In a Preacher's Language: "H—, Yes!"

"Should a Church Tolerate Dancing, Bridge Playing, Drinking of Whiskey or Beer by its members?"

The above is a topic in the program of a general meeting of one of the religious denominations, which was to be held at Jayton and was published in the Jayton Chronicle last week.

Ho, hum!—how sleepy the dullness of some of the divine "bewhiskered old fossils" makes us!

The "old fogeys!" Why, Editor Wade, don't they know that in some parts of Texas, the outstanding qualifications of the "paster" is that he must not have any children, so that he and his wife will be free to attend the bridge parties or any other social functions the "sisters" might give?

Why, Editor Wade, we are "plum ashamed" of you for letting such "ignorance" as the above discloses, find expression in your otherwise, progressive paper.

But, if the reverend gentlemen, though it seems they are just about a century behind the times, will let "just a country editor" answer the query for them, we say, in the language of one of their well known ministers: "H—, yes!" Don't exclude them—for, if you do, why not include the "women chasers" among the men members, whether they be church officials or just "enry members?" You can't exclude 'em nohow and hold your pastoral job—at least preachers down in this enlightened (?) refined country can't and hold their jobs—for one of their number told us only yesterday that he was about to be "starved out" just because he dared to say that the above mentioned things are wrong. Basing his action on his teachings, he got about twenty of the "high-heeled" "brothers" and "sisters" excluded from the church—but, what happened to him? He "got it" where "the chicken got the axe." And he stated to us that the said group of "high-heeled" brothers and sisters have set themselves to watch him and if he goes to another community in search of work as a preacher the aforesaid "high heel" group see to it that the "brethren and sisters" of that community are advised to "lay off of him," as they would "pizen liker."

So, Editor Wade, our advice is that you advise "the old stupids," if they "know which side of their bread is buttered" they had better "keep their jaws."

HOSTESS TO THE JUNIOR STUDY CLUB

Mrs. Alfred Bennett was hostess to the Junior Study Club September 28, at the home of Mrs. Taylor Shelton.

The program was Constitution Week program. The hostess read the thought for the program which was:

"Most of the rich men of the United States were born poor. They rose above their fellows, not by superior genius, but by greater thrift."—Knapp.

After the roll call, giving important Articles of the United States Constitution, the following program was given:

Purpose of the Constitution, Mrs. Alfred Bennett.

The Three Major Departments, Mrs. O. R. McQueen.

Resume of the Amendments, Mrs. Bill McDonald.

A plate with delicious meat and fruit salads and lime drink was served to the following club members: Mesdames James Glenn, W. H. Maxwell, Jr., Claude Gentry, Ernest Ivey, Bill McDonald, Cumbie Ivey, O. R. McQueen, H. O. Whitt and Taylor Shelton.

Misses Lavoydia Mann and Lois Walker of Norton were charming callers at The Enterprise office Monday. Miss Mann is a beauty culturist and called for some stationery printing for which we thank her.

Are you afraid of shadows? See Mystery play. "Beware of the Shadow." Watch for date.

"CLUBBING A HUSBAND"

The above caption sounds very modern-like. And doubtless the thought suggested in the above caption will make matrons, both old and young, "tee hee." But, with poor, trembling men, it will not be so—they will have "spells" as they contemplate their down trodden condition with reference to the "supremacy of woman."

Whether the above is true or not, those who attend the play "Clubbing A Husband," given tonight, under the auspices of the Womens Home Mission Society, at the school auditorium will get enough laughs to run till Christmas.

An announcement and synopsis and caste o characters appear in this issue of The Enterprise. Read it and don't miss the play tonight.

WOMAN'S MISSION SOCIETY

The Woman's Mission Society met at the Methodist church Monday afternoon and organized for their new Mission Study Class. The title of the book to be studied is: "Christianity and Industry in America."

The lessons are to be given each Monday afternoon for six consecutive weeks, and each member of the church is urged to attend. Refreshments will be served at each meeting, and there will be a special feature in store for all who attend regularly. Let us come with open minds and prayerful hearts to receive the truth presented in this book. Reporter.

It's subscription time—thanks.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY SPEAKS IN SAN ANGELO

The Enterprise is in receipt of the following letter which is self-explanatory:

San Angelo, Texas,
October 3, 1933.
Editor, Enterprise,
Bronte, Texas.

Dear Sir:
The San Angelo NRA Committee extends a most cordial and urgent invitation to the citizens of your community to attend an NRA mass meeting at the City Auditorium, San Angelo, Texas, 8 P. M., next Monday, October 9th.

Hon. Tom Connally
United States Senator from Texas who is thoroughly familiar with the "New Deal," and an outstanding figure in National Affairs, will be the principal speaker.

Hon. R. Ewing Thomason
Congressman, 16th Texas District, will also be on the program, and will introduce Senator Connally.

West Texas has benefited greatly from the National Recovery programme, and it is up to West Texas to back the NRA one hundred per cent.

Let us again urge the citizens of your community to be present next Monday evening and hear first-hand the facts about this great National programme.

Yours very truly,
J. C. Deal,
Chairman NRA Committee for San Angelo.

BRONTE SCHOOL RESUMES MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

H. O. Whitt, secretary of the Bronte school, requests the announcement that school will resume Monday morning, October 16. It is important to give heed to this announcement, as the report is current, somehow, that school resumes next Monday the 9th.

School dismissed for cotton picking season that the children whose fathers are cotton farmers could have the aid of the children in picking the cotton.

By the time set for opening school again, it is figured that the bulk of the cotton will have been picked.

It is hoped, and believed, by those directing the affairs of the school that the forthcoming winter and spring terms of the school will be most successful.

A. D. Miller and family have moved to Blackwell to make their home. Their friends regret to give them up, but wish them well in their new home. Mr. Miller has opened a shoe repair shop.

Read Rev. Ulmer Bird's "Community Talks," in this issue. We hope Rev. Bird may send us articles regularly, such as the one in this issue.

MARRIED

Saturday afternoon, September 30, 1933, at the Methodist parsonage in this city, the Rev. Wallace N. Dunson officiating, Mr. J. D. Luttrell and Miss Miranda Mobley were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, as they sat in their car, at 5:30 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. T. I. Mobley and is a gracious woman of gentle mien. The groom is one of Bronte's best and most progressive citizens, holding an interest in the Luttrell & Keeney gin, of which he is manager.

The Enterprise joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Luttrell in every good wish for their continued happiness as they shall travel life's way together.

A Real Hero—This Young Man

There comes to us a story of a young man, from a nearby West Texas city, with reference to his fidelity to his principles and early training, that is most refreshing and inspirational, in these times of "loose morals" and low ideals on the part of the masses.

The young man had a good position and the absolute confidence of his employer. He had held the position for some time. He is yet in his teens, but from his earliest youth he has had but one ambition and that is to be a professional man, in one of the loftiest professions. He had finished the high school course of the schools in his home city. His father not being financially able to send the boy away to school, the boy was working, practicing the most rigid economy and was banking every penny that he absolutely did not need, creating a fund by which he hoped to be able to go away to school for special training and thus come into the realization of his almost babyhood dream, with reference to his professional life.

But, alas! dark hours came for this nineteen year old young man. Beer was voted back into the city of which he and his parents are residents. The young man's employer held views different to that of his young employe. His ideal is to make money—that there is no moral wrong and no wrong against society to sell intoxicating liquor, provided it is legal. The boy having been brought up in a home with a different atmosphere and different ideals, by a mother and a father always cooperating with the mother. He was reared in a home which included as a part of the home life, the church of which the boy's parents were consistent members and of which the boy became a member soon as he had grown old enough to comprehend the meaning of church membership. Concerning the question of intoxicating liquors the church of the young man and his parents bound its members, under covenant, to "abstain from the sale and use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage."

But, when beer was voted back and it was agreed that on August 15, all who wished to do so, could sell beer, provided they secured the necessary license, the young man's employer made known that he was going to carry beer in his place of business.

The young man was face to face with a problem that was to affect his entire destiny. He needed the money that he realized from his job that he might eventually be financially able to go away to college and take the necessary courses to qualify him for his coveted life's work in his chosen profession, about which he had dreamed almost from his cradle. Jobs, of course were scarce—to give up his job, seemingly meant "farewell" to the realization of his fondest dreams and plans. To hold his job, go along and violate principles he had been taught in the home, at mother's knee, and in his church, that were as sacred as life and death, he could realize his ambitions with reference to his life's plans—all this, only he would consent to stand at the fountain and ladle out intoxicating liquors to men.

Anxious hours for his parents? Yes. The parents were distressed. They wondered as to what he would do. But, he never mentioned the matter to his parents nor they to him. The parents assumed the attitude of waiting—so much was involved! They knew they would only have to suggest it and the boy would give up his position—but the boy's life's plans and dreams were before them. To request him, old as he was, to give up his job might bring discouragement and consequently an aimless and wasted life to him.

On the morning of Thursday, August 14, the day before legal beer selling was to begin, the father had to go away and did not return till Saturday night, August 16. The first question he asked was with reference to the boy. The mother replied that Thursday night, he came in home and stated that he had quit his job—that he could not afford to continue and be a party to selling liquor.

Since hearing the heroic story of this young hero of 1933, personally, we would like to meet him and instead of putting the blessings of an older man upon him as a youth, we would like to kneel down and say: "My boy, put your hand of blessing upon us—that we may learn even as late in life as this, that it is really worth while, even in youth, as well as in life's mature years, to have conviction and to make the real worthwhile things to come first regardless as to consequences."

Hear the happy sequel to the above heroic test of this young man—for, we are relating an incident that actually occurred, and can give the name, and so, we have not created "a young man of fancy." Friends heard of the boy's fidelity to his convictions, the teachings of mother and his church. A fund was provided and that young man is in school today. So, the realization of his dreams are going to come quicker for him than had he sold his integrity and engaged in that at which his conscience revolted because of the teachings of his home and church.

Boys and girls of America, everyone of you, who read this, let us as one who is interested in your greater successes in life, remind you of the fact that there is a life motto, in an old Book, which if heeded, scrupulously as did the young man in this instance, that leads on to success, honor, peace and integrity. And that is this:

"Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good."

J. W. Rhodes of Norton pays his subscription and says he is anxious to help a paper every way he can that will be true as

The Enterprise is to the homes and youth of the land—that's fine. Thanks, Mr. Rhodes.

Community Talks

BY ULMER S. BIRD

COMMUNITIES AND LIVES

No community ever rises higher than the people who compose it.

This is a self-evident truth—whether that community be one that centers around a one-teacher school, or the greatest city in the world.

Then it follows that we improve our communities by improving the lives of the people—by living better ourselves and helping the other fellow to live a better life.

There is much more to this than at first appears. The souls of our people have much to do with life here as well as hereafter; and the condition of these souls have much to do with the condition of our community life.

THE BRONTE ENTERPRISE
Editor and Business Manager
D. M. West

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at Bronte, Texas, March 1, 1918, under Act of Congress, August 12, 1871.

And Senator Tom, "the Silent," has got to where he can "open his mouth"—he is going to make and address in San Angelo on the NRA program. It is noteworthy that he really has the moral courage to speak on an issue highly important as the NRA program—and he is going to do so, regardless as to his political interests. However, there is absolutely not a soul against the NRA program—yet, we would counsel "Senator Tom, the silent," to be extremely cautious—for somebody, about in the form of "Farmer Jim" will likely cross his path—and that means there would be "a ghost's shadow" across Senator Tom's pathway back to the "pie counter" at Washington. Seriously, Connally can never do anything that will redeem him with the vast majority of the prohibition democrats. It was they who put him where he is, yet, in the moment when the cause and his friends in Texas needed him, he was silent as "Peter, the Silent." And, now, the antis do not want him unless it is their last possibility of holding even a neutral in the United States Senate. If Senator Connally had been possessed with the spirit of fidelity that Jim Ferguson is to booze and the booze crowd he could have been of great service to his friends and the cause which everybody thought he espoused until it became apparent that the liquorites were going to get in the ascendancy again. Had Connally had the spirit of devotion to a cause that Morris Sheppard disclosed, the two could have rallied a sufficient following to have saved Texas to prohibition. But, Senator Tom, like "the Irishman's flea," was not there. He was the busiest (?) man that ever went to Washington, when his Texas needed him on a matter a thousand-fold more vital to the permanent interests of the people than the cause about which he is belaboring himself now, important as it is.

"Farmer Jim" "chiseled in" on the Bohemians, according to the testimony given in the investigation at Austin, by the former manager of Ferguson's Forum, who is a Bohemian, and "served Jim faithfully" for some thirteen years. Had Ferguson stolen the dome off of the capital and made him a watch fob of it, would not be bad as his treatment of the Bohemians, according to the statements of the above mentioned witness. This witness, himself a Bohemian, stated that he went to Ferguson eleven times with the name of someone of the Bohemian race, asking that such one be appointed to some place of political preferment that Mrs. Ferguson had within her power to fill. But, each time "Jim" made some flimsy excuse and persistently refused to give the Bohemian race any recognition whatever. Finally, his "faithful servant" became utterly disgusted. He requested his own appointment. When Ferguson failed to make the appointment, the Bohemian resigned his place with Ferguson's paper, then he "squawked." The Bohemian could not do otherwise and maintain his self respect and remain loyal to his own people. The Bohemians are all anti-prohibitionists until they become Americanized—some of them then become abstainers and pros. Notwithstanding their anti-prohibition proclivities, as a race of people, there are many most excellent people among them. When the writer made his home in South Texas the Bohemian race was equal to, if not the predominant race of all other nationalities. In all our relations with them we found them a fine people. There is no question but that Jim Ferguson owes his existence politically to the Bohemians and other foreigners of the state. One of the redeeming things about the Bohemians is their fidelity to a friend or a leader. When they have confidence in one or commit themselves to one, they follow with a spirit of uncompromising fidelity. And that is what the Bohemians have done with reference to Jim Ferguson. And if he was importuned as the above witness testified to give recognition to the Bohemian race and he positively refused to do so, they should forsake him—and when that is done "tekel" is written on Ferguson's political sky.

Mrs. Fred McDonald returned home Monday from Spur where she visited with relatives for days. Mrs. McDonald went to attend a family reunion of her cousins and others. There were thirty-five of the family circle in attendance. Mrs. McDonald was reared with her cousins who attended the reunion—hence, it was to her almost as a reunion of her own brothers and sisters. It had been eighteen years since they were all together.

Having the fullest confidence in Winters and the Winters Trade Territory as a substantial growing, trade center and section of country and encouraged by your constantly increasing patronage, we have materially increased our mercantile interests at this point.

In addition to our extensive stocks of hardware, implements, furniture, etc., we now have added a complete line of Dry Goods, Ready-to-Wear, Shoes, Men's Clothing, Men's Work Clothes, and all kindred lines of merchandise.

By your liberal patronage you have shown confidence in our merchandise, and prices in the past, and now, with our increased facilities and added lines of merchandise, we are better prepared than ever before to supply all your needs.

Our long successful mercantile experience, our fore-sight in anticipating ability to take the fullest advantage of conditions, made possible for us to provide for your use an abundance of new merchandise, which now will go to you at surprisingly moderate prices, considering existing conditions. A careful inspection of our new merchandise and reasonable prices will convince you that we have protected your interests well.

We most earnestly solicit your patronage in this new section, and your continued support of other departments of this store.

ACC HAS ITS LARGEST STUDENT ENROLLMENT

To The Enterprise:
Abilene, Texas, October 5.—The twenty-eighth annual session of Abilene Christian College at Abilene, Texas, has begun with the largest enrollment in the history of the institution, it has been announced from the office of James F. Cox, president. This is the second successive year in which there has been a record enrollment at this institution, Mr. Cox said. Four instructors have been added to the faculty to take care of the increase in enrollment.

Saturday, September 23, with some students still to enroll, the enrollment of the college department had reached 501. One hundred-thirteen had entered the elementary and high school departments, making the total enrollment of the institution 614. These students come from twelve different states: Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Missouri, Ohio, Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Tennessee and Kansas.

Among those enrolled is: Miss Lucile Vivian, Blackwell, sophomore.

NO DISEASE OUTBREAK IN VALLEY FLOOD AREA

Austin, Texas, October 5.—The value of disease prevention or public health work has been demonstrated in the storm-stricken area of the Rio Grande Valley where state, county, and city health officers have pooled their abilities and resources to the end that there has not been any outbreak of communicable diseases following that disaster. Private interests have also assisted by supplying materials that could not be purchased by the officials on account of the lack of available funds.

There was great danger immediately following the storm that typhoid fever might become epidemic due to the contamination of the water supplies. Chlorine, in proper amounts, was put in these supplies and an extensive campaign of immunization against typhoid fever was started, which up to this time has reached over sixty thousand persons. The proper disposal of sewage was another problem that had to be attended to immediately.

Much of the land was covered with water and this created a wonderful chance for the multiplication of mosquitoes and the attendant danger of malaria. These places were drained where possible, and if impossible, they were oiled. The mosquito eradication work being done in the Valley is one of the largest ever attempted in the United States.

Exactly how much sickness and suffering has been prevented cannot be accurately estimated, but, from past experiences, it is safe to say that the actual saving in money is many times more than the amount which has been spent for prevention.

HIGGINBOTHAM ADDS DRY GOODS AT WINTERS

Higginbotham Brothers & Company is the name of a business institution so familiar all over this part of West Texas, it is a household word. This mammoth mercantile company has stores in many cities throughout West Texas.

Higginbotham has had a hardware and furniture store at Winters for many years. It has prospered and grown with the passing years. So pleased was the general manager of this company with the management of the business and the splendid patronage accorded the Winters store in the hardware and furniture lines, it was decided to enlarge the lines of merchandise in the store. Hence, a complete line of dry goods and clothing for men, women and children has been installed. The interior of the store has been completely rearranged and made beautiful until there is not a more commodious and inviting merchandise establishment anywhere than Higginbotham's at Winters.

The Enterprise editor was in Winters first of the week and made a call at Higginbotham's. There was an atmosphere of geniality about the place that made one glad, when he went away, that he had visited the place. Mr. J. E. Lambert has been manager of Higginbotham's at Winters for many years. He is a gentleman of most pleasing mien and knows the lines of merchandise his company handles thoroughly. With Mr. Lambert is M. W. Whigham. Mr. Whigham is like "home folks" to Bronte people. Some years ago he was with the Home Motor Company of this city and has many friends here who will be delighted to know that he has returned to Winters to make his home.

Higginbotham's at Winters has an announcement in this issue of The Enterprise announcing the opening of their dry goods department. Read the announcement and when you go to Winters visit this place and see the beauty of it for yourself. And as for quality of merchandise and right prices the name, "Higginbotham" is a synonym in those particulars.

CARD OF THANKS

Far as I can have words to do so, I want to thank my friends (and that seems to be everybody) for their kindly interest in my behalf when I was shut as I was in the discharge of my duties. Everybody in Bronte did their best that night, as I have been informed by my family. Then, it was thoughtful of our good citizens who subscribed to the fund to aid me with the expenses my wounds incurred. To all those, and to those who aided

MID-WEST FAT STOCK PERMANENT DATE SET

Sweetwater, Texas, October 5.—May 15 and 16 have been set as regular dates for the Mid-West Fat Stock Show in Sweetwater.

These dates were decided on at a meeting of the executive committee held in Sweetwater Tuesday evening. The meeting was attended by county agents and representatives from Fisher, Jones, Mitchell, Nolan and Scurry counties. The executive committee consists of two members from each of the counties represented, and is as follows: Joe Culbertson, Hamlin, President; R. M. Simmons, Sweetwater, vice-president; John M. Hendrix, secretary-manager; C.

TURKEY SCHOOL TO BE HELD IN BRONTE

County Demonstration Agent E. R. Lawrence informs The Enterprise that a turkey school will be held in Bronte, November 11. O. N. Holmgren of College Station will be in charge and do the instructing.

Everything turkeywise will be taught in this school—turkey feeding, grading, killing, dressing, turkey diseases—in fact everything about turkeys except eating them—will be taught in this school.

The place in which to hold the school has not yet been decided. The turkey crop in this section has assumed large proportions and the income from turkeys is something worth while.

Watch The Enterprise for announcements as to the place and exact hours.

me that night, to Frank Keeney for his quick and thoughtful ambulance service, to the surgeons at San Angelo and the attendants at the Shannon hospital, to Sheriff Frank Perciful, the other officers coming from other cities—especially officers from Coleman and Brownwood who came and brought their dogs, to Ranger Captain J. M. Robbins of San Angelo, and Deputy Sheriff H. C. Allen of San Angelo and all local officers and citizens who stayed out all night and next day on the hunt for the perpetrators of the attempt on my life until they were taken, to the lad at Robert Lee who saw the men and reported which lead to their early capture; also to Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Rogge, our telephone people, who stayed right on the job all night, telephoning officers throughout the country, and to the good ladies and others of my friends who sent flowers and fruit—in fact, it is to everybody that my family and I say, "thank you," with all our hearts. You are the best people in the world. If ever there is an opportunity for us to prove the sincerity and depth of our appreciation, be sure to let us know. God bless each and all of you.

T. Fewell Sims and family.

R. Moon, Frank Maberry, Fisher County; Tom Stonerod, Mitchell County; Harry Winston, J. J. Koonsman, Scurry County; Watt Bennett, Luther Finch, Nolan County; Jim Moody, B. L. Jones, Jones County. County agents from the five counties are also ex-officio members of the executive committee.

It was also decided to add exhibits of cured and canned meats as a part of the show, and to have several classes of pig entries. The Nolan County Hereford Breeders Association have set this date for their annual spring sale of pure bred Hereford cattle.

The Midwest Fat Stock Show Association, embracing five counties, was formed in June to promote feeding of surplus feed to home raised cattle, and the show will be laid along purely commercial lines. Each of these counties expects to hold a preliminary show in advance of the Sweetwater show. Much interest has been aroused, in the past three years, in the area embraced, and it is anticipated that the Sweetwater show will attract a good deal of attention next spring.

In addition to calves that will be fed by 4 H Club Boys who own their calves, arrangements have been made to finance from 150 to 200 calves in the five counties for boys not able to buy their own calves.

John D. Rockefeller is making one great big ass of himself on the liquor question, as he did on the religious question. He announces in this morning's papers that he soon will be out with a system of perfect control of the liquor traffic which will promote "true temperance." With much gusto at different times Rockefeller has told how that he and his father have put more than $300,000 into prohibition—but he is convinced that prohibition is a failure. Let it be remembered he is the same man who for forty years subscribed to orthodox Christianity relative to man's creation—but he is now convinced that he came from the monkey. All who know of his double antics will be convinced, he is correct as to his origin.
