Have you noticed lately that when the fire sirens are sounded, they seem to just keep going?

We have received quite a few questions about how long the sirens run and if that might, in some way, indicate the size of the fire.

With that thought in mind, we asked the question and here is what we were told.

There is no specific time limit for how long the sirens run, or how many times the sound goes up and down. There is no secret code for the firemen to let them know if the fire they are being called to fight is a house or just an outhouse.

The siren is simply a device to get the attention of the firemen who may not be near their pager or radio. It does not indicate what kind of fire or how big.

The reason the siren has been running for longer periods of time lately is to get the attention of the firemen who have not responded yet and to get more firemen to the fire trucks.

On this front page you will find that still another fund has been created for members of our community to use to help pay the bill for something else.

When you read the story, the first thing you will notice is that what is needed is a "miracle drug" — something that sounds too good to be true.

Well, this is for real, and it is real expensive — but worth it.

Our doctors, the hospital, and the hospital pharmacy are working to make this new drug available in our community.

Called "TPA" the new drug was approved for use only just over a year ago. "TPA" stands for tissue plasminogen activator and is genetically engineered by the human body to dissolve blood clots.

Used for heart attack patients, the "TPA" dissolves blood clots that have prevented oxygenated blood from reaching the heart, causing the heart attack.

The cost for one patient to receive this life-saving drug is not cheap. It costs about $2,650.

This is where help is needed. After our hospital gets the initial supply on hand, the drug manufacturers have indicated that they will work with the hospital to keep the drug available.

A dollar here and a dollar there will add up and our hospital can make another major step in the business of saving lives.

Now, you think that $2,650 is a bunch of bucks. You are right — or, are you?

If you, or a member of your family doesn't need TPA, that is a lot of money. If this wonder drug means that a loved one will continue to live a useful life, a hundred times that amount is very cheap.

There are special accounts now open at both banks where you can make your contribution to the North Runnels Hospital Emergency TPA account.

Welcome to Winters

One of the entrance berm projects is nearing completion with the completion of the brick work this past weekend. The only things needed for the area now is green grass and tree leaves.

This berm is on Highway 153, just west of Winters, and others will be constructed on the other major highways coming into Winters.

Working to complete this phase of the project over the weekend were (l-r) Mike McDonald, Cecil Self, Thurman Self, Sonny Sweet and Lee Colbath.

Winters Council discusses water distribution system

Members of the Winters City Council took quite a bit of time with a very short agenda for their regular Monday meeting. The council took no action on a requested pay increase for the city judge and devoted most of their time to two items, the city's water distribution system and a fire protection contract with Runnels County.

Following a brief discussion, the council rejected a request from Winters Municipal Judge J. C. Hodnett for an increase in salary.

In making his request, Judge Hodnett cited an increase in workload due to the increased traffic citations being issued by the police department.

In rejecting the request, the council said that the request would be reviewed at budget time later this year, when such items are normally handled. The council approved a contract to be presented to the Runnels County Commissioners' Court concerning fire protection outside the city limits.

By approving the contract, the council is hoping to enter into an agreement with the county for fire protection. City administrator Chuck McIlvaine said under provisions of an article in Title 44, the commissioners have the authority to enter into such a contract for fire protection.

McIlvaine said that, technically, fire fighters become agents of the county when they are fighting fires outside the limits of their city.

The City of Ballinger had requested that Winters join them in presenting the contracts to the county.

Ballinger City Administrator Rudy Hoffman, according to McIlvaine, said that Ballinger had submitted such a contract to the county some time back, but that the county had taken no action on the agreement.

Both cities hope that the two contracts and the joint efforts by the cities will prompt the necessary action by the commissioners which will help the cities provide for costs of fighting rural fires.

The majority of the council's time Monday was taken up with discussions of the city's water distribution system, which is in need of much repair and replacement.

The council was told that one of the reasons the Texas Department of Health would not place signs stating that the water

Runnels SWCD Conservation Farmer of the Year named

The Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District has chosen Andrew Englert as the Goodyear Conservation Farmer.

Andrew operates 900 acres of cropland and 57 acres of rangeland in Runnels County. He and his wife, Matilda, have a daughter, Joyce, and two sons, Steve and Robert. Andrew and Matilda live on the farm five miles northwest of Winters.

Andrew's conservation cropping sequence consists of a rotation of cotton, grain sorghum and small grain. Cotton and grain sorghum are grown as cash crops, while small grain is used as a high residue crop to add organic matter to the soil in addition to the grain it produces. It also provides winter forage for his cattle. After harvesting the grain sorghum, Andrew will let the chisel leaving the residue on the surface of the soil to aid in controlling water and wind erosion.

Andrew has been a cooperator with the district since 1983. He applied for a Great Plains contract in 1984, with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service set up a plan of operations. The plan consisted of conservation cropping system, crop residue use, contour farming, maintaining 66,330 feet existing terraces and construction of 122,630 feet parallel terraces. Andrew is very concerned with erosion and completed all construction work three years ahead of schedule. With the use of a belt terracing machine Andrew constructed all the terraces himself. Andrew consistently maintains all terraces by contour farming and plowing the terraces with a moldboard to raise terrace ridge height.

On 57 acres of rangeland, Andrew developed proper grazing use. He has deferred grazing on parts of rangeland to allow grass to produce seed and increase plant vigor.

Andrew has shown a keen interest in conservation and has constantly exhibited sound conservation knowledge in carrying out his farming operations.

The awards program which recognizes exceptional achievements in soil and water resource management, is sponsored by The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Money saver

By utilizing city employees, the City of Winters has a new water truck for use by the street department.

The truck chassis was from an old sanitation truck and, after some body work and a paint job, was ready for the water tank.

Pictured with the truck are Street Superintendent Charles Grenwelge and employee Armando Pena, who did the body work and the paint job on the truck.

Great-Granddaughter of first settler Rich Coffey

Mrs. Ted Bigham on the Ovalo Star Route, near Bluff Creek Cemetery, is a great-granddaughter of "Uncle Rich Coffey", one of the first settlers of Runnels County, and is seeking some information about her relatives. She never knew any of them.

When old timers of Runnels, Concho and Coleman counties get together and began reminiscing, invariably the name of Uncle Rich Coffey was mentioned and several stories followed.

Many of these stories were exaggerated versions of actual events and some were pure fabrication. It remained for a fellow Mason to write about him for the purpose of rescuing the real Rich Coffey for posterity.

Rich Coffey was a strong man, about six feet tall and weighing over 200 pounds, with an unusually thick chest and shoulders. His dress during the period of Civil War and afterwards was picturesque indeed, a buffalo robe and cape to pull over his head with the buffalo tail attached for decoration.

A congregation in a log church near Dublin in the early seventies was startled by the sudden appearance of a large man dressed in bearskins. His long uncut hair and his clothing made him look more like a bear than a human being.

Rich Coffey was born in Georgia in 1823, when he grew to manhood and married Sallie Greathouse in 1854. The following year they moved to Texas and settled in Parker County. He engaged in cattle raising and also did some freighting.

In 1862 Rich Coffey bodily moved his family and cattle out beyond the most remote settler to Elm Creek near the present site of Ballinger. A number of cowboys in his employ came with him. Here they build a picket fort, from poles they had cut from the river bottom.

The constant danger of Indian raids made it necessary to be on the alert at all times, and especially during "the light of the moon" each month when the Comanches usually made their invasions. Since the men were busy looking after the cattle the care and most of the protection of the house was left to Mrs. Coffey and her daughters. In times of extreme danger "Aunt Sallie" kept a huge pot of lye soap boiling day and night to dash upon any redskin attempting to enter the ranch home.

If you have a good temper, keep it. If you have a bad temper, don't lose it.

The community supper and game night was well attended Saturday night. Commissioners of Precinct 1, 2 and 3 were invited guest, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Skipper Wheeler and Thurman Self. Other visitors were, Frances Mincey, Darla and Steven Cameron, the Walter Clendenen's daughter from Texas Tech. Linda and Dale Duggan will host the May supper. The Walter Clendenens and the Rodney Faubions hosted Saturday night's supper.

Bro. Oscar and Janie Fanning played 42 and had refreshments with Nila and Therin Osborne after Wednesday night prayer meeting.

Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion carried the Jerry Kraatz family out to the Casa Cabana in Winters Sunday for lunch.

Walter Jacob was admitted to St. John's Hospital in San Angelo for tests.

By 1871 Rich Coffey had acquired a sizeable herd of cattle. He usually sold his cattle to neighboring ranchers, but on one occasion he let his own cowboys take a herd of 1,020 cattle "up the trail" to New Mexico. Nat Guest was placed in charge of the herd. John Coffey, the 15 year-old son, was a regular cowhand while Bill, two years younger, wrangled the remuda of 54 horses. The herd was moved out on June 1, 1871.

The trail was stopped at noon at a large waterbed on the creek to water the cattle, when they were attacked by a band of some 100 Indians. After the fight was over all the cowboys had escaped save two, whose bodies were given burial.

The Indians had taken the entire herd of cattle and all horses in the remuda save two. A few months later on Christmas Day, the Coffeys watched helplessly as the Indians drove away the remaining cows and horses. And without a word of self-pity for the work of nine difficult years gone, Rich Coffey set to work to regain his losses and was able to live his last years in comfort.

The three sons were large men and expert cattlemen. John married Mary Brown and they had seven children. William (Bill) married Mary M. Haley and they had five children. Bill died in 1923 and is buried at Concho. Richard (Fogg) the youngest born in 1883, was known for his

The Michaelwicz families met Easter Sunday at Saint Marys Hall in Ballinger for dinner, egg hunt and supper, 63 attended.

Sorry to here about Brian Faubion and his motorcycle accident; only a few cuts and bruises, lucky he had his helmet on. The Marvin Gerhart's mail box was not so lucky.

Betty Brown, Louise Cecil and Rosa Lee Simpson of Winters were out to see me, Hilda, on Saturday.

Ruth Pape's grandson, Randy Kennedy, and two friends of Houston spent Monday and Tuesday with the Papes. Ruth and Brad carried her mother, clowning and rough humor.

Richard "Fogg" was born March 6, 1863 in Parker County, his mother returned to her parents home for his birth. He married Ella Littlefield of Gonzales County. He lived most of his life on the ranch, raising cattle and horses and, in his late years, raising sheep.

The Coffey ranch joined the W. G. Currie ranch at Paint Rock and when they worked cattle Fogg helped by roping the calves. Roy Currie recalled that Fogg threw a big loop to catch a calf by his hind legs and never missed. Roy, Floyd and Bill Currie then held the calves down while Dad Currie branded them. Fogg would lie down on the porch and sleep between rounds.

When his sister Penola Guest died in 1881, Fogg didn't come to the funeral but sat on his horse and listened to the service. She is buried in the Walthall Cemetery.

The Coffey ranch had been quite extensive at one time, but by the time of Fogg's death all had been sold but a small building in Concho County. Fogg died there at his home, July 19, 1939, being buried in Concho County. His children were: Hays, a Constable in Coleman County for several years; Houston, who lived at Roswell, New Mexico; Jim of Fort Sumner, New Mexico; a daughter, Vada, married to Jack Brown and lived at Millersview; and another daughter who married George Garm and lived at Valera.

Adell Bigham continues to search for more information concerning her relatives. She has a sister, Gwen Bray, and two brothers, Leon and Floyd Gorden all of Stephenville, who would also like to know more about their ancestors. The early day lack of communication makes it difficult.

Leona Hicks of Winters, to a San Angelo specialist Thursday.
 S. K. Alexander from Amarillo spent several days with Norval and Helen Alexander.

Paula and Ken Baker and another couple from Coleman, returned Easter Sunday from Taos, New Mexico after spending five days.

Bro. Oscar and Janie Fanning, Paula and Dee Bnea Baker were dinner guests with Dee and Sam Faubion Sunday.

On Saturday night Paula and Ken Baker attended the Chamber of Commerce party in Coleman.

Those visiting the Wilbert Alcorns during the week were Abe Giles, Jarrell Giles of Brownwood, Pat Stevens of Coleman, Linda and Jennifer Denison of San Angelo. The Alcorns carried Joanie Mathis to Abilene to catch a plane heading for home to Springfield, Mo. after a week's stay. Fairy will go to Abilene to see her doctor and have more tests Wednesday.
