cussion on July 15, Runnels said. County Commissioners voted unanimously to enter into an interlocal cooperation agreement with the Texas Department of Public Safety for help in collecting outstanding fines.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2, Richard Hamilton presented the proposal to commissioners. Hamilton said the state had contracted with Omnibase for assistance in collecting outstanding fines. The county would report unpaid fines to Omnibase which would enter them into a database and when the person who had not paid the fine tried to renew their driver license, they would be unable to renew until the fine is paid.

There is no cost to the County since the Omnibase fee of $30 is paid by the person being fined.

Oil Bidness

by Reg Boles © 2003

Over the last year, it has become popular for activists objecting to any foreign activities of the United States to accuse us of doing it only for "the oil."

I have written a few columns on this topic before, and I have made the case on more than one occasion that the U.S. did not act to secure oil supplies, but acted for other reasons, in certain instances. Whether you agree or not, that has been my position.

But, I think it is constructive to understand that stable oil supplies do weigh in on foreign policy matters of the U.S. government from time to time. While some seem to think it is the ONLY reason our country acts, I submit that energy is, and should be, a component of the U.S. global foreign policy.

Because we can't produce enough within our borders to satisfy the consumer demand, a certain amount of oil (and, very soon, natural gas) must be imported. As such, the supply sources are important strategically. And, now that we are importing close to 60% of our daily consumption, the stability of that supply can be critical to our security as a nation.

So, while the U.S. has other foreign policy goals, our government must consider ramifications of activities outside our borders and how that might impact energy supply. Now, energy supply stability should never override doing what is right, but if certain goals can be co-productive, then more power to us.

In that light, when we do something in a part of the world that helps those in need or promotes democracy, it is not some undercover consupply. But, if it provides another willing energy supply the Goliad CSL. partner in the process, then we are the better for it.

As a taxpayer and a conwouldn't expect my government to do anything less than consider all aspects of foreign policy actions before acting. While I believe the U.S. has to pursue policies that promote peace and stability, first, I hope the big picture has also been considered.

And, energy is part of that big picture.

Resident asks City to adhere to ordinances

Dear Editor:

In regard to Dr. Hassan's letter concerning the properties with high weeds and code violations, doesn't this code pertain to our city's property as well?

Our property adjoins the city's water treatment facilities. For 18 years we have cleaned the fence row and maintained the weeds next to the fence out of concern of it catching on fire and burning our home.

Maybe the city should set a good example by keeping their property mowed and edged.

City Manager appreciates the "good ol' USA" after Europe trip

Dear Editor:

No where is like the good of USA. The big state of Texas has its own place in the heart of his country. Winters, indeed, is home, sweet home in the heart of the big country under the broad skies of West Texas with two lakes full of water to appre-

There is a saying in Afghanistan: "The drum sounds better from a distance," (similar to "the grass is greener on the other side). Doris and I spent our honeymoon in Europe. We stayed four days in London and four days in Scotland and enjoyed every moment of it. But what a different from America! We noticed the difference as soon as we switched planes from American Airlines to British Airways. On American Airlines, when you ask for a Coke, you get a Coke with ice. On British Airways, you ask for a drink, they ask you if you want ice. If you say "yes" they come with two ice cubes in a plastic cup. In most US hotels there are big ice machines on every floor. In Britain you have to hunt for a small one located in an isolated corner on one of the hotel floors.

Scotland is beautiful and popular for its golf courses. We stayed in a mansion that was built castle-style. It had been vacated by one of the royal family. Around that location there are seventy golf courses. On the second day of our stay we had a tee-off time in the King's Link Municipal Golf Course. The green fee was eleven pounds; approximately twenty-two dollars. Renting clubs, though was fifteen pounds. No golf cart of even a pull cart was available. There was not one single tree on the entire course. Golf balls and tees are expensive and the golfers are so cheap that we did not notice one ball or tee left be-

Our flight from London to Dallas-Fort Worth took approximately ten hours. I did all the reading, TV watching, sleeping, eating and drinking I could and we were still in the air. So I

My conclusion is that everything in life is relative and must be judge relatively. If one doesn't appreciate what we have, he or she must travel to England, the best country in the world, next to the US. He or she will find out that our country is the best and our people are the cream of the crop of the other nations. People emigrated here for freedom, better opportunities and a quality life. This is one reason USA is a melting pot of all the gold and silver of the world, and still number ONE.

Obituary

Louis Wade

WINTERS-Louis Wade, 92, died Saturday, July 19, 2003, in a Brownwood hospital.

He was born May 10, 1911, in Garretts Bluff, Texas, and grew up there. He moved to Pumphrey as a young man and married Essie Ann Blackmon on June 29, 1935, in Winters. They moved to Winters in 1944.

Mr. Wade worked at C.L. Green Feed Mill Company, for the Southern Pacific Railroad, and later as custodian for the First Baptist Church where he was a member.

He was preceded in death by his wife in 1975 and two grandsons, Rodney Wade and Bryan Young.

Survivors include three sons, Ronnie Wade and wife Barbara of Jacksboro, Garland Wade and wife Margie of Abilene, and Randall Wade and wife Janie of Lake Brownwood; two daughters, Pat Smith and husband Herman of Lake Brownwood and Norma Jean Young and husband Glen of Waxahachie; one brother, Wesley Wade of Winters; twelve grandchildren; nineteen great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Services were Tuesday, July 22, in the First Baptist Church. Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery in Winters, directed by Winters Funeral Home.

He will make you "Fishers of Men"

by Pastor Terry Loehman, New Beginnings Church

A long time ago, I took my two sons fishing at Moss Creek Lake near Big Spring, Texas. I was a young father and my sons were young kids. Adam was probably about five or six years old and T.J. was about eleven or twelve.

We fished from the bank for a little while and didn't catch anything or even get any bites. Then we decided to go on a crappie dock and try it for a while. The dock sat in about thirty feet of water and had two squares cut out in the middle, about four feet by four feet.

There was a man, and I guess his wife, sitting there on the dock also. Anyway, I turned my back on my boys while I cast out my lines and was trying to get them set. The next thing I knew I heard a loud "splash" behind me. It didn't register in my brain right away but suddenly I turned around and Adam was gone! I panicked and then leaped down to the open square closest to me on the dock. I stuck my arm as far as I could in the murky water to try to find Adam. I began to feel this small hand grabbing at my arm as it sank farther down. We couldn't get connected until he sank down to where his fingertips could barely reach up and grab my fingertips. I finally got a hold and jerked him up out of the water. He had swallowed some water and was choking, but he was okay — Thank God!

You see, God spared the life of my son that day. It's hard for me to describe the situation by just writing it down on paper, but I assure you, it was an eye-opener! If I hadn't been able to grab him and pull him out, I would have dived in and we both could possibly have drown.

I didn't know the Lord Jesus Christ then and was not saved. But God, in His infinite grace and mercy, was watching over Adam and me anyway. You see, God's love is unconditional. He loves us even when we don't acknowledge him. He's just like earthly fathers and mothers — He's just waiting for His children to love Him back. But He will not force us to love Him. He has, however, provided a way for us to come to him and that way is through His Son, Jesus Christ!

On that fishing day I had a long time ago with my sons, He spared my son's life, but He loves us so much that when it came to our salvation, He allowed His own Son to die for our sins!

Thank you, Heavenly Father, for your indescribable love! By the way, Adam was the only thing I caught that day.

Did you see it? Odd light near the moon

If you happen to look up at the night sky this week, you may see a weird, glowing dot of light next to the moon. It's Mars. Don't say you never get to see anything cool. Mars and Earth are moving closer together over the next few weeks, and on August 7, the two planets will be the closest they have been since 60,000 and 73,000 years ago. Don't worry about a collision. Mars and Earth will still be about 35 million miles apart, which is much closer than the usual distance of about 60 million miles.

Runnels County Rumors

from the United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service

CROP DISASTER PROGRAM

Sign-up for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP) began June 6. Qualifying producers will have a choice of receiving payments for crop losses resulting from eligible loss conditions for either the 2001 crop year or the 2002 crop year, but not both. Producers must choose the same year for all crops and for all farms in the administrative county. CDP will provide assistance for losses to eligible producers, due to low yields, reduced quality and value loss crops, and prevented planting.

To be eligible for a disaster payment, the producer's crop production must have been reduced by more than 35 percent from the "expected production." Disaster payments are issued on losses exceeding the 35% threshold. Quality loss payments are available when the loss in quality exceeds 20% of the production.

Payments will be calculated using 50% of the payment rate for producers who had crop insurance and/or NAP coverage. Payments on uninsured crops will be calculated using 45% of the payment rate.

NOTE: Producers who did not have crop insurance and elect to receive a disaster payment will be required to purchase Buy-Up Crop Insurance for the next two years (2004 & 2005). Cat coverage is not buyup. If insurance is not available for your crop, you must purchase NAP coverage on that

DCP CONTRACT CHANGES

Remember:

· If a change occurs that requires a revision of shares on the original contract, and the Sept. 30, then no producer is eligible for payment. If the contract is not updated to reflect the succession in interest by Sept. 30, the 2003 DCP contract will be terminated and all payments issued for the 2003 crop year must be refunded.

refunded if someone receives a DCP payment for a farm and subsequently fails to meet the definition of a producer on a farm for the contract year.

• If a change occurs, the new producer(s) will not be paid until the previous producer(s) refund(s) the unearned advance payment.

July 27th pre-registration deadline Beef cattle producers can available online at http:// choose from more than 70 animalscience.tamu.edu/ or by beef-related educational topics calling Boleman's office at at the 49th Texas A&M Uni-(979) 845-6931.

versity Beef Cattle Short Course on Aug. 4-6 at the University Center and Rudder Tower in College Station.

This program contains information all beef producers should be aware of, said Dr. Larry Boleman, associate head of the department of animal science and conference coordinator. "Beef producers have seen a lot of changes in the past year, including Country of Origin Labeling and other issues and topics," Boleman said. "The short course will provide information for every beef producer, if they want to be prepared for the future."

On Aug. 4, participants can choose what workshops are most important to their operations in the "Cattlemen's College," which includes basic ranch management, marketing, forage management, nutrition, meat science, pesticide application, profitability, reproduction, research updates and business management. Two special "hands-on" sessions on Aug. 6 will feature live cattle handling and facilities and a beef cattle working workshop.

The general sessions will feature the "cutting-edge concepts and the newest topics with the best speakers in the nation to keep our producers informed," Boleman said.

The general session on Aug. 4 will address national animal identification programs, cattle care and welfare, and Country of Origin Labeling. A special breeding and genetics general session on Aug. 5 will include information on breed type evaluations, and how to choose breeds for specific markets.

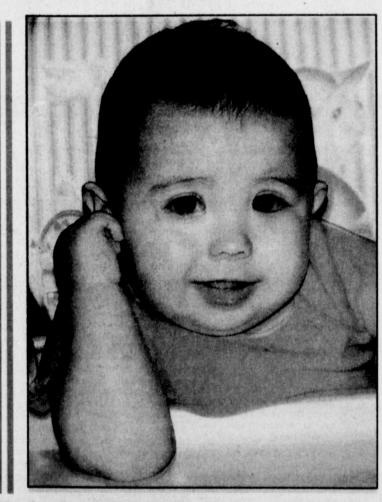

Registration includes admission to the trade show, which will feature more than 85 agricultural businesses or service exhibits.

The Short Course begins at 8 a.m. on Aug. 4 and continues through noon on Aug. 6. Pre-registration costs $110 per participant and is due by July 27. Registration materials are
