Wait a minute...

By Kerry Craig

It was a little hard to tell it Tuesday, but Monday officially marked the first day of Spring. Our weather seems to be a little out of sync with the seasons. Geographic locations, too. Having five and six foot snow drifts, like they are supposed to have up north somewhere, is bad enough but, to have the temperatures go from near 90 one day to near 20 the next day with snow, sleet, rain and other freezy skid stuff is going a little too far.

The next thing you know, school will be out for the summer and vacation time will be here - again.

Now that, I may not be ready for this soon.

An English major, I'm not. If it weren't for the electronic magic of computers, I probably would not be able to visit here each week.

With the thought of English in mind, there are a couple of things that seem to always get my attention. In growing up, I was always told, "If you are going to speak, speak correctly." That is something I try to do, and occassionally, successfully.

There are some phrases that have the same properties of a finger nail on a black board to my ears. Those phrases have to do with a person talking about himself and another person.

There was even a big country music hit song that repeated the phrase "She and I". That did more than run chills down my back.

And then there is another effort at the same thing - me and old so-in-so. Most times when that unlikely group of words end up in the same thought, it leaves me wondering if the speaker was referring to "mean old so-inso", and casting doubt on the temperament of old so-in-so.

That is on the extreme, I think. Then there are the folks that try to be correct and, by trying too hard, slip up in their use of "I" or "me"

Back in the radio station superstar days in Abilene. KTAB's Bob Bartlett and I talked daily on the phone. During those talks, Bob would record promotional advertisements for the television station that would run on the radio.

I would, frequently, compliment Bob on his manner of speaking and how it seemed to coincide with the wishes and desires of my teachers of years gone by.

That subject was one that Bob also had noticed in listening to other folks speak and we had several interesting visits comparing how different folks really slaughtered the King's English.

Then, I caught Bob one day. He slipped up. Before I could call him, my phone rang.

It was good old Bob. You see, he caught me, too.

With my thoughts on this, I will probably get some critical reviews from some English teachers.

When me 'n that ole teacher git together, him and me will likely never agree.

One would think, however, that, when using phrases like these, the other person should be mentioned first out courtesy.

Then, when you get to whatever you call yourself, you can pretend, for an instant, to leave the other person out.

So. When that English teacher (mean or not) and I have our discussion. I hope I will not have to buy any more red ink.

His first flight to freedom came while he was awaiting his wife and a bail bondsman to get him out of jail after he was arrested on felony forgery charges. His bond was only $10,000.

In that escape, the man found himself near a door with no one watching. He ran and caught a ride with a Ballinger man to San Angelo. Duffy eluded officers for a day, or two, but was arrested a short time after someone called the sheriff's office in San Angelo and, after telling dispatchers he was Sheriff Bill Baird, said that warrant for Duffy had been cancelled.

Travelers visit Aunt Hattie's and Fort Concho

Sunday was the last day in San Angelo of the Winters Young Farmers tour and it turned out to be the most unusual as we explored two local landmarks featured in the March issue of Texas Highways Magazine, Miss Hattie's and Fort Concho.

First on the agenda was a leisurely breakfast buffet and a get-together in the Corral Room of our motel.

Randall Conner introduced an old-timer, who wandered in, as Horace Hardin and asked him to say a few words. He said he grew up out in the country west of Winters and made a few remarks about the men. He mentioned the pretty girls present and kissed one of them before he pointed to me and said, "There's Charlsie Poe, she was here before me."

He quoted from Proverbs 3:5-6 before removing his mask to reveal that he was Dub

San Angelo

Concho is the oldest street in San Angelo and our guide said that everything beside the bank was either a bar or a bordello and these were the only choices Miss Hattie's, a restored if a woman had to work. Miss Hattie's was built in 1896 and shut down by the Rangers in 1946. It remained closed until 1975 when it was bought by Miss Hill and opened as a museum. Most all of the clothing and furnishings are still there. She also owns the downstairs antique store.

The first Miss Hattie inherited the building from her late husband. She had the first indoor plumbing and electric lights in town, also the first automobile. The house had ten rooms and the front room was a parlor. There was a card room where Elmo, a lovable bum, spent time drinking and playing the harmonica.

Miss Hattie did not condone drinking among her employees. She was good to the girls and said on her application blank "must be fine, upstanding christian - we will be attending a different church each Sunday.'

Plans are underway to make Concho Street a historic district and a restaurant will open soon in Eggermeyers, once a hardware store, next door.

Since it was Sunday, the antique shop was not open, and we quickly made our way to Fort Concho, only to find that the entrance road to the main office had been closed in order to restore the parade grounds to their original shape. We faced a cold wind as a young school teacher guided us to the Enlisted Men's Barracks V where one of the most popular exhibits is the living history display. Members of memorial Infantry, Cavalry, and Buffalo Soliders units maintain beds and equipment that are either original or exact replicas of those used when the fort was an active post. The members of the memorial units also appear regularly in parades and festivals in San Angelo and across the southwest.

The Fort Concho Museum features exhibits focusing on the Indian Wars period and early days of Tom Green County, Barracks VI was built in 1870-1971. The San Angelo Jaycees restored the building in the early 1950s. Inside there are museum exhibits of textiles, fashions, toys and music. The old Rowena Bank office has found a home here. Also, a wool and mohair room, and a doctor's office. Gift items can be selected from the Sutler's Store.

Fort Concho was founded in December 1867 as the central point in a line of forts along the outer edge of settlements in Texas. Built to protect nearby settlements from Indian attacks, it was located at the conjunction of the Concho Rivers.

On the 40-acre site there are 16 original limestone buildings. five reconstructed buildings (including the Post Hospital), and one stablized ruin. The city presently owns all Fort Concho buildings except two cavalry stables (Wool Growers Central Storage).

The Post Hospital was the most commanding building on the fort grounds. Begun in 1868 and completed in 1872, it was a landmark for soldiers and civilians. After the soldiers left in 1889, it served as a rooming house and warehouse. Damaged by fire in 1911 and demolished in 1929, it was lost to history until reconstruced as part of the John and Sally Meadows Historical Complex.

FROM A GOLDFISH BOWL

We big-time cattle barons learn a lot by being around our bovine friends.

First, we learn that you have to have your cows off the grain patch by March 1. Secondly, we learn that the cows are not particularly thrilled with that first learning.

Not long ago I had the dubious distinction of being the one who had to get the cows off the grain and into the north pasture. Where the nutrition was a quite a bit harder to come by.

I opened the gate on the northeast side of the wheat patch. Only to find the cows gathered on the west side of the field.

I cut a wide swath around the livestock. Sneaked up behind them, if you will. Started coaxing them, then finally yelling them to "Go east!"

These "dumb" animals were a bit smarter than they are given credit for. They didn't want to leave their source of nutrition. They scatthe east. In fact, none of them be led. headed east. They ran right

That meant I had to have a plan "B".

Walked back to the barn. Put some range cubes in a plastic bucket. Walked back onto the field. To the east of my bovine adversaries. And began to rattle the bucket.

Amazingly, those cows (and their calves) began to FOLLOW me to the gate. I kept walking. All the way to the barn. They followed. They got fed.

I'm pretty dense. But I figured out that cows are a lot like people.

I knew that a long time ago. But my experience with the cows reminded me again. What I have learned from working with German Luth erans all these years.

If you try to push folks from behind, they balk. And you can't get them to go anywhere. Even if it would be best for them.

But...If you LEAD them. With something that they need. They will follow.

I guess I am the same way. tered. Not necessarily toward I can't be pushed. But I CAN Jesus never pushed. Jesus

"I encourage anyone who is interested or knows someone who might benefit from these services to contact the Comptroller's office," Bullock said.

Taxpayers should call the Comptrollers office toll-free 1-800-252-555 if they would like to receive these services.

Bullock said the agency is in the process of coding its computer system so visually impaired persons can receive special tax information in braille, large print, audio tapes or by telephone.

Bullock explained that once the system is set up, agency tax assistors will make phone calls to visually impaired taxpayers who are being sent timely information, such as delinquent tax notice. The tax assistors will explain the notice and help bring the taxpayer's accounts up to date within the time limits set by state laws.

The Texas Taxpayer Bill of Rights brochure is now available in braille. The Comptroller's office is working with the State Library to put Administrative Remedies, Your New Business, and The Rules of Practice and Procedure into braille, large print and onto audio cassetts.

I opposed the House version of the "reform" bill because in, my opinion, it did very little by way of reform. For instance, the bill would add almost 1000 people to already bloated Industrial Accident Board bureaucracy; the additional cost would be what reform should amount to. I will vote for and support a workers' compensation bill if, and only if, it has a very reasonable administrative, bureaucratic structure, is not exorbitantly expensive, significantly decreases premium rates and provides benefits to injured workers at least on a level with current law. The Legislature can do that if it is made to do it; however, often the Legislature is like a would-be naughty child in that is often only as good as it is made to be. premium reduction, if any; and, in spite of what you may have heard, little or no increase in benefits to any workers.

That may be reform in the eyes of some commentators, but it is certainly not in my opinion. The 124 page bill did have some good points, but they were grossly outweighed by the bad Class mates of 1944, we are planning a reunion of the Winters High School Class of 1944. This was during the war years so some of you did not graduate with the 1944 class, however, you are being included in the reunion.

If you have not been contacted, call 754-5210 and let us put you on our list.

The "get-together" will be May 28, 1989 at the Country Club in Winters.

My grandfather once remarked that it was fortunate the early settlers landed on the East coast; if they had first settled in California the rest of this country would likely have remained uninhabited.

William R. Hearst, Jr.

You need to make it good or, at the very least, better.

So many of you have asked me to support workers' compensation reform and I am waiting with bated breath to do that. Let us just all demand true reform and not a brand of reform as may be palatable to a few powerful special interests.

Olney Savings

You're probably fed up with bad economic news about Texas and our financial institutions, so how about a little good news for a change.

Under the Southwest Plan, several savings institutions have been combined to form single institutions with assets in the billions of dollars. Olney Savings is one of those vital organizations with assets of over 4.5 billion dollars. Olney is owned and operated by Texans, successful Texans, with a desire to see Texas and its people succeed.

It was important to fix those problems created by a puny economy, and now that it's done, it's time for everybody to get back to business. This is why we are writing this letter — because we appreciate your business and pledge to provide the products and services you need to make your lives simpler and more secure.

We are paying extremely competitive rates on your deposits, and we're making loans. Try doing business with Olney Savings. We'll make it worth your while.

Sincerely,

Chuck Wagon Gang to perform in Ballinger

The Chuck Wagon Gang, who have been one of America's best selling artists for more than 52 years, will be appearing in a special concert at the Ballinger High School Auditorium.

The concert will be held at 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 25, 1989. Ticket information may be obtained by contacting K.R.U.N. Radio in Ballinger, call 365-5500.

The Chuck Wagon Gang's close knit harmony and blending of melodies have become as much a part of America as the apple pie. Current members are Roy Carter, his sister Ruth Ellen Carter Yates, "cousin" Pat McKeehan, Harold Timmona, and Debbie Trusty.

The original Chuck Wagon Gang was formed in the early 1930's by D. P. "Dad" Carter and consisted of himself, his son, Jim, and daughters, Anna and Rose. For over forty years, the famous Chuck Wagon Gang recorded for Columbia Records, an unparalleled accomplishment in the Gospel Music Industry, and at one time, they earned the distinction of being the second highest best selling American artist on the label. The group has sold over 30 million records.

The rich heritage of the chuck

Wagon Gang and the simplicity of their songs have made them classics in the world of entertainment. They have appeared at Carnegie Hall, the Hollywood Bowl, the Grand Ole Opry, and on thousands of concert stages across America. They have been included in the Smithsaonian Institue's Classic America recordings. They were the first gospel group to record on a major label the now standard gospel song, "I'll Fly Away," and have made other gospel songs into standards through the years, such as "The Church In The Wildwood," "Looking for A City," "We Are Climbing," "Echoes From the Burning Bush," "I'll Meet You In The Morning," and many, many

Our birthday party last week was enjoyed by all. Thanks to Monica O'Mara for the fine Irish music and songs she brought to us. Our theme was St. Patrick's Day. After our program we enjoyed refreshments brought to us by the ladies of St. John's Lutheran Church. We had a number of visitors and residents to attend. We had eight residents celebrating birthdays. They were James Mitchell, Willie Lois Nichols, Inez Mills, Jewell Gotcher, Mable Thomason, Dora Busher, Myrtle Smith and Blanche King. We owe a special "Thanks" each month to Mary Watkins for making these Birthday Parties what they are. She spends a lot of time and effort arranging them. Volunteers like her are very important to us. Thank you, Mary! And to all you other wonderful volunteers. We appreciate all of you!

Myrtle Smith has returned to us from Hendrick's Hospital. Welcome back Myrtle.

Have a Good Week!

Use of apples and apple products in school lunch program encouraged by USDA

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is encouraging schools throughout the country to resume use of apples and apple products in their school lunchrooms.

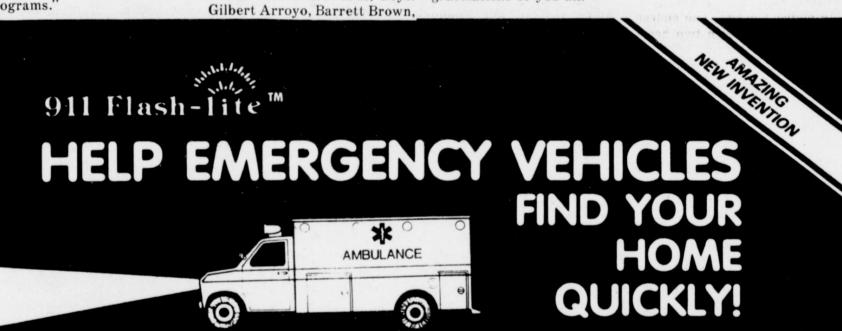

According to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture for Food and Consumer Services John W. Bode, "Apples have been and continue to be a nutritious food. Despite recent claims to the contrary, there is no reason to stop eating apples or apple products. Therefore, USDA is encouraging schools that have been holding apples or apple products programs." to resume using them."

Bentsen study showing state economy improving: no longer hostage to price of oil U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen Texas' economy has decline

released a study which concludes that the Texas economy is no longer hostage to the price

According to the study by Professors Harold Gross and Bernard Weinstein of Southern Methodist University, Texas is recovering nicley from the oil price shock of 1986, with jobs and personal income up sharply in 1988. Except for the still-beleagured energy and construction industries, the study shows Texas has seen its employment base growing to encompass a greater variety of industries. Approximately 100,000 nonagricultural jobs were added to payrolls in the last 18 months.

"Of course, we'll still see real estate and the financial insitutions soft in Texas. But overall the economy is beginning to move again," Bentsen said.

Bentsen cited statistics showing the oil industry's portion of Peculiar plant: To many Americans, think gourd is an organic oddity. But for millions of people around the world, it's a multi-purpose tool. International Wildlife magazine reports that gourds aren't much of a meal but their skin is easily dried. The result is an amazingly useful shell. People have shaped them into spoons, jugs and bowls. Gourds are also used by musicians to make rattles, drums and a symphony of other instruments.

from 25 percent to 11 percent between 1970 and 1987.

"You're seeing a lessening dependence on the oil industry," Bentsen said, adding that the Texas oil industry is now a "tough, hard-core base that has been able to withstand these low prices."

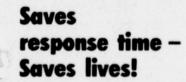

Bentsen said the oil industry remains important to Texas, but it's not "going to have an overpowering influence on our economy in the future."

"What it basically means is that we're not going to be differing so drastically from what happens to the nation's economy. It means that we won't see the kinds of wild swings that we've seen in Texas before," Bentsen

"That doesn't mean that we'll be immune to problems-of course we'll have them-but they'll be problems of the rest of the country as we move along together," Bentsen said.

Pollution patrol: In the Canadian province of Ontario, they're pinching petty polluters. International Wildlife magazine reports that residents who remove antipollution devices from their cars may find themselves holding a ticket. The Canadian Ministry of the Enviornment launched the unique program to keep small violations from building to big environmental problems.

Letter to the Editor

I believe you people have a serious problem and that is you have a police dept. that is running a speed trap and a J.P. telling people, they need the money.

We were stopped 6 miles from Winters and told we were going 70, we weren't, and then on the ticket he wrote down we were driving a 1988 blue Chev. In fact we were in a 1984 brown and cream Chev. If he couldn't even tell that he's got a problem. Then we went to the J.P. and told him and he said he needed the money. We've seen set up's before - Blackwell had the same thing, nearly ruined our little town and people rose up and stopped it.

Most of you know us, we spend a lot of money in your business, now all this will stop, we can buy every thing you people sell in Sweetwater or elsewhere. And I bet we won't be the only ones to do that; when we are so mistreated we can't see coming and risking another mess, just to purchase what you people sell. Better get together, call in news media and get petitions or what ever it takes to stop this or your town will suffer for years to come.

This kind of stuff never helps any town, you'll be known far and wide and are already doing that, but it'll get worse and worse, I could go on and on because Blackwell went through this same situation and it's terrible. It hurts so many people and their lives, I'm sure Winters needs money but what and who don't now days. But your town will suffer, your people will suffer and on and on.

Alvin and Dorothy Edwards Blackwell, Texas

Editor's note: To clarify two points in the above letter, the Municipal Court docket book shows that the citation was issued at a location just east of the intersection of F.M. 153 east at its intersection with the Old Crews Road. In lieu of paying the fine normally assessed for speeding, 71 mph in a 55 mph zone, Mr. Edwards elected to pay $10.50 in court costs and to attend a Defensive Driving Course. That course also insures the speeding violation will not appear on the driving record.

Letter to the Editor Dear Editor:

There seems to be a bit of confusion about ambulance services and the costs to the consumer. In the next few paragraphs I shall try to answer some of the most common questions.
