WHO goes to school at Winters

Fourteen pair of 5-year-old eyes watched with wonder and delight as Heidi the Snow Owl brushed back the long feathers on her ears and prepared to teach.

Heidi is a puppet. But she was as real as could be to the kindergarten students in Mrs. Parramore's class at Winters Elementary School last week.

Heidi and several other puppets were at WISD to teach the WHO (We Help Ourselves) anti-victimization safety program. The program is designed

Don't panic: Army helicopter training returning to West Texas counties

Residents in several West Texas counties will notice increased numbers of Army helicopters in the air and military vehicles on the roads during the last few days of September and later in October and November while routine training activities are underway in the area.

The training being conducted by the 21st Cavalry Brigade from Fort Hood will involve frequent flights in Brown, McCulloch, Coleman, Runnels, San Saba, and Mills counties during three periods: from Sept. 28-Oct. 10, from Oct. 19-31, and from Nov. 16-21.

Many of the flights will be along U.S. Highways 67, 377, and 283, and in other remote areas in the six counties in both daytime and nighttime.

The 21st Cavalry Brigade is responsible for training all U.S. Army aviation units and those of allied countries that are transitioning to the new AH-64D Apache Longbow attack helicopter.

The realistic training conducted by the 21st Cavalry Brigade helps units to function as a team and operate over the distances they would have to maneuver in under actual combat conditions.

The intense training program for each unit lasts about six months and culminates with a series of exercises in different West Texas areas where land and airspace allow the extended maneuver room.

As part of the training, visually modified vehicles designed to replicate an "enemy" force will be traveling throughout the training area and will be parked on roadsides periodically while the helicopters search for them. No live ammunition is used in the training exercises.

He and his wife, Lillian, and children Jimmy, age 14, and Stephanie, age 10, will be moving to Winters from Santa Anna.

Commissioners purchase motor graders and radios

Runnels County Commissioners approved the purchase of three used motor graders for Precinct 1 at a special meeting on Tuesday.

Commissioner Skipper Wheelless recommended accepting the bid of Yellowhouse Machinery of Abilene on three used graders at a total price of $169,500. The graders will be paid in monthly payments for five years at a 3.9% interest rate, costing the County $36,589.93 per year.

In other business at the meeting, commissioners designated departments to receive equipment through a Homeland Security grant of $42,632. The Runnels County Sheriff's Department will receive the majority of the equipment, purchasing new radios and related equipment. Other business and action taken included:

- Approval of the extension of the blanket crime bond for the office of the Justice of the Peace, Precinct #1.

- Adopted a resolution relating to the Indigent Defense Formula Grant Program. County Judge Marilyn Egan said the grant money received only covers a small portion of the indigent defense for the county.

- Entered into a Letter of Agreement with Abilene Regional Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, Inc. at no cost to the County.

Commissioners set a meeting for Monday, September 29 to make budget amendments to the 2002-2003 fiscal year budget. The fiscal year for the County ends on September 30.

Deadline near for using 325 area code

Only two weeks remain in the grace period for using the old 915 area code. Mandatory dialing using the new 325 area code becomes effective October 5, 2003.

According to the PUC, current estimates predict that the 915 area code will run out of numbers in early 2004. The three-way split approved by the PUC will prevent the need for additional area codes in the three regions for an estimated 17-20 years.

After the Oct. 5 deadline, customers who dial the old area code will get a recorded reminder until Dec. 7, 2003.

Oil Bidness

by Reg Boles © 2003

Not since the days of $10 oil has there been such a focus on cost cutting among oil companies. Surprisingly, this occurs against a backdrop of some of the most consistently high product prices in recent memory. What's the deal?

One would think that there should be a focus of concentration on putting some of that strong cashflow to work, instead of how to squeeze more out of the operation. But, if we know so much, I guess we would be in charge of these huge companies.

It turns out that most of those companies are fighting to increase rates, boost income, and cut costs to satisfy the perceived requirements of stock analysts. Just last year, companies started to proclaim that they would see production increases of 10 percent or more, and, just this year, most found out that was a fool's dream. So, this year, the indicator de jour is cost reduction year-over-year.

As a result, press releases have been released, meetings have been held, and the bar has been set. Any companies hoping to keep the positive light shining on its stock better have something to say about major cost reductions.

So, you now see companies re-examining their organization, their deployment of manpower, and which assets they should hold.

Now this would all be harmless corporate management-speak, except that it has real consequences. Some good properties are being sold, excellent technology is not being implemented, and good people are losing their jobs.

It is possible that the latest wave of cost cutting could prove to be beneficial by weeding out inefficiencies in the business. However, there is strong evidence that decisions are being made, not on a sound business basis, but rather in a pie-in-the-sky, goal-driven frenzy.

As we observed in the recent failure of some of the world's largest oil and gas companies to achieve production targets, setting goals that are based on external expectations rather than real, achievable business targets can be disastrous. It didn't take long for those companies blindly seeking higher production to discover that the only way to get there was to lie about it.

Many companies now heading down the path of cost reduction at any cost, may find that only by lying to themselves can they keep up the pace of property sales, employee cuts, and office closings. Lies like "by cutting people, our productivity will rise proportionately" and "selling properties won't result in any significant loss of production and cashflow."

Well, the good news is that there are plenty of companies and entrepreneurs out there ready to snap up properties being sold and people who are let go. They look at things with their mind on every dollar and know it takes good people to make projects work.

They also know there is plenty of oil, gas, and money to be made at today's prices for those willing to take some risk, share the wealth, and keep their eye open for opportunities.

Sometimes, it is hard to see the opportunities right there when you have to keep trying to impress spectators.

In Appreciation

Local man thanks "vacationing" friend

This is a personal Thank You to my very good friend, Danny Reel. While he was here on vacation from California he donated and set up a music system at my church, helped beautify downtown Winters, helped his brothers Ronnie and Kenny, mowed Wanda Guy's yard, worked at Crews Cemetery, bought and changed guitar strings on my guitar, attended my church with his daughter Becky, praised God on his bass guitar, bought school clothes for a needy kid, helped celebrate Independence Day, fogged my wasp nest, cooked meals, bought meals, made my mom feel better and so many other things. And no one asked him to do any of it! He just has a good heart!

God bless you, brother!

We love you,

Terry & Noelisa Loehman

Editor's note: I'd like to ride on the Loehmans' coattails for just a second and add an extra "Thank You" to Danny. I saw him do many good deeds while he was "vacationing" here in Winters. In fact, I was a little embarrassed that someone from California had to chop weeds and clean trash from our downtown area because we homefolks didn't have enough pride and fortitude to take care of that problem. Thanks, Danny!

Card of Thanks

At a time of sorrow we realize how much our friends mean to us.

We will always remember all of your expressions of sympathy. Thank you.

Learning about safety through fun

HEIDI THE SNOW OWL makes a big impression on these 5-year-olds in Mrs. Chris Parramore's kindergarten class as the students learn about the WHO anti-victimization safety program in terminology the youngsters could understand. Teaching the students is Linda Walker, Assistant Director of Crime Victim Crisis Center of Abilene.

first year for Winters ISD to participate in the program.

The puppets and accompanying video focus on the three WHO rules: Say No, Get Away, and Tell Someone.

"If I could present this program to parents," Walker said, "the most important thing I would tell them is this: believe your child. If your child indicates he or she is being physically abused or molested, believe them. If you don't take their disclosure seriously, the child may never talk about it again and the abuse may go on for years, doing extensive damage to the child's self-esteem."

While the kindergarten students were learning from Heidi and her puppet friends, older students were hearing anti-victimization messages designed especially for their age groups presented by another CVCC staffer.

At the same time across the street, the junior high and high school students were participating in similar discussions with two lesson plans developed specifically for teenagers.

WISD Superintendent Danny

Clack invited CVCC into the schools. Counselors Mary Wilkerson and Charles Murphy worked with CVCC and WISD teachers to make sure virtually every student heard the strategies they can use to take responsibility for their own personal safety and health.

The WHO program was developed by the Mental Health Association of Dallas County. CVCC administers the program in this region to children in grades K-12 with funding from state and local grants and donations. It is presented free of charge.

Financial Focus

By Jim Woodruff of Edward Jones

Stay current on your insurance needs

You probably don't spend a lot of time pondering insurance. And yet, you should think about it - because, by taking the steps necessary to meet all your key insurance needs, you can help protect your income, your family and your long-term financial goals.

In creating a comprehensive insurance strategy, you need to keep one key point in mind: Your protection needs will evolve over time. Consequently, at different stages of life, you'll need to evaluate your insurance coverage to make sure it's appropriate and sufficient.

When should you first start thinking about insurance? Do you even need to worry about it if you're first starting out in your career, you're single and you have no dependents?

Actually, you might have more to protect than you thought. Do you own a house? Do you have a student loan? A car loan? A balance on your credit cards? If you have any or all of these expenses, then you could face serious problems if something happened to your income. And the fact is that, at every stage of your working life, you are much more likely to become disabled than you are to die. If a serious injury or lengthy illness prevents you from working, how will you make your house, car and other payments?

Disability insurance can help. If your employer offers disability coverage as a low-cost benefit, take it. However, you may have to supplement this coverage with an individual policy.

Now, let's fast-forward a few years in your life cycle. If you get married and have children, you should absolutely consider life insurance. The amount of insurance you require should be based on several factors: your income, your spouse's income, the size of your mortgage, how many children you have, anticipated college costs, etc.

During your early working years, you may be able to get by with relatively inexpensive term insurance. As you move into your middle years, though, you might want to explore some type of "permanent" life insurance.

Once you approach retirement age, you'll also want to consider long-term care insurance. A year's stay in a nursing home can cost $50,000 - and in some major metropolitan areas, it can cost twice that much, according to the Health Insurance Association of America. Medicare may only pay a fraction of these costs, so if you want to maintain your financial independence and avoid burdening your family, you might want to purchase a long-term care insurance policy.

Finally, during your retirement years, you could use life insurance as an estate-planning tool. An attorney experienced in estate planning can advise you on the potential uses of life insurance in trusts or other arrangements.

As you can see, meeting your insurance needs is a dynamic process. That's why you may want to periodically review your insurance situation with an investment professional who has the tools and experience to recommend the right moves to make - at the right time in your life.

Blizzards struggle, fall to Wall Hawks

by Charles Murphy, Sports Writer for The Winters Enterprise

Winters received the opening kickoff as Wall's homecoming celebration began last Friday night at Hawk Stadium.

Eric Lopez returned the kickoff to the Blizzard 37 yard line but three plays and a punt set Wall up at their own 39. Four plays later the Hawks set the tone for the evening with a 10 yard scamper and combined with the extra point, led 7-0 at the 8:55 mark. The next score came on a 56 yard run and a 14-0 lead with 7:12 left in the first quarter.

The Blizzard offense showed some life as they would string together a couple of first downs as Benjie Valles and Tim Fenwick hooked up on several completions. Valles also found Jose Hernandez for 10 yards to move closer to the score. But all the fireworks sizzled as an interception on 3rd and 12 brought this threat to an end.

The first quarter ended with Wall up 14-0 and the Blizzards facing 3rd and 9 from midfield. Valles again found Fenwick for the 36 yard completion to the 14 yard line. Facing 3rd and 6, Fenwick made a circus catch for the touchdown only to be denied by an illegal procedure flag. This threat died as Valles missed a 33 yard field goal attempt and Wall took over at their own 20 yard line.

The 80 yard drive ended with a 15 yard touchdown run and a 21-0 Wall lead with 6:45 left in the first half. Wall finished off the half scoring with a 20 yard touchdown run with 2:09 left. The extra point was blocked by a host of Blizzards and the Wall lead was 27-0 at the halftime.

Winters kicked off to start the second half and in less than a minute, the Hawks struck paydirt on a 44 yard touchdown run, raising the score 34-0 with 11:06 left in the third period.

Winters set up at their 39 yard line with a first and 10. After a short gain on a pass from Valles to Frank Perez and a 2 yard loss on a QB keeper, Valles found Tim Fenwick on one of the night's best catches. Catching the ball with arms fully extended, Fenwick managed to "toe the line," keeping both feet in as he fell out of bounds.

The Blizzards gambled on the fake punt as Aaron Colburn's pass fell incomplete and the Hawks took over on the Winters 46 yard line. With 7:18 on the clock, the Hawks scored again on an 8 yard run, pushing their lead to 41-0.

The rest of the third quarter was a battle of defensive units as neither team could score.

The Blizzards recovered a Wall fumble midway through the fourth quarter but were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt. Needing only three yards for the first down, Winters went for the fake but the runner was tackled for a loss and Wall took over on the Winters 15 yard line. The Hawks scored again with 3:59 left and took a commanding 47-0 lead.

The Blizzards took the kickoff on their own 42 yard line and, for the first time in the quarter, made some impressive yardage on good runs by Cody Pritchard and Frank Perez. But a Blizzard fumble turned the ball over and with about a minute left, Wall simply downed the ball and the clock ran out with the final score of 47-0.

Winters will travel to Robert Lee this Friday to face the Steers. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

BKB says thanks

The Blizzard Kid Boosters (BKB) would like to thank everyone who helped make their "Pizza Delivery Night" a success. A special thanks to Pizza Hut and the Pizza Hut employees, the BKB parents who delivered pizzas, and the community for their support of the BKB.

The BKB would also like to apologize to anyone whose pizza was late being delivered.

Hawks win 8th grade battle at Wall

Although the 8th grade Breezes lost 27-8 to the Wall Hawks last Thursday, the Winters squad showed determination by scoring with 50 seconds left in the game.

The touchdown came on a sweep pass from Alex Harrison to Julian Perez. The extra point run by Tad Martin for two was good, and the Breezes were on the board.

Coach David Wood said, "Our defense struggled with the wishbone that the Hawks ran. But we had some outstanding defensive play by Wylie Guy and Tory Burns."

The 8th grade will play a combined team from Robert Lee tonight at 6:30 in Blizzard Stadium.

7th grade Breezes fall to Hawks

The Wall Hawks outscored the 7th grade Breezes 24-0 last Thursday evening.

"We made much improvement over last week even though the score doesn't show it," said Coach David Wood. "The team is starting to understand the amount of work it takes to be a good team."

The Breezes will play the Roscoe Plowboys at 5 p.m. this afternoon at Blizzard Stadium.

JV results not available

No Junior Varsity results against the Wall Hawks were available at press time. Please contact Coach Todd Odom at 754-4653 for further information.

The Blizzard JV squad will travel to Albany to play the Lions on Sept. 25 at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

AEP employees recognized for outstanding safety record

— Winters' Ray Guevara and John Joeris among recipients —

Ray Guevara and John Joeris of Winters are among the 105 members of American Electric Power's San Angelo Distribution District to receive recognition for an outstanding safety record.

Mark Baker, San Angelo manager of distribution systems, and Randy Wessels, line crew leader, accepted the Attention to Safety Award from Dr. E. Lynn Draper, AEP chairman, president and chief executive officer, during a safety recognition meeting in Columbus, Ohio. Draper congratulated Baker and Wessels and expressed his appreciation for the district's safe work practices.

The San Angelo district employees worked without an Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) recordable accident for more than one year to receive the award. An OSHA recordable accident is any work-related injury that requires medical treatment beyond first aid.

Baker said, "The very nature of our work around electrical lines and equipment makes it a highly dangerous occupation. Our industry has come a long way over the years in creating a safer work environment and it's something we train for and think about continually, both on and off the job. I'm extremely proud of the men and women in our district. They certainly deserve this recognition for their safety performance."

When Mark found out he could get free cable on all his extra TVs, he went a little wild.

WTU Retail Energy to transfer call center operations to Texas

WTU Retail Energy L.P. announced Sept. 17, 2003, that by year-end the company will transfer its customer service call center from Florida to Dallas. The change is in response to customer feedback and demonstrates WTU Retail Energy's commitment to provide quality customer service.

"We value customer feedback and are transferring the call center to provide customers with the Texas-based service they want," said Don Whaley, WTU Retail Energy president. "The move will also give us greater oversight of call center activities so that customers can expect ongoing improvements while being served by fellow Texans."

The customer service phone number will remain 1-866-322-5563 and the hours of operation will continue to be Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. CST. The call center will be operated by Alliance Data Systems, a third-party vendor based in Dallas.

"Customers will not experience an interruption in call center availability or services during the transition," Whaley continued. "We are committed to making the change as seamless as possible for them."

Celebrating 75 years— Texas FFA launches project to reconnect with former members

The Texas FFA Association has launched a program to reconnect with the hundreds of thousands of students that have worn the distinctive blue and gold FFA jacket over the last eight decades. "The Texas FFA is celebrating 75 years of success through youth leadership development and agricultural education," said Tom Maynard, executive director of the Texas FFA program. "We want to hear from our former students about how their lives have turned out and how their FFA training helped them."

Maynard said the 75th annual observance of the FFA's birthday in Texas is an excellent opportunity to locate the students that have been in FFA over the years. The organization plans to do that with a website, and a media campaign encouraging former students to make contact with the organization.

To assist alumni in reconnecting with the organization, the Texas FFA has launched a new website: <www.texasffa.org>. Alumni can visit the website and click on the 75th Anniversary logo to submit their contact information.

What started as an organization for farm boys in 1929, has grown into a large and sophisticated program that trains both boys and girls in agricultural science, public speaking, parliamentary procedure, and a solid work ethic. "We believe FFA has matured into a progressive, inclusive, and diverse youth organization teaching leadership, technology, career and character development," said Tobin Redwine, this year's student president of the Texas FFA Association. "We are eager to hear from all generations of former FFA members about how FFA has impacted their lives."

The Texas FFA initiated this project to reunite former Texas FFA members with the organization, to keep them informed about the organization and to let current members know how the Texas FFA can impact their own lives, through the experiences of others.

The Texas FFA is the nation's largest state FFA association with a membership of 58,753 and 977 local affiliates.

Texas initiates testing program to help regain cattle tuberculosis (TB) status

Beginning November 1, Texas will begin implementing the cattle tuberculosis (TB) plan developed by an industry and agency task force in late 2002. The strategy includes testing dairy and purebred cattle herds, work that may be conducted by certified private veterinary practitioners, without cost to Texas ranchers, reports Dr. Bob Hillman, Texas' state veterinarian and executive director for the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's livestock health regulatory agency.

The surveillance testing, being funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is one element of the plan for regaining Texas' cattle TB-free status, which was granted in 2000, but revoked in 2002. In 2001, two of Texas 153,000 cattle herds were found to have cattle TB and were depopulated. As a result, the USDA, in 2002, downgraded Texas' TB status to 'TB modified accredited advanced,' the second-highest level in the five-tiered disease program. Today, all states, except Texas, California, New Mexico and Michigan are classified free of cattle TB, a bacterial infection that causes internal lesions or tumors to develop on the animal's lungs, lymph nodes or other internal organs.

Texas' TB problems surfaced in summer 2001, when infection was detected in a purebred beef herd in Fayette County. In fall 2001, infection also was found in a Pecos County dairy and a beef operation in Irion County; these operations were counted as one herd, because they had a single owner. In August 2003, a third herd — an infected purebred beef herd — was detected and depopulated in Zavala County.

Dr. Hillman said the infected herds in Texas were detected through routine examination of carcasses at slaughter. Federal and state meat inspectors check all carcasses for wholesomeness and submit suspicious tissue samples for laboratory testing.

Test-positive animals are destroyed and carefully examined, and if additional infection is detected and confirmed, the herd is depopulated and ranchers are reimbursed with federal funds.

In the effort to locate the source of TB infection, or to determine if it has spread, possibly exposed herds also are tested, as are operations from which cattle were bought, sold or moved. In Texas, TAHC and USDA veterinarians have TB tested more than 14,000 head of cattle that had an epidemiological link to the state's three infected herds. So far, no additional infection has been found.

"Texas is the country's leading cattle state and number six for dairy production. We must do everything possible to regain our cattle TB-free status, so animals can move across state lines without restrictions," explained Dr. Hillman.

Under current USDA regulations, Texas breeding cattle not originating from a TB-accredited free herd may not be exported out of state until they've tested negative for cattle TB, a process that takes 72 hours.

Additionally, some states penalize Texas cattle by requiring additional testing or identification procedures for dairy calves or feeder cattle.

requirements can be costly for Texas ranchers, who, each year, export more than 150,000 breeding cattle and nearly a million head of feeder animals.

"To regain our TB-free status, we must prove to the USDA and to other states that we've conducted surveillance herd testing sufficient to identify and eliminate all cattle TB infection," said Dr. Hillman.

"USDA funding recently was approved for the Texas TB plan, so we can enlist and pay private practitioners to help with the TB testing program, which will begin November 1. We need the extra manpower for this effort, and some cattle producers just prefer to have their own practitioner conduct any tests."

"In September and October, we're offering the certification training seminars that are required for accredited private veterinary practitioners who want to participate," he explained. "We expect that at least 250 private practitioners will be certified by November 1 and will be ready to conduct herd tests under a 'fee-basis' contract agreement with the TAHC. Ranchers will have no out-of-pocket expenses, other than gathering the herd, presenting the cattle for testing, and holding the animals in a pen during the 72-hour test period."

Dr. Hillman said another major aspect of Texas' TB plan involves enhanced slaughter surveillance. The USDA has hired and stationed additional animal health technicians in federally inspected slaughter plants around the country.

Other key components of the TB plan include controlling feeder cattle and rodeo stock imported from Mexico, a country that is known to have greater rates of TB infection than the U.S.

Be safe: Thunderstorm safety precautions

With the most severe thunderstorm activity typically impacting Texas August through October, WTU Retail Energy L.P. offers the following information and electricity-related precautions to help customers stay safe during a thunderstorm.

Lightning and Thunderstorm Facts:

On average, lightning annually causes 93 deaths and 300 injuries nationwide.

Texas is second only to Florida in the number of lightning-caused casualties.

You are not only in danger when the storm is overhead; any time you can hear thunder you are in danger of injury or damage by lightning.

A person who has been struck by lightning does not carry an electrical charge that can shock other people. Provide assistance immediately and call 9-1-1.

Thunderstorms always include lightning and can also bring heavy rains, flash floods, strong winds, hail and tornadoes.

Safety Tips

1) Install surge protectors on all major appliances

• If lightning strikes your home, the charge can destroy appliances that are plugged into wall outlets, including TVs and computers. Proper surge protectors are inexpensive, easy to install, and stop the charge before it reaches valuable equipment.

2) Check for hazards on your property

• Remove dead or rotting trees and branches that could fall and injure someone or damage your home or power lines during a severe thunderstorm.

3) Do not handle any electrical equipment and do not use the telephone except for an emergency

• An electric charge from lightning could be transmitted through the wires. Television sets are particularly dangerous during a lightning storm.

4) Do not take a bath or shower and avoid water faucets

• Water and metal pipes can conduct electricity.

5) Stay away from damaged or downed power lines

• Report power outages and downed or damaged power lines by calling 1-866-223-8508.
