Encephalitis Scare In Bronte Subsides

Quite a scare was going around Bronte the first of this week when it was learned that two horses quartered in town had fallen victim to encephalitis or sleeping sickness. One of the animals belongs to Dr. and Mrs. John R. Harris and the other to Bill Grant.

Dr. Harris, who is city health officer, assured residents that there was practically no danger of human beings being infected from the sick animal. A number of local residents called physicians in San Angelo and received conflicting opinions concerning the possibility of a person contracting the disease from the horse.

Dr. Harris' opinion, however was backed up by answer to an inquiry sent to the State Health Department. Dr. J. V. Irons, director of laboratories of the state department, wired that people seldom become ill from the Eastern variety of encephalitis, which has been diagnosed as the type the local horses have.

Both the sick animals have been removed to veterinary hospitals in San Angelo. Dr. Harris told The Enterprise Wednesday morning that he had his horse moved, not because there was any danger, but "out of respect for our neighbors" who were alarmed at having the animal close by.

Mayor Royce Lee called a special meeting of the city council Tuesday afternoon to discuss the matter. After hearing from Dr. Harris and several citizens, and reading the telegram from Dr. Irons, the council went on record as favoring a course of action recommended by the State Health Department.

The city was thoroughly sprayed Monday night after it was learned that the horses were ill. The council decided to proceed in its program of spraying and doing everything possible to eliminate mosquitos, which have been named as carriers of encephalitis.

The telegram from Dr. Irons

Longhorns Seek Second Victory

The Bronte Longhorns will return to home ground tonight after being on the road the past two Friday nights. The Bronte football team will host the Mountaineers from Santa Anna in a non-conference game.

Football fortunes of the Longhorns are looking up somewhat this week after their easy victory last Friday at Jim Ned. Head Coach Cecil Toliver said he was pleased with last week's performance and expects the Longhorns to make another good showing Friday. Another win would give the Longhorns a 2-2 season record.

Santa Anna's roster looks as though they may be fielding a good sized ball club. They have only three seniors, but are well supplied with a bountiful collection of ten juniors.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Other District 8-B games scheduled for this weekend include Hermleigh at Rochester, Matador at Jayton, Loraine at Stanton, Robert Lee at Bangs (Saturday) and Stamford B at Trent (Thursday).

Robert Lee, Jayton and Hermleigh continued their winning ways last week with wins as follows: Hermleigh 16, Meadow 0; Robert Lee 56, Melvin 14; and Jayton 39, Forsan 0. Loraine beat Wylie 6-0, and Hamlin B downed Trent 14-0. Robert Lee is still the conference leading scorer with 114 to their opponents' 22.

EDITORIAL

We'll Stay with LBJ

This week The Enterprise would like to join the great number of newspapers—large and small—over Texas and the United States which have come out editorially for the re-election of Lyndon Baines Johnson as President of the United States.

Our stand for Mr. Johnson is a positive one, as we are for him and not just against his opponent, as are several publications which have come out on his side. Since 1948, when LBJ ran for the U. S. Senate the first time, we have backed him personally and as a newspaper.

Mr. Johnson can hardly be called a first-termer, even though he is seeking his first elective term to this high office. Some Presidents have served for one or two full terms and were not as well qualified for the job as he is after serving 11 months.

In spite of our stunned disbelief and apprehension last Nov. 22, when the late John F. Kennedy was gunned down by a ne'er-do-well who had managed to accumulate $12.78 to buy himself a mail order gun, we were relieved to realize that the reins of government had passed from capable hands to other capable hands.

That was a time of deep grief and crisis for our nation and Lyndon B. Johnson provided the leadership needed for us to stand up and move ahead in spite of the dastardly crime which had been committed against the American people.

During the past 11 months Mr. Johnson has not only maintained the status quo, which would have been a masterpiece of management under the circumstances; he has managed to get the support of the Congress and carry out the late Mr. Kennedy's program probably better than the martyred President could have done himself. Mr. Johnson has proved beyond any doubt that he is a man of vision and decision. He has proved that he has patience and fortitude in spite of temptations and pressures to take the easy way out of soul-searching decisions. He has shown by his proposals and program that he is a man of compassion for the unfortunate, and in so doing he is living up to the finest historical concepts of the Democratic Party which he leads.

We certainly don't think that Mr. Johnson is perfect. He is too human for such an attribute as perfection. There are some parts of his platform and program with which we do not agree. But looking at the whole man and the whole program, we believe he is head and shoulders above his adversary in this political battle.

On Nov. 28, 1963, six days after Mr. Johnson took office, we carried the following editorial comment in The Enterprise:

"... Mr. Johnson's long public record proves him to be a strongly patriotic American, a staunch humanitarian with a deep compassion for his less fortunate fellows, and a man who is willing to do the unpopular thing when he thinks it is right. He is a man of the land, Texas land, with deep roots in a heritage which produced so many great Americans.

"We have no qualms about the ability or the character of Lyndon B. Johnson. He is a man who has never been anything but successful in any position he filled. With such a background and with the prayers, support and good wishes of his countrymen, we firmly believe this Tall Texan will not fail us now."

We stand on this statement made last November, and we urge you on Nov. 3 of this year to give your support to the man who can lead our country on toward a greater future. We have already arrived where we are now—let's not stay here—or even worse, slide backward.

"Lamb always tastes good—with a few precautions it tastes superb." Here are a few things to remember to be sure your lamb dishes win you praise as a cook.

Store lamb in coldest part of refrigerator cook according to cut.

In roasting lamb, cook at 300 degrees. Always serve lamb piping hot or very cold.

For more information on lamb, attend the Lamb-O-Rama Thursday, October 1. The program will include the cutting and preparation of lamb. You will receive free recipes. Other attractions will include the showing of wool garments by Miss Wool of Texas, wool product displays, door prizes and samples of lamb. Helpful hints:

It takes 6 medium apples to make a 9-inch pie.

A hot electric light bulb can be used to "iron" tiny puffed sleeves, pockets, gathered yokes, and other hard to get at areas. Work the lighted bulb under and around small section of damp fabric until it is smooth and dry.

The vacuum cleaner — with its hose set to blow instead of suck — is good for drying freshly washed hair and for fluffing pile fabrics such as corduroy and velveteen.

City Youngsters Now Being Attracted to 4-H Club Work

"4-H Clubs are attracting more boys and girls from cities and towns than from rural areas," so reports Floyd Lynch, state 4-H club leader. "Texas 4-H club enrollment is up to 84,000 members. More than 16,000 adult leaders work with Texas 4-H club members, up from 15,000 a year ago," Lynch said at a recent state committee planning meeting for celebration of National 4-H Club Week, Sept. 26-Oct. 3.

"4-H club membership was once primarily concentrated in rural communities, but not so today. Although there are fewer families active in on-farm operations, some 40% of Texas family bread winners are engaged in a vocation of direct or indirect service to agriculture," said Lynch. "Parents and school officials continue to give strong support to local community 4-H Club programs because the movement places emphasis on practical experiences for youth in the fundamentals of the American agri-business system and our democratic constitutional heritage," Lynch added.

History of 4-H club development is typically American. It originated in Texas as a grass roots movement to lift farm family productivity and standards of home living. The boll weevil helped trigger the organization of 4-H. Texas was invaded by the boll weevil from south of the border at the turn of the century. The best defense was believed to be in diversity of agricultural production just in case "king cotton" should be dethroned. The key to many other agricultural enterprises lay in the expansion of in-state feed grain production; in those days that meant growing more corn. County agricultural agents and lay citizens organized boys into what became known as Corn clubs. The youth were issued certified seed and were encouraged to plant an acre according to the latest scientific advice.

Samples from bountiful harvests were entered in county fairs and other competitive events. When the farmers saw the youth were out-producing them, they switched to the new methods of production. Youth led the way into many other new or expanded Texas agricultural enterprises, for example, girls helped extend tomato culture.

County home demonstration agents enrolled girls in Tomato Clubs. The girls were given quality seed and instructions as how to raise tomatoes according to the latest information coming from agricultural research. After each girls' one-eighth of an acre of tomatoes was harvested, the agent hitched up her buggy filled with canning equipment, including a hand soldering iron to seal cans, and traveled from community to community teaching canning.

Canning demonstrations attended by the girls and their mothers introduced the possibility of economical preservation of home grown products and thereby improved farm family diet. Tomatoes canned were often sold by local merchants who returned profits to the Tomato Club girls. The girls reinvested in a flock of chickens, cloth for a dress, or other project to improve the home or self.

Corn and Tomato clubs were merged into what is today called 4-H clubs during the 1920's. The movement still places emphasis on the dignity of labor, the importance of initiative, self-reliance, the contribution of applied science in human progress, and productivity on the part of the individual. America reached a level of temporary agricultural surplus in the 1950's.

Lynch answered the question of why the 4-H club movement is continuing to grow and to attract youth from urban and suburban communities by saying "a youth invests capital, time and talent, must keep accurate records, competes in contests and often sells a completed project for profit or loss. Parents and educators recognize these experiences as the principles of the successful American business system and find in 4-H youth's best opportunity for practical experience in applying these principles. 4-H club members arrive at club decisions through the democratic constitutional processes. Many parents want these kind of youth experiences for their child."

4-H clubs are organized on a neighborhood basis in cities, towns and rural areas. Volunteer adult leaders serve as advisors to the youth in club organization and project activities. Each club member may select one or more of 142 projects or activities. Projects include pets, farm animals, the automobile, home improvement, clothing, foods, photography, identification of insects, horse fitting and showing.

The first state-wide 4-H club membership campaign called "Each One Get One" got under way Sept. 26 and will last for two months. Cdr. Alan Shepard of NASA, and first U.S. astronaut in space, a former 4-H member from New Hampshire, is appearing in TV spot announcements and radio spots urging boys and girls to consider membership during 1964-65.

Local leadership in the Coke County 4-H membership expansion effort includes the County 4-H Council led by Gaylon Pitecock and Ida Lee Parker, co-chairmen. Other officers of the council are Daphne Roe, secretary and Sharon McCutchen, reporter.

Official Memorandum
by
John Connally
Governor of Texas

The development of responsible citizens and leaders for America is a high purpose in 4-H Club work.

The 4-H program stresses the four-fold development of Head, Heart, Hands and Health as well as teaching the latest practices in agriculture and home economics.

Since the 4-H program was inaugurated by the United States government in 1914, the 4-H movement has spread across our nation and built bridges of understanding to more than 76 foreign countries. Members of 4H Clubs learn by conducting projects and participating in 4-H activities. By putting into action what they learn club members improve their homes and communities.

More than 16,000 voluntary adult leaders working with club members provide a key to the success of 4-H. Parents and friends of 4-H give support and encouragement to club members. The Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University, through county extension agents, directs the 4-H club program.

The opportunities offered to 4-H club members to grow in citizenship, leadership and practical skills are especially valuable to them, the State of Texas and the Nation. The 4-H clubs are a proving ground for the training of future leaders.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of September 26-October 3, 1964 as in Texas.

4-H CLUB WEEK

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 11th day of Sept. 1964.

John Connally,
Governor of Texas.

Longhorns Down Jim Ned 28-6
For First Win of the Season

The Longhorns took the opening kickoff at Jim Ned last Friday night to get the football game underway. Doug McCutchen returned the ball to the 41 yard line before the Indians pulled him down. Jerry Don Holcombe made good yardage but his gainer was lost when the Longhorns were penalized five yards.

McCutchen really got loose on the next and took a jaunt down to the Indian 14 before he was tackled. The Longhorns were plagued with penalties and fumbles during the next series of downs and had to give up the ball to the Indians on their 7 yard line. After three tries, the Indians punted and Ron Johns came in to block it and give Bronte possession with a first down on the 2 yard line.

David Glenn, who quarterbacked the entire contest gained a half yard, then the Indians were penalized twice, half the distance to the goal line, before the ball was snapped. On the second play of the series Glenn went over for the touchdown. McCutchen ran the extra points and the score was 8-0.

Big Jim Morrow kicked for the local lads and Mayfield of Jim Ned moved the ball back to his 30 on the run back. The Indians picked up five yards and a 15 yard penalty gave them a first down at midfield. The Jim Ned boys managed to move 11 yards for another first on the Bronte 39, but bogged down on their second attempt and the ball went over on the Longhorn 30.

A nice pass play from Glenn to Holcombe was good for 24 yards, but it was called back and the Longhorns were penalized for offensive holding. Glenn then tossed the ball to Royce Lee for a 26 yard gain and a first down on the Indian 45. Jim Ned was penalized 15 yards for a personal foul, then the Longhorns lost the gain when they were penalized 15 for clipping, making it first and 20 on the 34. Glenn then threw a pass intended for Lee, but a Jim Ned defender got hold of the ball in the end zone for a touchback, so the Indians took over on their own 20 yard line.

The Indians couldn't go, as they gained a yard, then lost 6 when Morrow got through their line. Mayfield punted to the 38 where Bronte took over. In a series of passes and runs the Longhorns overcame penalties to move the ball to the 26 yard line for a first down.

A recovered fumble then gave Jim Ned the ball on their 19. After three tries, the Indians punted to Lee who ran it back to the opposition's 47 yard line. Some good gains by Holcombe and McCutchen and passes from Glenn to Lee moved the ball toward the double stripe, but a rash of penalties prevented scoring, and the Indians took over a few plays later on their 19. They managed to move it to the 32 before the whistle sounded the end of the first half.

Second Half

Morrow's kick started action in the second half, and the Indians moved the ball six yards in three plays. Their punt was blocked and Davis Corley picked up the ball and ran with it to the 26. Lee picked up four and a pass from Glenn to Johns was good for 14 yards and a first down on the 8. McCutchen ran the ball over the goal line on the first try of the series, but the extra point failed, to make the score 14-0.

Morrow's kick went to Waggoner, and he and his teammates were unable to make their first down, so they punted. It was a good kick and went over the head of Lee, who was back. He ran back, scooped up the ball, cut to his right, allowing his blockers time to get in position. The blockers started mowing 'em down and Lee ran all the way to the goal line. It was a beautifully executed play and gave the Longhorns six more points. McCutchen got two of the Indian defenders in clearing the way for Lee to make his touchdown jaunt.

After Morrow's kick the Indians tossed a pass which was intercepted by McCutchen, who made a run about as sensational as the one made by Lee for the previous TD. He covered 30 yards in the pass return. An offside penalty against the Indians on that play was refused. Glenn's conversion pass to Johns was good for two more points making the score 28-0.

As the ball game started drawing toward the end of the fourth quarter, a number of less experienced Longhorns were given an opportunity to gain experience. The local lads and Indians exchanged the ball back and forth with no serious scoring threats on either side until Aldridge recovered a fumble on the Bronte 30 yard line. Taking over at that point, the Indians decided to try a pass play. It worked with Bethel taking the ball for a touchdown.

This well executed play put the Indians into the scoring columns but left the Longhorns well in the lead 28-6.

There was time for the kickoff and three plays before the clock ran out. The Longhorns had the ball with a fourth and four on the 39 yard line.

County Agents News Column

The Coke County swine entries in the Store Area shows Saturday placed first and second in their respective classes. Sharon Walker exhibited the champion boar of the area, while Harvey Wink showed the reserve champion gilt in the five county swine improvement program show.

In the county gilt show, Harvey Wink had the top gilt, followed by Audrey Dee Walker, second; Dee Anna Percifull, third; Jay Service, fourth; and Danny Percifull, fifth.

Don't forget the Soil Conservation District Zone 5 election to be held at the school in Silver next Tuesday night. The program starts at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome, and zone five operators are particularly encouraged to be present to select the board member of their choice. Refreshments will be served and films shown.

Beef cattle producers will soon be concerned with selecting feeds for their supplemental winter feeding program, and several factors should be considered a profitable and economical operation.

Of real concern to farmers and ranchers are feeds which supply low cost protein and low cost energy, says Uel D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, Texas A&M University. Grain is considered the cheapest energy source and protein supplements should be chosen on the basis of their protein content and cost. A mixture of different sources of vegetable protein has little to offer since cattle make their own amino acids.

Before purchasing a supplemental protein feed, note the price per 100 pounds, percentage of crude protein supplied by the oil seed protein meals, percentage of equivalent protein from non-protein nitrogen, crude fat and crude fiber content. Higher fiber content feeds should be cheaper.

A protein supplement is bought primarily for its protein. Cost of this protein may be determined on a per pound basis by dividing the price per 100 pounds by the percent protein. Thus, range cubes with 20 percent crude protein at $3 per 100 pounds would supply crude protein at a cost of 15 cents per pound.

Herd protein supplemental feeding should be based at .8 pound of digestible protein daily per cow. Therefore, it would take four pounds of a 20 percent product such as range cubes to satisfy this requirement.

Of course, methods of feeding and individual preferences determine the form of supplement to be used — meal, cakes, cubes, crumbles or pellets. Self-limiting mixtures of protein mineral blocks, Urea-molasses or other liquid supplements, and combinations of salt and cottonseed meal may affect savings in labor and provide more even herd consumption. However, the unit cost of protein may be high.

Mixtures of salt and cottonseed meal have had extensive use, the percentage of salt varying from 15 to 50 percent of the mixture. Ground sorghum grain or ground ear corn is often mixed with salt and cottonseed meal and fed free choice. Common mixtures contain about one-third of each. Water should always be available nearby when these amounts of salt are fed.

Selection of a supplement may also be influenced by the amount and quality of roughages available. Cattle performance is directly related to forage quality and quantity, explains Thompson. Where forage is limited, a feed including both protein meal and grain may be more useful than a straight protein supplement.

A vitamin A fortified supplement should be fed where production is likely to be affected by Vitamin A deficiency: Adding synthetic Vitamin A to mineral mixtures or high salt feed mixtures and leaving it exposed to sunlight, air and heat is not advisable.

Aside from cottonseed meal or cake and Urea-molasses, other high protein supplements include guar meal, corn gluten meal, milo gluten meal, peanut meal, sesame meal, sorghum gluten meal, soybean meal and tankage.

ENCEPHALITIS —

read as follows:
"The Eastern type of encephalitis affects men and horses but has seldom been diagnosed in human illness in this state. The Western type encephalitis in times past has killed numerous horses. A few cases of this disease among people have occurred particularly in the Hi-Plains area centering around Plainview and Lubbock. It is not thought that people catch this disease from horses but rather that both get the disease from the bites of certain mosquitos. These are common mosquitos and the particular mosquito is known as Culex Tarsalis.

"The occurrence of illness in horses does not necessarily indicate that people will become ill. However, it is an indication that the infection is present in mosquitos which are biting horses and possibly humans, so that illness in horses serves as sentinel or warnings to people.

"Mosquitos become infected by the biting of birds. Apparently there is a wide field of birds which may be involved. There are both wild and domestic birds that — that (sic) any control measures must be directed against mosquitos rather than birds. The much more common type of mosquito-borne encephalitis is known as St. Louis type.

"This type is spread by a related Culicine mosquito but does not affect horses. Many cases of

Mayor Lee announced Wednesday that the regular monthly meeting of the city council will be held tonight (Oct. 1) and that any resident who wishes to attend and hear the discussion of this matter or anything else will be welcome.

Members of the council agreed in the Tuesday night meeting that there was practically no danger, according to the expert opinions received, from the sick animals, and that the city's main problem is to try to exterminate the infestation of mosquitos which has been increasing since recent rains.
