The concert was enthusiastically received by the audience and considered a big success by Band Director Louis Thornton.

Postal Rates Go Up Sunday

Postmaster Noah Pruitt Jr. said this week that increases in most postage rates will take effect Sunday, May 16, as the new United States Postal Service begins its task of achieving self sufficiency as required by the Postal Reorganization Act.

Pruitt noted that general postage rates have not been increased since 1967 when Congress passed what was to become its final legislative act in this respect.

Pruitt announced the new rates as follows:

First Class: from 6 to 8 cents per ounce.

Air Mail: from 10 to 11 cents per ounce.

Postal Cards: from 5 to 6 cents each.

Air Mail Cards: from 8 to 9 cents each.

Stamped Envelopes: from 8 to 10 cents each.

An increase is planned in rates for most special services, said Postmaster H. L. Lewis Jr. He may be consulted about these rates. Included in the increases is a gradual raise in the rates for mailing newspapers, and other second class publications.

The postmaster reminded that postal rates are still the best bargain around, when it is considered that since 1932 the price for mailing a letter has gone up only five cents, while the price of a hot dog has increased from five to 40 cents and a hamburger from 10 to 60 cents in many places.

Kindergarten Kids Graduation Set

Members of the Kindergarten Class at Bronte School will have a graduation program, "A to Z," next Tuesday night. The 20 students will take part in the program at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium.

After the program, Prin. James M. Raughton will present their diplomas.

The public is invited to attend, according to Mrs. Bob Shields, teacher. Mrs. Shields said there would be no pre-school program in Bronte this summer.

A double dedication ceremony will be held Sunday at Tennyson. Official Texas Historical Markers for Mule Creek Cemetery and for the Community of Tennyson will be unveiled, according to Mrs. Bryan Yarbrough of Robert Lee, chairman of the Coke County Historical Survey Committee.

A covered dish luncheon will be held at noon in the community center, followed by the dedicatory services at 2 p.m., also in the community center. A short program will be given, then the markers will be unveiled at the site on U. S. Highway 277 near the Tennyson Post Office.

County Judge W. W. Thetford will be master of ceremonies. The Rev. C. R. Blake will give the invocation. Cub Scouts will present the Colors, followed by the pledge of allegiance. Mrs. C. E.

Arrott will lead the group in singing "America."

Sterling Lindsey will give a historical sketch of the Mule Creek marker and Mrs. Arrott will give the sketch on the Tennyson marker. Mrs. Yarbrough will speak on activities of the historical survey committee.

Elton Mims of Water Valley, vice president of the Coke committee, will give the dedicatory address.

Collins Sayner and Mrs. Derrick will unveil the Tennyson marker and the Rev. William Gaston and Eugene Brooks will unveil the Mule Creek marker.

The public is invited to attend. Made of cast aluminum with Swedish steel effect, the markers measure 18x48 inches and are sponsored by the Coke County Historical Survey Committee.

The inscriptions read:

By MRS. FAY C. ROE

May is Senior Citizen Month, so for the benefit of older persons and for the information of all homemakers, here are some Food Tips that should prove useful, if used.

L-o-n-g life is a common thing now. In fact, one in 10 Americans has passed his 65th birthday.

One problem for many of these folks, according to the needs they expressed in over 800 Community Forums held across Texas last year, is meeting adequate nutritional requirements.

There are several common problems in older people's diets. They forget to eat or eat too little. Very limited snack type meals of "tea 'n' toast" or "bread 'n' butter" often replace regular, more balanced meals.

Others have dental problems and the need for various kinds of textures in food is important. Weight watching, special diets and wise spending of the food dollar also give special concern to senior citizens.

Above all, following the basic four food groups for proper eating is as much a must for the older person as a younger one. The groups include milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals.

The milk group is composed of milk and milk products, such as buttermilk, canned and dried milk, cheese and ice cream. Milk products are especially important for their calcium content, but they also are good sources of riboflavin, an important vitamin, and protein.

The meat group, one of the best sources of protein, includes meat, fish, poultry, eggs, dry beans and peas, lentils, nuts and peanut butter. The protein in meat foods is necessary for growth and repair of body tissue in muscles, organs, blood, skin and hair. At least two or more servings a day of one of these foods should be included in your diet.

The vegetable-fruit group contains important minerals and vitamins. Without sufficient minerals, anemia may develop, and without the proper amount of vitamins, poor appetite, impaired absorption, constipation or general weakness may result. Two of the important vitamins are C and A. Vitamin C, richly contained in citrus fruits, tomatoes, cantaloupes, strawberries and broccoli, is needed every day. Vitamins in dark and deep yellow vegetables and in a few fruits, is needed at least every other day.

The bread-cereal group of whole grain or enriched breads and cereals should be served at least four times a week. Cooked cereal, grits, cornmeal, macaroni, noodles, rice and spaghetti are included in this group.

All your life, these foods are needed to keep you going and in good shape.

Removing Stains

Fast action along with proper procedure is the key to successful stain removal on upholstery, drapery and other furniture fabrics.

Don't forget to pre-test cleaning products in an inconspicuous area of the upholstery fabric.

Common stains fall into three categories: greasy, nongreasy and stains that are a combination of the other types.

Greasy stains such as butter, margarine, or car grease can be removed from washable fabrics using a detergent foam. However, it's usually necessary to use a dry cleaning solvent. Soaps, detergents, glycerine, denatured alcohol, or a weak ammonia solution should be used on foam rubber and nonwashable fabrics.

Be very careful in using any solvent, since many are flammable, poisonous, and may cause illness if vapors are inhaled.

For removing nongreasy stains, like fruit, black coffee, milk or catsup, use a damp sponge wrung out of cool water on washable fabrics. Or, try a detergent-water foam, wiping thoroughly with a sponge wrung out with clean water. On nonwashables, a final rinse with sponge wrung out of alcohol helps remove detergent and dries the fabric. Dilute the alcohol with two parts of water for use on acetate fabrics.

Use a sponge wrung out with cool water, then apply a detergent-water foam removed by sponging with clear water to eliminate combination stains from ice cream, chocolate or coffee with cream. If the spot is still visible, sponge with a grease solvent on either washable or non-washable fabrics.

Use bleaching on upholstery fabrics only as a last resort. Then, use only a very weak solution if a trace of the stain's discoloration remains.

Enzor Appointed Ranch Wagon Boss

Odus Wittenburg, 1971 West Texas Boys Ranch Roundup chairman has announced the selection of Wagon Bosses to assist in this year's fund raising effort in behalf of the West Texas Boys Ranch located near San Angelo. Wittenburg has appointed J. Lee Enzor to be Wagon Boss for the Bronte area.

As a Wagon Boss, Enzor will aid area ranchers and other interested persons in making donations for the 72 boys at the ranch. Wittenburg has also announced the addition of a wool and mohair program to this year's Roundup. Wool and mohair producers are urged to check with their Wagon Boss or wool warehouse on how to donate wool or mohair to benefit the Boys Ranch. Wittenburg said that emphasis on giving cash and livestock to the Roundup will be concentrated now through fall and expressed the urgent need by the Ranch for donations at this time.

West Texas Boys Ranch has served over 800 Hard-Luck Boys of West Texas since it was organized in 1947. Boys come from various backgrounds of neglect, broken homes, and are generally dependent on someone to provide food, clothing and shelter for them. West Texas Boys Ranch is supported entirely by tax deductible donations from the public. The Annual Roundup is one of their major fund raising efforts of the year, providing bread and butter, and shoes and socks money for the boys.

West Texas Boys Ranch is located 17 miles west of San Angelo at Tankersley.

WATER STORAGE — Nolan Pentecost stands by a recently completed concrete reservoir, as he and a helper are in the process of putting up a windmill. The pasture shown here was roof plowed and seeded in 1969.

Nolan Pentecost, Sanco Rancher, Is Coke County Conservationist of Year

Nolan Pentecost was presented a plaque for outstanding work in the field of conservation by the Robert Lee-Silver Lions Club when they met May 4. The presentation was made by Weldon Fikes, secretary of the Coke County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Rex Brand of the local Soil Conservation Service office presented the program for the meeting.

Pentecost was cited for being a leader in the fields of livestock production and conservation of natural resources. He was president of the Concho Hereford Association in 1969-70 and is currently a director of the organization.

His operations cover five and one-half sections of range and cropland, and he is doing conservation work on his own ranches in the Coke County SWCD and on a leased place in Nolan County.

Pentecost, who lives near Sanco, has been working to increase livestock production by brush control and seeding of high producing grasses. Management by crops fencing and development of livestock is also a part of his overall plan. Cropland fields are used primarily for temporary grazing.

He began his work in 1967 following the development of a Great Plains contract. The planned practices are about 80 per cent complete, and the remaining work will be carried out in 1971-72.

He was the first district cooperator to construct an erosion control dam, consisting of about 30,000 cubic yds. of dirt and concrete. This structure is protecting valuable bottomland and improvements downstream from sediment pollution. With these and other practices which have been carried out, Pentecost is increasing the forage production on his ranch. This, he believes, along with management will make a more stable operation for running livestock.

Other practices being carried out or planned include deferred grazing, proper grazing use, pipeline and wells and concrete reservoir for livestock water, diversion and field terraces, contour farming, conservation cropping system, crop residue use, fencing for grazing control, and water troughs for distribution of grazing.

Emergency Loans Made Available

A wire late last week from Congressman Omar Burleson informed this newspaper that the Farmers Home Administration had been authorized to make emergency loans to eligible farmers and ranchers in Coke County to alleviate conditions caused by the drought situation.

FHA Supervisor Alton R. Pyburn was notified that the loan period is authorized through June 1972. Interest rate for the loans is set each month with the rate for May being 4% per cent. To qualify for the loan a farmer or rancher must have suffered a production loss due to the drought.

Pyburn said some additional emergency loan eligibility requirements are: Be a citizen of the U. S.; be an established farmer or rancher with a reasonably good past record of operations, whether owner-operator or tenant, who manages his farm or ranching operation; possess legal capacity to contact for the loan; need credit to continue his normal farming or ranching operations.

Some emergency loan purposes are: purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, insecticides and farm supplies, repair of equipment and other essential farm operating expenses. Other loans may be granted for meeting family subsistence needs or for the payment of depreciation in any one year, not to exceed 15 per cent of the market value of essential farm machinery and equipment under prior lien to another creditor or 15 per cent of the amount owed to such creditor, whichever is less.

Emergency loans may not be used to refinance debts, to pay federal or state income taxes, or Social Security taxes payable by borrowers in their own behalf, to purchase passenger automobiles, to enable an applicant to become established or re-established in farming or ranching. They may not be used to expand a farming or ranching operation or for major adjustments in the operation. They may not be used to finance commercial feed lot operations or to finance unproven types of farming operations in the area.

Security for the loans will be set up in such a way as to adequately protect the interest of the FHA.

HERE'S BLACKWELL

By Mrs. Rocky Thompson

Clem-Kiser Wedding

Weldon Doyce Clem, son of Mrs. A. E. Clem and the late Mr. Clem, and Miss Christi Susan Kiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Kiser of Sweetwater, were married Thursday, May 6. The Rev. Jim Harvey read the vows in a courtyard at the Kiser home, under a wrought iron arch entwined with palm leaves and greenery.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Pat Kelsey of Abilene, soloist, and Barbara Norris, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a carpet length gown of white chiffon and Venice lace, fashioned with lace bodice, empire skirt of chiffon over crepe, and long Bishop sleeves with caps of lace. A fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a cluster of stephanotis. She carried a white Bible with an arrangement of pink rosebuds and stephanotis. She wore an heirloom necklace belonging to her grandmother.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a pink embroidered cloth and centered with pink carnations, snapdragons and white lilies.

The couple left for a wedding trip to San Marcos.

The bride will graduate from Sweetwater High School this month and is employed at Simmons Memorial Hospital. Mr. Clem is a graduate of Blackwell High School and attended Draughon's Business College in Abilene. He left this week for the U. S. Air Force and is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Constitutional Amendments Summarized

(Editor's Note: Below is a short analysis of each of the four Constitutional Amendments which are to be voted on Tuesday, May 18. The amendments are discussed for and against and no attempt is made to tell voters how they should decide on them.)

Amendment No. 1

Establishing a State Ethics Commission empowered to set rules of ethics for members of the legislature, state officers, and legislative officers and to investigate violations; to recommend compensation for members of the legislature and the lieutenant governor; and to recommend improvements and economy in the legislative process.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) As servants of the citizens of Texas, members of the Legislature should be required to give an accounting of their stewardship. This amendment, which embraces many of the recommendations of the Speaker's Committee of 100 to improve ethics, standards of conduct, and compensation of members of the legislature, provides a tool for this type of accounting and a commission to regulate enforcement. (2) It should go far toward improving public confidence in state officials and legislative officers with its provision requiring them to file with the State Ethics Commission a sworn financial statement within 10 days of taking office. (3) It would make it unethical for a state official to receive any compensation during his term other than his compensation from the state. It would make possible for the commission to recommend salaries that would make it possible for a member of the legislature or state official to serve. (4) It would eliminate the costly election process now required to raise legislative salaries, and legislators would not be tempted to adopt excessive recommendations for salary increases since each would face the voters for reelection. (5) The ethics commission would be appointed by the state's two highest courts and State Judicial Commission, thus taking the commission out of politics. (6) A legislator can no longer be considered a parttime official and the $4,800 annual salary now provided is not adequate to attract more qualified persons to seek membership in state government.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) Although the amendment's major purpose is the creation of a State Ethics Commission, it is possible that this is a subterfuge and the real purpose is to bring about a legislative pay raise without obtaining voter approval. (2) Voters themselves can best judge the conduct and ethics of their lawmakers and can express their opinions at the polls. (3) Even if the Commission were created, it would not preclude the imposition of a constitutional ceiling on legislative salaries at a later election. (4) Also matters of ethics and conduct can already be handled under an existing statute (Vernon's Tex. Civ. Stat., Art. 6252-9). (5) Since the financial disclosure would be privileged information, the people would still have no way of identifying sources of income and could not make individual assessments on the relationship of a legislator's income and its source. (6) With its recommendations subject to approval of the legislature, the commission could not make decisions binding and the role of the commission would be a weak one.

Amendment No. 2

Providing that the legislature may propose amendments to the constitution in called as well as regular sessions of the legislature.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The Texas Constitution of 1876 is old and unwieldy and situations arise frequently that require emergency action, and present restrictions limiting proposed amendments to the regular biennial sessions could cause an unnecessary wait for the needed changes. Recent welfare crises in the state have served to emphasize the need for this. (2) The writers of the constitution had in mind that ease of amending the constitution would lead to ill-advised and too frequent changes. However, the fact that it has already been amended 200 times is invalid and the limitation only serves to slow the processes of good government.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) The constitution has been amended too frequently, even with the restriction. Often the constitution is ill-advisedly amended when amendment of the statutes or an entirely new law could have better met the needs. (2) Only matters submitted by the governor can be acted on in special sessions, with the call frequently for the purpose of solving deadlocks on such matters as appropriations and taxation, and submitting controversial proposed amendments during the short session would be a further complication and lead to more controversy, stalling the proceedings.

Amendment No. 3

Removing the limitation on the total state appropriations for assistance grants for the needy aged, the needy blind and the needy disabled, and setting a limitation on total state appropriations during a fiscal year for assistance grants for needy dependent children and the caretakers of such children.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) Texas Department of Public Welfare reports that under the present ceiling, funds allocated for public welfare assistance grants will be exhausted shortly after the amendment election. It should be approved to prevent a drastic cut in aid to welfare recipients, working an extreme hardship on those who have little or no other means of subsistence. (2) It would remove inflexible limitations on welfare expenditures for the needy aged, blind and disabled which have caused welfare crises time and time again. Most Texans have no quarrel with the rights of these three classes to public assistance. (3) The danger of "run-away" appropriations to needy dependent children and their caretakers is removed by the proposed amendment's provision for a $55 million ceiling on state funds granted to these recipients. (4) Legislators voted 27-4 in the Senate and 122-17 in the House approving the proposed amendment, showing an overwhelming confidence in the amendment's provisions.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) Welfare costs are spiraling upward, and unless a halt is called, the only result can be a larger and larger tax burden. In the current period of inflation and tight money, it might be wiser to seek cost-saving reforms in the welfare programs. (2) The entire program of welfare, since rules and regulations are made in Washington, should be the function of the federal government and should be financed entirely by taxes already being collected at the federal level. Defeat of this amendment could do much to lay the burden of public welfare where it belongs, in the federal budget. (3) Although there are many genuinely needy persons on state welfare rolls, there are also many "freeloaders," and no more latitude should be permitted under the Texas Constitution until welfare reforms are instituted that will remove the "freeloaders."

Amendment No. 4

Authorizing the issuance of $100 million in bonds to provide financial assistance to cities and other public agencies for water quality enhancement purposes; providing for the improvement and continuance of the water resources program, and establishing an interest ceiling on Water Development Bonds at 6 per cent.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) Texas' future depends upon the quality and supply of its water. This amendment would make more funds available to assist local governments in providing facilities to treat and dispose of wastes, enhancing both the quality and quantity of the state's water. (2) Adoption would make it possible for the state to realize a greater return on tax dollars going to Washington, since the federal matching share of costs would increase from a maximum 30 per cent up to a maximum of 55 per cent, as the state enters the program with grants and loans. (3) Increase in the maximum interest rate from 4 to 6 per cent, would make it possible for the Water Development Board to sell the bonds in today's competitive bond market.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) Interest which the state will have to pay on the bonds sold under the provisions of this amendment will increase the revenue responsibilities of the state at a time when it already has serious financial and taxation problems. (2) Adoption would permit cities, towns and other political subdivisions to pass on to the state another financial burden which is their responsibility and they should bear themselves. (3) Interest rates in the nation are beginning to go down after a number of years of continuing to rise. It appears unwise to raise the interest ceiling just when rates in general are becoming more competitive.

Creek community, a small frontier settlement founded in 19th century. Said to be named either for (1) an early horse and mule ranch, or (2) a stagecoach mule that died at a creek which runs nearby. The Abilene-Fort Concho Stage once served area.

For years principal building here was a combination school-church. Since 20th century, shift to urban living has diminished population of Mule Creek.

Inscriptions on tombstones chronicle history of community. In spring, grounds are covered with bluebonnets, state flower.
