WHS students receive UIL Scholar Awards

The University Interscholastic League "UIL Scholar Award" is presented to students who graduate in the top 10 percent of their classes and have also participated in a UIL academic, music, or athletic contest.

The purpose of the award is to honor those students whose "academic and extracurricular achievements have been exemplary, and whose self discipline in preparation and integrity in competition are a model to others," said Dr. Bailey Marshall, League Director.

"This award program is one of the outstanding awards programs in the nation," Dr. Marshall said. "We feel it is important for the League to restate our commitment to academic success first, and second to extracurricular ability."

Shaving Permits go on sale

Many of the Winters male citizenry are now sporting new mustaches, goatees, sideburns, and beards as a symbol of their excitement in participating in the Winters Centennial Celebration. A great number of men have joined local Brothers of the Brush Chapters through businesses, restaurants, churches and civic organizations.

Women have formed Belles Chapters. Elementary Schools and Day Care Centers have established "Little Shaver" and "Little Miss Belles" Chapters.

Yet some men have been seen "Clean Shaven" in the area. Some have a problem growing facial hair or feel that it would spoil their "Good Looks." For others the itching of growing this facial adornment has become unbearable and Gillette is all the better for it. Sometimes the boss at work refuses to allow this growth to occur. This is especially true for those who work in the oil field around poisonous gases where the fear is that gas masks will fail to seal around beards and present a dangerous situation.

Of course, the most serious deterrent is the refusal of wives or girl friends to get close to their fuzzy significant others.

For these fortunate/unfortunate (take your pick) individuals, shaving permits may now be purchased. These permits or badges are signs of participation in the Winters Centennial as a Member of the Celebration. They will also keep the "Kangaroo Kops" away when they begin their "Patrols" in mid-May.

The Shaving Permits sell for $5 each. However, if you have already bought a Brothers of the Brush Membership and show your button, the charge is only $3. They may be purchased from the Centennial Headquarters in the Chamber Office or from any Brothers of the Brush Chapter. For further information, you may call Steve Byrne at 754-4820 or 754-4704.

Bass Classic to be Held June 2

Entry forms are available at the Chamber office. Entry fee is $30 plus $5.00 for the Calcutta. Deen Thompson is chairman of this year's event and has announced that Reedy and Co. Exxon Distributors is co-sponsor, making it possible for $1000 to be paid in prize money.

Lunch for fishermen entered in the event will be furnished by Lawrence Bros. Grocery. For further information, call 754-5210 or contact the Chamber office at 118 West Dale in Winters.

Ludwick new City Administrator

Charles Ludwick, hired by the City Council to replace Chuck MacIvane, who has resigned, started Monday in his new position as City Administrator. Mr. Ludwick has a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from the University of Texas at Austin and served in the U. S. Army.

He married in Winters in 1959 and after serving 25+ years with Conoco Oil, he retired and moved back to Winters in 1984. While working for Conoco he resided in Louisiana, Houston, Texas, Connecticut and Indonesia. For the past two years he has worked in the planning office of the College and Graduate School of Business at the University of Texas in Austin.

Mr. Ludwick is past president of the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce and a member of St. John's Lutheran Church. At St. John's he is a past Council Member, Secretary and Committee Chairman. Mr. Ludwick has one son, Paul, who lives in Houston.

OIL BUSINESS

By Reg Boles

Does the following statement mean anything to you?

MIRU. NU BOP. POOH W/ TBG & LD. SDFN.

Unless you are experienced in the oil field, it probably looks like Greek to you, and it may look that way to some old hands who use different terminology. In any case, the statement translates as follows:

Move In Rig Up. Nipple Up Blow-Out Preventers. Pull Out Of Hole With Tubing and Lay Down. Shut Down For the Night.

As you can see, abbreviations are big in the oil patch.

I still remember my first week in the oil business. Someone handed me a drilling report with cryptic writing much like that above. I impressed the whole group by saying, "You handed me the French translation by mistake. I may be green, but I'm not stupid!" After everyone stopped laughing and spitting coffee through their nose, someone was nice enough to explain how stupid I really was.

You see, oil people are always in a hurry and often deal with redundant descriptions of complicated equipment and procedures. Abbreviations are perfect for describing something you can't spell.

Here are some more examples: AOF-Absolute Open Flow (gas flowing capacity)

ABS-Acrylonitrile Butadiene Styrene (rubber)

AFE-Authority For Expenditure (permission to spend) EUE-External Upset End (a type of tubing connection)

FPS -Feet Per Second (speed of something)

FTP -Flowing Tubing Pressure (pressure, obviously)

OCM-Oil Cut Mud (drilling mud with oil in it)

RCBS-Rubber Coated Ball Sealers (used in acid jobs)

RBP-Retrieveable Bridge Plug (used to seal across casing)

TTTT-Turned To Test Tank (not Terribly Tiny Texas Techster)

WOC -Waiting On Cement (time when rig hands learn to pitch washers)

This is just a sample. The Association of Desk & Derrick Clubs prints an entire book (230 pages) of abbreviations to help those that work with the energy industry. Their book doesn't even include the not-so-nice abbreviations roughnecks use daily.

It's funny, but abbreviations become second nature after you've worked a while, and the need for them becomes apparent. In the oil field, written records are the soul of the daily business. It's often critical to know the history of every procedure, repair, or activity associated with every well, surface installation, and auxiliary equipment piece. I can't tell you how many times not knowing something has resulted in higher costs, wasted time, and lost opportunities. Therefore, since everything must be recorded, then abbreviating some common objects or repetitive procedures becomes expedient.

You might even be able to apply it to your everyday life. Let's try it with a grocery list for your spouse:

Hny, pls pk up @ GS—Ltc, chz, pks, hambmt.

Hry hm, L,YH.

See what I mean? Try it. I'll even close this week's column with it (translation next week).

VA Questions and Answers

Q—I applied for a VA-guaranteed home loan. I was advised it could not be processed until I paid an outstanding debt for education benefits. Is that true?

A—Yes. It is VA policy to reconcile all outstanding debts to the U.S. Government prior to approving a home loan application.

Q—I live in a rural area and cannot visit a VA office for benefit information. What can I do?

A—All VA regional offices have toll-free telephone service for benefit information. Information can also be obtained by mail. Check your local telephone directory for the office nearest you.

Q—Will my VA insurance dividends be affected if I get a loan on the policy?

A—No. Earned dividends are not affected by a loan on the policy. However, you may use your dividends to reduce the balance of your loan. For more information on this and other dividend options, please call 1-800-422-8079.

Larry Gatlin and I were close. He lived in Odessa; I lived in Andrews. I used to watch him and his brothers and sisters on the Midland March of Dimes Telethon every year when I was growing up. Even had a great aunt and uncle in Snyder who were close friends of the family and had pictures of the Gatlin children in the living room.

Actually, I never met him. Got close once in a scrimmage game when he was quarterbacking for the Odessa Broncos and I was on defense for the Andrews Mustangs. I had hold of his shirt for a half-second before he ran away and threw a pass.

In 1974, we were living in Dallas. Larry came to play one of the Country/Western clubs. It was the time when the big thing in Dallas was Austin's Progressive Country Sound. A cross between country and rock. It has country flavor, but you could dance fast to it.

He stepped up to the stage, sat on a stool with his guitar and announced that his style was to sing country ballads. Music with very little beat or dance value to it. All of his songs were ones that he had written or helped write. It was who he was, and if anyone had come expecting something else, they could get their money back at the door. For those who chose to stay and listen to his brand of music, he would give them the very best he had to offer.

He continued to do his music, playing the small clubs to a handful of people. Because that is who he was and that was what he did. Larry continued in relative obscurity for 3 more years. In 1977, "Broken Lady" broke into the country charts and his career was off and running.

He had the kind of talent which would have enabled him to crossover and play the popular "boogie" music of the time. But he kept on. He persevered. Rather than deny who he was. It paid off.

God has called each person to be the unique person that he or she is. Sometimes I wish I were somebody else. I want to do something else. It might be easier, more rewarding, and more efficient.

Then I remember Larry. Stubbornly, doggedly hanging on to what he understood his gifts and calling to be. It took a long time. And there was a lot of thin before there was any thick.

But I have to believe that when we are in touch with who God made us, and the uniqueness of who we are, perseverance is not an empty virtue.

Twain Talk

by Twyla Twain

Isn't graduation wonderful? Whether it's graduation from pre-school, high school or college, this is a memorable time in one's life. And a special ceremony makes everything more significant.

Did you ever watch the little kids at a pre-school graduation? Mom and dad are sitting in the audience, along with grandma and grandpa. Everybody is so proud of their little one so they arrive early to get a seat in the front for all the good pictures they'll take. Soon after everyone is settled the curtain opens and the ceremony begins. Little Johnny is supposed to march in line with the others and you know he'll do just fine cause you practiced a jillion times. Besides, how hard can it be to walk in a line with other kids? Well, not only does he not walk in line, he squats down just as he goes on stage and causes a domino effect of tumbling kids behind him. At this point you're still smiling, right?

O.K., he finally decides to get on with the show but proceeds to walk at a snail's pace and he knows he has command of the entire audience as a hundred people painstakingly lean with each step Johnny takes. Everyone breathes a sigh of relief when he's finally seated. But wait, isn't he supposed to be in the next chair down? Maybe no one will notice the vacant chair. Maybe they'll all think a kid is absent. Good plan - until little Suzy Smartmouth announces to the world that Johnny is in the wrong chair. She takes it upon herself to correct the situation by promptly pulling out the chair Johnny is beginning to sit in. So he makes a crash landing on the floor, screams at the top of his lungs, and quickly retaliates by punching Suzy smack in the mouth.

By this time you're beginning to wish you had taken a seat in the back because all those "looks that could kill" that you've been casting at Johnny have fallen by the wayside. It's hard to believe that the program has only been on for four minutes and you're grateful when the almost-in-tune piano begins the National Anthem. (At least it helps restore order at ballgames - maybe there's hope here, too.)

As everyone is seated again and the program begins, you watch in disbelief as Johnny reaches to the little girl in front of him, grabs her braided pig-tails and slowly drapes them over his own ears. Somehow you sense that he is not really paying attention to the ceremony being held in his honor. Another good clue is when he takes off his shoes and socks on stage and tries to tell you he meant it earlier when he said his toes were suffocating.

At this point, you find yourself becoming more religious because you are feverishly praying this program will end in the next thirty seconds. Your blood pressure is off the scale and you've certainly put your deodorant to an extreme test.

As the curtain begins to close, you hear your sweet little one squeal loudly, "Hi, Mom. Did you see me? Did I do good? I did just like you told me to. I gotta potty right now!" If this is one of those times that everyone talks about and promises you'll laugh about later, why do you tell people that you're just the babysitter and would never allow your own children to act that way?

Thank heavens, the graduation is over and you'll never have to face that sort of embarrassment from your child again. Or at least you've got a few years between performances, right? We'll cover the more mature version of graduation next visit, o.k.?

Felix Itz, already the nation's oldest elected official and the oldest Aggie, acquired another notoriety on May 11, when he was installed as honorary chief surveyor for the Texas General Land Office.

Itz, who lives in Ballinger, has been Runnels County surveyor for 30 years. A former civil engineer with the Texas Highway Department, Itz ran for elected office at age 69 after becoming restless in his retirement. He has been re-elected seven times.

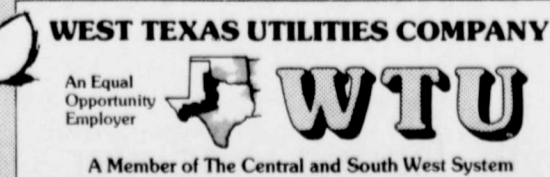

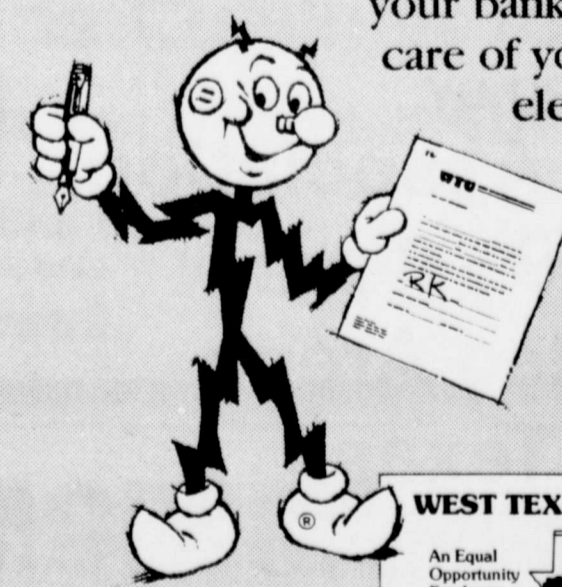

Itz, a 1911 graduate of Texas A&M University, still drives his car on his job and is active in the Texas Society of Professional Surveyors.

Recycling Trash; How and Why?

Help! Help! I'm struggling with a mini-mountain of trash in my own home, but I didn't know how serious it was until reading in the newspapers and watching television about recycling.

Experts say that America is in danger of disappearing under a mountain of trash, and recycling is the only answer to our problem.

Most of us would be glad to separate our trash if we knew how, and had a drop-off center where we could carry the stuff.

But it seems this is more complicated than we think. In the communities that have mandatory recycling laws, the city delivers three trash bins to the house—one each for metal, glass and paper. Plastic is not as widely recycled, but some recycling programs are beginning to accept it.

Now, the problem is identifying what you have. There also seems to be some requirements as to packaging.

I'm giving up and going back to a simpler time when there was too little of everything instead of too much. It is the story of Gertrude Young's great-grandfather coming to America from Germany.

The book is a record of the five members of the Heinrich Ferdinand Kneese family, who emigrated from their home at Friedrichshagen, in 1845, to the Republic of Texas and later made their home at the new frontier settlement of Fredericksburg.

The generations continue from the marriages of the two sons, Fritz and Ludwig, until 1971. The youngest child was a daughter named Rosine Louise. Today, the descendants are scattered throughout the United States and in foreign countries. Some of these are the young men serving their country in many branches of the military service.

After three months of ocean travel, the Kneese family arrived on the shoreline of Texas at Indianola, and their journey overland was to begin. However, there were not enough wagons available for all the immigrants arriving. Ferdinand and his two sons began picking up some pieces of lumber and iron, the remains of a ship wrecked in a storm that had washed up on the beach. They fashioned a two-wheeled cart out of the scraps they found. They obtained oxen to pull the cart and their journey began along the Immigration Route toward New Braunfels. The family stayed there for a short time, then moved on to the new settlement of Fredericksburg founded in 1846. They were among the earliest settlers along the Pedernales River.

Religion was a very important part of the pioneer's life on the Texas frontier. Bible readings were held regularly in their homes, and it was their strong belief in God that kept them ever willing to accept the hardships and despair of possible Indian raids, and the constant diseases of fever and cholera.

In 1849, the Methodist congregation of Fredericksburg had its beginning and the Kneese family was the second family on the list of 18 charter members on the roll of January 1850. Services for this small congregation were held in the log cabin belonging to Ludwig Kneese. Soon there was need for a church building and a sturdy one was erected in 1855 of limestone and lumber. Hostile Indians were still roaming about; therefore, iron rings were fastened into the outside walls of the church. The worshipers hitched their horses to these rings, and had full view of them during the services.

Ludwig Kneese was single and 22 years of age when he came to America with his family. He lived with them. He hauled freight, using ox drawn wagons, from the coastal port of Indianola to Fredericksburg, bringing supplies for the settlers.

In 1851, Ludwig married Louisa Buckholz who had come to America from West Prussia on a ship in 1846. Tragedy struck the Buckholz family as both Louisa's sister and mother became victims of the cholera epidemic of 1849.

In 1852, Fritz, the oldest son of Ludwig and Louisa was born in their home of Fredericksburg. That same year, in November, Ludwig became a citizen of the United States. The Kneese family moved to a tract of land about six miles west of town. There Ludwig engaged in stock raising and farming.

Next Week: Ludwig Kneese was Gertrude Young's grandfather and we will have more about his interesting life next week.

In order to take the exam the men had to have one year's experience and twenty hours of training credits.

Senior Citizens Nursing Home News
By Billie Ruth Bishop

Mrs. Eura Lloyd was admitted to the nursing home from Mesa Springs in Abilene, she is in room, 19. Mrs. Annie Williams was admitted to the nursing home from her home in Winters, she is in room 17. They would appreciate your visits and cards. The nursing home wishes to welcome them to the home.

Saturday, May 12, was a day of fun and fellowship. The residents celebrated Mother's Day a day early with a tea and recognition service for the ladies of the nursing home. For those who have never had children they were made Honorary mothers. Three special ladies were recognized, they were Minnie Wilkerson—oldest mother, she will be 96 years young in August; Mary Hall—youngest mother; and Trudie Foreman—mother of the most children, she has five children. A nice group of family members attended and everyone enjoyed refreshments of punch and cookies (the cookies were iced and decorated by a group of nursing home ladies). They all had a fun time doing this. Every lady who lives here also was given a corsage. Everyone had a very good time, thanks to a bunch of people. Betty Pinkerton came and provided organ music.

A special thanks goes to the family of Geraldine Traylor for bringing all the beautiful plants and flower arrangements. They were used to decorate for the Mother's Day Tea.

This Friday night, May 18, a Family Night is planned at the nursing home beginning at 5 p.m. This is something everyone likes to do to give the family members a chance to come and eat and have fellowship together with their loved ones and friends. Each family member is asked to bring salads of your choice and bris-ket, beans, potato salad, bread, tea and coffee will be furnished. The Bluff Creek Discords, a live band made up of local musicians will be the entertainment. Tables will be set up outside, depending on the weather. Hope to see you there.

Centennial Sentinel

by Edna England
Publicity Chairman

The cowboy and his horse portrays much of our heritage as the first hundred year history of Winters is relived. The 11th Annual Rodeo to be held May 18-19 at the Rodeo Arena will be a part of the Centennial Celebration. You are encouraged to support this event to help make it a success.

It is now under seven weeks until Celebration Week. Enthusiasm is growing, activities are taking shape and most everything is proceeding on time. The final schedule of activities will be going to the printer this week. Three more sponsors are needed for the schedule. Sponsors will have a 2" x 3 1/2" ad on the back of the schedule and the cost is $100—a bargain for the number of people that will see the ad.

Souvenir coins are here and for sale for $500. Plates, mugs and belt buckles will be available soon. All items are being sold at Headquarters. Orders are now being taken for copies of the historical booklet.

The decorations committee will be contacting businesses concerning the rental of decorations—a good way to decorate at a reasonable price. There are still openings for food concessions and those interested should contact James West.

Merchants are giving Centennial Dollars for every ten dollars you spend with a Winters Merchant, you receive one Centennial Dollar to be used at the auction on June 23. You may use your Centennial Dollars to purchase items at this auction. It pays to BUY WINTERS.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the "Sign-up Party" and sign up for parts in the Centennial Pageant on Wednesday, May 23 at 7 p.m. at Winters High School Auditorium. Two hundred fifty people will be needed for the Pageant and there will be no speaking parts, so no lines to learn and no costumes because they will be furnished. The professional director from the Rogers Company will be present that night to give full information on the Pageant. Make plans now to be there!

Plans are being made for a hospitality building to be open the week of June 21-30. Present plans call for the location to be in the former Lone Star Gas Building at 116 North Main. Betty John Byrns is chairman of the committee overseeing this.

The Winters Service League is sponsoring a Centennial Hootenanny (Old Fashion Games) for an evening of family fun Friday, June 1. Location is the Blizzard Football Field and the fun begins at 6:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to bring a picnic supper or enjoy a hot dog supper at the event. After supper, various Belles and Brush Chapters will be hosting old fashioned games such as an iron skillet toss, ring around the rosey, drop the handkerchief, a cow chip throwing contest and an all ages obstacle course. There are also plans for horseshoe pitching and a domino tournament. Don't miss a hootin' good time at the Winters Centennial Hootenanny. For more information contact Mandie England or Becky Airhart. You are encouraged to wear play clothes or traditional dress.

Congratulations to Dale Duggan for winning first place in the antique vehicles division in the Ethnic Festival parade in Ballinger. Dale is chairman of the antique tractor show for the Winters Centennial. Thanks to Dale for promoting the Winters Centennial.

The Art Belles will be having art shows at the Rock Hotel and the Archer Building (former Winters State Bank Building). Children's art will be displayed at the library (pre-kindergarten through third grade) and at Melba's Arts and Crafts (fourth through sixth grade). The art will be judged and prizes awarded and the art work will be on display the week before the Centennial Celebration week. Pat Lowe is secretary of the Art Belles.

The VFW Auxiliary has formed a Belle Chapter known as the Freedom Belles. Mary Kurtz is High Bustle for the Chapter. The Chatter Belle Chapter, 5th grade girls, had a cookie sale at Mayfest and gave the proceeds to the Winters Library. The Country Belles Chapter had a bake sale at Lawrence Bros. on Saturday and their proceeds were given to the Centennial.

Darlene Sims, a famous local song writer has written the lyrics for the Celebration Tune the Belle Chapters will sing on the promenades. Susan Conner set the melody to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Darlene also wrote a song for the Silver Belles Chapter that will be sung to the tune of "Silver Bells."

Card of Thanks

St. John's to have "home alone" program for

"I'm in Charge...When I'm Alone" is a special program currently being presented by St. John's Lutheran Church and Aid Association for Lutherans. The program is designed to inform both parents and children about things they can do, together, to make being home alone a more comfortable and safe experience for the child. It also can help relieve the anxiety feeling of parents concerned with their child's safety. This hour-long workshop can help develop feelings of confidence and security in the child and addresses the broad needs of "home alone" situations.

Sue Prewit, will lead the workshop. Her primary goal will be to prepare children for the responsibilities of being home alone and in charge.

The session will be held Thursday, May 24th, 7:00 PM at St. John's Lutheran Church basement. To register or to request further information, call the church office or Christie Byrne, 754-4704.

"I'm in Charge...When I'm Home Alone" is one of many AAL fraternal and benevolence programs. AAL is the nation's largest fraternal benefit society, enabling more than 1.4 million Lutherans and their families to help themselves and others through insurance and other fraternal benefits.

Letter to the Editor

Some of the Most Unappreciated Volunteers!

A group of men and women in this community that do more than any other group of volunteers that get less appreciation, publicity, or even thanks is the fire department. They are dedicated to the community enough to be on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, go through training for firefighting, extracting victims from automobile accidents, be the main rescue forces in natural disasters such as tornadoes, floods or hail storms, be able to administer C.P.R., life support until medical technicians arrive on the scene of a fire or accident, fish for drowning victims in area lakes, etc., be aware of hazardous chemicals stored in the city or passing through on trucks.

They have fund raisers to pay for a major portion of the equipment they use at the expense of their personal time and loss of revenue from their personal jobs while they are doing it. It makes them feel better if they get even a word of thanks when they put out a fire or cut someone out of a wrecked automobile, rather than the not so funny jokes that they hear, (I see you saved the lot, or the foundation, on a fire or what took you so long to get there or that's what I pay taxes for.)

When I see men that are willing to go on bank notes to buy equipment, spend many years in hazardous conditions, many times I see dedication to the community, using out-dated equipment in many instances and doing a better job or at least as well as a paid department at the least expense to the taxpayers.

I am sure the firemen and the auxiliary thank the community for making their Mayfest fund raiser a success.

Yours truly,
Joe Emmert

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to know the function of the street department of Winters. The streets are so full of pot holes there is no way you can drive down a street and miss them. They are so bad that people are packing them with weeds, grass cuttings, and cardboard boxes (which of course won't last), but it beats nothing. I realize that the winters was not kind to our streets, but winter is over and no larger than our town is you would think we should start seeing some progress with repair.

I realize I am not a street paving/patching engineer, but the few times they have attempted to patch they scoop some grave mix in the hole, pat it with the back of a shovel or the equivalent and move on. The first car by packs it in more and the hole is already back.

I watch cars weaving down the Cryer Street trying to miss the holes so know I'm not the only person these holes bother, but am sure they are like me and don't know what we can do about it. Perhaps someone else has the answers.

Sincerely,
Sue Hukill

Winters nurses

attend workshop

The Abilene Chapter of NAACOG along with Ross Laboratories sponsored a perinatal workshop this past Friday, May 11, at Abilene Christian University. Three nurses from NorthRunnels Hospital attended the event, along with 75 other health professionals from Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder, Brownwood, Coleman and San Angelo. Those attending from NRH were Barbara Austin, Velma Sudduth and Mitzie Deike.

Pregnancy is an exciting time of learning and self-discovery for both the expectant parents and the health professional. The information offered at this workshop dealt with "Caring for the Caregiver" as well as explaining complications in the pregnant trauma victim.

Dr. Roy Martin, Director of Family Services at Cook-Ft. Worth Children's Medical Center, presented a program specifically directed at the "Caregiver." The health professional must spend time nourishing his own life values before he can begin to minister and care for others. "Humor" may be an excellent resource for stress relief as well as other "value" giving experience such as family, school, church, peers, counseling, etc. "Caring" costs all that we are. The miracle is that humanity will continue to survive and that nursing continues to be shared.

Dr. Dick Ellis, pediatric surgeon, Ft. Worth, shared many techniques of surgical emergencies in the newborn. Relaxation techniques were explained and demonstrated during one workshop by Julie Smith, RN, BSN, childbirth coordinator from Harris Methodist Hospital, Ft. Worth. Learning how to recognize and release stress and tension is an important part of preparing for birth. Research has discovered a connection between the body's response to mental tension and diminished labor contractions (which can produce long labor). Childbirth classes can help to focus and structure this learning while providing a group setting where one can share common hopes and fears with other expectant parents.

The afternoon sessions provided the group with a very detailed presentation of "violence and trauma in pregnancy: nursing implications" by Laurie Jones, BSW, RNC, women's services, Harris Methodist, Ft. Worth. The incidence of violence against pregnant women is at least 8% and, as much as 42% is reported among battered women in shelters. The Surgeon General has identified pregnancy as a high-risk period for battering and recommended that all pregnant women be screened for battering as a routine part of pre-natal care.

The perinatal workshop is one of many seminars and educational opportunities attended by the health professionals at NRH; not only for continuing education, but also for personal and professional enrichment—to allow the hospital to give the finest medical care available to all our patients.

Scott Antilley member of state golf team

Scott Antilley, son of Tommy and Kei Antilley of Robert Lee, is a proud member of the state champion Class A boys golf team. The Steers captured the title on May 11 at Lions Municipal Golf Course in Austin, giving Robert Lee its second state championship in the school's history.

The victory was also sweet revenge for Robert Lee, which has finished runner-up in the Class A state tournament for the last three years in a row. Two of those second-place finishes were behind Baird, which also beat Robert Lee by 21 strokes two weeks ago at the Region II-A tournament in Abilene.

The Steers, who put 17 strokes between themselves and their nearest competitor after Thursday's opening round, were never challenged on Friday. Robert Lee finished with a 36-hole total of 700, 38 strokes better than runner-up Lago Vista.

Scott Antilley, the only sophomore on the Robert Lee team, shot a 177, and proved to be part of the balance necessary to claim the championship. Teammates who contributed to the title were Stephen Epperson with a 164, Jody Tavarez a 173, Jason Wink a 186, and Jon Rogers a 196.

Scott is the grandson of Marvin and Nina Bedford of Winters, and Frank K. and Marianne Antilley of Wingate.

"At the Hop" Musical

Presented by Third Grade Students
A Review by Roeneal Boles

The third grade students of Winters Elementary School presented the musical "At the Hop" by Hal Leonard Thursday, May 10, at the Winters High School Auditorium. The upbeat program depicts 1950's kids who are moved back in time by a professor's time machine. They end up at a 1950's hop, not understanding what has happened, and are amazed at the sights they see and the sounds they hear.

To a standing room only crowd and a standing ovation at the end, these young folks put on an outstanding presentation. Lots of work went into sets, costumes, and getting the boys and girls to actually dance and act! Cindy Cathey, Troylene Lincycumb, Lea Rutherford and Ann Shaekelford are to be commended for an outstanding job in directing the play. They certainly brought out the "ham" in this group of kids!

Pecan Management

by Richard Minzenmayer

Good foliage is important for healthy trees and the regular production of pecans. The condition of foliage actually influences two crops—the current year's and the following year. Zinc is necessary for the formation of large healthy leaves and early season growth.

In alkaline or high pH soils, zinc is not available from the soil and must be applied to the foliage. For non-bearing trees zinc should be applied at budbreak, pre-pollination, 1st casebearer and 2nd casebearer applications. The following ratios are recommended:

NZN

1 tablespoon/gallon of water
2 quarts/100 gallons of water

Zinc Sulfate

2 teaspoons/gallon of water
2 pounds/100 gallons of water

When applying zinc, coverage is important for zinc does not translocate in the tree. Symptoms of zinc deficiency are small leaves and rosetted shoots.

Elemental zinc is toxic to most plants other than pecans and grapes, therefore, avoid drift to protect from phytotoxicity. Never spray young trees that are not actively growing.

11th Annual Rodeo and Dance scheduled for May 18-19

The 11th Annual Winters Rodeo will be held Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19. The Rodeo will be held in the Winters Rodeo Arena, one mile north of Winters. Performances will start at 8 p.m. each night with a dance featured on Saturday night.

The dance will feature South 67, a group from San Angelo. South 67 began as a song writing partnership between Carla Shaahan and Mack Cullinora. Together they have penned over sixty songs and published many of them. Mark won the ASCAP Award for writing the country musical "Steakhouse" produced by Angelo State University.

Frank Markwood from Junction is another member of the group. He has played drums for 28 years and toured the United States for six years performing with such stars as Charlie Pride, Frenchie Burke, Johnny Bush, Jean Sheppard, Bill Mack, Ray Price and Merle Haggard. His most memorable moment was at age five and still in a brace from a bout with polio. He sat on the stage and sang on the radio with Hank Williams in Abilene on the Big Country Jamboree.

Curtis Wyman is a 22 year old instrumentalist and vocalist. He rounds out the group, coming from a rock base, playing for Fortress and then Jericho before switching to country and joining up with South 67.

All these different backgrounds come together to create the unique sound that is the trademark of South 67. They perform the old country classics and the top 40 country hits mixed with some of the rock and rockabilly favorites. Put on your dancing shoes and enjoy South 67.

Rodeo performances both nights will feature bucking stock from the Sammy Smith Rodeo Producers from Mullin. This is the fourth year for Sammy to produce the rodeo here and he always brings top quality bucking bulls and horses.

Cowboys from all over the southwest will be on hand to compete for thousands of dollars in prize money. Several of our local cowboys and cowgirls will be competing in roping, team roping, barrel racing and one or two might try their luck at the bulls.

The local youth will also get a chance to compete in the youth barrel race sponsored by Coleman County Electric. This event, for boys and girls alike is for the youth under 16 years of age living within 25 miles of Winters. Entry fee will be five dollars and will need to be paid by Friday, May 18 at 8 p.m. Youth may enter at the Country Cobbler or by contacting Arch Jobe.

Queen's Reunion at 11th Annual Rodeo

The 11th Annual Winters Rodeo will be this Friday and Saturday night, May 18 and 19. Performances will start at 8 p.m. nightly with a dance featuring South 67 on Saturday.

In conjunction with our town's 100th anniversary the Winters Rodeo Association would like to honor all past Rodeo Queens. This is WRA's eleventh Rodeo, but there were many Rodeos held in Winters before the present WRA was formed in 1979. In addition to our own Queens of the past we would like to recognize other Winters Rodeo Queens, those who want are encouraged to ride in the Grand Entry each night and be introduced with the officials. Those not riding will also be recognized.

Please contact Arch Jobe at 754-5650 if you or someone you know was a past Queen.

Stenholm to speak at Ivie Reservoir

U. S. Representative Charles Stenholm (D-Stamford) will be the speaker for the dedication of O. H. Ivie Reservoir at 11 a.m. Saturday, May 19. A barbecue luncheon will be served because the site is a considerable distance from any restaurants. Deadline for purchasing tickets was noon Monday, May 14.

Formerly known as Stacy Dam, the names selected by the Colorado River Municipal Water District Board in January were O. H. Ivie Reservoir and S. W. Freese Dam. Some controversy has arisen because of the name selection and a petition requesting the name be changed to Stacy Dam and Leaday Reservoir has been circulated in the area and a request made to CRMWD that the board consider changing the name.

When the dam was known as a Stacy, several articles were written concerning relatives of Morgan Stacy, predecessor of this area's Stacy family. James Madison Stacy left many relatives in the area. His ninth child, Arry Gertrude married Grotry William (Willie) Bailey in 1896. Arry and Willie moved to Winters in 1923. They had one son and six daughters. Those children are Edna, Mrs. Hugo Vogelsang; Amy, Mrs. Paul Rowe; Clyde and his wife, Vera Dunnam; Emily, Mrs. Carl Parks; Ollie, Mrs. Garner McAdams; Billie, Mrs. Martin Middlebrook; Neva, Mrs. Arthur Mayo.

After conflicts with the Corps of Engineers, the Lower Colorado River Authority and the Concho River Water Snake, O. H. Ivie Reservoir is now storing water and will finally be dedicated this coming Saturday. For directions to the dedication site, see the map below.
