Boys Win Another Trophy Style Show at Alamo Theater

The second trophy won by Rex Keeling and his field and track team this season, was presented by Coach Keeling to Supt. Taylor in the regular weekly assembly Wednesday. This trophy was won last Saturday at Barnhart in the largest meet held this side of Fort Worth. The trophy will be returned to Barnhart next spring to be awarded to the team winning the highest number of points. According to the rules, any school being awarded the trophy for three consecutive years will receive it as a permanent award.

San Angelo held the trophy last year.

With honors already piled up, Supt. Taylor pointed out that Robert Lee had a strong chance to win the West Texas championship. Two more trophies are almost assured; the one from the county meet at Bronte and from the district meet two weeks hence at San Angelo.

Robert Lee took first place at Barnhart on 44 points--two better than at Veribest--while San Angelo came out second with 30½.

James Newton was again high point man of the day, tabbing 17 points, and Bud Thedford took third on 14 points.

Robert Lee picked up most of her points on the field division. The events won by Robert Lee men were:

120 yard high hurdles--Newton, first; Williams, fourth.

100 yard dash--Hickman, 4th. 1 mile run--Millicap, third.

High jump--Newton and Thedford, tie for first; Hickman, second.

Pole vault--Thedford, first; Williams, second.

Broad jump--Williams and Hoffman of McCamey, tie for first.

Discus--Newton, second; Thedford, third.

Shot put--Newton, first; Thedford, second.

Methodist W. M. S.

The Methodist W. M. S. met Monday afternoon at the church. The concluding dividing of the Bible study, His Witness, a study based on the Book of Acts, was led by Mrs. J. S. Gardner. Following the study period, Mrs. Gardner gave a true false test on the book.

The topic for study at the next meeting is, Being a Good Neighbor, as exemplified in the life of Jane Addams.

Present Monday were, Mesdames Marvin Simpson, T. S. Wylie, W. C. McDonald, J. S. Gardner, F. O. Green, J. A. Clift, E. B. Creech.

Mrs. G. C. Allen accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Clift, made official visits to the O. E. chapters at Eldorado and Sonora this week. While in Eldorado, they visited with Mrs. Mabel Tubb.

At the Alamo theatre, Saturday night, Mrs. Cortez Russell presented for W. K. Simpson & Company a style show in spring design of the Maybelle dresses made in Ft. Worth. The stage was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Miss Myvan Morris did the announcing and models were selected from among local girls and young women. The models and the dresses they displayed were: Miss Christine Glenn, crash sports dress of Mexican turquoise; Miss Charlene Morrow, coral blister crepe with clever buttons; Miss Dovie Williams, printed batiste with peplum; Miss Mary May Craddock, two piece printed crash; Miss Zada Patterson, turquoise candelwick with detachable buttons--for washing; Miss Sylvia Taylor, white candelwick with silk cord tie at neck; Mary Lou McGutchen, slacks and blouse with coolie hat; Miss Esteline Denman, white coat suit with blue blouse; Mrs. Frank Allen, printed blister crepe with sandals of red and white; Mrs. Fred Campbell, printed shantung fishback swagger suit; Mrs. Carroll Russell, cotton tweed sports dress; Miss Virginia Griffith, white pique swagger suit with colored blouse; Miss Pauline Roe, green printed crash with brown accessories.

Mrs. Russell presented each one who helped in the style show with her choice with a flower corsage, and a ticket to the show.

Mrs. Russell plans to have another style show about a month before the close of school, at that time showing the mid-summer styles in dresses and accessories.

Robert Lee P. T. A.

The Robert Lee P. T. A. met Thursday afternoon at the school building, primarily for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Preceding the business session, Martha Frances Smith told a story and readings were given by Geneva Scoggins, Willie Belle Williams and Maxine Slaughter.

In the election of officers, Mrs. Druce Scoggins was chosen president the coming year, Mrs. J. S. Craddock, vice president and Mrs. Frank Percifull was reelected as secretary-treasurer.

Miss Morris, chairman of the cook-book committee, reported that material had been gathered for the cook-books which would be ready for sale within about 30 days.

Mrs. Daisy McCutchen was appointed to arrangements for a summer health round-up of pre-school-age children who will enter school next fall. A nurse will be secured to work with Dr. Griffith and announcement will be made to parents when plans are complete.

The County Council of P. T. A. will meet at 2:30 on the third Saturday afternoon in April, at the Methodist church.

High-powered News

The birth of a grandson is news. The birth of grand-twins is big news. But the birth of two grandsons and one granddaughter within one twenty-four hour period--that's news raised to a high power.

It was into such a state of excitement that Mrs. Mabel Williams was rushed when a son born Monday afternoon to Mr and Mrs. Sam Jay was closely followed by twins, a boy and a girl, born Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jones. The Jay baby has been named Robert Lewis.

Baptist W. M. S.

Nine members of the Baptist W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Paul Good Wednesday afternoon. Woman's Contribution to the Kingdom, was the topic for study.

Mrs. Jim Smith conducted the Bible study and led prayer. Mrs. J. D. Coleman gave a talk under two topics in an interesting and unique way. The first part, Women in the Home, was given while Mrs. J. C. Sneed with her baby, Johnnie Beth, represented the woman in the home and Mrs. Rex Keeling played Home Sweet Home. Mrs. Marvin Stewart represented the teacher's work in the Kingdom while Mrs. Keeling played School Days. Mrs. Morrow spoke on Woman's Work Around the World as Mrs. Keeling played Send the Light.

Mrs. W. J. Cumbie gave an interesting paper on The Pastora (pastor's wife) With a Truck.

The hostess passed refreshments to Mesdames Bob Reed, W. J. Cumbie, Rex Keeling, J. C. Sneed, B. M. Gramling, Marvin Stewart, L. M. Morrow, J. C. Coleman.

The W. M. S. will meet next Wednesday with Mrs. Rex Keeling.

In Memory of FAY COOK LOFTON

Dear little Fay, how we miss you, Your smile so bright and true, Your always loving kindness, To those who were around you.

I loved you for your goodness, Your sweet and gentle ways, Your ever ready willingness, To help someone every day.

Your memory is a shining light to me,

Where ever I may go, "Fay", Sweet, Kind, and Good, I loved you so.

You are at rest but not forgotten. I'll always think of you, And pray if God be willing, We'll meet in heaven too.

By Carol Shropshire Reed.

Mrs. Dewey R. Gartman

Mrs. Dewey R. Gartman, who before her marriage was Ethel Martin, died Saturday afternoon in a San Angelo hospital following a n operation performed earlier in the day.

Mrs. Gartman was born July 27, 1900. She was married to Dewey R. Gartman June 1, 1918.

Funeral services, held at the Sanco Baptist church were conducted by Rev. J. D. Coleman, assisted by Rev. D. K. Smith, Rev. Bloodworth, and Rev. Ulmer Bird. Burial was in the Sanco cemetery with W. B. Clift, funeral director, in charge.

Paul bearers were; Oral Adkins, Berly Atkins, Sam McGallion, Taylor Shelton, Herman Beauman, and Charlie Franklin. Carrying flowers were; Mrs. Taylor Shelton, Mrs. Jess Martin Mrs. Otis Campbell, and Mrs. Audrey McKinley.

Surviving are, the husband; four children, Inez, D. R. Jr., Lucille, and Billie Jean; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin; a sister, Faye Martin; two brothers, Levi and D. K. Martin, all of Sterling City; a brother, Floyd Martin and a sister, T. L. Williamson, both of Big Spring, two other brothers, Roy and Marvin Martin of Eunice, N. M.

Emergency Crop Loans

Application for emergency crop loans for 1936 are now being received at the Court House by L. S. R. Clarke, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The emergency crop loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1936 crops and in no instance may exceed $200 to one farmer.

Farmers are not eligible for emergency crop loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Farmers will also be considered ineligible if they have an application pending with Resettlement Administration, have received assistance from that organization this year or are indebted to the Resettlement Administration for an unpaid loan.

As in the past, the security for an emergency crop loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlord or others having an interest in the crop to be financed will be required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the emergency crop loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, Texas.

Irvan H. Brunson Seeks Office of County Treasurer

I am a candidate for the office of County Treasurer of Coke County. I would not announce for this office if I did not believe that I am amply qualified to fill same to the satisfaction of the people and with credit to myself.

I only lacked one grade completing the literary course of the Bronte high school, and I completed the course in commercial bookkeeping in the Bronte school last year. So I know that my training qualifies me fill the position I seek.

I am 28 years of age, and was born in Erath county, but have made my home in Coke county since 1917. I have never asked for office before. I need the office and seek it because it will enable me to gain a livelihood.

I promise the people that if they will elect me and it develops from any reason that I do not fill the office efficiently and promptly and to the satisfaction of the people I will resign. I promise to be right on the job all the time and will always remember I am the servant of the people and must serve them in the very best way possible.

Folks, please help me--and thus help a boy who has always tried, and is now trying, to "make good" in spite of his handicap.

Thanking each and all for their vote and any help you can give me, I am,

Gratefully yours,
Irvan H. Brunson.

Blue Bonnet Bridge Club

The Blue Bonnet Club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. C. Clark. Mrs. R. C. Russell won high score for members while Miss Christine Glenn took high for guests.

The added scores for the past quarter showed that The Blues with Mrs. F. C. Clark as captain had defeated Mrs. J. S. Craddock's Bonnets. The losing division is to entertain the victors with a night party April 7.

In the business session the following officers were for the coming quarter, president, Miss Mettie Russell; secretary, Mrs. Marvin Simpson; captains, Mrs. Paul Good and Mrs. Rex Keeling.

The hostess, Mrs. F. C. Clark, served a salad course to Mesdames R. C. Russell, J. S. Craddock, Rial Denman, Rex Keeling, Paul Good, Marvin Simpson, Fred Roe, John Brown, G. C. Allen, W. E. Wilbanks, W. W. McCutchen, T. S. Wylie, P. E. Mahon, Misses Christine Glenn, Mettie Russell.

Mrs. W. W. McCutchen is to be hostess at the next regular meeting of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sneed, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sneed, Jr., and family, visited last Sunday in Chillicothe.

Need Curb on Inquiries

Washington. — Overshadowing all else in the national capital at this writing is the controversy that is boiling and surging around the head of Alabama's Democratic Senator Black, who is the chairman of the senate's lobby investigating committee. As an offshoot of this controversy, the federal communications commission is in water much too hot for bathing and it begins to appear that when the steam blows off the communications commission is likely to be a thoroughly discredited federal agency because of the part it played in Senator Black's unprecedented seizure of private telegrams from the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

Speaking generally, it has been seldom that a United States senator has ever attempted to assert the authority that Senator Black has used and it is equally unprecedented that a federal agency has gone to the extremes that characterized the action of the communications commission in connection with the seizure of the messages.

But some good may come from the police court prosecution tactics employed by Senator Black and some good may come from the accusations leveled at the communications commission because that body helped Senator Black carry out his plans.

The country-wide indignation that has arisen from Senator Black's usurpation of power has brought to the front a question that needs public attention and needs it badly. I refer, in this connection, to the steadily expanding efforts of congressional investigators, especially senatorial investigators, to take over, as their own, powers that always have been regarded as reserved exclusively to the courts. The consensus among Washington observers certainly is that the legislative inquiries have developed to a point where the most humble requirements of justice have been and are being completely ignored. Whether they are so intended, these inquiries, and this includes investigations conducted by committees not only of congress but of state legislatures and even city councils, are approaching the point where they are almost tyrannical.

It goes without saying, then, that the time has arrived for citizens to assert themselves. These inquiries will not proceed when the elected legislators, state or national, learn that the people do not approve of such high-handed tactics.

In order to have an understanding of the latest of these escapades, it is necessary to review briefly what has happened in the case of the senate lobby investigating committee. Almost a year ago the committee sought the aid of the federal communications commission which had the color of authority in law for investigating the business of the telegraph companies. Senator Black issued a broad subpoena, directing the telegraph companies to make available any and all messages his committee desired. Communications commission agents then went into the telegraph company files, read everything they could find and made copies of all of the messages which those agents, under guidance of Black investigators, thought would be helpful to the Black committee in exposing operations of private individuals.

The purpose of this, as outlined by Senator Black, was to locate clues to the machinations of business interests who were seeking passage or defeat for legislation pending in congress. The Alabama senator wanted to "show up" lobbyists. He contended and has maintained consistently that "these malefactors of great wealth" could not accomplish any influence in congress unless it were done secretly and "in the dark."

In other words, Senator Black persuaded members of the communications commission to help him in his fishing expedition. He persuaded that organization that it should become a party to an unprecedented effort designed as a dragnet, a movement to smear anybody and everybody who had used telegraphic service.

The Black plan was carried out in secret. Senders and receivers of messages which those agents copied knew nothing about it. The operation was just as much "in the dark" as any of the lobbying about which Senator Black complained, even more so. It was only by accident that the facts became known but when they did become known, the lid was promptly blown off. The end is not yet, nor is it even in sight. One federal judge has issued a restraining order against such tactics and a half dozen other applications for similar orders are pending. Undoubtedly, the questions, whatever the rulings may be, will find their way eventually to the Supreme court of the United States.

The senate itself is looking into the situation. It has, by resolution, asked the federal communications commission to make a report stating the facts and by what authority it acted.

So there is much hubbub about the whole thing and if one may judge from the line of conversation generally heard around Washington, Senator Black is on the hot spot, and the spot thus far has shown no indications of entering a cooling stage.

Charge Unfairness

Senate investigations long have been considered by many people as a modus operandi that creak with unfairness. Unbiased observers frequently have criticized them because of the methods employed. It seems absolutely necessary that the senate should have power to call witnesses, to ask legitimate and proper questions and to force answers. If it is going to enact legislation to correct evils, it must be equipped with such powers. But the point is that in seeking such information, the senate has consistently permitted its committees to act in a fashion that can be described by no other word than outrageous. I have watched them over a period of nearly twenty years and seldom, if ever, has there been an important investigation that did not degenerate sooner or later into a condition that savored of police court practices.

Respectable citizens have been subpoenaed, have gone before the committees willing to tell their complete story, anxious to co-operate and have found themselves treated as outlaws and criminals. This situation has become so prevalent in senate investigations that when any citizen is subpoenaed to appear before a senate investigation these days, his neighbors and friends begin to ask each other what crookedness is involved. In other words, the psychology of the senate investigation, as it has developed through the last fifteen or twenty years, has become one that reverses the constitutional right of an individual that he is innocent until he is proved guilty.

For several years, there has been a bill pending in congress designed to prevent, or at least reduce, lynchings. The theory back of it is that many times innocent persons have been lynched and that every one has a right to a trial by jury in a properly constituted court. Over across the Atlantic ocean, dictators have operated and have employed the "blood purge," the summary death sentence or the execution without granting the accused the right of defense. Undoubtedly some persons guilty of murder or rape have been lynched; undoubtedly the "blood purge" by the Nazi rulers destroyed some bad characters and undoubtedly the summary executions by the Soviet or the Fascists of Italy have provided death for individuals who were festering sores to humanity, but there can be no doubt that in the case of the lynchings or in the case of the "blood purge" or the summary executions, many innocent persons have had their lives snuffed out.

Not Wholly to Blame

In defense of Senator Black's action in the lobby investigation, I think it can fairly be said that he is not wholly to blame if he has gone further than any other in the program of inquiry and prosecution upon which he has launched. Little by little, bit by bit, the senate has arrogated to itself authority hitherto not used by it. Little by little, it has encroached upon what many believe to be the jurisdiction of the courts and in a like manner it has taken unto itself powers hitherto supposed to have been exclusively reserved to the executive department of government.

It would seem, then, that if other senate committees had established the precedent, Senator Black could properly use the same methods. The trouble in his case is that he did not stop at limits previously set, discreditable as those limits were, but went beyond them.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

If Russia Joined Japan
Not Heroic Action
Lloyd George Hopeful
England Still Safe

Editors talk about Asia, led by Japan, conquering the world. They might speculate on a union between Japan and Russia.

Improbable, you will say, truly, but if Russian-Japanese hostility could be changed into Russian-Japanese agreement a new world chapter might open.

You hear of Russia's "red army," 1,300,000 men, thoroughly armed, and 7,000,000 reserves.

You see photographs of Russia's amphibian tanks, mounted with machine guns, rolling over the land and swimming rivers; you read about intensive training of tens of thousands of Russian air pilots, parachute jumpers, etc., and see even the broad-shouldered young Russian women drilling with rifles. Western Europe may have a problem closer at hand than Japan.

Our British cousins in the Revolution cheerfully let loose howling, scapling Indians on their cousins in the American colonies, and bolshevism might cheerfully turn Asiatic killing efficiency against western "capitalism."

You remember how cheerfully the great historian Gibbon predicted that, in the American war, "with firmness all may go well," because "Scotch Highlanders, Irish, Hanoverians, Canadians, Indians, etc., will all in various shapes be employed."

There is no reason why Russia of 1936 should be more squeamish now than England at the end of the Eighteenth century.

Lloyd George, who ought to know about Europe and war since he and old Clemenceau won the big war, tells Universal Service this present war is "off," France having learned that "even her most ardent friends in Europe shrink from war."

Lloyd George declares that peace "without derogating from the dignity of any of the powers" will be preserved, if France does not make it impossible.

Lloyd George says not 1 per cent of Englishmen would vote for war, and not 10 per cent for employing sanctions against Germany.

If enough rich Americans go to England to "escape kidnapers" the kidnapers may move over after them, as professional gamblers follow on big ships. London police arrested Alfred Molyneux, thirty-one, trying to extort $1,000 from the Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, offering to reveal a plot to kidnap her baby. Police knew by the moderate price it could not be an American "snatcher" or confederate. Easily caught, the young man confessed he had invented the plot.

With "visibility cut to zero," street lights burning by day, not visible across the street, dust storms are blowing over parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

By such displays of nature's power, for which man's foolishness is responsible, fertile areas of the world have been changed to deserts.

A bill that would have limited work to five working days of six hours each, or thirty hours a week, is dead in congress for the time being. It would have given workers twenty-four hours off on Saturday and Sunday, eighteen hours off on every other day—eight hours for sleep, "ten hours for what we will." All that will come some day, but not by discouraging improved machinery.

An intelligent young man who fought well in the big war speaks of "the 2-to-1" advantage which modern methods give the defense over the attack. To let the other man or nation come at you, if you are prepared, has been wise in the past.

It might be different in future wars, if the attacker, with a couple of thousand airplanes, dropping explosive bombs and poison gas, should surprise the enemy. "Defense" would have no 2-to-1 advantage over that sort of attack.

Lloyds, the great English insurance concern, at first refused to insure against war at any price. Now Lloyds will insure, otherwise "bet," nine and a half to one against war within six months. Wall Street wanted that news and of course cheered up.

Smart Jacket Dress With Bows of Print

Versatility is an engaging quality in this little two piece frock. Make it feminine with bows and a belt of bright print, or slightly mannish with round buttons and a narrow belt.

The hip length jacket with its cut-away effect and front panel are the dominating features of the dress. Notice how the gathers peep cunningly in back and front beneath the circular yoke. A simple skirt, but not too simple to be attractive. Individualism is attributed to the wide tailored pleats in the front.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1834-B is available for sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch fabric plus 1/2 yard of contrasting material.

The Barbara Bell Pattern Book featuring Spring designs is ready. Send fifteen cents today for your copy.

Are some SEEDS more intelligent than others?

Maybe you think it impossible to breed vegetable and flower seeds that know how to grow. Well, it isn't! For that's exactly what The Ferry-Morse Seed Breeding Institute is doing at its stations in Rochester, Mich., and Salinas, California.

Cucumbers eight inches long—no more, no less; solid red beets; carrots that are practically coreless; rust-resistant snapdragons. Just a few of our achievements!

Year-in, year-out, new strains, adapted to varying soil and climate conditions, are being developed... existing quality is being improved and protected. After thorough tests for germination and purity, progeny of the foundation stocks is offered for planting in your garden. You'll find them listed in your free copy of our Home Garden Catalog.

Look for the Ferry display in your local stores. Watch the radio programs for our helpful garden talks over Station WFAA. Ferry-Morse Seed Co., Detroit and San Francisco.

JESUS EXPLAINS THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Luke 13:18-30. GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.—Luke 13:29.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Good News to Men. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Talks About His Kingdom.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—My Part in Extending Christ's Kingdom. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Requirements for Citizenship in the Kingdom.

1. Jesus Teaching in the Synagogue

The presence of a sorely afflicted woman called forth Jesus' sympathy and he, therefore, healed her. This action on the Sabbath day provoked severe criticism on the part of the ruler of the synagogue.

1. The parable of the mustard seed (vv. 18, 19). a. Its unimportant beginnings (v. 19).

It begins as the least of all seeds and grows to be the greatest among herbs. The parentage and humble circumstances of Jesus the King greatly perplexed the people.

2. The parable of the leavened meal (v. 21). When the scriptural significance of the meal, the woman, and the leaven is known, the interpretation is easy.

a. The meal. Meal in Scripture means something wholesome and nutritious. It was used in one of the sweet savour offerings which typify Christ (Lev. 2:1-3) and was the food for the priests (Lev. 6:15-17).

b. The leaven (v. 21). In the Scriptures leaven is invariably a type of evil, as the following examples show (Exod. 12:5, Lev. 2:11; Matt. 16:6, 12; 1 Cor. 5:6-8).

c. The woman. In normal life the woman is the administrator of the home, not its head. Her responsibility is to take the bread provided by the head, prepare and distribute it to the household.

II. Jesus Teaching in the Villages and Cities (vv. 22-30).

Jesus knew that he was on the way to Jerusalem to be crucified. He was, therefore, making an effort to reach every person possible with the gospel.

1. A question asked (v. 23). We do not know just why this question was asked. It may have been out of curiosity or by some Jew who prided himself on being of the elect.

2. The Lord's answer (vv. 24-30). He did not answer directly, but by likening the blessing of the kingdom to a banquet hall in a palace.

a. The gate of the kingdom is strait and the way narrow. It is easy to see from his teaching, as well as from observation, that the saved are few.

b. The immediate duty to set forth (v. 24). Regardless of what others are doing, the personal obligation is upon everyone to strive to enter.

c. The door to be shut (v. 25). God's patience will not last forever. His mercy is to end and his judgment will follow.

d. Pleading for entrance on the ground of knowing Christ (vv. 25, 26). This plea is met by the awful command to depart, and even calling them "workers of iniquity."

e. A day of weeping and gnashing of teeth (v. 28). The very sight of the faithful ones enjoying the blessing of the kingdom, while they themselves are shut out, will be extremely awful.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Some stucco walls may be washed with soap and water, but a coat of stucco sprayed over the whole surface is much more satisfactory than washing.

To prevent dried fruits dropping to the bottom of a gelatin mold, chill fruits and add when gelatin mixture has partly congealed.

Discolored linoleums may be cleaned with alcohol. After cleaning allow them to dry thoroughly, then apply lacquer.

Orange juice mixed with confectioner's sugar and a little grated orange rind makes a very soft and delicious cake frosting.

Fat for deep frying is at the correct temperature when an inch cube of bread dropped into it becomes a golden brown in 60 seconds.

Marinate fresh fruits to be used in salads as soon as they are cut or sprinkle them with lemon juice. This prevents discoloration.

Always keep salads on ice until it is time to serve them. They lose their flavor when exposed to heat.

Dough that has been kept in the refrigerator for several hours after it is molded should stand in a warm room for about twenty minutes before putting it into the oven.

If rugs lose their stiffness after cleansing and do not lie flat on the floor, a thin coat of white shellac applied to the back of rugs will stiffen them.

He Gives 14 Reasons for Advertising in the Home Town Newspaper

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.--Fourteen reasons were pointed out this week by Prof. Thomas F. Barnhart of the University of Minnesota to show why newspapers continue as "tops" in advertising media during 1935.

1.--Newspaper reading is a universal habit. Newspaper advertising, therefore, reached virtually all who read and buy.

2.--A newspaper advertisement can always be seen by the reader.

3.--The newspaper advertisement, as part of the complete paper, goes into the home as a welcome guest.

4.--The newspaper advertisement can have as much reader interest and news value as the news item.

5.--The amount of text used in newspaper advertisements is dependent only upon the size of space.

6.--Newspaper advertising is flexible.

7.--Newspaper advertising is quickly controlled.

8.--Newspaper advertising may be adjusted to different conditions.

9.--Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers and dealers to state where their products may be bought.

10.--Newspaper advertising is inexpensive. Merchants have learned that it covers more families for less money than any other form of advertising.

11.--Newspaper advertising results may be checked.

12.--Newspaper circulation is known and is comparatively unaffected by daily change.

13.--Nearly all of a newspaper's circulation is concentrated in its own market.

14.--Newspaper advertising reduces selling costs because it entails no waste of circulation. This helps reduce costs for the consumer.

"Newspaper advertising," says Professor Barnhart, "builds confidence and good will, attracts new customers, increases sales, and stabilizes merchandise, methods and prices."

C. E. Bruton is retiring from the grocery business in Robert Lee and is closing out his stock. He has several apartment houses in Monument, N. M., which demands all of his attention and says it is necessary for him to be there all the time.

Tony Morris was in town this week for a visit with his sister, Miss Myvan Morris.

Mrs. Lena Cowley is reported quite sick. Franklin Cowley, who last week was suffering from erysipelas, is able to be out.

Sheriff's Sale

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF COKE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That by virtue of a certain Execution issued out of the Honorable County Court of Tom Green County, on the 24th day of February, 1936, by Emmett Keating, Clerk of said County Court, for the sum of Four Hundred and Sixty-seven & 21-100 Dollars and costs of suit, under a Judgment, in favor of Martin-Glover Company in a certain cause in said Court, No. 3505 and styled Martin Glover Company vs. L. O. and E. B. Fletcher, placed in my hands for service, I, Frank Percifull as Sheriff of Coke County, Texas, did, on the 7th day of March, 1936, levy on certain Real Estate situated in Coke County, Texas, described as follows, to-wit:

First tract: 240 acres of land, being all of the north-east 1-4 and the east 1-2 of the north-west 1-4 of section or survey No. 449 in Block 1-A, B. & T. C. Ry. Company land, Abstract No. 233.

Second tract: 45 acres of lands, being the east 45 acres off the south 1-2 of the south-east quarter of section or survey No. 432, in Block 1-A, H. & T. C. Ry. Company lands, Abstract No. 2055, and levied upon as the property of E. B. Fletcher and that on the first Tuesday in April 1936, the same being the 7th day of said month, at the Court House of Coke County, in the town of Robert Lee, Texas, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4 P. M., by virtue of said levy and said execution I will sell said above described Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said E. B. Fletcher.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Robert Lee Observer, a newspaper published in Coke County.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of March, 1936.

Miss Morris accompanied five of the high school students to Abilene last Saturday where they tried for points in declamation and extemporaneous speech. No honors were brought back but they heard some fine work and the experience was well worth the trip. James Smith II, Zelma Slaughter, Alta Bell Bilbo declaimed, and J. D. Coleman and Callie Roberson contested in extemporaneous speech.

By feeding 91 pigs for 36 days, Leon Atkerson of Wise county made a net profit of $1,134. The pigs averaged 140 pounds when started. The hogs cost $455, cost of feed was $279, and they brought $1868 when sold. The hogs consumed 360 bushels of corn, 3600 pounds of peanut meal, 1800 pounds of cotton seed meal and 1800 pounds of tankage. Atkerson attributes his success to good hogs, plenty of food properly balanced and good care.

Department of Health

In connection with Clean Up Week to be held, beginning March 29, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, urges citizens of the State to give special attention toward destroying the breeding places of flies and mosquitoes.

With the usual accumulation of winter's debris, the necessity of prompt removal from the health standpoint is apparent. Conditions that foster fly-breeding are definitely menacing to the welfare of all citizens, and particularly children.

Flies thrive in dirt. There is nothing they like better. They breed in yards, on plots of ground, and on farms where decaying vegetable and animal matter and other fly-attracting substance have been permitted to pile up.

To prevent epidemics later in the season, it is essential that conditions that represent breeding places for flies and mosquitoes be removed immediately.

All cesspools should be cleaned and lined and out-houses should be made fly-proof. It is not only good housekeeping but the best kind of common sense health protection to remove all waste material in or around the yards of homes.

Health Week merely starts the campaign; the success of Clean Up measures rests entirely on the shoulders of the people of the State.

The Greatest Woman

It seems that a certain gathering where there were 200 teachers assembled this question was asked:

"What was the greatest woman in history?"

The judges were unanimous in awarding the prize to the one who made this reply:

"The wife of a farmer of moderate means, who does her own cooking, washing, ironing, sewing, brings up a family of boys and girls to be useful members of society and still finds time for intellectual improvement."

Agriculture News Notes

By H. E. Smith, County Agent.

Attention Stockmen: Again the government is making an effort to assist the cattlemen in eliminating from their herds a disease that has caused much loss and is very hard to control. The government is sponsoring a program for established cattle breeders whereby they can clean their herds of reactors of Bang's disease without program and every stockman who has this disease in his herd should be interested in eliminating the reactors. If you are interested see your County Agent for full detail in regard to this program. You will be paid for animals which are taken from your herd.

Lambing time is at hand and many sheepmen have already lambled out their flocks and many are in progress. Marking time will soon be at hand and those sheepmen who wish to secure soremouth vaccine and vaccinate for soremouth should advise their county agent at once as to how many doses of vaccine he will require. The county agent will gladly order the vaccine for the treatments if they will place their order promptly. It is a proven fact that the vaccination of lambs for soremouth is very successful and will eliminate future troubles.

Another trench silo is proving its worth. Last fall Mr. J. C. Jordan dug and filled a trench silo on his farm. Mr. Jordan filled his silo with bundle feed which had reached a stage of maturity a little greater than the best desirable form for silage. This was caused from the late rains and because he could not get in the field to handle this feed stuff at the proper time. He has opened his silo and the bundle form is cutting it out as he feeds it. He does not have the highest grade of silage, but is very pleased with the results which he is obtaining from feeding same. Mr. Jordan states he has noticed that his horses will eat certain proportions of the maize stalks in the silage form which would be a total lost in dry feed. He is feeding this silage to his horses and milch-cows and states that you can note a marked improvement in the appearance of both.

Although the season is late and the time of planting is at hand, many of the farmers are delaying their planting in order to have their fields terraced and to complete the terracing which has been started before. Many farmers in this country have rebuilt old terraces and a great many have built new terraces. They are finding if they build their terraces from 35 to 40 ft. at the base up to 2 ft. high they can be cultivated easily and by cultivating them they eliminate the seed bed for rag weeds, sun flowers, cockle burrs and other noxious weeds which are not only detrimental to the farm but are an eye-sore in any well cultivated field.

Mr. H. H. Wendland has had his farm completely reterraced and has also improved the irrigation system which has been in practice on this farm several years. He intends to irrigate about one third of his farm.

Mr. J. W. Westbrook has reterraced 180 acre field. Mr. Westbrook plants no cotton, but raises small grain and grain sorghums which he utilizes on his ranch for sheep feed.

Mr. Pat Havins has had the terraces on his farm rebuilt in order that he might more easily cultivate them.

Mr. Bryan Yarbrough has a portion of his farm terraced and several drainage ditches constructed in order that he might handle the flood water which has proved very destructive in the past.

Mr. J. J. Yarbrough has constructed some check terraces on his farm. Mr. Yarbrough's farm was one of the first farms in Coke county to be terraced and he states that he feels that if this farm had not been terraced he would not have had a farm today. It would probably have washed away years ago. Mr. Yarbrough also states that he finds the moldboard plow the proper farming plow and the destruction of rag weeds. He also states that he has found from experience in cases where he has broken his land deep he has had better returns from his crops.

Sophomore News (Bobbie Lee Davis)

Gangway! But don't get excited for it is the sophomores returning.

Last Tuesday there were only eight of the sophomore pupils absent. The stores reported an increase in their sales. Looks like some one must have enjoyed a picnic.

The sophs have added several new victims to their roll of mumps. It is reported that Finnell and James Smith both have the mumps. We are wondering if that could be the case with Joe Bean?

David Key, who has always been known as the "come and help us out" boy, saved the life of the school when he took up declamation after another boy had dropped it.

As you all know, the track boys who won the meet at Barnhart last Saturday, will have won the county meet by the time you read this paper. Mr. Keeling has made excellent progress with these boys.

Several of the sophomore students made the trip to Abilene last week-end to the speaking contest. Although no first places were won, everyone had a most enjoyable time. Those reported who went from the sophomore class were Beatrice Wojtek and James Smith.

The boys making the trip to Barnhart were Edward Hickman, Joe Bean, and Bobbie Lee Davis.

Situation in Europe Is Still Threatening

SIXTY thousand German troops in the Rhineland that was supposed to be demilitarized. Practically the entire French army in and behind the vast system of fortifications along France's eastern frontier.

That in a nutshell was the perilous situation in Europe as the representatives of the Locarno nations and the council of the league assembled in London to consider what to do next.

The Franco-Russian treaty came up in the French senate and was ratified by a huge majority. It is this pact that Hitler gave as his excuse for remilitarizing the Rhineland.

Great Britain, France, Belgium and Italy, signers of the Locarno treaty, agreed that Germany had violated that pact and the Versailles treaty and referred the matter to the council of the league.

Co-operating with the British for peace, the league council invited Hitler to send a representative to its meeting. His reply was considered "unsatisfactory" by the British and enraged the French.

French Premier Sarraut and his cabinet, according to officials in Paris, at once instructed Flandin to fight to the bitter end for the punishment of Germany, deciding that it would be better to take such a stand, even if it "wrecks the league," rather than bargain away "the nation's just right" by accepting Hitler's proposals for a new Locarno.

Germany's "army day" celebration was much quieter in the Rhineland than had been planned, owing to the tense situation. Troops at Frankfurt were inspected by War Minister Werner von Blomberg and there was a speech by Hitler; but the military parades and other features were canceled.

New York's Building Service Strike Ends

COMPROMISE brought to an end the two weeks' strike of building service workers in New York and thousands of elevator operators and other employees returned to their jobs in some 2,400 apartment houses and business structures.

Arbitration of minimum wages and maximum hours under supervision of Ferdinand A. Allcox, chief of the United States forestry service. Wages and hours are to be fixed at the end of each of the next three years on the basis of prevailing economic conditions.

In signing a three year contract with the realty advisory board, representing the employers, union leaders abandoned their demand for a closed or preferential shop.

Prince Serge Mdivani Killed by Polo Pony

PRINCE SERGE MDIVANI, one of the more or less famous brothers from the Russian province of Georgia who have married so many American heiresses and movie actresses, was killed by the kick of a polo pony at Delray Beach, Fla., during a game with Cecil Smith's Texan team.

Leftist Riots in Spain Arouse the Army

SINCE the recent elections in Spain the riots staged by the leftists have been growing more vicious daily, and after disorders at Logrono in which a number of persons were killed the Spanish army was aroused to vigorous protest.

Manuel Azana, minister of war, was said to be in sympathy with the army's demand.

Azana held a heated conference with Francisco Largo Caballero, president of the Socialist party and is said to have told him that he believed revolutionary Socialists were responsible for most of the disorders, demanding that the violence cease immediately.

Despite strict censorship imposed by the governor of Logrono it was learned that incendiaries there set fire to six convents and churches, four rightist centers and a rightist newspaper, and then attacked the army barracks, attempting to seize artillery.

Destruction by Floods in Eastern States

SPRING thaws and heavy rains created a serious condition throughout the northeastern states and as far southward as Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and in the Maritime provinces of Canada.

Britain Names Inskip to Co-Ordinate Defense

PROCEEDING with its great rearmament program, the British government has named Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney general since 1932, to be the co-ordinator of the entire scheme, giving him a newly created cabinet post.

Sir Thomas is known as an "anti-Jingoist," is sixty years old and always is calm and unruffled in the house of commons or at the bar. It will be his duty as defense co-ordinating minister to synchronize activities of the army, navy, and air service.

Newton Jenkins, Chicago, Out for Presidency

NEWTON JENKINS of Chicago, who as an independent candidate for the mayoralty of that city last April, received 11 per cent of the votes cast, has announced that he is a candidate for President of the United States.

"The Third party will nominate a President," he said in a mimeographed statement sent to the newspapers. "I am a candidate for that nomination."

Legal Measures to Stop Seizures of Telegrams

CHIEF JUSTICE ALFRED A. WHEAT of the District of Columbia Supreme court checked the telegram-seizing activities of the Black senate committee on lobbying. He granted the Chicago law firm of Silas H. Strawn an injunction restraining the Western Union Telegraph company from giving the committee copies of the firm's telegrams.

The judge said the subpoena served on the telegraph company by the committee, calling for copies of telegrams "goes way beyond" the committee's powers.

Next day William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher, began a fight in court to keep an original confidential telegram out of the hands of the Black committee; and the American Newspaper Publishers' association denounced the reported seizure of that telegram, which was to one of Mr. Hearst's editors.

Franco Makes Paraguay Totalitarian State

COL. RAFAEL FRANCO, who became provisional president of Paraguay after the recent revolution there, has set up a totalitarian government modeled after German Nazism and Italian Fascism. He issued a decree which declared the state and the "liberating revolution" of February 17 as indivisible and banned for one year political, labor, or other unions which "do not emanate explicitly from the state."

Paraguay, the government asserted, will be purged of "endemic, demagogic, industrial, and sectarian evils."

Franco's government was formally recognized at Asuncion by diplomatic representatives of the United States, Chile, Brazil, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay, Great Britain, France, Germany and Spain.

Death of Earl Beatty, British Navy Figure

EARL BEATTY, commander of the British war fleet in 1916-18 and afterward first lord of the admiralty, died in London after a long illness at the age of sixty-five. Rising from a sick-bed to attend the funeral of Earl Jellicoe last November, he predicted that he would soon follow his colleague. Lord Beatty had a meteoric career as a naval commander and displayed his ability in the battles of Heligoland Bight and Dogger Bank, and especially in the battle of Jutland where he commanded the first battle cruiser squadron. His wife, who died in 1932, was Ethel Field, daughter of the Chicago merchant prince, Marshall Field.

Davis Sent to Europe to Study Conditions

CHESTER C. DAVIS, head of the invalidated AAA, is not going to administer the soil conservation program devised as a substitute. President Roosevelt announced that Mr. Davis would leave soon on a trip to Europe to make a special study for the government of economic conditions bearing on the agricultural plans for this country. Critics of the administration immediately assumed that Mr. Davis and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had disagreed and that the former was being gently edged out of the picture. This Mr. Wallace warmly denied, asserting there had been no friction.

England's Bachelor King Hints He May Marry

GREAT BRITAIN is interested and pleased to learn that King Edward VIII may abandon his state of bachelorhood and take unto himself a wife. This was revealed when the king authorized these lines in the message submitting the civil list to the house of commons: "His majesty desires that the contingency of his marriage should be taken into account so that, in that event, there should be a provision for her majesty."

Five princesses of Europe are considered most eligible to become Edward's spouse. These are Irene and Catherine of Greece (whose ancestry is Danish), Juliana of the Netherlands, Eugenia of Greece, and Kyre of Russia, daughter of Grand Duke Cyril of Russia who is pretender to the Russian throne.

BLACK-DRAUGHT Next Time You Need a Laxative

For constipation, take a dose of Black-Draught as soon as you realize the condition you are in. "If I am bilious, have headache or a cold, I take a dose of Black-Draught at night," writes Mrs. R. D. Thaxton, of Lexington, Ga.

Black-Draught paves the way for the relief of many such symptoms as those mentioned above, when constipation is at the bottom of the trouble.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

He was about to go on when a small movement on the ground attracted him; he stooped and gently put down one hand, palm cupped, and rising showed Nan a bee crawling over his fingers.

"Pig!" he chided. "He's loaded up so heavily that he can't fly! Go on! Try it from here!" He waved his hand and the bee took wing, going slowly and groggily, but with that aid finally making a successful attempt at flight.

He stooped over again, watching another busy worker.

"Pretty fair Italians," he said. "Not pure; hybrids, but they look like right good honey-makers."

"Are you, among other things, a bee expert?" Nan laughed.

"No, but once I had to live for a while with an old codger who kept 'em. That was about the best time I had when I was a kid. I got real clubby with bees . . . liked 'em. When I get so old I can't ramble any more maybe I'll settle down and keep 'em and let 'em keep me!"

"Is that the only plan you have?" He straightened and looked at her so intently that she flushed.

"Maybe not," he said gravely. "I'll know before long."

Later they stood shoulder to shoulder, waiting for the compass to come to rest that they might be certain of precise directions, eyes of each on the swinging dial. Nan's breath was a caress for Kerry's cheek and his hands began to tremble.

A few days earlier he would have laughed at this reaction but now he simply moved without explanation and placed the compass on a boulder where it would have stability.

"That hemlock stub is due north—" "Sh!"

Young cut off her words with the low warning, making no movement.

"Wait!" he whispered. "Something coming. Hear it?"

The girl did not, at first, but after a moment of strained listening nodded her head silently.

Something was coming their way, slowly, perhaps hesitantly. Then, as a breath of breeze stirred the foliage, blowing from them to the direction from which the sounds came, that approach became more rapid.

Hoof beats and scrapings of brush and finally a queer, inquiring grunt or two.

"Oh!" Nan whispered as it came into view. "Moose calf! . . . Why . . . he's coming up to us!"

Indeed, it seemed as if the creature would run them down. It came on, head up, ears stiff, emitting a series of low sounds, picking up its feet awkwardly with the long, gangling legs; great, dark eyes fast on those two humans.

"Why! He'll . . ." Nan caught at Kerry's elbow as the calf kept on, never slackening its pace and so close that in another stride or two they might have touched it.

But on the movement the animal swerved, half turned away, swung off to the right and stopped facing them, standing there all rigid attention and wonder.

The short tail twitched, the nostrils quirked. Young's elbow pressed Nan's hand warningly to his side. They stood motionless as the moose continued to stare at them, making those plaintive, inquiring sounds.

Kerry could feel the girl tremble and that sent a tremor through his own body.

He began to imitate the sound the calf made and on that the creature backed off a few steps, seeming frightened. But when the man did not move it resumed its own grunts, as if doing its best to bridge the barrier between species and talk.

"What the dickens are you?" he seemed to be trying to say. "Where do you come from? Why are you here? I never smelled or saw anything like you two in all my born days! I'm kind of afraid of you, but I want to give you a good once-over before I hit for yonder! There's so much for a young feller like me to run across for the first time!"

For over a minute the calf stood there, using all its senses to size up that man and that woman. And then, probably as an instinctive mistrust of anything so widely at variance with all its other young experience asserted itself, began to back. The retreat at first was orderly, a slow, backward stepping. Then it turned sideways and broke into a trot, went faster. Once it stopped and cast an apprehensive glance over its shoulder and after that, dropped its ears and disappeared at a lumbering but flowing trot.

"Why! Why, of all things!" breathed Nan, withdrawing her hand from Young's arm.

The man laughed. "Never saw it before!" he said. "But in the woods if you use your eyes, you see plenty for the first time." He laughed loudly.

"His first encounter with man scent, you see. He wined us from wherever he was and curiosity made him come our way. Likely, he's never been molested in all his couple of months on earth and so he doesn't know much about fear."

"Tough, isn't it, that every species has its predator enemies and has to start learning how to defend itself by the law of claw and fang before it has a good chance to enjoy such a swell world?"

"Yes, it's tough," she replied and looked with a peculiar intimacy into his face. "There's so much to enjoy if only all of us would!"

They started on and after a time Kerry spoke bluntly the thing that her last words had left in his mind.

"The moose did me a favor. He frightened you a little and made you touch me. . . . That was a downright enjoyable experience."

"Please!" "But you understand, don't you, that I mean that? It's not just a string of words?"

"Yes. And, because of that . . . Please!"

"Right! . . . This is the best stand of maple I've seen in this country. Look at the bird's eye tree, there. Two good veneer logs in it."

It was late afternoon when they reached the canoe on their return.

"We've time to look at the cabin now," Nan told him, nodding toward the log structure on the high bank; and she led the way.

Beside the door was a rack of implements for use in fighting fires.

The door itself was unlocked. "My father didn't like locks, in the bush," she explained. "Our men use this camp some but they always leave it open so anyone in need of shelter can get in."

The place was amply furnished with blankets on the bunks, insect nets hanging above them; cooking utensils and a goodly supply of unperishable staples on shelves above the stove.

"It's a snug camp," Nan said. "You'll be comfortable here, Kerry."

He scratched a temple thoughtfully.

"D'you mind if I use my own outfit?"

"Why, no! Don't you fancy this camp?"

"Oh, it's got shingles and glass in it. I'd rather set up myself on one of those islands."

"Certainly, if you want it that way. I used to come here with my father, but now the place has been a little spoiled for me. . . . You see, Holt stayed here alone the night Father was killed and if it hadn't been for wise old Ezra he'd have been carted in to jail and held a while."

"You think a lot of Holt, don't you?"

"Of course! Why shouldn't I? He's the most loyal boy in the world. He's worked his head off for me."

"Anybody would," he said . . . and wondered why she colored quickly and looked at him almost defensively when she spoke of Holt Stuart.

Other cars were there when they drove up to headquarters. One was Ezra Adams' battered roadster and the old doctor looked up from tinkering with the motor in a way which commanded Kerry's interest.

But Nan, with a wave to Ezra, was more intent on the group about the other.

"Oh, there's Mr. Dexter, up from Chicago!" she said excitedly. "That means he's ready to close!" Her face clouded. "And day before yesterday I mailed Tod West a formal request for permission to deed that section. It's our first chance at a real sale. Oh, I hope it won't be blocked!"

"Who's sick, Ezra?" Young asked, as Nan walked rapidly on to greet the others.

"Nobody much, except this 'tarnal motor!" he said loudly. Then, with caution: "Come close, Kerry! Stick your head down here with me, like you were trying to help me tinker at something."

"The bullet that killed Cash," he whispered, "was fired from Tod West's pistol!"

For a moment Young did not reply; a savage triumph swept him, followed by a sinking sensation. Tod West, the slayer of Nan's father and, perhaps, the slayer of her hopes as well! He knew that even despite her misgivings, the girl was hoping that West would be generous enough to permit her to close the deal which this evening seemed to be in prospect. And it was such a forlorn hope.

"Well," he said, "that gives us a course to steer, Ezra!"

"What's the first move?"

"To watch him. What else can we do? If he's started using that money, he'll keep on; anyhow, that's a good bet. We've got to locate it before we tip our hand."

"But suppose he suspects and lights out?"

Kerry twisted his head doubtfully. "He won't light out so long as there's a hope left. All he has worked and schemed and killed for is in this country. A man of his age doesn't run away from it so long as there's a chance of hanging on."

"Now, I can get Jim Hinkle to trail him. He won't suspect Jim. That can be fixed up. With me out of the picture for a few days, maybe he'll feel more free to act. I'll see to it that plenty of folks know I'm to be gone for a while."

"I swear it's going to be up to you, son!" the old man said. "I get all flutery inside, now, thinking about what might happen . . . and about what you and I've got to make happen!"

Nan Downer sat disconsolately at her desk that evening. The man Dexter and his companions had gone from the dinner-table down to the river. Soon they would return and want to talk business . . . and as yet she was not able to talk in conclusive terms.

She had an opportunity to bring to realization some of the dreams she had shared with her father, but not yet the legal right!

She had been conscious for a moment of another's presence, but did not look up at once. When she did, it was into the flushed face of Tod West.

"Oh!" she cried, and rose quickly from her chair.

"Surprised, eh?" he asked and stepped closer. "Why surprised? I got a letter from you yesterday."

Now, she caught the reek of whisky on his breath.

"Well, you want my answer now?" he taunted.

"Yes, Tod. I . . . you see, I've a chance to sell two sections at a very fine figure. Under our agreement—"

"You can't sell a damn foot of land!" he cut in. "No, Miss Nan Downer, you can't sell one damn foot of ground!" He drove a fist into the other palm vindictively. "You had your chance once. I give you your chance a week ago. But what'd you do? Tried to wham me with an oar, that's what you did!"

"You know, well's I do, where we stand. You're right up ag'in foreclose, ure this minute. You can't sell a acre until you've come across with the principal payment, most a year overdue."

She retreated around the corner of her desk as he advanced.

"And you don't like it, eh? Don't like doin' business that way! You can be high and mighty to me one day, and then expect favors the next! Well, I'll show you my heart's in the right place! I'll show you a contract's a contract! I'll show you that I'll see you busted and smashed and on the road without a roof, before we—"

"Tod! Don't, Tod! Please—"

He had crowded her against the wall. Rigidity went from him and a strange sound, half-laugh, half-sob, came from deep in his throat.

"Hurt you? Hurt you, little Nan? . . . God, I'm sorry for the things that've happened!" He stepped back a pace or two unsteadily. Confusion lay in his eyes. He had come to gloat, but now . . .

"I meant that, up the river the other day," he said huskily. "I meant all I said: I want you, I need you, little Nan! I'll make you a good lover. . . . I'll make you a good husband!"

Perhaps it was the loathing in her face, touched to life by his hoarse, unsteady voice, which stirred afresh the hell in his heart. Anyhow, he threw his arms wide, fists clenched.

"Will you have me?" he cried. "Will you have me, or 've I got to take you? Because I'll have you, just as sure as hell itself! I'm desperate and I—"

Nan had opened her lips to cry out, when a white fury flung through the doorway. Her cry was lost in that gasp of breath which burst from Tod's throat as a hand caught one of the outstretched arms, as he was spun about and Stuart's fist bashed into his lips.

The boy struck hard, struck with all his weight coming in, and when he had struck he squared for another blow.

But Tod West was not too drunk for action. He dropped his head, and fended off the falling fist. He swung forward and charged and wrapped his great arms about Holt's slender body, sweeping him from his feet, crashing with him against the door casing, falling with him to the floor.

The lad was no match for that ponderous strength. He was overwhelmed, smothered, made helpless. He kicked and writhed, but West had one arm pinned beneath a knee, the other secured in his iron grasp and his fist raised to do its cruel work on that defenseless face . . .

And then Nan screamed. The quality of it, the shrillness, the terror struck through West's intent, made him hesitate. In that instant Holt freed a hand; he was over from his back to one side, upsetting West, grappling for the man's knee, throwing him off balance and floundering free.

But it would have seen only a momentary advantage, that. He never could have prevailed against Tod's superior physique.

Nan's cry had brought others. Feet sounded on the steps; and before West could charge again and maim and batter, he was surrounded by a dozen people.

Two men had Holt. Another stood before West, blocking the way to the boy, should he attempt advance. But he did not. Breathing heavily, he glowered for a moment at Stuart and then, seeking out Nan's face, nodded neutrally.

"All right," he said. "I said my say. And that, I guess, will be all."

He turned for the entry and none blocked his departure.

He left the steps slowly, feeling his bruised lips gingerly. Then outside the lighted office window he halted, looking within as Nan, taking Holt by the hand, drew him close to her and shut the door.

Ezra Adams, returning to Nan's after an hour in Jim Hinkle's home, came first into the excited group in the big room, was told what had happened, asked Nan's whereabouts and went, without knocking into the office.

They stood close together, the girl holding both Holt's hands in hers, looking up into his face intently. The old physician, struck by the apparent significance of their postures, hesitated as if to withdraw.

"Come in Ezra!" Nan said and then to Holt, with a little shake of his hands: "And so you will be careful, Holt dear?"

Stuart withdrew his hands from hers and turned, going abruptly, not looking at Adams.

When he was gone and Nan had closed the door, she swung toward the old man with tears in her eyes. He opened his arms at her choking sob and gathered her close.

"Oh, Ezra!" she moaned. "Oh, if anything should happen to Holt!"

"I heard about what went on. Don't fear. We'll watch to see nothin' does happen!"

"Tod's so savage, so brutal! And I feel such a responsibility for Holt. He's such . . . such an emotional boy! If Tod harms him, I'll feel I'm to blame and . . . Don't you see?"—beseechingly. "Oh, why must things like this come up to be faced just when . . . just when love comes, Ezra?"

Though her words had given him a sort of shock the old man downed his curiosity and the questions that they provoked, and devoted all his resources to comforting her. He stroked her hair and patted her shoulders until her emotions were under control. Then she asked him to go.

"It's my problem," she said. "I can think better alone, I'm so glad you were here to let me be female and weak for a moment!"—wiping her eyes and smiling bravely.

He left her then, with a deal to think about. He carried his news to Kerry later the same evening.

"Looks like Stuart's finally got what he seems to want most," he said, and did not notice that his companion appeared to stop even his breathing to listen. "She's awful upset because she's afraid something'll happen to him. And she's in love, too, which doesn't make for calm thinking. . . ."

"To be sure, I promised we'd look after Stuart, but,"—with a shrug—"I wouldn't bet that that can be done."

Tod'll have him on his list now, and Tod's got a long memory when he's been angered. Course, he was drunk." Young did not hear this last. He was concerned at the moment only with one thing which Ezra had had to tell. Dismay filled him as he realized the emotion that had been fermenting in his heart for days, which had almost crystallized into recognizable thought this afternoon: that finally his heart had taken root! He was in love to his ears with Nan Downer and yet here was old Ezra, bringing word of her love for another. His heart had discovered a home, only to find it already occupied.

He shut his teeth and stirred himself to follow the doctor's grave talk.

"He was drunk," Ezra repeated. "And he may forget when he sobers up; may forget enough of it to keep his vengeance away from Holt; then again, his being drunk when it happened may make his grudge only that much worse."

West was sober enough when an hour later he stood in the shadow of Bluejay's rattletrap flivver not far from Mel Knight's store at the last-thing and talked rapidly, jabbing a finger now and again against the breed's chest.

Bluejay was in from the blue-ery camp he had established to the northward a few days before, where his wife and progeny gathered the ripening fruit which a buyer came to truck out to the railroad each evening. Frank did not pick much himself and he cursed his family for not being more adept at the harvest. And so the proposal which Tod West made fell on ground doubly fertile.

" . . . And he's made you a joke, here, knockin' you into the river that way, Frank! He'll drive you out of the country if he stays and . . . and I want him gone because he tried to frame me!"

The breed's eyes were fixed on the white man's face.

"How much?" he asked.

"Well, not much. It's your fight. I can get along; I'd rather have him gone, but I can get along. You, though . . . And there'd be no chance, you see, out there on Townline if—"

"How much?"

Under his insistence West paused.

"Ten dollars."

"Huh! You do your own job, Tod West!"

He turned to his car.

"Hold on!"—grasping a sleeve. "Money's scarce."

"Well, I ain't goin' to take no chances for no ten dollars. For a hundred, no—"

"A hundred! You're crazy!"

They battered longer, but without heat, and finally Bluejay nodded.

"All right. But when?"

"When the job's done."

"I'll see, eh? And this other . . . you tell me when you want me to say I see Stuart there, Tod. In the corner, eh? And burying a . . ."

His voice dropped to a cautious whisper.

Bluejay cranked his car and clattered away and Tod West strolled toward the store.

He did not enter, however; stood there staring within and felt his bruised lips carefully.

He had become a changed man in this span of a few short days.

Formation of Pearls
A pearl is formed by a secretion that becomes pearly nacre, the identical substance forming the inner lining of the shell, around some foreign substance which has found its way into the shell but has not been absorbed. The intruder, be it a grain of sand or a piece of shell, causes irritation and, as a means of self-protection, a film of secretion is laid upon it. In the case of round pearls, a "pearl sac" usually grows around the intruder and the inner surface of the sac secretes the fluid which gradually hardens and becomes a layer of pearl. As succeeding layers form the pearl increases in size and value.

Attends District Meeting

Mrs. Vowell, supervisor of the sewing-room in the relief office, went to Abilene last Thursday to attend a district meeting of the sewing-room supervisors. She took with her for exhibiton, a shirt made by a woman who, when she first began working in the sewing-room, knew almost nothing about sewing. This progress shows that the value of the sewing rooms is more than making garments for the needy.
Mrs. Drue Scoggins accompanied Mrs. Vowell and they brought back Mrs. Scoggins's sister, Miss Chanda Brown, who is a student in Abilene Christian College. Chanda returned to school Monday.

Chevrolet's
high-compression valve-in-head engine
gives economy without equal!

Every test proves it's more economical . . . Every Chevrolet owner knows it's more economical . . . And every person will readily understand these simple A-B-C reasons why it is more economical

The Chevrolet engine is the most economical automobile engine produced today, because (1) it is a six-cylinder engine, and (2) it is a valve-in-head six-cylinder engine. . . Its six cylinders use less gas and oil—in fact, use the least gas and oil—because six cylinders are the most economical combination used in modern automobiles. . . Its valve-in-head design cuts gasoline consumption still lower because there is less loss of heat through the walls of the combustion chamber in valve-in-head engines, and the advanced construction of the Chevrolet engine gives maximum heat (or power) saving. . . Most important of all, Chevrolet's more efficient cooling system, pressure stream oiling and the greater accessibility of all working parts result in more dependable operation, over a longer period of time, with the lowest maintenance costs.
