Coke Farmers To Ballot On Cotton Allotments

Cotton farmers in Coke County will vote the middle of May to decide whether they want to be able to sell or lease their cotton allotments outside the county. Clarence Arrott, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced. The referendum on the question is being conducted May 15-18. Ballots may be returned by mail or delivered in person to the ASCS County office during that time.

The only question to be decided by the balloting is whether upland cotton allotments may be transferred during the next two years to farms which are owned or controlled by someone else and located in other counties. Such transfers may be made by sale or by lease. In no case may transfers be made outside the state. An affirmative vote by at least two-thirds of the county's farmers who vote will permit such transfers during the next two years, 1968-69.

Two similar referendums were conducted in 1965-66 throughout the Cotton Belt, and growers in 412 counties have already approved the allotment transfers. The vote this May will be held only in counties where such transfers have not previously been approved.

Arrott pointed out that voting by mail is easy and convenient and the vote therefore should be large and fully representative of the wishes of the cotton farmers in the county.

Copies of the ballot have been sent to all cotton producers of record in the county, together with information describing the program's purpose and operation. Any cotton producer who has a question about the referendum or about who is eligible to vote is urged to get in touch with the ASC County Office.

ATTEND CHURCH, STUDY GOD'S WORD

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The pecan nut casebearer life cycle is beginning to take shape now. We have found positive evidence to give us a basis for starting control measures.

I checked trees in eight locations Monday around Robert Lee and Bronte. Casebearer eggs were found in all eight locations and newly hatched larvae found in three locations. The peak egg deposit and hatch appears to be ahead of us, but we do have some concrete information that we can use to plan spraying schedules.

The peak egg laying appears to be one to three days away. This means the peak hatch is still three to seven days away. More cool weather could delayed both one to two days.

As for the best time to spray, I would make two applications of insecticide. I would make the first one between the 17th and 20th., the second one between the 22nd and 25th.

If you plan to spray once, during the period from 18th to the 20th looks like the most ideal time. Be sure to use ample pressure to part the leaves and wet the nut clusters. Also, be sure to add zinc sulfate to your spray to help combat rosette or die-back, the bunch growth we see on the end of pecan limbs. This is not a normal growth pattern, but a pattern caused by a zinc deficiency.

The large, gray colored bug you may see in pecan trees is known as the wheel bug or ambush bug. They are beneficial insects and feed on, primarily, lice and other insects.

The wheel bug can cause a painful sting to humans and in a few cases have made people sick with their sting. Once in awhile one will suddenly dart out from a tree to attack something. This behavior pattern led to the name, ambush bug.
