Dr. J. D. Sandefer, Abilene, Simmons University President, Speaker at "Arkansawers' Reunion," at Oak Creek

The program committee of the "Arkansawers' Reunion," to be held at Oak Creek, the 4th Sunday in May, which is May 28, are very jubilant over their good fortune in being able to arrange a program for the occasion that is most extraordinary.

Two outstanding features of the day's program have been definitely arranged.

The first is that of the speaker to deliver the memorial address. Dr. J. D. Sandefer, of Abilene, president of Simmons University, and recognized everywhere as one of the most eloquent and entertaining platform speakers, not only in the South, but on this continent, has been secured as the memorial speaker. Dr. Sandefer will appear at 11 o'clock, and, perhaps again in the afternoon. Dr. Sandefer is himself a native of Arkansas and when the invitation was extended him by the committee, he accepted almost with as much enthusiasm as that of the committee, it is said, when by seeming accident they learned that he was a native "Arkansawer" and extended him the invitation. Dr. Sandefer joins heartily in the plan of the reunion—that of all Arkansans, their posterity and friends gathering at some centrally located and convenient place as is Oak Creek and spending the day together, with a program, every feature of which will not only be delightfully entertaining, but uplifting and inspirational. Dr. Sandefer advises that he believes quite a number will be in attendance from Abilene and Taylor county.

The other outstanding feature of the day's program, definitely arranged for, which the committee is delighted to announce, is that the Cowboy band of Simmons University will be present and give a sacred concert. The committee enthusiastically believes that the above two features alone will bring literally thousands to Oak Creek "Arkansawers' Day." The Cowboy band is one of the most famous bands in all the country and wherever and whenever it is known that the jolly Cowboys are the entertainers, those from every nook and corner of life count it a treat to have the privilege to hear them. This band has played before kings and other potentates of Europe and made a world record a few years ago on an European tour. The committee advises that the Cowboys of Simmons are coming to Oak Creek, May 28, to entertain the "Arkansawers" and their friends with as much enthusiasm as that with which they ever appeared anywhere and with a program that will be delightfully pleasing.

Other entertainers of wide note will also be present and contribute to the delight of the day, by rendering pleasing numbers of varied and delightful kind. The Winters Quartette, one of the best vocal aggregations in the West, have advised of their acceptance of an invitation to be present and render vocal numbers throughout the day. Another feature is "The Tucker Twins," from Winters. These are two little twin sisters—they are a marvel in the skirts and "stunts" they put on. Prof. E. A. Hankins, superintendent of the Bronte school, who is also an enthusiastic "Arkansawer," will bring greetings from Bronte to the "Arkansawers" and their friends and will also give some numbers on the harmonica. F. L. Clark, another Bronte citizen, who is also a harmonica player, will render some selections with guitar accompaniment. Mrs. George Thomas, an appreciated "grand daughter of Arkansas," a teacher in the Bronte school, and popular locally as a reader, will give readings. Mrs. C. C. Holder, director of the music department of the Bronte school, and a vocalist who always pleases, will give vocal numbers. The Brock children of Bronte, two children, a little brother and sister, will sing, while the little boy plays the accompaniment on the guitar. And yet others, the committee expects, will be added before the program is completed.

The committee again reminds that the date is the 4th Sunday in May, which is May 28—don't miss it, and be sure to bring a well filled lunch basket.

Oak Creek is midway between Winters and Bronte, in Rannels county, and is an ideal place to spend a day in the great outdoors. You can't miss the place—it is easily accessible from every direction.

4-S CLUB BOYS LEADING WAY IN COKE COUNTY

4-H Club boys of Coke county have been sending in reports of their completed reeding activities for the year. These boys have been in at least two 4-H Clubs—maize club and calf club work, and have all made outstanding records.

Randall Gartman, of the Graham Valley community, one of the 2 Club Boys in Texas to win a Santa Fe trip to the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago, made an average of 7050 pounds of maize heads per acre, and now reports his calf feeding work as follows: "My calf gained 660 pounds in 256 days, an average daily gain of 2.61 pounds at a cost of 2.48c per pound gain."

Finnell Smith, of the Valley View community, who made an average of 4138 pounds of maize heads per acre on five acres, sends in his calf club report that shows, his calf gained 665 pounds in 263 days, or an average daily gain of 2.5 pounds at a cost of 2.09c per pound gain.

Myrph Havins, of the Valley View community, reported over 4000 pounds of maize heads per acre on five acres. Now, Myrph, who had the champion club calf at the Coke County Fat Stock Show, sends in his feeding records, and they show: "My calf gained 605 pounds in 300 days, or an average daily gain of slightly over 2 pounds, and my cost per pound gain was 2.06c."

Cleo Havins, club boy, that won a trip to the Dallas Fair on his 1931 maize club activities, who made an average of 4200 pounds of maize heads per acre in 1932, reports his calf gained 2.38 pounds per day for 270 days at a cost of even 2 cents per pound gain.

W. H. M. S. MEMBERSHIP CONTEST IS CLOSED

The contest of the "Reds" and the "Blues," organized by the Bible teacher, Mrs. R. L. Keyes, in the interest of the Woman's Home Mission Society of the Methodist church, came to a close at the regular weekly meeting of the Society at the church, Monday afternoon.

The contest began February 11 and the membership of the Society grew from 20 to 50 members.

Captains were Mrs. Fred McDonald for the "Blues" and Mrs. T. F. Sims for the "Reds."

Mrs. McDonald presented two leather book-markers—one to Mrs. T. C. Price and one to Mrs. B. E. Modgling, for their faithfulness during the contest—neither missed a meeting. Mrs. McDonald also presented a gold book-marker to Mrs. Keyes, as their teacher.

Mrs. I. M. Cumbie and Mrs. George Crume were hostesses at the church—forty members were present, also Mrs. N. W. Pitts was a guest.

The "Blues" were defeated and will entertain the "Reds" at an early date.

The friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Luttrell of San Angelo, and his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Luttrell of Bronte, are grieved over the accident that befell little Mr. Gene Luttrell at San Angelo, Sunday afternoon, when he was run over by a truck and was seriously injured. It was feared for a time that he was fatally injured, but at last report he was a little improved.

"Uncle Bill" Kellis "Beam-filled" Eye Sees "Mote" in The Enterprise Editor's Eye

"Uncle Bill" Kellis, editor of the Sterling City News-Record, and who seemingly aspires to be guardian for the patriotic (?) sponsors of intoxicating liquor, regardless of law and the constitution, takes another "slam" at The Enterprise editor because we refuse to follow Roosevelt and John Garner in their nefarious attempt to foist intoxicating liquor upon this country again, under the pretext that 3.2 beer is not intoxicating. And far as information goes, they have bowed to the behests only of the brewers, and such distinguished democrats (?) as John Rascob, who had been a life long republican and boldly asserted that he came into the democratic fold that he might drive "damnable prohibition" from the land. (And he may accomplish his unholy purpose—but if he does, it will put the Democratic party where it will not recover and establish itself in the confidence of the great common masses again in the next fifty years.)

These brazen liquor makers and their Fridays, came to the great common masses recently with a plea, asking for each of the democrats to pay just "ten cents" each in order to get the "dear old party" out of the financial straits into which its ship has drifted. We dared to suggest in a recent issue of The Enterprise that the brewers and other liquor makers pay the deficit. And we suggested to the Coke county democratic chairman, that if he would excuse us, we would keep our ten cents to buy us a bottle of that innocent, (?) non-intoxicating, (?) Roosevelt-John Garner, democratic beer, (should we want a drink.)

But, lawsy, lawsy! What umbrage, "Uncle Bill" took at us, at our temerity! He stated that none but democrats and decent republicans were expected to respond, but "gilliwampuses" never. Hence, we have our classification, whatever it is. But, as a passing comment, as to the numerosness and popularity of the "gilliwampuses," to encourage "Uncle Bill," we will say to him that if a single "ten cent" democrat has been found in old Coke county, the county chairman, thus far has not reported. And we remember that the San Angelo Standard reported the same S. O. S. call had been sent out to the "ten cent" democrats in Tom Green county, stating that the assessment of the faithful in that county was about sixty-five dollars (we do not remember the exact amount) and the last report the chairman of that county gave out there had been about four dollars and fifty cents paid in. Now, "Uncle Bill," "aint that just simply perfectly awful" that there are so vastly many more "gilliwampuses" out here in this great country where anglo-saxons predominate than there are "Raskobites"?

And, by the way, "Uncle Bill," knowing the type of the overwhelming majority of the fine citizenship of your county, I really am interested to know what per cent of your citizenship is "ten cent" democrats and what per cent are gilliwampuses. And knowing you as I have, "Uncle Bill," these long years, and that you are no "ten cent" man, if it were not purely a personal matter into which I have no right to inquire, I would be interested in knowing whether you have paid your "ten cents"—and if you have, "honest to goodness, "Uncle

BRONTE TEACHERS TO FINISH SCHOOL YEAR

With all their many other good qualities, unselfishness is not the least of the virtues of the Bronte school faculty. The statement to the public, by Superintendent E. A. Hankins is self-explanatory. The Enterprise heard the rumor last week that the school might close before the end of the regular session because of the depleted condition of the school's finances. We approached Superintendent Hankins relative to the matter. He stated then that if he could get enough of the teachers to join him, the children would be carried on through and thus make their grades, whether there was any more or not. Then Superintendent Hankins let it be known that in other days he made a considerable investment in the education of some of the youth of Arkansas, in the way of free service as a teacher. This is indeed a great spirit of devotion, not only to the youth of today, but it also shows a great spirit of devotion to one's profession. The statement from Prof. Hankins follows: To the patrons of Bronte Public schools:

The teachers of the Bronte Public Schools have voted to teach the school for 9 months, pay or no pay. We believe that a few hundred dollars invested in the boys and girls of this community will pay an hundred fold. So, in the future, when we see or hear of some of the children of this school filling some important place in the affairs of this country, then it is that we can appreciate the small part we played in helping to mold the characters and lives of the children of this community, and making it possible for them to live a happier and bigger life.

All we ask of the people of this community is to lend us your strongest support and see that your child does the necessary preparation of his or her lesson daily. It is absolutely essential for students who are weak in their studies to spend some extra time each day in reviewing these assignments.

There are only two weeks left for study—the last week of the school will be devoted to examinations and Commencement.

E. A. Hankins, Superintendent.

MRS. WARNER'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAS OUTING

Monday evening, when Mrs. Ernest Ivey and Mrs. W. H. Maxwell Jr. were hostesses, Mrs. Warner's Sunday school class, of the Methodist church, had a most delightful outing, at Pec'n Mott. After an excellent picnic supper some peppy and exciting games were played by the hostesses and Mesdames Ott, A. G. Taylor, Dunson, Warner, Thomas; Misses Anna Lee Price and Ruth Maxwell; Messrs. A. G. Taylor, Rawlings, W. H. Maxwell, J. L. Taylor, Thomas, and Dunson.

Rev. J. S. Duffy of Bee House, Coryell county, has held a meeting the past week at Brookshier. Rev. Duffy is a Protestant Methodist. He formerly lived over in that section and returned to visit his children and his old-time neighbors and friends insisted on his preaching some for them. The editor acknowledges a pleasant call from this good man.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Clark and son, Odell Ivey, of Austin, were here on a visit to Mr. Clark's mother, Mrs. M. L. Clark, and other relatives, first of the week. They were accompanied by two of their boy friends, Messrs. Albert Huber and Clarence North. Mr. and Mrs. Clark had not been here for some time and were surprised at the improvements Bronte has made since they were here last. The young men had never been in this part of West Texas before and came to see the country. Mr. and Mrs. Clark ordered "the old home town paper" to come to them that they may keep up with everything.

"BEAM-FILLED" EYE

Bill, don't you feel that it was the least thing you ever did for the "old party?"

After classifying all who did not "put up" the immortal "ten cents" as not being democrats or decent republicans, but gill-wampuses, "Uncle Bill" says that "only for the grace of Christian forbearance in my heart I would take you to the damndest cleaning a man ever suffered." Then, he proceeds to pour out the phials of his editorial wrath upon us—that we are "so lost to state pride and national patriotism" that we would even dare open our mouth against Roosevelt and John Garner in their unholy attempt to bring back booze to this country and were willing to be parties to the unpatriotic scheme pursued in the beer scheme, and thus treat the constitution of the land as a scrap of paper. I have just been looking at the picture in the papers this morning, "Uncle Bill," of those poor farmers in Iowa, who were being forced out of their homes in times like these by their creditors, and they took some of the under-officers and made them kiss "Old Glory." There are hundreds of thousands of red-blooded Americans, "Uncle Bill," all over this land, loyal as any who live beneath the stars and stripes, who feel that Roosevelt and Garner should not only kiss the flag, but the constitution of this Union also and then get down on their knees and swear allegiance to them afresh. And knowing you as I do, "Uncle Bill," I just can't believe that down in your ruggedly honest old heart you give any endorsement to the scheme of the beer scheme as a way of getting around the plain provisions of the constitution on the liquor question.

If Raskob and his cohorts had wanted to test the question and had been patriotic citizens and willing for the voice of the people to rule, regardless as to their personal wishes relative to the liquor question, why did they not take the same course that the Texas legislature has taken on the beer bill—leave it to a vote of the people? Much as I am committed against legal liquor everywise, when the people express themselves, if the majority vote it back, I shall submit. But, no honest prohibitionist would be a party to a shadowy transaction, such as you know the beer scheme to be, "Uncle Bill."

"Uncle Bill" concludes his "editorial maledictions" upon us with the following paragraph: "My brother, if a majority of the people want beer, what are you going to do about it? Except beefing and griping about it what can you do? What do you expect to gain by railing at the faithful rulers of the land whom the Bible enjoins us to invoke blessings upon? You sure do need your editorial plow cleaned, Brother West, and only for my lamb-like nature, I would perform that much needed service. I sure would."

Now, to you, "Uncle Bill," it was this last paragraph of your editorial diatribe against us, we had in mind when we wrote the head to this article. To you, our readers who do not know "Uncle Bill," we address a few lines, while "Uncle Bill" sits by and listens. We want our readers to be the jury—therefore, you must be without bias or prejudice either way. "Uncle Bill" loves Jim Ferguson, the husband of the governor of this great Lone Star State, about like satan loves holy water. Everybody knows that Jim Ferguson is in reality the governor-in-fact. But, "Uncle Bill" has such deep-seated conviction that there is nothing politically good about Jim Ferguson, he always writes Ferguson's name this way: "jimferguson." "Uncle Bill" sure did "pour it on" his "jimferguson" person during the campaign, but stated just before the primary, or just after, (we don't remember which) that should Jim's wife be nominated, for "regularity's sake," he would by liberal use of his handkerchief over his nose, go to the polls and vote for her. But, as we remember the comedy, he kept giving his "jimferguson" person unmixed sheol, until Albert Puett of the Robert Lee Observer, who at that time was an ardent Ferguson supporter reminded "Uncle Bill," it was all kinds of ways of doing a thing to vote for the Fergusons and then criticize them as he was doing. Since that time we have not heard such heavy canonading against "jimferguson" coming from the editorial sanctum sanctorum of "Uncle Bill." But recently, Mr. Puett went to Austin to see for himself. He got an "eye full." So he came home and wrote one of his phillipics against Jim Ferguson. "Uncle Bill" was so tickled, evidently he did not sleep good until the next issue of his paper was out, in which he carried Mr. Puett's article in full against Jim and then congratulated Mr. Puett for the "skinning" he gave Ferguson. Now, dear readers, put this sentence out of the last paragraph of the diatribe of "Uncle Bill" against the writer: "What do you expect to gain by railing at the faithful rulers of the land whom the Bible enjoins us to invoke blessings upon?" by the side of the attitude of "Uncle Bill" towards Ferguson, and what have you, except a "beam-filled" eye? Folks, we never were disposed to want to eavesdrop and hear one's words in his private devotions with his Creator—but, now it would be an instance of one exception, could we have opportunity to hear "Uncle Bill" when he "goes aside" into privacy to "invoke blessings" upon Jim Ferguson.

Jesus said—(and by the way Jesus seems to be a favorite authority with "Uncle Bill" when he wants support for the legal booze cause)—: "take the beam out of thine own eye, then thou canst see more clearly how to get the mote out of thy brother's eye."

Members of the jury: Your verdict, please.

Of course, "Uncle Bill" will plead that there are "extenuating circumstances" that justify him in "railing" against the Fergusons. He will want to argue that Ferguson once said, "To hell with the democratic party." Then, we reply by saying that Roosevelt and Garner have sent it "to hell," by joining hands with the cohorts of the liquor evil. "Uncle Bill" will want to plead that his "jimferguson" person is not a patriot. Then, we reply that he is a paragon of patriotism compared with some other "rulers of the land." Far as we know Jim Ferguson has never joined hands with any man or group to resort to a scheme infamous as the beer bill to violate the plain letter and spirit of either the federal or state constitution. "Uncle Bill" will plead, his "jimferguson" person is not a statesman—but anyhow he is the choice of the vast majority of the party in Texas. Yet, you have been "railing" on him when you should have been "invoking blessings" upon him. "Uncle Bill" will argue that he is not a statesman—yet one of the outstanding members of the legislature, the other day, stated in that august body that "Jim Ferguson is a greater statesman from the knees up than any man who opposes him." How is that for "some statesmanship?"

Let us know, "Uncle Bill," when you shall have succeeded in getting "the beam out of thine own eye," then we will institute an investigation and see if there is "a mote" in our eye.

A. J. Rawlings has our thanks for subscription favors since our last issue.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were adopted Thursday afternoon of last week by the Woman's Progressive Club:

"On Saturday afternoon, April 22, the final summons came to Homer R. Wilkins, the beloved husband of our esteemed club member and co-worker, Mrs. Mae Cumbie Wilkins, and his earthly task being completed, he went away to "that Haven of Rest," his heavenly home.

"His was a life of usefulness, a life of service to his Mastr and to his fellowmen. Our community and country are better because of his having lived and poorer for his going. Nothing greater can be said of any man. We are glad that we could call him our friend. Because of this and because we love Mrs. Wilkins, we want to express to her our deepest sympathy and assure her that we remember her with tender love in this hour of sadness."
