Mrs. R. H. Reaves Dies in Austin

Mrs. R. H. Reaves, former Blackwell resident, died early Thursday morning in Austin, where she and her husband had lived for the past year and a half.

Funeral arrangements were not complete at press time, but services were planned for some time Friday afternoon at the Blackwell Baptist Church. Cliff Funeral Home of Bronte is in charge of arrangements. Burial will be in Blackwell cemetery.

Mrs. Reaves was born March 15, 1884. She was the former Ruth Waggoner and was married to Mr. Reaves in Scranton, May 24, 1906. They moved to Trent and were in the dry goods business until 1916 when they moved to Blackwell. Mr. Reaves engaged in the grocery business and was for a time state representative from the district where Blackwell is located.

In Jan., 1957, they sold out at Blackwell and moved to Austin, where Mr. Reaves is employed in the state capitol.

Mrs. Reaves is survived by her husband; two sons, Ross Reaves of Plains and Robert Reaves of Houston; two daughters, Mrs. O-pal Holden of Austin and Mrs. Mary Louise Curry of Tahoka; and nine grandchildren.

AD-LIB-BEN

Tomorrow is the big day and we would like to use a small amount of space in this week's Enterprise to remind you of the importance of casting your ballot.

The whole basis of our government, city, county, state and National, is based on the vote of the people and it is your one opportunity to have your say about how things are run for the next two and four years.

If you don't vote tomorrow, you have lost your say before you get started.

We are predicting a big vote—possibly 1200 in Coke County this year.

We've heard of spilling the milk, but hadn't heard about spilling the cows but it happened this week when a trailer wheel broke down for J. A. Percifull. The trailer turned over with 3 cows and 3 calves. They weren't hurt.

We missed a good story last week when we didn't mention the fact that 270,000 lady bugs came through the Bronte post office last week. They were bound for a farm over close to Norton, where they will be turned loose to help control cotton insects. We are anxious to see how the Lady bugs fare and if they do their new owner any good.

where in this issue of The Enterprise is a notice from County Democratic Chairman R. B. Allen of Silver calling the conventions.

Duty of the precinct conventions is to elect delegates to attend the county convention which is set for Aug. 2 in Robert Lee. Each voting precinct is allotted one delegate for each 25 votes cast for Gov. Price Daniel in the general election in 1956.

Precinct conventions are called to order by precinct chairman, or in his absence, by any qualified voter.

Every qualified voter in each voting precinct is eligible to attend his precinct convention.

Fort Chadbourne Voters To Cast Ballots at Bronte

Voters living in the Fort Chadbourne voting precinct will cast their ballots at Bronte this year. Coke County Commissioners Court recently voted to discontinue the voting box there after being requested to do so by residents of the precinct. Reason for abolishing the Fort Chadbourne box is that there is no public building in the precinct in which to hold elections.

Fort Chadbourne precinct residents will cast their ballots at the city hall in Bronte.

Mrs. Anna L. Whitfield and Miss Nannie Marie Pearson spent last week visiting relatives and friends in Lubbock, Idalou and Lorenzo. Mrs. Leslie Fields of Brownwood was a guest in their home over last weekend.

ELECTION PARTY SET FOR SAT. NIGHT

Everybody is invited to the election party in front of The Enterprise office Saturday night. A blackboard will be erected in front of the newspaper office and returns will be posted just as soon as they are received.

All election judges in the county are asked to call in their returns to The Enterprise just as soon as they are through counting the ballots. Just call GREEN wood 3-2001 collect as soon as possible.

Surplus Food Delivery Set

First distribution of surplus food commodities in Coke County has been set for next Wednesday, starting at 9 a.m.

Judge Jeff Dean states that 105 persons have qualified to receive the six varieties of food stuffs. This is included in the July allotment and another distribution for next month will be made early in August.

Persons certified to receive commodities are advised to inquire at the court house after 9 a.m. Wednesday at which time they will be advised where they can pick up their packages.

A big turn-out has been predicted for the First Democratic Primary election Saturday. Three hotly contested county races and two precinct races, as well as district and state contests are to be voted on by the people in eastern Coke County.

Unusual interest in the election this year was evidenced by the large number of applications for absentee ballots. County Clerk J. L. Tinkler said Wednesday that a total of 177 absentee ballot applications had been received by his office. He said so far as he could determine only four had not been returned, making a total of 173 absentee votes.

Bronte led the pack with number of absentee applications with 87. Robert Lee followed with 42 and Silver had 32. Smaller boxes in the county stacked up as follows: Walnut 1, Tennyson 1, Green Mountain 6, Wildcat 2, Sango 2, Juniper 2, and Hayrick 2.

With 1116 paid poll taxes in the county, the vote could total more than 1200, since there are quite a large number of persons overage who do not have to pay a poll tax.

A three-way race is coming up for the office of county judge. Jeff Dean, the incumbent, is opposed by Ernest Ivey and W. W. Thetford, both of Bronte.

Charlie Bocking, of Bronte, is running against J. L. Tinkler of Robert Lee, who is presently the county and district clerk.

In the race for county treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude Gray, the incumbent, is opposed by Mrs. Lillian Caraway and Mrs. Annie L. Forehand, both of Robert Lee.

In precinct 2, Howard Brock present commissioner, is opposed by C. E. McGuire.

Five contestants are seeking the position of justice of the peace in precinct 2. They are Charlie Knierim, Ben Timmons, Earl D. (Pete) Nutter, George Wrinkle and Jess Liles.

In precinct 4 (Southeast Coke County) Commissioner Claude Ditmore is unopposed in his bid for re-election.

In district races, the position of state representative is the only one being contested. A. J. Bishop of Runnels County, the incumbent, is opposed by Parker Nunley of Coleman County. State Senator Dorsey Hardeman is unopposed, and Congressman O. C. Fisher has no one running against him.

There is considerable interest in the U. S. Senate race where Ralph Yarborough, who has had the job since a special election two years ago, is opposed by William Blakeley. Blakeley had the job for a few months when Gov. Allen Shivers appointed his as interim senator during the time between Price Daniel's resignation and Yarborough's election.

Apparently generating less interest in this area is the race for governor. The incumbent, Price Daniel, has for opponents W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel, Henry B. Gonzalez and Joe A. Irwin.

City Council Has Called Meeting

Members of the Bronte city council were called together in a special called session Tuesday afternoon. Main purpose of the meeting was to discuss a note which was due the First National Bank in Bronte. The council voted to renew the note and extend the maturity time for six months.

Dr. Dean Adams was appointed health officer for the city. He succeeds Dr. John R. Harris, who has held the office for many years. No remuneration is provided for the city health officer.

Members of the council also had some discussion of the right of way for widening and re-building U. S. Highway 277 through the city limits of Bronte. All of the right-of-way has been obtained except for two or three tracts.

Mayor J. A. Stephenson presided at the meeting and councilmen present were C. E. Bruton, Bill Thomas and Bob Wilson.

UNCLE HUIE from HOG CREEK says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
I was shocked to read in a magazine last night where Europeans don't pay much attention to Columbus Day. I never knew before that the whole world didn't celebrate on that occasion.
Of course, over here we don't pay no attention to it. The banks sometimes close up fer that day, but they're closing up all the time anyhow, so we can't judge the importance of Columbus Day by whether of not they shut down. But over in Europe they ought to to make a triple-decker out of that day and I personally would appreciate them Europeans paying a little more attention to it.
I wish you would read up on history and find out how them folks in Europe got along afore Columbus discovered America. Where did they borrow their money from? Who did they use fer reserves to throw in when they was about to lose a war? Who come to their rescue after they had won and didn't have nothing to live on? Who rescued civilization ever twenty year in them days? I wish you'd look these things up, Mister Editor, and let me know.
I reckon it was a bad day fer the Indians when Columbus discovered America, but it was a pretty good day fer you and me, but what it was to us ain't nothing compared to what it was fer them Europeans and I wish you would find out just how they is celebrating the day over there. Do the banks all close up that day and the governments refuse to ask fer a loan from the United States on that hallowed occasion? If they ain't celebrating proper, I fer one am going to complain.

If I was a European I would put Columbus several notches above Napoleon and Bismark and Julius Caesar. From Europe's standpoint, Columbus discovered a gold mine, to heck with the East Indies or where ever he thought he was going.
Things was sorter slow up at the country store Saturday night. As a rule, the boys up there ain't above giving a good rumor a little momentum, but it was too hot even fer that. My neighbor announced that his grandson had won a scholarship to some college. He was mighty proud fer him. I knowed just how he felt, just like I felt that time my hog won a prize at the county fair.
Yours truly,
Uncle Huie

BILL BLAKLEY

Texans like a public official who is independent in his thinking and doesn't have to account for his actions to anyone except the voters themselves.

William A. Blakley is such a man. Of his race for U. S. Senate, the Port Arthur News says: "He entered this race by his own decision. He is beholden to nobody. He doesn't have to promise special interest groups anything and he wants to represent all of Texas, not any political splinter or fragment or faction above the rest . . ."

A vote for Bill Blakley on July 26 is a vote for returning to Washington a man who will truly represent Texas.

Marlin Mackey Owns Last Week's Mystery Farm

Last week's mystery farm is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Mackey. It is located 2½ miles east of Bronte, to the south of the Ballinger highway. The farm has been known through the years as the George Keesee place and was the home of Mrs. Mackey's parents and where she grew up. Mr. and Mrs. Mackey bought the farm in 1952.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackey lived on this place for 14 years prior to moving to Ralls a few years ago. After living in the South Plains town a few years, they moved back here and have lived on this place the past two years.

When Mr. and Mrs. Mackey moved back to Bronte from Ralls, they built a new house on the farm and also constructed a new cage layer house. At the present time they are engaged in the egg production business and have recently gone into production of registered Hampshire hogs. They also run a few cows and calves.

This place has 131 acres in it. All of the cultivated acreage, 65 acres, is in the soil bank. Mr. Mackey is a cooperator with the Coke County Soil Conservation District and has terraced all of his cropland. Range land has been improved by building several tanks and by clearing all undesirable brush.

Mr. and Mrs. Keesee raised their family on this place. Besides Mrs. Mackey, they had a daughter, Claudia, who is now Mrs. J. D. Huffaker of Bronte, and a son, Oren Keesee, who was killed in an auto accident a few years ago. Mr. Keesee died in 1931 and Mrs. Keesee in 1952.

Mr. Mackey, along with his son, Dolan, has other farming interests in Swisher County, near Happy. They have a 480-acre farm there. Dolan is farming the land and the two are partners in stock raising. Dolan is married and has a son, Tony, 3 years old.

Name Judges To Preside At July Primary

Polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. in the Texas Democratic primary election to be held next Saturday, July 26.

With consolidation of Fort Chadbourne with Bronte there remain 13 voting boxes in Coke County, in addition to absentee ballots which are also counted separately.

Each voting precinct will have a judge, an assistant judge and two clerks. Boxes having more than 100 voters are assigned double election boards, or eight persons.

At Robert Lee, Bronte and Silver, where an extra set of officials will be on duty, vote counting will be carried on throughout the day, but results must be kept secret until the polls close.

Election officials are paid $1.00 an hour. Costs of holding the primary election are paid by the Democratic County Executive Committee which assessed each candidate 3% of the annual salary of the office which they are seeking. The total raised in this county to cover election expenses of both the July primary and an August runoff was around $1,800, according to R. B. Allen, County Democratic chairman.

Following is a list of election judges, who appoint their own assistants:

- Robert Lee, Bryan Yarbrough.
- Bronte, D. K. Glenn.
- Tennyson, Sam Gaston.
- Divide, Fred McCabe.
- Sanco, Bryan Gartman.
- Silver, H. L. Bloodworth.
- Green Mt., Dave King.
- Wildcat, M. D. Chumley.
- Olga, R. V. Copeland.
- Walnut, Carl Munn.
- Lometa, Eugene Brooks.
- Hayrick, L. C. Robbins.
- Juniper, Homer Cornelius.
- Absentee — A. J. Kirkpatrick.

Counting of the absentee ballots will start at 1 p. m. Saturday. These ballots are handled through the county clerk's office and will be turned over to the election board when the counting starts.

Cotton Insect Control Day Next Tuesday

By STERLING LINDSEY

Two cotton insect control field demonstrations will be held in the County on Tuesday, July 29, for the benefit of the farmers in the County interested in insect control.

A field demonstration will be held on the Jesse Parker farm 5 miles north of Bronte on the Sweetwater highway, at 9:30 a. m. for operators in the East end of the county. Another demonstration will be held at 2 p. m. in R. C. Patersons cotton field on the Wilson Bryan farm, 2 miles west of Robert Lee to assist operators in that area of the county.

Mr. Frank Garner, Extension Entomologist, of College Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be on hand to conduct the demonstrations. The meeting will begin with a check by Mr. Garner of the field for cotton insects. Then he will demonstrate how to look for the various insects, where to find them and how to check a cotton field. The sprays and dusts to use to control the insects found will also be discussed.

Following the insect survey a demonstration will be given on the proper way to spray or dust. Mr. Garner will discuss height of the spray boom, nozzles, atmospheric conditions, tractor speeds, and other points important to effective insect control.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arrott left last Thursday to spend the weekend in Arriba, Colorado with their son, LeDrew, and family. The LeDrew Arrotts are living there temporarily where they are cutting wheat.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Adair last weekend included Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Adair of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. George Faulk and family of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Phillips and family and Mrs. Clifford Baker and children of San Angelo.

This is National Farm Safety for 1958. There is no better time than now to check for hazards in our homes and on the farms. Many times it is the "unloaded" gun or the safe implement that causes the injury. All of us have them. Some of us escape injury by them some do not.

place annually. More deaths occur on farms each year than in any other major industry. Let's start making rural America a safer place in which to live.

The rains seem to elude us, but we still have to do what we think is best. Cotton insects have done light damage to the cotton as far as we know, but we still have to be prepared for them. If you are a cotton farmer or interested in cotton, we encourage you to attend the cotton insect control meeting to be held Tuesday, July 29, 5 miles north of Bronte, on the Jesse Parker farm. Mr. Frank Garner, Extension Entomologist, will be present to direct the program. We plan to check for insects then give a demonstration on operating a duster or sprayer or possibly both. I think you will enjoy the program and the spraying demonstration should be of interest to you even though you may not be a cotton farmer.

Bagworms are not as prevalent in this area as they are in some other parts of the state, but they can cause heavy damage if they show up. We have had a few questions about them.

If your evergreens have cone shaped cocoons hanging on them, you have bagworms. They can strip a small bush or tree in just a short while. You can control them with one of the following sprays: 2 tablespoons of 40% wettable taxaphene powder in a gallon of water or 2 teaspoons of 40% wettable chlordane powder in a gallon of water or 1 tablespoon of leadarsenate in a gallon of water. Control measures should be started soon, as bagworms are hard to control when they get large and are mature.

Spraying of livestock at regular intervals at this time of the year is a practice employed by many livestock men. Controlling gnats, flies, screw worms, lice and ticks can get your stock to market quicker in better condition. Also, spraying has been known to control the spread of disease.

If you need more information on controlling insect pests on livestock or poultry, give us a ring or see your local insecticide dealer. He will assist you in figuring the spray to use or provide you with a bulletin on the control of insects and diseases of livestock and poultry.

Are you keeping a record of your farm income and expenses? Records can be very useful later in figuring taxes, making plans for the future, figuring social security payments, and securing tax refunds. As Agriculture becomes more intensified, records become more important to the farmer. Simple expense and income entry records can be recorded daily or weekly in a notebook, on a calendar or on the almanac. If you do not keep records, whether you are a cotton farmer or a cattle rancher or a poultryman, we believe you can improve your operation through record keeping and at the same time, be in a better position to improve your operation.

Now is the time of the year for the rancher and farmer to stand back and take a look at their pastures. Proper management of grasses is the "key" as to whether our grasses produce lots of grazing or very little. After a grass is planted or comes up volunteer on rangeland, it will do better if it is not grazed the first year.

After a grass is well established with a good root system, only about 50 percent of the annual production should be grazed off. Grasses which are properly grazed will continue to provide maximum production. Removing over 50 percent of the top growth of a grass plant results in root growth stoppage during the growing season. Little effect is noticed upon the root system as long as half and over of the annual top growth remains. A grass plant is able to grow only as long as its root system is growing. More information on management of grasses can be had by contacting your Coke Soil Conservation service personnel.

Mrs. W. E. Stewart's Letter Is Finished

From Gibraltar we took a three-hour ferry ride out of Europe, into Africa to Tangier. Tangier is a wide-open city of about 150,000 people—1/3 Moslems, 34,000 Europeans, and 25,000 Jews, and the other 41,000 come from everywhere. I enjoyed it here immensely and the beaches are beautiful white sand. I thought it quite funny to see the Moslem women sunbathing on the beach in their masks and robes and colored glasses. The sun couldn't possibly get anyplace except a little on the forehead. We loved it there in the hotel and on the beach, but the people in the town were so irritating because they really were out to get the Almighty Dollar. One unpleasant experience we had was with a guide. He came up to us in the town and asked in lovely English what we were looking for. We wanted a big brass tray to make a coffee table, so he said he had one in his shop. He took us into the Casbah and we walked for about 15 minutes in the small winding streets. As we walked, it changed from his shop to his brother's shop; naturally, it was neither. After arguing with the asking price of $34, we bought it for $22, and then he picked it up and in about 5 minutes we returned to the place he had found us. Short cut, no doubt. Then we had an argument over what to pay him—we gave him 50c, but he wanted a dollar.

We saw many Moslem men, and I'm sure you've seen pictures of them in their baggy pants. I learned that in their religion they believe Mohammed will return to be born of man, and they wear these to be prepared in case he is born of them. In the evening we went to a picturesque place where we sat on low seats with many pillows and heard the native music and saw a dancer who was quite good with balancing. The dancer was a man, as it is against the religious law for women to dance outside of their homes. The next day we visited a palace. It was rather deteriorated, but the gardens were lovely, and I got to see a snake charmer. It was quite a show. He had 2 snakes and allowed them to bite his hands, tongue, and eyelids. Then he took some dry grass and breathed on it, and it caught on fire; and this presumably was from the poison. We met a very interesting English couple here and an internationally famous painter, Francis Bacon (Time had a right-up on him recently.) The Englishman does make-up and hair styling for the movies (and specialized in period hairdressing) and he did the beards and make-up for Gregory Peck and others in "Moby Dick". When I first heard his profession, I immediately thought what a fright I must look, and then I looked at his wife with her peroxide hair standing on end and decided I couldn't look worse. They really were so nice and they live in London and insisted we call them when we come to London.

Oh, yes, I must mention that we drank mint tea here—very good but too sweet; and then the driving was the most frightening thing I've ever seen. The drivers in Spain were bad, but it was just ineptness, and they weren't aggressive; but the people in Tangier would run over you without ever slowing if you weren't fast enough to get out of the way.

We returned to Malaga and visited the cathedral there which had the most beautiful wood carving in their choir that we've seen. We also went to a Spanish movie which was interesting and consolidated every plot I've ever seen.

Our next side trip was to Granada which boasts of one of the foremost tourist attractions in Spain—the Alhambra. This was a place which was the real masterpiece of the Moors and it is beyond description because it is so unique and lovely. It took 7,000 Christian slaves 70 years to make. The inlay and handcarving was a joy to behold. One interesting story concerned a fountain in the harem's quarters. It is told that a man in a royal family fell in love with the queen and too make sure they got the right one, the king had all 38 men of the family beheaded in this fountain. The fountain is stained dark blue, and they say this is because of the blue-blood of the royal family.

Near the Alhambra is the Generalife which is the summer palace, and it too is beautiful with many lovely formal gardens. Granada also has a lovely church with a pipe organ that has 6,000 pipes. Also, here in the church are the tombs of Isabel and Ferdinand, and on top of the tombs are a statue of each lying down, and they are identical except that Isabella's head sinks farther down on the pillow; and when the sculptor was asked why, he said it was because Isabella was the smarter of the two and her brain was heavier. About one-fifth of the population of Granada are Gypsies, and most of them live in caves. We went up at night with a tour to one of the caves to watch the dancing. It was hard to believe it was a cave, as they have them painted and floors and a door put on. It is the only one we went in, and naturally it was one of the nicer ones; but we saw many all through Spain being used as homes.

LETTER FROM SPAIN

From Granada we returned to our cottage, and our next trip we took the whole family to Madrid. We stayed there a week and really enjoyed it—our first night we ate Mexican food at a restaurant owned and run by a Mexican from San Antonio, Texas. Really enjoyed this.

The 2nd day here we went to the American PX shop, and I had such a delightful experience. I got locked in the restroom and spent 45 minutes in the little room. I wore a blister on my hand trying to open it, and they finally tore off part of the door and as I tried to crawl out (I almost got panicky when I saw freedom) a little lady crawled in and immediately opened the door. I felt like hitting her, and then my dear husband informed me he didn't think I tried to open it, so I created quite a scene by bursting out like one of the bulls at the fights. I was so embarrassed, and when I calmed myself, I had to go back and thank the ladies for getting me out.

We went to a circus with the children and to a Jai Lai game which we had both seen in Mexico and Havana, and we managed to eat roast pig and see more dancing. Also, we visited the Prado museum which is one of the most famous of the world.

We went to Toledo to visit a church and a jewelry factory where they make the jewelry like

I sent you. This jewelry is sold all over Spain, and was fascinating to watch them make it all by hand. We went one day to Escorial San Lorenzo which is a monastery, and houses the tombs of almost all of the Spanish Royalty.

We went to a bullfight that was like a comic opera. One of the foremost fighters of Spain displayed such cowardice as I have never seen—he needed a 10 ft. sword as he wasn't going to get any closer to that bull than that if he could help it. I honestly thought the people were going to riot and "boo" him out of the ring. We found out that his father-in-law owned the bullring, so he came in for some remarks also. Then the last bull was terrible and wouldn't charge anything, so I saw another "first". They used all 6 banderillas wrapped in black (they are the colored barbs they use) and this signifies shame on the owner to permit such an animal to be fought. It was a terrible fight, but I am awfully glad we saw it.

We made certain to go to all the sidewalk cafes in the evening after seven and watch the people promenade as this is the custom. The women in Spain are so chic and lovely. Sack dresses and sharp-toed shoes are the rage.

Madrid is the capital of Spain, but Barcelona is the largest city; and it was our last stop. Naturally, I shopped everywhere as they have lovely things and their leather goods are especially cheap—

I bought eight pairs of shoes. Here we saw a church that is the most fantastic thing you'll ever see. It is not completed, and they estimate about 80 years more, if ever. It is the most modernistic and weird thing you can imagine.

Another church which is well-known here, and is a lovely Gothic structure. Ferdinand and Isabella met Columbus in Barcelona when he returned from his discovery of America. In this church is some of the best gold that he brought back, and here is a large baptismal. We were told that Columbus brought 3 Indians back with him from America and they were Christianized and baptized here; then they were returned to America as missionaries to their people.

We really loved everything about Spain, and the people were wonderful to us and so friendly and helpful. I found my Spanish was terrible, but day-by-day a word or so would return. One day a little lady came to the cottage with some strawberries and she left her basket. That evening she came for it, and the maid answered the door, then she called Billy, and then Billy called me and said he didn't know what she wanted but thought she wanted to do our ironing. I'm afraid that was typical of our fumbling around trying to understand, but it was fun.

We left Spain a little deafened by the constant honking, but not sad; because we both felt that sometime we shall return to this country which we loved so much.

Thanks Everybody!

It's been a pleasure for me to visit among the voters in my campaign, and I deeply appreciate the friendly and courteous treatment I have received everywhere.

Mitchell 4-H Girls To Have Outing At Bronte Park

Thirty-five to forty Mitchell 4-H Club girls and their adult leaders will be in Bronte next Thursday night for an overnight camping expedition in the County Park.

Mrs. A. Z. Denman said Wednesday that some of the girls and leaders visited the park recently and were so impressed with the beauty and facilities offered that they wanted to have an overnight outing here.

The girls will cook their own meals while here and the swimming pool will be open for their use during the evening. They will sleep out of doors unless inclement weather drives them indoors.

The girls will leave Friday morning, Aug. 1.
