Ray Bearden, my next door neighbor to the north, has been laying in bed this week watching, through his bedroom window, other people work and lead normal lives. A knot in his leg has been his excuse for getting out of work, while his wife and daughter and the other townspeople have carried on best as possible. To make his disability look authentic he has gone to the local medics a time or two for shots of something or other, or whatever it is you get for a leg when you don't want to work. Bearden isn't the only one that has been having trouble with his lower extremities. Jimmy Snipes, the town's best fisherman, that is from his own reports, is gradually and reluctantly recovering from toe trouble, an idea he got from the writer. However not being able to lose time from work or to be put up in the hospital for any considerable length of time, the columnist just broke his toe and went ahead with his work. Snipes has his toenails removed, we presume so that he wouldn't scratch his wife's shins, while dreaming up some of his fish stories, and is now wearing the latest style in open toe shoes.

There's money in the newspaper business. This week while making one of the press runs Don found a Canadian penny between the sheets of newsprint. One on side the penny, dated 1946, had the wording "1 cent" and "Canada," while on the other was several Latin words and the picture of an old boy that needed a haircut. The newsprint was made in Canada. We are glad our supplies, at least part of them, are made in Canada. The people to the north are fine neighbors and we never have any apprehensions of a sneak attack from that direction.

We have been asked many times this week what we think of the Korea incident. What we think doesn't make any difference, the Russians don't and won't act according to any established line of thinking in international affairs. They make their own rules and do as they please. The only way we can deal with them is to make our rules and see that they stand up. We don't believe that there is anyone that can tell what the reaction in the Kremlin will be to the support the United States is giving South Korea. General opinion is that we will have to fight Russia, if not now, within two to five years. We are a peace loving and easy going people and time would probably be to the Russians advantage as the idea of having to suppress their ideology by force might diminish in the peaceloving countries of the world. If the issue comes to armed conflict or an all out war, which is highly probable, the Russians can't win. Their cause is unholy and its only aim is greed while the United Nations, led by America, will for the third time in a generation be fighting a war for the freedom of men everywhere, a just cause. The thought of war is horrible, the results of war in misery and chaos is appalling, but the idea of submitting to world rule by the Communist Butchers of the Kremlin is far more repulsive. The Russians best weapons are ideas they have stolen from other countries. In this time of rapid development in science a stolen idea might be obsolete by the time it is put into production. Let's hope there will not be a war, but if it has to be that the quickest methods of bringing it to an end will be used by our leaders. If it takes atomic or H bombs then deliver them as quickly and rapidly as possible. Boys who have been through a five or ten year war, if not physically injured in any way, are great losers because of the time they have lost in constructive living.

The permanent cleanup program is still being discussed and considered in Dimmitt. All civic organizations are endorsing the idea and the city government is making plans to put it into operation.

The question of a grade school building and gymnasium will be in the hands of the people of the school district Saturday when balloting on the bond issue will take place. The Dimmitt School District is badly in need of the proposed building facilities. The inefficiency of the existing

Sales and Industrial School Well Attended Both Nites

Burritt S. Mills, industrial and sales engineer, wound up Friday night a series of two lectures on methods of better sales promotion in business. Object of his talks was to impress on store owners and clerks of this area the necessity of leaving a favorable impression in the mind of every customer.

"Poor service in many small-town stores is the result of World War II and the recent scarcity of goods," he said. "Customers are again able to be choosy and pick their places to shop for merchandise. It has become necessary for the store to seek out customers and business instead of merely waiting for their appearance."

Mr. Mills stressed the importance of clerk and office employee courtesy. He maintained that more business was lost because of faulty customer service than any other one cause. "People, when they go to buy are mainly concerned with themselves," Mills said. "When they receive poor service or indifferent service, they think twice before returning to that store."

"Clerks should also practice interest in all customers. A man could walk into a store and many times it would be impossible to tell whether he was a tramp or a millionaire."

Mr. Mills cited instances in his own experiences. He said that several of the places where he trades had won his patronage because of common courtesy and interest in him. One store had sold him a cheaper coat once than he had intended buying because the cheaper coat was more suited to his needs. Because of this he has spent much money on other clothes in that place of business.

"A good clerk who builds up a customer following is one of the most important assets to a store," said Mills. "Lose a good clerk and you also lose a lot of business."

He also stated in his lecture that no store could exist on one sale per customer. The customer had to keep coming back to make a store pay off and not go bankrupt.

"Many customers do not leave town for merchandise because it is unavailable in the small town. They go for better service and help in deciding what is needed. A person can buy in Dimmitt what the most exclusive stores in Chicago handle. But the bigger stores in larger towns have realized that to have a big store expert service must be maintained."

Mr. Mills, a Lubbock resident, has acted in the capacity of sales engineer for some of the larger stores of the United States. His appearance here was under auspices of the Castro County Chamber of Commerce who contacted him for the program. What he said was the result of years of study and work and had been the product of actual experience and observation.

Less than 45,000 bushels of wheat was brought to elevators in Dimmitt. Although this does not indicate the total amount produced in Castro County, it does show that a poor harvest was made in comparison with past years.

Some of Castro County's wheat went to Hereford, Summerfield, and Tulia. But local elevators received most of the wheat produced in the county and they still have an uncomfortable amount of storage space left.

Guesses on the average yield of wheat land in the county ranged from 7 to 15 bushels per acre. Last year the county had about a 25 bushel per acre average. However the wheat cut was of a good grade, with low moisture content and fairly heavy.

Lack of rains and other natural elements were given as the cause for the poor crops. Even irrigated crops did not reach their usual high yield except in isolated cases. Some elevator men encouraged farmers to keep their wheat for seed for next year to get full benefits from their crops.

Generally this type of baseball appeals to old and young alike. The odd antics of the donkeys and men riding them provide amusement to everyone, including the men participating.

Time for the game is 8:30 o'clock tonight. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents.

Voters of the Dimmitt Independent School District will decide Saturday whether or not they want a new grade school building. Polling place will be the High School Building.

The $375,000 bond issue has been pushed by school officials for the past several weeks. All interested citizens in Dimmitt have campaigned for the proposal, hoping that voters will not pass up the opportunity for the new building.

When qualified voters go to the polls they will decide a predominant issue in scholastic circles in Dimmitt. For the past several years discussion has centered around whether or not The Dimmitt Independent School District should have a better school plant in which to train its students.

Correction

The candidate rally and pie supper, announced in the last issue of the News, to be held at Hart in the high school gymnasium will be Friday night, July 14, instead of Saturday night, July 15 as previously announced. All candidates and the public are invited to attend the rally and pie supper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bishop of Floydada and Mrs. Lily Sowell and son, Don, of Austin were recent guests in the home of their brother, Mr. E. C. Caudle, and Mrs. Caudle.

Government Grain Storage Is Boosted By Quonset Buildings

A long felt need for storage space during rush harvest seasons in Castro County has been partly satisfied. Five new Quonset storage units have just been completed near the fairgrounds south of Dimmitt. According to Mr. Horace Blagg, ACA secretary, the new buildings will house only grains which the government has loaned money on. However, they are open for lease as storage space for other commodities when not containing grain.

Three of the buildings are in the final stages of construction at Hart. Contract for both the Dimmitt and Hart buildings was let to Ross and Sons of Brownfield.

The buildings, Quonset 40's, are finished here with the exception of plugging holes in the roof. They will have a storage capacity of 350,000 bushels.

Storage space in the buildings will be used only when commercial storage at elevators in Dimmitt is not available. They were prorated to each county on the basis of grain sorghums produced in 1949.

Also in sight for construction soon is 10 new 30,000 bushel round bins to be built near where the new Quonset buildings are. Actual time for construction is not known.

Some cotton seed is scheduled to be stored in the buildings if space is needed, but grain storage is the central point of the program. The buildings may be leased for commercial storage of material other than grain. Agriculture products may be stored in the bins only by government agencies. According to Mr. Blagg, the buildings may be leased to several firms here for storage space.

Government grain to be placed in the building will be grain which the government is holding against loans made to farmers for their wheat and sorghums. Somewhere in the neighborhood of $1.80 will be paid farmers as loans. Should they not redeem the wheat by the following April 30, of the following year, notes will mature and the government loan agency takes over the wheat they have on storage. In effect this loan program guarantees a certain price for grain products.

Town Hall—

The local Town Hall should go over good in Dimmitt. Right now we are without any substantial means of better entertainment in the way of specialized artists. This will give the people of Dimmitt and surrounding territory a chance to hear the better elements in theatrical circles. Of course these programs will not meet the standards of Broadway and big productions but they will afford a steady stream of different amusements.

One of the raw sores of the small town is the lack of specialized entertainment. The Town Hall will not get Toscanini, Margaret Truman, or any of the big name bands. But it will have people who make their living entertaining and who must reach a certain degree of success in that field to even be booked by theatrical agencies. These performances will be worth the money.

Washouts—

Just because Dimmitt has paved streets now is no sign the whole street system in town is smooth sailing. One of the worst eyesores in Dimmitt is the washed out ditches at the end of pavement in the northwest part of town.

To cross one of these ditches one almost needs a tank, a jeep or other vehicles built for such purposes. A conventional car will nearly drag off its rear bumper trying to traverse the gulleys. As it stands, fixing the gulleys would be difficult. When a paved road ends where it is intersected diagonally with a dirt road almost always a small washout occurs. Whether filling in the ditches would be permanent or not we do not know. That's not in our line of business. Nor is it in our line of business to even suggest a way of remedying the situation. But we do suggest that something be done about it and soon.

We can't remember where this came from but we'll pass it on with apologies to the originator: It's easy to find who is a stranger in town, they nearly always stop for the red light.

It Hasn't All Been Done—

In the last issue of Life Magazine was a feature on the first complete encircling of the North American continent. What happened? Here nearly everyone in the United States had figured about all of the exploration and Jack London adventure had been taken care of in this part of the world. And we forgot about a little item like going through the Northwest Passage and the Panama Canal on the same voyage.

Maybe we are not as far advanced as we like to think. If our memory is correct, no one has swam the Atlantic or Pacific Oceans. No one has flown to the moon. No one has visited the deepest parts of the seas, alive that is. We could rattle off openings for travel and exploration all day and not even scratch the surface. We don't know so awful much about the old world in which we live.

Building—

Tabulation revealed this week that residential and church construction in Dimmitt last year amounted to a grand total of $1,500,000. Although no building boom was noticeable at any particular time during the year, the continued and steady growth of Dimmitt resulted in the most substantial construction year in the history of the city. Another good indication of the healthy development of the city is the fact, that as acute as at any time since the new growth of the city began. The added valuation to city property through the construction of new homes, churches and business buildings has been greatly enhanced by the paving of streets and new street lighting facilities which have made existing residential property more valuable and building sites more desirable. Staggering under an excessive tax burden only a few short years ago, which made the operation of the city government very insecure, Dimmitt was sorely pressed to keep valuation up to the point where tax revenue would pay city expense. Enhanced values of existing city property, coupled with the large volume of new construction, places Dimmitt among the favored cities of the great Plains-Panhandle area in which to live, as the municipal advantages of our town are becoming more secure with the addition of each new structure.

Other Editors Say—

Now that the conveniences and advantages of city life can be enjoyed by those who live in rural areas, we cannot help but wonder why the trend is from the farm into the cities.

The automobile and good roads have placed a resident ten miles from "town," closer to Main Street than the outlying citizens of that same town were fifteen years ago, in point of time. Daily deliveries bring mail, and, if conditions warrant, it won't be long before two deliveries daily will bring the rural dweller even with the city lodger.

The telephone, the radio, the individual ice manufacturer, the nearly complete electrification of our country—all these make available comforts on the farm along any improved highway.

One of the greatest disadvantages of rural life in years past has been its comparative isolation, where the farmer's family lived apart, without near neighbors or desirable companionship. Already, however, the difference between "town" and "country" has disappeared. The farmer's children attend school in town, form a part of the younger social set and the family often rides five or ten miles to church and Sunday school.

Life on the farm is rapidly changing for the better. Such change means a revived agriculture, which will tend to hold rather than lose its young folk in the years to come. There will be a disappearance of all "dark corners" and life in town and country will approach a common level.—The Canyon News

Sports Afield

That lead shot taken in feeding is poisonous to ducks is no new discovery. It was recognized as bad business as far back as 1847. But throughout the years not much was done about it. Now, after two years of intensive study, biologists of the Illinois Natural History Survey have released a rather startling report on shot alloys and poisoning in waterfowl.

Dr. Harlow B. Mills of the Survey tells us that their outstanding discovery was the influence of diet in checking lead poisoning. Birds fed on corn mixed grains, or wild seeds all had a high death rate, even when they had been given only one shot. Birds fed on coontail in addition to these diets suffered much smaller losses, and in some instances none of them died. In other words, the salad in the diet was the most important factor in survival.

Sportsmen should consider carefully the following points made by this remarkable study:

1. We now know the importance of green leafy plants in the diet of waterfowl. This indicates that well-meaning people feeding corn or grain to ducks in severe weather, when green natural plants are not available, are most certainly hastening the death of any of these birds that carry shot in their gizzards.

2. No commercial shot or alloys used in these experiments showed any promise of preventing lead poisoning in waterfowl. Lulaboy (a commercial lead shot coated with a copper alloy) delayed death some four days longer. Possibly a heavier copperized coating might further retard the gizzard action, giving a longer period of time in which the shot might be eliminated.

3. Lead in commercial lead alloy shot pellets is the sole cause of shot poisoning in waterfowl. The small quantities of arsenic and antimony in the alloy do not cause illness or death.

4. The nature of the diet, rather than the size of the dose of lead shot, is the most important variable.

The findings of the experiment are applicable to the Havana area in Illinois and the only wild birds used extensively were mallards. Other species or mallards might possibly react differently.

At any rate, present and future plans for the management of waterfowl habitat might well include the planting of submerged leafy aquatic duck foods because the Survey has proved the beneficial effects of these foods in minimizing lead poisoning in mallards.

ANOTHER STRIKE

AGAINST THE PUBLIC AND INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE SERVED BY FIVE WESTERN RAILROADS

President Truman's EMERGENCY BOARD recommends a 40-hour week and a pay increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 a day for switchmen represented by the Switchmen's Union of North America.

• Notwithstanding the tremendous increase in their expenses involved, the Railroads' answer to Board is... YES!

Union leaders' answer to Board is... NO!

In face of Board findings to the contrary, union leaders insist on 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. This would be an average increase of 31 cents an hour, or $2.48 a day. So Union leaders have called a completely unjustified strike on 5 Western railroads, effective June 25.

On June 15, an Emergency Board appointed by President Truman under the terms of the Railway Labor Act recommended the railroads grant switchmen a 40-hour week and a wage increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 for an 8-hour day.

Despite the added financial burden involved, the railroads are ready to accept these recommendations, as they have always accepted Emergency Board recommendations on national issues.

But the leaders of the Switchmen's Union refuse to accept! They demand an average increase of 31 CENTS AN HOUR OR $2.48 A DAY—although their present earnings are substantially higher than those of workers in other industries!

Board Says Demands Unjustified

In its report, the Board declared this demand unjustified by all the evidence presented. It also pointed out that it would give the switchmen an unfair pay advantage over other groups of railroad employees, and would add too great a burden to railroad costs.

Here is another case of a railroad union flouting the findings of an Emergency Board—another case of calling a crippling strike in an outrageous and reckless attempt to force demands which the Board clearly labels as unjustified!

Leaders of the Switchmen's Union are calling this strike in defiance of the Board—in defiance of the facts—and at the expense of the public!

In its report on this case, the Board made this statement:

"The railroad industry, the Board believes, needs above all else a period of relative stability to adjust and adapt itself to present competitive post-war conditions."

Despite this warning, the leaders of the Switchmen's Union are upsetting the apple-cart—forcing a completely unjustified strike against everybody who uses the railroads.

FIVE WESTERN RAILROADS AFFECTED BY THE JUNE 25 STRIKE

The five railroads affected by this strike, which goes into effect at 6:00 A.M. local time, Sunday, June 25, 1950, are:

- Chicago Great Western Railway Company
- Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company
- The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company
- Great Northern Railway Company
- The Western Pacific Railroad Company

It is time to put an end to such un-American tactics!

The Answer to a Raw Attempt At Dictatorship is "NO!"

In the interest of the public who depend on the railroads every day, there can be only one answer to this outrageous and dictatorial action by the leaders of the Switchmen's Union. And that answer is—"NO!"

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Big Four-Day Rodeo Stated At Levelland July 1st Thru 4th

Residents of Hockley County and the Levelland area this week were making extensive preparations for a four-day rodeo, expected to be the best in the history of the six-year-old Levelland Rodeo association.

The show which starts on July 1st and climaxes on the Fourth is expected to draw spectators and top contestants from the entire area.

Levellanders have been urged to invite friends and relatives to Levelland for a made-to-order Independence day celebration on the Fourth. Peak attendance is expected to pack to capacity rodeo ground stands which will accommodate 6,000 persons.

Stock for the four-day show will be furnished by Buck and Tommy Steiner of Austin. Steiner has promised one of the greatest strings of bucking stock ever turned into a west Texas arena and Levellanders are expecting an outstanding show.

Rodeo fans will be treated to the best in saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, bull and calf riding and bulldragging. Added prizes of $500 have been made available for winners in each of these contests as well as $300 in prizes for the ladies sponsor contest. A total of $3,300 in prize money has been added for the entire show.

The four days of western festivities will get underway at 5 p. m. on Saturday, July 1, with a mammoth parade staged in downtown Levelland. Sheriff's posses from surrounding cities will take part in the colorful procession and area bands will furnish music.

A special barbecue for Sheriff posse guests has also been scheduled by the Levelland Rodeo association. The barbecue will be held at the rodeo ground immediately following the parade and prior to the opening rodeo performance.

Square dancers from neighboring cities will join Levellanders in special square dance contest Monday night. Prizes will be awarded to winners in this event and dances at the rodeo clubhouse will follow rodeo performances on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday night.

Rodeo Secretary D. N. Bills summed up the possibilities for an outstanding four days of fun in this way:

"This rodeo shows prospects of being the best we have ever had." He has a string of outstanding stock, a lot of hadworking civic club and Rodeo association mem-

HOG CHOLERA IS STILL NUMBER ONE PIG KILLER

Hog cholera is still the top-ranking menace to United States hog production, but other diseases are moving up. Erysipelas, infectious gastroenteritis, and rhinitis ("bull nose") are causing increasing trouble in swine-growing areas and in a few specific instances have caused heavier losses than cholera. According to veterinarians, swine are subject to at least 30 different diseases and sometimes several of them strike a herd at once. Vaccination prevents cholera and erysipelas, but farmers must rely on good sanitation and smart management to keep out most of the others.

Local Man Attends Swine Breeders Ass'n Meeting

On Wednesday and Thursday May 10-11, the five standing committees and the board of directors of the Texas Swine Breeders Association met here on the campus of Texas A. & M. College. It was their annual meeting where they get together and map out plans for the next year. It didn't receive a lot of publicity, but some of you may not fully appreciate what this organization has and does mean to the swine industry of Texas.

My invitation to attend came from extension swine husbandman E. M. Regenbrecht and he's also secretary of the association. This was my first visit to an Association meeting but it wasn't my first contact with the organization and many of its members. I've been on the farms and in the places of business of a lot of the members. They are strong backers of 4-H and FFA work. Now this is no upstart among agricultural organizations of the state. It's 61 years old, and maturity and experience are two of its strong virtues. The organization began its work in 1889. They tell me the annual meeting has been held every year since and take it from me they haven't lost the art of working together for the common good and just plain working. I looked over the proceedings of a meeting that was held in Waco back in 1896 and among other things—the big question was... could a pork producer make any money feeding 14 cents per bushel corn to hogs that might bring $3.25 per hundred when they were sold as yearlings.

They didn't spend much time talking about such things this week. President W. S. (Dub) Walker, Burleson, Johnson county is pretty certain that the swine population of Texas could be doubled and we'd still probably have to ship in a little pork to take care of our own needs. Yes sir, he agrees with director E. S. Ballew of Clarendon that the swine industry can do a lot of expanding and it can be profitable at the same time. The increased production of feed grains resulting from the reduced cotton acreage and expanding use of Texas hybrid corn seed, they believe can be profitably used on the farm for hog feed.

I heard a little friendly kidding between the breeders about this or that breed but they were a hard working team when consideration was being given by the committees to their assignments. Jacob Acker, Nazareth, Castro county, is chairman of the Show and Sales Committee and also member of the Board of Directors: Ballew is chairman of the Educational Committee, Mack Morgan, McKinney, heads the Membership Committee; chairman John Adams, Tulla, of the Legislative Committee and vice president of the Association wasn't present. Committee members Beal Pumphrey, San Antonio, and Rufus Peebles, Tehuacana handled the job in his absence. President Walker is chairman of the Advisory Committee to the Animal Husbandry Department of Texas A. & M.

I believe before too long you'll be hearing a lot more about what this Association is doing. The original purpose of the organization was to "educate the masses in the production of hogs" . . . this now may be modified a little in the program the members are about ready to launch for it will go all the way. Production, marketing, feeding, breeding, management and all other items will be covered for they feel the future of the swine industry in Texas and the Southwest is good. The Association is interested in having on its membership rolls the name of every swine producer in the state, every packer or processor of pork products, feed manufacturers, stockyard companies, commission agents, buyers—well, in fact, everyone who is interested in the swine industry is eligible for membership. The members of the Association work closely with the officials of the various fairs and stock shows of the state and their mutual problems came in for plenty of airing.

The luncheon on Thursday was something . . . you never saw such ham . . . not even in Virginia. Guests of the Association for the occasion were vice chancellor for Agriculture D. W. Williams of the Texas A. & M. College System, Dean C. N. Shepardson of the School of Agriculture, director G. G. Gibson, Agriculture Extension Service, Dr. R. E. Patterson, vice director, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Dr. J. C. Miller, head of the Animal Husbandry Department and the staff from that department.

The members know that they've set out to do a big job. They know that Texas farmers will not increase hog numbers unless they can make more money producing pork than something else. They believe if the average farmer would use the available information on how to get the job done . . . and good hogs . . . that pork farming could be very profitable and it's purpose to spread the news. This Association through the years has contributed much to Texas agriculture, but the program they planned this week could become their most outstanding contribution. Texas agriculture would benefit from more organizations like it.

Garden Hints

The home gardener is now reaping the benefits from his labor and the investment made in a few seed and fertilizer. In most cases, the returns are coming to the family in terms of vitamin rich, crisp, high quality vegetables, says J. E. Hutchison, associate extension horticulturist of Texas A&M College.

He says the supplies of fresh vegetables are plentiful but that the home gardener who raised a good garden this spring is putting the difference in the family bank account. And he adds, it's considerable.

The first planted vegetables probably have reached their peak and the old plants should be removed from the garden, he says. Get the soil in shape for additional plantings of other vegetables of fallow it for the fall garden. Moisture conditions are favorable in most sections of the state at this time and some of the hot weather vegetables can still be planted.

Hutchison says tomatoes should be harvested when they begin to turn pink. They should be spread out in the shade for a few days until they take on a deep red color. By following this practice, you will be getting tomatoes of maximum quality from your garden.

He points out that onions should not be harvested until the tops have begun to fall over. This is an indication of maturity. In most cases, the onions can be pulled from the ground easily. A sideways pull will usually do the job. Here is his suggestion for handling the onions that you will be storing for home use: After the onions are pulled, place them in a cool, shady place until they dry out. When the skin of the onion becomes dry, it will crackle like tissue paper and this indicates they are ready for storage. Leave the tops on and tie them in small bunches, six or eight to the bunch. These should be hung in a building where there is good air circulation. He says the thicknecked and double onions should be separated at once and used for this type is usually a poor storage risk.

Onions that are to be sold should be cured, as suggested, and the tops should be clipped to one-half to three-quarters of an inch in length. They are then ready for grading and sacking. Open mesh bags should be used.

He says the garden area from which the potatoes and onions have been harvested should be prepared and replanted. Sweet potato vine cuttings, blackeyes, purple hull, cream peas or even a late planting of sweet corn may be used. Other heat-tolerant plants are bell pepper, New Zealand spinach and egg plant.

The important thing, he says, is to keep the garden producing on a year-round basis. The surplus from the garden may be canned or frozen and by this method the family can enjoy the fresh vegetables the year-round.

Green Bugs

Small grain producers in Texas are familiar with the green bug that has during the past few years done much damage to their crops. There is also a similar bug, that causes plenty of trouble in the flower garden. According to Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape gardening specialist of Texas A&M College, those that attack flowers, shrubs and trees are also called aphids or plant lice.

She says they are usually green in color, but may also be orange, gray, or even black. Their color gives them a good camouflage and as a result they often go unnoticed until damages begin to show up. They usually feed on the tender twigs and under the leaves. The leaves on some of the plants when damaged turn yellow and some curl. The aphids that attack chrysanthemums are usually black in color.

Although aphids are very small, they have a high resistance to most insecticides and are therefore difficult to control. DDT, chlordane or lead arsenate will not kill them. Nicotine sulphate, also called black leaf 40, is still the best all-around home remedy. Miss Hatfield says that one and one-half teaspoonfuls of nicotine sulphate mixed with one gallon of water and applied as a spray will usually control them. She cautions against getting the spray too strong for it will burn the leaves of the plants. You should be sure that all parts of the plant are thoroughly covered with the solution, especially the top and underside of the leaves.

One of the newer insecticides, lindane, gives great promise for the control of aphids but it is not generally available at this time.

She says a heavy infestation of aphids may take enough sap from the plants to weaken them seriously. They may cause flower buds or berries to drop from the plants. Plants weakened by attacks from aphids may die during extremely dry or cold weather.

She suggests that you make periodic checks of the flowers and shrubs around the place and if aphids are found, that you immediately put into use the recommended control measures.

Architect's drawing Of Dimmitt's proposed grade school building and gymnasium.

A STATEMENT BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE Dimmitt Independent School District Relative To The Proposed New GRADE SCHOOL BUILDING and GYMNASIUM

BOND ELECTION TO BE HELD SATURDAY, JULY 1

THE NEED — In our opinion the growth in scholastics in the Dimmitt Independent School District has rendered the present grade school building obsolete and completely inadequate. This building program has been postponed by your school board as long as practicable, and in our opinion it is now high time to provide the building facilities so necessary for the education of the children of the district. In submitting this bond election to the voters of the district we are asking for sufficient funds to care for the building needs of the district. Any bonds voted in excess of the building contract needs will not be sold. The gymnasium — a very important part of the grade school plant — will be at the disposal of the elementary physical education classes. The bond schedule has been set up so as not to require any advance in tax rates or valuations. Believing this improvement to be imperative to the continued development of our school, we respectfully submit this proposal to the patrons of the district.

VITAMIN B-12 BEING USED IN LIGHTWEIGHT HOG FEED
Hog producers and especially those who feed hogs for market should watch closely the research work that is now underway at many of the State Experiment Stations, including the Texas Station, on the use of APF (animal protein factor) vitamin B12 and the antibiotics, in the hog feeding rations. These research findings may very materially affect hog production in the near future.

DEMAND STRONGER FOR LIGHTER WEIGHT HOGS

COLLEGE STATION, June 29—Swine producers may hold the answer to better prices. The lighter weight hogs, those weighing from 200 to 230 pounds, stand the best chance of topping the market, says E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine husbandman of Texas A&M College.

He says that hogs weighing more than 230 pounds are not in strong demand because of their lardiness, and too, after they pass this weight they become less efficient utilizers of the feed they consume.

He recommends watching the hog gains very closely and topping out the animals as they reach the 200 and 230 pound weight range.

Regenbrecht says that Texas is still a heavy pork importing state and he believes that Texas producers can profitably increase their output of hogs.

He says that hog producers should strive to continually improve the quality of the hogs they produce for market and that good pastures and more efficient feeding and management practices should be followed to cut down the production costs.

Science and Nature Work Together To Make Better Tree Rubber

Bud-grafting a young rubber tree in Southeast Asia to produce a higher yield.

Modern civilization has been nourished on the milk of the rubber tree. From baby nipples to giant truck tires, from girdles to garden hose, life today depends on rubber.

Over 90% of all the rubber that is grown comes from Southeast Asia where millions of people make their living by planting, cultivating and tapping the billions of acres of rubber trees.

Not satisfied with Nature's product, researchers are constantly at work to improve it. At the Rubber Research Institute of Malaya, high-yielding strains are developed and bud-grafted to rubber trees, insecticides and fungicides are developed to keep trees healthy, and the quality of the rubber itself is continually tested in laboratories.

Today natural rubber is used in thousands of products that serve mankind, and many new uses are being discovered every year.

For a free booklet showing how rubber is grown in Southeast Asia, entitled "Natural Rubber and You," write to the Natural Rubber Bureau, Dept. N500, 1631 K St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

SAVE YOUR LAND....PROFIT BY ACTING NOW!

The toll of erosion by wind and water in the United States is 90 billion tons of soil every year. Much of this needless loss of productive top-soil can be prevented by contouring and terracing. If you have not started soil conservation practices on your farm, get in touch with your local soil conservation authorities now and see your MM dealer for the modern power and tools to do the job. Minneapolis-Moline Universal tractors and Universal tractor-attached tools have proved themselves on hundreds of contouring and terracing projects, and MM engineers are constantly keeping pace with new and better methods. If you own an MM Universal tractor, you can take advantage of these developments economically, for new tools are always designed to fit the tool bar of all MM Universal tractors.
