OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles

Have you ever wondered how long the oil and gas business will last? The popular opinion seems to indicate that this business is on its way out, even in the great state of Texas, as a viable source of economic power. Some disagree with this point of view. John Sharp, Texas Railroad Commissioner, is one of those dissenters.

I had the opportunity to talk with Mr. Sharp over dinner a couple of weeks ago, and he has some interesting points to make.

First of all, let's put this in perspective by comparing the oil business with something meaningful. How about the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC)? The SSC is undeniably an economic boon for the state and it made headlines across the nation. According to Mr. Sharp to equal the economic impact of the petroleum business in Texas, forty-two SSC's would have to be built. Get the picture? The oil and gas business is still a huge economic machine that, as Mr. Sharp explains, will be around for quite some time.

Mr. Sharp believes that gas, as opposed to oil, will become the more dominant product in the next decade and beyond. This theory is based on the "clean fuel" qualities of natural gas and the huge gas reserves of Texas and the rest of the nation. You see, natural gas competes with fuel oil and coal in the two biggest markets—home heating and electricity generation. Down here gas is dominant, but the Northeast is a huge potential market that natural gas was forced out of in the late 1970's.

Those are strong words. Who was the culprit? Probably some liberal yankee congressman, right? Wrong. The whole mess began with our own Texas Railroad Commission (RRC). Surprised? Let Mr. Sharp explain—I will paraphrase.

In the late 70's, a gas supply problem developed in South Texas. San Antonio and the surrounding communities had a gas and power deliverability shortage that threatened homes and businesses during the coldest part of the year. This led the RRC to thinking that the gas supply was dwindling and that gas as a power and heating source should be supplemented and eventually replaced.

Unfortunately, the whole episode was a result of a deliverability problem only, not a supply

(or reserve) problem. But, no one bothered to check on the existing gas reserves. They were more than adequate as it turns out, but the RRC passed rules that discouraged gas as a fuel for new power plants or as a heating fuel. The federal government really liked the idea of all that regulation, so they adopted the strategy as a national energy policy. This resulted in the Natural Gas Policy Act that severely regulated production, transportation, and use of natural gas. The end-result was that no new power plants have been built (since the Act's passage) that used natural gas as a feed stock, and home heating oil became the heating power source for homes in the Northeast.

The problem is only now being considered for correction. Obviously, gas reserves are more than sufficient, so the markets need to be opened to gas on a level playing field. Mr. Sharp and a delegation of producers and transporters of natural gas are meeting with power companies, government officials, and the public in the northern states to convince them of the advantages of natural gas over coal and fuel oil. With the environment being a hot topic, gas really looks good because of its "clean burn". In the meantime, gas controls are slowly being lifted. This bright future for gas coupled with the tertiary recovery potential for oil leads Mr. Sharp to believe that the oil and gas (or should I say gas and oil) business has a long and prosperous life ahead. The very fact that alternate fuel sources are not even out of the blocks, indicates that the country's (and the world's) huge fuel appetite will be met, in large part, by petroleum for quite some time.

I hope so. I've got kids to send to college.

Dunking Booth Spotlights Officer Wheeler

The Winters Chamber of Commerce and the Winters Rodeo Association will combine forces to sponsor the "Dunk A Dignitary Booth" at the 1990 Winters Mayfest, Saturday, May 5 in Winters City Park.

Heading the list of volunteers who will be trying to sit high and dry in the dunking booth is Winters Police Officer David Wheeler. Officer Wheeler is being referred to as "the million dollar man," due to the revenue expected to be generated by his prospective dunkers. Bobby Airhart, president of the Winters State Bank, has generously donated two of the bank's vice presidents, Dale Morrison and Don Johnston, who are also expected to generate activity. Other volunteers who will be available for dunking throughout the day are law enforcement officers, business men and women, civic leaders, and students.

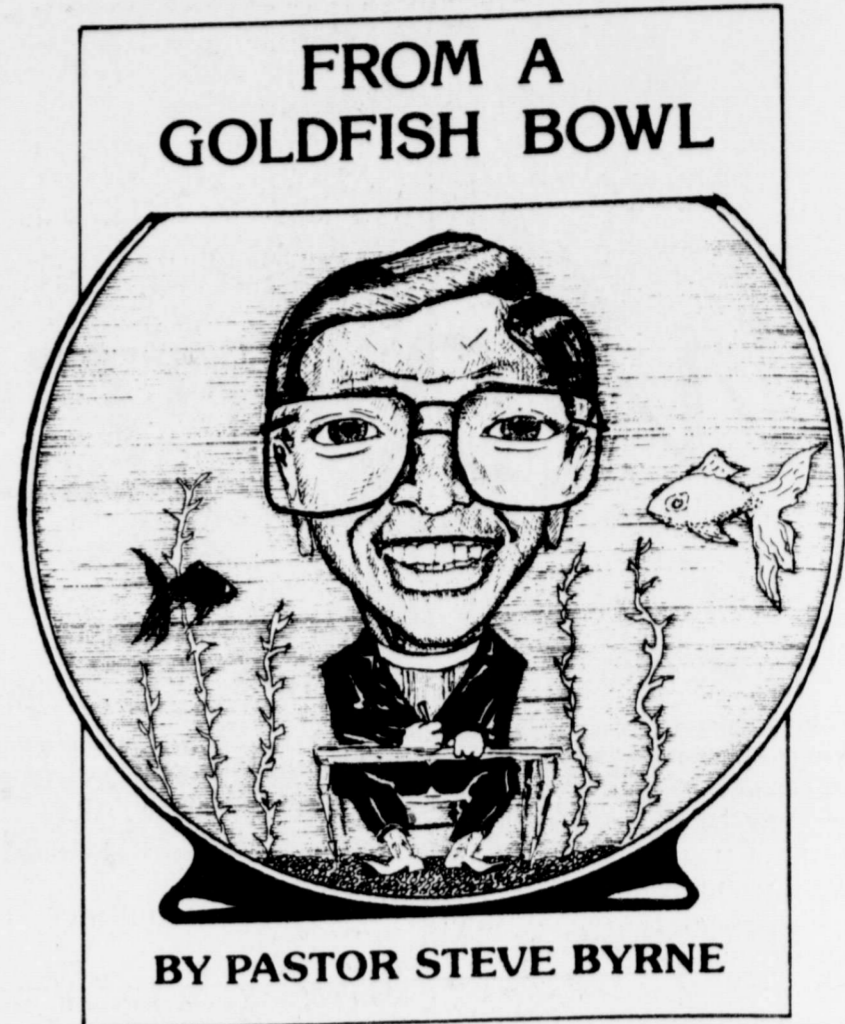

Prospective dunkers will receive three balls for one dollar to have a chance to hit the lever in order to dunk the volunteer of their choice. On the other hand, if a prospective dunker does not trust his ability to throw a ball and hit the lever, or if he just does not wish to leave the dunker's fate to chance, he may purchase a "SURE THING PUSH" on the lever for only $10.

Students perform in recital

Two local piano students performed in a student recital sponsored by Abilene Music Teachers last Saturday, April 28. Jana Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jackson, and Robyn Parramore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parramore both played pieces written by Mark Nevin.

The recital was a tribute to Lynn Freeman Olson, David Carr Glover and Mark Nevin, composers who have died in the past few years.

The girls are students of Susan Connor.

Last week I mentioned going on a Via de Cristo (Cursillo) weekend. This is a lay renewal movement within most churches which teaches and inspires clergy and lay folk for Christian life and service. Blessings seem to flow at these events. Not the planned stuff, but the movement of the Holy Spirit.

My blessing was Bill. Twenty-two laymen and three pastors, most strangers to each other, met that Thursday evening. Bill was one of them.

He appeared to be in his early 30's. Nice looking. But when he showed up, his head, arms, and legs were jerking and flailing uncontrollably. It was easy to see that Bill had a movement disorder.

During the classes that first evening, Bill continued to gyrate, unable to sit still. His feet tapped the concrete incessantly, constantly. It was annoying.

Then I began to talk to Bill during the break. He had been a CPA until his disorder forced him to quit. A highly intelligent, deeply sensitive human being. Others evidently talked to him as well, and grew to appreciate and love him as a person. We made allowances for his physical condition, which was necessary. Otherwise, he was just one of the guys. Included in everything.

By Sunday, the constant tapping of his feet on the concrete was no longer annoying. It became the rhythm, the drum-beat, of our sessions. The audible sign of the presence of our friend, Bill. I can't imagine how empty the sessions would have been without our rhythm section.

In the closing ceremony, attended by others who had previously attended Via de Cristo and some who had not, Bill asked for the microphone. His body moving uncontrollably, Bill's voice and diction were as clear as a bell. This was a turning point for him. The first time since his disorder had limited him so much, he had been treated like any one else. An integral part of the group. He thanked God for that.

There wasn't a dry eye in the place.

I wouldn't have made an effort to get to know Bill if I had met him briefly in a social setting. It was too uncomfortable. But I would have missed a real blessing.

We are all handicapped, Bill's was just more evident. Out there for every one to see. My hesitancy and discomfort in talking to Bill initially is just as real a handicap. Just more hidden.

Jesus once prayed that all his disciples might be one. That prayer really MADE us all ONE. I think he was really praying that we would get it through our thick skulls and other handicaps that he has already accomplished our unity.

Beneath all the masks and appearances, we are pretty much the same. Gifts one to another. Blessings.

New pipeline capacity for Lone Star Gas

Lone Star Gas Company, a Division of ENSERCH Corporation, will construct a 24.5-mile, 30-inch gas pipeline in Ellis County, Texas to connect its 36-inch pipeline from West Texas to its 30-inch Gulf Coast pipeline. Additional compressor equipment will be added at the Katy hub near Houston to enhance the interconnect capability. Total investment will be about $17 million. Construction will commence shortly with completion expected in the third quarter of this year.

Lone Star has contracted with a major company for the transportation of 100 million cubic feet of gas per day from the natural gas hub at Waha in West Texas to the Katy hub. An additional agreement provides for transportation capability to the Carthage hub in East Texas. The agreement is for five years with an additional five-year option.

"This is an important step for Lone Star Gas," said David Biegler, Chairman and President-. "Lone Star is the only pipeline directly linking the three major natural gas hubs at Waha, Katy and Carthage.

Her grandchildren, Justin and Scottie, really liked the sandwiches and cake. The 50 candles set off the smoke detector, no fire. Between 15 and 20 attended. She's a member of the Old Senseless Club.

"Many more surprise Birthday parties Elaine."

Senior Citizens Nursing Home News

By Billie Ruth Bishop

Thanks to Cleo and George Brown and Wilma Higgins, the residents and employees have really enjoyed the beautiful flowers every day at the nurse's station.

Monday afternoon the nursing home held the monthly Employee's Birthday Party. Only two of our employees had birthdays this month, they were Odilia Escamia and Bertie Beltron. Their birthdays were celebrated with a salad luncheon. Everyone enjoyed the good salads and the fun time together.

Monday morning Betty Pinkerton came and brought an hour of good piano and organ music.

Thanks to the churches who came last week and all the visitors and volunteers, they are greatly appreciated.

Dora Busher was the bingo champ last week. The banner now hangs on her door.

Vela Laird visited over the weekend with Calvin and Bessie, she returned Tuesday morning.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank everyone for all the cards, flowers, memorials and visits during the loss of our grandmother. We appreciate your thoughtfulness. The Gary Goff family

Twain Talk

by Twyla Twain

Have you bought a new bathing suit this year? Now that has got to be one of the most shocking events of the year for some of us. There's nothing quite like the sight of those white, chapped, dimpled legs making a rude appearance in April after hibernating all winter beneath miles of socks, pantyhose, thermal underwear and jeans. It takes a great show of strength to try on that first bathing suit of the season. I've found that it really takes away from the full effect of the new swimwear if you keep your socks or knee-high hose on while you try on the bathing suit. Seems like it cuts down on the glare (something similar to snow blindness). Maybe if the suits weren't cut up quite so high on the sides - that only exposes more flesh that has very obviously been hail damaged and lost the battle against gravity. This tragic fact was brought home to me by my 5-year old daughter who told me that my backside looked just like my Aunt Tillie's. This wouldn't have been so bad except for the minor fact that Aunt Tillie was 78 years old at the time!

So I decided to never again take my child along whenever I shopped for a swimsuit - she was much too honest! I needed someone who could really understand the situation and be kind. Someone who knew the trauma of selecting a swimsuit in a camouflage pattern. Most of all, I needed someone who would be on my side and lie to me at just the right time. So I took my best friend with me.

Now you'd think this woman - my fellow cellulite-ridden, stretch-marked best friend - would have just a little compassion and sympathy. Right? Wrong! She started out o.k. Helped me pick out three suits that she just "knew" were right for me. The first suit wouldn't even begin to jump over the saddlebags I like to keep on the lower part of my hips (the part that connects to the legs, I think). So my "friend" got a larger size for me. Much better. Got over the saddlebags with no problems but whenever I pulled the top up, there was still enough room to store my beach towel and my lawn chair in the "molded cups". (I always thought that term referred to what happened when you didn't rinse out the old lake water).

So my friend decided I should try on a 2-piece suit. Sure thing. The bottom part wasn't too bad and I managed to find a top in the kids' section. But there was this awful middle part that looked like bread dough rising out of the pan. This stomach hadn't been exposed to the elements in many, many years and I quickly decided this would be a cruel joke to the free world so we mixed the 2-piece suit.

So as I stood in the dressing room, (why do they have to have full-length mirrors, anyway) I'm wondering what an hysterical sight it would be if those mirrors were two-way mirrors and there were throngs of people gathered outside as part of their therapy to snap out of their deep depression. Just as I pull on the last layer of my regular clothes, my friend returns with "the suit". She just "knows" that I'll absolutely love it. That it will look great on me. That I'll be the hit at the pool party. If I'm not, I can always wear it and work for the highway department because it is the same neon orange color as the vests those guys wear. I tried to be a trooper about it and squeezed and sucked in everything I could. You could hear that polyester screaming for miles but I got the suit on. We stood in silence, my friend and I. This dear friend whom I treasure. With all the diplomacy of a peace talks negotiator, she told me it looked great - that the purple accents in the suit matched my varicose veins perfectly. What a friend!

My Kind of Baseball

There is some renewed interest in Rogers Hornsby, a Winters native, who became a famous baseball player and ended up in the Baseball Hall of Fame.

A display of Hornsby memorabilia is being placed in the museum, and this is an appropriate time for some research on him. This information is from a story that I wrote for the Winters Enterprise in 1981.

Some years ago, when we learned that Rogers Hornsby, Baseball Hall of Famer, was a Winters' native, people began calling and writing for information concerning him and his career. I didn't know anything about him and couldn't find anyone who did except Fred Young. He recalled that the family lived on a farm north of town in the vicinity of the old airport, on what was later the D. C. Robertson place. The family moved away when Rogers was small. Fred follows baseball, and knew that Hornsby had also been a manager, but knew no specific details.

When Mrs. Bill Russell learned of my search, she wrote her brother, Jon Johnson, in Greenwood, Arkansas an avid baseball fan. He sent us the following information, some of which was taken from Hornsby's book, My Kind of Baseball, now out of print, I assume.

Rogers Hornsby is often regarded as the best right-handed hitter of all time. Some regard him as the best all-around hitter of all. Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth were left-handed-batters. Ruth hit more home runs than Hornsby, but had a lower batting average. Cobb's average was slightly higher, but had fewer home runs.

Hornsby began his career in 1915 as a shortstop with the St. Louis Cardinals but was quickly moved to second base. Although noted for his batting record, he was a fine fielder. In 1922 he led the National league with a .967 fielding record.

It is said that Hornsby would not go to movies or read by artificial light because he thought those activities would hurt his eyes and his batting would suffer.

Hornsby became a playing manager while still with the Cardinals. He took over the helm at mid-season in 1925 from Branch Rieky, the famous baseball executive. He finished the season with a record of 64-51.

In 1926 he managed the entire season with an enviable record of 889-65. The Cards played seven games against the New York Yankees and walked off with the National League Pennant. The 1926 series is notable for the brilliant pitching of the aging Grover Alexander and Tony Lazzeri's long foul.

In 1927, St. Louis and the New York Giants traded second basemen. Frank Frisch went to the Cards, and Hornsby went to the Giants.

Hornsby played only one season with the Giants. He chalked up 361 hits (26 home runs) and 125 RBIs.

1928 found Hornsby with one of the poorest teams in the league, the Boston Braves. Hornsby averaged .387 to lead the league, but the team ended up next to the cellar. Early in the season, he had taken over as manager, but with little to work with, he ended the season with 39-83. One of his teammates on that 1928 team was the famous, but now fading slugger George Sisler. Sisler had been one of the finest American League hitters in the early 1920's, however, after an eye injury, his batting dropped, but he still managed to turn in a .340 for Hornsby.

Hornsby was back on second base in 1929 with the Chicago Cubs. The manager was the famous Joe McCarthy. Hornsby batted .380 (40 homers) and brought in 149 runs. Chicago won the Pennant that year, but lost to the Philadelphia Athletics in the series.

The 1929 World Series is notable for the 10-run inning in game No. 4. The Athletics were ahead in the series, two games to one. But in game four in Philadelphia, Chicago was ahead 8-0 in the 7th inning with two out and none on. The Philadelphia batters started tagging the Cub hurlers. Before the inning was over, the Athletics had scored 10 runs. The final score was 10-8. In game five, also played in Philadelphia, the Cubs were ahead 2-0, going into the bottom of the ninth, but the Athletics scored three runs to win the game and the series.

Hornsby only played in 42 games in 1930, but the season was important to him just the same. Toward the end of the season, when it was clear that the Cubs would finish behind Gabby Street's Redbirds, manager Joe McCarthy was fired. Hornsby again was manager. There were only four games left in the season but the Cubs won all of them.

In 1931 Hornsby played his last season as a full time starter. He also managed. Although his .331 average was still one of the best in the league, Rogers was beginning to slip some. As manager, he led the Cubs to an 84-70 season. The team finished 3rd, 17 games behind Gabby Street's Cardinals, who ran away with the pennant that year.

In 1932, Hornsby only played 19 games. He also lost his job as manager. With a record of 53-44 and the team in second place, Rogers was replaced by Charley Crumm as manager. The team went on to win the pennant and meet the Yankees in the World Series. Hornsby didn't play in the series. The '32 series is notable because of Ruth's "called" home run in game three in Chicago. Ruth is supposed to have pointed with his bat toward the center field fence as though to say, "that's where it's going." He then hit a home run to that spot. Ruth did indeed point to something out there distracting him and that it should be removed. Whether the homer was called or not, we'll probably never know for sure, but most people believe it, so it is now part of baseball lore.

In 1933, Hornsby was first with the St. Louis Cardinals, then the St. Louis Browns of the American League. He played in a total of 57 games and batted .326. When he went to the Browns, he was again a manager. The team had a record of 20-34 under Rogers but still finished in last place.

Hornsby managed the Browns until 1937. In '34 the team was 67-85 and 7th place. In '36 the team was 57-98 and again finished 7th. In '37 with a record of 25-50 and the team in last place, Hornsby was replaced by Jim Bottomley.

Years later, in 1952, Hornsby was again the manager of the Browns. After 50 games, the team had a record of 22-28 and Rogers was again replaced, this time by Marty Marion. The Browns did no better and still finished 7th.

After leaving the Browns in '52, Hornsby immediately went to Cincinnati and became manager there. He finished the season with a record of 27-24, and the Reds finished in 6th place.

In 1953 Hornsby was again replaced as manager. This would finish his managerial career. The team record was 64-82 when he was replaced with only 8 games left in the season.

More next week.

Future Kindergarteners visit WISD

On Wednesday, April 26, the 5 year old class of Wee Care School visited WISD kindergarten classes. They were able to enjoy painting and making zoo animals with Ms. Davis's class. In Mrs. Randolph's class they sat on the carpet and listened to a farm story. The children also visited the P.E. class where they played line soccer.

The students of Wee Care School would like to thank Ms. Davis, Mrs. Randolph, and the P.E. coaches for letting them come and participate. They extend a special 'thank you' to Margaret Anderson for assisting teacher, Diann McMinn, in their morning of learning and fun. The students are excited about attending public school next year. Shown here are members of the Wee Care School along with members of the regular kindergarten class. Wee Care students participating in the visit were: Jeremy Corley, Brandon Davis, Stefanie Davis, Lincoln Edwards, Michael Franklin, Lauren Hogan, Lisa Lee, Matthew Meyer, Kirby Meyers, and Sara Speegle.

Information needed

Roy Young has requested The Enterprise assist him in getting some information. The Winters Semipro Baseball team played in 1925-26. Catcher on the team was Lee Johnson; first base was played by Doc Chapman; second base was Stitz Scroggins; short stop, Frank Johnson; third base played by Myrl McCasland; right field by Don McCasland; center field Dot Scroggins; pitcher Rube Virden and there Roy says his memory fails him!

Who was that left fielder? The manager of the team was Charlie Meeks. If you know who the left fielder was, please call Roy Young at 754-5254.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank everyone for all the visits and food while I was in the hospital and since I returned home.
May God Bless you.

Each year the U.S. trucking industry employs more people, carries more freight and pays more taxes than any other mode of transportation, reports Thomas H. Hanna, President of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

Commercially operated trucks account for 57 percent of the nearly $12 billion the Federal government took in from highway user taxes. At the state level, trucks paid 40 percent of highway taxes. Combined, these user revenues total close to $19 billion a year.

Centennial Sentinel

by Edna England
Publicity Chairman

A Centennial flavor will be added to Mayfest 1990 as festivities are held at Ted Meyer Park and Winters Community Center on Saturday, May 5 beginning at 9 a.m. Mary Beth Drake, Promenade Chairperson, is asking that all Centennial Belles and Brothers of the Brush Chapters gather at the front door of the Community Center Saturday at 11:15 a.m. to promenade through the park, visiting the tents and booths, then inside the center to stroll the aisles and visit with exhibitors. All will then go to the gazebo for a style show about 11:45 with Frances Bredemeyer and Scarlotte Mikeska as narrators. They will be emphasizing accuracy and authentic portrayal of costumes of the past. The show will be very informal and spontaneous and everyone will be recognized. Anyone who has not joined a chapter yet but would like to promenade will certainly be welcomed.

Everyone is urged to be at Blizzard Football Field at 12:30 p.m. to have pictures shot for the "Good Morning America" TV show. The footage shot will be aired at a later date to be announced.

The Z. I. Hale Museum Foundation will have a booth with information about Rogers Hornsby, a well-known baseball player born in Winters. The baseball tournament to be held this weekend has been named in his honor. There will be Rogers Hornsby T-shirts for sale which have been approved by the Rogers Hornsby estate and the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York.

The Winters Woman's Club will be selling Centennial Cookbooks and baked goods at the Mayfest. If you don't have a cookbook yet, take this opportunity to get one for yourself and friends and relatives.

Forty-five different "Belle" Chapters are in various forms of organization at present. There is still time to organize chapters, so don't be left out. If you want to organize a chapter on your block, at your place of employment, your church or other organization, kits can be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce office. If you need other assistance, contact Cheryl Bryan or Rhuenell Poe. Belonging to a Belle Chapter is fun and a great way to support the Centennial. Recently formed chapters include the Dinner Belles (Activity Center Girls) with Arlene Boles as High Bustle. Also the Laurel Belles have 38 members living on Laurel Drive and Parklane. That is 100% participation and Hortic Joyce is High Bustle.

All High Bustles are requested to turn in their ensignia to Rhuenell Poe in order for a chart to be posted of all the chapters and their ensignias. All groups which have organized are encouraged to turn in their kits and apply for their official charter number.

Looking forward to June-
The Women's Service League is sponsoring a picnic supper and hootenanny (old fashioned family night) at Blizzard Football Field on Friday night, June 1 at 6:30 p.m. Plan to be there for a wild, wonderful time! A barber shop quartet will entertain while you eat and each Belle and Brush Chapter is asked to plan a game. The Cotton Belle Chapter is planning a skillet throwing contest.

Looking forward to Centennial Week-

"Rockin' N' Rememberin'" planned by the special days committee headed by Sandy Griffin and Joyce Bahlman will be held Monday, June 25. The team chairpersons are Ozzie and Mamie Dell Reed, George and Cleo Brown, Pec Wee and Kat Hope, Jiggs and Ouida Nichols. Rules of "Rockin' N' Rememberin'" include: you must swear to being 65 years of age or older, or be named an honorary over 65 person. Rockin' will be done in the shade under the big tent downtown and there is no charge for entry. Each participant will receive a scroll indicating their part in the Centennial.

Also planned the same day is a special lunch at the Winters Activity Center. Everyone's favorite food will be served and the cost of the meal will be a penny for each year of age.

A bonnet contest will be held that day so senior citizens mark your calendar and plan to be in Winters because that is our day to howl and make whoopee. Watch the paper for more exciting happenings on that day.

Attending the Ethnic Festival in Ballinger Saturday was Mac Sayles, Susan Bryan and Gerald Smith with Mac's horse, Amos, and the Centennial Wagon. On Sunday they were giving rides at the arts and crafts festival at West Gate Center in Abilene.

Pony rides, exotic animals and petting zoo promise exciting Mayfest

The Winters Rodeo Association is preparing to make the 1990 Mayfest the most exciting ever. The club will host a variety of activities, including horse and pony rides, pony and cart rides, and an exotic animal petting zoo.

The most fascinating part of the exhibit for some spectators will be the exotic animals. A llama, a rare Salmon Crested Moluccan Cockatoo, pigeons, an African Gray Parrot, a Blue Headed Parrot, and a pet snake are only a few of the exotics which will be on display. For those who like to feed and touch, the most stimulating area will be the petting zoo, where they may enjoy communicating with gentle, lovable animals. The petting zoo will contain goats, lambs, ducklings, baby chicks, barbados, rabbits, cats, puppies, and other intriguing animals.

To accommodate the Mayfest goers who really crave excitement W.R.A. members will provide horse and pony rides and pony cart rides.

A photographer will be available to take instant photographs of participants and a horse, pony and cart, or any of the exotic or petting zoo animals.

The Depth of Prayer

Jesus taught us a prayer to God. It was for our admonition. It begins—OUR FATHER WHICH ART IN HEAVEN. In this, He includes us in the family of God, not just one of the created.

HALLOWED BE THY NAME—being the head of the family of those who believe in God, Most revered or Holy.

THE KINGDOM COME, THY WILL BE DONE—We are the servants of God and not vice versa. We are subject to His wishes and are at His love and mercy.

ON EARTH AS IT IS IN HEAVEN—With the coming of Jesus Christ to earth, it was established on earth, and believers should try through their faith to make it so on earth as we envision Heaven to be.

GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD—Yesterdays needs are gone, today's prayer is for now, and tomorrow is yet to come.

FORGIVE OUR OUR DEBTS AS WE FORGIVE THOSE WHO DEBT AGAINST US—The debt of life, love, etc. we owe God, can never be repaid but we can pay on the interest by serving those around us in an attitude of forgiveness, love and mercy.

LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION BUT DELIVER US FROM EVIL—When we deliberately do evil in spite of the written word of God, we are going contrary to God's leadership. His son is the perfect example to go by.

FOR THINE IS THE KINGDOM AND THE POWER AND THE GLORY FOREVER—God is the alpha and omega, we see His power from the beauty of creation-in life in space, the mountains, the seas and even the wind is at His command. We will serve Him as one of His creation, in honor or dishonor, in love and obedience or with reluctance and selfishness, belief or disbelief. As He commands, through His son, we can follow the path He desires of us. AMEN

It is very important for any 8th grader planning to attend WHS next year to be present. Parents are urged to attend as this is an opportunity for you to receive information and have questions answered. Plan to attend Monday night's meeting!

Third Graders to present program

The Winters Elementary Third grade classes would like to invite you to view their rendition of Hal Leonard's At The Hop. It's a topsy turvy world as a time machine throws students back to the 50's, then brings the 50's to the 90's. You'll love the upbeat dialogue and music as both eras meet.

The program will be presented at 7 p.m. May 3, 1990 in the high school auditorium. Come join the beat.

Mothers' Day Luncheon

The Bethany Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met at noon on May 1, in the Fellowship Hall for their monthly luncheon and business meeting. Class members had invited other mothers who are not members of this class as special guests. The meeting was opened with a prayer by class teacher, Mrs. Vivian Foster. President Jo Olive Hancock brought the business meeting to order. A song was led by Mrs. Ethel Clark with Mrs. Louise Waggoner at the piano. A very interesting devotional was given by Mrs. Marsha Shoemaker on "The Different Stages of Motherhood". She also gave several beautiful poems concerning different stages in life.

Members present were Elsie Sanders, Jo Olive Hancock, Opal Hamilton, Lucille Virden, Myrtle Duncan, Dorothy Bedford, Jimmie Davis, Nina Bedford, Lillian Eubanks, Vivian Foster, Lorene Moreland, Ethel Mae Clark, Louise Waggoner, Pinkie Irvin, and Omega Priddy. Visitors were Alice Traylor, LaMoynne Moore, Pat Simpson, Agnes Burson, Alberta Hurt, Marsha Shoemaker, Emily Penzgras and Jeff and Sara Beth Heidenheimer. Marsha Shoemaker was presented with a plant as a token of appreciation. The meeting was dismissed by all members and guests joining hands and repeating the class prayer together.

School will not close for lack of funds

Winters schools will continue normal operations in the event the State withholds its funding, according to Johnny Bob Smith, Winters Independent School District Business Manager. Mr. Smith stated that WISD had sufficient funds to operate through May. If the State legislature has not acted by that time, the school would borrow money on a short-term plan. The funds could be borrowed locally or from the Texas Association of School Boards. Smith also stated that if and when a bill passes funds would be furnished retroactively.

On Tuesday, May 1, 1990, District Judge Scott McCown gave the State of Texas a 30-day extension to equalize the state school finance system. At the end of that time Judge McCown would close off school funding or implement his own plan if the legislature and Governor could not agree on a suitable plan.

Winters, Texas—The annual National Nurses' Day celebration on May 7 will honor the nursing profession and the contributions nurses have made to communities across the nation. This one-day celebration will recognize how nurses are working for health-care excellence through patient education and information, and a dedication to quality nursing care.

The obstetric, gynecologic, and neonatal (OGN) nursing specialist focus on caring for women from adolescence through menopause, and infants from birth through the first month of life. Almost every life has been touched at some time by obstetric, gynecologic, and neonatal nurses.

While their roles have changed over time, perinatal and women's health nurses have always maintained their roles as their patients' partners in health-care excellence. Today, nurses share more responsibility with physicians in caring for patients. This added responsibility has allowed nurses to pursue new areas of health-care practice.

Nurses may become obstetric-gynecologic nurse practitioners who serve as patients' primary caretakers. Nurse practitioners assess patients' health, diagnose problems, and prescribe treatments.

Likewise, a certified nurse-midwife (CNM) can be the primary caretaker for both pregnant and non-pregnant women. A CNM is qualified to care for a woman throughout her child-bearing years and beyond as well as during pregnancy, labor, delivery, and postpartum.

In addition to providing direct patient care, perinatal and women's health nurses work as counselors, educators, researchers, and nurse supervisors. While OGN nurses have many new and different roles, they are still their Mayor Randy Springer, center, stands with outgoing city administrator Chuck MacIlvaine, right, and incoming city administrator Charles Ludwick. MacIlvaine, who came to Winters in March, 1987 has resigned and will be residing near Brownwood. In discussing his tenure as city administrator, MacIlvaine said when he came to Winters, the City was on the verge of bankruptcy and the new water plant had to be completed. The city is now on sound financial footing and the water plant is complete and operating. He says he believes City Hall should present a good image for the City and it is in need of some fixing up and landscaping in order to do that.

Ludwick will begin his official duties as city administrator on May 14.

Fruit trees need weed control

by Richard Minzenmayer

When should the "bare look" around fruit trees begin? It begins at planting time and continues forever. The longer grass is allowed to grow under fruit trees, the greater the reduction of new growth and future crops.

Weeds and grass around trees decrease growth for several years. For example, if tree growth is reduced by 20 percent for one year because of grass competition, growth is automatically reduced 20 percent during the second year's growth. Grass competition can reduce growth by as much as 50 percent.

If you don't like the bare look, mulching can be beneficial. Spreading organic materials such as compost leaves and grass clippings or straw under and around fruit trees effectively controls grass and weeds while at the same time providing an attractive appearance.

Not only does mulching with organic materials prevent grass competition, but it also conserves moisture for tree root use and stabilizes soil temperatures (roots do not like extremely hot or cold soils). Provide a 3 to 4 inch thick mulch at least 3 feet wide around young trees throughout the growing season.

If trees are closely surrounded by tenacious grasses such as Bermuda, remove the turf by hand or use a recommended herbicide.

Liberal watering can offset the retarding effect of grass. Proper watering results in greater numbers of next year's fruit buds that will survive frosts more successfully. Higher yields and larger fruit size will result.

West Texas fruit trees need a deep, thorough soaking once a week during the growing season, either from natural rainfall or supplemental irrigation. When irrigating, be sure to allow water to penetrate deeply. For large trees let water flow slowly onto an area under the dripline of the tree for several hours. Since large trees require considerable amounts of water, irrigation that is adequate for lawn grasses growing under trees is not adequate for an actively growing fruit tree. A good rule of thumb is to water large trees every week by letting the hose seep for 6 to 8 hours on at least two sides of the tree. Water within the dripline of the tree, not just next to the trunk. Few important water absorbing roots are directly next to the trunk.

Winters to be on "Good Morning America"

Saturday, May 5, at the football field KTXS will be filming a segment for "Good Morning America" in conjunction with the Winters Centennial. All interested persons who want to scream "Good Morning West Texas," meet at the football field about 12:25 for a 12:30 shoot. The filming may require four or five takes of each 'good morning', so allow 30 minutes at the most for the entire production.

If you want to dress in Centennial attire you may, but it is not necessary. The date and time for airing will be publicized ahead of time.

If you have any questions, call Laurie Franklin at 754-4172.

VA Questions and Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q—Is tutorial assistance available under the Montgomery GI Bill?

A—Yes, up to $100 a month for 12 months.

Q—I read that studies have shown that one-third of homeless men are veterans. Does the Department of Veterans Affairs offer any aid or assistance to these veterans?

A—VA has a comprehensive network of health-care services and a broad range of benefits for veterans. Many of these services, although not specifically designed for the homeless, have assisted homeless veterans or have prevented them from becoming homeless. In addition,

VA operates two special programs that offer health-care and rehabilitation services to homeless veterans — the Homeless Chronically Mentally Ill Program and the Domiciliary Care for Homeless Veterans Program. The combined efforts of these programs have assisted over 11,000 homeless veterans with medical and psychiatric treatment, counseling and residential rehabilitation programs.

An Open Letter To The Voters Of The North Runnels Hospital District KEEP OUR HOSPITAL OPEN

As individuals who are vitally interested in keeping North Runnels Hospital open and providing quality health care to this community, we submit the following information to those who will be voting in the Hospital Board election on May 5, 1990.

The members of the current hospital board have worked long and hard to protect the hospital, its financial status, and its employees so that health care will remain available in the community. They have, by their continued diligence and work, proven their commitment to the hospital, its function, and the community.

It is our opinion that the current Board members are both dedicated and experienced and that we should keep this experience at work. They have proven over the past years that their only interest lies in having the hospital available to meet the medical needs of the community.

We would ask that you give consideration to keeping the current board (Bill Cathey, Ronnie Poehls, and Fred Watkins) intact and to express your satisfaction with the job these members have done by voting for them in this important Hospital Board election. Thank you for your consideration.

A horse's easy gallop is called a canter from the gait believed to have been used by pilgrims to Canterbury Cathedral.
