Howard Bridges Gets Top Award For Conservation

Howard Bridges of Sunnyside Community was honored as the "Conservation Farmer of the Year in Texas" at a banquet in Fort Worth, Saturday, May 4. In recognition of his selection, he and Mrs. Bridges were presented with a seven-piece sterling silver service by the Fort Worth Press. Sponsors of the "Save the Soil and Save Texas" Awards program.

In summation of his selection, the judges recognized Bridges for the outstanding job he had done in the planning and application of sound conservation practices on his own farm. They went on to say his interest in soil and water had extended out beyond the boundaries of his own acres and was evidenced by the assistance and encouragement he has given to Running Water Soil Conservation District and by the help he has given in the proposed Watershed Protection Project on Running Water Draw.

Reviewing the conservation practices on Bridges farm, it was noted he has developed a conservation plan providing for the eventual retirement of all steep, marginal farmland to either irrigated pastures or native rangeland. He has further planned and carried out needed structural practice such as land leveling, irrigation pipelines, stock pond construction and cross fencing.

His conservation plan, as originally set up by Bridges with assistance from SCS technicians, has been revised slightly as he went along but overall he has carried out what was originally planned. Mills continued, "I am sure this award will focus additional attention on the agriculture of the High Plains and I hope it will focus more needed local attention on the need for more and better resources in this District."

Pete Wright, local work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, comments, "It has been a great pleasure to have the opportunity to assist Bridges in the planning and application of his conservation program. His feelings for the need for Soil and Water Conservation are typical of the majority of people in the High Plains area of Texas. What he has achieved reflects the attitudes of local farmers; we must and will do what is necessary to preserve our soil and water."

Wright continues, "It is my sincere hope that we have the privilege of assisting more and more people in the planning and application of sound conservation plans and that soon we will have another District member honored as Bridges has been."

 Good Morning Sue, come in and have coffee, while I tell you about a nice house at 608 West Maple. The house is in the modern design, nice clean lines, Salmon pink brick, with pale ivory wood trim. It is on a big lot, 70 x 130 lot, facing south with a nice yard lamp that comes on at night and turns off in the morning. It also has a large yard. A maple tree is growing in the front. I think a Wisteria vine on the center front of the house would be effective. Oh you like an Espaliered tree, that might be good.

... years from now - what will be? The Bureau of Reclamation report said. The Bureau's experts have studied Texas water problems for the past 12 years. They have geologic and engineering data. From this data the Department of the Interior has been drafting a comprehensive water resources development plan for Texas. LAST week the Texas congressional delegation was given a general report summarizing the plan. The report will be spelled out in detail voluminous report to be presented to Congress next year. The long-range outlook shows that time the demand-including municipal, industrial and irrigation requirements-will total more than 17 million acre-feet a year. Even so, our potential supply, counting both ground and surface water, will total nearly 24 million acre-feet. The problem is that Texas today is not taking advantage of this great water supply potential. The water must be caught, stored, and in some cases transported to areas where it is vitally needed. To accomplish this, the Bureau of Reclamation report foresees the long-range need to construct some

More Facts Given About '64 Program

The 1964 wheat allotment and notice of the farm normal yield were mailed to all producers on Friday, 19 April 1963. All wheat farms including the former 10.6 acre wheat farms, now have allotments. The normal yield for 1964 established for each farm is based on the prior five year period, 1958-1962. Some farms received an increase and some a decrease of the 1963 productivity index due to a change of farming operations since 1960. Yields that were proved for 1959-1960 will not be used for the 1964 program. Producers that desire to prove production for the 1964 program must prove production for all five years. Producers have 15 days from the date of mailing of the yield notice or until 6 May 1963, to file an appeal in writing of the farm normal yield at the county office. Settlement sheets from elevators and other comparable records will be required. With a "Yes" vote, an operator of only a small farm, 15.0 acres or less, must sign the reverse side of the allotment notice and return the notice to the County ASCS Office on or before 13 May 1963 to qualify to vote in the referendum and participate in the program. These operators have not been allowed to vote in prior years. An operator of a large wheat farm that also has a farm with 15 or less acres, is automatically eligible to vote, however, in order to participate in the program on the small farm, the operator must sign the reverse side of the allotment notice by 13 May 1963. With a "Yes" vote, producers will be given the opportunity to sign an intention to participate in the program and receive payment for the 10 percent mandatory allotment reduction plus an additional voluntary reduction for as much as 20 percent of the allotment. The sign-up period would be prior to the time for seeding the 1964 crop. The diversion payment per acre for any voluntary allotment reduction, not to exceed the 10 percent of the county support price rate, about $1.97 per bushel, times the acres. With a "Yes" vote, farms will continue to have allotments, however, producers may harvest a crop in excess of the allotment without a marketing quota penalty. There would be no diversion payments and price support loans would be available, at about $1.23 per bushel, only to producers remaining within the farm allotment. Wheat produced on "excess" farms could be sold on the "open" market. With a "Yes" vote, producers that seed within the allotment or permitted acres, as applicable, and comply with the normal conserving acres and diversion acres, requirements will be eligible to receive - $1.70 per bushel X the farm normal yield X the planted acres, not to exceed 80 percent of the allotment, whether or not the crop is harvested, with price support available at about $1.27 per bushel for any remaining production. With a "No" vote, producers that remain in excess of the allotment will cause a reduction in the farm wheat history acreage for future years. This will amount to an allotment reduction of about 6-8 percent. The normal conserving acres for a farm will continue to be based on the two years, 1958-1960. Landowners and tenants who could exceed the 1964 wheat allotment and store the excess production to avoid or postpone payment of the marketing quota penalty. These producers would not be eligible for diversion payments but would be eligible for price support and certificates. With a "Yes" vote, acreage diverted from wheat production could be grazed until May 1, 1964 and after November 1, 1964, without a change in payment. In addition, the diverted acres could be grazed through the summer month but the diversion payment per acre would be reduced by one-half. Voting Eligibility - producers who are interested in a 1964 farm wheat acreage allotment are eligible to vote with the exception of operators that have only farms with 15 or less allotted acres and do not elect to participate as an allotment grower for 1964. Landowners and tenants who will share in the wheat crop will be eligible to vote. Landowners who cash rent their land to tenants will not be eligible to vote. Both, the husband and wife, as owners of community property will be able to vote if the allotment is on the community property. Both, the husband and wife, as tenants, will be eligible to vote, if both names are on the written lease to operate the farm, otherwise, if only the husband has signed the lease, only the husband will be eligible to vote. Producers that will be unable to vote on the day of the referendum may obtain a ballot for voting ab-

Burnett Directs Revival Singing

Johnny Burnett, music director at First Baptist Church here has just returned from Haysville, Kansas, a suburb of Wichita, Kansas where he led the singing for revival services, April 22-28.

The pastor of the First Baptist Church in Haysville, Kansas is a college friend, according to Rev. Burnett. The Rev. Johnny Burnett served the Haysville church from 1954 to 1956 as music and education director.

Evangelist for the revival services was the Rev. Forrest Siler, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in Wichita, Kansas.

The House also passed two bills having to do with the equal rights for women. One of these bills provides that the married woman can have separate control over her own personal property...

The House passed Thursday a loan shark bill. This was a similar bill to the Senate Bill in as much as it was a committee substitute for the Senate Bill.

The hours per day are getting longer as far as house work and committee work is concerned. The reason, of course, for the heavy work the last few weeks is that it looks like time for getting bills passed through both the House and Senate is growing late.

One bill that will be coming up in the next few days that would be a benefit to our area, is the establishment of a hospital for the mentally retarded and handicapped children west of the 100th meridian.

I still appreciate hearing from you, and anytime that I can be of help to you please let me know.

Accent on Health

As you know, the past few months have been unusually dry over the High Plains. What are the prospects for improved moisture conditions? I took up this question with my friend Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, Chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Despite the advances made in irrigation farming in the Panhandle and South Plains, the fact remains that our area's economic health is closely tied to the fortunes of our ranchers and dryland farmers, and lack of rainfall means decreased income for them.

Of all plants grown in the average American home garden, an expert on plant poisons counted more than 100 which contained poison, some lethal. The same authority counted 54 harmful plants in a single issue of a seed catalog.

Chances are many of your backyard shrubs and flowers actually are masking powerful poisons behind a facade of beauty.

But when the medico learned that oleander limbs had been used to skewer the steaks, he had his answer: oleander branches contain a poison which acts like an overdose of digitalis.

The Amarillo rainfall record shows that the March and April, 1963, precipitation totaled less than three-quarters of an inch. It has done this only seven times in the past 70 years.

Dr. Reichelderfer says that the immediate outlook for the Panhandle—up to mid-May—is for above average temperatures with precipitation near normal or below normal. But for the period beyond mid-May, the Weather Bureau can't be certain.

One of the Weather Bureau researchers, Wayne C. Palmer, has been making a detailed study of drouth. He has developed a method for evaluating drouth severity. But so far, the results are in climatological terms—that is, the delineate and measure past occurrences of drouth but don't solve the separate problem of drouth prediction.

Meanwhile, the USDA Statistical Reporting Service analyst in Austin, Clarence Palmer, reports "Critically dry conditions in the Northern High Plains," where strong hot winds have sapped moisture and retarded growth.

By giving you this report, I am not seeking to encourage pessimism. Our people are well able to adjust to these periodic and not unexpected onslaughts of nature. But I think it is important that we all know what the situation is, as we head toward summer, 1963.

Accent on Health

On your next backyard cook-out, if your host offers you one peeled and sharpened, tell him politely but firmly: "Thanks, but no thanks."

The things are poisonous—leaves, limbs, flowers, bark and roots. When a group of hunters suddenly sickened after broiling steaks over an open fire, a doctor detected symptoms of digitalis poisoning. All disclaimed any connection with digitalis, a powerful heart stimulant.

But when the medico learned that oleander limbs had been used to skewer the steaks, he had his answer: oleander branches contain a poison which acts like an overdose of digitalis.

A dime package of castor bean seeds, for example, packs a poisonous punch sufficient to kill five children.

One tulip bulb contains enough poison to kill a man. And sweet peas, although seldom fatal, are poisonous enough to keep a victim bedridden for weeks with a form of paralysis.

A poison in elephant ears, so plentiful in Texas, causes a painful swelling and itching of the mouth, tongue and throat when chewed. A growth called "dumb cane" gets its name from the fact that when chewed it causes tongue swelling to the point that speech is impossible.

Admittedly there are few actual deaths attributed to eating poisonous plants. But the potential is always there. And your guess is as good as anyone's as to how much disabling illness is caused by back yard foliage.

Besides the ones mentioned, here's a partial list of the most common poisonous plants. Poisonous parts are indicated in brackets: Monks hood (all parts), water hemlock or poison hemlock (all parts), larkspur (foliage), foxglove (foliage), Christmas rose (roots, mountain laurel (all parts) golden chain (seeds), all species of rhododendron (foliage), wild black cherry (dried foliage).

Lions Raise Voices In Old Fashion Singing

Dimmitt Lions Club met Tuesday at noon with an old-fashioned song fest on the program agenda. The Lions blended their voices to raise melodious sounds of old tunes such as "While Strolling in the Park One Day" and "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You."

Song leader for the harmony time was introduced by Lion M. A. Smith, Jr. as Johnny "Witch" Burnett.
