1990 District 7-2A Runner-up How Sweet it is -Blizzards in Playoffs!

The Winters Blizzard football their regular football season last Friday night against Stamford. In a fierce defensive struggle, the Blizzards came out on top of a 14-13 final score, assuring them of at least a tie for the number 3 spot in District play. After the final gun, the Blizzards found they had been helped by a Bearcat, the Hawley Bearcats, and had won second spot in District.

The Blizzards had held on to an outside chance of advancing to the state playoffs all week, but it would take a minor miracle to put them there. Hawley would have to beat Albany, a team which had lost only one game this season and that was to the Blizzards on Friday, November 2. With Hawley's 2 wins, 4 losses in District and 3 wins, 6 losses for the season, it was a long chance that things would work out right for the Blizzards. The long chance came through and the Cinderella Blizzards will be able to attend the ball!

Because the Blizzards had defeated the other second place team the week prior, they will be meeting Deleon this Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Shotwell Stadium in Abilene. The Blizzards and Stamford Bulldogs were in a dead heat for District and season play with identical won-loss records going into last Friday night's game. The game started on a good note for the Blizzards when Brandon Boles intercepted a Bulldog pass near the 50 yard line. The Blizzards were unable to capitalize on the turnover and punted the ball away to the Bulldogs.

With 24 seconds left in the first quarter, Stamford's Eric Keen scored the game's first touchdown and the extra point

Blizzards struggled offensively team had a Cinderella ending to the rest of the half, but began a sustained drive and scored on a pass from quarterback Craig Slaughter to running back David Roman with 1:34 left in the second quarter. The Blizzards lined up as if to kick an extra point, but pulled a trick play out of the hat. The ball was lateraled toDavid Roman who passed to Albert Bernal in the end zone and the Blizzards led at halftime 8-7. The Blizzards came out in the second half, receiving the kickoff and needing a drive to turn the momentum in their favor. It was not to be the case, as the Blizzards were forced to punt on fourth down. The Blizzards and Bulldogs traded punts, interceptions and fumbles the rest of the third quarter. Stamford did attempt a 40-yard field goal in the third quarter but it was no good. Starting the fourth quarter, with the Blizzards still in the lead at 8-7, the Blizzards were playing execellent defense and allowing Stamford little movement on the

The Blizzards took the ball with about 10 minutes to go in the game and began to drive down the field. Craig Slaughter capped the drive with an 11-yard run into the end zone to widen the Blizzard lead to 14-7. The kick for the extra point was blocked by Stamford and the Blizzards held on to a 7 point lead.

Stamford came storming back and with 3:34 remaining in the game, Bulldog Eric Keen scored his second touchdown to bring the Stamford team within one point of the Blizzards. Following a timeout, in which both teams planned their strategy, the Bulldogs lined up for an attempt at a 2 point play. Blizzard fans held their breath as Stamford kick was good, making the score quarterback Kevin White 7-0 in favor of the Bulldogs. The dropped back to pass. Blizzard

Playoff tickets now available

Tickets to the Bi-District football game between the Winters Blizzards and the DeLeon Bearcats are on sale at the WISD administration office until noon on Friday, November 16. Tickets are $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for children. All tickets at the gate will Bodie Collins broke through the line and tackled White for a loss, leaving the Blizzards with a 1 point lead.

The Blizzards held on and ran out the clock to clinch their hardfought win. David Roman led all ground gainers for the Blizzards with 114 yards, 56 rushing, 55 on pass receptions and 3 yards passing. Timothy Torres followed with a total of 107 yards.

On defense, Craig Slaughter led with 10 solo tackles and 9 assists. Bill Belew followed with 11 solo tackles and 3 assists.

The Blizzards will meet a state-ranked team in Deleon this week. After being helped into the playoff by one set of Bearcats (Hawley), they will be meeting a second set of Bearcats who will be trying to keep the Blizzards from advancing any further in the playoffs. The Deleon Bearcats have a 9-0-1 record for the year and are ranked number 5 in the state in the latest

Associated Press 2A poll. The Blizzards will be facing a team which has allowed only 17 points to be scored against them all season. The Blizzards defense will have a rough job, but they have risen to the occasion all year and expect to do the same in this game.

Head Coach Dan Slaughter says even though the Blizzards have a tough game coming up, he has confidence that the Blizzards have a chance. "They've gotten where they are because their hearts are big and their efforts are great."

Everyone is encouraged to attend the game at Shotwell Stadium in Abilene at 7:30 p.m. Friday and show the Blizzards they have all the support they need to bring home a win.

Blizzard Pep Rally Thursday

The Athletic Booster Club and varsity cheerleaders would like to invite everyone to join them on Thursday, November 15, for a special pep rally at 5 p.m. at Blizzard Field. Support the team as they face the DeLeon Bearcats in bi-district competition on Friday at Shotwell Stadium in Abilene.

Local FFA member receives FFA's highest honor

John Andrae of Winters joined an elite group of FFA achievers on November 9.

Andrae received the highest degree of membership awarded by the National FFA Organization, the American FFA Degree. Along with 1,056 other degree recipients, the Winters Chapter member was honored at the 63rd National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

One of the highlights of the convention, the American FFA Degree ceremony, included the presentation of a certificate and gold key to Andrae as he walked across the convention stage with thousands of FFA members in the audience.

The American FFA Degree is presented annually at the national FFA convention to the top twotenths of one percent of FFA membership. Awarding of the degree is based upon a member's Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) program in agribusiness or production agriculture and on his leadership ability as demonstrated through involvement in FFA and community activities.

The American FFA Degree program is a special project of the National FFA Foundation, co-sponsored by the American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, Wayne, N. J.; Case IH, Racine, Wis.; Farm Credit System, Washington, D. C.; Na-Churs Plant Food Company, Marion, Ohio; Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa; and Perelli Armstrong Tire Corporation, New Haven, Conn. FFA is a national organization of 387,042 members in 7,634 local chapters preparing for careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. Local, state, and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills acquired through agricultural education. FFA members strive to develop agricultural leadership, cooperation, and citizenship.

Hospital awarded ambulance bid

In a regular meeting of Run-submitted a bid of $96,000 for nels County Commissioners Court on Tuesday, bids were opened and awarded for the County subsidy for ambulance service. The bid opening was held before an audience of about 20 interested persons at the Runnels County Courthouse in Ballinger.

Bids were received from three different emergency services for the northern part of the County. One bid was received to provide ambulance service in the entire County or split into north or south segments.

North Runnels Emergency Service, Inc., the holder of the current contract, bid $57,000 per year. Tech-Star Emergency Medical Service of Stamford service in the entire County or $54,000 each for either north or south. North Runnels Hospital District Emergency Service bid $46,188 per year. After looking over the bids and determining that all bids met the specifications, Commissioners voted to accept the apparent low bid of North Runnels Hospital District.

The current contract with North Runnels Emergency Service, Inc. runs until December 31. The new contract will be for three years.

The bid for ambulance service for south Runnels County was awarded to South Ballinger Emergency Services with a bid of $54,000 per year.

Recently, the idea of renewing the so-called "Windfall Profits Tax" has been considered by certain consumption state Congressmen. The press has picked up on this and helped keep it in the minds of those already angry at rising gasoline prices.

I think there are a few misconceptions about what the tax really was and its effects. Let's talk about the tax and think about whether it was a good thing or

First of all, the "Windfall Profits Tax" was not really a tax on profits. It was an excise tax on oil production—on every barrel-regardless of profit or loss. I'll explain more about that in a minute. I just wanted to get that out of the way, so I won't have to call it you-know-what. Instead, we will call it the WPT or maybe even the "Federal Excise Tax on Oil (the official name). Anything but Windfall...OOPS! Almost got me to say it, didn't you?

We will start at the beginning, or actually, a little before it was even gleam in some Northeastern legislator's eye. I think the historical perspective may give you some insight into the origin and purposes of enacting the tax. Let's review.

Richard Nixon (I am going way back, aren't I) imposed price control on everything from food to heating oil to control inflation in the 1970's. Crude oil and natural gas were included. By the time Jimmy Carter took office, controls on crude oil were expiring and the first oil shocks were being felt (Arab Oil Embargo 1973 & Iran-Iraq War 1979). Those in power at the time decided that controls should be lifted as originally planned by the Nixon system, BUT the oil companies should not be able to reap the "windfall" (there's that word, again) of profits that would rain down on them due to the high price of oil at that time.

The price controls in place at the time allowed oil producers to get about $6/bbl on average for crude, depending on whether it was newly developed, stripper oil, or 'old' (producing for some time) oil. The world market price for oil had just zoomed to $28/ bbl. De-control would add about $22/bbl to the profits for producers, the government reasoned, and no one was quite sure that oil producers deserved it. But of course, the government could use it more wisely. Uh huh.

So, the capitol hill lawyers devised an ingenious plan to scrape off those "excess" profits for use by the government. It went something like this: the old pricing tiers (old-lowest allowed price; stripper slightly higher price allowed; and, new-the highest price allowed--still below market) would be preserved, but instead of price guidelines, a tax would be imposed.

The tax would work from an established "base price" basically equivalent to the old controlled price for each category of oil, and a tax rate would be applied to the money paid per bbl above that base price. I am confusing everyone, including myself, so let's try an example.

A producing company is paid $25/bbl foroil coming off a lease. The oil is "old oil" (producing prior to 1980), so the "base price" was legislated to be $17 (approximately--it varied and was allowed to rise with inflation). Therefore, the producer was required to pay the federal government a portion of that price per bbl above $17/bbl ($8/bbl of "excess profits"). The amount was based on the type of producer (independent or major) and some other subtle factors in the tax code.

Assuming the producer was a small operator, he was asked to give the federal government 50% of that $8/bbl for every bbl produced. If he was a major oil company, he was required to pay 70% of that $8/bbl. It did not matter if the operator was making profits equal to $8/bbl, it only mattered if the price was above $17/bbl. So, you see, the tax was an excise tax--not a "profits tax".

The scenarios to calculate the tax are innumerable and added greatly to the cost of operating a well. Accountants were often required to figure the amount due and the paper work was voluminous Even after prices dropped below the level where the tax took effect (base price) the paper work was still required.

Additionally, royalty owners, small oil operators, working interest owners, and investors were all required to pay some part of the tax. Some got breaks, but the paperwork had to be done and some tax usually had to be paid. So, the victims were not only big oil companies, but also grandmas and small businessmen. As usual, the federal government took aim and missed its target and did a great amount of damage as a result.

When you talk about re-in-

City receives increased sales tax payment

The City of Winters received $20,321.37 in sales tax rebates for sales in September and reported by merchants in late October. This payment also reflects sales taxes reported by merchants who are required to report quarterly.

The sales tax check for September reflects an increase of 10.23% over the same period in 1989 for the city. 1990 payments to date have shown an 8.45% over 1989 for the same period of months. The city has received a total of $152, 978.19 in 1990 sales tax rebates.

Other Runnels County cities receiving rebates included Ballinger with a check amounting to $68,534.19, up 20.47% over the same month in 1989 and up for the year a total of 31.88%. Miles received a payment of

$2,172, up 5.02% over last year and up for the year 11.80%. Merchants collect the state and local sales taxes and send them to the Comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and sends cities and counties the local portion of the sales taxes each month.

Runnels County's sales tax rebate for the month was $31,011.02, down from last year's same period payment of $35,267.19.

A—Yes. Questions regarding the Montgomery GI Bill should be directed to any VA regional office. Toll-free telephone numbers are listed in your local directory under U.S. Government.

Q—I am a retired Army officer and have applied for disability compensation from the Department of Veterans Affairs. Will my grade entitle me to increased compensation?

A—No, military grade is not a factor in determining the degree of disability attributed to military service.

"The Nutcracker" to be presented in Abilene

The curtain rises and...it is Christmas Eve 1892 and Dr. and Mrs. Stahlbaum and their children, Clara and Fritz, are preparing for a Christmas party...The Magic of the Nutcracker unfolds...

The Abilene Ballet Theatre presents its third "Nutcracker," at the beautiful and historic Paramount Theatre on Saturday, November 17, at 8:00 p.m. and on Sunday, November 18, a matinee at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets, including special group rates, are available at the Paramount Theatre Box office: (915) 676-9620 or 352 Cypress St., P. O. Box 1818, Abilene, Tx, 79604. Adult tickets are $7.00 each; students, senior citizens, and military are $5.00 each; and children 5 years and under are $4.00 each.

"The Nutcracker," a full-length ballet presented in two acts with music by Tchaikovsky, will be funded in part by a grant from the Abilene Cultural Affairs Council. Abilene Ballet Theatre, a full performing member of the Southwestern Regional Ballet Association, is under the direction of Nancy Gore assisted by Mary Abbott Milstead.

Z. I. Hale Museum News

The Z. I. Hale Museum monthly meeting was held Tuesday in the Rock Hotel with Kay Colburn, president, presiding.

Edna England, treasurer, reported that two generous gifts had been received this month for the hotel restoration: $2,513.60 in proceeds designated by Centennial donors and $1,744.06 from profits made on the Lonesome Dove party. Appreciation was expressed to all those who had a part in these projects and also to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Kaiser of Arlington for their donation.

With $5,978.96 on hand from bake sales, luncheons and garage sales, this makes a total of $10,325 to assist in a face lift for the hotel.

On vote of the members, plywood was placed at the top of the hotel stairway to keep out a draft for those involved in the quilt show on the weekend.

Paul Tharp will serve as a new trustee member.

Christmas trees of many kinds will be displayed at the hotel Saturday, December 1, to coincide with the Christmas parade to be held at 2:30 p.m.

There will also be a doll show in connection with the tree displays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Dolls should be brought in by 9 a.m., Mrs. England announced. She asked that antique dolls and their histories be included. Stuffed animals and toys are also welcome. The display will remain open after the parade until 4 p.m.

Mrs. Franklin (Christeane)
Odell took time out to win best of show with an original pieced quilt in shades of blue and red, before she left for a visit to her native France. She had never seen the art of quilting until she came to America.

Jan Sims placed second with a wedding ring pattern pieced by her grandmother, Grace Robinson, and given to her by her aunt and uncle, Nadine and Roger Robinson.

Dorothy Bomar received third place with her fan design in pastel

Frances Campbell won first place in the antique section with her sunflower pattern and third place with a variation of the nine patch. Mrs. Leland Mills took second place with her red and white block pattern.

Virgie Richburg of Tuscola took all three places in the applique division: first with her little dutch girl, second with a colonial lady pattern in shades of violet and purple on a white background, and third with a colonial pattern where each lady was dressed in a variegated pattern print on a white background.

The baby quilt division was headed by Richburg with her fan pattern. Estella Bredemeyer and Jamie Sims tied for second place on their clown quilts-Bredemeyer's was pink clowns and Sims' was a yellow clown pattern. Third place was a coverlet from the Jolly Bunger collection, shown by Eloise Brown.

Bobbie Brown was first in the embroidery category with her butterfly pattern in all shades of purple on white background. Jewell Kraatz received second on her yellow rose pattern.

Coverlets was a new category introduced. Margie Jacob received first place with her booboo quilt-pictures of all kinds from cars to windmills to oilwells to bugs and to trees that were appliqued on denim squares and placed on a red background. Jacob makes purses and said these squares were not perfect enough for her to use and that is why they were called boo-boo's. Second and third places were from the Jolly Bunger collection shown by Eloise Brown-one pattern was morning glory vines on white and the other was "wind blown girl."

Judges were Patricia Hohensee from Runnels County Extension Agency and Beth Miller of Ballinger.

Estella Bredemeyer and Jewell Kraatz were in charge of the show.

Wingate School

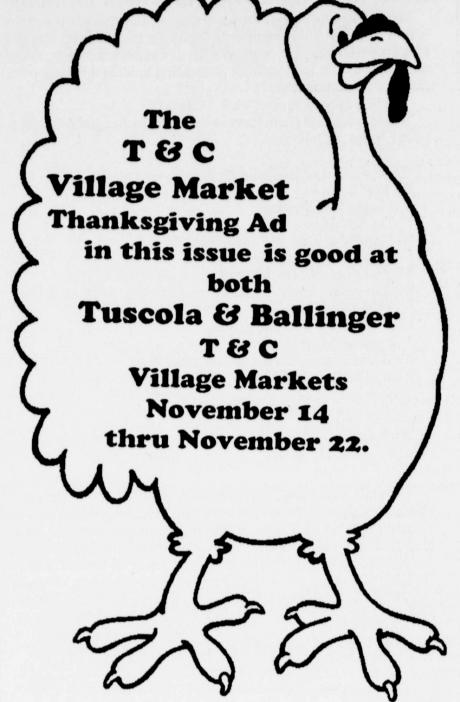

In observation of "Children's Book Week," November 12-18, our students will be visiting the Winters Public Library on Wednesday, November 14.

On Monday, November 18, we will be having a drug prevention program, sponsored by Region XV Education Cooperative. The program is titled, "Don't Clown Around With Drugs," and it features Marvin, the clown, Sonny, the wonder horse, and B.A., the goat.

Mrs. Bobb will be serving the traditional Thanksgiving dinner in the cafeteria on November 14. She always does such a good job, we'll be looking forward to that meal.

Mrs. Sneed's and Mrs. Hogan's classes have decorated the hall with Indian pictures they have colored. They are studying about how the Indians were involved in our first Thanksgiving.

Our teachers will be attending a curriculum workshop in Brownwood next week. Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Cooper will be substituting while they are out.

In other action, the Council heard the first reading of an ordinance on a petition by Janie Mabry, Joe Kozelsky and Dorine Kozelsky to close a portion of Willow Street in north Winters. The street has been unused for a number of years.

The council then approved an ordinance granting Browning-Ferris, Inc. a franchise to operate the refuse collection system in the City of Winters. Following that, Council members formally approved the Refuse Rate Ordinance, setting the rates for refuse collection in the City.

City Administrator Charles Ludwick reported work was progressing and almost complete on the Citizens Convenience Center for refuse disposal out near the old landfill. The Council gave their approval for the expenditures of monies in making preparation for this facility.

ing preparation for this facility.

Council members then discussed what form of Christmas recognition would be given to City employees and it was decided and approved to give each full-time City employee a $25 gift certificate to be spent at any Winters merchant or place of business.

Following a motion and approval to pay routine bills, the Council went into executive session to meet with the consulting engineer on the water rate case with North Runnels Water Supply Corporation. Following that the Council was to meet in executive session with North Runnels Water Supply Corporation representatives.

Newcomer!

Henry and June Sibley of Winters are proud to announce the birth of a new granddaughter, ShannonWest, born September 9, 1990 in San Marcos. Shannon West weighed 6 lbs. and 9 oz.

Shannon's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clay West (the former Jill Heidenheimer).

Help! Save me!
Below is a list of animals available from Animal Control for a limited period of time:

1) A black and white male half border collie and half chow. This dog has a tan collar and no tags. Picked up in the 400 block of south Main.

2) A white and tan male half brittany spaniel. He is about one year old, has a red collar and has had his rabies vaccine.

Dovie McKnight celebrates 80th birthday

Mrs. McKnight's sons, Troy and Carrell, surprised their mother with a birthday party Saturday at 3 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Troy McKnight. A birthday cake of German chocolate, decorated with a little lady wearing glasses and holding a fishing pole, centered the dining table.

Dovie was born November 9, 1910.

Words created in poem form were recited by her granddaughter, Becky Boles, as follows:

We love you a little. We love you a lot.

Our hopes and dreams

You've helped us to plot.

We remember since the days on the farm How you've blessed us with your charm.

We reminisce of being with you on a great fishing trip. We know your loyalty to family is as steadfast as an anchored

Your life is like a candle glowing

And your love for us is ever showing. We'll love you always for all you mean to us.

We'll respect and admire all you have taught.

In other words...

We love you a little.

We love you a lot. Happy Birthday

MaMaw

Attending were Carrell and Katie McKnight of Abilene, Troy and Oneta McKnight of Winters, Ruby Grant of Lawn, Emily Parks of Winters, Florene McKnight of Ballinger, grandchildren and great grandchildren, Jim and Troylene Lincycomb, Josh and Kalene; Troyce and Helen McKnight, Kelly and Tracy of Sonora; Emily Hall, Mandy, Jason, and Amber; Reggie and Becky Boles, Mitchem and Margot of Midland; and Darrell and Sherry Kurtz and Keegan

Hortel McCaughan, birthday honoree

A party will be given for Hortel McCaughan in honor of her 80th birthday on Sunday, November 18, 1990 at the First Baptist Church fellowship hall from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Ms. McCaughan was born on November 20, 1910 to Claude and Ethel Coward in Turnersville, Texas located in Coryell County. She married Bailey McCaughn in 1937 in Winters and resided here until 1956 at which time she moved to Killeen. In 1977 she moved back to Winters after the death of her husband.

She has been a member of the First Baptist Church for 64 years. During this time, she has served as Sunday School class president and secretary, and chairperson for the kitchen committee, as well as a member of the Rebekah Class and the adult choir.

She currently serves as president of the Triple L Club and has been a member of the Literary and Service Club, the Winters Womans Club, the Good Neighbors Club, and the Z. I. Hale Museum committee. She previously served as chairperson for the W. M. U. Circle.

Ms. McCaughan worked as a cosmetologist for 45 years and presently is manager of the Winters Apartments.

She has one daughter, Janice Merrifield of Lewisville; one son, Mac McCaughan of San Angelo; three sisters, Waldene Martin of O'Donnell, Wanda Smith of Winters, and Claudine Badgett of Lake Jackson; 12 grandchildren; and 17 great grandchildren.

Friends and family are invited to help celebrate this joyous occasion. Your presence is all that is requested as no gift can compare to the pleasure of company.

I care for infants in my home and although parents provide disposable diapers for their children, I buy extras to keep on hand in case someone runs out. Is there any way I could qualify for a tax exemption on this expensive purchase?

J.H. Longview

Dear J.H.: No, you must pay sales tax when you buy disposable diapers.

FROM A GOLDFISH BOWL

BY PASTOR STEVE BYRNE

I never was a "clothes horse." Like my number two son, I knew what I liked to wear (something comfortable) and wore it. I suppose if I felt as free as he seems in this regard, I would spend the entire winter in jeans, flannel shirts, and corduroy outer wear. Actually not a bad choice for a pastor of so many cotton farmers, huh?

But such is not to be. After all, I am supposed to be a professional of sorts. And my members are quick to compliment me when I don dress clothes. They are much too gracious to say negative things when I wear my jeans and flannels. Which is one of the reasons 1 love them so much.

I sometimes wonder if my lack of good taste in clothes and not being bent that way might have sub-consciously led me into the Lutheran ministry. If you take this Lutheran pastorate thing seriously enough, you never have to decide what sort of shirt to Clergy shirts are perfect for sidestepping that initial decision every morning. At least it used to

Now they have different colored clergy shirts. I have a red one, a maroon one (to impress my Aggie friends), two black ones, a blue one, and two greys. So much for uncomplicating things. They have even gone to adding to the cotton/polyester blend an oxford cloth variety.

Once I got into the pastorate, I discovered that there are styles, no less, of clergy shirts. There is the roman collar with the neckband that is only partly visible. There is the style worn by Episcopalians, which is a white neckband which is totally visible all the way around. Then there is the Protestant version. This one is a collarless shirt with a slit near the adam's apple, where you slide in a plastic tab. This is to clergy fashion what the clip-on tie is to menswear. I have some of each of the latter two.

Isn't it amazing how we can take something so simple and make it so complicated?

As hard as we have tried to foul things up over the centuries. the miracle is that we have not managed to complicate the Good News of Jesus Christ. It is still as simple as, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

And God could care less whether that message is in style or not. Or what you wear to church, for that matter!

Clostridial infection - the sudden death syndrome

Before we get into our subject for this week, I would like to congratulate the 1990 WHS coaching staff and the Blizzards for making it into the state playoffs. You did it the hard way, but you're there nonetheless; and we are all proud of you!

Sorry about not having this ready by deadline last week, maybe it won't happen again (for awhile, anyway).

Today I'm going to spend a short period of time on a very broad subject, the clostridial family of bacteria. This family is important to us all, as the causitive organisms for many diseases that I see belong in it. Tetanus (lockjaw), the "blackleg" and "overeating" organisms are three of the most important members. All are economically significant to the sheep and cattle producer.

There are two stages in the life cycle of the clostridial organisms. The stage that is growing and reproducing within the body is the vegetative stage. The second or other stage is the spore stage. Once the organism is without a host or living tissue due to death of the host, or if it is expelled from the body, it surrounds itself with a heavy protective covering. This protective covering can withstand almost anything that Mother Nature can expose it to. Thus, the organism can remain viable for many years. It is now referred to as a spore.

These organisms are normal inhabitants of the soil and may be normal inhabitants of the gastrointestinal tract. Most of them gain entrance into the body via the oral route, but there are exceptions. Tetanus and malignant edema require a wound as a point of entry in order to cause an infection. Botulism, on the other hand, requires only the injections of the toxin, and not the organism itself. A common misconception that a lot of people have is that since they have never knowingly lost a calf or sheep from blackleg, then they don't "have it on their place," so there is no need to vaccinate for it. Losing a 500 pound steer now would buy a lot of vaccine!

Tetanus affects sheep, goats, cattle, and horses. It is usually seen in sheep and goats post castration and docking, either surgically or with rubber bands. It is not so common in cattle, but I have seen it several times as a complication to a retained placenta along with a concurrent uterine infection, and I have seen it many times when rubber bands have been used for castration of bull calves. In horses, it is usually the result of a wound in a horse that has not been previously immunized with tetanus toxoid.

Signs of tetanus are very vague at first. Usually the first thing noted is just a slight raise in the carriage of the tail. Then there develops an anxious expression of the face. This may sound like a crazy statement, but if you've ever seen one you'd know why I said anxious expression. Prolapsed third eyelids and increasing stiffness of gaits follow in that order. In some mild cases, treatment may be successful but is usually unrewarding.

Prevention is simple. Use rubber bands only in combination with tetanus toxoid. Avoid surgical procedures (marking) of sheep and goats in permanent facilities where manure has accumulated, and get the processed livestock back to the pasture as soon as possible. Do not allow cows to go beyond 72 hours with a retained placenta. Immunize horses with tetanus toxoid and give tetanus antitoxin whenever a wound of any kind occurs.

Next week I'll cover blackleg and overeating. So long for now.

Card of Thanks

To our family and friends who were so kind to us when I fell and broke my shoulder, we want to say thank you.

For the flowers, cards, phone calls, food and the visits, we are deeply grateful.

A special thanks to Pastor Steve Byrne.

Crews News By Hilda Kurtz

Many people have the right aim in life but never get around to pulling the trigger.

Correction: We welcome Naomi and Milton Gerhart who have moved out on the farm where Irene and Robert Gerhart once lived. We're glad to have you in our community. I hope you enjoy it out here.

Our deepest sympathy to Dorintha Wilkerson and other relatives due to the death of her mother, Minnie. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilkerson raised their family in our community before moving into Winters in 1948.

Ruth and Brad Pape were in Houston on Tuesday and Wednesday. Brad entered Baylor Medical Center where he is being treated for nerve blockage. He came home on Friday.

Walter Pape of Santa Anna and Gladys Cotton of Ballinger spent Saturday evening with the Bradley Papes.

Eileen, Jeremy, and Tiffany Prater were in Ballinger Tuesday night and picked up the Food Co'op supply. On Wednesday, they went to Abilene where Eileen received a good report on her checkup following her surgery. On Friday, they carried Jeremy for his annual checkup in Abilene.

Those that I learned of that attended the Lord's Acre in Winters Sunday were Corra Petrie, Hazel Mae Bragg, Norval Alexander, Doris and Marion Wood, Joyce and Lenora Wilkerson, Chester McBeth, and Marvin and Melvena Gerhart.

While in Houston, Ruth Pape's son, David, took them to the River Cafe. They all enjoyed this very much. On the next luncheon, Greg, Jan, and Lee Low, and David, Ruth, and Brad Pope all ate at the Indian Cafe.

Hopewell Baptist Church members were glad to have Juanita and Jack Shields back. Juanita hadn't been feeling too well. I'm glad to hear she is doing better.

Raymond Alcorn of San Saba spent several days with Fairy and Wilbert Alcorn. Linda Denison of San Angelo spent Saturday with the Alcorns.

J. R. and Tessie Lacy of Bloomingville, New Mexico, had supper with Pat and Earl Cooper Friday night. Sherri, Ray, Amanda, and J. T. Cooper came Saturday. On Sunday, Brenda, Richard, Doddie, and Gina Chambliss of Blackwell spent the day.

J'Dan Miller and Dawn, Brent, and Scottie Bryan brought dinner out to Josie and Bill Hoppe on Sunday. I'm glad to hear Bill is doing some better. He had been to see the doctor with some trouble of infection.

Nila and Therin Osborne enjoyed supper with the Wesley McGallion family in Wingate Friday night. Their granddaughter, Stephine, came home with them.

I went by to see how Sissy Alexander was doing Friday. She has the flu. I didn't go in.

Spending the weekend with Selma and Hazel Dietz were Wilene and John Carr of Monahans. They all visited with Judy and Ernest Cooke Saturday.

Mike and Ronald Hill of Sweetwater and Gary Hill of Eastland spent Sunday with their mom.

Eileen, Jeremy, and Tiffany Prater, and Harvey Mae and Noble Faubion were in Levelland to see Noble's sister, Wynona Goode, who is cooperating nicely in the home of her daughter, Gwen and Bill Fiepz. They also visited with the rest of Wynona's family. After 2 days, Saturday and Sunday, they came home.

Carol, Mike, Kathryn, Scott, and Jeanna Kozelsky, and Walter and Margie Jacob, and Cookie, Brad, and Corey Van Zandt attended the Winters VFW Post supper Saturday night.

Walter and Margie Jacob spent Sunday afternoon with her mother, Louise Michalewicz, in Ballinger. All enjoyed the domino games.

Melvena Gerhart's mother, Myrtle Wright of Menard, spent Tuesday through Sunday with her. Those spending Wednesday night with Melvena and Marvin were Patti McNutt of Lewisville, Bernie Faubion, and Cindy and Ted Ferguson of Irving. All attended Ada Hale's funeral in Coleman. The Gerharts were in Ranger Saturday and watched their son, Keith, play basketball.

Bro. Oscar and Janie Fenning of Abilene enjoyed lunch with Dee and Sam Faubion after services Sunday.

Hopewell WMU ladies met at 9:30 a.m. in the fellowship hall.

JV Girls vs. Sterling City, win in OT

The Winters JV girls basketball team traveled to Sterling City on Saturday, November 10, coming out on the winning end of a close game.

The score was knotted at 35all at the end of regulation play and went into overtime. At the end of the first overtime, the Winters girls had raised their point total to 40 and Sterling City had only 38.

High scorer for Winters was Stacey Deike with 12 points. Others scoring for Winters included Cara Cathey, 8; Victoria Garza, Tanya Brockington, Mary Mostad, 4 each; Mindi Wade, Tambar Cox, Melinda Kraatz and Mandy Hall, 2 each.

The Winters girls made 38% of their free throws, making 10 of 26 attempts.

John Neese, sports reporter with KTXS televison of Abilene, speaks to an enthusiastic crowd at the pep rally last Friday, before presenting the "Player of the Week" award to the entire Blizzard varsity squad. Neese commented that this was the first time in the history of the award that an entire team was voted as displaying outstanding attitude, effort, and performance. The presentation was filmed and then aired on KTXS Friday evening.

Area Scouts to join nationwide food appeal

More than 3,500 local youth will be mobilizing on November 17 to help feed the hungry in the Big Country area.

Organized by the Chisholm Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, the 1990 Scouting for Food Good Turn will involve Scouts and volunteer leaders from all over the Big Country in an effort to collect 20,000 pounds of food. The local appeal is part of a national Good Turn, being conducted for the third time by the Boy Scouts of America, that seeks to ease the food problem for the more than 20 million Americans who go hungry at some time each month.

A similiar campaign last November netted some 60 million items nationally, including 29,600 from and for this immediate area.

"Hunger is a problem we can do something about by working together," said John Clark, executive director of the Chisholm Trail Council. "Our Scouting for Food Good Turn is a starting point. It is an example of Scouting's longstanding commitment to community service." That commitment, he noted, dates back to the first national Good Turn, a 1912 program promoting a safe and sane Fourth of July.

Numerous area groups will cooperate with the Scouts. Those include members of various civic clubs and the National Guard.

Once again it is time for the annual Scout Food Drive. This year will be a joint venture with Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts taking part on Saturday, November 17. The scouts are asked to meet at the Scout Hut at 9:00 a.m. in full uniform. A door to door campaign is planned until noon. If you wish to drop off canned goods at the Scout Hut during this time you may. Just remember that only nonperishable and canned goods can be accepted. All goods will go to the Winters Food Pantry and stay here in our community. Please donate to this worthy cause.

Hospital Board met Monday

The North Runnels Hospital District Board of Directors met in regular session Monday, November 12. Bids were opened for the pharmacy consultant contract and awarded to the low bidder, James Cross.

The hospital is required to have a pharmacist dispense prescription drugs for patients. The contract had been held by Randy Springer for several years.

The Hospital District will pay Cross $650 per month for his services, effective immediately.

Hospital administrator Bob Prewit reported that the hospital's license had been renewed by the state with no problems.

The ambulance service was discussed at length, but there sion concerning finding a new doctor to locate in Winters and Prewit reported to the board that the search is continuing with a couple of prospects at present.

Veterans save billions by refinancing homes

Over the past five years, some 375,000 veterans have refinanced home loans guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), and in the process earned an estimated $13.5 billion in longterm personal savings.

The savings in interest payments could amount of $37,000 or more for the typical veteran and are a major benefit to home buyers of the decline in home loan interest rates during the 1980s.

A rise in refinancing VA-guaranteed loans began in the 1985 fiscal year as interest rates declined from historic highs. Veterans in that 12-month period refinanced 13,921 homes valued at $964 mil-

The following federal fiscal year the trend continued, with 100,909 transactions valued at $7.5 billion. In the 1987 fiscal year, the volume more than doubled, as a record 205,210 homes were involved with a total value of $15.2 billion.

In fiscal 1988 a total of 39,797 were no motions made or action homes valued at $2.9 billion were taken. Also, there was discus- refinanced, and in fiscal 1989, 15,938 homes, valued at $1.1 bil-

> Despite the decline in such transactions, there are potential savings for more veterans now than have taken the opportunity during the past five years — as long as the VA guaranteed interest rate remains at 9.5 percent.

As of Dec. 30, 1989, there were still 413,153 loans guaranteed by VA with interest rates of 11.5 percent or higher — 38,000 more than were refinanced in the past five years. This backlog of loans included 52,056 loans with interest rates of 13.5 percent or higher. The VA encourages veterans to refinance loans with interest rates that are two points or more higher than the market rate. For lesser differences in rates, refinance costs eat up much of the savings.

The potential individual and collective savings to veterans are substantial.

A $70,000, 30-year loan at 11.5 percent, for example, has a monthly payment of $693.21 but would result in savings of $104.61 a month if the loan were changed to 9.5 percent. Over a maximum of 360 payments, the savings would amount to $37,659.

When these individual savings are matched against the current number of potential refinances, 413,153, the collective savings could amount to as much as $15.3 billion.

Veterans considering refinancing should contact a private lending agency. If there are questions concerning eligibility for a VA-guarantee of the refinanced loan, the veteran should contact the nearest VA Regional Office.

Night terrors problems in children may give some children nightmares, but more frightening are a child's night terrors.

Unlike nightmares, which are emotionally caused, night terrors are a physical condition that causes children to abruptly "awaken" in the first half of the night. Although their eyes are open, children with this problem are still asleep. Symptoms include screaming, rapid heart beat and breathing, dilated pupils, goose bumps, confusion, and disorientation.

"During a night terror, a child is not in a state to be comforted," said Dr. Letha B. Cole, clinical associate professor of psychiatry at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "A parent should stay with the child and wait until it passes."

There is no known cause for night terrors, although they are linked to brain processes during sleep and growth. Onset of night terrors usually occurs between ages 4 and 12 and disappears in early adolescence.

Cole stresses that if the night terrors continue beyond age 12, then the child should be evalu-

> Only one to four percent of all children experience night terrors, and in 96 percent of these cases, someone in their family had > Nightmares, on the other hand, are bad dreams from which the child awakens distressed, but not confused or disoriented.

> Overstimulation, such as frightening costumes or horror films often seen at Halloween can cause nightmares.

> "Be aware that young children cannot differ between what is real and what is not," Cole said. "Ask the person in costume to remove the mask so that the child can see the difference."

> Frequent nightmares are a sign that the child is worried about something. If there are other changes in behavior, then parents should seek professional help for their children.

"Parents need to realize the difference between night terrors and nightmares," Cole added. "They shouldn't worry about an occasional occurrence of either because they are part of a child's natural growing process."

Seventh Grade Breezes end season UNDEFEATED!!!

The 7th grade Breezes ended their season Thursday with a perfect mark. The 42 to 30 victory over Stamford raised their record to 8-0. "I wish we had a few more games to play because the kids were really starting to come together," stated Coach Lipsey. "Even the kids that had not played a lot were beginning to gain confidence in themselves; that should give them something to look forward to next year," continued Lipsey.

In the scoring category, Jerry Esquivel scored first on a 63 yard run. The next score came on a fake punt by Joe Reyna who scampered 45 yards. John Paul Belew added the two point conversion.

Mark Deike took a pitch from Belew and went 15 yards for the next score. Kevin Conner caught a 31 yard pass from Belew for another touchdown. Deike added the two-points.

Jessie Ortiz set up the next score when he intercepted a Stamford pass. Belew again found Conner in the end zone for a scoring strike. The final touchdown came on a 50 yard run by Esquivel, and Deike added the two point conversion

"It was a great season and a pleasure to work with these kids. They have a good future ahead of them if they all stay together," stated Coach Lipsey.

J. V. Blizzards lose last game of season

The Stamford Bulldogs ran all over the Winters J.V. last Thursday night. The Bulldogs team, which has eleven juniors, beat the Winters team by the score of 45-0. The Bulldogs moved the ball up and down the field the entire night. Stamford claimed the District J. V. Championship with an undefeated

"I was very proud of our kids," whole game, and that is something the kids can take pride in the fact that they never quit. These kids learned a lot this year. We are twice as good a team now as we were back in August. These young men were not the most talented players on the field, but that did not keep them from playing hard and wanting to learn. This type of attitude will help them be successful in the years to come."

"I would like to thank the rest of the coaching staff for their help this season. Also, I would like to thank the parents, the Winters Booster Club, and the community for the support they have given us all year," stated Cathey.

Grade Eighth finish Breezes third in district

The Winters 8th Grade Breezes closed out their season on a winning note by completely destroying the Stamford Bullpups 41-0. The Breezes, with the win, finished a very strong third in district, losing only to Jim Ned and Hamlin in district play. The Breezes finish with 5 wins and 3 losses overall.

The Breezes received the opening kickoff and proceeded downfield methodically, capping the drive on a 5 yard scamper by Robert Silva. The extra point try was no good. The Breezes continued the scoring in the first quarter with Nathan Collins running the bootleg for a 10 yard touchdown. Again the extra point attempt failed, but the Breezes lead 12-0.

The seond quarter was much the same as the first. Nathan Collins again ran the bootleg for a 10 yard touchdown. The extra point kick by Lupe Roman was good. The Breezes were to score one more time before the half; this time Lupe Roman ran the sweep for a 10 yard touchdown. Lupe also kicked the extra point for a 26-0 halftime lead.

The Breezes continued the onslaught in the second half. After stalling out at the Stamford 18 yardline, Lupe Romankicked a 25 yard field goal for a 29-0 lead. The Breezes were to score one more time in the third quarter; this time Jason Garcia ran 60 yards on a reverse. The extra point was no good. The breezes continued on in the fourth quarter with Robert Silva running the sweep for a 10 yard touchdown and a final score of 41-0.

The Breezes offensive line, made up of Perry Blackshear, Shane Smith, Zane Guy, Lance Donica, Cody Whittenburg, and Jason Garcia, had another good night blocking. The defense, made up of linemen Nathan Collins, Cody Whittenburg, Lance Donica, and Shane Smith; linebackers Zane Guy and Lupe Roman; secondaries Kelly Thompson, Anthony Earl Thomas, Robert Silva, Archie Lancaster, and Jason Garcia, all added another shut out to their record. Others contributing on specialty teams were Cyneka Ramirez, Ben Smith, Dean Evans, Jason Mitchell, Heath Watkins, Charlie Burton, Eric Hamrick, Alvin Perez, Chane Reagan, Mikey Hernandez, and Robert Castillo.

"This was a great bunch of kids to work with. We worked and learned to play as a team. The fans will hear these guys names again as they come through the ranks," stated Coach Henley.

754-5557 Childhood Fever: What Should You Do?

Fever is a common event during the childhood years. Fever occurs when the body temperature rises above the normal range of 98.6 to 99.6 degrees F. When fever is present in children, they tend to be listless, cranky, and lethargic. A slight fever may show little or no symptoms. Higher temperatures may result in chills, aches, increased rate of breathing or headache. Some authorities suggest children be seen by a physician if: • a low grade fever (100 to 102 degrees F) continues for more than the temperature reaches 104 degrees F or higher and does not respond to nonprescription fever-reducing medicines, the child is four months old or younger, or other symptoms are present such as sore throat, stiff neck, extreme lethargy, or breathing problems. Because of the association between aspirin use and Reye's syndrome in children, many physicians prefer acetaminophen as a feverreducing medicine. The Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs suggests that sponging with tepid water should be reserved for children whose temperatures exceed 104 F and who have not responded to oral fever-reducing medicines.

If that is true, why not take the next logical step in the progression of "spike technology" and compare spikes to fork antlered deer in a native range situation. In a research project conducted on the Kerr Wildlife Areanear Hunt,

Texas, five yearling buck deer sired by spike fathers and five fathers were released into a 96 acre native pasture where the vegetation typified the nutritional serchers state, however, that the differences were not considered had one inch more spread and one more point than the spike line. Here is the interesting part!

There was a great deal of overlap between the two groups in antler development, with several of the spike line deer actually developing better antlers than some of everything up. According to SCS

Wildlife Biologist Steve Nelle,

what this study should demonstrate to the average rancher or hunter is that spike deer and their offspring most often develop into average quality bucks on down the line. In the Kerr study, one of the spike-fathered bucks was clearly inferior throughout his

The nutritional quality of our typical Central Texas rangeland may play a larger role in whether this buck fawn produces spikes or fork antlers than genetics.

Are spikes inferior? by Don Haley

Dawn is barely breaking when the buck emerges from the dense thicket and trots across the frosted grass of the meadow, headed for who knows where. Huddled behind an overturned log, you see a flash of horn in the early light and decide to put some venison on the table.

Walking up to the buck, you see only the two single side-byside prongs of a spike! You don't know exactly how you feel. Have you just done the world a favor by eliminating an inferior deer from the herd or have you taken a young buck that might have someday grown into the buck of your dreams!

Are spike bucks really inferior or just blameless victims of environmental circumstance? As one might expect with all that has gone on with the spike controversy, the answer is positively, absolutely "sometimes".

As we discussed last week, research at Kerr Wildlife Area has shown conclusively that, with the same plane of nutrition, spikes as yearlings never attain the same quality of antler development and body weight as do yearling fork antlered bucks. Remember now, this is on penraised nutritionally balanced

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, everything is not so nutritionally ideal as it was in the test facility. According to Soil Conservation Service (SCS) Wildlife Biologist Steve Nelle from San Angelo, on most range conditions in the Edwards Plateau region, spike deer are more nutritionally inferior than genetically inferior, then all the deer, both bucks and does of all ages, are nutritionally inferior compared to optimum conditions.

spike-fathered bucks developed 8-10 point, 12-14 inch inside spread with 3-3.5 inch basal circumferences. More fastinating research at life. However, the other four the Kerr Wildlife Area has shown that, by age 4 1/2, bucks with spike fathers on a high nutritional diet equalled or surpassed bucks with fork antlered fathers on nutritionally inadequate rangeland in all antler development measurements except antler points.

The naked truth is that bucks who supposedly had inferior genes from a spike father ended up as good or better than bucks from supposedly superior fork antlered fathers. The difference was simply nutrition. Through sub-optimal nutrition, the "superior" genetics of the fork antlered line was effectively masked while the "inferior" genetics of the spike line was overcome with quality nutrition.

The practical side to this research, according to Nelle, is relatively clear to the average landowner/manager/hunter with limited acreages and resources. If you can afford to cull five spikes to get rid of one inferior deer, then that is a management decision that someone must make. On the other hand, studies indicate that the other four will likely develop into quite decent bucks if allowed to grow to maturity.

By studying the different research projects and actual deer management on the ground, Nelle states that "the spike problem" is primarily a nutritional problem, with genetics playing a minor and secondary role.

Approximately two weeks ago, this incident did occur. After my daughter handed me the money, the cashier and I both noticed it was a twenty dollar bill. The cashier grabbed the money from me before I could get two words in edgewise and promptly stuck the money under the register drawer. (The money could have been mine - it wasn't, but he/she didn't bother to ask.)

A second employee was also on the floor near the register and seeing what was taking place came over. This person mentioned the name of a lady who had been in just a little earlier with several kids. Perhaps while digging in her purse and tending to the children, she managed to lose the $20. It was mentioned that the employees would contact this lady or just wait to see if anyone came in to claim it. My mistake was the simple fact that I did not bring this matter to the attention of the manager on this same day.

Several days later, I was shopping at this same store. I did not see the cashier who had grabbed the money on that particular day but did see the second employee. I asked him/her if anyone had claimed the money. He/She very honestly told me that he/she did not know and advised me to check with that cashier on another working day. At this point, I bluntly suggested that I probably knew what had happened. After all, honestly speaking, who couldn't use $20 with things the way that they are today?

Now, just the other day, a friend and myself were checking out at this same store. Guess what? The cashier was the one and the same. Out of curiosity more than anything else, I asked again. "Oh, yeah, a lady came in the next morning and claimed the money,"the cashler stated. T asked for the name of the person who staked the claim. The cashier told me that he/she had taken the person's name and was fumbling through the register drawer looking for some evidence of such - none found!

What really tees me off is what I learned the next day. Rumor has it that someone had gone into the store asking if any money had been found just within the last couple of days. This money would more than likely have not been the same because nearly two weeks had already gone by and the amount in question was not the same. The cashier at the time was positive that no twenty dollar bill had been pulled when this particular person paid.

After this person exited, remarks were overheard in regard to the incident that occurred with me. Something to the effect of 'that's just like that other lady - I wasn't about to tell her that no one had claimed that money she didn't deserve it anymore than I did.' This may well be true, but who do you think ended up with the $20 that my daughter had found? Who paid for those lunches?

I have now talked to the manager and suggested that this $20 be recollected if necessary and be deposited in the company fund. The cashier was correct when saying neither of us deserved it more than the other. Maybe, just maybe, I can say justice has been served, and as I have always been taught and have strongly believed "Honesty is and always will be the best policy."

Sixth Graders to receive gift-book

The sixth grade students in the Winters Elementary School will receive a gift-book titled The Way To Go.

Presented to them by civicminded leaders in this community, The Way To Go, is the centerpiece of the Youth Development Program. Many communities throughout the nation are participating in this Program.

The Way To Go, handsomely bound and illustrated in full-color is a collection of eight short stories. Written to appeal to young people in today's world, the stories reinforce traditional moral values. For instance, one of the stories emphasizes the importance of being a responsible person; another shows how highly honesty should be valued; another focuses on the danger of drugs and alcohol.

The Program is described as being a response to a growing concern felt by parents and others throughout the nation. Too often, it is maintained, young people are the innocent victims of harmful influences that undermine the sound values parents are trying to teach their children in the home. National statistics on drug and alcohol related accidents involving teenagers, on missing children, teenage pregnancies, teenage suicides, are cause for alarm. The great majority of parents do not have these problems. Nonetheless, they worry about them: peer pressure is a strong influence on young people.

The response of the local sponsors of this Program, when asked why they are participating in it, can be summed up as follows: "This community means a lot to us. Our young people are our most precious resource. They are our future. This Program is good for our young people, their parents, and our community."

The local sponsors are Winters Oilfield Supply, Inc. and Winters Welding Works, Inc.

Large voter turnout in Runnels Co.

Fifty-three percent of the registered voters in Runnels County turned out to vote in the general election on Tuesday, November 6. Official returns from the County Clerk's office show that between 42% and 43% of the registered voters in Winters turned out to vote.

Highest percentage of voter turnout in Runnels County was at Rowena where 68% of those registered voted. Runnels County voters went against the grain in voting in favor of Clayton Williams for governor and Rob Mosbacher for Lieutenant Governor, while their opponents won out statewide.

In contested County races, the Precinct 4 Commissioner's race was won by Ricky Strube, defeating Gene Davis by a vote of 784 to 343. The Justice of the Peace, Precinct 6, race was spiced by declared write-in candidate Dorothy Granzin who garnered 164 votes to Lynn Bigler's 202 to make it a close race.

Notice of Public Hearing

Senator Chet Brooks and Representative Robert Saunders, cochairmen of the 1990 Joint Task Force on Waste Management Policy, have invited experts on the importation of out-of-state municipal solid waste and hazardous waste disposal to address a group of legislators in Sweetwater, Texas, on Tuesday, November 20.

Senators Steve Carriker (D-Roby), Temple Dickson (D-Sweetwater) and Bill Sims (D-San Angelo) will be joined on the panel by State Representatives David Counts (D-Knox City), Rob Junell (D-San Angelo) and Robert Hunter (D-Abilene) to receive testimony from several experts.

The public forum will begin at 1:00 p.m. in the District Courtroom of the Nolan County Courthouse, 101 East Broadway in Sweetwater.

Proposals for a hazardous waste landfill and incinerator in Mitchell and Lubbock counties have generated a great deal of concern in the region. In addition, an application has been filed with the Texas Water Commission for a hazardous waste injection well in Fisher County, and is being protested by some local citizen groups.

The public is invited to attend the forum. Interested persons may submit written testimony to be entered into the official record for consideration by state lawmakers during the 72nd Legislature which convenes in January.

New and Dangerous

Some young people who would normally hesitate to swallow pills or use a needle do not hesitate to smoke a cigarette form of drug. Smoking seems safer because it is associated with the common tobacco cigarette, not cocaine or heroin.

A new smokeable drug, called 'moonrock' is a combination of crack and heroin that produces the same euphoria as crack but helps avoid the devastating depression that follows a crack high. "It also increases the possibility of overdose death and creates a dual crack-heroin addiction in the user," said William Hopkins, director of street research at N.Y. State's division of substance abuse services.

'Croak' is a combination of crack and regular cocaine.

On the West Coast, 'crank' is more dangerous than cocaine because it is more volatile and when inhaled it delivers a highly concentrated dose that increases the likelihood of toxic reactions, including death. 'Crank' is the street name for methamphetamine, a stimulant easily made in a laboratory.

Trends from either coast usually end up in the Midwest. Chicago Tribune September 1, 1989 'Killer Crack,' U.S. Dept. Educ. Winter 1989-90
