LOCAL LADY CASHES IN

Mrs. Bill Cook of Bronte this week received a credit certificate worth $50 as one of the top prizes in General Electric's recent contest, "Name The Modern Electric Appliance." The contest form which ran in the Standard-Times last week was sponsored through the Roberts Bros. Auto Lee Store in San Angelo. The contest carried the picture of an old-fashioned home which needed electrical appliances. The rule of the contest was to name all the needed appliances for the home.

Mrs. Cook's entry was almost perfect and good enough to win for her $50 in merchandise.

MISS SHIRLEY ANN WEST IS WED TO CHARLES E. REEL SUNDAY

Miss Shirley Ann West and Mr. Charles Edward Reel were united in marriage Sunday night, June 17 at 7 p. m. in a single ring ceremony read by Rev. J. E. Fuller, pastor of the First Methodist church here. The quiet candlelight ceremony was administered at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Minnie B. West, in the presence of relatives and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother who also served as her attendant. Mr. Preston Reel served his brother as best man.

For her wedding and a short wedding trip, the bride wore a suit of nylon faille and pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink asteroids. For something old, she carried a hand made lace and linen handkerchief belonging to Mrs. J. D. Leonard. Mrs. Leonard carried the handkerchief at her own wedding which was performed by the bride's late father, Rev. D. M. West, on Dec. 3, 1911.

For something new, she wore her wedding costume and for something borrowed she wore a double string of pearls belonging to Mrs. Taylor Emerson. For something blue she had blue bows as part of her accessories.

For money in her shoe, she had a tiny gold coin which had belonged to her sister, Minnie Blanche West, who died in 1933. The coin was given to her sister by Mr. W. H. Poynter, former president of a bank in Dover, Arkansas.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, an informal reception was held in the home of the bride's mother. The table was laid in lace with the appointments in pink, white and crystal.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Travis Weatherly and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Preston Reel, assisted in serving.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reel of Nashville, Ark. He is employed by Morris and McCutchen Drilling Co.

The bride is the daughter of the late Rev. D. M. West and Mrs. Minnie West. The late Mr. West was a long time resident of Bronte and for many years edited and published the Bronte Enterprise.

The bride has lived in Bronte all of her life and was a student in the Bronte school.

After the wedding the couple left for a short wedding trip. They are now at home in the West apartments here in Bronte.

Brutons Win Over Bronte Nine, 13-11

Bruton's Used Car team handed Bronte their first loss of the season Monday night in a fastball tilt played in San Angelo. Final score was 13 to 11. Bronte had won four previous games, one of them a 9 to 7 decision over Brutons.

In losing Monday night's game Bruton outlived the winners 7 to 4. All of Bruton's hits went for extra bases. Delbert Coalson, Judge Sandusky and Duane Tucker all blasted home runs for Bruton. Lyndon Waldrop had a triple while Marlon McCutchen, Jack Vaughn and J. W. Caudle each hit two baggers.

Pitcher Lyndon Waldrop gave up only four hits to Bruton's cars. Two of them were a triple and home run by Eddie Armstrong of Lakeview. Bobby Allard did the hurling for the winners.

These two teams will meet in their third game next Monday night at the local diamond. All local fans are urged to come out to the ball field and watch these two teams tangle.

W. D. McDonald is hospitalized at Shanon hospital in San Angelo following a tonsilectomy on Wednesday. He was reported to be doing fine Thursday.

Joyce Wrinkle is visiting relatives in Arizona this week.

Sun to Operate 14 Rigs in Coke

Nothing unusual was happening. The lessons opened Monday night Bronte, but in the northwest part of Coke County, Sun Oil Co. was setting in action plans to have 14 rotary drilling units in operation in Coke County.

According to A. J. Kirkpatrick, publisher of the Robert Lee Observer, who interviewed Sun officials this week, the company is planning on intensive drilling at least until the boundaries of the Jameson and Millican fields are defined.

North of Bronte Electric log surveys were being run at a total depth of 6,545 feet in Stanolind No. 1 Nicholas.

In the Fort Chadbourne field, Humble No. 30 Sallie Odum has been completed for a daily flow of 400 barrels of oil. It is located just below ranch headquarters, northeast of Bronte.

Humble No. 32 Odum was at 5-300 feet Wednesday and was ready to start coring.

Humble No. 36 Odum, which is located just south of the highway and east of the Old Fort Chadbourne cemetery, was drilling at 2,600 feet.

Logan Resigns DA Post to Practice Law

Ralph Logan of San Angelo has resigned his post as district attorney for the 51st Judicial district to become associated with the law firm of George T. Wilson and Douglas Ford. The firm name will become Wilson, Ford and Logan.

Logan has been district attorney for the state in the district composed of Tom Green, Irion, Schleicher, Coke and Sterling counties since Jan. 1, 1943, with the exception of three years spent in the Navy during World War II.

Logan sent a letter of resignation to Gov. Allan Shivers, requesting that the resignation be accepted as soon as possible. He is a native of San Angelo and formerly served as Tom Green county attorney from 1939 until 1942.

His successor has not yet been named.

Attention Veterans Of World War II

All veterans of World War II who are planning to enroll in the agriculture class here should make arrangements to do so immediately.

Present regulations require that a veteran must be in training by July 25, 1951. The new period in the local class begins July 1 and trainees must enroll on that day in order to be in training July 25.

All veterans who are farming and desire to take advantage of the GI Bill should get in touch with Norman Kiker, local instructor, immediately.

POLIO DECLINES IN TEXAS

A representative of the West Texas National Foundation for infantile Paralysis, J. Elendorf, was in Bronte this week to visit with Dr. John R. Harris, Coke County chairman of the organization. Elendorf commented that polio cases in Texas had dropped off in 1951 with the exception of the Houston area where a slight increase has been reported. No new cases have been reported for Coke county during 1951, Harris said.

Cotton Farmers Should Buy Their Insecticides Now

Farmers who are raising cotton should be making preparations for insect control now. Owing to scarcity of certain insecticides and the increased demand due to heavy rains, and increased acreage, insecticides may not be available just at the time it is needed most.

Farmers are urged to secure enough insecticide to cover the cotton crop at least twice.

Early spraying of cotton in the four-leaf stage for control of thrips, flea hoppers, and early boll weevils is recommended. It is very important to save those first squares on the lower limbs of the cotton stalk. We can be assured that flea hoppers and thrips will be there working on those first tender buds and squares.

The recommended early spray is one and one-half pounds of toxaphene per acre, or 1/4 pound of aldrin per acre. This should be repeated in ten days and the amount per acre should be stepped up according to size of the plants. If red spider mites show up, wettable sulphur should be added to the spray. When cotton starts fruiting heavily, stop poison program, unless army worms strike.

CONGRATULATIONS

To County Clerk and Mrs. Weldon Fikes on the birth of a daughter at 2:50 a. m. Wednesday, June 20, in the Coke County Memorial hospital. The little girl weighed 6 pounds and 10 ounces and has been named Barbara Elaine.

SEVEN CONSERVATION PLANS APPROVED AT SCS BOARD MEET

Seven conservation plans and one amendment were approved by the Board of Supervisors at their regular monthly meeting held June 12. The plans and amendments were on 15,677 acres. Plans approved were those of Marvin Simpson, C. M. Boyd, Roy Baker, Walter King, T. G. Stinebaugh, J. E. Davis, and F. E. Fancher. The plans were developed by the landowners with technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Service, assisting the Coke County Soil Conservation District.

The plans were developed to use each acre to its capabilities and to treat each acre in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement.

Last Sunday evening, Rev. Ray Lee, pastor of the First Methodist Church, delivered an excellent sermon on "Man's Duty to Protect the Soil, to Honor the Creator, and, also, to our Fellow Man." The preacher stated that each year we lose enough top soil to spread a 12-inch layer over twenty-two Texas counties or to load enough box cars to reach around the world at the equator 18 times. The worship was devoted to Soil Stewardship Sunday.

Now is the time for district co-operators to control weed growth in their grass seedings, according to A. V. Sheppard, Work Unit Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service. "The seedings that I have seen are all up to an excellent stand, but the weeds are going to kill a lot of it out if some method of control is not used," Sheppard said. "Probably the best method of control would be mowing for seedlings drilled and cultivation for seedlings planted in rows. If the weeds are controlled, the soil has adequate moisture for the seedlings to grow and develop a root system that will carry it through this summer and next winter. The cost of seed, labor, and equipment is too great to allow weed competition to kill out the excellent stand of grass that most district co-operators have up and growing," Sheppard explained.

SINGING SUNDAY IN WINTERS

John Kirkpatrick of the Assembly of God Church in Winters announced this week that their regular fourth Sunday singing will be held Sunday, June 24.

Kirkpatrick invited all the people of this area to be on hand for the singing. It will begin at 2 p.m.

Do you have U. S. Series E Defense Bonds maturing this year?
Good news! A new law says now those bonds can keep on earning you interest up to 10 years longer —without your lifting a finger!

ARE you one of those wise and patriotic people who bought Series E Defense Bonds back in '41 and have held them the full ten years? Congratulate yourself! Because the new Bond Law, just passed by Congress, now makes them pay off even better than you had expected!

Now, without having to do a thing, you can let those bonds go on earning extra interest for ten years more.

Yes, now the bond which cost you $18.75 will pay you not $25.00 but $33.33! Your $37.50 bond will pay not $50, but $66.66. Your $75 bond will pay $133.33. And so on.

To get this extra money, there's absolutely nothing you have to do. Just hold your bonds and let them go on earning interest for you.

If you wish, you may still redeem any Series E Bond at any time after you've owned it for 60 days. But you'll be better off to hold your bonds, just as you're better off to hold savings in any form.

Cash in the pocket melts away fast —often with little or nothing to show for it. But cash in bond savings is always there—growing steadily toward the big sum which can buy something really worth while.

So if you have bonds coming due, why not take the wise course? Just sit back and let them go on making money. And meanwhile keep adding to your cash savings by buying more U. S. Defense Bonds regularly—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

If you want to be paid your interest as current income The new law also allows you to exchange your Series E Bonds, in blocks of $500 or more, for Special Series G Bonds which pay interest semiannually at the rate of 2½% per year. For full details, ask at any Federal Reserve Bank.

Look how your maturing bonds go on earning under the new law! (This table shows $25, $50, and $100 bonds as examples of how All Series E Bonds grow.)

Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

Questions About Death

My three-year-old heard a neighbor and myself talking about a person that had died four days ago. Just now she asked me, "How come did Lee's mother die?" What would be your answer to this?

Death does not mean a great deal to a three-year-old girl, although she may have had some contact with it by seeing birds or animals that were dead. Certainly death is not yet associated in her mind with a great sense of loss or of sorrow.

Therefore, in answering her question I would suggest that in a very matter-of-fact way you tell your daughter that death comes when a person's body is worn out or sometimes when he has a bad accident. In this case you can say that Lee's mother died because her body wore out. That is probably all you need to say.

Do not go into any of the details concerning her death. Change the subject to something else. In this way you are not avoiding her question, you are answering it honestly, and at the same time you are avoiding that sort of dwelling upon death that might cause great emotional upset or fear on her part.

If you should find that after hearing you and your neighbor talking about this death, your daughter seems to be unusually nervous, can't sleep at night, and is restless and irritable, it may be that the idea of death bothers her more than you realize. She may have the idea, for example, that when one is sick he dies.

If you think there may be this misunderstanding in her mind, refer to someone who has been sick but who now is well because the doctors knew how to help her get well, and comment casually that most people who are sick get well.

Unhappy With Father

My husband has never had any sympathy for our little girl—always laughed when she was sad or upset. Consequently she will never go to him except when happy. How can he overcome this? She gets so upset when I leave and unless she is happy never looks forward to being with him. He loves her dearly and I know this hurts him, even though he has been the cause.

I judge from your question that your husband now realizes that he should not have laughed at your daughter when she was sad or upset and that he is genuinely sorry that he did so.

He must realize, however, that because he has made fun of her in the past the little girl quite naturally has come to the place where she doesn't want to be around him when she feels unhappy. Nothing he can do will change her attitude immediately. Mistakes are not overcome that easily.

Let me suggest the following: The next time the little girl is upset or unhappy and is with you, let your husband remain with you, also, and let him be unusually sympathetic and understanding with reference to your daughter's feeling.

At first she undoubtedly will cling more to you and may even express some hostility toward your husband for being present. If he will be patient, however, if he will at all times guard against laughing at the little girl when she feels sad, if he will try to increase the number of times they can have happy experiences together, it is likely that she will learn gradually to accept him at all times, not simply when she is feeling good.

It should be stressed again, however, that it will take time to bring about this change in your little daughter, but if the above procedure is followed it should bring results.

Teen Money Troubles

We have a modest income. Our son, sixteen, is unhappy because he can't keep up with his school friends in social life. The girls expect corsages that cost five dollars, and expensive entertainments we can't afford. Any suggestions?

I have no suggestions for an easy solution of your problem. In fact, I don't think there is one.

It isn't pleasant to be unable to keep up with financial expectations of one's crowd, but, after all, there is no lesson in life that is more important than that of learning to accept one's financial position and to adjust to it accordingly. If the income of your family doesn't permit your son to keep up with his crowd, then he'll just have to accept that fact and make the best of it.

Dr. Maynard's new booklet, Your Child Today, discusses twenty of the most common problems of parents. It's free; mail a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, and ask for a copy.

But something else needs to be said. Surely not all of those in your son's crowd are financially affluent. There must be other boys who are as embarrassed as your son. He'll know who they are.

Suggest that they get together and decide that on their dates they'll not temper the whims of the weaker set. Let them plan dates together. Adolescents with a little ingenuity and creativeness can have good times together without spending a lot of money.

And let's not be unfair to the girls. Many of them are sane and sensible and won't expect the boys to provide entertainment they can't afford.

It should be remembered, too, that a boy who has "something on the brain," that is, who has an attractive personality and is active in school affairs, can get by without buying corsages and always providing expensive entertainment. Furthermore, there are beautiful flower arrangements that can be had for a reasonable sum.

Granting that your son should learn to get along on the family income, it also is true that he should have the satisfaction that comes from an occasional "splurge."

Even with your modest income, for example, you probably can agree to pay for one or two corsages a year for special occasions. It can be understood that if he wants to give them more frequently than this, he must pay for them out of his allowance or get the money for them by working for it. By following some such plan, he will not feel entirely left out of his crowd.

Marines Offer New Recruiting Policy

Staff Sergeant John B. Harmon, Recruiting Sergeant from the Marine recruiting station in San Angelo, said this week that the Marines are now authorized to enlist men up to the time they are actually ordered to report for induction into the Army.

Harmon disclosed that this was a change from previous recruiting policies of the Marines, which prohibited the enlistment of men who had received their pre-induction examination notice.

The change took effect on June 15 and will remain in force for 30 days. It is not known if it will continue in effect after that.

Sgt. Harmon said that draft boards would be informed of men enlisted so that their records would be kept straight.
