Dyess was awarded a plaque as outstanding conservation farmer for this year in the Coke County Soil and Water Conservation District. The presentation was made by Joe Rawlings, chairman of the Coke County SWCD.

The award is made each year to the farmer or rancher who has been doing an outstanding job of conservation work. This award is part of the Annual Texas Conservation Awards Program sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and is made locally by the Lions Clubs.

District Conservationist W. E. Jacoby listed the practices used by Dyess:

Since the Dyesses bought this farm they have carried out a complete conservation program. ### Before Street Work Starts

Curbing Urged

Residents of Bronte who do not have their property curbed are urged to get the work done now, before the sealcoating and repair of streets gets underway.

Commissioners Jesse Parker and Jack Corley have said that where curbing has been installed, the new pavement will be extended from the edge of the present paving to the curbs. This work will be done at no cost to the property owner.

Persons who anticipate tying on to the sewer lines are also asked to get the work done before the street repair program begins.

Any type of work that will require a cut in a street should be done now, so that the sealcoating job can cover up the "scars" of the cut.

President Earl F. Glenn has announced that First National Bank will cooperate with property owners by lending money for either curbing or sewer tie-on projects and will set up an easy repayment for borrowers.

Martin Lee, Bronte mayor, who is in the construction business, has offered to curb property for $1.80 per foot.

QUICK-SHOP FOOD STORE HAS FIRST BIRTHDAY

Quick-Shop Food Store on Highway 277 is observing its first birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Ball, owners, opened up the store a year ago this week.

They expressed appreciation for the patronage and friendship given them by area customers and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball and three children, Richard, Robert and Carla, moved here from San Angelo.

Scarlet Fever Cases Reported

A letter to parents was issued last week from Bronte School stating that there had been a confirmed case of scarlet fever in the student body of the school. School officials warned parents to be on the lookout for the disease and pledged cooperation in watching for symptoms among students.

Dr. John R. Harris this week said the "so-called epidemic" is lessening. He has diagnosed five cases at the local clinic and hospital. He said that he had been in contact with State Health Department officials in Austin and with other area physicians and the incidence of the disease is easing up all over the area.

Lions to Have Broom, Mop Sale

Saturday, April 15, will be Lions Club Mop and Broom Sale Day in Bronte.

Lions spokesmen said that the truck from the Lighthouse for the Blind will be parked most of the day in front of the First National Bank Building. Club members will be selling from the truck throughout the day.

Lions Club members will also conduct a house to house sale in the residential area.

An ad in this week's paper lists the items which will be sold and residents are asked to look over the items and have their lists ready when workers call.

All the items are made by blind persons and all are guaranteed to be quality merchandise. Most Bronte residents are familiar with the merchandise, since the sale is conducted annually. Bronte Lions receive a percentage of the proceeds which they use in community projects.

Austin — County political party chairmen have been advised how they can collect state funds for paying May 6 primary election expenses.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock advised the local party officials to prepare immediately detailed estimates of their outlays.

Bullock sent out forms and these instructions immediately after Gov. Preston Smith signed a new law providing $2 million in state aid to finance the primaries:

* Only when sworn estimates are returned and reviewed will state checks be prepared in the amount of three-fourths of the total expense. Additional warrants will be drawn after the election.

* Prior expenses (before the new state financing law) which exceed the amount of candidates' filing fees and contributions will not be paid by the state—unless cancelled and re-negotiated on new contracts.

* The new state law does not permit any state reimbursement of expenditures for precinct or county conventions or for paying executive committee members for attending meetings.

* State funds can be used to pay "necessary and legitimate primary expenses" like ballot printing, polling place and voting machine rental, purchase of election sets, stationery, telephones, office rental and compensation of election clerks and judges.

* After the primaries, the secretary of state will require sworn verification of every expenditure made out of the primary fund, together with supporting receipts and cancelled vouchers.

* Estimates of June 3 runoff primary expenses will be required at a later date through the same procedures.

EMPLOYERS PAYING LESS—Texas employers are paying less unemployment tax per worker than those of any other state, Texas Employment Commission reports.

The state average is $9.17 per worker covered by unemployment insurance, according to a 1970 TEC survey.

Comparatively, Alaska, at the top of the scale, pays out $276.18 per worker to support state benefits; California, $97.41; Virginia (next lowest to Texas), $11.89.

W. S. Birdwell Jr., TEC employer representative, credits the low rate to unusual stability in employers and the work force, as well as a high degree of cooperation in the U. I. program.

TEC collects taxes from more than 162,000 Texas employers covered by the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act. Taxes are based on rate of worker turnover generally. The minimum tax 0.1 per cent and the maximum four percent.

RADIOACTIVITY NOTED—Air sampling stations in Abilene, Amarillo and Fort Worth observed a "slight" rise in radioactive fallout which they attributed to the Chinese Lop Nor nuclear test.

March 18. Texas State Department of Health reported the findings on March 26. The increases were not regarded as presenting any public health hazard, but simply as evidence of sensitivity of the air sampling network.

Stations are part of a comprehensive radiological surveillance activity conducted throughout the state. They are operated by local health departments in cooperation with the Texas State Department of Health and the Environmental Protection Agency's Las Vegas off-site monitoring network.

COURTS SPEAK — The State Supreme Court ordered a full trial of a Methodist dispute over $140,000 in trust funds.

In other cases last week, the Supreme Court:

* Upheld a $158,651 judgment against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Co. resulting from flooding of two Lubbock apartment houses with water from the roadbed.

* Agreed customers of a Port Arthur restaurant who got sick after eating there should collect damages.

* Held a Lubbock policeman has a right to reinstatement in his job after 18 years' active duty with the Air Force.

An Austin district court refused to order a May 6 Democratic referendum on Daylight Saving Time.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals found alteration cost on clothing is not subject to the state sales tax.

APPOINTMENTS — New House Speaker Rayford Price named Rep. Bill Fineck of San Antonio chairman of the powerful House appropriations committee, Rep. Don Cavness of Austin speaker pro tempore and Rep. Ed Howard of Texarkana chairman of the administration committee.

VISITORS BOOM ECONOMY — More than 22.6 million visitors came to Texas last year and spent an estimated $1.85 billion. The number was up seven per cent over 1970 and the dollar amount 25 per cent.

Both figures were new records, according to Texas Tourist Development Agency and Texas Highway Department. Last year's visitors paid $166 million in direct state taxes. The Highway Department figured average spending per person per day among auto travelers was $14.92. Visitor spending has increased 170 per cent since 1964.

A complete reorganization and modernization of the state court system should be submitted to voters, Texas Supreme Court Justice Tom Reavley stated.

Price ceilings on raw agricultural products won't keep food costs down, claims Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Atty. Gen. Mar'in asked the U. S. Senate judiciary committee to review granting of immunity to Frank Sharp.

EDITORIAL

We believe that Good Neighbor Ben Barnes deserves promotion to the state's highest office—that of Governor. We think he has served well as State Representative, Speaker of the House and as Lieutenant Governor.

About the only debit points you can hear about his candidacy for governor are:

1. He's too young; he's risen too far, too fast in Texas politics.
2. He's too wealthy; how could such a modestly-salaried state official acquire so much wealth in such a short time?
3. He MIGHT be involved in the Sharpstown stock scandal in some way.

When you meet Ben Barnes eyeball to eyeball and ask him about these things, he answers:

1. I'm flattered by the statement that I've come far, fast. I can only say that it "just didn't happen." My friends and I know that I've worked hard, and if the rewards have been great, then I'm also glad for that. I question the phrase, "Too fast!" For what? I believe that we live in a fast world and our nation's landing of men on the moon proves that things are happening fast around us. With communication and transportation being what they are today, there doesn't seem to be any other safe way to move.

2. Wealth has been discussed by the Lt. Governor before and Mr. Barnes patiently explains each time it comes up, about his becoming an investor in 1964 in the Herman Bennett Co., a Brownwood construction firm; that he and his father bought a couple of peanut farms, of about 950 acres; and that the Ben Barnes Club contributions are used for campaign expenses. Barnes says he has been "in and out of the stock market" and has made enough profit there "to enable me to use my farm money to pay for the land."

3. On the Sharpstown affair, Barnes looks you right in the eye and says, "I never bought a share of National Bankers Life stock. I never had a loan from the Sharpstown State Bank. I never made any quick stock profits, and I have never even met Mr. Frank Sharp."

On several points he has firm convictions.

One is that the states should assume their responsibilities or the federal government will.

Another is that industrial development should be pushed in the smaller cities and towns of West Texas. He is a product of the rural area of West Central Texas, specifically, Comanche County.

Yet another, with which we agree, is that local school districts should be in control of their local schools.

And in all of state government he favors the progressive approach.

Children Learn What They Live
Parents sometimes forget that the way they treat their child determines the kind of person he will be.

Here's a list of characteristics determined by parents' actions:

If a child lives with criticism, he learns to condemn.

If a child lives with hostility, he learns to fight.

If a child lives with ridicule, he learns to be shy.

If a child lives with shame, he learns to feel guilty.

If a child lives with encouragement, he learns confidence.

If a child lives with tolerance, he learns to be patient.

If a child lives with praise, he learns to appreciate.

If a child lives with fairness, he learns justice.

If a child lives with security, he learns to have faith.

If a child lives with approval, he learns to like himself.

If a child lives with acceptance and friendship, he learns to find love in the world.

If this shows you that you need to improve the way you treat your child, why not do something about it now?

Grow Your Own Kitchen Herbs
Parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme. Spring is the perfect time to sow seeds for all kinds of kitchen herb gardens. Why not plant a tea corner, a cooking corner or a scented corner for potpourri?

From the cooking corner you will be able to savor the full flavor of your own garden fresh herbs all year long. Try adding chervil to salads, savory and thyme to soups and lemon balm to tea. Try making herb butters with snippets of chervil, lovage or rosemary.

Some herbs are perennials and live year after year. Oregano, rosemary, wild majoram, lavender, lemon balm, sorrel and English thyme are examples of perennials. Others are annuals — like anise, sweet basil, coriander, dill and fennel. Still others are biennials — like caraway, jeek, parsley and silver sage. These need two years to complete a life cycle.

Beer Petitions Circulated at RL

Petitions are circulating again this week calling for an election to legalize the sale of beer for off-premises consumption in Justice Precincts 1 and 3. Petitions which were circulated last week called for the election only in Justice Precinct 1, but these petitions were withdrawn.

An application for the petitions was received in the county clerk's office Tuesday morning. The application contained 11 names but one name was marked off because it was not signed the same as the name was listed on the signer's voter registration form. Ten names are required before the petitions can be issued.

Ten copies of the petition were issued bearing the date April 11 and petitioners have 30 days to get them signed and turned in to the county clerk.

There was speculation that backers of the election would like to get them completed by the next regular meeting of the Commissioners' Court which is May 8. The law specifies that an election of this type may be called only at a regular meeting of the commissioners.

In order for the election to be called, the petitions must be signed by at least as many registered voters as would amount to 25 percent of the total vote cast in the last general election for governor of the state. The petitions must be signed exactly as the signer's name appears on his voter registration form, says the law.

Justice Precincts 1 and 3 include the old Commissioner Precincts 1 and 3. The justice precinct lines were set up by the Commissioners' Court in 1952. Commissioner precinct lines have since been re-drawn but the justice precincts remain the same.

Angelo, Tuscola Volleyball Winners

Vick's Construction Co. women's volley ball team and Gray's Finemen's team from Tuscola were champions of the adult volleyball tournament held here last weekend.

In the women's division, Bronte won second and Crews was consolation winner.

Robert Lee took second place in the men's division and the San Angelo YMCA team took consolation.

Sponsors of the tournament expressed a special thanks to C. B. Barbee and Zula Sweeten for their officiating; to Mmes. Royce Fancher and Bob Shields and the junior class for the operation of the concession stand; and to the girls who helped keep score and call lines, Debbie Hurley, Susie Collins, Kim Glascock, Debbie Bryant and Ann Ivey.

Baseball Work Day Set for Saturday

A workday at the local ball field was poorly attended last Saturday and has been reset for next Saturday, April 15, at 9 a.m. At the same time all boys interested in playing Little League ball this year should be at the local field to sign up.

A spokesman said that it is important for all parents and players to attend this Saturday to help get the field ready, as the first home game is scheduled for May 2.

All boys ages 10 through 12 who will not be 13 before Aug. 1 are eligible to play Little League ball. A birth certificate will have to be presented later.

The baseball meeting scheduled for last Tuesday night was cancelled due to a meeting of area Little League managers in Robert Lee. This meeting has been reset for Tuesday, April 18, in the City Hall at 7 p.m. Everyone is urged to attend.

CONNIE ADAMS HONORED AT SATURDAY TEA

Miss Connie Adams of Austin, bride-elect of Royce L. Lee, was honored at a gift tea last Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charlie Boecking.

The tea table was laid with a white lace cloth and centered with a spring arrangement of daisies, carnations, and status in a cut glass and silver bowl containing four white tapers. Silver appointments were used. Party sandwiches, cookies, nuts, mints and lime sherbert punch were served by Mrs. Tom Boecking and Mrs. Brian Richards.

Melissa Lee registered the guests.

Hostesses were Mmes. Boecking, C. O. Richards, R. T. Caperton, Joe Rawlings, Cecil Kemp, D. K. Glenn, Roy Robinson and Ben Oglesby.

A special guest was the honoree's mother, Mrs. John Adams, of Austin.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

Washington — Since the early days of our nation some of the most heated legislative battles have centered around our immigration policies. Several occurred in the years following World War II and since that time immigration quotas have been considerably liberalized.

There is pending legislation to grant entry into this country of relatives of citizens, which would have the potential of increasing the over-all quotas considerably.

This issue has always been sensitive since the make-up of the Congress represents many ethnic origins, each with a sympathy towards the country of its forebears. Especially is this true with the Italians of which there are approximately 15 in the House of Representatives. The Irish are also in prominence.

A presidential commission on population growth addresses itself to this question in its third and concluding report. The commission gives weight to the effect of immigrants on the United States population growth in the immediate years ahead. Admittedly, it leaves a number of questions unanswered as to how a more strict policy of immigration could be achieved but it does say that immigrants contributed mightily to the country's development but have also created problems. It recognized that our immigration laws have reflected a compassion for the oppressed and the tradition should not be tossed aside, although the problem of overpopulation must and should be reckoned with.

The report says the time has come to look at our immigration policy in the light of a number of considerations. The document points out that because fertility rates in the United States have been declining, immigrants now account for a substantial part of our population growth. It makes the point that 400,000 immigrants entering the United States yearly now represent one-fifth of the total increase. If immigration continues at this level, the report says, and if all families were to average two children each, then immigrants arriving between 1970 and the year 2,000, plus their descendants, would number 15 million and account for nearly one quarter of the total population increase during this period. This number would go up if the figures on illegal aliens continue to rise.

The commission did make one clear recommendation. It appears to be the easy one and reflects some sentiments being voiced in the Congress. This is to pass legislation imposing civil and criminal sanctions on employers who knowingly hire illegal border crossers.

It is hardly reasonable that an employer should have to determine whether an employee had the proper credentials or not. Sure, he could ask the question but whatever answer he got would hardly be proof that he knew the employee was an alien. This burden should not be placed on the employer but since the Bracero Labor Lay was repealed under the influence of the labor unions, the "wetback" practice has been the only way many Mexicans across the border could find a way to make a living. The type of labor sought by farmers and ranchers was not and is not available among our own citizens.

The commission's final report noted the "inconsistency" of planning population stability while admitting large numbers of immigrants each year. While the majority of the Commission recommended against raising immigration levels, it also voted against any move to tilt downward the annual number allowed to come and all this does is put off answering a difficult question. This country, as the commission suggested, needs to know more about its immigrant population and its governmental agencies should keep better abreast of immigrant impact on its total population. Beyond that, if Americans are to become serious about limiting the growth of our numbers, the need will arise to fashion some kind of formula to deal with the issue of overall population trends and policy.

The prospect of dealing with population growth is not imminent although it is an overriding challenge of long range effect. Until there is a greater awareness of the long range consequences, and because of the sensitive nature of the issue, any action will probably be postponed for a considerable time.

Apr. 16 Designated As Cancer Sunday

Sunday, April 16, is Cancer Sunday in Robert Lee and during the following week a worker will be calling on everyone in Robert Lee for a contribution and to distribute life saving leaflets.

The theme, "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime," grows out of the great advances that science has made in recent years in combatting cancer with new drugs and more advanced methods of surgery and radiation. Also, it reflects the judgment of many eminent physicians that we may be approaching the staging area for a major assault on this dread disease.

Every dollar that is given to the American Cancer Society helps support vital programs of public education, research, and patient services, declared Mrs. Gene R. Baker, chairman of the Coke County Crusade.

The King Brothers were honored along with other ranchmen throughout the state, who also received this award. The award was for work done on their place near Blackwell.

"BOOK PARADE" SET FOR NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

The '69 Study Club is sponsoring a book parade on Saturday, April 22, in observance of National Library Week. Children, from kindergarten through the fifth grade, will participate and will be dressed as characters in books they have read.

Children will meet at the school at 10 a.m. where they will be judged, then parade through downtown Bronte. Prizes will be given in two categories: one in the kindergarten through second grade group and the other from third graders through the fifth grade. All children are invited to participate.

L. C. Lofland was admitted to Bronte Hospital Wednesday after being found ill at his Home Lumber Company here. Dr. John R. Harris was called to the lumber yard Wednesday morning. Lofland was resting comfortably Thursday and is being treated for a bleeding ulcer.
