Longhorns Down Stamford B, 6-0 in Tight Defensive Game

The superior Longhorns of Bronte outmanned the young and inexperienced Stamford B team last Friday night in a game that saw the Longhorns sneak by the Bullpups 6-0. Even though the Bullpup team was composed of sophomores, the boys from Stamford threw a stonewall at the Longhorns that kept Bronte in trouble all through the game.

Taking advantage of every mistake made by Stamford, the Longhorns utilized a bad pass from center to chalk up their lone score. Both teams played stout defensive ball with neither club being able to operate against the other. Three times in the first period bad passes from center on fourth down put the Longhorns in scoring position, but the local lads could only capitalize on one of the miscues to produce a touchdown.

First period action was predominated by defensive play on the part of both teams. Stamford received the opening kickoff on their own 41 before a stout Longhorn line pushed them back to the original line of scrimmage. A bad center on fourth down put the Longhorns deep in Bullpup territory on their 37. The Longhorns drove to the 25, but a fumble returned the ball to Stamford at that point where they again encountered a strong defense and were forced into punt formation. Once again a bad center rocked the Bullpups on their heels as they were forced to give up the ball on their 26 yard line. Four running plays produced only four yards and the Stamford eleven took possession on the 22 as the initial period came to an end.

The first four plays of the second quarter saw Stamford hold for no gain and again they went into punt formation. For the third time, the pass from center sailed over the kicker's head and he was able to return it to the 30 yard line, two yards shy of a first down. Six plays later the Longhorns crossed the double stripe to give the Longhorns a decisive 6-0 lead. With Dean Black and Albert Grace alternating on the ball carrying, they quickly moved to the 11. Latham then carried for nine yards to the two where Black hit the center of the line for paydirt. Latham's attempt to run the conversion was stopped short of the goal line and the Bronte lads held a 6-0 lead at intermission time.

The Longhorns received the kickoff opening the second portion of the game on their own 31. The Bronte boys moved with good blocking and running power to the Stamford 33 but an attempted pass play backfired and Latham was dropped for a 12 yard loss and the Bullpups took over on the 45. From that point on, play seasawed back and forth with neither team

Robbery Suspect Being Held in Jail

A 25-year-old Sweetwater Negro, Jim Horton, was still in county jail Wednesday at Robert Lee after being charged with the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Turney Casey at their home north of Bronte. The man had failed to make bond which was set at $2,000.

Horton was arrested about 4:30 a.m. last Friday by Deputy Sheriff Frank Keese and Patrolman Ray Keating three miles north of Bronte. Officers had been searching for the man after Casey reported he was robbed of $4 at his home about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey had been away from home and upon their return found a man ransacking their house. Casey walked in on him and was told to give the man his money or he would shoot him (Casey). Casey, who is employed by the Bronte Motor Co., handed over four one dollar bills to the Negro and left the house. The Caseys drove away, seeing the man leave their house on foot. They reported the holdup to Keese, who promptly requested assistance from other officers in the area in setting up a roadblock. Six hours later they apprehended Horton hitchhiking north on Highway 277. The suspect had four one dollar bills on him at the time of the arrest, but was not armed. Keese said Horton's truck broke down in Bronte earlier Thursday evening, and apparently he entered Casey's house as he was walking north toward Sweetwater.

Sheriff Paul Good reported Wednesday that Horton, upon being questioned by him, admitted that he was free on a $1,500 bond on a federal charge of robbing the Orient post office some time ago. He said he presumed Horton would be turned over to federal authorities to answer the charge.

Prominent Speaker On PTA Program

Delbert Downing, popular Midland Chamber of Commerce manager, has consented to speak for the October meeting of the local Parent-Teachers organization. The meeting will be held next Tuesday night, October 8, at 8:00 in the school auditorium.

When contacted early this week, Downing did not give the topic of his speech, but it will presumably deal with education. He is a widely known and sought-after speaker in West Texas and local PTA officials were pleased that he could accept their invitation. His speeches are usually well sprinkled with humor.

He was widely acclaimed in Robert Lee two years ago when he appeared there at a community get-together.

Also planned for the Tuesday night meeting are musical numbers and a social hour with refreshments following the meeting.

At a meeting last week of interested PTA patrons, it was pointed out that interest in the organization might be revived if the programs were carefully planned to generate interest; if good out-of-town speakers and programs could be brought to Bronte; and the usual "cut and dried" programs eliminated. If the meeting Tuesday night receives good response, other programs being planned call for a San Angelo Choral Group, and a program on home and family relations with an authority in charge, to be staged.

All local school patrons, teachers and others interested are invited to attend. A nursery will be provided for the younger children.

Scout Campaign Kickoff Set for Tuesday Morning

The Boy Scout Fund Raising Campaign for this year begins next Tuesday morning, Oct. 8, with a kick off breakfast at 7 a. m. in First Baptist Church. R. A. Young of Ballinger will speak to the group.

A called meeting of workers and captains has been set for tonight, at 7 p. m. in the Enterprise office. Captains are Billy Joe Luckett, Noah Pruitt, Jr., Matthew Caperton, T. F. Sims, Jr., Horace Taylor, Claude Word and I. C. Oden. All are asked to be present for the meeting tonight.

J. B. Mackey and Owen Cosgrove are in charge of the breakfast. All boy scout workers, captains and anyone interested in scouting are urged to be present for the kick-off breakfast, at which time plans will be discussed for the up-coming drive.

Methodists To Dedicate Local Church

Sunday, October 13, is planned as Dedication Sunday at First Methodist Church. Dr. L. Eugene Harris, district superintendent of San Angelo, will be present to preach and officiate.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon, with each lady in the church bringing two covered dishes.

All former members and friends of the church are invited to the dedication ceremonies. Methodist churches, traditionally, are not dedicated until they are paid for. Final notes on the church, which was built in 1951, were paid off several days ago.

On the following day, Monday, Oct. 14, a week of revival services will begin. The Rev. Paul Terry of Edcouch will do the preaching. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday through the following Sunday and at 7:00 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Bids for the construction of the new wings and the remodeling of the present building were opened at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. The contract will be let in the next several days.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Stewart, Tennyson Pioneer

Mrs. J. M. Stewart, 77, of Tennyson, died at 3:10 p.m. Friday in Clinic-Hospital in San Angelo.

Funeral services were at 3 p.m. Saturday in Johnson-Cox Funeral Chapel. Burial followed in the Fairview cemetery here.

Mrs. Stewart was born in Bander County. She married Mr. Stewart in 1896. She had been a member of the Methodist Church since early childhood.

Survivors include her husband; two sons, Horace L. Stewart and Eugene A. Stewart, both of San Angelo; seven daughters, Mrs. W. V. Brashear of Sweetwater, Mrs. T. V. Brashear and Mrs. W. D. Latham, both of San Angelo, Mrs. L. R. Stuckey of Hermleigh, Mrs. Wilma Carwile of Sanco and Mrs. J. T. Conner and Miss Bessie Stewart, both of Tennyson; two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Argenson of Taft, Calif., Mrs. J. L. Bean and Mrs. W. D. Dupree, both of San Angelo; 17 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Edmiastons' Loss In Burglary Will Total $600-$700

Another burglary startled residents of this area Saturday morning. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Edmiaston, on the Ballinger highway southeast of Bronte, was ransacked and the Edmiastons estimated their loss between $600 and $700. The burglary occurred some time Saturday morning between the time the Edmiastons left for town for work and when they returned home at noon.

A large amount of clothing and other items were taken, including some food from the refrigerator. Runnels and Coke County officials were investigating the case but no arrests had been made at press time this week.

TO ATTEND FAIR

The homemaking and agriculture students of Bronte High school will leave at 4 a. m. Saturday morning for the State Fair at Dallas. Opening day at the Fair is designated as Rural Youth Day. The group plans to spend the day taking in the sights and most of the girls plan to attend the Ice Capades. The group will return Saturday night.

AD-LIB-BEN

The few persons who are interested in the Bronte PTA say the meeting and program set for next Tuesday night is a "do-or-die" deal. They say if only a handful of people show up that the PTA will be disbanded and the services it renders to the school and community will have to be done without.

A top notch speaker has been secured for the occasion. Delbert Downing is one of the best. We heard him at a press convention in Midland a few years ago, and he can have you rolling in the aisles one minute and strike home a serious point the next. We heartily recommend that you go hear him, whether or not you are interested in the PTA.

Everybody now days has too many things to do, too many places to go, and no doubt it is a chore to go to PTA meetings. However, we believe there should be enough persons in Bronte who can spare a couple of hours once a month to keep this organization alive. It has done a wealth of good for the Bronte Schools. The landscaping around the new building was purchased by this organization, they bought equipment for the audio-visual department of the school, and have purchased many books and other equipment for the library. Besides, what are we going to do for somebody to put on a Halloween Carnival each year? Everybody has fun at this big PTA fund raising event and we hate to see it dropped.

We hear that even some of the teachers in the Bronte School can't be bothered to go to PTA meetings. Frankly, we think that's a shame. This certainly isn't true of all our teachers, but we have heard some pretty strong criticism on this score.

City officials say they are still waiting on a report from engineers regarding a sewer system for Bronte. We are most anxious to learn what they found out on their latest survey of the situation, and apparently, we're not the only ones. People ask us every day, "How is the sewer system coming along?" Lots of interest is being shown in this project. At least a dozen people have told us in so

GUEST EDITORIAL

I once heard a story about a farmer who got so interested in watching the cockle burs that were taking his neighbor's field that when he finally turned around to go about his own plowing the sunflowers had covered his own field and he couldn't even see his plow.

It seems to me that this may be the case with us who call ourselves citizens of Bronte. We have all become so engrossed in watching what is going on in the schools of Little Rock that we have practically forgotten what is going on here.

Please let me remind you!

There are several ways of looking at the situation. We all like to think that we are 100% loyal Americans, dedicated to the causes of freedoms. Moreover a good percentage of these believe that the Christian principle of living our lives to the best of our abilities is one of the jobs that we have to do. Another group, few in number, are still around, and are those who care little about loyalty or Christian principles but are shrewd enough to see that in the struggle for life, nature demands that we equip ourselves in the best way possible for that struggle.

And this brings us back to the schools. In our grandfather's day education was an out and out luxury. Not too many decades ago, it was considered nice to be able to finish high school and well to go to college if possible.

TODAY THERE IS NO REAL CHOICE. The world has become so technical, is moving at such a fast pace, (and promises to continue in this trend) that the youth of today are bound to seek a college education. No matter which category in which we place ourselves, our children must be afforded the opportunity and given the sense of urgency for obtaining as complete an education as is humanly possible. College training is fast becoming a practical necessity for all; and college educations call for firm elementary and secondary foundations. This we are not giving our children to the utmost of our ability here in Bronte. The whys' and wherefores' of the situation got pretty touchy and they hit awfully close to home. But this last week I saw the Parent Teachers Association of Bronte almost die because the people of Bronte did not feel enough responsibility for the educational welfare of their children to attend.

AND THIS IS NO TIME TO BLAME THE TEACHERS — OR THE CHILDREN — OR THE ADMINISTRATION — OR THE SCHOOL BOARD — although there is undoubtedly some blame that must attach itself in all of these instances. As I see it from here, the primary blame comes home to roost with those of us who call ourselves parent.

We are pleased to have the school baby sit with our children nearly eight hours a day. We do not even mind the youngsters' absorbing some education, if it

A Capsule History of American Journalism

About one-fourth of the world's newspapers are published in the United States, and likewise we have about a fourth of the aggregate newspaper circulation of the world. All this sprang from very humble beginnings.

In the little town of Boston 267 years ago, an English refugee who had been in jail in London for publishing a pamphlet of which government disapproved, issued a little paper called Publick Occurrences. The refugee's name was Benjamin Harris and his paper (which had been intended to be a semi-monthly) was promptly "disallowed" by the royal governor, who was offended by some of the items in the newsy little sheet.

So that was that for the next 14 years. By 1704 Boston was the largest town in the American colonies with 10,000 people, and the Scotsman John Campbell, postmaster, began a modest weekly called the News-Letter, which continued about 70 years. The canny, careful Campbell submitted to government censorship and kept out of trouble.

As other papers were started in the various colonies, they often had trouble with the authorities. The most spectacular case involving freedom to print was that of John Peter Zenger and his New York Weekly Journal. New York's royal governor Cosby was a tyrant whose greed led him into various kinds of wrongdoing, and Zenger's paper was the fearless spokesman of attack on him and his administration. The editor went to jail for nine months, but in August 1735 he was acquitted in a famous trial the report of which did much to kindle the spirit of liberty in the colonies.

The two foremost colonial journalists were Benjamin Franklin and Isaiah Thomas. As a boy Franklin wrote for his brother's New England Courant. He did this secretly, slipping his manuscripts under the office door at night, for he knew that since he was only an apprentice his brother would laugh at his attempts at authorship; as it was, his essays made a hit. Later he ran away from Boston and set up as printer in Philadelphia. He made the Pennsylvania Gazette one of the best newspapers in the colonies.

Thomas was also a runaway apprentice, who later became famous as the editor of the Massachusetts Spy. Like Franklin, whom he admired and imitated, he was a many-sided character.

The 18th century papers commonly had four pages not much larger than letterhead size. They paid little attention to local news, but were much concerned with doings in other colonies and overseas. They carried some advertising, all single column width, without much display. In the revolutionary period they gained prestige as formers of public opinion. This continued to later years; the Federalist papers of Hamilton, Madison and Jay, for example, first appeared as a newspaper series.

First daily newspaper was Benjamin Towne's Pennsylvania Evening Post, 1783; but in the next few years many better and longer-lived dailies sprang up in the larger cities. The first dailies were established mainly as "advertisers" to serve the mercantile classes. But once set going, it was likely to get into politics, for the first third of the 19th century was an era of rabid partisanship in the press. Indeed, the dominance of party prejudice makes these years a kind of "dark ages" of American journalism.

The emergence of the "penny press" in the mid-30's, led by the New York Sun, heralded a slowly growing independence from partisan control, an emphasis on local news, more realistic reporting, and a greater journalistic liveliness. Thus in some respects modern journalism seems to stem from James Gordon Bennett's New York Herald, which was begun as a penny paper in 1837. Bennett was a great innovator, and his boldness and success astounded his contemporaries; but he lacked the moral greatness of Horace Greeley, who was determined that all new ideas should have a hearing and who crusaded for the abolition of slavery, the building of the West, and the temperance cause.

Meantime, journalism had flourished in the South and West. The New Orleans Picayune had sent its editor George W. Kendall to cover the Mexican War and to become the first professional war correspondent. Our Civil War was covered more thoroughly by eye witness correspondents than any war up to that time. It was after that war that the Atlanta Constitution gained prominence under Henry W. Grady, of "New South" fame, and the Louisville Courier-Journal became a great paper under the brilliant and fiery Watterson.

In the midwest, Joseph Medill built up the Chicago Tribune (founded 1847) to dominate the morning field in the 70's and 80's. Another great journalist, Melville E. Stone, founded the Chicago Daily News (1876) as an evening penny paper. In Kansas City William Rockhill Nelson started a two-cent paper destined to fame, the Kansas City Star. E. W. Scripps founded a chain of penny papers beginning with the Cleveland Press (1878) and other midwestern dailies; it became one of the most powerful groups in the country under the Scripps-Howard name. On the Pacific Coast James King, of the San martyr for orderly government in Francisco Bulletin, became a 1856, the De Young boys started the San Francisco Chronicle as a theater program (1865), and Harvey W. Scott became famous as editor of the Portland Oregonian for nearly half a century.

News services followed the telegraph wires. The Associated Press was begun by six New York papers in 1848; for many years it was controlled by that group. The modern United Press grew out of the Scripps-McRae Press Association, begun in 1897.

Less spectacular than the metropolitan papers were the weeklies and small dailies that served the rural towns, farming areas and small cities. There were 12,000 of them by 1890, the number having tripled in less than 20 years. They were intimate, well read, influential, devoted to community service. The National Editorial Association, composed of such papers, was founded in 1885.

Charles A. Dana made a great success of the New York Sun in the 1870's; it was notably well written and "sprightly," a newspaperman's newspaper. But it was eclipsed in the 80's when Joseph Pulitzer, fresh from a great success with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, bought the New York World and started a new era in American journalism marked by larger papers, big circulations, better news coverage, sensationalism, and the "Sunday supplements" that grew into the big Sunday papers. W. R. Hearst, who had served a brilliant apprenticeship with the San Francisco Examiner, came to town in 1855, bought the Journal, and contested the New York field with Pulitzer. The result was a period of "yellow journalism" characterized by sensation, "scareheads," and a jingoistic propaganda preceding the Spanish-American war. Hearst later expanded his newspaper holdings widely, buying or founding 42 daily papers and at one time (1937) owning as many as 25.

The "yellow journalism" episode was ended by public satiety and the success of the New York Times under Adolph S. Ochs. That paper had been notable for the early editorship of Henry J. Raymond and its later crusade against the Tweed Ring; but it was in a receivership when Ochs took it over in 1896, emphasizing news that was "fit to print" and documentary reports. When he made it a penny paper in 1908, success came with a rush.

The advent of the tabloids in the 1920's brought a later wave of sensationalism which eventually subsided to such a degree that it could not be said to characterize tabloid journalism in general. Two grandsons of Medill, Joseph M. Patterson and R. R. McCormick, founded the leading "tab", the New York Daily News; but Patterson became its brilliant editor, while McCormick ran the highly successful Chicago Tribune. Coverage of two world wars and a depression was the major accomplishment of the American press in the first half of the 20th century. In World War II the U. S. War department accredited 1186 American newsmen, and the Navy department 460 more. This was probably the best reported war in history.

Features of American newspaper history in the 20th century have been the consolidations of papers and increases in costs. Boosting rates never quite keeps pace with higher costs. The American Newspaper Guild has since 1933 been an effective bargaining union on the editorial side, but a large newspaper deals with scores of unions.

The sense of professional responsibility among newspaper workers and managers has developed notably in the last half century. Schools of journalism, scores of which now offer valuable programs in leading educational institutions, have been helpful in this direction. The American Newspaper Publishers Association was founded in 1887, and the American Society of Newspaper Editors in 1922; the latter adopted an important ethical code, "The Canons of Journalism."

In a rapidly changing world of communication, the newspaper has more than held its own; and in one form or another it will persist as long as humanity keeps its hunger for new and information.

James Vernon Andrews, who is attending Texas Tech in Lubbock, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Andrews, over the weekend.

Voleta Harwell Weds David Emory Dixon In Church Ceremony

The First Baptist Church in Bronte was the scene Saturday night, Sept. 28, for the wedding of Miss Voleta Mae Harwell to David Emory Dixon, Jr. The double ring ceremony was read at 7:30 p.m. by the Rev. Maynard Rogers, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Miles, and former Bronte pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harwell of Robert Lee and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dixon, Sr. of Rocksprings.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white chantilly lace over white satin featuring a boat neckline. The bouffant skirt was ballerina length. Her finger-tip veil was attached to a cap outlined with seed pearls. She wore a necklace and matching ear rings, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of carnations and tube roses, centered with an orchid atop a white Bible.

Her sister, Mrs. Ike Billings of Del Rio, was matron of honor. Miss Nona Beth Haney of Roscoe, cousin of the bride, and Miss Carolyn Hall of San Angelo College, an ex-roommate of the bride, were bridesmaids.

Douglas Dixon of Post served his brother as best man. Jack Thomason of Robert Lee, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Ushers were Ika Billings of Del Rio, brother-in-law of the bride, and John Hunter of San Angelo College.

Miss Faith Rogers of Miles was organist and accompanied Mrs. Douglas Brown of Bronte, who sang "O Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer."

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church at which the bride's parents were hosts.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will live in San Antonio where he is employed as a bookkeeper for the Goodyear Tire Co.

Mrs. Dixon is a graduate of Robert Lee High School and attended San Angelo College where she was affiliated with Lambda Tau and Phi Theta Kappa sororities.

But what teacher can teach a child who has not the sense of urgency for getting an education? And this seems to be precisely what the matter is. We in Bronte have so de-emphasized the importance of an education in our homes, in our thinking, that our children do not feel that it is really important.

BUT WHO IS GOING TO FEED THE PEOPLE, YOU, ME, OUR CHILDREN — 25 years from now? Population is growing by geometric progression; food production is decreasing rapidly. Do you think we can feed a starving populace with the endeavors of people who are unable to cope with the problems of their day because they were not given the opportunity for education? Look at it this way: the first law of nature is self-preservation. When man gets hungry he eats or at least tries to. When the day comes that our posterity must cope with such problems, how will they get their food and other necessities? Will it be by the God-given powers which they have, developed through modern educative processes, or will it be by killing each other to take by force, because we have taught them no other way? Far-fetched? Not at all.

We bray loud and long about our freedoms here in this wonderful country. BUT THESE FREEDOMS

DO NOT INCLUDE THE LICENSE TO DO NOTHING. Freedom, by its very definition, needs careful guarding and constant use. We have in past decades been as proud of our educational freedom as we have our religious freedom. It is high time we got down off our fence and quit watching the cockle-burs in Little Rock. The sun flowers have just about hid the plow in Bronte.

Next Tuesday night at 8 p. m., in the school auditorium, the Parent Teachers Association will meet once more, to try to come alive, that through its offices we may show our interest in our school, back our teachers and administration, and assert ourselves about our desires for our children's educations. Our absence or our presence will indicate our sense of responsibility to our children.

Mrs. L. B. Knudson of San Moreno, California is here visiting relatives, including Mrs. Matthew Caperton and Mrs. Jim Brown. She came last week especially to attend the Fred McDonald funeral. Marlon McCutchen is home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. McCutchen. He was discharged recently from the Navy after 21 months service. He had been stationed in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ratliff of Andrews are spending a week of their vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ratliff.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor:

We have had a lot of people ask us why the front of the Bronte Enterprise is always dirty and crickets all over the front side walk. Don't they ever sweep? All I could tell them was that I guess they did not have a broom so one party left 25c to help pay for one for them. Best wishes for a clean sidewalk. — C. E. Bruton.

(Editor's Note: We asked for letters to the editor. Looks like we got it — in the neck!)

Dear C. E.: I'm sorry about those crickets, but as a matter of fact, I thought they were yours and you swept them over on our sidewalk, cause you know good and well we wouldn't bother them. As for not having a broom, you know better than that. You helped us move several years ago and you're bound to have seen that broom. We've still got it and it's still in real good shape.

As for contributions, we'd appreciate it if everybody would turn them over directly to us. These judges get pretty much in the habit of operating on a percentage basis and we're just not gonna pay it. — The Editor.

P. S. Keep the letters to the editor coming. They liven up the paper, reflect public opinion on current issues, and as can be seen above, do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the editor or this newspaper.

FOOTBALL PROFITS GOOD

High School principal Joe Simpson reported this week the receipts have been good at the two home football games this season.

In the first home game, with Eden, total gate was $373.60, while expenses amounted to $225.00, leaving a total of $148.00. In the game with Stamford B, the total gate was $266.10. Expenses ran to $194.15, leaving a net of $71.95.

Copelands Get $58,000 as Pay For Plant Site

A deed was filed for record here last week which completed sale of 59.85 acres of land on Oak Creek Lake to West Texas Utilities Co. Chas. Copeland, the owner, received $58,000 for the property.

A jury in County Court earlier in the week had fixed the valuation at $60,000. Previously a special commission had set the figure at $61,895.

The final sale price was reached after Copeland deducted $2,000 for a ranch house which has been occupied by his son, Vernon.

The warranty deed was signed by Charles Copeland and Vernon Copeland and their wives. The Copelands are to retain ownership of all oil and mineral rights.

A cash payment of $10,000 was made, while the remainder will be paid in four annual payments of $12,000 each, drawing 3% interest.

The land is situated on the south side of the reservoir and the land is to be used by West Texas Utilities Co. as a site for a new multi-million dollar generating plant.

Mrs. C. Black and Miss Ella Clyde Black spent the weekend in Zephyr visiting Mrs. Black's niece, Mrs. Andy Andrews, and family.

County Agents News Column

By Sterling Lindsey, County Agent and James Coffman, Assoc. Agent

High production, long period of lay, low death loss and good feed efficiency are the "bread and butter" of the present-day egg producer. If any of these are neglected, the result is a lower profit. The modern hen, they say, is bred to lay at a high rate, but skillful management must be practiced to gain maximum profits. Only healthy pullets should go into the laying house. Give them ample ventilation and 14 hours of light a day to increase egg production.

Health is important. If a disease appears, a prompt and reliable diagnosis should be made. Carefully check some birds each week for external parasites, and if found, begin treatment at once. At the first signs of cannibalism or feather picking, debeak the birds. Cull sick or injured birds for four or five months after birds are in production and dispose of dead ones by completely burning or using a disposal pit.

Gather eggs at least three times a day and if possible store them at 55 degrees F. to help preserve egg quality. Keep a good set of records. They are so important that an operation may fail without them. Sanitation must be practiced in a floor operation. The best prevention of disease and parasites is clean and sanitary living conditions. Use about three inches of litter on the floor and give each bird about three square feet of floor space. Provide four to six inches of feeder space and one inch of water space for each bird. Furnish one nest for every four hens and keep non-layers out of the flock. Do not mix young pullets with old hens.

A hen in a cage depends on the producer for food, water and proper living conditions. Remember this and give them the care they deserve in regard to sanitation, ventilation, feed, water and disease and parasite control.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bell and Kay of Kermit visited in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Bell over the weekend.

Rev. B. B. Edmiaston, by special invitation, attended and participated in an all-day service of gospel song at Hobbs, Texas, last Sunday where outstanding singers from various points in Texas, including Abilene, Sweetwater and Dallas, and from Clovis and Hobbs, New Mex., took part.

A carload of Bronte residents traveled to Lubbock last weekend where they visited relatives and attended the A&M-Texas Tech football game. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Caperton visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dean Caperton. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Percifull met their son, Raymond Percifull, and family of Laveta, Colo., in Lubbock and visited with them. Mrs. Ben Reeves went along to visit her daughter in the South Plains city.

being able to muster enough yardage to do any damage against the other team.

Late in the third stanza, the Bullpups started a drive that took them close to the Longhorns goal line. Taking over on their 32, the Stamford boys used a strong effective running attack to move the ball deep in Bronte territory. Until his injury, Mark Hinson displayed fine running form as he swept the Bronte ends for good yardage. After being taken from the game, Hinson's teammates took to the air and Dean Black brought the drive to an end with an interception on the one-yard line.

Operating from this point, the Longhorns succeeded in running out the clock as they wrapped up their third victory by the score of 6-0. The win gave the Longhorns a 3-1 season's record.

many words, "Yes, I'll vote for it because I know I'm going to have to buy a new septic tank before long, and I think the sewer system would be cheaper." That's a practical reason for being for the proposal, and there are many more. Main one is that every town needs a sewer system, and must have one if it is to attract very many new residents.

While on the subject of civic work, we'd like to pass this little compliment along to you.

Mrs. J. A. Percifull said a man from somewhere back east stopped in their drug store for a drink the other day who had come several thousand miles. He told her that Bronte was the cleanest and nicest looking little town he'd run across. Thanks, stranger.

We regret that we could not publish the remainder of the letter from Mrs. W. A. DeReimer, concerning her Switzerland trip, this week. Other items crowded it out but will try to get it in next week. Such letters are always interesting and we are happy to have them from anyone. When you receive an interesting letter from some of your relatives overseas, won't you share it with our readers? Right now, we have another concerning a trip to Paris, France, which we will publish when we finish this one.

"After the Game"
Party Held at Baptist Church

The fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church was the site of a successful "after the game" party last Thursday night, following the contest with Stamford B team. Eighty-four teen-agers, three to four times as many as were expected, were present, along with ten adults. The young people were entertained until after 11 o'clock.

Everyone was surprised as he walked in the door to find baby pictures hanging everywhere. A contest to identify all the babies was won by Brenda Faulk and her partner and members of the group had lots of fun finding their own pictures.

Two other games were played. The first required two "football teams." A ping pong ball was carried in a tablespoon held in the mouth from one side of the room to the other by each member of the team. The other game saw those playing trying to throw a long balloon, used as a football, over the "goal post."

Refreshments were served to all the tired "players" and "fans." They consisted of hot chocolate and lollypop puppies.

The teen-agers said "thanks" to Gandy's for furnishing them with five gallons of chocolate milk and to the ladies of the church who planned and supervised the party, and furnished the wieners.

An "after the game" party will be sponsored next week by the First Methodist Church. Other churches in town will have a turn at giving one of the parties during the football season.
