Friday Deadline on Special Editions

Friday, Jan. 29, has been set as the last day for persons who reserved copies of the 75th Anniversary Edition of The Bronte Enterprise to pick up their papers.

"A number of persons reserved copies of the big 80 page edition and have never picked them up," said Ben Oglesby, publisher. "We need to clear them out and have a long waiting list of persons who would like to have them," he said. "Consequently, any reserved papers left after Friday will be sold to those on the waiting list" he said.

Extra Copies from Last Year
Oglesby also said that extra copies of 1964 Enterprise are being cleared out, and anyone who wishes to obtain extra copies of them may purchase them at five cents each. The extra copies of 1964 will be held through next week, after which they will be discarded and back copies will not be available.

Jaycees to Sponsor Pet Vaccination

Bronte's Jaycee chapter will sponsor a pet vaccination program Saturday morning at Mackey Feed & Supply. Cost to have a dog, cat or other pet vaccinated for rabies will be $2.00.

The Jaycees will be able to retain a small part of the proceeds for use in their program of community improvement.

Animals may be brought to the Mackey store anytime from 8-12 Saturday morning.

Several cases of rabies have been reported in this area during recent months, and Jaycees are sponsoring the program in an effort to keep any local resident from coming in contact with the disease.

Deputy Coming Friday to Collect For Poll Taxes

A deputy tax collector from the office of County Tax Assessor-Collector O. B. Jacobs will be at First National Bank Friday, Jan. 29. Jacobs said the temporary tax paying place will be set up for convenience of residents of the east side of the county. Jacobs said Tuesday that only about 400 poll tax receipts had been issued so far this year.

Prospector Staked On Faye Scott

A wildcat has been staked four miles north of Bronte on land of Mrs. Faye Scott, according to an announcement made this week. It will be Texas Hydrocarbons No. 1 Scott, a 5,500 foot Gray Sand test.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of 395-1A-H&TC. The drilling site is two miles east of the Rawlings multipay field and ¼ mile west of No. 1 Butner, which is now testing.

DALE GLENN PRESIDENT OF DUMAS BANK

Dale Glenn, son of Mrs. Mattie Glenn of Bronte, became president of First National Bank of Dumas on Jan. 19. An employee of the Dumas bank for several years, Glenn worked his way up to head the bank from the office of assistant vice president. He is a native of Bronte and a graduate of Bronte high school. He is married to the former Neida Stacy, and they have a daughter, Gayle.

City Council Talks Water Problems

A special meeting of Bronte city council was held last Thursday night to discuss additional expenses which have come up during construction of improvements to the local water system.

The added expense was caused for the most part by conditions which were unknown before the work was started and the contractor began digging into old lines.

Meeting with the council were R. S. and Joe Beall who have the contract and Jake Oliver of National Engineering Co., of Austin, engineer for the job.

Means of financing the additional expenses were discussed, and the council decided to go ahead with some extra work which members consider necessary to improvement of the water system.

Jacobs announced that Friday will be the last day to pay poll taxes, inasmuch as the county tax office is closed on Saturdays and Sundays. It will also be the last day to pay state and county taxes, he said, without a penalty.

The county tax man reported that poll tax payments have been slow and he is looking for a last minute rush. He pointed out that, in spite of the recent constitutional amendment outlawing the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in national elections, it is still required to participate in any other election held in the State. Included are election of officials for state, county, precinct, city and school offices, as well as bond elections etc.

A poll tax costs $1.75.

$283.83 New Total On Dimes Drive

A total of $283.83 has been turned in for the March of Dimes, said County Chairman Elmer Hurley. This amount is an increase of $31 over the total reported last week.

Another story in this week's Enterprise tells about the benefit Coke County golf tournament to be played Saturday at Robert Lee.

Another benefit for MOD will be staged Saturday night at Blackwell when Bronte and Blackwell Lions engage in a basketball battle. Hurley asked that a large crowd of Bronte residents attend the game. He promised an evening of entertainment, as well as an opportunity to help the March of Dimes. Time for the game at Blackwell is 7:30.

School Census Forms Should Be Turned in

School officials made a final appeal this week to everyone residing in Bronte Independent School District to turn in census forms enumerating each child of the district.

Any child who was born between Sept. 1, 1947, and Sept. 1, 1959, should be reported, said Mrs. Clark Glenn, school secretary and census trustee.

Anyone who knows of a school age child, particularly a youngster who will be starting to school for the first time next September, is requested to report the information to Mrs. Glenn.

Amount of state money received by the school is dependent upon the number of school age children residing in the district on Feb. 1, 1965; therefore, it is important that every child be counted.

Mrs. Glenn asked that anyone who has information that might be useful in compiling the census to contact her.

AD-LIB-BEN

The gallant heart of Winston Churchill stopped beating last Sunday morning. His death came peacefully and painlessly, said attending physicians. Achieving his peaceful demise was more like another victory for the old soldier, rather than a defeat, for seemingly he had been trying to die for many days since he went into a coma following a stroke.

To us Winston Churchill is the greatest man of the 20th century, and the remaining 35 years will have to go some if they produce his equal. To us he was the hero of our day, the savior of the free world in this century.

Sir Winston's intrepid courage during the gloomy days of the 1940s was the inspiration to his countrymen and to all the Allied world which was needed to give us the courage to make any sacrifice necessary to defeat the goose-stepping legions of Adolph Hitler. More than anyone else, he stood, with his cigar and V for Victory sign, as a tower of strength, determination, and tenacious defiance. He was an intensely patriotic and caring man, but even the most cynical and sophisticated found little in him to criticize; for they knew he was genuine.

Most of us shall always think of Churchill as the indomitable leader of Great Britain during World War II. But we should remember that this man would not have been forgotten by historians, had he not emerged to lead his country during her "finest hour." He was first elected a member of the Parliament in 1900. He was a writer of fine English prose and historian to compare with the best of his day. He was an artist, thoroughly proficient painter of landscapes. He was also a soldier, journalist and lover of good brandy and good company.

Most of all, however, he was a wonderfully civilized man, who had a vision of a peaceful world and greatness for his fellows, and who had the courage to stand up against seemingly insurmountable obstacles to help mankind attain and preserve them.

The Jaycees are expecting to do even better with the hunt this year than they did last year. Local citizens were lavish with their praise of the 1964 exhibition.

SCS Soil Scientist Makes Survey on 209,400 Acres Land

Soil surveys were made on 109,400 acres in Coke County this past year by L. J. Barnhill, soil scientist, Soil Conservation Service.

These surveys were made on individual farms and ranches over the county, and are being made as part of a long range program to survey the entire county. About 40 per cent of Coke County is now covered by a soil survey.

Soil surveys are made by soil scientists who examine and map the soils. Their knowledge of the relation of landscape features, climate, parent material, relief and vegetation to soil properties aid them in predicting the kinds of soil they expect to find. They also dig or bore numerous holes deep enough to examine the underlying layers.

Upon completion of their examination, the soil scientists record their observations on aerial photos. Characteristics recorded for each soil include surface texture, thickness of soil, underlying material, slope of the soil surface, significant losses of soil by erosion, stoniness, and salt accumulation.

Additional information needed by the users of the soil survey are included with the soils information on the aerial photos. The map shows the drainage patterns, positions of rock outcrops, roads and other man-made features.

Uses of soil surveys range from management of large areas of public lands to the construction of houses in suburban areas adjacent to large cities. The main uses of soil surveys can be grouped under conservation planning, land valuation, engineering uses of soil, planning and conduct of research, and general education on natural resources.

County Agents News Column

By STERLING LINDSEY

Several Coke County 4-H club members and Robert Lee FFA Chapter members exhibited animals in the Abilene Show last week. Fifteen local feeders exhibited twenty-one head of lambs and pigs.

Five of the lambs exhibited placed among the ribbon winners and three made the sale list. All the lambs were shown in large classes of from 100 to approximately 200 lambs.

Jerry Parker placed 8th with his light weight finewool lamb, while Jay Service placed 9th with his heavy weight crossbred lamb. James Fields placed both of his entries, placing 21st in the medium wool class and 24th in the heavy weight crossbred class. Nicky and Mike Arrott likewise placed two lambs. Nicky placed 18th in the crossbred class and Mike 30th in the heavyweight finewool class. Several other lambs remained in the ring for the final placings, but were not among the top thirty animals. Other lamb exhibitors were Riley and Keith Waldrop, Edwin Lindsey and Kathy and John Service.

Four of the six barrows, exhibited were selected for the final placings from approximately 60 pigs in each class. But, were not used in the final placings. Exhibitors showing barrows were Sharon, Rebecca and Audrey Dee Walker, Joe David Key and Gaylon Pitcock.

Next week several club members will journey to Ft. Worth to exhibit pigs. Club members with entries are Dickie Bryan — 4 duroc barrows; Edwin Lindsey, — 2 duroc barrows; Sue Lindsey, — 1 duroc barrow; Rebecca and Sharon Walker — 1 duroc barrow each; Darrell and Sheri Pitcock, — 1 duroc barrow each. The group will go to Ft. Worth Wednesday, Feb. 3 and will show on Friday, Feb. 5.

The unusually mild winter has not been ideal for the southwestern screwworm control program. Last year, the first case in the State was found in March. Already three cases have been confirmed during 1965. This is not alarming, but it means the big push will not move as far south as had been desired.

Rural youths must prepare themselves educationally for stronger job competition in the future regardless of whether they plan a career on the farm or in town.

Both on-farm and off-farm opportunities will be available for youths with the necessary background and training, but for those poorly prepared, the going will be rough.

Nationally, an estimated 65 to 85 percent of rural boys and girls must leave the farm. The off-farm movement will be made necessary for two reasons. First, there are many more farm boys than are needed to replace their fathers.

Secondly, output per farm worker, which has been climbing at about six percent annually, is expected to continue increasing. If this occurs, farms will become fewer, larger, more mechanized.

Coupled with this competition on the farm, will be competition for jobs in urban centers. Economists estimate that 26 million people will join the U.S. labor force in the decade ending in 1970.

Acute employment problems already have developed in the creation of new jobs in the face of automation, as well as in providing training necessary for new workers to fill new jobs.

Along with unemployment there is often a shortage of adequately trained workers. Therefore, it is the preparation that rural youths receive now that will determine whether they end up among the unemployed or find satisfactory jobs in the future.

MOST SERIOUS COMPLAINTS ABOUT PAYMENT OF INSURANCE CLAIMS ARE MADE BY PEOPLE WHO HAVE NOT INSURED THEIR HOMES THRU LOCAL ESTABLISHED AGENTS . . . says Legislative Investigating Committee.

In its Official Report on loss adjustments made after Hurricane Carla, the Committee of the Texas House of Representatives gave full credit for responsible performance to those companies represented by independent agents! The committee went on to say that most serious complaints were made by witnesses who did not have the service of an insurance agent with whom they were personally acquainted.

AROUND THE RIM

BACK OF THE APPLICATION

(GUEST FEATURE)

(Editor's Note: The feature below covers the question of the proposed dam at Robert Lee better than any we have seen. It was written by Joe Pickle, editor of the Big Spring Herald.)

After years of preparations and weeks of hearings, the matter of whether the Colorado River Municipal Water District will get a permit to impound an 11-county supply in a reservoir at Robert Lee rests with the Texas Water Commission.

Four years ago when this was first submitted in the form of an original application, there was no more than a ripple from downstream irrigators. With a decision to seek a location 20 miles downstream and impound an additional 85,000 acre-feet of water, the present application was met with a fusillade of opposition, much of it not on the surface.

What stirred all this opposition? One was the change in the location which understandably disappointed Mitchell County residents, and which caused some concern by the Upper Colorado River Authority to see that communities in Sterling, Coke and Runnels counties would have an opportunity to have their water needs met.

The poker which stirred the hornets' nest was none of the CRMWD's doing. This was the series of events which resulted first in a "presentation" (tying up priorities for a study) for one dam location and proposals for several others — all above the Lower Colorado River Authority's Highland Lake chain. Thus, the CRMWD proposal which normally would have received a minimum of contest was met with the full treatment by LCRA — and then some, including unseen pressures and maneuvers.

Under "rainbow permits" which cover everything without any specific showing of need or use, the LCRA and the City of Austin have old grants to use up to nearly 2,000,000 acre-feet of water annually from the Colorado River. The State Board of Water Engineers and its successor, the Texas Water Commission, has recognized the moral element in this over the years in granting upstream permits.

It is important to understand that the CRMWD application falls within that area of the state which has 75 per cent of the geography, yet only 25 per cent of the water. It is important, too, to understand that this area has 51 per cent of the population in the Colorado River Basin, but it has only 18 per cent of the water resources.

For the purposes of the application, the area's growth rate of the past 40 years was halved. On that basis, the new supply would last until about 1980. Halve the rate again and the supply would last until only the early 1990s for municipal use is growing at six to 10 per cent a year. Last year CRMWD cities alone used more than the safe yield of Lake J. B. Thomas which now is only half full.

Despite the smoke screen of attacking use of waters temporarily in surplus for use in oilfield waterflood, the point of need is not subject to refutation. Nor is it true that the lowland irrigators, who are using not the specified three acre-feet per annum and limited acreage of rice but eight acre-feet and expanded acreage, would be appreciably affected. Therefore much of the attack came in the creation of a distorted and unwarranted picture of a devastated Highland Lakes region if the permit is granted.

For instance, newspapers proclaiming in bold headlines that the "Proposed Dam on the Colorado Would Wreck Economy of the Highlands Lake Area" were put in every seat of the big hearing room. "Lake Buchanan would have been a mudhole" had the Robert Lee Lake been built, they said. In the same breath, it was noted that the proposed lake would be "of primary benefit to the oil interests of West Texas," while the "Highland Lakes have provided some of the nation's finest recreation, fishing and water sports." One witness attained the acme of assaninity in predicting the Highland Lakes would become a "grand canyon." Officials, including the congressman and chamber manager, expressed ridiculous "fears" that the lake would ruin the economy of the Highland area. Of course, no responsible, informed person honestly believes that to be so.

The truth is that the proposed lake would benefit Lake Buchanan by less than six per cent. The truth is that the Highland Lakes are drained of 1.5 million acre-feet a year for the generation of cheap electric energy, and this is 200 times what the CRMWD uses in diminishing oilfield contracts. Yet the latter produces nearly half as much revenue as the former.

The truth also is that this area must have more water, and that it can have it without penalizing the Highlands area which is to be admired for its good fortune but not promoted to a water overlord sustained by upstream vassals. Naturally this area feels that in the spirit of fair play and understanding, the supply should be authorized at not one penny expense to the state or federal government. — JOE PICKLE
