. Clements, congressman Charles Stenholm and Congressman Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) cited legislation recently passed by the Texas State Senate. The state bill limits to one the number of SSC sites the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission will recommend to the Department of Energy (DOE). "The Department of Energy has not placed a limit on the number of site proposals a state can offer, and we see no pressing reason for Texas to restrict itself to one," the letter stated. A bill passed by the Texas House later agreed with the Congressmen's letter and also called for more than one site recommendation.

The letter, cosigned by 13 members of the Texas Congressional delegation, stated, "In giving DOE a choice of sites, Texas multiplies its chances of being chosen as the home-state of the SSC. Illinois used this tactic in its bid for Fermilab, and their efforts were successful; Illinois of fered DOE two sites, and the Department chose the second.

"Given the vast land re sources of Texas and our various centers of learning and research, I think we would be making a serious mistake to limit our selves to submitting just one site," said Congressman Stenholm. "The most important thing to keep in mind is to get the project in Texas. We will have better odds if we have more than one entry. Texas has far too much to offer for this single-entry approach, and l think we need to bear in mind that other states are not limiting themselves in this fashion."

Congressman Combest, who represents the 19th Congressional District, said, "It is unfair and politically unwise to limit the super collider bids to only one site. Texas runs the risk of limiting itself out of the competition.
