About this time a year ago, we were deeply concerned about the future of our hospital.

Medicare inspectors from the Texas Department of Health had just departed, they said that our hospital would face decertification which would mean that it would no longer be approved by Medicare.

Members of the hospital board, hospital administration officials and employees, doctors, and many concerned neighbors contacted elected officials in Austin and Washington D.C. seeking relief from the unfavorable findings made by that inspection team.

An unprecedented extension was given the hospital to correct the alleged problems and bring itself into compliance. At a cost of tens of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers of the hospital district, everything was fixed and the hospital was back into compliance with the volumes of rules and regulations.

This week, we can be proud of our hospital and everyone connected with it. We passed the inspection.

There were three minor problem areas found to be lacking by the inspectors.

I know that those folks at the hospital were hoping, and looking, for a perfect report from the inspection team. The three problems that were found took some of the elation out of a passing grade.

Perhaps our hospital folks were disappointed. Perhaps, though, the inspectors had to find something not quite right in order to save face and to justify their jobs.

After all, a lot of noise was raised last year about the inconsistent procedures of the inspection team, those folks just may have been under some pressure to do a better and more fair job in their inspection here.

If they had just blown through and we got a good passing grade, it could look to many like they had really felt the political pressure.

Besides all that, they probably felt that they had to do something to let their bosses know they were doing their jobs.

Quite a few small, rural hospitals in the state felt the sting of the inspectors during the past year and have had to close their doors. We were fortunate.

Our hospital administrator and the board members elected to bring the problems into the open and to confront their accusers.

You can bet that many hospitals and their officials were watching this year's visit and the results.

There are still many areas in which these inspections are not consistent, not all hospitals are inspected the same—or as rigidly.

If some of the other small hospitals in the area were forced to undergo the same exact inspection our hospital has been subjected to during the past two years, they would have been forced to close.

Their Medicare funds would be cut off or the hospitals would not have been in a financial position to meet the irregular standards.

Well done

Winters firemen were called late Friday night to a truck fire on U. S. 83, about eight miles north of Winters. The local firefighters were assisted by firemen from Tuscola at the scene.

A large cattle truck had caught fire, apparently due to blow-outs on tires on the trailer.

By the time firemen could arrive and extinguish the intense fire, at least nine head of cattle had perished in the heat and smoke.

Firefighters, law enforcement officials, and others worked until almost daylight Saturday in rounding up the cattle from the truck and in clearing the burned trailer from the roadway.

Winters Blizzards clean Roscoe's plow 7-6

The Winters Blizzards took to the field with a purpose Friday evening as they hosted the Roscoe Plowboys. The Blizzards were 0-1 going into the game Friday and when the final whistle blew, the Blue Crew had evened up the season at 1-1.

Head Coach Dan Slaughter said that the Blizzards played the first half of the game as good as they had ever played with the offense racking up 11 first downs as they rushed for 125 yards and a touch down with one extra point.

The Blizzard defensive squad took the lead from the offensive team and held the Plowboys to a grand total of six yards rushing in the first half and only one first down.

In their only long play of the game, Roscoe mounted an offensive play that left them in the end zone with six points. The Blizzard defense foiled the Plowboy's attempt at for two extra points and ended the half with the score 7-6.

With excellent showings offensively and defensively, the Blizzards single touchdown can be attributed to three turnovers and four penalties keeping them out of scoring territory.

Coach Slaughter said that the Blizzards were unable to keep up with the pace they set in the first half of the game and, as a result, were not as impressive in the last half.

With their season now at 1-1, the Blizzards will go on the road this week as they travel to Hamlin to meet the Pied Pipers.

Hamlin is also 1-1 on the season, having been faced with two really tough teams to get their season underway.

Coach Slaughter said that this year's version of the Pied Pipers are big, 220 to 230 pounds on the line. The coach said, however, that Hamlin lacks the speed they have had in previous years to go with the size.

With the Blizzard being outweighed by Hamlin, the Blue Crew will have to rely on its

Local youth wins 4-H Fashion Award

Some 107 youth from across Texas demonstrated their sewing or their comparison shopping skills at the Texas 4-H Fashion Show held August 23 in Corpus Christi.

Among the winners in the "Greatest Fashion Show on Earth!" was Diane Kalina, of Miles, who was awarded 2nd place in the Senior Tailored Category.

Diane was also selected as the recipient of the 1st Place Wool Award for which she received 2 dress lengths of 100% wool fabric. That award was from Women's Auxiliary of the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association and also a $200 Savings Bond. She also earned the 1st Place Mohair Award provided by the Mohair Council of America and that award was 3 yards of beautiful red mohair fabric.

"Whether they win a top award or not, all the youth who participate in this show are the greatest," said Patricia Hohensee, county extension agent. "They competed in local and district competitions to get to the state show and represent the best from across the state."

Hohensee said the fashion show is just one of the educational activities of the total 4-H clothing program. Youngsters can participate either by modeling home-sewn garments or by modeling items they bought after comparison shopping.

"In addition to learning sewing or shopping skills, the youth develop poise and grooming skills by modeling in public fashion shows," she said.

This year's state fashion show was held at the Holiday Inn-Emerald Beach in Corpus Christi. Participants were treated to a special luncheon and awarded gifts from a number of sponsors.

Other activities during the three-day event included educational programs on clothing and sea food, a chance to taste regional foods, and a boat tour of Corpus Christi Bay.

Ballinger man dies in Sunday crash

A one car accident northeast of Miles claimed the life of a Ballinger man early Sunday morning.

James Mathew Winchester, 26, was pronounced dead at the scene at 2:20 a.m. by Runnels County Justice of the Peace Dorothy Granzin.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Tom Barkley said Winchester was traveling northeast on U.S. Highway 67 when his 1979 Oldsmobile Cutlass ran off the road and struck a concrete culvert 2.4 miles northeast of Miles.

Winchester's car was discovered about 1:50 a.m., and authorities speculate the accident occurred about 1:45.

Ballinger to host State Championship Pinto Bean Cookoff September 24

Pinto beans have been an important food staple for Texans as long as Texas itself. Yet they still do not seem to get the same notoriety as our State Dish, Chili.

So this year the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce, in Ballinger, Texas is proud to sponsor the State Championship Pinto Bean Cookoff.

The cookoff will be held on September 24, 1988 in the Ballinger City Park. Contestants will compete for trophies and prizes awarded to the top three bean cooking teams as well as for the best cook site. Beans must be cooked on the grounds and will be picked up for judging by 3:30 p.m. Other activities, which include arts and crafts booths, a straight domino tournament, volleyball tournament, washer pitching, and much more, will begin at 10 a.m. In the afternoon there will be contests for tortilla tossers, been spitters, jalapeno eaters, water balloon tossers, tuggers-of-war, and liars. A delicious meal of beans and cornbread will be served that evening at 5:30 p.m. for $2.50 a plate.

Two day show to be held at Z. I. Hale Museum

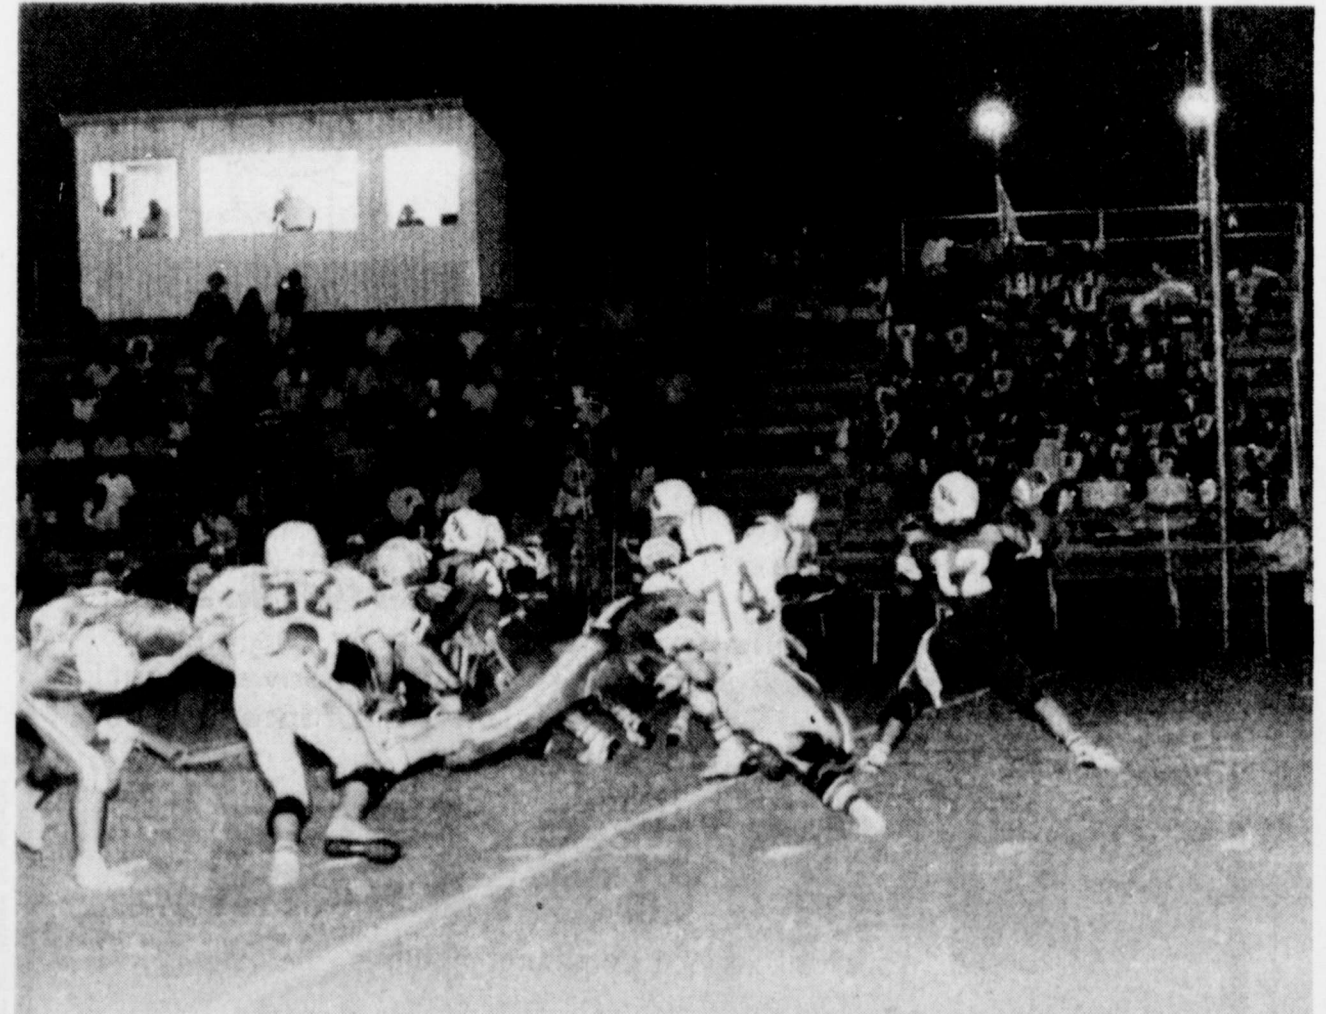

Garland Richards of the Fort Chadbourne Ranch will present a two day show at the Z. I. Hale Museum on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

The displays will consist of various items excavated from the old fort grounds: everything from cannon balls to medical supplies. There will also be guns, gun parts and bullets.

The vast amount of memorabilia was uncovered by Dewey Chestnut and Dub Davis with the help of a metal detector.

Richards has spent a lifetime on the ranch, all his 36 years, and wants no other life. He and others on the ranch are exploring all avenues for the restoration of Fort Chadbourne. He is the grandson of C. H. Wylie and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Richards live in Ballinger.

Following the museum open house, the Runnels County Historical Commission will hold their regular bi-monthly business meeting, at the museum with Neuman Smith, Chairman, presiding.

Looking for yardage in the air

Blizzard Quarterback Chris Rives, 12, has his receiver in sight as Winters held the Roscoe Plowboys to only six yards rushing and one first down in the first half and the Blizzards tallied 11 first downs and 125 yards rushing and one touchdown and the PAT.

Crews
 By Hilda Kurtz

The Lord gave us two ends — one to sit on and the other to think with. Success—depends on which one we use most.

 Congratulations to Heath, son of Brenda and Fred Watkins, who's name was drawn Sunday at the Germanfest in the Winters Community Center for the beautiful star quilt.
 Our sympathy goes out to Pat and Earl Cooper, their family and other relatives due to the death of Earl's mom, Gracie Cooper, who was buried Wednesday in the Crews Cemetery.
 Before Gracie and Cobert moved from their farm North of Winters, they lived out her in the Eagle Branch Community.
 Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion spent part of Saturday and had dinner with the Rodney Faubion family.
 Honoring John McGallian on his 12th birthday Thursday with dinner at the Peachtree Restaurant in Winters were: S. J. and Helen Brevard of Coleman, Nila and Therin Osborne, Karen, Wesley, Stefanie and the honoree John McGallian, and another supper for John and Louise Osborne Saturday night in the home of his grandparents, Nila and Therin Osborne. Others who came were: Sue Campbell, Viola Foster and the Wesley McGallians.
 Many more of these nice birthday suppers John and you too Louise. Happy Birthday!
 Enjoying a fish supper with Chester McBeth Saturday night were his son, Dennis and Audine McBeth, of Midland, and Mrs. Mable White of Tuscola.
 Ruth Pape and her mother, Leona Hicks, took a drive to Bronte where they ate dinner at the Vaquero Cafe, afterwards to Robert Lee and the Hylton Communities, where they had lived, and on to Blackwell.
 Lawan and Coleman Foreman were in Lamesa Thursday on business, also visited with Bill Cozart and the O. M. Archers, one time neighbors. Before coming home drove to the cemetery to place flowers on her parent's graves.
 Recent Labor Day Doris and Marion entertained around 40 friends and relatives starting the dove season. Olval Mathews, Odessa, came by Sunday.
 ing faces at the other riders. To their chagrin the soldiers learned that this was not just a fluke; as Malaquetop had just beaten the Kickapoos out of 600 ponies. This had been a small operation for the Comanches.

with a shaggy, miserable looking mustang. The officers were so disappointed that they put up their third best horse against the mustang. To their further surprise the Comanches were anxious to bet robes and other possessions on the race. The Indian jockey weighed about 175 pounds and looked like he could carry the horse. By beating the pony with a club the warrior was able to get the mustang to outrun the soldier's horse. This upset the officers and they immediately proposed another race against their second best horse.
 The Indian Chief, Malaquetop, was not willing to race, but after much dickering the soldiers were able to convince the Indian to race again. The second race was a duplicate of the first race with the mustang winning by a neck. The officers finally offered a race with their prize Kentucky thoroughbred mares. The Comanches accepted more readily this time and piled everything that they could on the race.
 The officers responded in kind for the mare was known to beat all comers by at least 40 yards in a 400 yard race. This time the Indian threw away the club and with a wild yell left his opponent far behind, adding insult to injury, the Comanche rode the last part of the race backwards making

When Garland Richards came to the Z. I. Hale Museum to make arrangements for setting up his show of artifacts from Ft. Chadbourne he also brought a collection of stories that had been compiled for him by Harold Johnson of San Angelo. They are actual events that happened at the fort.
Comanche Horse race
 Fort Chadbourne was also one of the stops for the Butterfield Overland Mail. Most of the trapper's time was spent protecting the route from Indians. Hostile Indians often camped in full view of the fort in those early days on occasions the Indians would go about the fort begging for food.
 The women and children were often wearing captured clothes from white people. Blood stains were still visible in some cases. One day a chief rode across the parade ground with a lance. From the lance fluttered long brown and blond scalps, obviously from white women.
 When another Comanche band camped near the fort one of the sub-chiefs was challenged by the officers of the fort to a horse race. Some of the officers had thoroughbred horses from back east and were sure of an easy win; after several days the soldiers persuaded the Indians to race. The Indians showed up

Helen, Harold and Mike Bragg came for a visit with Hazel Mae and Russel Bragg. J. R. Lacy of Bloomdale, New Mexico and S. K. and Skeet Flat of Paris, Texas were with Pat and Earl Cooper this past week.
 After Harvey Mae Faubion's dentist appointment Tuesday, Noble and Harvey May visited in the Bill and Opal Hamilton home in Winters. On Sunday Walter Pape and Gladys Cotton came and Amantina Faubion spent Friday.
 Dee Bnea Baker's niece, Dana Priddy, of Coleman spent the weekend.
 Week Day of Prayer Program met in the home of Netha Kirby Monday morning.
 Adeline Grissom spent Friday night and Saturday with the Von Byrd family in Abilene. Also got to see her son Steve and family of Ft. Worth while there. The Grissoms also visited her mother, Eva Jolly, in Abilene. Sunday night the Marvin Hoelschers of Ballinger carried Adeline to Bradshaw to a fish supper in the home of Albert Kohutek, around 30 relatives attended.
 The Walter Jacobs and all three of their children and Chester McBeth attended the Germanfest in Winters Sunday.
 Mike and Ronald Hill, Sweet water, and Gary Hill of Eastland, spent the weekend with Claudia and Robert Hill.

Maid of Cotton applicants needed

Is there such a thing as the absolute dream job of a lifetime? Opinions may differ on that subject, but many people would agree that being the 1989 Maid of Cotton is as close as you can get to that fantasy.
 For instance, what kind of job includes six months of international travel, a fashionable all-cotton wardrobe, personal meetings with ambassadors and top government officials all over the world, courtesy calls on senators and congressmen...plus other incentives? Probably not many. But that's exactly what awaits the lucky young woman who'll be chosen in Dallas, December 28-30, as the U.S. cotton industry's goodwill ambassador.
 The National Cotton Council, sponsor of the program, is now accepting applications from qualified young women interested in such an opportunity.
 The new Maid's tour schedule for 1989 promises to be at least as demanding as Maid Angela Herbert's was last year. As the 50th Maid of Cotton, the Phoenix native undertook a busy schedule that included a Capitol Hill reception in her honor, appearances in 35 U.S. cities, a special fashion photography session for Far East magazines, participation in a Korean fashion show that attracted more than 2,000 people, and a highly successful promotional tour of leading department stores in London which included a joint appearance with the U.S. ambassador to Great Britain.
 In addition, Angela had television and newspaper interviews in 10 states. She also assisted Cotton Council International in a seminar at Cheju Island, South Korea, for the major U.S. cotton customers in the Far East.
 Headquarters for this year's selection will be the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas with the finals scheduled at the nearby Majestic Theater. The new Maid will make her first official appearance at the Cotton Bowl on January 2.
 The young woman chosen as the 1989 Maid of Cotton will receive a $10,000 educational award made possible by a grant to The Cotton Foundation from Ciba-Geigy Corporation.
 This year's selection is open to young women between the ages of 19 and 23 who are at least five feet five inches tall, and never have been married. Judging will be based on appearance, poise, personality, and communication skills.
 Application forms are available at National Cotton Council headquarters, P.O. Box 12285, Memphis, Tenn. 38182. Deadline for entries is November 18.

Financial management skills help young couples get ahead

When every penny counts, as it does for an increasing number of young families, knowing something about financial management becomes very important.
 Two recently released studies based on U.S. Census Bureau data have underscored the fact that America's young families are struggling financially.
 According to a report by the Children's Defense Fund, in terms of constant dollars, the income of families with children which are headed by an adult under age 30 fell by about one-fourth between 1973 and 1986.
 Another study from the Economic Policy Group indicated the incomes of young families are growing much more slowly than their parents' incomes did when they were young. For example, the average income of a family headed by someone between 25 and 34 is nine percent lower than a similar family in 1973.
 Nancy Granovsky, a family economics specialist who has been designing educational programs for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service since 1978, said these figures don't surprise her.
 "Most of the skills we taught in the 70's for stretching family budgets to cope with inflation or survive unemployment still apply to young families, even when both spouses work," she said.
 "Today's young families have to spend a higher percentage of their income for housing, medical care and child care than did their parents, which means they have to find ways to economize in other areas."
 Granovsky, who is currently directing a project to teach financial management to young couples in 57 Texas counties as part of a statewide Extension study, said certain skills have become a necessity for couples who want to get ahead.
 "Developing a spending plan and knowing how to use credit is important both for managing the day-to-day family budget and staying out of trouble with a debt overload," she said.
 Although 20 percent of take-home pay, not counting house payments, is considered a safe debt load, Granovsky said many young couples can easily exceed this limit by overusing credit cards.
 "It's also important to have a plan for savings to meet emergencies and future goals, such as a downpayment on a house," the home economist said.
 "Young couples may feel like they don't make enough money to save, when in fact, they can't afford to not save. When every penny of take-home pay is spent and there are no savings, the family is very vulnerable in case of even a minor emergency, like an unexpected car repair or medical bill."
 The specialist said young couples may also realize cost savings by informing themselves and making better consumer decisions about credit card finance charges, auto loans and insurance or food buying.
 The Extension Service offers workshops, publications and study-at-home lessons on basic family financial management. Check with your county Extension office for information on local offerings.

Mrs. Scott Calvert Shortes

Beverly Halfmann and Scott Shortes Wed

Beverly June Halfmann and Scott Calvert Shortes were united in marriage on Saturday, August 27 in Holy Angels Catholic Church in San Angelo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Halfmann of Winters and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Shortes of Andrews.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Seran Braun.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, James Halfmann of Winters. She wore a gown of Alencon lace and taffeta. The high neckline and fitted bodice were adorned with Alencon lace sprinkled with sequins and pearls. Long fitted sleeves formed a point over the hands. A full flowing skirt of taffeta sweeps into a chapel train edged with lace. Applique medallions over cut-outs further enhanced the skirt and train. Adorning her attire was a two-tiered elbow length veil of silk illusion flowing from a floral band of silk flowers and pearl sprigs.

Dental CARE HINTS

Facts from the Princeton Dental Resource Center
Painless Dentistry
By Marilyn Miller DDS

The first step toward painless dentistry occurred in 1844 when nitrous oxide came into use. The discovery of ether soon followed and was quickly employed worldwide.

Your dentist can keep up-to-date on the latest breakthroughs in pain prevention thanks to information from a new resource center.

The close of the 19th century saw the development of dental technology with the advent of the less painful and faster electric drill and better methods of pain control.

But even though Mohammed insisted on oral hygiene in the 6th century, it wasn't until 1890 that a preventive dental health campaign was launched in the United States.

The 1980s have brought a coalescence of dental technology and preventive care. The use of fluoride toothpastes, systemic fluoride, and sealants are making painful cavities a malady of the past.

From A Goldfish Bowl

By Pastor Steve Byrne

"How many Lutherans does it take to change a light bulb?"

"Ten. One to change the bulb, and nine to talk about how much they liked the old bulb!"

As I write this article, over a week before it is scheduled for publication, I must admit that I find myself feeling more in the category of the nine than the one.

I just heard that Charley Jordan is resigning completely from doing the KTAB weather. A year and a half ago he began a reduced schedule on the tube to take a "job" as the executive director of Ben Richey's Boy's Ranch. But first I must give you some background.

I had watched Charley on TV quite a long time before he came to judge the Winters Preachers' beard growing contest. I had my doubts. He came across as a warm, compassionate person on the TV. But, as a Pastor with some experience with the basic human condition, I had some real doubts.

You see, I once worked as a sacker in a grocery store. I know how to put on a "pasted-on-smile" and make a decent attempt at laughing at bad, old jokes. Having been a phoney, and knowing that at time I tend to gravitate to that basic human behavior, I was suspicious.

Then Charley came to judge the contest. My BS-detector antennae went up immediately. I was sensitive to detect his phyness.

But he seemed to have a genuinely good time joking with all of us. Hooten, who started the whole mess by challenging the rest of us publicly to this silly contest at the Chamber banquet.

Gary, Glen, Me.

Later on I would run into him at a Texas Department of Agriculture celebration of the opening of a new office in Abilene, complete with the plugging of their new farmer's market. He would seem as genuine as he had at the Mayfest. I am sure that the fact that he chose mine as the best groomed beard in the competition had nothing to do with my perception of his authenticity.

Somehow I wasn't surprised when he announced that he was going to work as the executive director of Ben Richey's Boy's Ranch a year and a half ago. And I wasn't too surprised tonight when I learned that he was giving up his "second job" to devote full time to the Ranch.

I am not advocating Canonical Sainthood for Charley. But I am going to miss him on the tube. He just came across at all levels as a genuine, compassionate human being. (I suppose he did the weather as well as anybody else.)

For all that my own antennae might be worth, he seemed to me to be a person with a sense of vocation. A sense of being led, called, or whatever you want to name it.

I pray that God will continue to support his (dare we say the word) ministry, life, and faith in the work to which God has called him. I hope he does well. And I hope that his example will continue to be an inspiration and example for the rest of us to be sensitive to God's calling.

I'm still not crazy about the change. But sometimes you need to get a new light bulb, even if you really liked the old one a lot. A new light bulb gives light. Shine on, Charley!

Tale of Terror
by Jamie Reyes

Once upon a time I was all alone in my house. Suddenly, I heard a noise in my bedroom. I went back to look to see what it was. It was nothing. I heard the noise again and again. I was so scared to see what it was, but I checked anyway.

It became dark. I was scared so I didn't think about it. I started to play Nintendo. I fell asleep on the couch. When I woke up everything was okay.

The next day came. I didn't hear any noises, but it became dark again. I heard my dog barking. He wouldn't stop. So I checked. I saw somebody running through my yard. He was dressed in black with a knife in his hand. He was walking toward the door—the back door. I was too scared to run—or even move. So I ran to the phone to call the police. The line was dead. I hid in the closet. He couldn't find me, so he left.

Now that we are entering the second week of school, classes and assignments are becoming routine.

Parents and friends in the community are invited to assist the students and teachers in making this a productive school year.

There's only one license for people who carry a lot of weight.

Sack Lunch Safety

Along with a sandwich you could be packing the potential for food-borne illness in your brown bag lunch.

According to Marilyn Haggard, a food safety expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, people often have a cavalier attitude about sack lunches.

"When they're at home, most people wouldn't eat a sandwich out of lunch meat that had been out on the kitchen counter for four hours, yet they'll take a meat sandwich to work in the morning and let it sit unrefrigerated until lunch time," she said.

Lack of refrigeration that allows bacteria to multiply rapidly in protein foods is the culprit in causing countless cases of upset stomach, diarrhea and other flu-like symptoms associated with food-borne illnesses.

Of the typical brown bag lunch fare, tuna, egg and chicken salads, lunch meats and leftovers are most likely to cause problems, according to the specialist.

"Contrary to popular opinion, it's not the mayonnaise in sandwiches that spoils. In fact, mayonnaise offers some protection against bacteria because it contains vinegar," she said. "It's the meat, poultry, fish or eggs in which bacteria multiply rapidly at room temperature."

"Leftovers like a meatloaf sandwich or macaroni and cheese can also be a problem because they consist of food that has previously been handled, so more bacteria have been introduced," she said.

When no refrigeration is available at school or work, Haggard suggests freezing sandwiches. Use a coarse-textured bread and lightly spread it with margarine so the sandwich won't get soggy. Pack lettuce, tomato or other add-ons separately then add them at lunch.

If you don't freeze the sandwich, add an ice-pack to the lunch. They're available in stores or you can make one by freezing water in a small margarine tub. Or you can freeze a foil pouch or wax-paper carton of fruit juice to serve as both a cold drink and an ice pack.

Adult brown-baggers usually have more options since offices frequently contain vending machines, refrigerators and microwave ovens.

"Beef stew, chicken soup, spaghetti and other canned foods from vending machines will be safe to eat, as long as the cans aren't rusted, dented or bulging," Haggard said.

"Cold perishables from machines, however, require more judgement. Refrigerated sandwiches should feel cold. The use-by date will tell you if it's stale and you should always throw away any food that has an off-odor."

The no-refrigeration retort packages for food are just as safe as cans. They're vacuum packed and cooked like canned goods," she said. "But don't even taste food from a leaky or bulging pouch."

If you bring leftovers from home, keep them refrigerated and then thoroughly heat in the office microwave," said the specialist.

Letter to The Editor

Memories of the Railroad I wasn't around when the railroad came to Winters, but it still has memories of walking the rails out to the Winters lake where we fished and swam, of the old water tank where the engine got its water, located about 3/4 mile north of Roberts St. and kids had put perch from their catch in the tank and they grew to eating size. We fished and swam in the tank on hot days.

I remember the cars loaded with automobiles, farm equipment, gasoline, coal, cotton, grain, sand, gravel, poultry, cattle, and junk iron going to Japan.

At one time there was 11 cotton gins in Winters and lots of cotton shipped out. We kids played in the box cars, walked the rails and occasionally when the engine let out several loud blasts of the whistle we knew the engine or some cars had jumped the track, that really

Privacy of mail: It's guaranteed

"The 'Sanctity of the Seal' is a term which has nothing to do with the character a seal mammal," joked Winters Postmaster Drye.

Turning serious, he said: "Although the term is unfamiliar to most people, it represents a promise and a trust which benefits every single American citizen every day of the week."

In simplest terms, 'Sanctity of the Seal' means that a person can mail a letter in the Winters Post Office with the certain knowledge that the letter will not be opened and examined for any purpose by anyone other than the addressee.

"The privacy of First-Class Mail is one of the intrinsic freedoms enjoyed by citizens of the United States," said Postmaster Drye. "It cannot be abridged by a postal employee, postal inspector, a postmaster or even the Postmaster General."

"First-Class Mail can be opened in the Dead Letter Office," he said. "It is there that specially sworn employees must open mail in an effort to discover an address where the mail can be delivered or returned. For this single purpose First-Class is opened and forwarded to either the sender or the addressee who may be identified inside the mail."

But what if the contents of a letter were useful in helping law enforcement officers in tracking criminals? What if matters of national security depended upon the covert opening of certain First-Class Mail by government authorities?

"No matter how pressing the circumstance, how crucial to the security of our country, how helpful it might appear to all concerned—the one unchanging dictum of the U.S. Postal Service is that First-Class Mail is sealed against inspection," said Drye.

"Our Founding Fathers decreed that the privacy of the mail and the sanctity of the seal were so vital to the exercise of freedom in this country that they must never be violated for any reason, whatsoever," he said.

"This means that Winters businesses can send bills and statements of account to their customers without the privacy of these transactions being invaded by any postal employee or other government agent."

Joe Emmert

"Americans can be grateful that their mail is a sacred trust of the U.S. Postal Service, and that it will be handled with complete confidence, Postmaster Drye says. "This 'Sanctity of the Seal' is one of our most freedoms."

Out-Of-School TEAMS testing set

The Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS), an assessment program required for graduation, was mandated by House Bill 72. During each regular exit level test administration, individuals who are no longer enrolled in school and have not previously passed both sections of the TEAMS test but have met all other graduation requirements may retake the section(s) not passed. During this October 25, 1988, and the English Language Arts test will be administered on Wednesday, October 26, 1988.

Registration packets are to be picked up at the high school counselor's office of each school district. In order to retake the exit level mathematics and/or English language arts test(s), you must complete a pre-registration form. The pre-registration form must be returned to Iowa City, Iowa for processing no later than September 28, 1988.

Winters High School is serving as a testing site. Testing will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. each morning in the high school building located at 200 East Jones Street. For more information about TEAMS exit level testing or pre-registration call Susie Johnson at 754-5516. You must register to be eligible to take the test. Contact the testing site immediately in order to test in October. The next opportunity for taking the TEAMS test will be May 1989.

General Situation

Cool weather has come earlier than usual this year and has slowed boll development to a certain extent. Most of our dryland cotton has cut-out and many of the mature bolls are opening.

The monthly and seasonal weather outlook provided by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration indicates our temperature probabilities to be colder than normal and rainfall to be somewhat higher than normal throughout September. We need to be managing our cotton to mature out now. That means the water should be turned off.

Bollworms and Budworms

We continue to experience only light infestations of worms and very light eggclays. Cool weather increases the incidence of sterile eggs either directly or because it induces physiological changes in the cotton plant which are detrimental to pests that remain.

We still need to continue checking late planted fields and irrigated fields for bollworms, but the majority of dryland cotton is no longer a concern.

Spider Mites

Spider mites continue to be a problem in many of the irrigated fields around Veribest and Wall. Mites infest the undersides of the leaves causing leaf discoloration, reddening in severe situations and eventual defoliation. Webbing is present with heavy infestations. Mite infestation

Insuring college student's possessions

Before packing a child off to college this fall, parents may find it worthwhile to determine whether their homeowner's insurance coverage extends to the student's possessions while away at school.

According to consumer economics specialist Bonnie Piernot, a dependent child's belongings often will be covered on their parents' policy so long as the student lives in an organized living unit, such as a dormitory or fraternity/sorority house.

"When the student lives in an apartment, mobile home or rented house, it's less likely that the parent's coverage will ap-usually starts near leaf veins, especially close to the leaf petiole. You cannot see these critters with the naked eye, you must use a hand lens to scout for them.

The recent weather has probably slowed their population development down a little, but you still need to watch their populations closely. If fields are still maturing fibers, they are vulnerable to spider mite damage. Cotton plants in cut out fields that have lost their leaves to mite defoliation will not replace these important food gathering plant parts. Heavy defoliation could cause some regrowth problems. Chemical controls include: Azodrin® 5-1.6 pints; Curacron® 6E-1.0 pints; Capture® 2E-3.84 ounces.

Boll Weevils

Boll weevils continue to invade the entire area. I hope everyone is praying for a Hard, Cold Winter this year.

Remember that we have passed the time when squares will produce a harvestable boll. As we consider boll weevil control now, we should be most concerned with boll protection. Check small bolls about dime to quarter size. If 5-8 percent of these are punctured control may be justified. Recommended insecticides include: Guthion®, Vydate® and Parathion.

Turnrow Meetings

There will be no more regularly scheduled turnrow meetings this year.

ly," said the Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economist. "Since policies vary, parents should contact their insurance agent."

If the student's belongings are not covered on the parent's policy, tenants insurance is one solution, Piernot said.

"In case of fire or theft, tenants insurance is important, because a landlord's policy does not cover a renter's personal

Poultry products fit today's diet

Poultry products are nutritious, yet low in calories, fat and saturated fat when compared to other animal products.

"Poultry fits well into today's dietary needs and the emphasis on reduced consumption of total fat, saturated fat and caloric intake," said Dr. James H. Denton, poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "At the same time, poultry offers appropriate levels of essential nutrients. By providing high protein levels with low caloric content, poultry products are excellent choices as nutrient dense foods."

Denton said that 1987 data from the USDA's Human Nutrition Information Service showed that poultry products provide a more desirable ratio of nutrients to fats than other animal products.

Each day the average person consumes 3,560 calories, of which animal products account for almost 36 percent, said Denton. Poultry products provide only 3.5 percent of these calories. Red meat provides 15.5 percent; milk and milk products, 10 percent; eggs, 1.6 percent; and fish and shellfish, 0.9 percent.

At the same time, animal products provide almost 57 percent of the total fat in daily diets. Poultry products account for only 5 percent of this total, with red meat accounting for 32.8 percent; milk and milk products, 20.5 percent; eggs, 2 percent; and fish and shellfish, 0.5 percent.

More than 75 percent of all saturated fatty acids consumed daily come from animal products. Poultry products contribute only 4 percent of this total while red meat accounts for about 33 percent; milk and milk products, 2.05 percent; eggs 2 percent; and fish and shellfish .05 percent.

"Despite much publicity to the contrary, poultry products continue to provide a greater share of many of the desirable nutrients than other animal products," said Denton.

According to the USDA data, poultry provided more than 11 percent of the 68.5 percent protein provided by animal products in daily diets, with red meat providing 27.6 percent; milk and milk products, 20.9 percent; eggs, 4 percent; and fish and shellfish, 4.6 percent.

"Poultry meat products account for about 25 percent of the total meat protein consumed per capita daily while providing only 17 percent of the calories, 14 percent of the fat and 11 percent of the saturated fat in animal products," Denton said.

"Not only are poultry products nutrient-dense dietary choices," he said, "but they are good tasting, versatile and inexpensive."

property," she said. The specialist said that students may not realize how much of an investment they have in stereo equipment, a home computer, TV, clothing, furniture, or appliances until they have to replace them.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 8, 1988

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment providing that when the federal government reimburses the state for expenditures of state funds dedicated to acquiring rights-of-way and for constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways, such federal funds must also be used for those purposes.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment and/or clarification providing that federal reimbursement of state highway dedicated funds are themselves dedicated for the purpose of acquiring rights-of-way and constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 2 proposes a constitutional amendment to establish an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury. The fund would consist of one half of the unencumbered balance of general revenues at the end of a biennium and three fourths of the difference between the net oil and gas production taxes received in a fiscal year and the net oil and gas production taxes received in the 1987 fiscal year. During any fiscal biennium, the amount in the economic stabilization fund could not exceed 10% of the total deposited in general revenue in the preceding biennium.

The state comptroller and the state treasurer could decide to transfer monies from the fund into the general revenue fund to alleviate a temporary cash shortage in general revenue. The legislature could make appropriations from the fund on approval by a three fifths vote of each house to make up the difference between anticipated general revenue and appropriations. On approval of two thirds of the members of each house of the legislature, the legislature could appropriate monies from the fund for any purpose.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment establishing an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury to be used to offset unforeseen shortfalls in revenue."

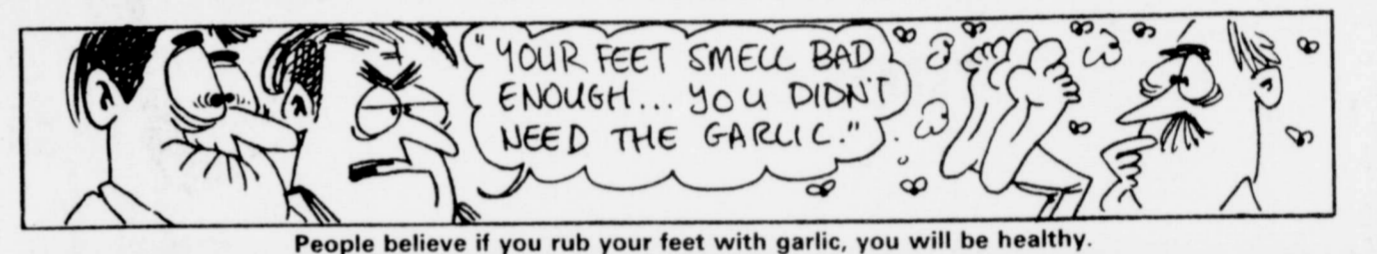

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that establishes the Texas growth fund. All investments of the Texas growth fund must be directly related to furthering economic growth and employment opportunities in Texas. At least 50 percent of the fund must be invested in equity and/or debt security for the initial construction, expansion, or modernization of business or industrial facilities in Texas. Not more than ten percent of the fund may be invested in venture capital investments. Of the funds available for venture capital investments, not more than 25 percent may be invested unilaterally, and the remaining investments must be matched at least equally by funds from other sources. The Texas growth fund will be managed by a board of trustees consisting of four members appointed by the Governor and one member from and elected by the membership of each of the following: The Board of Regents of the University of Texas System; The Board of Regents of the Texas A&M System; The Board of Trustees of the Teacher's Retirement System of Texas; The Board of Trustees of the Employee's Retirement System of Texas; and the State Board of Education. The trustees may set the investment policy of the fund, enter into investment contracts, and take any action necessary for the creation, administration, and protection of the fund. The amendment authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Texas System and the State Board of Education, in managing the permanent university fund and the permanent school fund, to acquire, exchange, sell, supervise, manage, or retain any kind of investment, including investments in the Texas growth fund. The fund will be phased out after the tenth anniversary of its creation, but the Legislature may create a second growth fund by a two thirds vote of each house.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to provide for the investment of the permanent university fund, the permanent school fund, and public employee retirement systems in the Texas growth fund created by the amendment, which will directly create, retain, and expand job opportunity and economic growth in Texas."

Whose mailbox is it anyway?

Winters residents may remember the day when they walked into a store and paid good money for a mailbox to be erected at their home. And, like the rest of the property around the house thought the mailbox belonged to them.

"However," Postmaster Drye said, "what postal customers may not realize is that every letterbox or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail is designated and authorized depository for mail under federal law."

This means that, legally, your mailbox must be used exclusively for matter which bears postage, according to the postmaster.

"No part of a mail receptacle may be used to deliver any matter not bearing postage. This applies to items or matter placed upon, supported by, attached to, hung from, or inserted into, a mail receptacle." (Newspaper receptacles attached to the same post don't apply.)

What kinds of illegal articles are found in mailboxes?

"Most anything," Drye said. "We find wedding invitations, birthday party invitations, business advertisements and solicitations for charities appearing in mailboxes—all without benefit of postage."

When such mailable matter is found in mailboxes, the carrier is required to remove it and take it back to the post office. The person or firm responsible for placing the matter is then asked to pay postage-due on each piece illegally placed in mailboxes.

"This procedure often causes bad feelings on the part of people who say they didn't know the practice was illegal," he explained. "Nevertheless, the law which prohibits the placing of unstamped matter in mailboxes is the same law which keeps mailboxes free of extraneous material and assures room for legitimate mail delivery by the carrier.

"Today's Postal Service is committed to providing the best possible mail delivery," said Postmaster Drye. "Adequate mailboxes, reserved exclusively for mail, help us reach that goal."

Week of September 18-24 focuses on farm safety

Farming and ranching continues to rank as one of the most hazardous occupations in the nation, so it's appropriate that a special week be set aside to focus on farm and ranch safety, said a safety engineer at Texas A&M University.

National Farm Safety Week is September 18-24, and that week also has been declared Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week by Governor Bill Clements, said Thomas D. Valco with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Theme of the weeklong observance is "Ensure Your Future with Farm Safety."

"This theme stresses the hazards involved in agricultural production and the effort into preventing injury and illness on the farm, especially during times of economic stress," Valco said.

The engineer said that each year there are about 100 Texas fatalities from farm and ranch related accidents. Also, an estimated 10,000 disabling injuries and 100,000 injuries requiring medical attention occur annually in the state.

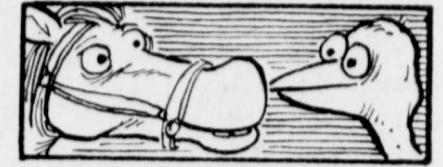

According to National Safety Council figures, some 1,600 deaths resulted from farm accidents in 1987, with most fatalities caused by (in descending order) tractors, firearms, drowning, burns, electrical shock and machinery.

"Through a continuing educational effort in safe farming and ranching operations and improved safety design in machinery and equipment, rural fatalities have been reduced by 50 percent in the past 10 years," said Valco.

"That's why it's so important to continue to focus on safety awareness in farming and ranching," he said. "Simply following safe work procedures and keeping equipment and machinery in good repair can make a big difference.

"Giving attention to safety can reduce needless suffering of rural accident victims and prevent the financial burden of agricultural accidents on productivity and family income," Valco said.

The largest eyes of all land animals are those of the horse and ostrich—about one and a half times the size of human eyes.
