Winters girls advance to Regional in Golf

The Winters Blizzards Girls Golf Team captured second place Monday during the final round of play for the District 8-AA runner-up spot. This enables the girls to move ahead to the Regional Tournament to be held at the Maxwell Golf Course in Abilene on April 26 and 27. The girls chased eventual district champion San Saba until the end, but couldn't pull it out. Marla Shields paced the way as she garnered 2nd place medalist in the overall district individual competition. If the team had not advanced, Marla would have competed individually.

Brandi Brown was the 5th place medalist and Marie Pritchard was the 7th place medalist. Other team members are Stephanie Powers, Mindy Andrae, Mary Mostad, Kaci Springer, Susan Bryan, Staci Wheeler, Natalie Rocha, Natasha Snuffer and J. J. Michaelis.

School to close for Easter

In observance of Easter, the Winters Independent School District classes will be dismissed at 2:30 Thursday, April 12, 1990, and will resume regular classes on Tuesday morning, April 17, 1990.

Winters boys golf comeback falls short

The Winters Blizzards Boys Golf Team put on a tremendous comeback, but fell 3 strokes short in trying to earn a regional berth. The boys trailed second place San Saba by 10 shots after the opening day of play on San Saba's home course. The second leg in Brownwood saw the boys pick up needed shots as the day wore on. As it turned out, the final pairing of the day would determine the regional entrants. The guys gave it their best effort, but failed to play to their own expectations.

Coach Selby said there was a lot of disappointment in not reaching their goal, but he explained that the nature of the game often brings heartaches and it is more important to have the opportunity to compete and try to reach goals than it is not to try at all. The team should be commended for their efforts.

Team members were Brady Cowan, Bill Belew, Russell Parramore, Kenyon Black, and Chris Matthews. Others competing were Joel Dry, Russell Moore, Daniel Shoemake, Brandon Killough and Aaron Bradley.

Wilson apparently defeats Hamilton in runoff

Incumbent Johnnie Wilson was the apparent winner over challenger Richard Hamilton in the Runnels County Precinct #2 Commissioner's runoff. At press time, results were unofficial since votes had not been canvassed but vote totals show 270 votes for Wilson and 226 for Hamilton, unofficially.

Wilson faces no opposition in the general election in November. He has served approximately 8 years as County Commissioner, having first been appointed to serve out an unexpired term.

Contacted on Tuesday night, Wilson expressed relief saying "This was a close one!" He said he feels better and expresses his appreciation to everyone for their support and help.

The Enterprise was unable to contact Mr. Hamilton before press time.

The group of members will be soliciting opinions from the public regarding both present and future needs in the Winters School System.

The next meeting will be held April 19, 1990 at 7 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Council votes to hire new Administrator

The Winters City Council voted in a special called meeting on Monday, April 9 to hire Charles Ludwick as the new City Administrator. Mr. Ludwick will be replacing Chuck MacIvaine who submitted his resignation earlier in the year, but remains on the job at this time. The council voted unanimously to hire Ludwick, who was one of several candidates for the job.

In other business, the Council was advised that their meetings would have to be moved back to City Hall by City Attorney Ken Slimp. The reason for this is that a City Ordinance is in effect specifying the time and place of the Council meetings. In order for the meeting place to be changed legally, a new ordinance will have to be drafted and passed.

Police Department cautions drivers

The Winters Police department has begun to strictly enforce the seatbelt and child restraint laws. They also remind citizens it is unlawful for children to ride in the back of pick-ups.

These laws have been in effect for several years, but many drivers have become lax and are failing to abide by them. The Winters Police Department warns that citations will be issued and strict fines will be assessed for offenders. Public cooperation is requested to make our streets and highways safer for everyone.

All sports banquet planned at WHS

An all-sports banquet honoring all athletes at Winters High School is planned for Saturday, April 21 at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles

The oil patch is an ever-changing environment and, lately, oil prices have stabilized and the rig count has held up to respectable levels. This has created some optimism among producers, and, as a result, acquisitions have moved out of the spotlight.

Why, you may ask? With higher oil prices, acquisitions become more expensive. Development then becomes more competitive with acquisitions (cost/bbl), because it is no longer that much cheaper to buy reserves than to develop them. Also, people are just less likely to sell if they see better times ahead.

So, just what is happening on the property transfer front? Well, it seems that old-fashioned horse trading is becoming more and more popular. You know, "I'll give you my Boardwalk for your Park Place and Baltic Avenue" types of transactions. Large independents and majors are especially active in this type of property transfer. Companies are willing to let quality properties go (even with unrealized potential) to someone else in exchange for quality properties that better fit their own strategies.

An example is always helpful. Suppose Company A has a property that is several hundred miles from it's other major reserve centers. The property is profitable and may even have some upside potential that will require development that is not a good strategic fit for the current owner. If Company A can find Company B with properties that are within their (A's) reserve center and that have potential in A's field of expertise, then a trade might be viable. It will take some bargaining and various combinations of properties to fit both companies' needs, but, eventually, a deal probably can be made.

What are the advantages? No cash is required, so no selling of the undesirable property is required to precede the purchase of the desirable property. Thus, the costs of a divestment package and distribution of same is not required. The transaction is closed faster and everyone's goals are achieved quicker. An added plus for a major company is the elimination of considerable red tape. (Even weak, big company managers are more likely to make a timely decision where no actual cash changes hands.) Also, the effect of oil prices is usually eliminated as a risk factor, since both properties in the trade are evaluated with the same oil price scenario on the respective sides of the trade. (If oil prices go down-the value of both properties goes down-still an even trade.)

Even though trades are easier, evaluation of properties involved in the trade still requires good solid fundamental analysis. No short-cuts or rough estimates will do. Everyone still looks bad if the property you get in a trade performs poorer than you projected, and it is even worse if the property you traded away is better than you anticipated.

In any case, trades or barter are becoming a popular method to redeploy assets to the benefit of an operator. The reasons are good ones, and the trades provide many new opportunities for aggressive and focused companies.

By the way, I've got this '82 Buick with lots of potential that I would like to trade for a nice '89 or '90 Cadillac...

Ft. Worth company buys local properties

MSR Exploration Ltd, has reached an agreement in principal to purchase 100 percent working interest in the 46-well Winters (Capps) field of Runnels County from Omni Petroleum Corp. MSR will acquire 100% interest in about 600 BOEPD.

This purchase marks MSR's entry into the Mid-Continent area and is only the first step in a five-year program to expand the company's asset base as evaluations continue to be performed on other areas of interest.

Operator announced

Eland Operating, as an agent for Heddington Oil Company (Dallas), will be operating the Audus-Graham Field properties (north of Winters) recently purchased from Oryx Energy. Current contract employees will be retained according to a spokesman for the company.

RRC levies fines

The Railroad Commission assessed a total of $26,000 in administrative penalties this week to three oil and gas operators for problems under Commission well plugging and pollution rules.

Bill Koenig of Cuero was ordered to pay $6,000 for pollution related problems at a Dewitt County landfarming site and commercial pit located southwest of Cuero. Violations included unauthorized spreading of drilling mud, illegal dumping of saltwater on-site and an improperly maintained containment pit. Landfarming is a waste management practice in which oil and gas wastes are mixed with or applied to the land surface in such a manner that the waste will not migrate off the landfarmed area.

In addition, W. J. Whitt of Albany was penalized $19,000 for ten inactive and unplugged wells on the Sewalt "A" lease in Brown County.

One operator agreed to pay a penalty without admitting any violation of Commission rules. BBL Oil & Gas Company of Giddings was assessed $1,000 for unauthorized discharge of oil on the Farquhar lease in Lee County.

To date in 1990, the Commission has levied more than $278,000 in pollution and well plugging penalties. Last year, the Commission assessed a total of $1,125,000 in such penalties.

FROM A GOLDFISH BOWL

BY PASTOR STEVE BYRNE

Not long ago I took a day off and went to visit my folks. It was during the week, so the rest of the Winters Byrnes didn't get to go. It was also unseasonably cold that day, and unWestTexasly wet.

When it came time to hit the sack in that two-bedroom lake cabin, I went into the second bedroom. Which hadn't been heated that day. It took my mind back to some pleasant memories.

Of when we used to go to Grandma's house on the farm. Those were the days; before the REA line was put in. The house was lighted by the big "power" generator down the hill, which also powered the pumpjack on the leases my grandfather pumped for his employer. The heat was always saved for the main part of the house that was in most use.

So, the bedrooms were always cold when I got into them on winter nights. The hardwood floors were cold enough that I didn't stand still too long before I jumped into that seemingly gigantic double bed-with my sister, cousins, or whoever was there.

The bed felt icy, but the worn out springs let me sink deeply, then hurled me part-way back to the top. Still feeling enveloped by the bed on three sides and chilly on four, I would begin grabbing for the big feather-bed before I had even stopped bouncing.

From then on, I could feel each and every step of the process of warming-up. It seemed to start at the chest and inch downward. Each new body part warming up brought its own special delight.

It was always a contest to see if the feet warmed up first or the nose. Unfortunately, I can never remember staying awake that long. But, then again, I can never remember sleeping so well, or so soundly.

Now that I am older, I have a water bed, which has helped my back problems become almost non-existent. The water bed is heated during the winter, remains water temperature during the summer. Which is nice. But I don't think it starts to compete with those memories of winter nights, being enveloped slowly with the warmth of that feather bed at Grandma's.

I have found that God works that way, too. Most of the time, we don't get instant answers to our prayers, any more than I got instantly warm. But the process begins.

And if we know what to look for. Have the patience to enjoy each step of the process of blessing us with the answers he gives us. At times, life can be simply delightful.

Happy Easter as the Risen Christ envelopes you in His Love like a big, old feather bed.

Pest Management program sign-up

Sign-up for the Runnels-Tom Green Pest Management program began April 3 and will continue until Monday, April 23.

Persons wishing to have their cotton scouted for insects may contact one of the following: Russ Weatherford at Veribest Ag, Tommy Chapman at Wall Seed and Delinting, Arnold Matthesen at Western Chemical, or Brent Mikeska at Wingate Gin.

Producers in all areas of Runnels and Tom Green Counties are welcome to enroll their fields to be checked. At the time of enrollment you must provide an ASCS map for each field you enroll. After all fields are enrolled the Steering Committee will meet and review total acreage and location. Pest Management Steering Committee members include Russ Weatherford, Brent Mikeska, Herbert Woehl, Nolan Niehues, Edward Kellermeier, Rodrick Bredemeyer, Michael Dieke, Bruce Gully and Scotty Belew. If the total acreage signed up exceeds steering committee guidelines, the committee may elect not to accept all fields into the program.

Costs for dryland cotton will be $3.50 per acre for one per week scouting through the season. Irrigated cottonscouting fees will be $6.75 per acre for twice-weekly scouting. Fees cover expenses of scout wages and mileage.

Scouting will begin when the cotton is up and will continue until the end of August. Further information may be obtained from a steering committee member or Richard Minzenmayer, Extension Agent-Entomology (PM) at 365-5212.

Twain Talk

by Twyla Twain

Isn't Easter wonderful? And it comes at such a good time of the year. A time for newness - in grass and flowers, in showers of rain, in dyed Easter eggs, in starched ruffled dresses and new shoes that might pinch.

Easter brings memories of egg hunts that were viewed with mixed emotions. Did you ever wonder about the pink grass in Easter baskets? Where does that come from? I always wanted to see the yard it grew in. Did you ever wish with all your might that you'd be the one to find the "prize" egg at school (although no human could consume that strange concoction of chocolate and candle wax). Remember when you'd run like crazy, squatting and bending, trying to collect all those sugary eggs in the plastic wrappers (except I always got the ones whose sanitary plastic wrap had been long-gone and had probably been licked by a pack of rabid dogs). Here again I always wanted to see the chickens from whence these eggs came. But I usually didn't ponder on this thought for long because I was much too busy trying to keep up with the eggs that kept falling out of my basket and were being scarfed up by my older siblings or bigger classmates who obviously had no talent or ambition to find their own eggs.

These helpless bullies probably never had a plan of action. You know the kind. They never had a basket - they used an old paper sack or just stuffed their pockets. Or worse than that, they ate all their (my) findings as they went along! They usually consumed those funny greenish-grayish-colored boiled eggs (and I was sure I'd get worms or drop dead if I even thought about eating one of those things). Besides, I thought they were supposed to be saved for months to enjoy later - especially in about August when you're supposed to clean out your dresser drawers in preparation for the start of school and all the great new stuff you'd be getting.

Anyway, these colored boiled eggs deserved a place of honor. Like the way one of my neat cousins did. When her mom found her "treasure" eggs in August, the mother warned of the dangers of keeping boiled eggs for such a long time and of all the sickness that could occur if eaten. But my wise cousin informed her mom that she had nothing to worry about because she never boiled the eggs in the first place! Happy Easter!

Granada farm at Wheelock, Texas.

Messina Hof Wine Cellars is located in 19th century manor house at Bryan.

Adventure and Variety

Saturday was a whirlwind day. Breakfast must be over, all luggage loaded and everyone on the bus for departure at 7:30 a.m. One might think we were in a hurry to get home, but this was not the case. There was more adventure awaiting us.

There was a tour of the Granada Farm at Wheelock, Texas, before lunch. Granada provides a full range of bovine reproductive services and products. Their total listing encompasses over 300 sires, from 22 beef breeds, whose semen is in stock for immediate shipment. We were introduced to Mr. America whose current weight is 2,280 lbs. He had won first place at the Houston Stock Show. Sorzoro was a close second in weight at 2,120 lbs. A Texas Longhorn Bull is also kept on hand for those who want to perpetuate this breed.

From the printed material we learned that the Granada Center is one of a group of highly trained and experienced men and women at reproductive centers in four states and in England. The corporate headquarters is in Houston.

Granada Center is the only one that also advertises as an Equine Reproductive Center, and this was of great interest to the many horse lovers in our group.

We were introduced to an 18-year-old horse valued at four and one-half million dollars, which earns $60,000 each time he is used in breeding for the 20 men in California who own him—less Granada's fee, of course. His sire, Windy Ryan, is also used as a breeder, but he is mean and crippled, and has to be kept in a stall. Both animals were futurity horse race winners in their youth.

One horse owned by three Ft. Worth men, was used in breeding 125 times last year at $3,000 a horse.

The farm has many fine animals of its own, including a herd of cows and offspring of the animals. One colt was in the pen with a goat. The orphan colt was being fed goat's milk from a bucket with a covering that resembled an udder. Everything possible is provided or invented for the comfort of the animals living on the farm.

In the twinkling of an eye, our coach was transported into the old world when we drove up to a restored 19th century manor house where the Messina Hof Wine Cellars is located at Bryan, in the region of the Brazos Valley.

Messina Hof is family owned and operated by Paul and Merrill Bonarrigo, who planted their vineyards in 1977 and released their premier vintage in 1983. They have hosted a festival each spring since then to mark the introduction of a new vintage.

"It will be a blending of old-fashioned family fun, wine education and arts appreciation," said Bonarrigo.

This year's Springfest will be April 28-29. The artist's competition will be held on the 28th and entries must be submitted by April 21, at Messina Hof Wine Cellars. The theme for this year's contest is the new visitor's center at the winery. For more information, contact 409-778-9463.

Bonarrigo was a genial host and explained everything to us from the growing of grapes to the savoring of wine: first with a click, click, click; then a clack, clack, clack; and a full rolling on the tongue before swallowing.

The remainder of the trip was spent in quiet, excluding the snoring, and after dinner at Fredericksburg, we arrived home at 10:30 p.m. as scheduled.

A fun-filled and informative trip all the way!

HUMOROUS CATTLE BRANDS...

There are more than 120,000 registered cattle brands in Texas. Of this number a few take a humorous twist. The Palo Pinto County rancher who registered the "FOOL" brand said anyone who tried to make a living raising cattle is a fool. "TAX" and "U (lazy) S" need no explanation.

Centennial Sentinel

by Edna England
Publicity Chairman

Another successful Centennial celebration was enjoyed by approximately 266 this past weekend as they enjoyed the "Tour of Homes." The Centennial Committee wants to express thanks to the homeowners for so graciously showing their houses and to the Winters Women's Club for sponsoring this event. Special thanks go to Melvena Gerhart, Bernie Faubion and Betty Bym.

Through carefully planned publicity campaigns, our neighboring areas know we are an aggressive community. By drawing crowds to our celebration, we create a new prosperity.

In the year 1890 mail was brought into the new town of Winters by the Pony Express. The history of the Pony Express is very interesting, as we know how important our mail is to us today. A system of transporting mails by horses in relays across the Western Plains of the United States was established in April, 1860. For 19 months the Pony Express carried mail from St. Joseph, Missouri through the mid-west to the Pacific coast. Daring, skillful riders rode swift, hardy little ponies at top speed, changing mounts at 190 stations along the 2,000 mile route. The trip took 8 to 10 days. Many riders were shot from their saddles by Indians and pioneer tales tell of ponies galloping riderless with the mail intact to the next station. The riders carrying tissue paper letters in their saddlebags and rushing through on the fleeting ponies bridged the wilderness of the early American frontier and the folks in the Eastern parts of the United States. Soon the overland stage coach carried the mails. But if letters were of real value and marked "HASTE, POST HASTE" the riders of the Pony Express would often gallop past the stagecoach.

Those attending San Jacinto Day festivities on Saturday, April 21, will be reliving that experience. Festivities begin at 10:00 a.m. Deen Thompson, Chairman, is really excited about plans for that day. The Rock Hotel will be the station for the Pony Express to deliver mail from the East. Everyone will be looking forward to getting letters from kinfolks left back home when moving to the new frontier.

There will be a stamp cancellation. Bring something with a postal stamp on it and Dean will cancel it with the pictorial cancellation, a picture of the Rock Hotel and the words "Winters Centennial". The cancellation of a stamp often affects the value of a parcel, particularly of an old specimen.

In the dining hall of the Rock Hotel there will be a mock bar, selling sarsaparilla at 10 cents a shot. High school girls will be bar maids. Simulated gunfights and a lot of spitting, whittling and tall tale spinning will be going on too.

The Chamber of Commerce is also sponsoring the flea market and garage sales, plus lots of food and drink booths. Belles and Brothers will promenade on April 21 at 11:00 a.m.

The pioneer events committee has a centennial celebration letter with a schedule of events that can be sent to Winters high school graduates who live out of town. If anyone in the class of '41 and any later classes would like to have a copy of this letter to send to their class members, please contact Margaret Baldwin at 754-5420 or 754-4515. James Cross, Chairman of Business Promotion, will have some exciting news for next week.

Shares were bought by Charles Morgan Charles of Gordon, Texas in memory of her parents, T. A. (Shorty) and Elmina Morgan.

Michaelis and Cara Bahlman were named to the honorable mention all-star cast. David Evans, faculty member at WHS was the sponsor of the one-act play.

Thank you

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives in the surrounding area for their support in helping us through a very difficult time. This 30-lb. yellow catfish was caught by Brandon Killough, Donny Killough, Jim Matthews and Chris Matthews on a trotline at the Winters Lake on Saturday, April 7. The fish has been kept in a horse trough at Donny Killough's and is scheduled for a final appearance at Beth Wortham's high school biology class. Letter to the editor

I would like to express my opinion on the one police officer everyone seems to criticize and talk about. All I ever hear or read is the bad, never the good. I have been an interpreter for 20 years for the City of Winters. I've been acquainted with all the Winters city officers that have worked here. This one particular officer is not any different from the ones I have met. He does his work well and he knows the law. What I have seen, he has not maltreated anyone. So why do people complain on this one officer? If people only knew what an officer is faced with each time he receives a call, maybe they would appreciate an officer better. I feel this town is very fortunate to have an officer like David Wheeler. People should stop and think before criticizing this one officer.

Thank you,
Louis Gonzales

Bob Bullock reports

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Wednesday the first conviction of a drug dealer for evading the state tax on illegal drugs has resulted in the maximum sentence of 10 years in prison for a Texarkana man. Odis Weaver, 48, was arrested last September in Texarkana with 7.3 grams of cocaine. Bullock said Comptroller agents seized $1,680 from Weaver's bank account for payment of the drug tax in September after issuing a tax bill and filing a lien against Weaver's bank accounts.

"This conviction, plus our tax seizure, puts drug dealers on notice that Texas has gotten tougher on drug dealing. If they don't get out of business or get out of Texas, they face longer prison sentences and they will have to deal with our tax collectors," Bullock said.

Bowie County Criminal District Attorney John Miller Jr., who prosecuted Weaver on the tax evasion charge, also obtained a jury conviction against Weaver for possession of cocaine with a 34-year prison sentence. In addition, the court ordered Weaver to forfeit $8,000 in drug money in his possession.

"The drug tax law was intended to give prosecutors another tool to use against drug dealers in our state and Bowie County Criminal District Attorney John Miller has shown it can be effective. It can put drug dealers behind bars and take the profit out of dealing illegal drugs," Bullock said.

Lake dedication set for May 19

Dedication of the Colorado River Municipal Water District's newest facility, the O.H. Ivie Reservoir and its impounding S. W. Freese Dam (formerly known as Stacy Dam), has been set for May 19.

John L. Traylor, president of CRMWD, which recently completed the $65,000,000 project on the Colorado River 35 miles southeast of Ballinger, said that U. S. Representative Charles Stenholm, who represents the 17th Congressional District, will be the speaker. Other program details are pending.

Ceremonies will be held on what formerly was known as the "observation point." This will provide a sweeping view of the upstream side of the dam and spillway, he noted, and will also be insurance against rises in the river that would impound water sufficient to block most access roads.

Eating Disorder program being considered at NRH

North Runnels Hospital is presently pursuing an innovative program which may enhance our census as well as our revenue. We are well aware of the financial plight of numerous small rural hospitals and the continued decline in census each is experiencing. In order to protect our hospital against these devastating problems we are working with our medical staff on a proposed new program. This program involves the medical treatment of patients suffering from eating disorders. These patients would be referred to our hospital from the Shades of Hope Treatment Center.

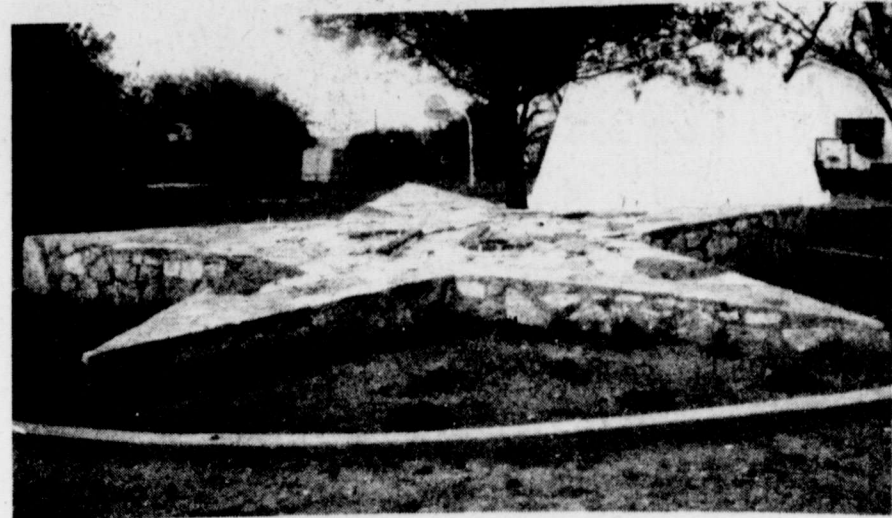

Shades of Hope is located in Buffalo Gap. Because of its depth and concern for the relationships among all areas of a person's life, Shades of Hope is intended only for those who are serious about a lasting recovery. Eating disorders are progressive and life-threatening diseases. These diseases are a growing problem in today's society.

We are very excited about the possibility of offering this new service. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact your Hospital Board members or call the administrator at North Runnels Hospital.

Thank you

Thank you for your love and kindness shown to me in my time of sorrow.

Love you,
Wayne Satterfield

Cub Scouts from Den 5 and their leader, Dottie Loudermilk, got a start on their contribution to the Centennial this week when they began a landscaping project at the north water tower area. The money to be used in the project was earned by selling popcorn and by contributions from interested citizens. This will be a continuing project for the year. The Scouts wish to extend their appreciation to the following: West Texas Utilities, AmWest Savings, Spill Bros. Furniture, Winters Flexline, Bahlman Jewelers, Randy and Dottie Loudermilk and to the City of Winters.

WTRC to benefit from dinosaur exhibit in San Angelo

An earth-shaking exhibit of "Dinosaurs! and more," is open in San Angelo at the Commons shopping center, 3234 Sherwood Way. Sponsored by West Texas Rehabilitation Center, the life-like display may be seen through June 17.

Created by the California-based Dinamation Inc., the exhibit includes dinosaur replicas whose internal computerized pneumatic systems allow them to stomp, flex and roar—but they won't bite! In addition to the creatures, there's video tape presentations, hands-on activities and audiovisual and educational souvenirs.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Admission is $4 for adults and $3 for children ages 3-17 and senior citizens age 65 and older. Discounts are available for groups of 10 or more and pre-scheduled tours may be arranged by calling 949-9321.

Local Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) members will assist the Rehab Center by helping staff the exhibit during its two-month showing.

WTRC President/Executive Director Shelley V. Smith says the exhibit is "a very special attraction for San Angelo and the surrounding area, and an excellent educational resource for kids of all ages."

The Rehab Center will receive a portion of the proceeds generated by admission and souvenir fees.

Graduating seniors may apply for scholarships

Seniors graduating from a high school in Runnels County and whose parents are members of the Runnels County Farm Bureau are eligible to apply for the $500 Runnels County Farm Bureau scholarship. Contact your school's counselor or the Runnels County Farm Bureau officer for more information and application form.
